protected, though we are not in affluence we have food and raiment; and while others are suffering with various diseases, and totally deprieved of their rational faculties; we are endowed with health and the full exercise of our mental powers, are not these the greatest calls to live in grateful praise? where much is given much is expected; and if we bury the blessings bestowed by living insensible to their benefits, what will be our fate?

My dear Sally if you have not experienced the comforting, sanctifying influences of God's holy spirit; shee them and they will be imparted; our blessed will devotion promises that he will cast no one from him that will come to him; the door of grace is never closed; one sincere supplicating offering, will expand the sacred portals and emit rays of light and joy, that would could not purchase from you—

Remember me with Tendergeze to Sally,

As Nancy also— I wrote to her last Tuesday It would delight me to see you all once more. I feel as if this Blessing was in stone for your sister

Renderton August 3

Maggie de St. Aliam

1815