Not all Protection Wardens wear tin hats!

Green-grocers and bookkeepers by day . . . helmeted heroes at night . . . the men of Britain's Air Raid Precaution Service have made a magnificent contribution to their country's defense.

HERE in America, busy men with plain felt hats in place of tin ones provide protection day and night for countless homes.

They're not digging wounded children out of debris—but they are sending thousands of healthy children through school and college.

They're not snuffing out incendiaries on neighboring roofs—but they are helping the families under those roofs to carry on, after death has struck without a warning siren.

Who are they? They are the trained and experienced life insurance men and women of America, who are helping countless families to set up defenses that are certain in uncertain times.

From coast to coast, New England Mutual's group of Career Underwriters is eminently qualified to render intelligent counsel on personal insurance problems.

Representing the first mutual life insurance company chartered in this country, they are equipped with a variety of unusually liberal contracts that may be written to suit your particular needs.

A friendly consultation may be had without obligation on your part.

Call on these men for careful counsel on family defense

Below is a list of "protection wardens" from your own college.

They have chosen life insurance as a career because it means personal independence, and carries with it the satisfaction of rendering constructive service—freeing families from fear—selling investments that no buyer ever regrets.

They have chosen New England Mutual as a company because it is old in years but young in spirit. Because it's the first mutual life insurance company chartered in America, with modern policy contracts which are noted for their flexibility.

If you're not near enough to any of these fellow-alumni for a personal conference, look in the telephone directory for the New England Mutual office in your city. You will find carefully trained, experienced men, largely with college backgrounds, who will be glad to talk to you, whether or not you are in the market for insurance.

ENROLMENT PROMISES SLIGHT DECREASE

Engineering Rise Offsets Drop in Other Endowed Colleges

Preliminary report of University enrolment, made at the end of the third day of registration, shows a total of 6,807 students. Duplicate registrations had not been deducted. Last year, at the end of the first week, enrolment totalled 6,904, with duplications deducted.

Students were still being registered last week, but the preliminary report indicates that there will be about 6,500 students resident in Ithaca this year. This may be approximately 100 fewer than last year's record number. The three days' total undergraduate enrolment in the endowed Colleges of the University in Ithaca is about 100 more than registered the first week last year. An indicated decrease in the College of Arts and Sciences and the Law School is more than offset by increased Engineering enrolment. Among the State Colleges, Agriculture, as anticipated, shows a decrease of about 100 students, the others varying from last year only slightly. The Graduate School seems likely to have about 150 fewer students than last year.

Exact count of Freshman was not available last week, but it appears that this year's Freshman Class is the largest to enter the University.

Preliminary registration figures September 24, 1941, and those for the first week of 1940, to September 28, follow:

	1941 To Sept. 24	1940 To Sept. 28

Law School Adjusts Program

First University classes to start were those opening the Law School's fifty-fifth year, September 15. Adjustments made by the School to meet present emergency conditions have been of benefit to students and have resulted in a decreased enrolment of only about 18 per cent. This is said to be much less than in many other law schools.

Most of the present third-year class attended a ten-week's summer term in which instruction was volunteered by the Faculty, thus enabling them to receive degrees next March instead of June, and to take the New York Bar examination given in March. Several draft boards granted postponements of service to such students. This three-term plan is being continued this year. "Under this plan," Dean Robert S. Stevens points out, "even though a student is likely to be called into service during the school year, he may enrol with reasonable assurance of being able to earn academic credit for one-third or two-thirds, if not for the whole year. Furthermore, the time which might be lost between his discharge from military service and resumption of his study of law is minimized by the opportunity he has to return to Cornell at the opening of the next trimester after his discharge from service."

Reduce Entrance Requirement

Realizing also that many men cannot now devote seven years to preparation for the practice of law, the Law School has during the emergency changed its entrance requirements to admit students who have satisfactorily completed three years of work at any approved college, as well as those who have received the Bachelor's degree. Since 1925, the School has required all applicants to have a Bachelor's degree except that Seniors in the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell were also permitted to register in Law and thus obtain the AB and LLB in a combined course of six years. Dean Stevens explains that "experience with the latter group has demonstrated the ability of students with three years of undergraduate study to do competent work in Law and justifies extension of this privilege, for the period of the emergency, to students who have received comparable preparation at other institutions, provided, of course that the process of selective admission based upon evidence of ability and personality as well as completion of the required years of pre-legal education, is continued in operation."

"The program of national defense," Dean Stevens says, "has been of critical consequence both to law students and to law schools. Faced with realization that law students will not be entitled to occupational deferment, that the legal education of most men will be interrupted, and admission to the Bar will be postponed by service in the armed forces, the Law School has thus taken steps to accommodate its program to this emergency situation."

