ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Editorial Board is deeply grateful for the generous support of our wonderful faculty advisor, Professor TJ Hinrichs, the Executive Board of the Cornell Historical Society, and our dedicated editors, without whom this project would have been impossible. We are likewise indebted to the Editors-in-Chief of the eighth edition of this journal, Becky Cardinali and Marie Ceske, for their invaluable assistance. We would also like to thank the History Department at Cornell University, the Student Activities Funding Commission, the authors featured in this edition, and the many students who took the time to submit their work to this publication.

ON THE WRITERS

ADAM KLINE is a junior studying international security at Georgetown University. He is particularly interested in U.S. foreign policy, conflict research, and open-source investigation. A native of the Washington, D.C., area, he enjoys long walks and used book stores.

OLIVIA MADDIX is a junior at Hamilton College, majoring in History and minoring in Chinese. She is primarily interested in 20th century Chinese and American history. She was born and raised in Hong Kong and is now living in Litchfield, Connecticut.

MITCHELL MOYLAN is a recent graduate of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln where he studied History. His primary academic interests include American legal history and colonial America. He intends to pursue his Juris Doctorate. He is from Lincoln, Nebraska.

CHARLOTTE WALDMAN is a sophomore at Vassar College, in Poughkeepsie, New York. She is studying History and Urban Studies, with a particular focus in American history. Charlotte was born and raised in the Washington, D.C. area.

YUE WU is a senior studying History and German Studies at Carleton College. She is interested in colonial studies in 19th and 20th century China, East German-China diplomatic relations in the 1980s, and more broadly the intersections between German and Chinese history. Her favorite archive is the Federal Archive in Berlin, Germany. She is from Nantong, China.
