YOUR BOY THIS SUMMER

At Camp Otter

SUMMER is on the way, and soon that boy of yours will be out of school. If you haven't had a boy with us, you wouldn't believe what eight weeks in the Canadian woods at Camp Otter can do for your son.

There's a lot more to it than just scenery. We are off the track of "summer people"—live in comfortable screened cabins on the shore of our own Lake Otter, with unlimited swimming, canoeing, and fishing. The food is plentiful and good; our counsellors are selected mainly from Cornell students; and the boys your son will know here are mostly the sons of Cornelliens.

It Won't Be Long Now

Camp Otter's limited enrollment of fifty boys is being rapidly filled. This year we'll have boys from as far west as Chicago, south to Alabama, and east to Massachusetts and Washington. Living and working and playing with such a cosmopolitan crowd—of the sort you want him to know—is worth a lot to your boy.

Cornell families of experience with Camp Otter are its best advertisement. They know what it does for boys. Our reputation is based on three facts: (1) that Camp Otter for twenty-seven years has demonstrated its integrity, safety, and unique value to boys; (2) that its charges are geared to modest incomes—$175 for eight weeks; and (3) that the Camp is closely related to Cornell University in personnel and background.

Worth Looking Into

If you have a son eight to seventeen years old, and haven't yet sent for the 1938 Camp Otter booklet, I'd like you to see it. It's not a bit too early to drop a postcard in the mail TODAY. Address:

FACULTY APPOINTMENTS

Myers '14 To Return

The Board of Trustees at its meeting April 30 appointed Professor William I. Myers '14 to become head of the Department of Agricultural Economics, beginning next fall, succeeding Professor George F. Warren '03, who submitted his resignation, effective at the end of this academic year, and will return exclusively to teaching and research.

Professor Warren came to Cornell in 1902, having received the BSc at University of Nebraska in '97 and spent five years in Nebraska as principal and superintendent of schools. He received the BSA in '03, the MSc in '04, and the PhD in '05. After a year as horticulturist at the New Jersey Experiment Station, he returned in 1906 as assistant professor of Agronomy, and in 1920 became the first head of the newly-organized Department of Farm Management. He was called to Washington early in the Roosevelt Administration as monetary adviser.

Professor Myers has been Governor of the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, D. C., since 1933, on leave of absence. He plans to resign that post in the fall and resume active connection with the Department in which he has been engaged continuously since graduation, and where he received the PhD in 1918.

The Trustees appointed Professor Herbert J. Davis to become chairman of the English Department, succeeding Professor William C. DeVane, resigned to become dean of Yale College the end of this year. Professor Davis, a graduate of Oxford, will come to Ithaca from University of Toronto, where he has taught for sixteen years. He is a leading authority on the literature of the early eighteenth century, the author of a recent widely-acclaimed book on Jonathan Swift.

Professor Charles E. Palm, PhD '35, was appointed head of the Entomology Department, to succeed Professor Oskar A. Johannsen, PhD '04, who retires at the end of this term. Receiving the AB at University of Arkansas in 1931, Professor Palm entered the Graduate School that year and became an instructor in Entomology in 1935. He now receives professorial rank.

Eleven To Retire

Eleven professors, having reached retirement age, were elected emeritus professors effective July 1. Besides Professor Johannsen they are Professors William C. Baker '98, Drawing, Agriculture; Madison Bentley, PhD '98, Psychology; George W. Cavanaugh '93, Chemistry; Emile M. Chamot '91, Chemistry; Albert B. Faust, German; Henry N. Ogden '89, Sanitary Engineering; John T. Parson '99, Drawing, Civil Engineering; Francis R. Sharpe, PhD '07, Mathematics; Frederick M. Smith, English; and Virgil Snyder, '92 Grad, Mathematics.

Newcomers Next Year

Newly appointed for next year is Dr. James N. Goodier, to become acting professor of Mechanics in the College of Engineering. Born in 1907 in Preston, England, he received the BA degree from Cambridge University in 1927, and after two years on a Commonwealth Fund fellowship at the University of Michigan, the PhD from Cambridge and the DSc at Michigan in 1931. That year he received a research fellowship in applied mechanics from the Ontario Research Foundation; is an authority in elasticity, plasticity, and advanced dynamics.

Five new assistant professors were also appointed: Arthur W. Dimock, Plant Pathology; George Kreezer '24, Psychology; Victor Lange, German; John A. F. Randolph, PhD '34, Mathematics; and George T. Washington, Law.

Dimock comes from San Francisco, Cal., where he has been assistant pathologist in the Federal Division of Forest Pathology. He received the BS at University of California in '33 and the PhD in '36.

Kreezer was for five years an assistant and instructor in the Psychology Department, receiving the PhD in '28, then studying in Paris and Berlin on a National Research Council Fellowship. For a year he returned as Merriam Research Fellow, and since 1933 has been research associate at The Training School at Vineland, N. J.

Lange is a native of Leipzig, Germany; studied at the Universities of Leipzig and Munich and on an exchange fellowship at University of Toronto, where he received the MA in '31. He received the PhD at Leipzig in '35 and has been teaching at Toronto.

Randolph, who received the BS in '26 at West Texas State Teachers College and the AM at University of Michigan in '28, was instructor in Mathematics from 1930-36. For the last two years he has studied on a grant at the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton, N. J.

Washington received the PhB, summa cum laude, at Yale in '28, received the Snow Prize of $500 as "the man who had done the most for Yale," and was the ranking member of the Yale team in the Yale-Harvard "Battle of Intelligence" that year. After a year at Yale Law School he won a Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford, where he received the BLitt in '31, returning to receive the

DEMOCRACY AT WORK Intercollegiate Conference

Democracy was intricately examined by selected students of Cornell and from Dartmouth and Pennsylvania, at the first public affairs conference of the three institutions, in Myron Taylor Hall April 29 and 30. Theme of the conference, sponsored by Willard Straight Hall, was "Making Democracy Work." Ably directed, it was characterized by the high quality of the student discussions, the well-tempered and thoughtful contributions of the guest experts, and the masterful handling of the final plenary session, presided over by Austin H. Kiplinger '39 of Washington, D. C. This was the only session open to the public; it was attended by about 300 persons.

The conference was voted an unqualified success by all participants, and it was unanimously agreed to hold similar sessions annually, the next at the University of Pennsylvania.

Seventy-two students, twenty each from Dartmouth and Pennsylvania and thirty-two Cornell undergraduates, sat in five round tables, on Press and Pressure Groups, Economic Foreign Policy, Economic Enterprise in a Democratic Society, Labor Contract in a Democratic Society, and The Future of Local Government. They had been preparing for weeks in advance. Faculty advisers from the three colleges sat in, but took little part in the discussions.

Alumni Among Guests

Thirteen experts, specialists in their respective fields, were guests of the conference and contributed their opposing views. Cornellians among them were Tell Berna '12, general manager, National Machine Tool Builders Association, who represented the employer's viewpoint in the round table on Economic Enterprise in a Democratic Society, and took part in the closing plenary session; Louis C. Boochever '12, University Director of Public Information, who participated in the round table on Press and Pressure Groups; and A. Manuel Fox '11, United States Tariff Commissioner, who in the round table on Economic Foreign Policy drew commendation for his part in America's reciprocal trade agreements from Walter R. Peabody, secretary of the American Tariff League. Other guests were Bruce Bliven, editor, The New Republic; James Carey, president, Radio and Electric Workers of America; Corwin D. Edwards, chief economist, Federal Trade Commission; Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, regional director, National Labor Relations Board; Stacy May, formerly assistant professor of Economics, now director for social sciences, Rockefeller Foundation; Paul Morton, city manager of Trenton, N. J.; Walter R. Peabody, secretary, American Tariff League; and Senator Edward J. Thompson of the Pennsylvania State Legislature. Guests were entertained at fraternity houses and at Willard Straight Hall.

President Day Speaks

President Edmund E. Day sounded the keynote of the conference in his opening address at a dinner in Willard Straight Hall Friday evening. He deplored "indifference, complacency, and ignorance" as the greatest threats to American democracy. Threats from countries in which dictatorships prevail he regarded as less serious than those which result from Americans not using their best efforts to maintain democracy, "which is the way of peace and living together."

