THE UNIVERSITY OPENS New Students Get Foretaste

The students are back. As we go to press, registration lines are formed in the Drill Hall, for new students Monday and Tuesday and for those returning Tuesday and Wednesday; the first University classes starting Thursday morning except in the Law School where they began September 21.

Many were here for the football game Saturday afternoon; there was a dance in Willard Straight Hall Saturday night; and by Monday dormitories and fraternity and sorority houses were well tenanted. Tuesday afternoon the annual "Frosh Get-Wise Meeting" was scheduled in Bailey Hall, with President Day and Edward E. Hughes, II '38, football captain, as featured speakers.

Registration this year is estimated by Dr. Eugene F. Bradford as probably greater than last year's near-high record of 6,007. All Colleges, he says, reached their expected quota of new students early in the summer, and all except Engineering and Architecture he thinks will be filled to capacity. Applications for the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Home Economics, and Veterinary Medicine exceeded their capacities almost three to one, notwithstanding that additional appropriation by the State Legislature enabled Home Economics this fall to increase its limit of new students from 100 to 150. Enrolment in the Law School is 179. Of these 71 are first year students, 53, second year, 54 are Seniors, and one is a graduate student.

More than 200 members of the Class of '41 got their first taste of Cornell life three days last week at the twelfth annual Freshman Camp, sponsored by CURW. They met at Barnes Hall Wednesday morning, and after breakfast were transported in busses to Camp Cory, the summer camp of the Rochester YMCA on Keuka Lake. Here they lived with a score of upperclassmen, as counsellors, until Saturday; learned the Cornell songs, swam and played together, and were told about Cornell by members of the Faculty and others.

During the summer invitations were sent to entering Freshmen by the camp committee. Each boy who came paid his own expenses—$9.50 for the three days. Saturday afternoon, upon their return to Ithaca, the new Freshmen were taken on a tour of the Campus and attended the football game.

A message from President Edmund E. Day sent to the Freshmen with their invitations said: "Like this year's incoming Freshmen, I shall be new this fall to the Cornell Campus. The opportunity afforded by the Freshmen Camp to learn promptly some of the ways of the University is an opportunity which I frankly covet for myself. Attendance at the camp seems to be one of the clearest ways of getting off to a good start. . . . Besides President Day, speakers this year included Coaches John F. Moakley, on "Sportmanship;" Carl Snavelly, on "Athletics;" and Nick Bawlf, showing motion pictures; Archie M. Palmer '18, executive secretary of the Cornellian Council, "Competitions;" J. Frederic Hillegas '38, editor of the Sun, "Publications;" John B. Williams '38, on the Dramatic Club; Austin H. Kiplinger '39, on the Student Council and other activities; the Rev. James A. G. Moore and Kiplinger, "Religious and Cultural Opportunities on the Campus;" Professor Riverda H. Jordan, Education, "Fraternities and Their Problems;" Professor Herbert H. Whetzel, Plant Pathology, "How to Study;" and Dr. Robert P. Sibley, Assistant Dean and Secretary of the Arts College, summarizing the requirements of University life and explaining registrations, etc.

Heading the Camp committee this year was Vincent A. Pardo '38 of Havana, Cuba, as director. Lewis P. Kelsey '38 of White Plains was business manager; Walter P. Naquin, Jr. '38 of Kukuihaele, Hawaii, publicity manager; and Kenneth S. Kline of CURW staff, executive adviser. Members of the committee were Professor Jordan (as he has been for ten years), the Rev. John D. W. Fetter, Dr. Moore, Walter H. Foersch '39 of Rochester, athletic director, Kiplinger, William P. Lentz '39 of Baltimore, Md., and Deloss A. Rose '39 of Rochester.

Meanwhile, the women students entering Home Economics for the first time this fall arrived on the Campus Thursday afternoon for the annual "Home Economics week end," devoted until Saturday noon to their orientation as students, by members of the guidance group of the College staff. Over the week end and through registration days, all new women students were entertained with a program sponsored by the Women's Self-Government Association, of Class teas and talks by Dean R. Louise Fitch and other members of the Faculty.

BRIDGES OF ITHACA, inspected by Professor Earle N. Burrows '07, Civil Engineering, who was retained for that duty by the City Fathers, have been hurriedly repaired to avoid serious accidents, after he found a dangerous hanging abutment of the Aurora Street bridge over Cascadilla Creek and need for immediate renovation of the Lake Street crossing of Fall Creek.

CLUBS FETE FRESHMEN Entering the University

Cornell Clubs in many cities begin activities coincidentally with the University's year; and several at their first meetings entertained entering Freshmen and their parents, especially those who are alumni. Such gatherings have been held by the Cornell Clubs of Rochester, Philadelphia, Pa., Chicago, Ill., St. Louis, Mo., Maryland, the Cornell Women's Club of New York, and perhaps others. Reports of them all had not reached us at press time, but those described are undoubtedly representative of several others.

Professor Dexter S. Kimball, Engineering, Emeritus, was the principal speaker at the opening luncheon of the Cornell Club of Rochester at the University Club September 15. The Dean directed his remarks particularly to the twenty-four entering students who were the special guests of the Club. He outlined the reasons why a boy should go to college, why he should go to Cornell, and the various activities that might interest him; and emphasized the effort that each should make to form genuine friendships.

Seventy-five members of the Club greeted Frank E. Gannett '98, Trustee of the University, at the weekly luncheon of the Club September 22. Gannett has been devoting much of his time during the last few months as chairman of a non-partisan committee to uphold Constitutional government. His luncheon subject was "The Supreme Court and the Constitution."

The Cornell Club of Philadelphia held a special luncheon in honor of the entering Freshmen at the Cornell Club, 1219 Spruce Street, September 15. Of the fifty men who attended, twenty were on the way to Cornell for the first time, and a substantial proportion of the balance were other undergraduates. Otto V. Kruse '09, president of the Club, presented each undergraduate with a membership card in the Club. The privilege will continue during undergraduate years, and there will be no dues or assessments. David M. Crawford '38 of Philadelphia, president of the Interfraternity Council, was another speaker.

Nine Freshmen entering the University from the Chicago district, with their fathers, were guests of the Cornell Club of Chicago at luncheon September 16. Frederick H. Bird '11, president of the Club, presided and introduced as principal speaker Alfred H. Hutchinson '09, who was last June elected Alumni Trustee of the University. More than sixty men attended.

