STATION NOTES

HORTICULTURAL SCIENCES PAIR KICKS OFF KODAK VIDEO

When these two members of Horticultural Sciences arrived at work last week, they probably didn't expect their labors to be viewed by 65,000 people. But that's what happened to Glenda Nash, left, and Pat Neilsen. The two were assisting Gary Harman in tracking the progress of corn growth as part of the Trichoderma project when a Kodak crew showed up to make a videotape. It was part of bringing news of its $267,000 research grant to the Station to Kodak employees nationwide. The two women were featured in the video's opening scene.