"We must cultivate the ability to think without prejudice," he said, "and to resist the high pressure propaganda that is bringing about the decay of the art of critical thinking. I am so serious about this that I see a deep consequence behind the Freshman-Sophomore clashes on this Campus, because if you can beat 'em up on the campus you can also beat 'em up off the campus. Democracy works or doesn't work right on the campus. The Cornell campus is not essentially different or worse than other university or college campuses. Students leaving college ought to know about democracy, not only from books but from having lived it on their own campus."

The President also expressed concern about the "deterioration of public leadership in this country: leadership which has become merely responsibility to the popular will and doesn't lead." He did not subscribe to the principle of "equalitarianism," that all men are created equal. "There is real danger to democracy in failing to recognize that in innate ability all men are not created equal. Rabble rousers preach otherwise, and it is easy to play upon an instinctive American dislike of individual circumstances and rewards." His greatest concern was with "a growing readiness to resort to force to settle social disputes."

Round table groups met twice on Saturday. The one dealing with labor agreed in general with Governmental endorsement of labor's right to organize and bargain collectively, and urged principles of the National Labor Relations Act as an implement for Governmental encouragement, but agreed that more labor responsibility is necessary.

As to Economic Foreign Policy, student delegates supported the mechanism of the trade agreements system, but were unable to agree on methods of removing the economic causes of Fascist states without strengthening current power of such states. They favored economic sanctions against aggressor nations.

In discussing The Future of Local Government, round-table participants urged elimination of unnecessary offices, consolidation of duties, and, where possible, consolidation of unnecessarily small governmental units.

Students who took up Economic Enterprise in a Democratic Society decided for control of competition in some industries—notably public utilities—and removal of monopoly in others.

The round-table on Press and Pressure Groups moved against Governmental control of the press, and saw no possibility of setting an absolute standard of impartiality for news columns.

The executive committee of the conference consisted of John S. Niederhauser '39 of Menlo Park, Calif., William C. Chamberlain from Dartmouth, and John J. Dautrich from Pennsylvania. Cornell Faculty advisers were Professors Herbert A. Wichelns '16, Public Speaking; Frank A. Southard, Jr., Economics; Seymour S. Garrett '04, Administrative Engineering; and Max A. Shepard, Government.—L. C. B.

About ATHLETICS

BASEBALL BREAKS EVEN

The baseball team lost and won in two Eastern Intercollegiate League games on the road last week, returning to Ithaca tied for first place with Harvard, each with four victories and one defeat.

Columbia inflicted the loss in New York City May 6 and dropped Cornell to third place. The score was 5-3 as Pitcher Stehnach twice threw wild to first base in fielding bunts. Both errors in the same inning accounted for three of Columbia's five runs.

But the team came back to win from Yale, 6-4, at New Haven May 7 as three Cornell pitchers limited Yale to seven hits. Frank B. Howe, Jr. '40 of Ithaca won the game by driving in two of Cornell's three runs in the seventh inning with a triple. The day before he had hit a home run with one man on base. All told, Howe collected five hits for ten bases in eight times at bat in the two games.

Stehnach held Columbia to five hits in six innings, but was shifted to left field at the start of the seventh, Halprin going to the mound. Halprin did not give a hit in the two innings he worked.

Cornell won from Yale despite nine errors, six of them charged against Gannett, who was shifted from the outfield to third base. The regular third baseman, Alvin T. M. Gally '38 of Lynbrook, was called home by the death of his mother.

Cornell also won despite eleven strikeouts at the hands of Yale's Pitcher Jubitz. But Jubitz was also touched for ten hits, Gannett, Polzer, Howe, and Brown each getting two. A walk, doubles by Polzer and Stehnach, and Brown's single scored three runs in the fourth. Yale scored once in the third, then took a 4-3 lead with three runs in the sixth as Dodd gave way to Bensley. Bensley allowed one hit in the two and two-thirds innings he pitched and was credited with the victory, but again Halprin was called in, this time with Yale filling the bases with two out in the ninth. Halprin forced the last batter to fly to Howe.

Coach James M. Tatum hurried from New Haven to New York City, to be married that evening in the Church of the Transfiguration, to Edna R. Sumrell, of Ayden, N. C. He was accompanied by Trainer Frank Kavanagh, and from Ithaca after Friday's final football practice went Assistant Coach Max Reed, to be attendants at his wedding.

The League standing:

	W	L	PC
Cornell	4	1	.800
Harvard	4	1	.800
Yale	4	2	.667
Dartmouth	2	2	.500
Princeton	2	3	.400
Columbia	2	4	.333
Pennsylvania	0	5	.000

Earlier last week, Cornell lost to Colgate on Hoy Field in one of those wide-open games. Colgate won, 15-13, by scoring three runs in the eighth inning after the lead had changed nine times.

Colgate collected nineteen hits off five Cornell pitchers, with Stehnach, the starting pitcher, returning to the mound for a second tour of duty after patrolling left field. Cornell gathered sixteen hits.

TENNIS TEAM WINS

Four extra-set matches and one 11-9 set marked Cornell's tennis victory over Syracuse at Syracuse May 4, the first victory for the team in four contests.

The summaries:

Singles: Sobel, Cornell, defeated Dixon, 6-1, 7-5; Rogers, Syracuse, defeated Devine, 6-2, 11-9; Schwartzman, Cornell, defeated Belden, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4; Slavin, Syracuse, defeated Rathbun, 6-3, 6-4; Boochever, Cornell, defeated Silverman, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

Doubles: Devine and Rathbun defeated Dixon and Rogers, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5; Belden and Slavin defeated Schwartzman and Boochever, 3-6, 6-3, 6-0; Sobel and North, Cornell, defeated Silverman and Berkman, 7-5, 6-2.

GOLFERS LOSE TWICE

The golf team lost twice in a three-team round robin at the Alcoma Country Club, Pittsburgh, Pa., May 7. The University of Pittsburgh won, 6-3, and Penn State eked out a 5-4 victory.

William B. Smith '38 of Jeannette, Pa., and Richard T. Meister '40 of Gates Mills, Ohio, each won two matches. Frederick A. Reimers '39 of Omaha, Neb., turned in one victory. Cornell scored only two points in the six best-ball matches.

Charles S. Willcox '38 of Birmingham, Ala., shot a sub-par 71 in the Penn State match, only to have his opponent, Burkitt of State, score a 67.

The Junior Varsity golfers defeated Penn State, 8-1, at the Country Club of Ithaca the same day.

LACROSSE LOSES THIRD

The lacrosse team lost its third successive game May 4, to Army, 6-3, at West Point. Army gained a 3-0 lead before Cornell scored and had to work hard to protect its lead. Robert D. Brennan '40 of Geneva scored two Cornell goals and Marcus M. Mason '38 of Ithaca one.

TRACK TEAM WINS

The track team, with twelve first places and shut-outs in four events, defeated Pennsylvania, 94-41, in their dual meet on Schoellkopf Field May 7. More than 2,500, including Cornell Day guests, saw James B. Pender '39 of Lawrence, Mass., and Lester E. Murdock '40 of Buffalo take double victories. Pender outran Hughes of Pennsylvania in the 100- and 220-yard dashes and Murdock captured the high and broad jumps.

Captain J. Hamilton Hucker '38 of Buffalo lost the 220-yard low hurdles to Wittens of Pennsylvania after he had finished first in the 120-yard high hurdles in an all-Cornell finish. Cornellians also placed one-two-three in the 880-yard, mile, and two-mile runs.

Best race came in the 880 as Benjamin F. Levy, Jr. '39 of Elmira challenged by Harold F. Shepard '38 of LeRoy in the stretch run, won with a driving finish in the last ten yards. Another good performance was turned in by John H. Nevius '39 of Flemington, N. J., in the 440. He overtook Pennsylvania's Captain Walls on the turn into the stretch and won with a terrific sprint.

Edmund V. Mezzitt '38 of Weston, Mass., and Howard W. Welch '39 of Trumansburg won the mile and two-mile, respectively, in hollow fashion and slow times, Welch finishing more than 100 yards in the van.

Herbert H. Cornell '38, former two-mile intercollegiate champion who sustained a foot injury at the Pennsylvania Relays, was on crutches in the Crescent. It is unlikely that he will run again this season. With him were his father and younger brother, John Cornell, who came up from Brooklyn for Cornell Day.

The summary:

TRACK EVENTS

100-yard dash: Won by Pender, Cornell; second, Hughes, Pennsylvania; third, Tatum, Cornell. Time, 0:10.0.

220-yard dash: Won by Pender, Cornell; second, Hughes, Pennsylvania; third, Scott, Cornell. Time, 0:22.5.

