MEDICAL COMMENCEMENT First Honors To Almy '35

President Day conferred the degree of Doctor of Medicine upon sixty-three graduates at the forty-first Commencement of the Medical College, held June 7 in the auditorium of the College in New York City.

Commencement address was by Major General Charles R. Reynolds, retiring surgeon-general of the United States Army. He discussed socialization of medical care, saying that in the controversy over the question he sees "not the retrogression of the medical profession, but recognition by the public of the collective value of medicine, both curative and preventive, and the realization that after all medicine is one of the most important factors in human welfare." He maintained that "doctors and not politicians should be the leaders in socialization of medicine," and that socialization should "leave medicine a profession rather than a trade."

Dr. William S. Ladd, Dean of the College, administered the Oath of Hippocrates to the graduates, and Lieutenant Colonel William C. Munley, M.C., U. S. Army, conferred commissions as first lieutenants in the Medical Reserve Corps upon fourteen men.

Dr. Ladd awarded the two highest honors of the College to Thomas P. Almy '35 of Redding, Conn., the first John Metcalfe Polk Prize for general efficiency and highest standing through the four years, and the first William Mecklenburg Polk Prize for general efficiency in gynecology. Dr. Almy, who is the son of the late Don R. Almy '97, received the AB "With Honors" in 1935; held an Undergraduate Scholarship, was a member of the Musical Clubs, president of Skulls, and elected to Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. At the end of his second year in the Medical College he won the John Metcalfe Polk Scholarship; is a member of Nu Sigma Nu, and was elected to Alpha Omega Alpha, Medical honor society. He has been appointed interne at The New York Hospital.

Ralph R. Tompsett '34 received the second John Metcalfe Polk Prize and first prize for efficiency in obstetrics. Other honor awards were third John Metcalfe Polk Prize for general efficiency, to Sarah E. Flanders; John H. Mayer '36 and Augustus W. Sainsbury, for efficiency in gynecology; William G. Woodin '36 and Melva A. Clark, for efficiency in otology; Joseph D. Sullivan, for efficiency in obstetrics; Herman L. Jacobius, a prize in memory of Alfred Moritz Michaelis '25, for efficiency in general medicine.

This year's graduates of the Medical College had received first degrees from twenty-eight colleges and universities besides Cornell. In addition to the four named above, the others who took first degrees at Cornell are:

PENN STATE OFFICERS

Seventy-four Cornellians and wives and husbands of State College, Pa., and vicinity attended the annual dinner of the Penn State Cornell Club, April 22. Speakers from Ithaca were Professor Charles L. Durham '99, Latin, and Walter C. Heasley, Jr. '30, executive secretary of the Cornelian Council. Among the guests was Professor Rasmus S. Saby, Grad '08-'09, head of the department of political science at Gettysburg College.

Professor John R. Haswell '09 of Penn State was elected president, succeeding Charles J. Rowland '17, who presided; and Mrs. Arthur W. Cowell (Harriet S. Lyndon) '06 was re-elected secretary.

LAW SCHOOL GETS PORTRAITS

AWARD 47 LAW DEGREES Taylors Present Portraits

President Edmund E. Day conferred the degree of LLB upon forty-seven graduates at the fifty-second Commencement of the Law School, in the moot court room of Myron Taylor Hall, June 1. Dean Robert S. Stevens presented the candidates and said it is the purpose of the Law School "not to turn out pettifoggers," but in the words of Andrew D. White, to keep "instruction strong and standards high"—to make "lawyers in the best sense; a blessing to the country." He noted that "the lag of the law, its traditional conservatism, is often a source of popular dissatisfaction. But the teaching of law in modern schools is changing this. It will be your responsibility to keep law up-to-date, with an ambition for service, not for power."

Arthur E. Sutherland, Jr., Rochester attorney, graduate of Harvard Law School, and former secretary to Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes of the United States Supreme Court, congratulated the graduates upon completion of their courses and welcomed them to "the craft." He pointed out some of the dangers and responsibilities of the profession, and said, "The rewards in money will be somewhat slight, but the true greatness of a lawyer is not measured by the size of his fees. . . . Much of the lawyer's life is fun, and time cannot wither nor custom stale the pursuits of the law."

Suprise feature of the Commencement exercises was the unveiling of portraits of Judge Frank H. Hiscock '75 and Chief Justice Hughes by Dean Stevens, and presentation of them to the University through President Day. They will be hung in the reading room of the Law School library, the gift of Myron C. Taylor '94 and Mrs. Taylor, who had intended to present them personally but were prevented by Taylor's illness in a New York City hospital. They were painted by the English artist, Frank O. Salisbury.

"For some time," Dean Stevens said, "it has been the desire of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor to enhance further the enduring interest and dignity of this building by placing within it portraits of two pre-eminent judges, both of whom have been associated with this Law School. It is the desire of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor not only to honor these distinguished lawyers, but by so doing to give generations of students to come the inspiration of the notable careers of these two men."

Directing attention to the painting of Judge Hiscock, he described it as "a portrait of one whose judicial career covers a span of thirty years and culminated in ten years as Chief Judge of our Court of Appeals. A graduate of this University, he has given it almost a lifetime of service, becoming a member of its Board of Trustees fourteen years after his graduation and holding the office of chairman of the Board for twenty-two years. Esteemed and revered by all, he is held especially close by all who have shared his association with this University."

H. Edward Babcock, acting chairman of the Board of Trustees, presided at the exercises. Judge Hiscock was on the "bench" of the moot court room, with the Commencement speakers, as he has been for every Law School Commencement in Myron Taylor Hall since he presided at the dedication of the building by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, its donors. The audience of approximately 350 members of the Faculty, Seniors, and friends, included Judge Hiscock's three children and their families.

Of this year's Law School graduates, twenty-seven received first degrees at Cornell; the others from fifteen other colleges and universities. Award of the Carey Exhibition Prize for best performance in the comprehensive examination was to William T. Plumb, Jr. of Rochester, and others graduated "With Distinction" were Lester H. Chase of Massena, Peter Ward of Buffalo, and Henry H. Willmott of Watertown. Recipients of the LLB who took their first degrees at Cornell are:

Winston S. Ives '35, Louis J. Dughi '36, Nellie M. Gordon '36, Warren L. Kern '36, Ruth J. Rosenbaum '36, Elizabeth E. Scoville '36, William I. Stoddard '36, Charles M. Blunt '37, William J. Daetsch, Jr. '37, Thomas L. Driscoll, Jr. '37, Emanuel Duke '37, Alex. J. Gossin '37, Samuel Groner '37, John E. Holt-Harris, Jr. '37, Walter E. Hopper, Jr. '37, Charles S. Joelson '37, Grace H. Jones '37, Joseph J. Kelly '37, Ralph N. Kleps '37, Joseph M. Mandel '37, Charles J. Mistretta '37, Alvin E. Moscovitz '37, Eleanor C. Raynor '37, Howard W. Robison '37, Manfred Rosenheck '37, Alfred M. Slawson '37, Bertram Ziff '37.

