

THE STATION NEWS

Vol. I, No. 19.

November 20, 1923.

Geneva, N. Y.

ADDITIONS TO THE LIBRARY since last noted in the NEWS have been made as follows:

Earth and Sun, Huntington.
Climatic Changes, Huntington.
Better Dairy Farming, Savage.
Roman farm management (A Translation), Cato and Varro
Das Buch der Erdbeeren, Goeschke.
Vegetable crops. Thompson.
Development of the Sciences, edited by Woodruff.
Botulism, Leighton.
The Rose in America, McFarland.
External insect anatomy, Macgillivray
Applied calculus, Bisacre.
Chemical fertilizers, Collins.

DR. BERGER of the Horticultural Division plans to leave the latter part of this week for Washington, D. C., where he will spend a few days examining herbarium material in the Smithsonian and National Museum. From Washington he will go to New York City to meet Mrs. Berger and their daughter who are expected to arrive in this country December first. Dr. Berger will then return to Geneva with his family on December second.

MR. PARROTT has gone to Washington to attend a meeting of the National Canners Association to be held at the Department of Agriculture. Problems concerning the control of insect pests of canning crops will be up for discussion at the conference.

MRS. DAHLBERG recently underwent an operation at the Waterloo hospital. She is reported to be making favorable progress toward recovery.

AS MOST READERS of the NEWS will know already, Mr. and Mrs. Tukey have returned to Geneva for the winter months. According to present plans, Mr. Tukey expects to stay in Geneva until March when he will take up more permanent headquarters in the Hudson Valley.

THE EDITOR hopes to be able to announce the dates for the Sigma Xi lectures at Ithaca during the coming year in time for any who wish to do so to make plans to attend. Word concerning the lecture for last week was received too late to put in the preceding NEWS but usually these notices are received in time.

THE NEWS may be a power after all. Anyway, the State Fair checks came within two or three days after the protest registered in last week's issue.