440-yard run: Won by Nevius, Cornell; second, Walls, Pennsylvania; third, Zittel, Cornell. Time, 0:49.2.

880-yard run: Won by Levy, Cornell; second, Shepard, Cornell; third, Mezzitt, Cornell. Time, 1:58.8.

One-mile run: Won by Mezzitt, Cornell; second, Bentley, Cornell; third, Pigage, Cornell. Time, 4:32.8.

Two-mile run: Won by Welch, Cornell; second, Wingerter, Cornell; third, Barrus, Cornell. Time, 9:53.4.

120-yard high hurdles: Won by Hucker, Cornell; second, Weadon, Cornell; third, Schwarz, Cornell. Time, 0:15.2.

220-yard low hurdles: Won by Wittens, Pennsylvania; second, Hucker, Cornell; third, Schwarz, Cornell. Time, 0:24.5.

FIELD EVENTS

High jump: Won by Murdock, Cornell, 6 feet; second, Mathis, Cornell, 5 feet 10 inches; third, Reeves, Pennsylvania, 5 feet 8 inches.

Broad jump: Won by Murdock, Cornell, 22 feet 2 3/4 inches; second, Schuenemann, Pennsylvania, 21 feet 9 3/4 inches; third, Tallman, Cornell, 21 feet 8 3/4 inches.

Pole vault: Tie for first between Mason and Beltzner, Pennsylvania, 12 feet 6 inches; third, Davis, Cornell, 12 feet.

16-pound shot put: Won by Van Ranst, Cornell, 44 feet 5 inches; second, Bradway, Pennsylvania, 44 feet 3 3/4 inches; third, Schumann, Pennsylvania, 43 feet 9 1/2 inches.

16-pound hammer throw: Won by McKeever, Cornell, 141 feet 3 inches; second, McCutcheon, Cornell, 120 feet 8 inches; third, Lavine, Pennsylvania, 109 feet 1 inch.

Javelin throw: Won by Hooper, Cornell, 180 feet 4 1/4 inches; second, Freeman, Pennsylvania, 165 feet 1 inch; third, Lawrence, Pennsylvania, 163 feet 7 inches.

Discus throw: Won by Craemer, Pennsylvania, 135 feet 7 1/4 inches; second, Rutledge, Cornell, 131 feet 2 3/4 inches; third, Bradway, Pennsylvania, 125 feet 3 inches.

FRESHMEN HARD AT IT

The Freshman track, tennis, and golf teams won victories last week; the baseball team lost twice and the lacrosse team once.

Kirk Hershey of Philadelphia, Pa., paced the trackmen to a 71 2/3 to 63 3/4 victory over Penn State by winning the broad jump with 21 feet 4 1/2 inches, the 120-yard high hurdles in 0:15.8, and the 220-yard low hurdles in 0:25.1.

Isaac R. Swezey, 3d of Huntington won the 220-yard dash in 0:21.4, unusually fast time for a Freshman. He also won the 100-yard dash in 0:10.0.

The tennis team defeated Colgate, 6-3, on the Cascadilla Courts, with Kennedy Randall, Jr. of Staten Island, William E. Gifford of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, Louis C. Boochever, Jr. of Ithaca, Jack T. Riday of Winnetka, Ill., and Howard A. Schuck of Newburgh winning singles matches.

The baseball team lost to Colgate, 12-6, at Hamilton and to Ithaca College at Hoy Field, 3-2.

Hobart defeated the lacrosse team, 11-8, on Alumni Field. Richard L. Campbell of Towson, Md., scored four goals, Robert E. Hecht, Jr., of Ruxton, Md., three, and Ralph A. Corley, Jr. of Mountain Lakes, N. J., one.

The golfers defeated Penn State, 7 1/2-1 1/2, at the Country Club of Ithaca.

SCHOOLBOYS PLAY TENNIS

For the second year, Cornell was host May 6 and 7 to interscholastic tennis players, with thirty-two entries in singles and fourteen pairs in doubles.

The 1937 winner, William Umstaedter of Millburn, N. J., High School, failed to retain his title, losing to William Gillespie of Scarborough (N. Y.) School, 6-2, 6-1, in the final.

Gillespie paired with Donald Buffington to win the doubles crown from Umstaedter and Reginald Spell, 6-3, 6-4, thus giving Scarborough School the team trophy with 23 points. Millburn was second with 14.

In the singles semifinals, Gillespie defeated George Kraft of Erasmus High, Brooklyn, 6-1, 6-1, and Umstaedter eliminated Buffington, 3-6, 6-1, 6-0.

KELLEY WAS HERE

(R. B. in "State and Tioga," Ithaca Journal)

Mr. Robert Kelley of the New York Times finally got here last Wednesday. He saw the crews row and wrote about them in the Times on Thursday. (We hope everybody read that report and observed how much more effective the sports page is when it is written in crisp English and not in a jargon which employs such terms as "sweepsters," "mentors," "hoopsters," "Big Reds," and "bingles.")

This year Mr. Kelley didn't bother about forsythia. He had lately come from Annapolis where the season is advanced and the Spring is an old, old story. Instead he came out to Stoneposts and went into our horse situation thoroughly. He particularly liked our work team and could hardly be dragged away from them.

As secretary of the American Polo Association Mr. Kelley in the course of a year has to see thousands of polo ponies; highly bred, neurasthenic beasts who find it practically impossible to relax and stand still in the presence of a sports writer. After them, he says, it's a blessed relief to spend the afternoon with broad beamed, placid, heavy footed mares whose every glance is slow and inexpressively soothing.

LAWYERS' MOOT COURT

First-year students in the Law School argued their final moot court in the courtroom of Myron Taylor Hall April 30 before a distinguished bench. Presiding was the Honorable Harry L. Taylor '88, formerly Associate Justice of the Appellate Division, New York State Supreme Court; his colleagues State Supreme Court Justices Riley H. Heath '12 and Raymond C. Vaughan.

Student counsel had been selected from the seventy members of the first-year Class, all of whom had taken part in two preliminary moot trials. The case was an appeal from a previous decision for a private club, believed to be an inn by a guest whose valuables had been stolen from the club's safe. Verdict was returned in favor of the plaintiff-appellant, represented by Willis D. Curtiss, Jr. '38 of Sodus and Arthur J. Cohen, Jr. of New York City, with Joseph H. Fink '37 of Mason City, Ia., as alternate. The unsuccessful counsel for the defendant-respondent were Earle B. Henley, Jr. '37 of Oakland, Cal., and Bruce G. Dean of Oswego, with John E. Adamson, Jr. of Kenmore as alternate.

At the annual moot court dinner later, the judges reviewed the evidence and their decision. A new prize of $100 given anonymously was divided sixty percent to the winners and forty percent to the losers. A trophy presented by Phi Alpha Delta for award to the student who has shown the most outstanding performance in moot court throughout the year, went to Curtiss; and Dean was awarded Ballentine's Law Dictionary, given by the Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Company, for the best work in collecting material for his moot court arguments.

Professor Herbert D. Laube was in charge of moot court preparation.

BUTLER IN DETROIT

Robert P. Butler '05, president of the Cornellian Council, was the speaker at a smoker of the Cornell Club of Michigan at the Harmonie Society Club Rooms in Detroit, April 29. Sixty-five alumni were there to hear Butler's inspiring talk. He demonstrated his unusual ability for remembering names by calling the names of all the men he had met during the evening.

Matthew Carey '15, past president of the Club, presided. Entertainment was furnished by Clinton R. Tobey '18 who ran a grand lottery, and by Morris D. Sample '94 and Henry E. Epley '03 who captained two teams of entertainers, alternating in a program of songs and stories. The judges awarded the palm to Sample's team, in a close vote. Those who participated in what is reported as the "fairly close" harmony included Alexander M. Fekula '34, Heatley Green '01, Leonard H. Gussow '28, Dick Lewis '27, Arthur L. Rose '10, William E. Standart '04, George H. Walbridge '90.

CONVENTION COMMITTEES

Examination of the official committee list of the New York State Constitutional Convention now in session in Albany discloses many additional committee appointments of Cornellians besides those reported in the ALUMNI NEWS April 28, and another alumnus delegate besides the nine reported.

The tenth Cornellian delegate is Ernest D. Leet '23 of Jamestown.