BOSTON WOMEN ELECT

Cornell Women's Club of Boston held its annual luncheon meeting May 13 at the home of Mrs. C. A. Holcomb (Edith L. Warren) '20 in Reading, Mass. Traditionally, the May meeting is a garden party, but cold weather changed this one to a fireside session.

Officers elected for the year 1939-40 are: president, Mrs. James B. Palmer

(Martha L. Kinne) '24; first vice-president, Mrs. Clyde J. Heathe (Betty Lowndes) '33; second vice-president, Mrs. Samuel S. Evans (Ella Behrer) '27; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Clarence S. Luitwieler (Sally Holcomb) '27; member of executive board, Mrs. L. C. Graton (Josephine Bowman) '00.

DREAMS OF YOUTH

Dreams of Youth. By Philip Freund '29. New York. 1938. Pilgrim House. 234 pages. $2.

Charles Salabes, "Revolutionary artist," came to Ithaca to lecture, fresh from the revolution in China. He remained to rest, and to begin his novel, Dreams of Youth, which he was never to finish. It became the story of Simon Morris, Paul Kaufman, and Esther Rubin, who were students together at Cornell. The lives of these and of others whom they touch develop in rapid incident the characters of Freund's story.

When Salabes, flying a bombing plane for the Spanish Loyalists, crashed near Aragon, he left directions that the notes for his novel be sent to Paul Kaufman.

Again, as in his previous books, Philip Freund demonstrates his remarkable facility for characterization. His people are alive, and usually interesting.

THE CORNELLIAN, 1939

The 1939 Cornellian. Douglas B. Blackburn '39 of Park Ridge, N. J., editor-in-chief; John Ogden '39 of Milwaukee, Wis., business manager. Ithaca, N. Y. The Cornell Annuals, Inc. 470 pages. $9.

This seventy-first volume of The Annuals is dedicated to Coach John F. Moakley. It contains his photograph, likewise a tribute to Governor Herbert H. Lehman and picture of him, and several of President Day and a message from him to the Class of '39.

Innovation this year is the arrangement of Senior pictures and records by Colleges of the University. Each College section is introduced with several informal pictures of its Dean, then individual studio portraits of the professors of its Faculty, interspersed with typical pictures of buildings and activities, and these are followed by the separate Senior pictures and records of activities.

Also new this year is a "Beauty Section" of thirteen Senior women, whose photographs were selected by George B. Petty, Esquire artist. Four pages of "Big Men on the Hill" contain pictures of thirty-seven Campus leaders, and the section "Cornell Life" is a pictorial record of the year's events. The book also contains, of course, the usual pictures and records of the year's athletic events and teams, of publications, fraternities, sororities, and all other Campus organizations. "Class History" is by Daniel W. Kops of New York City, former Sun editor; and the "Womens' Class History," by Ella H. Thompson of Vincentown, N. J., former womens' editor of the Sun.

Endpapers and section dividers are photographs of student activities and Campus scenes, printed on heavy paper and varnished. The book is printed in green, brown, and black, and is bound in an embossed fabrikoid cover of brown and gold.

LIFE IN VERSE

So Brief a Span. By Lewette Pollock Pierce '14. New York City. Henry Harrison. 1938. 64 pages. $1.50.

About a hundred poems are here collected; some serious, some humorous, and most of them brief. Many have appeared in Ted Robinson's column, "Philosopher of Folly," in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The book has received praise from Louis Bromfield '18, and from Louis Untermeyer. Professor Lane Cooper, English, writes: "At their best the poems seem to me to be far above the level of what I generally find in recent American books of poetry. It is always a great pleasure to me when any of my former pupils turn poets, and the more when their poetry can give me genuine and repeated satisfaction."

In a sense, the book celebrates Mrs. Pierce's twenty-five-year Reunion, for which she will be in Ithaca this June. It covers the years since she was graduated, and is dedicated

To years that passing swiftly as a look
Gave me the motley substance for this

Mrs. Pierce lives in Cleveland, where her husband, Edwin G. Pierce, is head of the department of industrial chemistry at East Technical High School. She has been a reporter for The Cleveland Press, has taught school, done free lance writing in Cleveland and New York City, and was for a time an associate editor of The Eagle Magazine in South Bend, Ind.

ARCHITECTS WIN PRIZES

Among prize-winning designs for small garden homes for different sections of the country recently exhibited at Wanamaker's in New York City were two by recent graduates of the College of Architecture. A home for the Northeast is the work of William W. Carver, who received the BArch in 1936; one for the Middle West is by Henry E. Hebbeln, BArch '37. The contest was sponsored by Free America, the Homeland Foundation, the Independence Foundation, and the School of Living, for prizes of $100.

Carver is the son of Professor Walter B. Carver, Mathematics. He has worked with Carl C. Tallman '07 in Ithaca, and last winter was with the studios of Norman Bel Geddes in New York City, engaged in work for the New York World's Fair.

Hebbeln is studying on a scholarship at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Last winter he won honorable mention and a prize of $100 for his design for a theater and fine arts building in a national competition sponsored by the American National Theatre and Academy.

PITTSBURGH WOMEN ELECT

Cornell Women's Club of Pittsburgh has elected as president for the new year Mrs. Sol I. Lasner (Norene Fischer) '36. Vice-president is Mrs. H. J. Spear (Helen M. Sharrett) '20; secretary, Frances Lauman '35; treasurer, Claire Hagmaier '26.

FRATERNITY CHAMPIONS

With the closing of the spring intramural sports season, Alpha Chi Rho won the championship cup with a total of 40 points amassed by its teams during a year which offered competition in twenty-three sports. Sigma Nu was second, with 31 points, followed by Alpha Psi, Kappa Sigma, Alpha Delta Phi, and Chi Psi, in that order.

Coach Nicholas Bawlf, supervisor of intramural sports, estimates that approximately 2,000 men have participated in organized play this spring, as members of some 300 teams in eight sports, besides those of the fall and winter. Interest, he says, is steadily increasing.