At the September 23 luncheon of the Chicago Club, Stewart A. Cushman '20 read excerpts of letters he had received from Cornellians all over the world. The Club meets for luncheon Thursdays at the University Club. The program committee, headed by Millard F. Bingham, 3d '27, announces a discussion of "Political and Military Conditions in Europe" by Colonel Edward Davis '96, former president, at the luncheon October 7.

The Cornell Club of St. Louis lunched at the Hotel De Soto September 15. Four entering Freshmen from that city were special guests. Harry R. McClain '02, president of the Club, introduced the boys, as well as some of the older men who made talks. Alvin F. Griesedieck '16 led the singing; Theodore White '10, the cheers.

Edith L. Gardner '36 was in charge of the program at a tea given by the Cornell Women's Club of New York September 18 in its rooms at 140 East Sixty-third Street, for entering Freshmen, local undergraduates, recent graduates, and other alumnae. Mary H. Donlon '20, newly-elected Alumni Trustee, was a speaker.

The Cornell Club of Maryland held its luncheon September 16 at the Merchants Club in Baltimore.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

"Received today one of the rarest oddities, a letter from Washington, D. C., that bears no insignia of any bureau. Seems that a Mr. R. L. Doty [Robert L. Doty '25—Ed.] down there is deeply interested in Cornell's chances this fall. 'What became of Sheffer, Dick Baker, Leventry and Scholz?' he asked. Baker busted, Sheffer is on pro, and Scholz has transferred from the line to the backfield. I don't know what became of Leventry and at this particular moment haven't the time to find out.

"Tommy Farrell's knee injury which won't heal caused him to give up the game for this season, Mr. Doty, but we expect such fellows as Wit Baker and Ken Brown to develop rapidly. You are absolutely right about Holland being a star and we can't see the lustre dimmed for any reason. . . .

"In reply to your question about injuries, all we can say is that more boys are being hurt now, or so it seems, than two or three years ago. Not inclined to the belief that coaching has anything to do with it though. From our own observation we know that no football coach ever concerned himself more with the physical well being of his men than does Mr. Snavely."—Bernard M. Clarey '28, in "The Sport Tower," Ithaca Journal.

NEW CURATE of St. John's Church in Ithaca and Episcopal student pastor is the Rev. H. Gruber Woolf, until last June teacher of dramatics in the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. and formerly a teacher at Starkey Seminary.

About ATHLETICS

CORNELL 26, PENN STATE 19

On a cold November day in 1926, the Varsity defeated Dartmouth, 24—23, on a last-minute field goal by Captain Emerson Carey, Jr. '28.

On heat-wracked Schoellkopf Field last Saturday, Cornell opened its second half-century of intercollegiate football with a last-minute victory over Penn State, 26—19.

It was a game every bit as thrill-packed as that Dartmouth contest of eleven years ago, for Penn State, trailing 19—6, had suddenly executed two sensational plays to produce two touchdowns and an extra point to tie the score, with four minutes left to play.

But on the wings of the forward pass, as thrown by Baker and caught by Peck, Cornell roared with a sixty-five-yard drive to victory; a drive that thrice seemed doomed to fail.

Six thousand spectators saw Cornell put the ball in play on her own 35-yard line, after Metro's kickoff went out of bounds. Peck lost four yards on a sweep, but Baker, unheralded as a Freshman back a year ago, cut through tackle to midfield as Brown blocked out two State defenders.

Baker launched the first of four passes. Peck took the ball on State's 40-yard stripe, in the clear; but Metro, partly blocked out by Hilmer, came off the ground to down the Cornell halfback. It was the second first down of the drive, with the ball on State's 36-yard line.

Another pass missed fire; a plunge lost ground; a penalty gave Cornell five yards. Then it was Baker to Peck again for another first down on State's 20-yard mark. The Lions broke through to smother Peck for a 10-yard loss, but Baker and Peck were far from daunted. Through the air, to the southwest corner of the field, floated another pass. Peck snatched it from a Penn State defender, but could not cut back over the goal line. He was forced out of bounds perhaps a foot from the line.

Baker smashed the line and lost. A Cornell lineman went offside, and the Varsity lost five precious yards. Baker tried the line again, on the weak side, through guard, found a wide hole, and scored. The crowd roared.

Rose, called from the bench, place-kicked the twenty-sixth point. Fifty seconds of play were left. Peck intercepted a pass, Penn State's last gamble, as the game ended.

Thus was climaxed Cornell's fifth victory in the ten-game series with Penn State. One game ended in a scoreless tie.

Cornell's seasoned, powerful line told the story. It outplayed State from start to finish, for the Lions' touchdowns were scored through lapses by Cornell's secondary defense. Two State passes, from Ickes to Adessa for thirty-five yards, and from Harrison to Ickes for fifteen yards, netted State a 6—0 lead in the first five minutes.

Cornell came back in the same period to tie, marching seventy-two yards, with Baker and Peck running the ball and Baker tossing aials to Peck and Spang. Baker scored from the two-yard line.

State had no chance in the second period, for Cornell inexorably drove eighty-five yards to take the lead and again fifty-two yards to build up a 19—6 margin that pointed to victory.

Moulton, Boochever, and Holland were the big guns of the first attack; Boochever, Holland, Baker, and Spang of the second. Eichler scored the second touchdown on a five-yard flat pass off the right flank; Baker the third on a fifteen-yard dash off his right tackle. Rose converted after Eichler's touchdown.

Penn State solved Cornell's running game in the third period, and Baker's passing temporarily lost its effectiveness. The fourth period opened with a punting duel, Hooper, sending two boots out of bounds on State's seven-yard marker. But Harrison's punting kept the Lions out of danger.

The break that started State on its spectacular rally came when Toretti recovered a Cornell fumble on his own thirty-yard line. Wear, a substitute back, passed fifteen yards to Adessa. Down the sideline he tore, picking up blockers as he ran for a touchdown. Harrison missed the extra point.

A short punt by Hooper, rolling out on State's 33-yard marker, set up the next touchdown. Wear, faking a reverse, cut around Cornell's right end, completely duping the Cornell secondary defense. Peck caught up with him on the five-yard line and Moulton sent him out of bounds two yards from the goal. From there Metro plunged for a touchdown. This time Harrison did not miss the vital extra point.

