CORNELL CAN LEAD POST-WAR EDUCATION

By Professors Howard R. Anderson, Education, and Cornelis W. de Kiewiet, History*

Global war has effected profound changes in the American pattern of living. Millions of American men and women have been transported overseas, and American outposts are located in South America, Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe, and the islands of the seas. Billions of dollars worth of lease-lend goods are flowing to our allies, and American airplanes, tanks, tractors, trucks, telephone equipment, machinery, shoes and clothing, food, medical supplies, and what not, are being delivered all over the world. This exodus of men and goods is made possible by airplane transportation which conquers space and by a shipbuilding program which staggers the imagination: 2,000,000 tons of new construction a month.

Train for Industries Overseas

As a result of this tremendous movement of men and supplies, Americans and American products are becoming known all over the world, and millions of Americans are learning something about the language, culture, and way of life of peoples in distant lands. In the post-war period the flow of men and goods which developed during the war certainly will continue. The needs for international policing, for relief and rehabilitation, and for the peaceful flow of commerce, will continue to take Americans and American products overseas, and will bring men and women from foreign lands to this country for practical instruction in agriculture, engineering, sanitation, preventative medicine, and so on.

These conditions have important implications for higher education. If, after the war, a large number of Americans are going overseas in government service or as representatives of American corporations, these men and women will need specialized training in American universities. The technical phases of this training can in large measure be prescribed by the corporations doing large-scale business overseas: General Electric, Ford Motor, General Motors, International Harvester, the rubber companies, air transport, and many other industries. In other words, the universities will need to cooperate with industry to determine the technical competence needed by men on a given job. Indeed, industry and education might well cooperate in choosing persons who are qualified for a specialized training program.

But Cornell and other universities will Professors Anderson and de Kiewiet outline here some of the opportunities which face the University to contribute leadership in the rebuilding of the world after the war. Implicit in the plans they outline is the idea that Cornell shall seek the advice and support of alumni and others who are leaders in business, industry, and the professions, to make such a program effective. Alumni comments will be eagerly welcomed.

The Alumni News is inviting other members of the University staff to outline their ideas of the general changes that the war experience will bring in the content, methods, and point of view in education, with their reasons. Not all these ideas will apply directly to Cornell, but rather to the whole educational process for American youth. Contributions to this University symposium will be published in succeeding issues.

Thoughtful discussions of the subject will also be welcomed from alumni, as parents, as business and industrial executives who will be concerned in rebuilding the post-war world, as members of the armed forces, and as interested citizens. Such discussions, from Faculty and alumni, we hope may be useful not only to Cornell but to American thinking and world leadership.

also have important contributions to make more or less independently of industry. Persons who are to qualify for service overseas must possess social as well as technical "know-how." To work effectively in a given foreign area, an American must understand the language, culture, and institutions of that land and its people. Americans must come to recognize that foreign cultures are different but not necessarily inferior to their own. They must learn to respect the likes and dislikes of people with whom they wish to get along.

To Meet Special Needs

There is still another matter which makes important demands on the ingenuity and insight of the university staff. That is the need to adapt technical training to regional needs. Obviously, the problems encountered by an engineer (and the way he solves them) are different in central China and in tropical Brazil. And in neither case are the precise methods that might be used the same as would be appropriate in this country. The same situation holds true in the fields of agriculture and medicine, and imposes a heavy responsibility on the men in charge of instruction.

How can the University meet these needs? The general solution would seem to lie along the line of the "area and language" work now being done in connection with the Army program. This type of program has some clearcut advantages: (1) the exact needs of the men enrolled are known, (2) resources to meet these needs are mobilized without regard for traditional departmental and college organization, and (3) achievement is at a high level because the students enrolled know why they are in the course, what they expect to achieve, and what are the rewards of successful achievement.

Foreign Students May Increase

Of course, one should not consider only the preparation of American students for service overseas. Doubtless the post-war period will see a great influx of foreign students to American universities. These students will in part be subsidized by their own countries and by American foundations. Perhaps one of the peace terms dictated to Germany and Japan will provide for the establishment of a huge educational fund. The money so allocated would then be spent to send young people from the devastated areas to countries where they can prepare themselves for lives of useful service in the rehabilitation of their native lands. Perhaps such funds could also be used to provide large numbers of Japanese and German young people with educational opportunities in a democratic environment.