Medical College Opens

The Medical College began its forty-fourth year September 16 with exercises in the College auditorium in New York City. The entering Class of eighty-three students who had received first degrees at thirty-seven colleges and universities had been selected from 1,070 applicants representing 185 institutions. New students were welcomed by Dr. Samuel Z. Levine, professor of Pediatrics, who told them that "Medical progress itself as well as a changing society have led to the inevitable need for reevaluation and reorientation. The sociology of medicine must keep pace with the rapid advances in technology." Commenting editorially, The New York Times said: "Dr. Levine would establish a course in social medicine in every medical school to inculcate broad humanism as well as a sense of civic obligation. Give us this humanism and doctors will be in no danger of becoming bureaucrats under some system of 'socialized' medicine that would compel them to treat their patients as living machines rather than as thinking human beings."

Dr. Dayton J. Edwards, assistant dean of the College, presided and awarded scholarships and prizes for 1941-42. First William Mecklenburg Polk Award for efficiency in research went to Walter P. Riker of the Class of '42; second to John L. Norris '43. Five scholarships of $700 each and covering all academic expenses, awarded for the first time from a bequest of Dr. John A. Heim '05, were presented to Bruce M. Esplin '39 and William T. Mosenthal of the fourth-year Class; to Morris O. Locks '40 and Leyland E. Stevens of the third-year Class; and to Henry Tesluk '41, beginning his second year at the Medical College. Among other scholarship winners were Francis Greenspan '40, Cedric C. Jimereson '40, and George C. Reader '40, and Roy C. Swan, Jr. '41.

BALTIMORE HEADQUARTERS

Buffet supper for alumni sponsored by the Cornell Club of Maryland in Baltimore October 18, announced last week, has been cancelled. The Club has arranged with Hotel Belvedere in Baltimore for a Cornell headquarters after the football game with the US Naval Academy in Municipal Stadium.

FACULTY CHANGES, NEW COURSES

New appointments to the Faculty this fall include four new teachers and other reorganizations in the Department of Music, occasioned by an increasing schedule of instruction and made possible partly by a grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. Egon Petri, who was last year visiting lecturer in Music, has been appointed Pianist in Residence with the status of professor. Roy Harris becomes Composer in Residence, and his wife, Johana Harris, has been appointed instructor in piano. Harris's music is performed by virtually every leading orchestra and by many choral and chamber music groups. More of his works have been recorded than of any other American composer. He will offer a course for advanced undergraduate students, but most of his teaching will be in the Graduate School, with candidates for the MFA and PhD. Mrs. Harris, well known as a concert pianist and for her recordings, has been teaching for some time at the Juilliard School of Music in New York City. Besides her teaching, she will appear frequently in recitals and chamber music ensembles. New instructor in theory of music is Reuel Lahmer, who has trained under Harris. He will teach undergraduate courses.

Music Expands

With retirement of George L. Coleman '95 last June after many years as director of the University Symphony Orchestra and the ROTC Band, Professor Ronald Ingalls has become director of the Orchestra and has general supervision of ensemble instrumental instruction. For six years a member of the Department, he has taught violin, conducted the String Sinfonietta, and coached chamber music ensembles, and previously was successful with bands and orchestras in Illinois and Alabama. His former courses in history of music have been taken over by Professor Richard T. Gore, University Organist, and William Scheide, an assistant last year now appointed instructor. Musical director of the ROTC Band in cooperation with the Department of Military Science and Tactics is a new instructor, Wendell Margrave, and he will assist Professor Ingalls with the orchestra and chamber music. Formerly assistant professor of music at Southern Illinois Normal University, Carbondale, Ill., he developed there a famous band, has worked with massed bands, conducted band clinics and judged competitions; is an accomplished flutist and an able cellist.

Instruction in history and choral music will be continued by Professor Paul J. Weaver, chairman of the Department since 1929, and Professor Otto Kinkeldey continues his teaching of musicology to graduate students.

New Architecture Courses

In the related field of Fine Arts, Dean Gilmore D. Clarke '13, Architecture, has announced appointment of John M. Sitton as assistant professor. A young New York artist and educator, Sitton will have charge of classes specializing in creative research in medieval and Renaissance techniques. The media of tempera, fresco, encaustic, and oil painting will be studied in a practical working studio, students making their own painting panels and canvas, grinding their own colors, and making their own varnishes. He will also offer courses in elementary drawing and painting giving full sway to the creative abilities of individual students.

In line with the growing educational trend to combine study of fine arts with the humanities, the University encourages students of all Colleges to take advantage of these facilities, and this fall begins new courses for teachers leading to the BFA degree combining work in the College of Architecture and in the Department of Education.

Engineering Changes

In the College of Engineering, Dr. Arthur S. Adams who came to the University August 1, 1940, has been appointed Assistant Dean of the College, and continues as director of Engineering defense training courses. As previously reported, Professor Frank O. Ellenwood has become John Edson Sweet Professor of Engineering; James N. Goodier is head of the Departments of Mechanics both in Civil and Mechanical Engineering; and Dr. Raymond W. Ager has come from the University of California as associate professor of Electrical Engineering and director of the new High Voltage Laboratory of the School.

