

CURRENT DATA ON THE INDONESIAN MILITARY ELITE

September 1, 1993–September 30, 1995

The Editors

The present listing of the holders of key military positions shows that the twenty-five months since the terminal date of our last complete listing, September 1, 1994 (Indonesia 56 [October 1994]), particularly the last eight months since February 1995, has been a period of tumultuous change, both at the Armed Forces Headquarters and the Army central and regional commands. We note, to underscore the volatility of the situation, that ninety-four transfers took place in our listing in the first nine months of 1995, while fifty-three, eighty-one, and fifty-one transfers took place in 1992, 1993, and 1994 respectively. These changes are directly related to the replacement of the Presidential brother-in-law, Army Chief of Staff Gen. Wismoyo Arismunandar, in February 1995, by Gen. R. Hartono, and more importantly, to the rise of a new generation of officers to key positions. Armed Forces' Commander-in-Chief Gen. Feisal Tanjung publicly referred to this in August 1994 as a "regenerasi."¹

Before turning to the military politics of the last twenty-five months, however, it is useful, in accordance with our past practice, to consider the structural aspects of the changes in terms of ethnic backgrounds, military specialization, graduating class at the Military Academy, and age.

Ethnic Background

In terms of ethnic background, no significant change can be observed in a long-standing pattern by which about two-thirds of the listed office holders are Javanese. Of the officers of whose ethnic identity we are reasonably sure, thirty-six out of sixty-two officers (58 percent) at the supra-Korem level are Javanese, while the Sundanese, five officers in total (8 percent), are a distant second. Given the conscious recruitment policy of achieving ethnic diversity at the Military Academy, it is not surprising to find a fairly wide, if numerically thin, distribution of other ethnicities, and in fact the first Irianese officer, graduate of the Naval Academy Class 1971, was recently promoted to the general officer's rank in the navy as the most recent addition to the ethnic diversity of the Indonesian military.² The actual distributions of officers at the supra-Korem level are as follows:

Javanese	36	Balinese	2	Indo	1
Sundanese	5	Madurese	2	Karo Batak	1
Buginese	3	Sipirok Batak	2	Menadonese	1
Mandailing Batak	3	Acehnese	13	Siak Malay	1
Minangkabau	3	Bolang-Mongondouw	1	unknown	13

Military Specialization

As we often noted in previous listings, officers with backgrounds in intelligence and the special forces (RPKAD) are salient in this listing, too. It is no doubt because of the career opportunities created by the long counter-insurgency campaigns in Irian Jaya, East Timor, and Aceh and the central importance of intelligence officers for internal security and social and political affairs on behalf of Soeharto's Pancasila democracy. It is often said that the assistants for intelligence and social and political affairs, along with the assistant for operations, are three most important among assistants to the Kodam chief-of-staff. Though the information is quite incomplete, we can identify nine from the RPKAD and seven officers with intelligence backgrounds at the supra-Korem level, while three from the RPKAD and four with intelligence backgrounds are identified at the Korem level.

Class Membership

The available data offer the following pattern:

Class	Supra-Korem	Korem	Total	Previous Listing
2 (1961)	1	0	1	1
3 (1962)	1	0	1	8
4 (1963)	1	0	1	4
5 (1964)	2	0	2	2
6 (1965)	22	0	22	12
7 (1966)	11	1	12	15
8 (1967)	3	0	3	4
9 (1968)	2	2	4	3
10 (1969)	0	0	0	0
11 (1970)	4	1	5	0
12 (1971)	3	3	6	0
13 (1972)	0	1	1	0
14 (1973)	0	3	3	0
15 (1974)	0	2	2	0
unknown	11	46	57	-

The data show that Class 6 now dominates both the Armed Forces Headquarters (eight officers) and the Army central command (nine officers), while Classes 6 and 7 share control of the Army Regional Commands (five Class 6 officers and seven Class 7 officers). The data at the Korem level are too incomplete to say anything meaningful, but given the fact that Classes 11 and 12 produced their first brigadier generals and Class 15 its first Korem commanders early this year, it is safe to say that the majority of Korem commanders are now from Classes 11–14.³

Age Distribution

The information, quite incomplete, is as follows.

Birth Year	Supra-Korem	Korem	Total	Previous Listing
1937	0	0	0	1
1938	0	0	0	0
1939	1	0	1	4
1940	0	0	0	7
1941	2	0	2	8
1942	11	1	12	3
1943	10	0	10	11
1944	4	0	4	4
1945	2	0	2	4
1946	1	0	1	0
1947	1	1	2	1
1948	0	0	0	0
1949	0	1	1	0
1951	0	2	2	0

The great majority of officers at the supra-Korem level were thus born during the Japanese occupation; were newly commissioned officers or cadets at the Military Academy when Soeharto came to power in March 1966; and were in their mid-thirties at the invasion of East Timor in late 1975. The majority of Korem commanders, on the other hand, were most likely born in 1947–1950 during the revolutionary period; were at high school or at the Military Academy at ages sixteen to nineteen when Soeharto came to power; and were twenty-five to twenty-eight years old at the time of invasion of East Timor. The two truly post-independence generation officers, born in 1951 and from Class 15 (1974), are classmates of Col. Prabowo, presidential son-in-law and deputy commander of Kopassus.