So the score was tied, only to be broken by Cornell's fighting, dramatic comeback. The lineup:

CORNELL (26)	Pos.	PENN STATE (19)
Holland	LE	Barantovich
McKeever	LT	Hanley
Hemingway	LG	Toretti
Stahl	C	Enders
Hooper	RG	Peel
Van Ranst	RT	T. Nemeth
Spang	RE	Adessa
Eichler	QB	Harrison
Peck	LH	Ickes
Baker	RH	Donato
Rose	FB	Metro
Cornell.....	6 13 0	7—26
Penn State.....	6 0 0	13—19

Cornell scoring: Touchdowns, Baker 3, Eichler; points after touchdowns, Rose 2 (placekicks).

Penn State scoring: Touchdowns, Ickes, Adessa, Metro; point after touchdown, Harrison (placekick).

Cornell substitutes: Ends, Hilmer, French; tackle, Tuths; guards, Roth, Rutledge; center, Van Ranst; backs, Moulton, Brown, Boochever, Meagher, Nelson.

Penn State substitutes: Ends, Alter, Wasabaugh; tackles, De Marino, Ellwood, Pollock, D. Nemeth; guards, Sills, Thompson; center, Briggs; backs, Wear, Skemp, Giannantonio, Patrick, Rollins.

Referee, E. F. Hughitt, Michigan; umpire, C. J. McCarty; linesman, J. J. Ailinger; field judge, A. W. Palmer.

Cornell's ground-gaining and passing ability was markedly demonstrated in the statistics. Cornell rushed 215 yards and completed ten of twenty-two passes for 145 yards, registering twenty-three first downs en route. Penn State gained 106 yards rushing and 118 yards on three of seven passes for four first downs.

* * *

McKeever and Van Ranst, tackles, and Baker played the full sixty minutes as the thermometer hung in the high eighties. Van Ranst shifted to center when Stahl rested, with Tuths replacing him at right tackle.

* * *

Longest Cornell run: Baker's return of Harrison's quick kick from Cornell's thirty-five yard line to Penn State's twenty-eight.

Best block: Brown's elimination of two State tacklers on Boochever's nine-yard dash in the third period.

Best pass: Baker's floating aerial to Peck for twenty-nine yards to State's one-foot mark.

Kicking highlight: Hooper's two punts out of bounds on State's seven-yard line.

Notable generalship: Baker's pass to Spang to State's fifteen-yard line in the first period immediately after the same play had missed.

* * *

The Varsity faces Colgate Saturday in another outstanding Eastern game. Colgate was unimpressive in beating St. Lawrence last Saturday, 21-0. Of Cornell's other future opponents, Dartmouth opened with a 39-0 victory over Bates. Princeton, Syracuse, Yale, Columbia, and Pennsylvania will open their seasons next Saturday.

PLANT IMPROVEMENTS

Summer was no idle time for the Department of Physical Education and Athletics. Among improvements to the Department's plant were these:

Heat for the Bacon practice cage, by hooking it into the University central heating system; new toilets under the Crescent; ticket booths moved nearer Schoellkopf Field entrance; improved protection for the colonnade boxes atop the Crescent; new paving for the Field entrance; a new playground back of the men's dormitories; a new training barge for Freshmen crew candidates; a new, modern training room in Schoellkopf field house; up-to-date equipment for the ticket offices; completion of the new floor in the Old Armory; and a new tennis house, with showers and lockers, adjoining the Cascadilla courts, which have been entirely resurfaced.

In addition, attendants at the football games are in new uniforms this fall.

FALL SPORTS BEGIN

Football holds the stage, but other sports are also swinging into action. Cross country, in fact, has been underway more than a week, under the watchful eye of John F. Moakley, starting his thirty-ninth year.

Few distance runners came up from last year's Freshman squad, and the burden will be on Captain Howard W. Welch '38 of Trumansburg and Herbert H. Cornell '38 of Brooklyn, who finished third and seventh in last year's intercollegiate. The three other Cornell scorers of last year were members of the Class of '37: Captain Edmund V. Mezitt, William V. Bassett, and Norman C. Healy.

Besides Welch and Cornell, there will be, among others, Louis J. Loughlin '38 of Sauquoit, Warren L. Bohner '38 of Maplewood, N. J., and Hugh M. Atwood '38 of Olean.

Soccer and fall baseball practice started this week with the opening of the University. Coach Tatum planned two-hour baseball sessions before football practice, when he will turn his attention to the Freshman football squad. Bacon Cage will be heated, permitting baseball practice throughout the year.

THREE NEW COACHES

Two alumni athletes and a former intercollegiate boxing champion have joined the coaching staff of the Department of Physical Education and Athletics for this year.

Alfred B. Wolff, who held the middle-weight title from 1927 to 1929, winning twenty-eight consecutive bouts for Penn State, will direct the boxing squad. He has been coaching boxing and football and teaching at Textile High School, New York City.

Robert J. Kane '34, former sprinter and quarter-miler, will assist coach John F. Moakley with the track squads. Kane finished his Varsity track career by winning the 440-yard run for the Cornell-Princeton team in the meet with Oxford and Cambridge at London in 1934. Later that summer he toured Europe with a group of Amateur Athletic Union runners. He has been working in Chicago, and on August 14 married Ruth Brosmer, of Norwich.

Millett G. Morgan '37, an undergraduate pioneer in organized winter sports at the University and the son of Dr. Frank M. Morgan '09 of Hanover, N. H., will be skiing coach. He was for two years president of the Ski Club and two years ago was president of the Intercollegiate Ski Union. Married last June 29 to Jesse E. Walbridge '38 of Enfield, N. H., he will also enter the Graduate School this fall for work in Electrical Engineering. He and Mrs. Morgan live at 101 Ferris Place, Ithaca.

ODDS AND ENDS

Charles C. Carter '22, captain of cross country in 1921, will help Coach John F. Moakley develop the Freshman squad. Carter led the Varsity to England in 1920 and won the meet with Oxford and Cambridge. . . . He has been operating pay-as-you-go golf courses at Rock Island, Ill., his home, Cedar Rapids, and Ottumwa, Iowa. . . . Moakley recalls that in 1921, the year Cornell last won the intercollegiate cross country title, Carter lost his chance to finish first by holding back to encourage other Cornell runners. . . . Robert E. Brown '22 was the eventual winner.

James Lynah '05, Director of Physical Education and Athletics, heads a new committee of the Eastern Intercollegiate Association which will investigate possibilities of establishing a central intercollegiate office with wide powers in all branches of athletics.

A GLANCE BACKWARDS

Twenty years ago: "Shiverick, Miller, Gillies, Carey, Eckley, Ryerson, Benedict, Speed, and Anderson, of the 1916 Cornell eleven, are all in military or naval service. Cornell probably cares more about shining in France than at Franklin Field."—From the News, September 27, 1917.