Cups to their houses and individual medals to members of the teams went to Alpha Chi Rho as winners of the softball championship against eighty-one teams and of the tennis championship against forty teams. Sigma Nu won the rowing championship in a field of thirty-two four-oared shells, and the track championship, with sixteen teams competing. Other winners in spring sports are Alpha Psi, baseball, ten teams; Lambda Chi Alpha, bowling, thirty-two teams; Alpha Delta Phi, golf, thirty-six teams; and Kappa Sigma, table tennis, forty-eight teams. In addition, there were competitions among non-fraternity teams in baseball, softball, tennis, and rowing, and in these sports and others among teams representing the various church denominations.

Intramural Athletic Association has elected as president for next year Francis C. Everts '40 of Glens Falls; first vice-president, Robert T. Schuyler '40 of Middletown; second vice-president, Alvin P. Shapiro '41 of Staten Island; secretary, William C. Houck '40 of Niagara Falls, Can.; and Bawlf as treasurer.

"THE CARDIFF GIANT"—A CRITIQUE

By Henry A. Myers, PhD '33, Assistant Professor of English

Although the stone giant dug up at Cardiff in 1869 sadly troubled the experts of the time, the present reviewer can without fear pronounce "The Cardiff Giant" genuine as drama. Still rough-hewn, it is the best specimen yet taken from the native soil. Its success is a reward not only to the authors, Professor Drummond and Robert Gard, but also to the University Theatre and the Rockefeller Foundation, joint sponsors of a New York State play project.

The demand for native drama, for a common effort to enrich the present by drawing upon the history and legends of the past, for an art to stress the significance of community life, owes much to the success of "The Lost Colony," Paul Green's dramatization of the settlement of Roanoke Island. Those who have heard Mr. Green explain his artistic aims have felt that his is the most stimulating idea in modern drama. Yet "The Lost Colony" threatened to set the fashion for a long series of heavy pageants done in the grand manner; for only Green's poetry saves Queen Elizabeth, Sir Walter Raleigh, William Shakespeare, and great historical events from mere conventional importance.

"The Cardiff Giant" should prevent native drama from becoming a dull and dutiful ritual. In place of Elizabeth, Raleigh, and Shakespeare, its authors have given us David Harum, P. T. Barnum, and Robert Ingersoll. In turning to a seemingly slighter subject they have lost nothing in profundity, for at every point they have let the spirit of comedy bring out more sharply the fascinating shadows of a superb story. They have avoided adding poetry to the story and succeeded in revealing the poetry that is in it.

"The Cardiff Giant" will long serve as a model for advocates of native drama. It deserves, however, to be judged in the larger category of true comedy. In keeping with the homely simplicity of central New York in 1869, the authors see themselves as putting on a show rather than as presenting a play. They have done both. Rich as "The Cardiff Giant" is in the spectacle, excitement, and incidents that make a good show, it is fully as charged with the significance that makes a good play. The chorus of school-girls, the canal men, the board of State experts, the showmen and farmers are the very stuff of which laughter is made, but in the laughter and behind it is the revelation of the human spirit through the medium of language.

It is significant that the great comic dramatists—Terence, Congreve, Molière—are masters of conversational language. Their own simple diction reveals, as nothing else could, that words in the mouths of fools are like drums, empty and resounding. The authors of "The Cardiff Giant" have triumphed by their fidelity to a homely, native diction and provided thereby a setting for the rhetorical eloquence of the nineteenth-century poet and the grandiloquent emptiness of the eternal pundit. As a criticism of language in the best comic tradition the play is a distinguished addition to contemporary drama and should serve, one hopes, as an antidote to the learned jargons of 1939.

But the glory of good comedy lies in taking us from speech to the speakers and in teaching us to know a fool when we see one—with or without the use of a mirror. "The Cardiff Giant," based on the story of sharpers and their dupes, clearly outlines the mechanics of human folly and cuts deep into the quick of unchanging human nature.

Again June 15, 16, and 17 in the Willard Straight Theater, the Dramatic Club will enact the famous hoax of up-State New York. The show, written by Professor Alex M. Drummond and Robert E. Gard, AM '38, as part of a project for native plays of New York State sponsored by the University Theatre and the Rockefeller Foundation, amused and received the praise of capacity audiences when presented for Spring Day and the week before.

One suspects that the very heart of dramatic talent is the ability to recognize a good story and bring out clearly everything latent in it. The story of the stone man found at Cardiff is one of the best, and yet it has one flaw as a plot. As everyone knows, a good story has a clear beginning, middle, and end. The hoax had a clear beginning in the hatching of the scheme and an uproarious middle in the carrying out of the deception, but it lacked in fact a clearly marked ending. The affair never did come sharply to an end. This defect of the story itself still lingered in the first performance (May 20, 1939). The second half of the play suffered from the lack of a clearly foreshadowed conclusion. The authors, who on May 20 were without benefit of the trial performances necessary to the creation of a good play, have had further opportunity to improve upon history and legend.

PRESIDENT of the Women's Athletic Association for next year is Betty L. Huber '40 of Manhasset. She is an expert sailor and a member of the women's rifle and hockey teams.

About ATHLETICS

BASEBALL STATISTICS

With one game to play, George F. Polzer, Jr. '40 of Staten Island is leading the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League race for the Charles H. Blair '97 bat.

Hill of Princeton, tied with Polzer for the lead last week, dropped to a third-place tie with Charles S. Bowen '40 of Binghamton, each with a batting average of .429. Polzer's mark is .452, twenty points ahead of Harvard's Lupien, last year's Blair bat winner.

Polzer has collected 19 hits in 42 times at bat, scoring 10 runs and driving in 12.

Kenneth G. Brown '40 of Millerton is in an eighth-place tie with Ogden of Pennsylvania with a mark of .357.

Other Cornell averages: Michael J. Ruddy '41 of Alden, Pa., .257; Walter J. Matuszczak '41 of Lowville, .257; William C. Mogk, Jr. '40 of Brooklyn, .256; Walter Scholl '41 of Port Richmond, .250.

In team batting Cornell is second to Dartmouth, .278 to .282. Cornell, however, leads the League in team fielding with a mark of .955.

Cornell also tops the pitching list, with James A. Young '40 of Cherry Creek undefeated in three games and Walter J. Sickles '41 of Pearl River with a record of six victories and one defeat.

Miscellaneous records held by Cornell: Leader in total bases, Polzer, with 27 (14 singles, 3 doubles, 1 triple, 1 home run); most home runs, Ruddy, 2; most strikeouts, Sickles, 42.