Promoted to associate professorships are Wallace M. Hook '13, Stephen F. Cleary '25, Joseph O. Jeffrey '25, John R. Moynihan '26, George R. Hanselman, MS '36, and Paul H. Black, Mechanical Engineering; Oscar J. Swenson and Charles C. Winding, Chemical Engineering; Earle N. Burrows '07, Civil Engineering; and Laurence A. Burckmyer '24, Michel G. Malti, PhD '27, and Everett M. Strong, Grad, Electrical Engineering. Among nine newly appointed instructors in Mechanical Engineering are Bartholomew J. Conta, MS '37, Heat Power; George F. Carrier '39, Machine Design; and Martin W. Sampson, Jr. '39, Administrative Engineering.

Physics Helps Defense

Four members of the Physics Department have been granted part-time leaves of absence for defense work, to return periodically to carry on teaching and direct research. Professor Robert F. Bacher is engaged in research in Cambridge, Mass., for the National Defense Research Committee. Professor Louis G. Parratt is working at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory in the Washington, D.

C., Navy Yard. Professor Lloyd P. Smith, PhD '30, is with the Radio Corporation of America at Allison, N. J. Dr. William A. Higinbotham, Grad, technician of the Department, is on full-time leave for defense research at Cambridge, Mass. Henry Hurwitz, Jr. '38, having received the PhD at Harvard this year, has been appointed instructor in Physics, and Herbert F. Newhall, graduate assistant the last four years, is also an instructor.

About ATHLETICS

CROSS COUNTRY MEN WORK

This year's cross country team will be built around four Varsity letter winners headed by Captain Frank P. Hoag '42 of Poughquag, who placed third in last year's Heptagonals.

The squad began work September 10 and Coach John F. Moakley, who is starting his forty-second year at Cornell, has devoted most of the time to seasoning the runners, assisted by Edward G. Ratkoski '35.

Others who won letters last year are Robert A. Beck '42 of Milton, Mass., and Everett W. Jameson, Jr. '42 of Buffalo. Albert Schmid '42 of Peekskill won a letter in 1939. Also available is Paul M. Kelsey '43 of Ithaca who won three races as a Freshman but who was not in good health last season. Beck and Jameson scored in last year's Intercollegiates.

Two half-milers from the track squad—Captain Kenneth M. Zeigler '42 of White Plains and Arthur C. Smith, Jr. '43 of Elmira—are out for their first attempts at cross country.

The squad also includes seven Sophomores who won Freshman numerals a year ago: John F. Kandl of New York City, Homer F. McMurray of Nashua, N. H., Donald G. Boegehold of Mt. Vernon, George W. Wakeley of East Orange, N. J., William C. Taylor of Kew Gardens, Franklin K. Moore of Glenrock, N. J., and Alfred L. Baker of Wynnewood, Pa. Kandl scored two victories, tied for first place in another race, and placed thirteenth in the Freshman Intercollegiates last season.

In dual meets this year, teams will be allowed to start twelve runners, with seven to count in the scoring, as compared with seven starters and five scorers in past years. Cornell faces a heavier schedule, with an additional dual meet. Cornell will race Colgate, Army, Alfred, and Syracuse and will compete in the Heptagonals and Intercollegiates.

Cornell is the only member of the Heptagonal Games Association to have a leg on the trophy given in 1939 for permanent award to the first three-time winner by the two sons of the late Junius

T. Auerbach '90. Cornell and Harvard tied to win the first Association meet; last year, Cornell won.

ROWING STARTS

Rowing practice was begun last week by Coach Harrison Sanford, with Freshman candidates reporting ahead of the Varsity squad. The Freshmen were immediately set to work in the sixteen-oar barge, in charge of Norman Sonju, assistant coach.

Coach Sanford said that prospects for the 1942 season are fairly bright. Eight letter winners will be available: Commodore John G. Aldworth '42 of Garden City; Mario Cuniberti '42 of California, Md., who stroked the Varsity against Harvard and at Poughkeepsie; William N. Kruse '43 of Davenport, Iowa, who stroked the Varsity in the early races; William W. Dickhart III '44 of Philadelphia, Pa., Franklin P. Eggert '42 of Westfield, Robert O. Gundlach '42 of Plainfield, N. J., DuBois L. Jenkins '43 of New Paltz, and Joseph T. Lanman '43 of Gahanna, Ohio.

The Varsity squad will also include Martin B. Holt '43 of Pasadena, Calif., William W. Paty, Jr., '42 of Honolulu, Hawaii, and Donald E. Kastner '43 of Montclair, N. J., who were ineligible last year. Also available will be a number of oarsmen from last year's Junior Varsity and Freshman eights. The Freshman crew won at Poughkeepsie last June.

Fall practice, Coach Sanford said, will be devoted to fundamentals and ironing out individual faults. All seats in the Varsity and Junior Varsity crews are wide open to competition, he added. The fall rowing season will close with the annual Treman Cup regatta in November.

150-POUND FOOTBALL

More than seventy-eight players have reported to Coach Alfred B. Wolff for the 150-pound football team, among them eleven letter winners.

The lightweight squad was the last to be organized because of an agreement among members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Lightweight Football Association that practice would be started after registration. Varsity and Freshman football workouts were begun earlier.

Assisted by Robert S. Grant '34 and G. Craig Rankin '36, who have returned to Law and Architecture, respectively, Coach Wolff must find replacements for sixteen letter winners who have graduated, are ineligible, have too much academic work, or are overweight.