FOOTBALL HOME-BREDS FEWER

Seven of this year's football squad of fifty-one players are the sons of Cornellians. Two Sophomores have entered this roster, the other five being Juniors and Seniors. Last year, fifteen of fifty players were so recorded. The roster:

Son	Position	Father
Robert Boochever '39	End	Louis C. Boochever '12
Wright Bronson, Jr. '40	Back	Wright Bronson '11
Herbert F. Hilmer '39	End	Otto E. Hilmer '07
Elliott H. Hooper '38	Guard	Franklyn G. Hooper '07
Capt. Edward E. Hughes, II '38	Center	Henry M. Hughes '12
William W. McKeever '39	Tackle	William McKeever '98 ( '97 football captain)
George M. Walker '40	End	Harry A. Walker '05

RESEARCH IN CIVIL ENGINEERING

By Raymond F. Howes '24

Flood damage again last month to Ithaca and surrounding areas of the Southern Tier directs attention to the extensive research toward flood control being carried on by the School of Civil Engineering in co-operation with the War Department. Laboratories in Lincoln Hall and elsewhere about the Campus are fairly humming with activity, not only in flood control studies but with important research in sewage disposal, in steel construction, and in allied fields.

Associate engineer in charge of the New York district office of the U. S. Army Engineer Corps set up here after the disastrous floods of 1935 and 1936 is Benjamin K. Hough, Jr., MIT '28, who is the son of Benjamin K. Hough '97. Co-operating in the work of his staff of thirty-five civilians are Professor Ernest W. Schoder, PhD '03, Hydraulics, and other members of the Civil Engineering staff.

Research is proceeding in two major directions: problems in channel improvement, construction of check dams, and other water control measures; and studies of foundation conditions and suitable materials for earth embankments and earth dams where needed. A scale model of the Chenango River through Binghamton has been constructed in the canal along Beebe Lake above the Hydraulics Laboratory, and similar models of other areas will be built for later studies. In a new soil mechanics laboratory built by the War Department north of the Agriculture barns and equipped with two car-loads of apparatus from the abandoned Passamaquoddy Dam in Maine, soils of specific sites and other fundamental problems are being studied. The building contains a model basin for the study of shore erosion, of great importance along sandy sea coasts.

Besides this expansion of flood-control and soil mechanics research, sixteen Lieutenants in the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, selected from the highest fifth of their class at West Point, will come to the University this fall for advanced study in Civil Engineering. Nearly 100 Army officers have studied here since 1924, but this is the largest number sent at one time.

Sewage disposal, one of the most important problems of municipalities, is also being attacked by the staff of the School. A battery of sixteen "digestion" units, each with fifty-gallon capacity, has been set up in the basement of Goldwin Smith Hall for research into the digestibility of ground garbage at sewage treatment plants—digestibility meaning chemical and bacteriological decomposition in manner to render the product harmless when discharged into open water courses. This program is supported by the General Electric Company.

The School of Civil Engineering has also inaugurated an educational program for municipal workers in sewage disposal and water purification plants. Nearly a hundred men from thirty-one up-State counties attended a training course here last April for superintendents of sewers and operators of sewage disposal plants. Such a "school" will be held biennially, with conferences for operators of water purification plants in alternate years. Another series of one-week courses will be offered the same groups throughout the year, in which the Faculty of Civil Engineering will give technical laboratory instruction. These are being undertaken with the co-operation of the State Department of Health.

A battery of machines, each capable of delivering a 200,000-pound load repeated thirty times a minute, will soon be completed in Lincoln Hall, for research into fatigue of welded connections. There is reason to believe, according to Director S. C. Hollister, that there is difference in the behavior of connections under steady stress and those subjected to repeated impacts. Discovery of the precise differences will be of great importance in designing steel structures. This opportunity to study behavior of full size welded connections under repeated strains is made possible by the co-operation of the American Bureau of Welding, Carnegie-Illinois Steel Company, Babcock and Wilcox Company, and General Electric.

Another new project dealing with the effect of impacts is the use of a photo-elastic apparatus which renders visible, for qualitative and quantitative determination, stresses produced by loading a structural member. Transparent materials such as bakelite and marblite are used. An apparatus developed by Dr. Trevor R. Cuykendall, PhD '35, Research Associate in Civil Engineering, photographs with exposures of less than a millionth of a second the travelling stress waves caused by impacts.

"Fundamental theories concerning impact loading heretofore accepted are now inadequate for the proper design of structural parts of bridges and machine parts subject to shock loading," says Director Hollister. "The approach to this basic problem lies in the fields of applied physics and applied mathematics." A year ago the School of Civil Engineering, with financial support from the Westinghouse Fund and assistants provided through the McMullen Fund, began its investigations in co-operation with the Physics Department. Data are being compiled from exhaustive tests of several types of materials, cut into various shapes and subjected to different kinds of stresses.

THE BINGHAMTON FLOOD AREA IN MINIATURE

Model of the Chenango River for about two miles above its junction with the Susquehanna River at Binghamton, built to exact scale of 12 inches to 75 feet by Army engineers, in the canal off Beebe Lake. The photograph, looking downstream, shows about a third of a mile of the river, the pegs representing trees, and the blocks, buildings along the bank. Bridges shown are successively the Erie and D. L. & W. Railroad bridges; the new Ferry Street bridge, rebuilt since the 1935 flood; and the Court Street bridge in Binghamton. With the river bottom constructed exactly to scale, the flow of water in the model is regulated exactly as comparable to the river at its various known stages, and its surface level and spread at various points is measured and recorded continuously for flood control study.

CAMPUS NEWS BROADCASTS

Alumni who tune their radios to Station WESG, the University broadcasting station, will get Campus news five afternoons a week this year, it is announced by the Cornell Daily Sun, which will gather the news to be broadcast by Lucky Strike cigarettes. Campus news will be put on the air from WESG every day except Saturday and Sunday at 5:40 p.m., beginning in late October. A competition will be run to select two undergraduates to officiate as announcers, and programs will continue throughout the year.

NOSTALGIA

(R.B. in "State and Tioga," Ithaca Journal)

Saturday at noon we were diverted from our task by the roar of sirens from the river. A moment's doubt and then we knew it was the day and hour when the transatlantic liners start their weekly voyages in a cluster. From the parapet outside the office window we could see through the light haze an even half-dozen steamers backing out into the stream and squaring away, flags flying, sirens moaning and the bands, no doubt, playing gaily on the decks. It made us feel a little homesick, not because we were left ashore but because the picture recalled a comparable scene—the Campus at one o'clock when the students pour out of the Quadrangle to the music of the bells and flow down the Hill in noisy groups.

