THE CORNELL UNIVERSITY SOUTHEAST ASIA PROGRAM

The Southeast Asia Program was organized at Cornell University in the Department of Far Eastern Studies in 1950. It is a teaching and research program of interdisciplinary studies in the humanities, social sciences and some natural sciences. It deals with Southeast Asia as a region, and with the individual countries of the area: Burma, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaya, the Philippines, Thailand and Vietnam.

The activities of the Program are carried on both at Cornell and in Southeast Asia. They include an undergraduate and graduate curriculum at Cornell which provides instruction by specialists in Southeast Asian cultural history and present-day affairs and offers intensive training in each of the major languages of the area. The Program sponsors group research projects on Thailand, on Indonesia, on the Philippines, and on the area's Chinese minorities. At the same time, individual staff and students of the Program have done field research in every Southeast Asian country.

A list of publications relating to Southeast Asia which may be obtained on prepaid order directly from the Program is given at the end of this volume. Information on Program staff, fellowships, requirements for degrees, and current course offerings will be found in an Announcement of the Department of Far Eastern Studies obtainable from the Director, Southeast Asia Program, Franklin Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

FOREWORD

For the student of Asian affairs there has not been any ready listing in one place to which he might refer for locating doctoral dissertations on Asia in the United States. Use of Dissertation Abstracts has always required rather extensive searching through a large number of volumes and has thus not been a ready reference for determining what has appeared over the past twenty-five or so years in the area of Asian scholarship. The list presented in this Data Paper is rather impressive.

Even less accessible has been bibliographical information regarding master's theses on Asia. In order to fill a small part of the gap the compiler has appended a list of master's theses which have appeared at Cornell over the same period.

We are greatly indebted to the compiler, Curtis W. Stucki, for this labor of love. Mr. Stucki is a member of the library staff of Cornell's School of Industrial and Labor Relations and has compiled what we hope will be a useful guide to one source of American scholarship on Asia. The Department of Far Eastern Studies will be grateful for any comments, corrections or additions from the users of this list.

PREFACE

A considerable number of doctoral dissertations written each year in American universities deal with Asia. However, the major listings of these dissertations are arranged only by broad subject categories, so it is often difficult to determine which areas are being intensively studied and which are being neglected. This compilation is designed to bring together the titles of those dissertations written between 1933 and 1948 which are concerned with the various countries of Asia.

From 1933 to 1955 dissertations were listed annually in Doctoral Dissertations Accepted by American Universities which was published under the auspices of the Association of Research Libraries. Since 1956 this listing has been continued by Index to American Doctoral Dissertations which also serves as an index to Dissertation Abstracts. To compile the present volume, I have paged through the sections dealing with the social sciences and humanities in each of the annual volumes in the two series and have listed those titles which seemed pertinent. Since in most cases the title was the only basis for selection, it is possible that some suitable dissertations have been overlooked and that some others have been listed which should not have been.

As one might expect, the subject distribution was wide; titles were found under more than twenty different subject classifications, but there seemed to be a concentration in the fields of Economics, Education, History and Political Science. It is also interesting to note that although the total number of dissertations on Asia has increased substantially in recent years (from about 30 in 1934 to more than 150 in 1956) the percentage has remained nearly constant.

No attempt has been made to determine which studies have been published but where microfilm copies are available from University Microfilms (UM) this has been indicated. Most of the others are also available on microfilm directly from the institution concerned or can be borrowed on interlibrary loan.

An appendix listing 164 masters theses on Asia which were written at Cornell University between 1933 and 1958 has also been included.
