Martin and Bruce doing business as the Legal Information Institute have had a productive first quarter. Attached is the report we have just submitted to our principal funding source.

As it reports we are about to hoist the Institute's flag over a disk-based version of the e-mail directory and send it to all AALS law schools. The electronic publications of supplementary course materials all proclaim the Institute as their publisher. As yet, however, there has been no internal acknowledgment, report, or proclamation.

We are not bashful and will happily announce ourselves, assuming we have been appropriately approved, and describe our current wares and future plans to the faculty. But we will not do so without a green light from you.