Should such plans mature, the University again would have to assume some major responsibilities. One would be to develop an examination system which accurately tests the competence of foreigners in the use of English. Another would be to set up intensive English courses patterned after existing courses in Russian, Chinese, and other languages. Obviously students who have not mastered English cannot do satisfactory work in an American university. It is strange that this obvious conclusion has so often been overlooked or ignored. Still another responsibility would be to provide a social environment which would make it impossible for a foreign student to mingle almost exclusively with his own countrymen, and to remain as much a foreigner at the end of his visit to America as he was when he first came to this country.

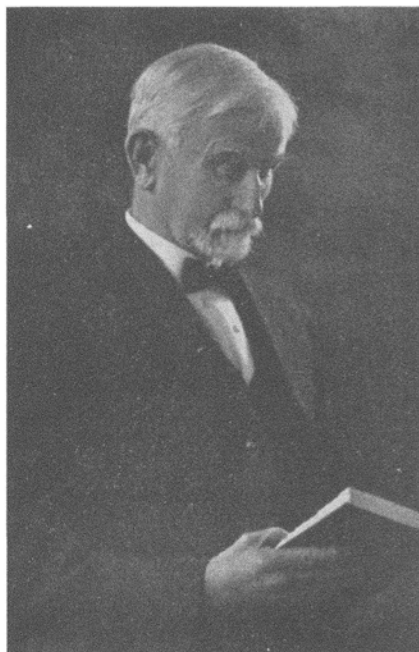

These proposals are not new and revolutionary. For generations, Chinese and Latin American students have come to Cornell to study, especially in Agriculture and Engineering; and many Cornell professors and alumni have gone overseas to render useful and distinguished service. It is precisely because of this tradition that Cornell should take the lead in developing a functional educational program to train both American and foreign students to fit the needs of the post-war world. And in this task Cornell will need the active advice, cooperation, and support of Cornellians in industry, management, and the professions.

*Both authors of the present article came to Cornell from the University of Iowa, Professor Anderson in 1937 to join the School of Education, and Professor de Kiewiet in 1941 to the History Department.

Professor Anderson received the BA in 1922 at Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill.; the MA at University of Chicago in 1928; and the PhD at Iowa in 1930. From 1928-37 he was head of the department of social studies in the University High School and assistant professor of history at Iowa. He is Director of the Workshop on Latin America, the Far East, and the British Commonwealth of Nations, established with a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, which for the last two summers has brought to Cornell high school teachers of history and the social studies from all over the United States.

Professor de Kiewiet is a native of Rotterdam, Holland. He received the AB at the University of Witwatersrand, South Africa, in 1922, the AM in 1924, and with a scholarship in modern history he received the PhD at the University of London in 1927 and spent two years with a travelling fellowship in Paris and Berlin. He joined the history department of the University of Iowa in 1929. At Cornell, he is in charge of the area and language courses for the Army Specialized Training Program.

NOW OLDEST LIVING ALUMNUS

Eldest Cornellian and the University's earliest living graduate is Dr. Albert Osborn '72, historian of American University, Washington, D.C. Ninety-four next December 2, he succeeds Royal Taft '71, who died September 29.

OLDEST ALUMNUS DIES Osborn '72 Succeeds Taft '71

Royal Taft, sole survivor of the Class of '71 and the University's oldest alumnus, died September 29 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ernest G. Close, 504 North Blakely Street, Scranton, Pa. He was ninety-four September 5; had been in poor health for several months.

Taft entered the Science Course at the opening of the University in 1868 from Wyoming Seminary, and received the BS in 1871. He was a member of Phi Kappa Psi. He taught school in Hawley, Pa., where he was born, and was a clerk for many years in the Dunmore postoffice, Scranton, Pa. He was an ardent exponent of both ice and roller skating, and when he represented his Class at a meeting of the Association of Class Secretaries in New York City in 1941, he went a day early and took his skates to enjoy the ice at the Rockefeller Center outdoor rink.