Transfer Timing

The timing of transfers at the Supra-Korem and Korem levels is as follows:

The data shows two interesting features. First, a wave of transfers took place at the supra-Korem level since the appointment of Gen. Feisal Tanjung as Armed Forces' Commander-in-Chief, every half a year in 1993 and 1994, and three times in the first nine months of 1995, in February–March, June, and August–September. These reshuffles were aimed at easing out Benny Murdani's men, to serve as palace countermeasures against Gen. Edy Sudradjat's strategic appointments in his brief glory days to safeguard "army institutional rationality," and more recently to ease out officers whom Wismoyo Arismunandar protected to assert his autonomy of the Armed Forces Headquarters under Feisal.

As we noted in Indonesia 58 (October 1994), the institutional backbone of Benny Murdani's power in the army was broken with the liquidation of BAIS ABRI and its replacement by a less powerful military intelligence agency, BIA, in January 1994. Most of the officers Edy Sudradjat promoted to key positions in March and April 1993 are by now eased out or transferred to less important positions. Lt. Gen. Mantiri, Armed Forces' Chief of General Staff from May 1993 to February 1995, and Lt. Gen. Hariyoto, Armed Forces' Chief of Social and Political Staff from May 1993 to January 1994, are retired. Edi Sudradjat's Assistant for General Planning, Maj. Gen. I Made Sadha, is now his Director-General for Materiel, Facilities, and Services at the Department of Defense and Security. Maj. Gen. Haris Sudarno, Commander of Kodam 5 Brawijaya from March 1993 to March 1995, and Maj. Gen. Theo Syafei, Commander of Kodam 9 Udayana from March 1993 to February 1994, are sent to the DPR. Maj. Gen. Muzani Syukur, Commander of Kodam 3 Siliwangi from March 1993 to March 1995, is now Army Inspector-General, while Maj. Gen. A. Pranowo, Commander of Kodam 1 Bukit Barisan from April 1993 to April 1994, is Head, Armed Forces' Functional Group Upbuilding Boday (Babinkar). The departure of Army Chief of Staff Gen. Wismoyo Arismunandar in February 1995 offered more recent opportunities for palace offensive and Armed Forces' Commander Gen. Feisal Tanjung's consolidation of his constituency in the military. Wismoyo, once widely seen as Feisal's successor as Armed Forces' Commander, lost Presidential patronage not only because of his extra-marital affairs, but more importantly because he protected Benny Moerdani's men in the Army headquarters after they were kicked out of the Armed Forces headquarters, and because he tried to protect army business interests against the encroachment of Presidential crony Mohammad (Bob) Hasan in order to show that he was not a puppet of Soeharto.

It is thus the combination of palace officers and "Feisal's men" who now dominate the Armed Forces' Headquarters and the Army central and regional Commands. This should be clear if we look at two sets of key positions.

If we look at the holders of the eight most politically sensitive positions in the military aside from the Armed Forces' Commander-in-Chief, the President has fared well. The roster is as follows: (1) R. Hartono, reportedly very close to Soeharto's daughter, Siti Hardijanti Rukmana (Mbak Tutut), as Army Chief of Staff, replacing Wismoyo Arismunandar; (2) Soeyono, former Presidential adjutant, as Armed Forces' Chief of General Staff, replacing Edy Sudradjat's man, Mantiri; (3) Mochammad Ma'ruf, who served as Korem Commander in East Timor in Murdani's days, as Chief of Social and Political Staff, replacing Hartono⁴; (4) Tarub, who Feisal Tanjung appointed Commander of Kodam 8, as Kostrad Commander, replacing Kuntara, Wismoyo's classmate; (5) Wiranto, former Presidential adjutant, as Commander of Kodam 10 (Jakarta), replacing another palace officer Hendro Prijono⁵; (6) Tayo Tarmadi, who would have retired without becoming Kodam commander if Feisal Tanjung had not appointed him Commander of Kodam 3 (West Java), replacing Muzani Syukur, Edy Sudradjat's man; (7) Banurusman as Chief of Police; (8) Subagyo Hari Siswoyo, long-time palace guard, as Commander of the Special Forces (Kopassus), replacing Agum Gumelar, now Chief of Staff, Kodam 1 (North Sumatra).