Returning lettermen are: End, Allan C. Arnaboldi '43 of Mt. Sigai; guards, John H. Coyne '42 of Wilmette, Ill., William J. Greer '42 of White Plains, Wilbur F. Herbert '42 of Montclair, N. J., and John M. Mason '44 of Ridgewood, N. J.; center, Wallace R. Seeley '43 of Syracuse; backs, David Estes '43 of Media, Pa.,

Thomas R. Keene '42 of Elkhart, Ind., Edward E. Ludwig, Jr., '43 of Pittsburgh, Pa., Arnold Rosenstein '43 of Albany, and George C. Salisbury '43 of Milwaukee, Wis.

FOOTBALL BROADCASTS

Five of Cornell's football games this fall will be broadcast under sponsorship of the Atlantic Refining Co.

Largest hookup, involving thirty-seven stations, will be for the Pennsylvania game. Four stations will carry the Dartmouth game. The hookups:

Syracuse game, October 4—WFBL, WGR, WGY, WHCU, WHEC, WBNF.

SOCCER PROSPECTS

Soccer practice has progressed to the point where Coach Nicholas Bawlf has selected the starting lineup for the first game. The coach says he will have a good team and hopes that it will improve on last year's record. The 1940 team finished last in the six-team Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate Soccer League, losing three of its games by 1-0 scores.

At goal will be Robert C. Ochs '42 of Cleveland, Ohio, who was mentioned on all-star teams after the 1940 season. Present fullback choices are John M. Hansen '42 of Litchfield, Conn., and Charles S. Satterthwait, Jr., '43 of Reading, Pa. The halfbacks will be Arthur W. DuBois, Jr., '43 of Hallstead, Pa., Daniel T. Gilmartin III '43 of Summit, N. J., and William R. Hughes III '44 of Haverford, Pa.

At forward are Gordon B. Blatz '43 of Philadelphia, Pa., Francis J. Broglie '43 of Baltimore, Md., Eduardo M. Ricaurte '43 of Buenos Aires, Argentina, William H. Starr '44 of Pasadena, Calif., and Co-captain Robert F. Taylor '43 of Rochester.

Reserves include: Fullbacks, Barber B. Conable, Jr., '43 of Warsaw, Charles S. Pearce '42 of Chicago, Ill., who would be in the starting lineup but for an injured leg, and DeWitt S. Stillman, Jr., '45 of Kenilworth, Ill.; halfbacks, Harry C. Allen '43 of Chatham, N. J., Herbert G. Lytle, Jr., '44 of Ojai, Calif., and

Paul E. Illick '43 of Syracuse, and forwards, Roy G. Wiggans, Jr., '44 of Ithaca and Wilbur W. Baldwin '42 of Orange, N. J.

Co-captain Taylor, Ochs, Blatz, and Ricaurte were regulars a year ago. Eighteen men were lost for various reasons from last year's Varsity squad of twenty-two and the Freshman squad of twenty, among them Co-captain Richard E. Ford '42 of Chatham, N. J.

INTRAMURALS OPEN

Competition in intramural sports started this week. Nicholas Bawlf, supervisor of intramurals, said that all fifty-seven fraternities would have touch football teams, forty-eight are registered for golf, thirty-five for tennis, and twenty for soccer.

ODDS AND ENDS

Four of Cornell's eight football opponents opened their seasons last week. Syracuse defeated Clarkson Tech, 39-0, in a night game September 26. On Saturday, Colgate won over St. Lawrence, 66-0; Dartmouth defeated Norwich, 35-0; and the US Naval Academy defeated William and Mary, 34-0.

Benjamin H. Dwight, chairman of the National Tennis Umpires Association, who used to come to Ithaca to officiate at the Larned Cup indoor matches in Barton Hall, died September 1 at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills. One of his last conversations (about Ithaca and Cornell) was with John T. McGovern '00, who was serving as a linesman at the national singles tennis tournament that day.

Walter J. Sickles '41, the baseball team's leading pitcher the last seasons, returned to Cornell last week with his brother, John, a Freshman. John Sickles plays football, not baseball.

Kirk Hershey '41, end on last year's football team, has signed to play professional football with the Cleveland Rams.

Thomas A. Rich '38, who played forward on the basketball team for three seasons, has been appointed basketball coach at Ithaca High School, where he teaches vocational agriculture.

ORDNANCE DEPOT being built on 12,000 acres in Seneca County forty miles north of Ithaca is proceeding apace. Men are at work in two shifts constructing headquarters buildings, roads, fences, and railroad tracks, about 150 farm families being moved off the site. Colonel Paul B. Parker, constructing quartermaster for the War Department, says that additional land westward to Seneca Lake is being acquired for possible use as a naval airplane base, and it has been said that an Army airfield may also be built nearby, perhaps west of Trumansburg.