UNIVERSITY CONCERTS

The University music committee has announced the artists selected for the two series of University concerts this year. As before, season tickets will be sold by the Music Department, 302 Wait Avenue, for each series independently; and as last year, it is expected that the demand from students in the University and of nearby colleges, from alumni within driving distance, and from townspeople, will leave few seats available for the separate concerts.

The Bailey Hall series will open November 4, with Albert Spalding, brilliant American violinist, who about twenty years ago, then at the beginning of his career, appeared in Ithaca as soloist with the University Orchestra. Next in this series will be Kirsten Flagstad, operatic soprano formerly with the Metropolitan and who last year attained success in England and on the continent. On Founder's Day, January 11, Robert Casadesu, French pianist formerly with the New York and Philadelphia Orchestras, will play in Bailey Hall; and the series will close March 26 with the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra under direction of Dr. Artur Rodzinski. Following his success last spring with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, Rodzinski is now co-operating with Toscanini in the formation of the new NBC orchestra.

The chamber music series of three concerts opens November 16, with Ernst

Wolff, lieder singer, and will include also the Stradivarius Quartet, February 22; and Lydia Hoffman-Behrendt, pianist, March 15. These concerts will be given in the Willard Straight Theatre.

Dean Robert M. Ogden '00, Arts and Sciences, is chairman of the music committee of the Faculty which arranges the concerts. Its other members are Professors Paul J. Weaver, Music; Cornelius Betten, PhD '05, Dean of the Faculty, Robert P. Sibley, Assistant Dean and Secretary, Arts and Sciences; Laurence Pumpelly, Romance Languages; and Wallie A. Hurwitz, Mathematics.

ANOTHER CHARACTER PASSES

JEROME FIDDLER, head barber at Willard Straight Hall, is dead. Some time in the night of September 11, on his way home, he evidently drove to the side of the road, stopped, and went to sleep at the wheel. They found him there the next morning.

Jerry Fiddler was born in Russia and lived fifty-two years. The first fifty came pretty hard, from all accounts, but in the last eleven years he's been living exactly the life he longed for ever since he took a special course in Agriculture in 1907-08. He acquired the barber shop in Willard Straight and a little farm on the Slaterville Road on which he built a cottage to his own design. The cottage he insulated throughout with barber shop hair clippings saved up for years and years to this end.

Each day at his shop he preached to all students who came under his hot towels sound principles of patriotism, literature, and agricultural practice; each night and morning at the farm he produced raspberries and melons of superior quality. For years, he saw the sun come up and go down on fifteen acres that were his own. Thus he achieved his every wish, and must have died content at the side of the Slaterville Road.

OFFICIAL DELEGATE of Cornell at the inauguration of Dr. Levering Tyson as president of Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., October 1 and 2, will be Professor Arthur E. Rowland '13, now at University of Pennsylvania.

JOBS AVAILABLE

Of the twelve "Positions Open" listed in the current Bulletin 40 of the University Placement Bureau, nine are for men with engineering training. Of these, two are for experienced men to work at good salaries in Colombia, South America; one at construction and the other as chief engineer in an electric power plant. Other engineering jobs call for a variety of experience and work, five in manufacturing plants. The other jobs listed are for a dietician, a chemist, and a salesman who knows Spanish.

Alumni interested in these or other jobs are invited to send details of their qualifications, with photograph if possible, to the University Placement Bureau, Willard Straight Hall, Ithaca.

HOTEL ALUMNI STAY AT IT

Of the 302 living graduates of the course in Hotel Administration, 241, or approximately 80 percent, are engaged in the hotel or allied businesses, according to a study compiled by Professor John Courtney '25, secretary of the Cornell Society of Hotelmen. A questionnaire mailed last fall to each of the "280 alumni who constituted the effective alumni membership of the Cornell Society of Hotelmen" brought 168 answers, indicating, "as might be expected, that the typical earning increases with the length of time out of college. . . . Those out one year typically earned about $35 a week, including "fair value of room and board when either or both of these constituted part of the total compensation." This figure increases to about $142 a week for the oldest Class, in its twelfth year out of college.

Twelve alumni were hotel or restaurant owners or lessees; 60 were managers of hotels or clubs; 29 were assistant managers; and 4 were assistants to executives. Twenty-eight were engaged in accounting, and an equal number as room clerks and front office clerks; 21 each in foods departments of hotels or institutions and in restaurants; and 19 in sales promotion. Fifteen were in allied businesses; 43 were in other than the hotel business; and 18 were unknown or without jobs.

"Over-all averages," continues the report, "indicate that when total remuneration is in the form of cash, 22 percent of it is spent for lodging and 35 percent for board. But the amount and percentage so spent depends on whether the person is single, married, or supporting a family."

Thus, if total weekly remuneration is $10, a single man spends 75 percent of it for room and board; a married man 90 percent; and a man supporting a family 95 percent.

Similarly, a graduate earning $100 a week and single, spends 20 percent of his wages for room and board; a married man earning the same amount spends 48 percent; while a man supporting a family on $100 a week spends 63 percent.

NOW, IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

One of the most interesting phenomena of the alumni psychosis the world over is the common hallucination that there is never anything in the papers about Alma Mater; that a venal or deluded press is committed to publishing nothing but tripe about other and lesser educational foundations.

In the investigation of this baffling neurosis we left New York over the weekend, went up to Ithaca, sat in the press box, and from that vantage point watched the Cornell football team become its own press agent. A team that can lose a game in the first three minutes, win it conclusively in the second period, throw it away in the descending twilight, and finally snatch it back in the last sixty seconds does not require the services of a Public Relations Counsel. A team which does that in September and before college opens, can keep out of the papers no longer than its patrons can keep out of the psychopathic ward.

Mr. George Trevor of the New York Sun, who sat directly in front of us in the press box, rewrote his lead four times during the progress of the contest. When we left him in the gloaming he was reconstructing his entire story.

Mr. L. C. Boochever, the Cornell Public Relations Counsel, had little to do this time except pass out Coca-Cola to an exhausted press and register gratified astonishment every time his little boy emerged from the bottom of the pile without another broken leg.