Committee memberships of Cornellians:

Jerome D. Barnum '12, chairman Agriculture, Printing, member Education; William F. Bleakley '04, vice-chairman of the Convention, chairman Industrial Relations and Workmen's Compensation, member Education, State Finances and Revenues; William H. Coon '22, member Agriculture, Legislature Powers and Duties, Library and Information; Philip Eltinge '89, member Banking, Legislature Organization, State Finances and Revenues; Paul Folger '06, chairman Corporations, member Cities, Printing, Taxation; Riley H. Heath '12, chairman Future Amendments and Revision of the Constitution, member Social Welfare, Taxation; Benjamin Kenyon '07, member Conservation of Natural Resources, Legislature Powers and Duties, State Institutions; Stephen M. Lounsberry '10, member Agriculture, Conservation, Legislature Organization; Harold Riegelman '14, chairman Cities, member Housing, Rules.

Willis G. Hickman '11 of Buffalo is secretary of the Judiciary committee.

JOB SERVICE

Paul O. Reyneau '13 runs almost single-handed the work of the University Placement Bureau in New York City. He helps Cornellians to find jobs, not merely by introducing them to prospective employers, but by counselling with them as to their aptitudes and helping them to present their qualifications to employers. His constant services to alumni are well summarized in a recent letter from one of them:

Dear Mr. Reyneau:

The past week has proved quite fruitful. I have found myself in a position to take one of three specific opportunities, all to my liking. This is in one case directly due to the lead you gave me and in the other cases, indirectly, to advice and encouragement which you have been kind enough to extend at numerous intervals in the past few months. I feel I owe you and the institutions which you represent a debt which I sincerely am planning to make good on.

The opportunity which I have accepted will eventually lead to a selling position in the division of My opportunity to join this organization came as the result, in part, of advice extended me by the to which you introduced me. The third opportunity, with the came through the letter campaign concerning which I consulted you.

The field which I have selected is, I believe, one which I really like and shall enjoy. Thank you for the consideration which you have extended. I trust my name shall not again darken your active files for some years to come.

The Placement Bureau in Ithaca in its current Bulletin lists a variety of "Positions Open," including three for experienced engineers, engineering, agriculture, and accounting teachers, a chemist, athletics supervisor, and a supervisor of kitchen and dining rooms.

Alumni interested are invited to send complete information and photograph to Herbert H. Williams '25, Director, University Placement Bureau, Willard Straight Hall.

GIFT FOR MISS CANFIELD

Recognition of forty-four years of service in women's physical education at Cornell will be presented to Ellen B. Canfield, who will retire in June. The Cornell Women's Club of Ithaca is sponsoring the collection of small gifts of money from all alumnae, who are asked to send their contributions not later than June 1 to Mrs. Olive Northup Snyder '22, Assistant Alumni Representative, Alumni House, Ithaca.

Miss Canfield came to the University in 1894, as "assistant in physical culture in Sage College," Dr. Edward Hitchcock, Jr. then being Professor of Physical Culture and Hygiene and Director of the Gymnasium. The University Register of that year announced:

"Special provision has also been made for the physical training of women in the Sage College Gymnasium. The professor and his assistant in this department have organized a system of exercises calculated to maintain and develop the physical strength of young women, and at the same time prevent any of the evils which might arise from exercises that are too violent or too long continued."

Three years later Miss Canfield was appointed "instructor in physical culture in charge of the gymnasium for women," and until 1920 she led all the women's sports and gymnasium classes, being especially interested in rowing. Probably no other present member of the University has known as many alumnae, and she recalls most of them—their names, where they live, and what they are doing—as they call on her when returning to Ithaca. Since 1920 her work in the Sage College gymnasium had been largely that of keeping the records, and for the last several years she has not been active. But she is still an ardent and loyal Cornellian.

CANDY IN NEW ENGLAND

At luncheon of the Cornell Club of New England May 2, Richard W. Moulton '25 of the New England Confectionery Company described some of the problems of manufacturing and marketing a new candy bar. Newton C. Burnett '24, president of the Club, presided at the luncheon, which was at the Hotel Bellevue in Boston.

'28 REUNION COMMITTEES

Forty men of the Class of '28 met for dinner at the Cornell Club of New York April 28, to complete plans for the ten-year reunion in Ithaca June 17-19. It was announced that about seventy men of the Class have so far signified intention to attend the reunion, and that letters would shortly be sent to the entire membership.

A general reunion chairman, executive committee, and regional chairmen were announced at this meeting. The general chairman is Dr. Lyman R. Fisher of Ithaca, and the other members of the executive committee are James D. Pond of Ithaca, Tudor Bowen and H. Victor Grohmann of New York City, James E. Hubbell of Stamford, Conn., and Edward G. Johnson of Great Neck.

The regional chairmen are H. Stanley Krusen of New York City, Eugene P. Balderston, Jr. of Chester, Pa., Charles L. Macbeth of Philadelphia, Pa., Phillip Will, Jr. and Philip L. Ash of Chicago, Ill., John M. Young and James P. Parker of Evanston, Ill., John Henry of Waban, Mass., Sidney E. Whiting, Jr. of Holyoke, Mass., Norwood G. Wright of Barberton, Ohio, W. C. Shapleigh, Jr. of Dayton, Ohio, John C. Sterritt of Detroit, Mich., D. Verner Smythe of Arlington, Va., James M. Veeder of Pittsburgh, Pa., Frederick E. Emmons, Jr. of Los Angeles, Calif., Robert F. Loetscher of Dubuque, Iowa, Joseph Berry, Jr. of Buffalo, Robert S. Betten of Rochester, and in the far East R. Henry Spellman, Jr. of Yokohama, Japan, and K. Kemmotsu, manager, Tokyo Railway Hotel, Tokyo, Japan.

NOW, IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

Strolling the Campus these warm spring afternoons, the reminiscent alumnus is most struck with the febrile quality in undergraduate interests—the multiplicity of actions. The promotion of peace has become a major extra-curricular activity, but there is no peace within the Quadrangle.

Middle-aged graduates of full habit now find the atmosphere too surcharged for their taste with arguments, javelins, radio broadcasting, Cornell Days, inter-collegiate discussion groups, spring football, committee meetings, and soft baseballs. One identifies every kind of fever except spring fever which once, in the manner of the hookworm, infected the community with a becoming lassitude in May.

I suspect that spring fever departed from the Campus simply because there was no time for it and no place to put it. The fullness of undergraduate life has choked it out. This must be a good thing. Just the same, I'm glad I went to college when I did, and not now. I'm glad I went when one had loads of time for spring fever; when college students in the month of May gave little thought to the Japanese war then going on in Manchuria, or to the social legislation being urged at the time by President Roosevelt (Theodore of that ilk), to the horror of all nice people.

The only vexing question before such fever sufferers as Bingo Wells, George Nathan, and your reporter at four o'clock on a warm May afternoon would have been, "Shall we go to Percy Field and then to Theodore's, or straight to Theodore's?"

Undergraduates should, I think, do and be what they want to do and be (short of felony, of course), but I can't help preferring 'em when they decide to be young and relaxed, and not so darn serious, taut, and middle-aged—in May, when the hills that wall Ithaca round about are bursting with the spring.

ADVENTURES IN ROCHESTER

Sixty members of the Cornell Club of Rochester at luncheon at the University Club May 4 thoroughly enjoyed a talk on adventure in far places by Frederic G. Hardenbrook '34, recently returned. Last spring we reported the discovery of Hardenbrook's picture in Life for December, 1936, with the giant panda captured by Mrs. William H. Harkness, Jr. in Tibet. He told the Rochester Club how it happened.

After two years at Cornell, and having graduated from the Wharton School of Finance, Hardenbrook decided to go to China and overland to India. In Tibet, after guerilla warfare and escaping from bandits, he joined an expedition of the California Academy of Science and for two years hunted rare animals and birds with them. Here he met Mrs. Harkness, and when she fell ill of pneumonia it became his job to care for the infant panda. Later, in Shanghai during its bombardment by the Japanese, he had many narrow escapes, helped to care for the wounded and distribute relief. He returned to Rochester late in April for a rest before starting on another journey to little known frontiers.

"He has a fine story and tells it well," says Marvin R. Dye '17, president of the Club.

THAT GLOCKENSPIEL AGAIN!

Some presumptuous aspersions recently cast upon the Princeton University Band and its new alto glockenspiel by the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS have aroused the righteous indignation of the Nassau musicians. A conference with the leader T. H. Fielding '39 has revealed that the Ithacans are entirely in the wrong when they assert that Princeton's outfit is not unique in the East by virtue of its possession of this instrument.