Members of the team, which will close its season against Dartmouth at Hanover this Saturday, were guests of a group of Ithaca fans at dinner at Zinck's last Saturday.

James Lynah '05, Director of Physical Education and Athletics, announced recently that Varsity and Freshman players who desire to play summer baseball must get official permission. They are required to give the name of the organization with which the player will be connected, the character of competition, the compensation to be derived, and other pertinent information for the guidance of the committee on eligibility.

Lynah quoted from eligibility rules as follows:

"General requirements: No person shall represent Cornell University in intercollegiate athletic competition. . . .

"P 7: If he takes part at any time in an athletic contest at which admission is charged directly or otherwise, except as a member of a school or college team, without first securing approval for such participation from the committee on eligibility.

"(The committee reserves authority to grant permission in advance to a student to engage in athletics, whether during term time or vacation, as a representative of an organization not connected with the University, under such conditions, not at variance with the spirit of the rule, as it may approve. It may also, after the fact, decide cases involving unintentional, technical, or trivial violations of the foregoing rules.)"

SPRING SPORTS RECORD

With three baseball games and the Poughkeepsie regatta left on the schedule, Cornell Varsity teams have turned in thirty-one victories in spring sports.

Notable were the Heptagonal Games victory of the track team, three crew victories in dual, triangular, and quadrangular competition, the nine-straight winning streak of the baseball team for at least a share of the Eastern Intercollegiate League title, and eleven victories by the tennis team.

The dual competition record:

	Won	Lost
Baseball	11	8
Tennis	11	5
Track	2	0
Golf	2	6
Crew (against Navy)	1	0
Lacrosse (one tie game)	1	5

The track team also placed sixth in the ICAAAA games.

The Junior Varsity crew won one and placed second in three races.

The 150-pound Varsity crew won two races, placed second once, and third once.

In Freshman competition, outstanding were the unbeaten records of the regular and 150-pound crews. The Freshmen won four races, the lightweights three.

In dual competition the Freshman record was:

	Won	Lost
Tennis	4	1

The Freshman track team also defeated Syracuse and Colgate in a triangular meet.

CORNELL HAMPER'S HARVARD

Harvard Alumni Bulletin for June 2 recalls that in no one of the twenty years since the World War has Harvard defeated Yale in all five of the "traditional major sports: football, hockey, track, baseball, and rowing." It points out, however, that this year for the first time since 1922 Harvard comes into June having beaten Yale in football, hockey, and track; says, "The class of 1939 has made an enviable record in athletics; a bouquet of five victories as a going-away present to the College would be a singularly graceful farewell gesture." The Bulletin continues:

Cornell has been the greatest obstacle Harvard has thus far met in athletics this spring. Harvard went to New Haven on May 20 the favorite for first place in the heptagonal track and field meet, but the Ithaca team "nosed out" the Crimson by half a point. Then, on May 24, the Cornell nine beat Harvard and took away the last chance Captain Johns's players had of winning the championship of the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League. And finally, last Saturday, Cornell gave the Harvard varsity crew its first set-back in two years. These results were far from pleasing, but, if we must be beaten, defeats at the hands of Cornell are quite as acceptable as they would be from any other source.

QUINN TO COACH BASEBALL

Appointment of Mose P. Quinn (right, above) as head coach of the Varsity baseball team, effective July 1, 1939, has been announced by the Department of Physical Education and Athletics. He will succeed James M. Tatum (left, above) who has resigned to return to University of North Carolina as director of freshman athletics and freshman baseball coach. Tatum succeeded Paul W. Eckley '17 as head coach of baseball in 1937.

Quinn came to Ithaca in September, 1936, as assistant football coach. For three years he had been coach of freshman athletics at Bucknell, where he received the AB in 1929. During his three years here he has been Freshman football and basketball coach, and until this year was also Freshman baseball coach. At Bucknell he played football under Carl Snively, was a catcher and first baseman on the baseball team, and a basketball forward. He has also played semi-professional baseball; has been assisting Tatum with the Varsity team since the close of spring football practice.

ELECT CAPTAINS

Walter W. Zittel, Jr. '40 of Buffalo, sprinter and hurdler, was elected track captain to succeed William W. McKeever '39 of Wayne, Pa., hammer thrower. Spiked Shoe, track honor society, elected Emery G. Wingerter '40 of Red Bank, N. J., its president.

Kennedy Randall, Jr. '41 of Staten Island was elected tennis captain, succeeding Edward D. Devine, Jr. '39 of Detroit, Mich. Randall was the No. 1 singles player on this year's team.

Lacrosse co-captains are Robert D. Brennan '40 of Geneva and Robert L. Case '40 of Rochester.

ODDS AND ENDS

John T. McGovern '00 has been elected a vice-president of the Eastern Rugby Union, with George R. Pfann '24 joining the board of governors. Cornell was recently admitted to membership.

J. Russell Murphy, who will join the football coaching staff next fall, was guest of honor at a testimonial dinner at Mansfield, Ohio, recently. He was given a wrist watch and a scroll. Murphy has coached in Mansfield public schools for fourteen years.

ROCKWELL '13 IN LINCOLN

Speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Cornell Club of Lincoln, Nebr., May 26 in the Student Union at the University of Nebraska, was George H. Rockwell '13, Alumni Trustee. He told of the new Alumni Association and of future plans for the University. Rockwell was introduced to the sixteen Cornellians present by Professor Roy C. Spencer '22, president of the Club.

ENGINEERING IN CHICAGO

Bancroft Gherardi '93, chairman of the committee on general administration of the Board of Trustees, Dean S. C. Hollister of the College of Engineering, and Provost H. W. Peters '14 described and explained the plans for the development of the Engineering College to 154 alumni at the annual dinner of the Cornell Club of Chicago, May 22. After the speeches and showing of the architects' drawings for new buildings, there was general discussion and questions and answers until late evening.

Toastmaster at the dinner was Colonel Robert I. Randolph '07. He was introduced by Frank J. Durham '16, president of the Chicago Club. Chairman of the dinner committee was B. Botsford Young '19.

NEW WESTCHESTER CLUB

Twenty-three alumnae attended the organization meeting of a new Cornell Women's Club of Westchester County, June 6 at the home of Mrs. R. H. Shreve (Ruth Bentley) '02, in Hastings-on-Hudson. A constitution was adopted and plans made for regular meetings, beginning next fall.

Officers elected for the new Club are Mary E. Dixon '38, president; Hannah M. Lyons '24, vice-president; Mrs. F. Philip Gross, Jr. (F. Hilda Clark) '22, secretary; Mrs. Frederick P. Kinne (Olive M. Monroe) '20, treasurer. Miss Lyons is the Club's official delegate to the annual meeting of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs in Ithaca June 16.