Mr. Boochever issued but three official releases during the afternoon, and these averaged 100 percent for accuracy. He announced (1) that the thermometer in the press box registered 87, which was in excess of the facts; (2) that the bathroom was downstairs to your left, a statement which proved scientifically correct; and (3) that the spectacular nature of the Penn State game would be worth $15,000 to the A.A. in build-up for the Colgate contest and in stimulating next week's season ticket sale. The figure of $15,000 struck us as gross understatement, balancing the exaggeration about the thermometer.

The Cornell Club in New York must have been a pretty deserted place over the week end, because after the game we saw most of the regular 5:30 standbys strolling down from the field with the vanguard of the Class of 1941, who shone in their new gray caps.

The alumni we saw weren't particularly amusing or voluble. You've pretty much got to lose a football game in order to make alumni chatty!

TRAINS TO GAMES

The Cornell Club of New York has arranged for special trains to run to the Princeton game at Princeton October 9 and the Yale game at New Haven October 23. The former will leave New York City from the Pennsylvania Station; the latter from Grand Central Terminal, in time to reach the playing fields by game time; and both will return to New York immediately following.

Two thousand seats have been reserved by the Club for each game. Further information and tickets for trains and games may be obtained from Thomas R. Ludlam '11 or Robert L. Bliss '30 at the Cornell Club of New York, 245 Madison Avenue, New York City.

DR. STRUNK WRITES A PLAY

"Antony and Cleopatra," the script written by PROFESSOR WILLIAM STRUNK, JR., PhD '96, will open in Rochester October 13. The next three days the play will appear in Buffalo; then for a week in Pittsburgh, and go on to Columbus, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Dayton, Louisville, Montgomery, Ala., Memphis, and Little Rock, Ark. before the New York opening.

Tallulah Bankhead plays Cleopatra; Antony is Conway Tearle; Caesar, John Emery; and Regina Wallace plays Octavia. The producer is Roland Stebbins, who produced "Green Pastures" and "The Pursuit of Happiness;" the director, Reginald Bach, who played in and directed "Love on the Dole;" and sets for the production have been designed by Mielziner.

Professor Strunk returned to Ithaca last week from the rehearsals in New York City. Although characteristically modest, he did not appear, over the telephone, to be dissatisfied in the least with the rehearsals, as authors are sometimes said to be.

GUEST COLUMNIST of "The Sport Tower" in the Ithaca Journal September 17 was Louis C. Boochever '12, University Director of Public Information. His column was twenty-five sticklers designed to test readers' football knowledge.

MOVING?

If you change your address, be sure to notify us, so you won't miss any issues of the ALUMNI NEWS. Postoffices do not forward magazines unless you leave a deposit. Please send us your name, old address, and new address, plainly written.

COMING EVENTS

Time and place of regular Club luncheons are printed separately as we have space. Notices of other Cornell events, both in Ithaca and abroad, appear below. Contributions to this column must be received on or before Thursday to appear the next Thursday.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

MONIKER BUTTONS, similar to those used as nameplates at alumni reunions, are this year being passed out with their caps to all members of the Class of '41 by the Freshman advisory committee. Besides helping the newcomers to get acquainted among themselves, the Sun says the wearing of these buttons "is intended also to aid fraternities in their rushing activities."

MORATORIUM on rushing, "to aid the Student Council's organized Freshman cheering section at football games," has been voted by the Interfraternity Council from 9:30 p.m. next Friday to 8 a.m. Sunday. Under the rules, rushing began at 8 Monday morning, the first pledging allowed at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Following two Panhellenic Council dances in the Old Armory (for the divided alphabet) and three periods of organized rushing, sorority pledges will all be made and taken at 5 p.m. Monday, October 18.

THE ROTC BAND was missed on Schoellkopf Field Saturday afternoon. First meeting and tryouts were called for Monday, in preparation for its first appearance, at the Colgate game. Penn State band, resplendent in blue and glittering silver, made an extremely creditable early-season appearance. Ours will go to the Yale game, it is announced.

MUSIC of the ROTC band and Instrumental Club will be directed next year by Roland J. Kelly '38 of Ithaca and David H. Brown '38 of Cedar Rapids, Ia., respectively. The latter was last year concertmaster of the University Orchestra. The band leader is not the young man in the bearskin shako who struts ahead of it on the football field, but the one who inspires the music as the band plays on the sidelines.

NEW INDUSTRY for Ithaca, announced recently by Ithaca Enterprises, Inc., will be the manufacture of electric demand meters invented by Professor Paul M. Lincoln, Director of Electrical Engineering, who will be president of the new company. A factory is to be built on a seven-acre South Hill industrial site. Assisted by Professor Harrison L. Goodman '26, who has resigned from the Engineering Faculty to be vice-president in charge of production, Dana Green, formerly of the Chemistry Department, and Robert R. Sprole '35, who will be in charge of engineering sales, Professor Lincoln has in the last five years manufactured 100 of his meters and placed them for testing with various public utilities. They embody a new, patented method of positively measuring kilowatt demand by a thermal method. The total market is estimated at more than three million meters. John W. Reavis '21, Professor Lincoln's son-in-law and a partner in the Cleveland, Ohio, law firm of Towles, Hogsett & Ginn, will be an officer and the corporation attorney. Another meter of Professor Lincoln's invention is standard in Canada, Australia, and Great Britain. The Lincoln Meter Company which he organized to manufacture it in Canada is now a subsidiary of the Sangamo Meter Co., of Toronto.

THE CAMPUS Saturday and Sunday had much the appearance of any big-game week end in mid-season. Fraternity houses were crowded with students and alumni; cars were everywhere; and throngs milled in Willard Straight. But this time many of the returning alumni had gray-capped sons with them; and all day Saturday and Sunday fathers and sons unloaded bathrobes and other student impedimenta from a succession of family cars parked at the dormitories.

ADD IMPROVEMENTS made to the Campus this summer: Garden Avenue, whose holes and bumps for some years have given discomfort to occupants of cars driven along the east side of the Drill Hall and Veterinary College, is now smooth new macadam.

ANOTHER LANDMARK of early Ithaca passes, with the demolition of the 120-year-old residence at 222 South Cayuga Street, recently sold to an automobile sales firm. Court Bellis was the last owner of the brick building, which has handmade laths, five fireplaces, and a Dutch oven.

FORTY MEMBERS of the Penn State Alumni Club of Ithaca gathered for a smoker in Willard Straight Hall Friday night, on the eve of the football game. Speakers were Edward K. Hibshman, their alumni secretary; Dr. Carl P. Schott, new dean of the school of physical education at Penn State; Robert Cochrane, a member of State's athletic advisory committee; and Ridge Riley, sport editor of the College news service. President of the Club is Professor John E. Perry, Civil Engineering; Evan J. Morris, of the Triangle Book Shop, is secretary.