The Cornell claim is based on the fact that their ROTC band has owned a glockenspiel for five years. It must be pointed out, however, that their instrument is not an alto but a soprano glockenspiel. Now Princeton has had a soprano glockenspiel this long time, though it has never bothered to boast about it, since it is only the alto species which is considered a rara avis.

Those in charge of the Cornell band say—and there is a hint of sour grapes in the statement—that they prefer the soprano type anyway. That is probably because they have never seen our new alto glockenspiel, which is larger and heavier, and whose bars are an inch longer than the soprano. Besides, the new lyre-shaped instrument has resonators behind each bar, and is decorated with magnificent orange and black horse-tails. Some idea of its rarity may be gathered from the fact that there is no published music for alto-glockenspieler to play—it all has to be written specially by the band's arrangers.—By John G. Buchanan, Jr., campus commentator in the Princeton Alumni Weekly.

Newark (N. J.) Evening News of April 19 takes cognizance of the controversy with an editorial on the "Glockenspiel Crisis" at Princeton and Cornell.

LAW QUARTERLY editorship for next year, the highest student honor of the Law School, goes to Thomas M. Nichols of Rochester, who received the AB at Syracuse University. Business manager is Lester H. Chase of Massena; managing editor, Walter T. Plumb, Jr. of Rochester; and book review editor, Henry H. Willmott of Watertown.

was quarantined on the train coming back from Annapolis. Stroke James A. Young '40 of Angelica, the first, has recovered. Henry V. Beuttell '38 of Pelham Manor is also recovered from his injury. The lightweight crews broke even in two races April 30. The Varsity defeated Columbia by a quarter-length on the Harlem River over the Henley distance. Freshmen lost when they were forced to clear driftwood that had fouled the shell.

The crews had another engagement added to their schedules with announcement last week that at least the Varsity and Freshman crews of University of California would arrive here June 11 for a week's training, with a regatta scheduled June 18, during Class reunions. Cornell and California squads will leave together for Poughkeepsie the next day, to row June 27.

The baseball team dropped from first place to sixth in team fielding in the Eastern Intercollegiate League as the result of two errors in the Columbia game and nine in the Yale game. In batting the team is sixth with a collective mark of .228. Top hitter is Howe with .500 and a tie for third place in the individual standings. Dodd and Bensley are still undefeated among the League's pitchers, and Johnson leads the circuit in stolen bases with six.

MEDICAL SPRING DAY

Alumni of the Medical College celebrated their annual Spring Day in New York City May 5. Following a full program of medical exhibits and demonstrations at the College and New York Hospital, several hundred Cornellians banqueted at the Hotel Biltmore.

President Edmund E. Day was warmly greeted, as he felicitated the Medical College alumni on behalf of the University. He emphasized the importance of the College as a vital element of Cornell, and expressed his high hopes of its future development. The President and two other speakers were introduced by Dr. Walter H. McNeill, Jr. '10, retiring as president of the Medical College Alumni Association after an active administration. Austin H. McCormick, Commissioner of Correction of the City of New York, spoke on "Doctors as Crime Fighters," and Dr. Benjamin J. Slater '14 of the Eastman Kodak Company in Rochester told of his recent trip to the Mediterranean.

Guests at the speakers' table included several Trustees of the University, Roger H. Williams '95, Charles H. Blair '97, Neal D. Becker '05, Andrew J. Whinery '10, Mary H. Donlon '20, and George R. Pfann '24; and Foster M. Coffin '12, University Alumni Representative.

One hundred and seventy-five Cornell doctors and guests attended a noon luncheon as guests of New York Hospital. At the annual business meeting following, Dr. Sammuel A. Cosgrove '07, who has been vice-president of the Association, was elected president to succeed Dr. McNeill. The meeting considered administration problems and in particular recognized the important work of the senior advisory committee.

PROFESSOR LEE '09 DIES

Professor Myron A. Lee '09, Industrial Engineering, died May 8 in Memorial Hospital in Ithaca, following a major operation. He had been a member of the Engineering Faculty since 1910, joining it as instructor in Machine Design the year after he received the ME degree. He received the MME in 1913, and with Professor Dexter S. Kimball started one of the first laboratories for making time and motion studies of industrial operations. He became assistant professor of Industrial Engineering in 1921 and professor and head of the Department in 1924. Recognized as an authority and pioneer in this field, he was consultant to many industrial firms and had written extensively, including three books published by International Textbook Company and widely used: Motion and Time Study, Motion Economy, and Wage Payment.

During leaves of absence from the University he had worked for the McIntosh, Seymour Co. of Auburn, Western Electric Co., General Electric Co., Thomas-Morse Aircraft Corporation, and the Gleason Works at Rochester. From August, 1935, to February, 1936, he was in charge of the work simplification course for International Business Machines Corporation.

Professor Lee was born in Auburn

March 21, 1887, and entered Sibley College in 1905 from Auburn High School. He was a member of Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, Atmos, and the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education. As recently as April 6 he spoke for Cornell at a student College Day convocation at John Adams High School, Ozone Park.

The family lives at 108 Cornell Street, Ithaca. Mrs. Lee and his father, Frank Lee, survive, with a son, Myron W. Lee '37, instructor in Engineering, and a daughter, Margaret L. Lee '41.

PRESIDENT IN BALTIMORE

Cornell Clubs of Maryland will entertain President Day in Baltimore, May 18. He will be the guest for tea with the Cornell Women's Club, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Karl E. Pfeiffer (Anne Bullivant) '12, 2701 Queen Anne Road. The men's Club will greet the President at dinner, at 7 o'clock, at the Baltimore Country Club. For luncheon the men's Club is arranging a meeting at the University Club with the head masters and principals of schools.

ESSEX COUNTY CORNELL DAY

Cornell Club of Essex County, N. J., is planning a big Cornell day on Friday, May 20, at the Montclair Golf Club. All Cornell men are invited for golf, morning and afternoon, followed by an informal dinner at 8 o'clock. President Day will be the guest of honor. This will be the climax of what has been a notably successful year of the Essex County Club.

PHI BETA KAPPA

One graduate student, twenty-six Seniors, and eighteen Juniors have won the highest academic honor, of election to Phi Beta Kappa. The graduate student is Glen Shortcliffe of Alberta, Can.; the undergraduates:

SENIORS: William J. Argersinger, Jr. Chittenango; Morley L. Bernstein, Niagara Falls; Alden K. Boyd, Bay Shore; Urie Bronfenbrenner, Thiells; Philip W. Callanan, Auburn; William D. Curtiss, Jr., Sodas; George E. Detmold, Long Island City; David A. Dreiling, Brooklyn; Malcolm S. Finkelstein, New York City; Kenneth A. Fowler, Buffalo; Hannah Garb, Trenton, N. J.; Bernard Gartlir, Brooklyn; Virginia C. Herring, West Hartford, Conn.; Robert J. Huffcut, Buffalo; Robert D. Innes, Cortland; Clifford A. Kaye, New York City; Henry W. Klein, Brooklyn; Shirley R. Leshan, Queens Village; Eileen M. Mandl, Tuckahoe; Frances R. Ransom, Buffalo; Allen D. Shapiro, Newburgh; Eugene Simonoff, New York City; Barbara H. Tupper, Elmira; Jacob Walkin, Brooklyn; Robert A. Wichert, Watertown; Emanuel Wolinsky, New York City.

JUNIORS: Clarke T. Case, New York City; Helen L. Frank, Brooklyn; Milton T. Gilberg, Rochester; Ruth Gold, Niagara Falls; Catherine H. Grady, Great Neck; Howell J. Heaney, Beacon; Doris Heath, Ithaca; Virginia Hoyt, East Aurora; Simon H. Lachenbruch, New Rochelle; Mabel L. Lang, Hamilton; Philip J. McCarthy, Friendship; Rex Morgan, Kenmore; Thomas F. C. Muchmore, Geneva; Randall W. Reyer, Pelham Manor; Clinton L. Rossiter III, Bronxville; Donald L. Sanders, Maplewood, N. J.; Ruth J. Switzer, Ithaca; Alvin C. Weinstein, Brooklyn.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

FRESHMAN BANQUET of the women, unlike that of the men, was held on schedule and without Sophomore trouble. Speakers at the dinner, in Risley dining room May 5, were Professors Bristow Adams, Agriculture Publications, and Harry Caplan '16, Classics, and Elizabeth K. Emery of Rochester, who will be president of the Class next year, and Sarah R. Steinman '39 of Deposit, president-elect of WSGA. Toastmistress was this year's Class president, Mona P. Mooney of Great Kills.