By Robert L. Bliss '30

June: month of brides and Reunions. Class costumes will cover every campus. Prophetically, Elizabeth Hawes, Manhattan designer of practical clothes for women and author of a book, Fashion Is Spinach, comes out with some ideas for the coming trend in men's gear. As if sensing that this week more sane American males would be harnessed and hog-tied into more darned festoons and furbelows of a foolish nature than you can shake a stick at, she bursts forth in print with her new book, Men Can Take It, in which she sets down some revolutionary ideas for making men comfortable when not naked.

So, if you see a woman busy with pad and pencil near your group back of South Baker or out at Glenwood—it's not a Federal Art project at work, but probably just an ambitious coutourier getting the lowdown on your Class committee's ideas of rowdy raiment for the roistering male.

Reunions and Walt Kuhn are synonymous. For that inveterate campaigner of the Class of 1912 has thought up and hatched more organized fun and deviltry of a conservative nature than any Class secretary we can name. Inventor of the "Dawn Barrage" (since outlawed), a pyrotechnic method of shattering early slumber and giving you "Ithaca nerves" during Senior Week, the able leader of the '12's was Jimmy de Griff's guardian angel during the terrestrial glory of the latter. He has authored ideas for endowing Class grandchildren, imported callopes, and persuaded a member of the Class who makes fire trucks in Elmira that they might as well come off the assembly line painted green and white, Class colors, and subsequently find their way to Ithaca for Class use for June week.

There are quarters in Ithaca where one mentions in a whisper the three barroom tenors he produced from the American Music Hall in New York several years ago, dressed them in garb of three Reunion Classes, and passed them right into the Musical Clubs Show as headliners. Former professors, under persuasion (and how Kuhn can cajole!), even remembered training the tender voices some twenty-odd years before. But it went too well, and Walt had to give it that final fillip that bursting the bubble would, and did.

There was one year when he threatened to take his whole Reunion to Geneva, when Joe Beacham wouldn't let them bring their fire truck into the Drill Hall. He's never forgiven Foster Coffin (a Classmate!) for backing up Joe in his stand. Says he thinks '12 men are getting too old for him—he's transferring ahead into '32 now.

The only real bad break he ever had in making Ithaca '12-conscious was the year he contracted with a human fly to climb the Library Tower. There was to have been a talk at the foot of the Tower before the assembled Class, relating to the diversity of occupation of Classmates since they had left Ithaca. Then one green-coated and white-knickered bystander was to step out from his fellows and shinny right up to the bells. He died two weeks before Reunion, and a New York lawyer that looks like Groucho Marx was inconsolable.

Terry McGovern thinks it's awfully nice of the baseball team to do so well in a year when his birthplace is being honored as the cradle of the national game. And while Cooperstown is getting its bunting out of mothballs, Charlie Blair is wondering how well that Princeton man is going to hit in the last two games of the season. If he's not too hot it looks as if the Cornell trophy room would wire Harvard to send down the Blair Bat. That trophy, a solid silver slugger of standard weight and size, goes each season for one year to the college who has the man with the highest batting average in the Eastern League. The player gets a replica, which makes up into a gold pencil. It looks right now as if our shortstop, Polzer, would bring home the bat.

SHOTS OF THE WEEK: Buck Stowell '07, back from Europe, swapping slants with Classmate Walt Wing. . . . Frederick L. Durland '89 back from Florida for his Fiftieth this week. . . . Charles S. Hammer of Hartford, also '89, making reservations for Ithaca. . . . Lots of visitors here for the Fair, all believing that gag about Grover Whalen employing five doubles so he can be everywhere at once. . . . The Club Entertainment Committee donning sackcloth and ashes on this Poughkeepsie situation: a wonderful crew, a good Saturday date, but no boat-ride. Everybody'll be at Reunion.

ROCHESTER HONORS

Cornell Club of Rochester was represented with a large delegation of members at a dinner given May 25 at the University of Rochester in honor of James E. Gleason '92, who was awarded the Civic Medal of the Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences. Mayor Samuel B. Dicker '11 presented the medal. Dr. Edward Bausch '75 was awarded a Fellowship by the Museum.

Ninety members attended a luncheon of the Club May 24, at which Frank E. Gannett '98 spoke on "The International Situation" and described his conferences with European statesmen during a recent trip abroad. He was introduced by William F. Strang '04, President Alfred M. Darlow '06 presiding.

NOW, IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

It's a fortunate thing that Alma Mater waits 'til June to push her young birds out of the nest, to recall her old broods. If Commencement and the Class Reunions came in March the composite Cornell memory would be vastly different from the present one which leads stout, middle-aged gentlemen, on six continents and the islands of the sea, to weep salt tears of pure sentimentality on starlit nights and to break softly into what they conceive to be the opening bars of "Give My Regards To Davy, Remember Me To Teefy Crane."

It's the memory of Ithaca in June (and at no other time) that makes men act that way occasionally in Zanzibar, Spokane (Wash.), Celebes, and East Fifty-seventh Street. Commencement prints the picture on the retina and the Class Reunions confirm it.

To produce this phenomenon Nature seems to provide a blessed anodyne—of a sort not unfamiliar to the obstetrician—which causes Cornell men to remember the Quadrangle and the Library Slope only in the phase when Central Avenue is an elm-shaded tunnel, when the after-glow glistens across the valley, when the little breezes that come up from the Lake are benign; a blessed anodyne which mercifully blots out all but the faintest recollection of November, December, January, February, March, April, and the first couple of weeks in May.

This is extremely important. If Commencement were held in March, the Ithaca memory would deal with frozen ears, numb fingers, the blasts that penetrated the windows of Mrs. Moon's boarding house, and the weekly bashing of one's skull on the icy flagstones of Buffalo Street hill. In such case, I am persuaded, Cornell graduates across the world would be more prosperous and efficient people, but there would be much less bad singing from the heart in Zanzibar and Celebes, and Provost Peters could transact all the business of his new department with no more equipment than a hurdy-gurdy, a monkey, and a tin cup.

The Quadrangle in June, the academic procession winding through the elm-arched avenues, the Library Slope in the twilight, remains a poignant picture even in the closed eyes of the drugged people who live in Ithaca all the time (or just around the corner of the Lake and over the shoulder of the sunset in the loyal Town of Ulysses).

We see the same picture you see but sometimes, perhaps, we see different figures in it.