FRATERNITY, SORORITY RANKINGS

Last Year's Grades Appear as Rushing Opens

For the first time in the four consecutive years that scholarship averages and rankings of fraternities and sororities have been compiled by the University, they were published this fall at the start of rushing. Tabulation for the academic year 1940-41 appeared in the Sun September 24, the day fraternity rushing began (sororities started the day before). This was officially hinted at for last year, but rankings did not appear until organized rushing was nearly over.

Fraternities apparently profited from the year's notice of official intention, the "All Fraternities" average for 1940-41 increasing to 74.22 from 74.08 in 1939-40. But the "All Sororities" average dropped slightly, to 77.78 from 77.84 the previous year. General average of all undergraduate men increased .3 as compared with this increase of .14 for fraternities, whereas the average grade of all women decreased .36 from the year before as compared with decrease of but .06 in the sorority average.

Twenty fraternities and associations are above the average for all men, compared with twenty-five in 1939-40; and nine sororities are above the average for all women, compared with seven the previous year.

General women's average is 2.58 above that of the men, but was 3.24 above in 1939-40. Average of the University's thirteen sororities is 3.56 above that of the fifty-seven fraternities in 1940-41, compared with 3.76 above the previous year.

Compilation of these grades and rankings is directed by George D. Haupin '16, Assistant Registrar of the University.

ROCHESTER WOMEN START

Cornell Women's Club of Rochester opened its fall season with a picnic supper September 10 at the home of Mrs. Henry G. Lehrbach (Henriette Ely) '18. Among the fifty alumnae present were several of the Class of '41. The new president, Mrs. Kenneth B. Spear (Vera Dobert) '24 introduced the other officers and committee chairmen, and plans were made for a card party to benefit the scholarship fund, a Christmas play, a Founder's Day luncheon, and other interesting meetings. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Robert H. Manchester (Esther Ely) '21, Mrs. Linn B. Bowman (Martha Hawley) '24, Mrs. Spear, and Prudence A. Lehrbach '41.

USE WAKEMAN LOAN FUND

Bequest of $10,000 made by S. Wiley Wakeman '99, a University Trustee from 1922-32, has established the Samuel Wiley Wakeman Loan Fund from which assistance is being given to male Sophomores in Mechanical Engineering, beginning this fall. Vice-president of the Bethlehem Steel Corp. in charge of ship-building, Wakeman died in May, 1940, in Quincy, Mass. He had been a generous supporter of the University for many years, contributing regularly to the Alumni Fund and giving also to the University Endowment Fund, for the 150-pound crew, the Varsity boathouse, and his Class Fund. He was an active member of the Trustees' committee on buildings and grounds. His sons are Richard V. Wakeman '28 and Samuel Wakeman '30.

CORNELLIANS PLAN CAMP

Among 250 employes of the firm of Charles H. Hurd '96, consulting engineer of Indianapolis, Ind., who have been engaged all summer in making preliminary surveys, plans and specifications, and doing legal work for a 50,000-acre projected cantonment at Columbus, Ind., have been a number of Cornellians. In charge of operations at the $25,000,000 project which is being designed for the War Department to accommodate 35,000 men, is Edwin C. Hurd '25, son of Charles H. Hurd.

Professor Herbert T. Jenkins, Civil Engineering, has been in charge of structural design and drafting, and is remaining until February while on sabbatical leave from the University. Professor William E. Stanley, Sanitary Engineering, who is now on leave as chief of the sewage and incineration bureau in the Office of the Construction Quartermaster, Washington, D. C., was engaged until August 20 in making preliminary designs for water supply and sewage treatment plants and in charge of specification writing at the cantonment. His assistant in specification writing and other contract documents was Professor Romeyn Y. Thatcher '08 who teaches Engineering Law in the School of Civil Engineering, and who carried on after Stanley left.

Ivan L. Bogert '39, first employed as an engineer-designer, is now acting head of the water supply department in charge of preparing designs and plans for the camp's entire water supply and distribution system. Herbert F. Hilmer '39 has been in the architectural division, and James G. Tripp, Jr. '42 and Joseph L. Boyer '42 were in the structural design department.

NOW IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

Most folks waste time looking over freshman football players (an almost universal academic interest at the end of September) when they are practicing out on the lot, concealed in $60 worth of clothes and leather harness. Your reporter prefers to gather his first impressions of the young stock when they are in the shower bath. There's time enough to get some idea of their present speed, skill, dexterity, and temperament later on, when you see them at practice or in games. But you can get a better rough idea of what they are going to be two years from now by sizing them up in the shower.

Man and boy, your reporter has appraised thousands of unknown Freshmen with their clothes off and has, of course, guessed wrong on unnumbered occasions. But no more frequently, perhaps, than horsemen who buy thoroughbred colts as yearlings and regard themselves as fortunate when they get one good one out of a dozen good looking ones.

Eddie Kaw didn't impress us much the first time we saw him under the circumstances noted, and we were frightfully wrong on "Little Joe" Martinez-Zorilla. But George Pfann caught our eye the first time out, and we picked Hal McCullough as a likely prospect before we knew his name, when we observed him fumble a cake of wet, slippery soap and then catch it before it reached the floor, with all the swift certainty of a trout.