CAMPUS VISITOR May 2 was Stanley A. Russell '12, president of Lazard, Freres & Co., Inc. He and Mrs. Russell drove up from their home in Montclair, N. J., for the day, he to speak on investment banking before the seminar in Agricultural Economics. They made their headquarters at Willard Straight Hall, and lunched with their son, Stanley A. Russell '40, at the Delta Phi house, where Russell is also a member.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS from twenty-five colleges and universities, delegates from the New York State Province of the International Federation of College Catholic Clubs, were guests of the Newman Club on the Campus May 7 and 8. Saturday afternoon in Barnes Hall they heard a denunciation of Spanish Loyalist propaganda in America by the Rev. Joseph B. Code, professor of history at Catholic University, Washington, D. C. Saturday night they danced in Willard Straight Memorial Room. At a Sunday morning breakfast in Memorial Room, 200 delegates and visitors were addressed by Bishop James Kearney, recently appointed to the Rochester diocese, and President Edmund E. Day.

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA and its guest soloist, Elizabeth M. Love '32, harpist, were greatly enjoyed by an audience of about 1500 in Bailey Hall May 4. This was the annual concert endowed by the will of Gerald W. Hinkley '15, former member of the Mandolin Club, the result of a half-jesting suggestion made to him by George L. Coleman '95, the orchestra's director. In one of her numbers Miss Love was accompanied on the organ by Professor Luther M. Noss, Music.

NEW OFFICIAL of the University is Frederick R. Georgia '15, who has been appointed supervisor of water works in the Department of Buildings and Grounds. He received the PhD in '22, was instructor in Chemistry until 1926, and has since taught at Black Mountain College in North Carolina and Rollins College in Florida. For the three filters in its water plant on Fall Creek above Forest Home the University this spring imported some CORNELL DAY has come and gone. For a week end the University took in its stride the visitation of 700 boys and nearly 200 alumni, and all seemed to have a good time. As has come to be expected, the weather smiled and the whole community—President, Faculty, students, and alumni—did their part without a hitch. Next week we shall publish the complete story, including the names of the alumni "chauffeurs" and the Cornell Clubs they came from, with pictures of the many Cornell Day events.

eleven tons of silicon rocks from the shores of Normandy. This plant, built in 1928, also houses other facilities for treating the water supply and a complete laboratory for water analysis.

FUERTES MEMORIAL contest in public speaking was won by William H. Scott '39 of Omaha, Nebr., who spoke from his own experience with labor troubles last summer on "Collective Bargaining for the Engineer." He received the first prize of $80. Second, $40, went to Grant C. Ehrlich '38 of Bronxville, speaking on "Where Should Advertising Be Placed?" and third prize of $20 to Lewis L. Dollinger, Jr. '38 of Rochester, whose subject was "Dr. Rudolph Diesel and His Engine." Judges were Professors Donald L. Finlayson, Architecture, Walter L. Conwell '09, Civil Engineering, William C. Ballard '10, Electrical Engineering, Frank O. Ellenwood, Mechanical Engineering, and Guy B. Muchmore, Public Speaking; and Harry G. Stutz '07, editor of the Ithaca Journal.

VISITOR from the University of Hawaii recently was Professor Charles F. Loomis, assistant to the president there. He spent two days on the Campus looking into Cornell's program of public relations, fund raising, and alumni relations, and met for dinner with He Hui Hawaii.

PRESIDENT and president-elect of Women's Self Government Association, Janet E. Dempster '38 of Schenectady and Sarah R. Steinman '39 of Deposit, attended the annual conference of the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students, held at Michigan State College, East Lansing, April 28-30.

ROTC RIFLE TEAM again wins the William Randolph Hearst Trophy for the Second Corps Area, having outshot eighteen other college teams. Cornell's score was 928, as compared with 925 of University of Puerto Rico and 919 of Fordham University. High scorer was Donald M. Conklin '38 of Binghamton.

MUSICAL CLUBS Council has appointed as manager for next year William Y. Hutchinson '39, who is the son of Alumni Trustee Alfred H. Hutchinson '09, of Chicago, Ill. Assistant manager is R. Selden Brewer '40 of Hartford, Conn., the magician.

TWELVE STUDENT DELEGATES, organized by the Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy, went to Washington May 5 to join those of other colleges in a demonstration to urge repeal of the Neutrality Act, in the interests of Loyalist Spain.

CORNELLIAN BOARD for next year will be headed by Douglas B. Blackburn of Park Ridge, N. J., as editor-in-chief. Business manager is John Ogden of Milwaukee, Wis.; managing editor, Gene L. Hintgen of Bismarck, N. D.; advertising manager, Robert F. White of Cleveland, Ohio; circulation manager, Blair Weigel of Chattanooga, Tenn.; women's editor, Olive A. Vroman of Albany; and women's business manager, Carolyn L. Goldstein of Rochester. These are all Seniors next year, of course.

BUCKNELL sent a team of two women students to debate in Willard Straight Hall May 5 against Janice M. Grossman '40 of Brooklyn and Lillian Strickman '41 of Liberty. Their subject was the standard intercollegiate question of this year, concerning the National Labor Relations Board. No decision was rendered.

PHI GAMMA DELTA chapter at Cornell will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary Spring Day week end, May 21. Among the alumni expected are two of the chapter's founders, Dr. George L. Brodhead '90 and Herschel A. Benedict '91.

BUTTERMILK CREEK, just above the Falls, shares with Old North Church in Boston the covers of a new folder, of which approximately a million copies will be distributed over the country by Greyhound Bus Lines.

RAVEN AND SERPENT, Junior women's honor society, has elected to membership Marguerite H. Adams, of New York City, Phyllis L. Andre of Drexel Hill, Pa., Patricia Avery of Groton, Conn., Marian J. Baillie of Mountain Lakes, N. J., Priscilla M. Coffin of Ithaca, Eileen Gallagher of Troy, Muriel J. Glick of Central Valley, Jean A. Raynor of Mountain Lakes, N. J., Eileen M. Saxe of Catskill, and Cornelia B. Snell of Herkimer.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER May 15 is the Rev. Karl Reiland, rector emeritus of St. George's Church, New York City.

Concerning THE FACULTY

J. DuPRATT WHITE '90, vice-chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Mrs. White sailed from New York City March 26 for Gibraltar. They are traveling in South Africa, and will return early in June in time for Mr. White to come to Ithaca for reunions and Commencement.

LOUIS C. BOOCHEVER '12, Director of Public Information, addressed the Extension staff of Home Economics April 27 on the history and background of the University.

PROFESSORS ARTHUR A. ALLEN '08 and George M. Sutton, PhD '32, Ornithology, and Albert R. Brand, Sp '33, research associate in Ornithology, sailed for Europe April 28 to attend the Ornithological International Congress, held May 9 at Rouen, France. They plan to return to the United States early in June.

PROFESSOR CARL E. F. GUTERMAN, PhD '30, Plant Pathology, attended a recent meeting of the Farm Chemurgic Council in Omaha, Neb. The Council consists of agriculturists, industrialists, and scientists interested in new uses of all farm products in industry.

H. EDWARD BABCOCK, University Trustee and former general manager of the GLF Exchange, Inc., was the first speaker on a series of radio programs initiated by the GLF May 27 over WESG. He spoke on "Kernels, Screenings, and Chaff." Thomas Tracy '31 also sang on the program. May 3 Professor Francis O. Underwood '18, Vegetable Crops, spoke on "Vegetable Gardens"; May 4 Romeyn Berry, whose column, "Now In My Time," appears regularly in the News, spoke on "Cowslip Greens"; and May 5 Professor Elmer S. Savage, PhD '11, Animal Husbandry, was interviewed on "Summer Dairy Feeding."

MAX A. NAGLER, Grad, Floriculture, who has been supervisor of the Cornell rock garden since October, 1935, left May 1 to join the Conard Pyle Company, rose growers, West Grove, Pa. He is in charge of the propagation of perennials and woody plants. At the University he has been experimenting in the propagation and culture of alpine and rock garden plants, and the collection of rock garden plants has increased until it now numbers more than 1,500 varieties. His position is to be filled by Warren C. Wilson '38.