If we look at another set of positions, which are militarily as important as the above positions but politically less important, the roster is as follows: (1) as Assistant for General Planning to Armed Forces' Commander, Tamlicha Ali, a highly respected professional of Class 6 who served as deputy commander of the UN Forces in Cambodia in 1992-93 and was appointed Commander of Kodam 7 (Sulawesi) by Feisal Tanjung, replacing Edi Sudradjat's man, Sofian Effendi, now Governor of the National Defense Institute (Lemhannas); (2) as Assistant for Intelligence to Armed Forces' Chief of General Staff and Head of BIA, Syamsir Siregar, Class 6, who Feisal Tanjung had appointed Commander of Kodam 2 (South Sumatra), replacing Arie Sudewo, Wismoyo's classmate; (3) as Assistant for Operations to Armed Forces' Commander, Rear Admiral Soeratmin; (4) as Commander of Kodam 1 (North Sumatra), Sedarjanto, Class 7, appointed assistant for territorial affairs to the Army Chief of Staff by Hartono and now promoted to Kodam Commander by Feisal Tanjung two years before his mandatory retirement; (5) as Commander of Kodam 2 (South Sumatra), R. Karyono, Class 6, who would have retired in March 1996 without becoming Kodam commander if not appointed by Feisal Tanjung; (6) as Commander of Kodam 4 (Central Java), Yusuf Kartanegara, Class 7, replacing Soeyono; (7) as Commander of Kodam 5 (East Java), Imam Utomo who served as Hartono's Chief of Staff when he was Commander of Kodam 5 and as his Assistant for Personnel when he became Army Chief of Staff; (8) as Commander of Kodam 6 (Kalimantan), Namoeni Anoem, Class 6, who would have retired in two years without becoming Kodam commander if Feisal Tanjung had not appointed him such, replacing Yacob Dasto; (9) as Commander of Kodam 7 (Sulawesi), Sulatin, ditto with Namoeni Anoem; (10) as Commander of Kodam 8 (Irian Jaya and ⁴ It is not entirely clear why such a politically important position as Armed Forces' Chief of Social and Political Staff was given to a man with close ties to Benny Moerdani, though it is rumored that Ma'ruf too is close to Soeharto's daughter.

⁵ Hendro Prijono lost his position prematurely, most likely because of the APEC disaster. Wismoyo created a new senior enough position, Commander of Army Educational and Training Command, for him.

Maluku), Dunidja D., Class 8, whom Edy Sudradjat appointed as the first Korem commander of East Timor after the Dili massacre in 1991, replacing I Ketut Wirdhana, Class 7, whom Feisal rescued from oblivion at Armed Forces' Inspectorate-General and is now Hartono's assistant for territorial affairs; (11) as Commander of Kodam 9 (Nusatenggara), Abdul Rivai, Class 7 whom Edi Sudradjat promoted to Commander of the Kostrad Second Infantry Division, replacing Adang Rochiatna Purwadirdja, another man of Edy Sudradjat's.

Needless to say, those officers whom Feisal rescued from no-pangdam retirement should be grateful to him and know they will be gone as soon as Feisal is gone. They will not go any higher in the military and should be ready to retire at any moment by the time of the 1997 elections. Yet all the same, their return from oblivion has held back Classes 8–10 officers from rising to positions of importance, even though they should have waited for quite some time for their turn to come.

This leads us to the second and more interesting question, one concerning the classes which are pushed forward. As we mentioned earlier, Feisal Tanjung justified the reshuffle in the name of "regeneration" in August 1994. We suggested three different but related interpretations of the reshufflings in Indonesia 58 (October 1994). The action could be intended to hasten the departure of the Benny Murdani-"contaminated" officers; it could be meant to promote officers who will be on active duty in 1998 and ready for staff and command positions at the Armed Forces Headquarters and the Army central and regional commands for 1998 to 2003; and it might be motivated by a determination to get hard-liners on the East Timorese issue out of the way.

The development since Wismoyo's departure can be usefully understood in terms of regenerasi in the first and second senses. We noted a year ago that Wiranto (Class 9, Commander of Kodam Jaya), Subagyo Hari Siswoyo (Class 11 and Kopassus Commander), and Johny Lumintang (Class 11, now attending the Lemhannas) represented the new generation of officers not "contaminated" by Murdani. More of them have emerged since February 1995, positioning themselves to inherit the military leadership from Class 6 and 7 officers by the time of the MPR session and the Presidential election in March 1998 under a new Armed Forces' Commander-in-Chief. They include, among others, Brig. Gen. Sumardi (Class 11, Chief of Staff, Kodam 3 Siliwangi); Brig. Gen. Djoko Subroto (Class 11, Chief of Staff, Kodam 4 Diponegoro); Brig. Gen. Sutiyoso (Class 11, Chief of Staff, Kodam Jaya); Brig. Gen. Ismed Yuzairi (Class 12, Commander of the Kostrad First Infantry Division); Brig. Gen. Djamari Chaniago (Class 12, Commander of the Kostrad Second Infantry Division); Brig. Gen. Sugiyono (Class 12, former Presidential adjutant and now Commander of the Presidential Security Squad); and Brig. Gen. Zacky Anwar Makarim (Class 12, Director "A" [internal affairs], BIA).⁶ Incidentally, there are very few with long-time East Timor backgrounds among the above officers: two important exceptions are Johny Lumintang, who served as Korem Commander of Dili from July 93 to August 1994, and Djoko Subroto, who was Kodim Commander of Monatuto in 1987–1988. There is a good chance for the Classes 11 and 12 officers to inherit the dominant position at the Armed Forces Headquarters and the Army central and regional commands from Classes 6 and 7 in 1997–98, when Classes 6 and 7 officers reach the mandatory retirement age of fifty-five.