One learns to discount the mature, eye-filling, heavily muscled athlete, and we never saw a boy with camel legs (long from the ankle to the knee, short from the knee to the hips) who ever amounted to much as a football player. But the more one exercises his judgment in appraising a naked, eighteen-year-old boy after many years of checking his first guess against subsequent results, the less attention he pays to muscular development and the more stress he places on character and disposition as revealed by the eyes, the shape of the head, and the facial expression. (Not that capable hands and big wrists don't catch the eye and create a favorable impression.) No one can tell in that first going-over who are going to become the team leaders, but he can come pretty close to guessing who isn't. It's the eyes, mostly. At eighteen, the biceps are unimportant.

The shower bath test, of course, is but the first of many in the journey toward a final judgment. The first practice discloses the presence or absence of natural aptitudes, and the first scrimmage—along toward the end when all participants are tired—gives a pretty good idea who is out there to win a letter for himself, who to win games for his University.

It's a fortunate thing, I suppose, that the Freshmen never realize how many persons experienced in such matters are sizing them up from different angles through every waking minute of these Indian summer days, and how far those composite appraisals go toward establishing the reputations that will tag them to the tomb. It's even more fortunate that their parents don't know. Professors, laboratory assistants, landladies, Campus cops, proctors, tailors, bartenders—they are appraising and re-appraising the young stock all the time, and in a large number of cases they've got the boy pretty well fixed by his Sophomore year. If he's a louse then, he stays a louse, no matter whether he gets to be a senator or the president of a railroad. Conversely, if he's pronounced a sound colt as a Sophomore, he stays a sound horse in the minds of the folks in his college town whether or not they ever hear of him again, once he's disappeared over the brim of South Hill with his diploma still hot in his hand. Folks in a college town can determine quickly and accurately who is out there to win a letter for himself, who to win games for his team.

SERVICE RECORDS WANTED

The national emergency has interrupted many contacts with Classmates and the University. Men of the younger Classes are joining the military and naval services in mounting numbers, and large numbers of elder Cornellians are being called to defense duty of every kind. Constantly, men in service write us that the ALUMNI NEWS becomes indispensable as their only regular link with many of their friends.

Aware of this special duty to its subscribers, the News since the start of the emergency has kept careful record of all information received about alumni in the armed services. We are compiling this record for early publication, to include, so far as we have information, the name, rank, branch of service, and address of every such alumnus. To make this first listing as complete as possible, subscribers are requested to send us at once whatever such data you have.

After publication, the information will become a permanent part of the subject's biographical record in the Alumni Office of the University.

Cornellians have taken special pride in the University's record in the first world war. Now, as in that other emergency, the sons and daughters of Cornell, educated in the most peaceful surroundings for the arts of peace, are responding in mass to their country's need. Years of diligent work were devoted by many persons to publication, in 1930, of the official Military Records of Cornell University in the World War. More than half the records had to be collected long after the armistice, and the work in-

Thus in addition to making the News more useful in keeping alumni informed about their Cornell friends in service, subscribers can now contribute greatly to the permanent proud record of their University. Send us information promptly and as complete as possible about yourself and Cornell friends in service.

REPRESENTS UNIVERSITY

Official delegate appointed by President Edmund E. Day to represent Cornell University at exercises October 3-5 in Bethlehem, Pa., commemorating the seventy-fifty anniversary of the founding of Lehigh University, is Edward E. Goodwillie '10. Goodwillie is chairman of the Cornell Alumni Fund Council and assistant to the vice-president of Bethlehem Steel Corp.

TO WORK FOR ROTARY

Two Cornellians have assumed important committee posts in Rotary International. C. Reeve Vanneman '03 is a member of the aims and objects committee, which advises with members of the 5,060 Rotary Clubs in sixty countries on club service activities. Hart I. Seely '09 is a member of the 1943 convention committee.

A public utilities consulting engineer in Albany, Vanneman is president of the Cornell Society of Engineers and a former president of the Cornell Alumni Corporation. He is a past president of the Albany Rotary Club and has been district governor and vice-president of Rotary International.

Seely is publisher of the Waverly Sun, The Nichols Recorder, and The Valley News; is a charter member and past president of the Rotary Club of Waverly and has served as second vice-president and a district governor of Rotary International.

CORNELL ENGINEER

Professor Dexter S. Kimball, Engineering, Emeritus, opens The Cornell Engineer for October, writing on "Why the Dollar-a-year Man In Defense?" Chairman of the committee on machine tools of the priorities board of the OPM, Dean Kimball describes the duties and functions of some of the 200 industrial leaders who have been called to Washington to serve national defense. Professor Charles O. Mackey '26, Heat-Power Engineering, writes on "Gasoline Storage: A Hazard," citing the disastrous fire in Jamestown, June 18, 1934, and recommending safety measures. C. Reeve Vanneman '03, writing his first message as president of the Cornell Society of Engineers, addresses especially undergraduates in the College. He stresses the need in these times to develop an "operative mind."

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

ONE EFFECT of the national emergency is that Frosh caps are now made of cotton gabardine instead of the former woolen material. The small grey caps with red buttons are now sold exclusively by the Freshman advisory committee, for $1.50.