PROFESSOR FLOYD K. RICHTMYER '04, Physics, was among the signatories of a petition sent by fifteen members of the National Academy of Sciences to President Roosevelt, asking that the government lift the embargo on arms to Loyalist Spain, and saying, "It is our belief that you have it in your power today to make for the United States a great contribution to the democratic cause, which you, like ourselves, espouse. We believe that giving the Spanish Republic an opportunity to defend their country more effectively against the spread of fascism would be to act in defense of world democracy and American freedom."

JAMES M. TATUM, head coach of baseball and assistant coach of football, married Edna R. Sumerell of Ayden, N. C., May 7. Mrs. Tatum is a graduate of the Eastern Carolina Teacher's College, and had been teaching in Ayden.

PROFESSOR JOHN R. BANGS, JR. '21, Administrative Engineering, spoke on "Choosing a Vocation" at an assembly of the Union Endicott High School April 27. That evening he spoke on "Creative Imagination in Science and Industry" to a gathering of students of the school's industrial arts and technical courses with their fathers.

DR. DEAN F. SMILEY '16, professor of Hygiene and Medical Adviser, spoke on "Hygiene in the Secondary Schools: Where Should it be Taught and by Whom?" at a meeting of the Ithaca District Health and Physical Education Association April 27.

PROFESSOR PAUL H. UNDERWOOD, acting Director of the School of Civil Engineering, attended the meeting of the American Geophysical Union in Washington, D. C., April 27-29. He presented a paper on "Advanced Surveying and Geodesy in the Curricula of Engineering Colleges Today" before the section on geodesy, of which he is vice-chairman.

DR. RAYMOND C. ALLEN, Floriculture, lectured May 3 at the flower show judges' and exhibitors' course at the Garden Forum of Toledo, Ohio. In the morning he spoke on "Judging and Exhibiting Horticultural Classes." In the afternoon he gave a demonstration of judging horticultural classes.

MRS. BERTHA H. FARNHAM, mother of Professor William H. Farnham '18, Law, died May 1, 1938 at the Farnham home, 115 Eddy Street, Ithaca.

PROFESSOR ARTHUR B. BURRELL, PhD '31, Plant Pathology, has found that the borax which causes sterility of far western soils now promises to aid apple orchards in the East. Boron in borax injures citrus and walnut groves, but Professor Burrell reports that borax put on the soil of apple orchards in the spring prevents ninety-nine percent of two serious apple blights, cork and drought spots. Applications must be made under the guidance of a plant pathologist, for over-dosage is as bad as deficiency.

NECROLOGY

'94 ME—PERCY ARTHUR ROBBINS, April 24, 1938, at his home in Highland Park, Ill. He was president of the Arctic Circle Exploration, Inc., a mining company at Candle, Alaska, and past president of the Adventurers Club. Fifteen members of the Faculty were promoted to professorships. In Agriculture they are Herman J. Brueckner, PhD '31, Dairy Industry, Extension, Arthur B. Burrell, PhD '31, Plant Pathology, Leonard S. Cottrell, Jr., Rural Social Organization, Burton A. Jennings '18, Agricultural Engineering, Extension, Guy F. MacLeod, PhD '30, Economic Entomology, Lowell F. Randolph, PhD '21, Botany, Research, Ora Smith, Vegetable Crops, and Frederick Z. Hartzell, AM '09, Entomology and Chief in Research at the Geneva Experiment Station; in Arts and Sciences, Ralph P. Agnew, PhD '30, Mathematics, Jacob R. Collins, Physics, and James Hutton '24, Classics; in Home Economics, Carrie C. Williams, Extension Service; in Veterinary, Myron G. Fincher '20, Veterinary Obstetrics, Herbert L. Gilman '17, Veterinary Medicine, Research, and Hadley C. Stephenson '14, Materia Medica.

Promoted to assistant professorships were Damon Boynton '31, Pomology, William M. Curtiss, PhD '36, Farm Management, James L. Hoard, Chemistry, Thomas N. Hurd, PhD '36, Marketing, Charles W. Jones, PhD '32, English, Louis G. Parratt, Physics, Claude M. Pendleton '18, Civil Engineering, Blanchard L. Rideout, PhD '36, Romance Languages, Heinrich Schneider, German, Cyril W. Terry '24, Automotive Engineering, Frederick O. Waage, History of Art and Archeology, Robert J. Walker, Mathematics, Ellis F. Wallihan, Grad, Forestry, and Charles C. Winding, Chemical Engineering.

Raymond F. Howes '24 was appointed assistant to the Dean of Engineering. For two years he has been with the Cornellian Council, and for ten years previously was assistant professor of English and director of the news bureau at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. Dr. Robert W. Shaw, PhD '34, instructor in Physics and Astronomy, has been appointed field director of the Fuertes Astronomical Observatory.

PHILADELPHIA ELECTS

Robert B. Patch '22 was elected president of the Cornell Club of Philadelphia at the annual meeting April 27. He succeeds Otto V. Kruse '09, for whose leadership in the last two years the Club extended a vote of appreciation. Frank L. O'Brien, Jr. '31 is the new secretary, succeeding Patch. Charles L. Macbeth '28 was elected vice-president, Stanley O. Law '17, treasurer, and Charles B. Howland '26, athletic director.

Other members of the board of directors are Francis O. Affeld III '26, Walter W. Buckley '26, John S. Fair '28, Seymour W. Ferris '21, Robert P. Liversidge '31, Morris D. Van Patten '29, Willson H. Patterson '09, and M. Yetter Schock '29.

INSTALL ARIZONA HEAD

Dr. Alfred Atkinson, MSA '12, was formally inaugurated president of the University of Arizona in Tucson, April 12. Present at the ceremonies were the presidents of twelve other universities, five former presidents of the University of Arizona, the governor and other State officials, and 300 delegates from other institutions and learned societies. Cornell's official delegate was Dr. Bert S. Butler '05 of the Arizona faculty, and Dr. Robert L. Nugent, PhD '28, was a marshall in the academic procession. Dr. Paul S. Burgess, Grad '31, who preceded Dr. Atkinson as president and has now resumed his former position as dean of the college of agriculture, was seated on the platform with other former presidents of the institution. These are three of the seventeen Cornellians who are members of the University of Arizona.

Dr. Atkinson has been president at Arizona since last September 1, when he was called from the presidency of Montana State College. He attended Ontario Agricultural College three years and received the BS at Iowa State College in 1904; had been president at Montana since 1919 and before that for thirteen years professor of agronomy. He was last year president of the Association of Land Grant Colleges, is a member of Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Kappa Phi, Sigma Xi, Gamma Sigma Delta, Alpha Zeta, and is this year vice-president of the Cornell Club of Tucson.

Concerning THE ALUMNI

Personal items and newspaper clippings about all Cornellians are earnestly solicited.

'94 LLB—Myron C. Taylor has been appointed by President Roosevelt as United States representative on the International Committee for Facilitating the Emigration of Austrian and German Political Refugees. The post will bring him in contact with representatives of thirty-two nations, cooperating in the plan recently proposed by the United States to help refugees of all faiths find a haven in countries where they can establish new homes. Of thirty-three nations invited to participate in the work, only one, Italy, refused.

'95, '96 BS—Jay A. Bonsteel is an associate information specialist for the Soil Conservation Service, now located at Williamsport, Pa., where he lives at 1188 Park Avenue.

'97 BSA—The Reverend William C. Bell and Mrs. Bell live at 665 Mayflower Road, Claremont, Cal. Since his retirement from active missionary duties, Dr. Bell has traveled widely in the United States on behalf of progressive missionary work. Immediately after his graduation he and Mrs. Bell went to Africa as missionaries. In his own account, "They experienced the beginning of Christian villages from the ground up, building their own houses and living largely from the products of their own gardens until advanced methods were introduced among the natives. Agricultural and industrial methods were taught in the regular school established. From a period of slavery, civilization has advanced to native-owned homes, fields, and herds of improved stock. Angola being a Portuguese province, all school work must be in that language and the advanced young men, on completing their school and vocational activities, are accepted as Portuguese citizens with power to vote."

'98 AB—The American Newspaper Publishers Association passed resolutions in its annual convention which praised Frank E. Gannett, chairman of the national committee to uphold constitutional government, for resistance to "illegal demands" of the Senate lobby committee, and commended "Mr. Gannett and all other citizens who have resisted or do resist the attempted violation of their rights in such a lawless inquisition."