⁶ We may also add to this list: Brig. Gen. Fachrul Razie (Deputy Assistant for Operations to Armed Forces' Chief of General Staff), Brig. Gen. Agus Wijaya (Deputy Assistant for General Planning to Armed Forces' Commander), Mardiyanto (Deputy Governor, General and Army Division, Armed Forces Academy), and Brig. Gen. Luhut Binsar Panjaitan (Deputy Commander, Army Infantry Weapons Center) from Class 11; Brig. Gen. Suaidi Marasabessy (Deputy Assistant for Operations to Army Chief of Staff) and Slamet Kirbiantoro (Commander, Intelligence Task Force, BIA) from Class 12.

It is not entirely clear, however, whether promoting Classes 11 and 12 officers was what Feisal Tanjung meant by regenerasi, for Classes 14 and 15 officers are also fast appearing on the horizon. The man to watch among Class 14 officers, it is said, is Col. Susilo Bambang Yudoyono, Sarwo Edhie's son-in-law and the personal secretary of Edy Sudradjat when he was Armed Forces' Commander; he is now Korem Commander in Yogyakarta after having served as Commander of the elite Kostrad 17th Airborne Infantry Brigade.⁷ Two Class 15 officers are also fast rising: Presidential son-in-law Col. Prabowo Subianto, now Deputy Commander of Kopassus, and Col. Ryamizard, Vice President Try Sutrisno's son-in-law, who was recently appointed Korem Commander in Serong, South Sumatra after his stint as Commander of the Kostrad 17th Airborne Infantry Brigade from August 1994 to August 1995 and Assistant for Operations to Chief of Staff, Kodam 7 Wirabuana.⁸

It will take some time for Classes 14 and 15 to come to key positions in the military leadership. But it is widely rumored that Col. Prabowo will soon become Kopassus Commander and that his suggestions and recommendations already carry disproportionate weight with Armed Forces' Commander Gen. Feisal Tanjung and Army Chief of Staff Gen. Hartono in matters of promotions and transfers.⁹ It is too early to say anything definite about whether he will become Indonesia's Col. Narong Kittikachorn, but it will not be surprising to discover that there are officers who resent being passed over by the fast rising officers of Classes 14 and 15.

Our listing covers the period September 1, 1993 to September 30, 1995. It follows our usual format, i.e.

⁷ Other Class 14 officers include among others: Col. Syamsul Maarif, Korem Commander in Surabaya; Col. Romulo Robert Simbolon, Director of Guidance, Education, and Training at the Army Infantry Weapons Center after having served as Commander of the First Infantry Brigade (Jakarta Metropolitan Guard) from October 1994 to July 1995; Col. Glenni Kairupan, former Deputy Commander of Korem 164 East Timor and now Korem Commander in Salatiga; and Col. Anton Hery Biyantoro, Assistant for Intelligence to Chief of Staff, Kodam Jaya.

⁹ Prabowo was promoted to Kopassus Commander in early December 1995 when this piece was about to go to the press.

¹¹ Kodiklat TNI-AD was formally created out of the Pusbindik (Pusat Pembinaan Pendidikan) TNI-AD and the Pusbangsisops (Pusat Pengembangan Sistem Operasi) on Dec. 10, 1994 with Maj. Gen. Hendro Priyono as its first commander. The Kodiklat commander is assisted by deputy commander (Brig. Gen. Ilyas Yusuf) and three brigadier-general rank directors - director for doctrine (Col. Rudy Supriatna), director for Education (Brig. Gen. Slamet ST), and director for Training (Col. R.A. Butar-Butar). According to AB (Dec. 13, 1994), the Army Infantry Weapons Center (Pussenif), the Army Artillery Weapons Center (Pussenart), and the Army Cavalry Weapons Center (Pussenkav) are also planned to come under the Kodiklat in due course. This, however, has not happened yet as of Oct. 1, 1995.