THE SUN reported editorially last Saturday that "last year, three girls applied for the cheerleading competition. This fall, twenty have already been pestering Head Cheerleader Roy Thompson, and day before yesterday, three reported for cheerleading practice." To stimulate "enthusiasm of the Cornell stands," the Sun advocated that the Athletic Association appoint women cheerleaders.

WILLARD STRAIGHT HALL board of managers has filled two vacancies in its membership by electing John B. Kernochen '42 of Middletown in place of Edwin M. Cronk '42, who received the AB at the end of the Summer Session, and Peggy Pierce '43 in place of Ruth E. Hillman '43, who did not return to the University this fall. Paul W. Leighton '42 of Twin Falls, Idaho, former secretary of the board, was elected chairman, and Stuart A. Allen '42 of Waterville was elected secretary.

TENNIS SINGLES champion of Tompkins County this summer was Francis del Marmol, a Naval Reserve ensign enrolled in the Diesel engine course in the College of Engineering. He succeeds Richard I. Fricke '43, who won the title last year. Professor James K. Wilson, Soil Technology, repeated his doubles championship of last year, playing with William G. Hardy.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE at the Strand Theater in Ithaca September 25 called to the stage several times after the performance the cast which presented the Broadway hit, "Arsenic and Old Lace." Henry Schacht '08 played the comedy role of Dr. Einstein, accomplice-in-murder of the leading man, Eric Von Stroheim. For the leading lady, Laura Hope Crews, this was also a return to Ithaca. She played the old Lyceum Theater many years ago in "Mr. Pim Passes By."

ELIZABETH M. McCABE '42 of Brookline, Mass., who has shown considerable talent in Dramatic Club productions the last three years, spent the summer as a member of the Cape May, N. J., Summer Theater company. She played in Noel Coward's "Hands Across the Sea," in "The Male Animal" and "Girls in Uniform," and in the premiere of a new comedy, "The Great Broxopp." Accepting an invitation from a talent scout of Twentieth Century-Fox to visit his CAMPAIGN by the Cornell Daily Sun last week of front-page editorials and a letter to fraternities culminated at a special Sunday meeting of the Interfraternity Council in which "preferential pledging" was voted by the fraternity delegates, 42-1. Under the new system, first bidding was Tuesday evening, September 30, with no further rushing permitted until Thursday noon. By 5 p.m. Wednesday, all fraternities were to deposit with the Council a list of men they had bid, arranged in order of preference, together with a "quota" setting the total number of pledges they wished to receive. Freshmen were to deposit the bids they had received in sealed envelopes, listing outside the houses which had bid them, also in order of preference. Preferences were to be observed in matching the two lists, the results to be published Thursday morning, and the same system continued daily thereafter. Responsibility for matching bids and pledges is assumed by the Interfraternity Council. Frank C. Abbott '42, editor-in-chief of the Sun, answered questions about the proposed changes for almost two hours before Council delegates voted.

office in New York City, she was promised that he would come to Ithaca to see her in action in the Willard Straight Theater. Member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Miss McCabe is also on the Willard Straight Hall board of managers and a member of Mortar Board.

ITHACA GUN CO. is building an addition to its plant on Gunshop Hill and has already increased its force about one-fifth, turning out parts for the new automatic Garand rifle, Colt automatic pistols, and fire-control devices for aerial bombs.

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO. has opened a catalog order office in Ithaca at 316 East State Street.

DELTA SIGMA RHO, national debating society, elected to membership Herbert L. Abrams '41 of Brooklyn and five Seniors: Dorothy M. Dunn of Lyons, Frederick W. Jaqua of Winchester, Ind., Lawrence A. Konovitz of Staten Island, Margaret M. Lucha of Utica, and Joseph A. Weinberger of Hazleton, Pa.

SAILING back to the University across Lake Erie and down the Barge Canal from Buffalo, Robert W. Hazelett '42 made the 400-mile voyage from Cleveland, Ohio, in his twenty-four foot auxiliary cutter, Star Dust II, for the second time. His crew this year was Robert G. Kositzky of Cleveland Heights, his Classmate in Mechanical Engineering.

SEASON TICKET books for all inter-collegiate athletic events in Ithaca are being bought satisfactorily, the Athletic Office reports. Price to undergraduates until October 1 was $15 for admissions worth $33.45. Federal tax of 10 per cent additional was required of all non-student purchasers until October 1; after that date, of all purchasers. Lynn D. Timmerman '42 of Lima, Ohio, is chairman of the student committee for sale of ticket books.

STUDENT COUNCIL had decreed a Freshman cheering section for the home football games this year. Tickets purchased by men of the Class of '45 will entitle them only to seats in the designated section of the stands, on the west side for the Syracuse game.

MOTORISTS driving to Ithaca from the north are warned of dangerous traffic congestion caused by trucks hauling sand and gravel to the Army Ordnance depot being built at Kendaia. Colonel Paul B. Parker, constructing quartermaster in charge, announces that through traffic between Geneva and Ithaca is being directed to Route 89, which skirts the west shore of Cayuga Lake.