The picture I see of Ithaca in June is of one academic procession when Bobby Thurston and Charles Mellen Tyler happened to march side by side—the Director of the Sibley College of Engineering and the Sage Professor of Christian Ethics. Both were old men with white hair, and both were resplendent in black silk gowns and the parrot colors of well-won academic honors.

But what made me tingle inside, as the pair smiled by our group, was the knowledge that the gallant little Dean of Sibley in his youth had been a Naval officer of parts and had fought in many actions under Farragut; that the serene Professor of Christian Ethics had once commanded a squadron of cavalry, under Sheridan and that it was still whispered down at Sydney Post that when the fog of combat was upon him he'd been a dirty fighter with a saber.

PHILADELPHIA WOMEN

Cornell Women's Club of Philadelphia elected officers at a tea and business meeting May 6 at the home of Emma J. Kunze '01, attended by forty members. New officers are: president, Mrs. Arthur C. McHugh (Ruth V. O'Connor) '27, succeeding Mrs. F. Arthur Tucker (Marion Milligan) '31 who presided; vice-president, Mrs. Charles T. Walker, Jr. (Gladys E. Hobart) '03; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ralph H. Ross (Dorothy Ashley) '18; recording secretary, Mrs. Ernest L. Bossinger (Laura A. Popplewell) '07; treasurer, Mrs. Albert W. Hartman (Marion I. Eagan) '37. Directors are Mrs. Russell C. Smith (Dorothy D. Carroll), Grad '29, and Mrs. Tucker.

Tea was served in the garden, with Dr. Anna E. Biddle '10 and Mildred H. Hiller '25 assisting the hostess.

NEW YORK WOMEN ELECT

Cornell Women's Club of New York has elected as treasurer for 1939-40, Marion Quell '26; as second vice-president, Catherine M. Curvin '29; and as directors, Mrs. Stephen J. Zand (Helen Stankiewicz) '21, Mrs. Bernard Alexander (Ruth Haines) '29, and Louise C. Odell '37. Alice G. Gordon '27 was appointed a director in place of Mrs. Edward H. Wilson (Eva E. Capron) '96, resigned.

Approximately thirty-five members enjoyed a buffet supper May 9, arranged at the Club room in the Hotel Barbizon by Mrs. Charles M. Chuckrow (Mollie Goldenberg) '13, and heard reports on the year's activities from Nellie H. Bingham '05, house and hospitality; Ruth F. Irish '22, fields of work; Mrs. R. H. Shreve (Ruth Bentley) '02, Federation Scholarship Fund; Mrs. Bernard A. Savage (Carmen Schneider) '27, secondary schools; Katharine R. Buckley '01, Cornellian Council Roll Call; Mrs. George W. Tucker (Elsie Rand) '07, scholarship bridge; Marion R. Blenderman '36, membership; and Eleanor Middleton '35, publicity. Marie Reith '21, president of the Club, presided.

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI NEWS often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

YOUR TIME IS MY TIME

TO THE EDITOR:

Thank you, Mr. Romeyn Berry, for bringing up Mrs. Comstock and Mr. Hoy once more. When the Constocks sailed for China, the pier was packed with friends to see them off. Why? Because they had all been married in the Comstocks' parlor. The Comstocks did not confine their philanthropies to flowers and bugs.

And David Hoy! I used to love to ask him on registration day, "Have Mary Jones and Susan Smith registered yet?" "Mary Jones came in this morning on the Lehigh at 10:30; Susan Smith won't get in till the 9:15 D.L.&W." Mr. Hoy said apologetically he couldn't remember all the Freshmen the first term.

He didn't save only boys. I've known him to comb Sage for a smart girl coach when poor little Ruth Robinson couldn't get her Calculus. And, when Bertha Johnson stayed at home on account of a "bust" note, he said disgustedly, "Why didn't she come back and cry a little?" And, when the Sigma Xi met, David Hoy was always first man out of the assembly room to congratulate and lend a key.

And that never-to-be-forgotten day when I read in the Sun "Tornado strikes Omaha, Nebraska. Wires down. Town reported burning." Didn't I run straight to the Registrar's office, and didn't the University's business go pahooots that day! First Mr. Hoy went to the telephone and got a confirmation, "Bad tornado; worst in the West." Then he ran me down Buffalo Street hill to the newspaper office to see the lists of injured from the Associated Press. No familiar names. "At two o'clock we'll have more." At two o'clock Davy ran me down again. Nothing bad, but must wait 'til seven for complete reports. Davy ran me down again. No names of mine. He left me at Sage with, "Mrs. Hoy's telephone is right by her bed. If you need us during the night, don't hesitate to call." Well, the telegram was such that I let Mr. and Mrs. Hoy sleep in peace.

Good sleep to you, Mr. Romeyn Berry, for reminding us of Anna Comstock and Davy Hoy.

N.B. The names used are fictional. Any resemblance to the names of Cornell graduates is purely coincidental.

CLASS OF '39 OFFICERS

Senior men have elected Thomas I. S. Boak, Jr. to be their permanent secretary of the Class of '39. He is the son of Thomas I. S. Boak '14 of New Haven, Conn., Alumni Trustee and treasurer of his Class. Young Boak was president of Sphinx Head and of Beta Theta Pi; manager of 150-pound football, chairman of his Junior Smoker and holder of a McMullen Scholarship.

Women of the Class elected Sarah D. Splain of Saratoga Springs their secretary. Winner of an Undergraduate Scholarship, she has been for two years a member of the Willard Straight Board of managers, was a member of the Women's Athletic Association and WSGA Councils, and of Mortar Board and Raven and Serpent.

Cornellian Council representative for the Class of '39 will be Jansen Noyes, Jr. He is the son of Jansen Noyes '10 of Montclair, N. J.; for two years manager of Junior Varsity basketball, chairman of his Junior Prom committee, editor and co-founder of The Cornell Almanac, member of Psi Upsilon, Sphinx Head, and Sigma Delta Chi.

MUSICAL CLUBS IN "TRIAL BY JURY"

Feature of the Reunion and Senior Week show of the Musical Clubs, in Bailey Hall June 16, will be the popular Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, along with Cornell songs.

PICTURES WANTED

The ALUMNI NEWS solicits pictures of alumni and Cornell groups, taken at Reunions and elsewhere. For use in our Reunion issue June 22, we must have prints not later than June 19, with individuals identified if possible. Please address pictures to us at Box 575, Ithaca. Credit will be given to the photographer, and prints returned if desired.

HOW IS YOUR HEALTH?