LAST WEEK Drs. Edward C. Showacre and Adrian C. Gould of the Medical Office went over to Hamilton to help the Colgate University physician examine his entering students. This incident has no relation to the resumption of football games between the two universities, Dr. Showacre informs us; he and Dr. Gould have been helping at Colgate for ten years.

WE VISITED the new training room at Schoellkopf Field House the other day. Over by the south window near a hand-lettered sign that says: "The team that WON'T be beaten CAN'T be beaten," Captain Ted Hughes was having his knee bandaged by Trainer Frank Kavanaugh. A 200-pound guard, engaged in baking his leg under a mammoth new sun lamp, rolled over casually on his side and remarked to no one in particular, "I wish I was strong like other boys!" We were invited to try the vacant rubbing table—"They're mighty comfortable"—but declined with thanks.

VERANUS A. MOORE Hall, the new laboratory building of the Veterinary College, next the Drill Hall, has the exterior stonework completed through the second story.

DR. EDWARD (BUNNY) LARKIN, famous Freshman end on the Varsity football team of 1902 and later assistant coach here with Glenn S. Warner '94, visited friends in Ithaca last month. Having later attended Georgetown University, he is now the bone and muscle specialist for the Washington D. C. club of the American League.

SIXTY FORESTERS, members of the Society of American Foresters, attended the annual summer field meeting of the New York section, at and near the Campus September 9 and 10. They visited nearby woodlots and Resettlement and Soil Conservation projects under the guidance of Professor Joshua A. Cope, and Connecticut Hill wild life refuges led by Gardner Bump '25, of the State Conservation Department.

FIVE SCHOLARSHIPS were announced last week as having been awarded to undergraduates for the academic year 1937-38. The Dr. Louis Alexander Dreyfus Scholarships, established in 1926, go to Dorothy F. Roehrig '39 ($500), Huppert Ryan '39 ($250), and John R. Stark '38 ($250), all of Staten Island. The Dwight Memorial Scholarship, founded in 1930, amounting to $250, has been awarded to Howard W. Welch '38 of Trumansburg; the Alexis Cruttenden Scholarship of $200 to Mrs. Ethel Turner Van Loon '38 of Bath.

ANOTHER PIONEER of Ithaca passed when Virgil D. Morse, one of the founders of the Morse Chain Company and for seventeen years devoted to and secretary of the Reconstruction Home, died August 17. Born in Ithaca in 1861, he had been confined to his bed since last Christmas, but maintained his interest in the crippled children so many of whom he had helped. He was the father of Robert V. Morse '11.

NECROLOGY

DR. JAMES RAMSEY HUNT, July 22, 1937, at his summer home, Mt. Holly Farm, Katonah. Dr. Hunt was chief of the clinic and a lecturer in the Neurological Department of the Medical College in New York from 1900 to 1910. At the time of his death he was professor of neurology at Columbia University and director of the neuro-psychiatric division of the New York Neurological Institute. During the World War, he was consultant in neuro-psychiatry with the American Expeditionary Forces in France.

'87—COLONEL F(RANK) JUDSON HESS, September 24, 1936, in Rochester, where he had lived all his life and was head of the Hess Perfume and Costuming Company. He spent one year as a student in Architecture, was Class Navy director and rowed on his Class crew, and was a member of the Glee Club, Banjo Club, and Alpha Delta Phi. Leaving the University he became active in the National Guard, and served with distinction in the Spanish-American War and World War. He endowed a room in the University's War Memorial to honor the members of the Class of '87 who served in the Spanish-American and World Wars.

'93, '98 PhB—MRS. OKEL P. FRALICK (Carrie May Earll), May 15, 1937, at the home of her daughter, C. Elizabeth Fralick '28, 152 South Knoe Street, Albany. She entered the Philosophy course in 1889, remained most of four years, and returned in 1897 to receive her degree. Sister, Irene Earll '90.

'96, '97 PhB—IDA LUCENA HULL, May 1, 1937, in Chicago, Ill. She entered the course in History and Political Science in 1892, and had spent most of her life in social work in Boston, Mass., Cleveland, Ohio, Bridgeport, Conn., and Chicago. Phi Beta Kappa.

'97—WILLIAM CALDER SERRELL, April 8, 1937, at Tucson, Ariz. After three years in Mechanical Engineering, he joined Warren-Webster and Company, becoming supervising engineer in 1898 and manager in 1907. Theta Nu Epsilon.

'99, '00 BS—MRS. EMIL AMANDUS BRINER (Marcia Vedder), April 26, 1937, at her home, 164 South Clinton Street, East Orange, N. J. Her husband is a member of the Class of 1901.

'05 ME—JAMES FRANKLIN MEISTER, April 4, 1937, in Kansas City, Mo. He had for several years been a real estate agent in Kansas City, previous to which he was with the Westinghouse Company, the Stone and Webster Engineering Corporation, the Public Utility Company of Carbondale, Ill., and the Public Utility Company of Christopher, Ill.

'06 Sp—HAROLD ROBERT OGLE, December 4, 1936, in Washington, D. C.

'07 AB, '08 AM, '11 PhD—SHRIDHAR VENTATESH KETKAR, April 10, 1937, at his home, 8 Parvati Villas, Poona, India. Oriental scholar, novelist, and sociologist, he worked on the twenty-three volume Dnyankosh or Marathi Encyclopaedia from 1915 to 1928. On its completion he started a compilation of the ancient history of Maharashtra, the first volume of which was published two years ago, the remaining three to be completed by his wife.

'07 DVM—DR. CLARENCE ADELBERT TOWN, February 22, 1937, in McGraw. He had practiced his profession in McGraw, Syracuse, and Oneonta. Ycnan.

'10 AB, '18 PhD—MARK EMBURY PENNEY, August 12, 1937, at Jacksonville, Ill. Director of the Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation at the time of his death, he was president of James Millikan University, Decatur, Ill. from 1924 to 1930. He was dean of the Teachers College, Syracuse University, from 1917 to 1920 and professor of Education at Cornell from 1922 to 1923. During the World War he served in the Army Educational Corps, AEF, Beaune, France. His wife is the former Alma Rose Thorne, '07.