Since 1929, when he succeeded the late Judge James O'Neill, Taft had served as secretary of his Class. Judge O'Neill succeeded the late Robert G. H. Speed, who was Class secretary as an undergraduate and until his death in 1925.

The University's oldest living alumnus is now Dr. Albert Osborn '72, whose ninety-fourth birthday will be next December 2. He has been for fifty-two years at American University, Washington, D. C., as registrar, assistant secretary, secretary, librarian, and now historian. Member of Delta Upsilon, he was an editor and business manager of The Cornell Era. Like Taft, he entered the University at its opening, but received the AB in 1872. After two years of school teaching, he entered Drew Theological Seminary in 1874 and received the BD in 1877. Syracuse University awarded him the degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology in 1921. Before he went to American University in 1891, he was pastor of Methodist Episcopal churches in Western New York.

Dr. Osborn attended Class Reunions in Ithaca in 1941. From his home in Washington Grove, Md., last May he wrote the ALUMNI NEWS, "I have five children, seven grands, eleven great-grands, and a Victory garden. Contributed three poems to Spirit of America, published in 1943 by the Haven Press, New York City."

BUY BUSINESS PROPERTY

A recent real estate investment of the University is the purchase of the Kilmer Buildings in the center of Binghamton. These are three business buildings on a plot of about two-thirds of an acre, fronting on Chenango Street, the land alone assessed at $237,000. The main building is a twelve-story modern fireproof office building. Adjoining it is a three-story fireproof mercantile structure containing two stores and two floors of offices. In the rear of these stores is a five-story fireproof office building, and adjoining is a large parking lot which opens on Commercial Street.

The property was purchased from the Kilmer estate for $400,000 and has been leased to the Gannett Newspapers, of which University Trustee Frank E. Gannett '98 is president. The Binghamton Press, purchased by Gannett Newspapers last summer, has its presses in the basement and street floor of the main building, and the editorial and composing rooms occupy the five-story building at the rear.

Like most of the other leases authorized by the finance committee of the Board of Trustees for real estate in which endowment funds are invested, the lease of the Kilmer property provides that the lessee pay all taxes and charges and keep the property in repair, at a rental which returns the University a good rate of interest and will completely amortize the investment within the twenty years of the lease.

Treasurer George F. Rogalsky '07 points out that the University has made similar purchases and similar leases of business properties to such firms as the J. C. Penney Co., W. T. Grant Co., J. J. Newberry Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., and with oil and gasoline distributors such as the Texas Corp. and Gulf Oil Corp., in Ithaca and other up-State cities including Olean, Batavia, and Newburgh.

JERSEY WOMEN ELECT

Cornell Women's Club of Northern New Jersey has elected as president Mrs. George W. Gale (Janet Wilson) '32 of Short Hills. Mrs. E. Paul Emert (Mary Shields) '31 of Chatham is vice-president, and Mrs. William T. Maguire (Lorraine Gold) '27 of East Orange, corresponding secretary, both for two years.

NOW IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

War or no war, October keeps right on being October up here among the lakes. Connecticut Hill emerges from the blue haze that fills the Newfield valleys. The maples seem more scarlet this year; the poplars a more vivid yellow. The cliffs along the Fall Creek gorge become a flashing palette of mixed colors as you stand on the Swinging Bridge and look off between the cliffs to West Hill in the sunset. One observes with satisfaction that many of the soldiers and sailors now sojourning among us, who step upon it briskly, are apt to halt at the center of the Swinging Bridge, rest their elbows on the rail, and gaze west in a nostalgic and unmilitary manner.

Talk has begun of the changes the war is to bring about at Cornell. The curriculum is to be streamlined. There'll be new schools to teach new sciences, new courses to impart new skills. There is to be a new type of dormitory, involving such economies in design and construction that it will yield 3 point 4 upon the investment, instead of the former 2 point 9.

Tangibles, all tangibles! Never a word for the intangibles now woven into the fabric of the University.