University medical advisers have compiled eleven questions with which they test the physical and mental health habits of students. Affirmative answers to all of them indicate excellent health, they say. Here are the questions:

1. Are you able to carry out, during each eight-hour working day of the week, an ambitious program of activity with zest and without undue fatigue, nervousness, worry, or loss of weight, and are you able to get satisfaction out of moderation rather than out of extremes?
2. Are you able to eat three well balanced meals a day with enjoyment and without fear of digestive disturbance?
3. Are you able to sleep soundly eight hours a night or more?
4. Are you able to enjoy at least one hour a day or six to nine hours a week of rather vigorous physical exercise without feeling unduly fatigued, strained, or coerced?
5. Are you able to enjoy the society of others for at least one hour a day without irritability, boredom, or undue self-consciousness?
6. Are you frank in admitting that sex desire is present in yourself as in others, at the same time denying the assumption that because this desire is natural and universal it is beyond conscious control and direction?
7. Are you able to enjoy as a "legitimate means of escape into the world of unreality" or as a means of self-expression for at least two hours a day, literature, art, music, drama, hobbies, or games without eye-strain, nervousness, or boredom?
8. Are you generally self-confident, cheerful, enthusiastic, free of unnecessary fears, "expecting success and attaining it with reasonable frequency?"
9. Are you objective in your interests: more interested in the diverse activities of the world about you than in your own introspective thoughts and minor troubles?
10. Are you psychically "hard" rather than "soft": not craving sympathy or demanding appreciation; not magnifying your own difficulties?

11. Are you quick to admit your own mistakes, and slow to blame others?

MISS OUZTS TO LEAVE

EDITH W. OUZTS, AM '30, (above) social director of Willard Straight Hall for seven years, has resigned, to be married June 29 to C. Roland Humphreys of Rehoboth Beach, Del., where they will live. She will be succeeded next fall by Cecilia Werner, who is now assistant director of social activities at Teachers College, Columbia University.

Present resultful work of students in running the varied Willard Straight Hall activities has been largely due to Miss Ouzts's leadership. Her early organization and inspiration of women students in working committees has led to the present scheme of operation of the board of managers, its members heading various committees and enlisting active participation of several hundred other students, both men and women, each year.

A native of South Carolina, Miss Ouzts received the AB in 1925 at Greenville Woman's College of Furman University, studied at Columbia, and spent a year in the Graduate School, receiving in 1930 the AM in Education. She has been at Willard Straight continuously since 1932 except two years, 1935-37, when on leave of absence she studied at Columbia and traveled over the country making the first organized study of college unions and their role in education.

Miss Werner received the AB in 1931 at Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis., and remained there three years as head resident of a women's dormitory and assistant to the registrar. In 1935 she received the Master's degree at Teacher's College, Columbia, and has been there since.

During the Summer Session Mrs. Frederick W. Haberman will be social director at Willard Straight, as she was last summer, and she will be assisted by Mary E. Dixon '38, who was for two years a member of the board of managers.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

FACULTY COMMITTEES on student conduct and traffic control are recommending to the University Faculty that all student car drivers be required to carry liability insurance of $5,000 for property damage and up to $10,000 for personal injury. The Sun ran leading editorials for and against the proposal, for the information of students. If the Faculty approves, the recommendation will go to the Board of Trustees. Horace H. Benson '29, executive officer of the Campus Patrol, estimates that each term more than 1300 student cars are registered with his office, of which approximately 250 are owned by graduate students and about 100 by women. All students are required to register their cars and pay $1 a term. They may not park on the Campus from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. unless they have a special parking permit, which costs $2 a term more.

LOUIS ZOUGONAKOS, whose lighted sandwich "wagon" will be parked nights in front of Baker Dormitories again this year during Class Reunions, has been doing business on the Hill for nineteen years. Through the college year his nightly stand is in front of Prudence Risley Hall, where he sometimes sells as many as 100 an evening of his specialty, Canadian bacon sandwiches. His white wagon, which he built himself on a 1925 Dodge chassis, is a familiar sight going up University Avenue every night just after dinner time.

MAY was extremely dry in Ithaca this year, according to the Weather Bureau office. Only two heavy rains, May 22 and 27, brought total precipitation to 1.84 inches. This was almost two inches less than the average for the month.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL cup for highest sorority scholarship average during the second term last year and first term of this year was won by Sigma Delta Tau, with 80.21. Next was Alpha Epsilon Phi, 78.59; followed by Sigma Kappa, Alpha Omicron Pi, Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Gamma, Alpha Xi Delta, and Alpha Phi.

SENIOR SOCIETIES will be headed next year by Charles S. Bowen of Binghamton and Stanley W. Allen, Jr. of Glendale, Ohio, the respective presidents of Sphinx Head and Quill and Dagger. Bowen is in Administrative Engineering, left fielder on the Varsity baseball team, member of Psi Upsilon. Allen is in the Arts College, rows No. 7 on the Junior-Varsity crew, is a member of Delta Upsilon. Vice-president of Sphinx Head is Frederick G. Jaicks of Hinsdale, Ill.; secretary, Beach Barrett of Kew Gardens;

SENIOR SINGING this year threatened to be boycotted by certain truculent males when it was learned that the Class committee had invited women members to sing with the men Thursday and Sunday evenings on the steps of Goldsinn Smith Hall. A front-page editorial in the Sun was headed, "Let's Try Co-education!" and the same issue carried a letter signed by four Senior men "who feel as if these old-school students are at the last ditch in preserving a traditional (Cornell) spirit." Perhaps it is significant that this year's Cornellians includes the women's Senior pictures right in with the men's; but they were there also in 1937 and 1932! The other Cornellians of the last twenty years have had women's Senior pictures in a separate section, from 1921 through 1931 at the back of the book. But this year men and women have been about equal in numbers at Senior singing.

treasurer, Edwin C. Murck of Brooklyn. Quill and Dagger vice-president is Walter W. Zittel, Jr. of Buffalo; secretary, William E. Fisher, Jr. of Stevens Point, Wis.; treasurer, James A. Young, Jr. of Angelica.

REV. EDWARD T. HORN, '29 pastor of the Lutheran Church, is president of the Ithaca Automobile Club, succeeding John L. Button '25. James E. Matthews '17, assistant to the University Comptroller, is the new treasurer.

NEW BOOKLET published by the Bureau of State Publicity, Albany, devotes four pages to description and pictures of the Finger Lakes Region, including the University. Its title is "A Fair Bargain . . . New York State . . . This Summer . . ."

