

THE ONTARIO COUNTY FARM AND HOME BUREAU, the Grange, and the County Supervisors will hold their annual picnic on the Station grounds next Thursday, August 30. Indications are for a big crowd. Enos Lee, President of The New York State Farm Bureau Federation, will be the principal speaker of the day. The morning program will include tours of the Station experiments, etc., and at 1:30, Mr. Lee will speak in Jordan Hall. Following his address will be a showing of moving pictures illustrating the work of the Dairymen's League. Mr. Chas. Shepard, A League representative, will describe the work of the organization. A baseball game, a tug-of-war, and other sports will feature the afternoon program. The Home Bureau will have a booth where cold drinks, coffee, ice cream, etc., can be purchased.

DR. BREED WANTS to know if the Connecticut poultryman with the four-legged chick, mentioned in last week's NEWS, has anything on the New York woman who wrote him asking what she should do with the "germans in her butter."

MR. GEORGE SMITH, who spent several weeks of the summer in Geneva, has returned to his home at 199 Smith Ave., Kingston, N. Y.

WHILE DIVING in Seneca Lake, Dr. Carpenter reached bottom suddenly and unexpectedly, with the result that he suffered a painful tho not serious dislocation of his right shoulder and one or two ribs. It has been suggested that in the future he confine his efforts to the deeper portions of the Lake where the bottom is yet to be found.

WALTER KULP, formerly assistant chemist at the Station, and now instructor at Yale, is spending a few days in Geneva. Mr. Kulp was granted his doctor's degree this last spring by Yale University.

"CUNNING CUPID CONSTANTLY CUTTING CUTE CAPERS" is a standing "head" in a paper coming to the Editor's desk which the Editor is tempted to take over bodily, so frequently does this young man figure in the Station news. Fred Nabenhauer was the last to succumb when he slipped out of town Friday evening to return Sunday morning with Mrs. Nabenhauer. The event took place at Van Etten, N. Y., in Chemung County, the bride's home. The Nabenhauers are living at 36 Madison Street.

COPIES OF THE essential parts of the revised fiscal regulations pertaining to travel expenses are being distributed with this issue of the NEWS.

ARRANGEMENTS are being made for an excursion thru central New York for the foreign delegates in attendance at the National Dairy Show and World's Dairy Congress at Syracuse, October 2 to 10. This trip will include a visit to the Station, probably on October 11, and attendance at the dedication of the new Dairy Building at the College of Agriculture at Ithaca on Saturday morning, October 13. The group of visitors will include a large number of foreign dairy teachers, chemists, bacteriologists, control officials, milk and cheese dealers, etc. Thirty countries have already signified their intention of sending delegates.

DOCTOR GRIMES, recently appointed to the Agricultural Staff of the newly organized University College at Cork, Ireland, was a recent visitor to the Station. Dr. Grimes has just completed work at Ames, Iowa, in dairy bacteriology, and he is returning to Ireland with the feeling that America has the best there is to be found in the dairy field.