O, well! Probably the intangibles will take care of themselves. They always have. There is a tradition—insufficiently supported by the evidence—that Ezra Cornell wanted to make his new foundation a trade school, and that President White talked him out of it by convincing him that the best preparation for any trade was a little education. Not that it makes much difference! Not long could one have kept any institution streamlined and practical, once he'd put it in a place where they have autumn foliage, misty hills and valleys, architecture, stars, and swinging bridges that hold a boy up where he can see long distances.

There seems to be an assumption that what the stricken nations are going to want first when this thing is over will be bathroom fixtures, democracy, helicopters, the gold standard, tractors, and garden seed. We suspect that what they'd like most would be a whole lot of unaccustomed privacy!

It seems also to be assumed that the boys and girls who have been away will want a new kind of education when they come back; more Russian and Spanish, more electric welding and plant breeding. Mebbe so, but isn't it just as probable that they'll come back convinced of the limitations of open plumbing as a specific to cure the ailments of a devastated world? Isn't it just as likely that when they have a chance again to stand on a swinging bridge and look off, they'll want to hear less of helicopters and more about all this geology that has been going on? They'll want to inquire timidly about God. It may appear to them that the job is too big to be accomplished by trucks and tractors, and that the best approach is through astronomy, religion, poetry, and philosophy.

All this does not mean that we belittle slide rules. We suggest merely that all the answers cannot be obtained from slide rules, nor from men who rely too much upon those useful tools.

It has proved a good thing to hold one meeting of the Board of Trustees each year in New York. That puts all the members in touch with current thinking on troublesome tangibles. It might turn out to be an equally good thing to hold one meeting on the Swinging Bridge; to get them away from it!

FRESHMEN FROM AFAR

Freshmen who entered the University this summer in the Navy College Training Program come from seventeen States and the District of Columbia. The Navy office finds that of the 450 V-12 Freshmen, 228 come from New York State, 101 from Pennsylvania, 63 from New Jersey, and 12 each from Michigan and the District of Columbia. Other States represented are Alabama, California, Delaware, Iowa, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Virginia, Washington, and West Virginia. Men selected as the result of examinations given in the high schools last spring were allowed to indicate their choice of colleges.

The Navy engineering course has 298 Freshmen; 122 are taking the basic V-12 course; and 25 are pre-medical students. All the men attend regular University classes.

LETTERS

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. CORNELL-NAVY GAME

TO THE EDITOR:

Maryland takes its football seriously, especially the Cornell alumni, who began their preparation for the Navy game with a kick-off dinner September 10. The real celebration for the game got under way Friday evening, October 1, when the old guard assembled at The Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore. On hand were Walt Wing and Jimmy Munns from New York, Walt Distler from Washington, Jim Wood (Baltimore's football authority), Bob Kane (representing Ithaca) and Captain B. W. Chippendale, USN, skipper of the V-12 boys at Cornell. Many officers from the Army and Navy, who are Cornellians, joined the vanguard's party. Then and there the entire group agreed to be on hand to welcome the Cornell team on its arrival by bus from Harrisburg at noon Saturday, October 2. They were there to a man, in spite of a strenuous evening during which everything was discussed from the fifth down at Dartmouth, and a night game supposed to have been played against Michigan in a riding academy in Detroit in 1905, to Longstreet's strategy at the Battle of Gettysburg.

Even football is different this year, as who ever heard of playing a game at seven p.m., but Baltimore did it. About the game, the least said the better! Navy had five teams instead of one or two, and it looked as though they hauled in some battlewagons to open up the line, and the latest model Grumman Wildcats to carry

BENNY GOODMAN'S BAND "PACKS 'EM IN" AT BARTON HALL

Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands broadcast in which Coca-Cola saluted the Army and Navy men at Cornell brought more than 10,000 spectators to stand in awe on the huge drill floor, both during the broadcast and for two hours afterward when the orchestra played, ostensibly for dancing. An added attraction was Gene Krupa at the drums.

their passes. When the score was Navy 19 Cornell 0, we had our moment of glory when a Cornell back caught a pass and ran for a touchdown, but our big moment was shortlived.