WAYSIDE AFTERMATH has elected Julia V. Donaldson '42 of Pittsburgh, Pa., president; N. Louise Schall '43 of Oakdale, Pa., vice-president; Thelma J. Drake '42 of Webster, corresponding secretary; Inez C. L. Johnston '44 of Ithaca, recording secretary; Eleanor M. Goodman '44 of Ithaca, treasurer.

HUSBAND-WIFE CHAMPIONS in the summer's golf tournament at the Ithaca Country Club were Martin J. Speno '38 and his recent bride, the former Clarine A. Hughes, Grad.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION has elected Irene H. Liberman '42 of New York City, president for this year. Vice-president is Marion E. Keller '43 of Pelham Manor; secretary, Shirley J. Dodds '42 of Pittsburgh, Pa.; treasurer, Frances Tuttle '42 of Bay Shore. Annual banquet last June was in honor of Mrs. George N. Lauman, who has been adviser to the WAA since 1934. She is succeeded now by Mrs. Lowell F. Randolph (Fannie C. Rane), AM '23.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER October 5 is the Right Rev. G. Ashton Oldham '01, bishop of Albany. Following his custom, the Bishop makes his annual visit to accord with an interesting football game here. Opening the services for the year, September 28, the Sage Chapel preacher was the Rev. Albert G. Butzer of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Buffalo.

CLASS OF 1913

By Class Correspondent

These '13ers leave their marks in all sorts of places! At "Hoffman's Anchorage," fishing headquarters in Brielle, N. J., a '13er was looking at what might be called the trophy room and was struck by an enlargement on the mantelpiece showing a closeup of the face of a big tuna just coming over the gunwale of the boat. Mr. Hoffman explained that it was that particular customer's first tuna and that statistics as to size, where caught, etc., were on the back of the picture. Turning the picture over the '13er found there also the fisherman's signature, ALEXANDER LYLE.

1913 also produced one of the two heroes of a story current in the Westhampton area of Great South Bay, L. I. It seems that HOWARD SNYDER and his host, one afternoon, pumped the accumulated rainwater out of the cockpit of the host's boat preparatory to an excursion the following day. Their task completed, they left the pump in the cockpit and the other end of the hose hanging in Great South Bay. When they returned the next morning the Bay had been siphoned back into the cockpit and the boat was sunk at the dock.

From some of the advertising in Fortune for August, it looks as if SPIDE BRIDGEMAN of the Johnson Wax Co. were trying to compete with the famous Chic Sale!

CLASS OF 1940

Important Notice

If you have not yet renewed your subscription to the ALUMNI NEWS, this is the last copy of the paper you will receive. Subscriptions bought by the University for the entire Class expired last June, but we have all received the NEWS up to this issue. If your address on the back of this copy is followed by "S40," your order had not been received when this copy was addressed.

The Class of '40 still has a chance to set a new record in ALUMNI NEWS subscriptions, as we have in many other ways. If you haven't sent in your renewal, won't you do it NOW? You will miss the NEWS if it stops, with a new football season just opening, the Campus and University starting a new year of unusual interest, and all the news items about Classmates and friends.

Your renewal order must reach the ALUMNI NEWS not later than Monday, October 6, to get your copy into next week's regular mailing. If later, you may get next week's paper or not, depending on whether any are left. Don't miss that issue. We hope you'll stay with us!

The summer and vacations for most of us are over; the football season is at hand, and your correspondent apologizes for his recent lack of correspondence with promises that during the 1941-42 school year he will try his best to keep you informed of our Classmates' doings.

The NEWS will shortly publish a directory of all Cornellians active in the US Army or Navy, so henceforth this column will bring you news of those of us not listed in the above category.

First, I wish to congratulate those of you who have re-subscribed to the ALUMNI NEWS; your action will greatly help us in keeping in touch with one another. And by the way, "ACE" MAGOUN was lucky to have his name picked out of a football helmet by Coach Snively for two free tickets to any football game this fall. Congratulations, Ace. How about being guest writer for this column in the News following the game which you choose to attend?

In an attempt to catch up and at the same time acknowledge the bits of news which have been sent in by many of you along with your subscriptions, I am forthwith passing on some of the information which was received during the early summer.

Delightful Paradox!

Put a thoroughly modern hotel in the heart of fabulous Manhattan and you expect certain things . . . like smartness and convenience (the Grosvenor is 3 short blocks or less from 3 subways and 3 bus routes, with Fifth Avenue buses at door) and modernity (attractive appointments, running ice water, tub and shower).

But when to these advantages you add a smart, tree-lined neighborhood . . . quiet for restful nights . . . large, airy rooms . . . moderate rates . . . and freedom from traffic troubles . . . then you have a delightful paradox of a hotel that for comfortable living is hard to equal anywhere.

These Dollars Go Far

A life insurance claim payment signifies much more than a mere transfer of money.

The insurance dollars have a big job to accomplish. They will buy food, clothing, shelter where there are often no other means. They may keep a family together, help retain its own home, finance the children's education. They bring comfort and confidence to bewildered survivors.

Wisdom dictates that every breadwinner should provide these far-reaching benefits for his family.