'13—HENRY PHILIP BUEHNER, May 1, 1937, in Portland, Ore., where he was vice-president of the Buehner Investment Co., 1407 Public Service Building. He entered Sibley College in 1909 and remained two years.

'25—GORDON PROCTOR TINKHAM, May 1, 1937, in Saginaw, Mich., where he was with the Saginaw Stamping and Tool Company. He entered Sibley College in 1921 and remained one year; was for a time general superintendent and engineer with Thomas McNally Contracting Co. in Saginaw, building roads and bridges, and then lived in Cleveland, Ohio.

'25 BS—ROGER PRICE GABRIEL, June 23, 1937, at Fuls Run, Va. On graduation, he joined the Hammond Lumber Company, Humboldt County, Cal., but left to do graduate work in forestry at the Harvard Forest, Petersham, Mass., under a Bliss fellowship. In 1927 he was with the Parker-Young Company, Woodstock, N. H., and was later general manager of W. and J. Sloane and Company, New York City. In 1935 he was in the United States Forest Service, Harrisburg, Va., and at the time of his death was a junior forester at the George Washington and Monongahola National Forests. Forestry Club; Mandolin Club.

'28 AB—LEONARD PEARLMAN, January 11, 1937, in New York City, where he had been with the Jack Liss Dress Corporation, 1359 Broadway. Tau Epsilon Phi.

'40—THEODORE K. REEVES, June 23, 1937, in an automobile accident. He had been one year in the Chemical Engineering course. Sigma Pi.

Concerning THE FACULTY

PRESIDENT EDMUND E. DAY is one of the sponsors of a dinner in honor of Dr. William F. Snow, held October 1 in New York City. President Emeritus Livingston Farrand and Professor Dean F. Smiley, Medical Adviser, are among others endorsing this dinner in recognition of Dr. Snow's work in public health and social hygiene.

DR. DAY is a member of a new committee, headed by Dr. Mark A. May, director of the Institute of Human Relations at Yale, which will survey the past and future productions of Hollywood for films of educational value for use in schools, and advise the industry of suitable new productions. The project is sponsored by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

PROFESSOR DENNY H. UDALL, DVM '01, Veterinary Medicine, is the first winner of the Twelfth International Veterinary Congress Prize, given for "the most outstanding and noteworthy work during the year." It was awarded at the national convention of the American Veterinary Medical Association for his work on bovine mastitis, which has consisted largely of popularizing and spreading to cattle-owners methods of controlling mastitis.

PROFESSOR EDGAR A. J. JOHNSON, Economics, now in charge of graduate instruction in economic history at New York University, has been made a member of the committee on economic bibliography of the British Academy.

MRS. BYRL JORGENSEN KELLOGG, wife of Peter P. Kellogg '29, instructor in Ornithology, is the new president of the New York Library Association. The youngest president in the history of the organization, Mrs. Kellogg is now in the Cortland Free Library, and has been in the Chicago Public Library and the New York Public Library.

PROFESSOR ALLAN G. NEWHALL, PhD '29, Plant Pathology, has discovered the primary source of New York State's onion blight. Flying at a height of 1500 feet over the marshes of Cayuga Lake, he found that the disease is spread by fungus spores which travel with the wind at great heights.

PROFESSOR ALBERT W. SMITH, '78, Machine Design, Emeritus, was on the way to the printers August 9 to get the proofs of his new book when he fell and broke his leg twice between the ankle and the knee. He has made a remarkable recovery and during the past few days has been riding several times and has walked to the Co-Op from his home at 13 East Avenue. The book, now in the galley proofs, is entitled A Springtime Odyssey on Southern Shores, and is a collection of letters written by Professor Smith while in the Mediterranean countries. It will be published before Christmas.

FOUR CORNELLIANS, headed by Mrs. Livingston Farrand, contribute to the 1937 Yearbook of the American Delphinium Society, recently published. Mrs. Farrand writes of her visit to nurseries in Bath, England, in quest of delphinium seed; and phases of the plant's culture and care are treated by Raymond C. Allen and Kenneth Post, Floriculture, and Professor William E. Blauvelt '25, Entomology Extension.

PROFESSOR WALTER KING STONE, Architecture, was one of a group of artists from every state in the country whose original water-colors from a nationwide "aqua-chromatic" exhibition were shown at the Binghamton Free Museum September 15-October 1. The exhibition was sponsored by the research laboratories of M. Grumbacher, New York City.

JAMES S. KNAPP '32, assistant in Extension Service, Publications, was elected secretary-treasurer of the American Association of Agricultural College Editors at its meeting in Gainesville, Fla., during August. Cornell's publications placed in five out of eight classes in national competition.

KATHERINE HABERLY, assistant to the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, was married to Albert Worthen, son of Professor Edmund L. Worthen, MSA '08, Agronomy, and Mrs. Worthen August 7. The couple will live in New Brunswick, N. J., where Worthen is an accountant with Johnson & Johnson.

PROFESSOR HADLEY C. STEPHENSON '19, Veterinary Materia Medica, recently returned from a six-months' tour of the United States and Mexico on which he inspected the veterinary establishments connected with the State colleges of Pennsylvania, Iowa, Michigan, Texas, Washington, Kansas, and at Mexico City. Professor Stephenson reached the conclusion that the profession of veterinary medicine is becoming as crowded as those of law and medicine.

PROFESSOR HENRY N. OGDEN '89, Sanitary Engineering, is one of the members of the notification committee appointed at the sixty-ninth annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of central New York. This committee will draft a telegram notifying Dr. Oliver J. Hart, rector of St. John's Church, Washington, D. C., of his election as bishop coadjutor. Professor Glenn W. Herrick '96, Entomology, Emeritus, and Dr. Nellis M. Crouse, PhD '24, were among the other delegates to the convention from the Ithaca parish.

Concerning THE ALUMNI

'92 ME—George W. Bacon is a consulting engineer and chairman of the board of directors of Ford, Bacon, and Davis, general engineering. His business address is 39 Broadway, and his home address, 23 West Sixty-seventh Street, New York City.

'99—Leverigh S. Duryea is a realtor counselor for West and Wheeler, 201 Marion Building, Seattle, Wash.

'02 CE—Robert Follansbee is district engineer of the United States Geologic Survey in charge of surface water investigations in Colorado, Wyoming, and Nebraska. His address is 403 Post Office Building, Denver, Colo.

'04 Sp—Adam S. Hewetson is the licensed tree doctor for Riverside, San Bernardino, and Los Angeles counties, Cal. His address is Y.M.C.A., Riverside, Cal.