The old Cornell spirit would not be downed, however, as after the game 338 Cornellians and their friends met in the Blue Room on the second floor of The Belvedere and toasted the greats of the past, present, and future. There was many a lump in well-alcoholized throats when the "Alumni Song" was led by Mickey White of Glee Club fame, and all of us clinked our glasses to the grand boys and girls of the greatest Big Red Team of all times, who are doing so much on the far-flung battlefronts, from Iceland to New Guinea and from Burma to Italy.

You will like football in Maryland, so plan to join Cornell's loyal sons on the next visit of The Big Red to Baltimore; sample our hospitality, our sea food, and our potables.—CORNELL CLUB OF MARYLAND.

DETROIT WOMEN OFFICERS

Cornell Women's Club of Detroit, Mich., has elected for 1943-44 Elizabeth A. Lockwood, AM '38, president, and Mrs. Opal M. Halbrook '39, secretary-treasurer.

AAUW FELLOWSHIPS

The American Association of University Women has announced its list of fellowships for graduate study or research in 1944-45. There are eleven national fellowships, each worth $1,500, open to American women for study in the United States or abroad, and five international fellowships, for the same amount, open to members of the International Federation of University Women and to Latin American women for study in this country.

Applications should be sent by December 15 to the secretary of the Association's committee on awards, 1634 I Street, N.W., Washington 6, D. C.

ALUMNI COMMISSIONED

Nineteen Cornellians who were ordered to active duty last May from the advanced ROTC course were graduated from Ordnance Officer Candidate School, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., September 25, and were commissioned second lieutenants.

They are Harry C. Allen '43, William W. Bucher, Jr. '43, David J. Coons '43, Richard W. Eustis '44, Hugh M. Grey, Jr. '43, Walter D. Haentjens '43, Louis G. Helmick, Jr. '43, George C. Henckel, Jr. '43, John T. Hodges '43, Roy V. Johnson '43, James E. Keats '43, Robert F. McCann, Jr. '43, William E. McLaughlin '43, Daniel C. Nehrer '43, Jack D. Rice '43, Furman South III '43, Allen L. Spafford, Jr. '44, Armand R. Tibbitts, Jr. '44, and Robert H. Underwood '43.

About ATHLETICS

TWO DECISIVE GAMES

Heavy scoring marked the football team's third and fourth games of the season; both away from home.

In the Baltimore, Md., Municipal Stadium October 2, in a game played at 7 p.m. under artificial light, Cornell lost, 7-46, to the US Naval Academy. A week later in Palmer Stadium, at Princeton, N. J., Cornell bounded back with a 30-0 victory over Princeton.

Naval Academy 46, Cornell 7

Cornell was outclassed at Baltimore. The Academy kept its first team in action only long enough to fashion two touchdowns. The second team—the Academy substituted by teams, not individual players,—scored another touchdown for a 19-0 lead at the half.

Cornell rallied to pick up 7 points, but the Midshipmen returned to the attack and rolled up three scores in the third period. A final touchdown in the fourth quarter was virtually a Cornell gift.

The game was only minutes old when the crowd of more than 32,000 sensed the Academy eleven's superiority. The Midshipmen based their running attack on deception and pulled off frequent long gainers. Sullivan, fullback, started the first scoring drive with a thirty-five-yard run from the Academy 34-yard line. Hamberg threw a pass to Martin for a touchdown within three minutes of the opening whistle. Early in the second period, Sullivan scored on a short drive through the line to climax an inexorable march.

The Academy second team took charge, and Hume apparently scored on a sixty-eight-yard run. A clipping penalty nullified the touchdown, but Crawley raced fifty-four yards to set up another chance for Hume, who crossed the line on an eight-yard spinner.

Early in the third period Navy kicked. William S. Maceyko, USNR, fired a pass intended for Anthony J. LaScala '43, Naval Aviation cadet. Officials ruled interference on the play, and Cornell was at midfield. Frank J. Accorsi, USNR, fumbled going through the line, but recovered for a three-yard gain. Maceyko stepped back and fired a flat pass to James H. T. Carrington, USNR, who completed the forty-seven-yard pass play for Cornell's only touchdown. No one touched him on his scoring run. Norman Dawson, Jr. '46 came in and converted the point.