CORNELL-IN-CHINA fund for Chinese student relief has reached the sum of $478.80, with contributions still being received. Immediate need is to obtain sufficient funds to send several Chinese students graduating this year back to their country. The Rev. Hugh Moran is secretary-treasurer of the committee.

GEORGE W. NILES '41 of Deansboro is one of four delegates chosen from New York State to the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D. C., June 15-21. Credited with having introduced beef cattle to his community, he is an experienced judge and successful exhibitor and won the State contest for 4-H Club leadership in 1937. New York delegates are accompanied to Washington by Professor William J. Wright, State leader of Junior Extension, and Dorothy DeLany '23, assistant State 4-H Club leader.

"BRUD HOLLAND GYMNASIUM. Furnished by alumni of Cornell University in honor of Jerome H. Holland, BS 1939, for his fine example of courage, skill, modesty, and fair play in competitive sports." Thus reads a brass plate which President Edmund E. Day placed on the wall of the gymnasium in Ithaca's new South Side Community Center at dedicatory exercises there June 6. Holland's parents and two sisters and a brother were there from Auburn and Syracuse, and many of the young Negro boys of his classes, with their families. Robert E. Treman '09, Alumni Trustee, introducing President Day and Claude L. Kulp, AM '30, superintendent of Ithaca schools, said that 200 Cornell alumni had contributed some $1,200 to furnish the new gymnasium. Holland's response was in two sentences. He thanked those present for coming, and thanked "Cornellians and friends who have given of their money and valuable time to furnish this gym."

WILLARD STRAIGHT library has received as a gift from Mrs. Edmund E. Day an eighteen-inch globe of the world, mounted on a walnut stand.

RADIO GUILD president for next year is J. Robert Meachem '40 of Ithaca. Frances L. Tolins '40 of Long Beach is secretary, and Radford H. Severance '40 of Buffalo is treasurer.

"RICE HALL" is now the official designation of the former Poultry Building. It is named, of course, for Professor James E. Rice '90 who was the first to teach Poultry Husbandry at Cornell and headed the Department from its establishment in 1905 until he retired as Professor Emeritus in 1934.

NEW HORSE BARN for the College of Agriculture is well under construction, on the site of the old one which burned last fall. It is being built by the State at cost of some $45,000. A $12,000 sheep barn, replacing the one on the Ellis Hollow road, also destroyed by fire, is now completed.

ELECTRIC ARC LAMPS which lighted the Campus in 1875—the first outdoor electric illumination used in America—were recalled recently when workmen dug up two sections of the cast iron conduit which then carried the wires from Morrill Hall to Sage Chapel. It would still be usable, according to the School of Electrical Engineering, its copper wire wrapped in muslin strips and packed in beef tallow. The first American dynamo, built by Professors William A. Anthony and George S. Moler '75, which sent the current through that wire, is still in running order in Rockefeller Hall.

NECROLOGY

'80 BS—CHARLES STARR LEEDS, June 3, 1939, at his home, 1075 Park Avenue, New York City. He had been a railroad builder and operator and was at one time head of a combine of chemical companies. Concerning THE FACULTY

PRESIDENT DAY spoke at a meeting of the national board of the YMCA in Buffalo May 27. He said that the problem of youth unemployment should be attacked locally, with youth agencies, capital, and labor cooperating.

PROFESSOR EMILE M. CHAMOT '91, Chemistry, Emeritus, retired June 1 as advisory chemist to the Ithaca Water Department. He has been with the Department since 1900.

MRS. HIRAM W. SIBLEY, widow of the late Hiram W. Sibley, University Trustee during 1887 and 1889-1909, and mother of Harper Sibley, present Trustee, died May 28, 1939, at her home, 106 East Seventy-fifth Street, New York City. Hiram W. Sibley and his father, Hiram Sibley, charter member of the Board of Trustees, were donors of the Sibley School of Mechanical Engineering.

MYRON C. TAYLOR '94, University Trustee, underwent a gall bladder removal May 25. It is reported that he is recovering satisfactorily. Taylor was invited to speak at graduation exercises of the Law School June 1.

DONALD C. KERR '12 has been appointed by the Trustees to spend full time, beginning next September, in charge of work with foreign students of the University. His office will be at the Cosmopolitan Club, 301 Bryant Avenue, and he will continue as executive secretary of the International Association of Ithaca, to which he has devoted part time the last three years. Kerr is the son of the late Walter C. Kerr '79, who was a Trustee of the University for twenty years. His daughter is Margaret C. Kerr '40.

PROFESSOR WALFRED A. ANDERSON, PhD '29, Rural Social Organization, and his family will sail June 16 on the Duchess of York to visit England and the Scandinavian countries during the summer. Professor Anderson will remain in Europe during his first term sabbatic leave next year to study the organization of selected rural communities in Sweden, Norway, and Finland.

DR. RUBY GREEN SMITH, PhD '14, State leader of home demonstration agents, Mrs. Marguerite D. Dixon '10, Tompkins County agent, and Mrs. Charles E. Duncan (J. Ann Phillips) '18, Broome County agent, sailed May 24 on the Queen Mary to attend the Conference of Associated Country Women of the World in London, England, May 30 to June 10. Mrs. Smith, wife of Dean Albert W. Smith '78, Engineering, Emeritus, was the only American woman to appear on the Conference program. She spoke on "The Significance of the International Organization of Country Women" and was one of the leaders of the panel discussion on "Training and Work of Organization Leaders."

A SERIES of bird pictures in color, taken by Professor Arthur A. Allen '08, Ornithology, appear in the June issue of the National Geographic Magazine. The pictures were taken in natural color in Ithaca.

'10, '11 ME—David Darrin is with the "American Language" Association, 154 Nassau Street, New York City. He is now working on a project which aims to "establish the American brand of English as the universal auxiliary language of the world. This effort is being directed, not to supplanting the various national languages, but primarily to supplementing them in a way which will quickly enable all the world to talk together and thus think and act more uniformly. The secondary object is to absorb into American the best values of all these native tongues, toward an ever-improving and ever-expanding world language. The first step in this direction has been to develop a new method of teaching languages more quickly, intensively, and thoroughly than ever before." Darrin, a licensed engineer, says that "the method represents an application of engineering principles to a language problem."

The Chesterfield glove, created by New York's smart designer Merry Hull...

Original and different too is Chesterfield's way of combining the world's best tobaccos to bring out the finer qualities of each. It's the Chesterfield way and that's why Chesterfields are milder than other cigarettes. They also have a better taste and more pleasing aroma. Chesterfields really satisfy.