'01 AB—Marcus J. Gilliam writes that he is much gratified by the successful use of the Waring 3-3-2 Plan in the grammar school of which he is principal. He feels that it is an achievement in which his Classmates might be interested. He is principal of Waring School in St. Louis, Mo., which has two buildings, eleven portables, twenty-six teachers, and 1400 pupils. More than fifty per cent of the families are on relief and in only two of the families are the mother and father both university graduates. It is in a rooming house district among a low economic group. All intelligence tests given put the school in the lower normal group. But under all of these handicaps, the Waring School has for the past five years measured up to or above the standard norms on the basis of standardized tests. The Waring 3-3-2 Plan is held responsible. Under this Plan no child is admitted to the first grade from kindergarten until he is at least six-and-a-half years of age mentally. Children are taught by the same teacher throughout the first, second, and third grades, by another teacher through fourth, fifth, and sixth, and by another through seventh and eighth. "No claim is made for the final solution of slow children, but it is working at the Waring School and giving the best results of any plan so far tried."

'03 LLB—Arthur H. Smith is with Baker, Voorhis & Company, 119 Fulton Street, New York City.

'04 AB—George Jean Nathan is president of the New York Drama Critics Circle which April 18 designated John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" as the best American play of the current season and Paul Vincent Carroll's "Shadow and Substance" as the best theatrical importation of the year. The awards were made April 24 by Nathan at a dinner, from which a scene from "Of Mice and Men" was broadcast.

'04 ME—William B. Gillies, vice-president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, Youngstown, Ohio, will speak on "Promoting Demand Through Improving Quality," at the commercial session of the general meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, May 26, at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City.

'04 LLB—William F. Bleakley, Republican candidate for governor of New York State in 1936, accepted April 21 the recommendation of the executive committee of the Westchester County Republican Committee as candidate next November for the new office of county president, and, in a statement immediately following, disavowed all intent of seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination again this fall. He said, "I have not sought, nor am I seeking, the Republican nomination for Governor of the State of New York, and if I am selected by the Republicans of Westchester County for the office of County President, I will accept it." The Herald Tribune comments, "Although certification of the executive committee's recommendation is required at a meeting of the full committee in June, and primaries and the election in November lie ahead, it was conceded that in a county so predominantly Republican as Westchester, today's action was tantamount to election."

'05 CE—Mrs. Morgan Barney (Nora Stanton Blatch) '05, a civil engineer and architect, and her daughter, Harriet deForest Allaben, a painter, both of Greenwich, Conn., held a ten-day joint exhibition of photos and paintings in the Greenwich Library, concluded April 25.

'06 MD—Dr. Aaron Brown practices at 39 West Fifty-fifth Street, New York City. His home is at 14 Earl Street, Floral Park.

'08 LLB—Sidney M. Gottesman, assistant district attorney of Brooklyn, spoke at the borough's Americanization Day, held April 26 under the sponsorship of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

'09 BSA—Stephen F. Willard is in the retail seed business in Wollaston, Mass., where he lives at 17 Cheriton Road. He is married and has two daughters, one a junior at Massachusetts State College, the other a sophomore at the Connecticut College for Women.

'09 CE—John R. Haswell is professor of agricultural engineering at Pennsylvania State College. He is chairman of the extension committee of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers and has represented that society for a number of years on the advisory council of the Federal Board of Surveys and Maps. He lives at The Orlando, State College, Pa.

'10 LLB—Kenneth C. Newman has been appointed acting village judge of Cedarhurst. He is the father of Annette V. Newman '38 and Dorothy R. Newman '41. His business address is 12 East Forty-first Street, New York City.

'10—Edward Klauber sailed April 27 on the Queen Mary for Southampton.

'11—Under the heading "Paul Shields Represents New Reform Element in Wall Street," Lemuel F. Parton tells in the April 22 New York Sun of the revolt against the conservatives in the Stock Exchange. "The leaders of the reformers are accused of over-exertion in getting themselves 'wired in' with powerful political forces. But Wall Street, jolted by l'affaire Whitney and the laws of economic gravity, wanting friends and customers, and reform, regardless of its political affiliation, goes ahead under full steam. The reform forces are personalized in tall, bronzed, energetic, shock-haired Paul V. Shields ['11], a comparatively new and fast comer in the Street, forty-eight years old, but listed with the up-and-coming 'younger element.' For five years he has been regarded as the principal driving force behind the renovators. He is said to be in high standing with the administration and the SEC, and that burns up some of the old guard, who always find somebody ringing a burglar alarm when they go to Washington. Last week the Exchange nominating committee dropped all the old guard and included Mr. Shields on its ticket as nominee for the board of governors for a two-year term, as a non-member, but firm-partner governor. A native of St. Paul, Mr. Shields attended Cornell University, sold real estate at Floral Park, served as an Ensign in naval aviation in the World War, worked for Merrill, Lynch in the brokerage business in Chicago, and founded his present firm, Shields & Company, in 1923."

'11 LLB—Harold L. Cross, counsel of the New York Herald Tribune, spoke at a meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors April 22, telling editors why he thought they had "irate subscribers" and what he felt they should do about them. He stressed that many readers think that newspapers fail to present both sides of controversial issues. He said, however, that newspapers need "irate subscribers" as "proof that you're being read," that newspapers were "independent" and sometimes wrong.

'12 AB—Gustav Egloff and his associates made a report to the American Chemical Society recently that a yellow "London" fog would fill American cities if all the country's 30,000,000 motor cars were altered to run with Diesel engines. The fog would be fine oil droplets. They would come from the exhausts because of today's Diesels' habit of occasionally "sneezing" some burned oil. "I have driven behind the Diesel trucks in Europe," Dr. Egloff said, "and seen the exhaust clouds. One of them would fill half a good-sized room. It is yellow and thick as a London fog." There is no question, according to the report, that for heavy duty motors and trains Diesel engines are more efficient than gasoline. But it will be a long time, if ever, until the petroleum industry changes over to making nothing but Diesel fuel. The Diesel efficiency comes from the fact that about fifty per cent of the heat produced in the burning fuel goes into driving the engine. In the ordinary motor car only about twenty-five per cent of the gasoline is used. The seventy-five per cent is wasted. But, the report declared, the new airplane gasoline, which was first developed for the United States Army three years ago, has reached a heat efficiency equal to Diesel oils.

'12, '13 BSA—George W. Kuchler of LaGrangeville writes, "Just think—I have three at Cornell at once, George H. '39, assistant manager of the Student Agencies, Alfred C. '39, wrestling squad, and Grace M. '41, who does not isolate her efforts—basketball, soccer, and all."

'12—Lessing J. Rosenwald, chairman of the board of Sears Roebuck and Company, said at the annual meeting that the company's sales in four weeks ended April 23 were estimated from eight to nine per cent less than in the same period last year. No salary or wage cuts have been made yet. "We may have to do it," Rosenwald said, "but we are in a good position to wait some time until we can see the business trend more clearly. We have reduced forces in some cities like the automobile towns where business has been poor."

'12 BArch—Daniel D. Merrill is engaged to Annette Remer of New York City. Miss Remer is a buyer for Bonwit Teller. Merrill practices architecture at 11 East Forty-fourth Street, New York City.

'13 AB, '25 PhD—Julian D. Corrington is professor of biology at Washington University, Chestertown, Md.

'13 BS, '23 MSA—Wesley H. Bronson is a statistician for the New England Milk Products N. E. Dairies, Inc. He is married; lives at 22 Ivy Road, Belmont, Mass.

'14 CE—Thorp D. Sawyer is with the Pato Consolidated Gold Dredging Company, Ltd., Pato, Columbia, S. A.

A CORNELL INSTITUTION

Sheldon Court was built as a dormitory for Cornell students by the late Charles L. Sheldon of Auburn. The father of three Cornellians, he is the donor of the beautiful Sheldon exedra which stands to the south of Goldwin Smith Hall.

Since it was first opened in 1903, Sheldon Court has been preferred as a place to live by a succession of distinguished Cornellians. Henry Morgenthau, Jr. '13, Secretary of the Treasury, lived here as a student, as did Hendrik Willem Van Loon '05, George C. Boldt, Jr. '05, Leonard Wood, Jr. '19, Edward L. Bernays '12, and a host of others who have become famous.

Through the years—all under the same management—we have had the sons and other relatives and many friends of our former tenants come to live with us.

Rooms and suites are all completely furnished, with prices reasonable and a range of location and size to suit every requirement. Reservations are now being made for the school year 1938-39. Complete information and room diagram will be mailed promptly on request.
