The Cornell Supplemental Application is available online at:
www.vet.cornell.edu/admissions.
You will need to start the VMCAS to get your VMCAS ID number. Once you have this number, you can go to our application to set up your Cornell Supplemental Application account. You can then work on both applications.

The Veterinary Medical Application Service (VMCAS) application is also available online. To access the VMCAS application for the upcoming admission cycle, please follow this link: www.aavmc.org.

Tips for Applicants
- Before you start the application, you might want to obtain unofficial copies of your college transcripts for your files. This will be helpful when you are ready to complete the sections on the VMCAS and Cornell Supplemental applications that require you to list all your courses and prerequisite course work.
- Make sure you request official transcripts from all the colleges you have attended to be sent directly to our admissions office. Even if your courses transferred to another college, we will still need the transcript from the original college.
- Pay close attention to deadlines. The VMCAS is due on October 2nd and the Cornell Supplemental application is due on October 26th.

- Make sure you write down the password for your application. You will use this password to get into your application, tracking page, and eventually your financial aid tracking page if admitted.
- If you have AP scores from high school in general chemistry and/or physics, make sure to have official scores sent to us from ETS (Education Testing Service). Our AP college code is 4818.
- You are required to submit three letters of evaluation (eLor’s) through VMCAS. If you have additional evaluations for Cornell beyond these three, you will be able to send them through our electronic evaluation system. You can arrange for this when completing Section 2 of the Cornell Supplemental application.

Application Tracking Page

Once you start your application, your tracking page is also automatically activated. The tracking page is your resource for finding out what documents have been received, when your application is officially submitted, and what prerequisite courses are verified. We also communicate with you via this tracking page, so make sure you visit it often to stay up to date regarding the progress of your application.

Prerequisite Course Substitutions

We recommend prerequisite course substitution forms be emailed, mailed or faxed to our office by September 15th. Forms coming in after this date will be reviewed, but there may be a time delay in responding.

The prerequisite policies, generic course descriptions, and the prerequisite substitution form can be found on our web site under “Application Instructions and Forms” at the following URL: http://www.vet.cornell.edu/admissions/appdocuments.htm

Guidelines for Evaluators

Many students and evaluators ask for feedback on what to include in a letter of evaluation. We have provided this feedback on our web site under “Guidelines to Your Evaluators” (found at the above link). We encourage you to print this and give it to your evaluators to review.

For Future Applicants

Not applying this year, but want to see the application for future reference? Please do not start an application, but visit the following link to view an application worksheet https://secure.vet.cornell.edu/admissions/application/application.pdf. This is the complete Cornell Supplemental Application that you can view and print. It can not be submitted. As an applicant for this year, you may also want review the worksheet before you start the online application.