The Academy, with the third team in action, promptly resumed scoring. Barron, back to kick, had to field a low pass from center. Electing to run, he scored on a sixty-two-yard dash. The next touchdown resulted from a fumble by Accorsi and a forty-one-yard, four-play Navy drive, with Pettit scoring. A seventy-nine-yard punt return by Jenkins gave the Academy its third touchdown of the third quarter.

Late in the fourth period, Maceyko elected to run on a fourth down and was tossed for a loss on Cornell's 7-yard line. Two plays gave the Academy its final score, with Murray making the touchdown.

Captain Meredith R. Cushing '44 of Eggertsville did not play against Navy because of a thumb broken in the Sampson game. Howard W. Blose '44, USNR, a halfback, acted as captain.

Apprentice Seaman Robert Whinery, USNR, who played in his first college football game against the Navy, comes of a well-known Cornell family. He is the son of Samuel B. Whinery '99 of Maplewood, N. J., and entered the University in the Navy V-12 program last July from Newark College of Engineering. He played center field on the Varsity baseball team last summer. His uncles are Charles C. Whinery '99 who was editor of The Era and assistant baseball manager; Maurice R. Whinery '02, former baseball captain; John E. Whinery '13, who won the track "C" as a low hurdler and broad jumper; and the late Andrew J. Whinery '10, Varsity basketball player, Class secretary, vice-president of the Alumni Corporation, and an Alumni Trustee of the University.

Cornell 30, Princeton 0

Captain Cushing returned to the lineup for the Princeton game, but not at center. He played at blocking back on defense, alternating with Carrington, who took over the blocking assignments on offense. Thomas A. Blackburn, USMCR, of Lynn, Mass., replaced Cushing at center. George E. Williams '45 of Dover, N. J., drew the starting assignment at right guard, a position in which there have been frequent changes.

Before some 5,000 spectators Cornell scored early in the Princeton game by blocking a punt. Ralph C. Calcagni, USMCR, and Marshall of Princeton went after the ball. Marshall recovered it in the end zone for an automatic safety: 2 points for Cornell.

Princeton then staged an offensive that carried to Cornell's 7-yard line. Miller fumbled on third down, and Captain Cushing recovered the ball in the air and ran to Cornell's 17. Cornell scored in six plays, plus a five-yard penalty, with Blose crossing the line on a fifty-two-yard reverse. Dawson came in and converted the extra point, the first of four he scored during the game.

Early in the second period, Cornell turned in another six-play scoring performance, with Maceyko going over from the 9-yard line on another reverse.

Cornell fashioned two touchdowns in the third quarter, the first on a twenty-eight-yard run by Blöse and the second on a sixty-nine-yard dash by Maceyko. Maceyko smashed straight ahead through tackle and broke into the clear without being touched. Expert blocking cleared his way to the goal.

In between these two scores, Princeton, completing several passes, reached Cornell's 19-yard line, only to have an interception halt the advance. In the fourth period, Princeton drove into Cornell territory again, but this threat was halted when Princeton lost the ball on downs.

Cornell outrushed Princeton, 366 yards to 70, but completed only two of nine passes for sixteen yards. Princeton completed ten of twenty-one for 156 yards.

FOOTBALL PERSONNEL

There's more to football than the game itself.

When the squad went to Baltimore to play the Naval Academy October 2, the party totaled fifty-two men. Thirty-four were players. Also on the trip were six managers, four coaches, two trainers, one doctor, one stockman, one photographer, and three members of the Athletic Association staff, including a Navy athletic officer.

For home games, it's a different story. To staff a home football game costs the Athletic Association between $1,500 and $1,600 just for salaries of men and students employed for the day.

Missing this year at the first two home games, because of the personnel problem resulting from war, were the State police. Usually between twenty and forty state police are assigned just to handle traffic. The setup this year has included fifty-four special policemen to direct traffic and to patrol the fences, including eight uniformed members of the Campus Patrol and four uniformed city patrolmen.

To handle the ticket selling and the games forty-eight men were employed. For a big game an additional twenty men would be required. The ushers numbered thirty-six (as compared with 120 for the Ohio State game of 1940 when a record crowd visited Schoellkopf Field). The concessionaire employed approximately 100 boys to sell refreshments, and students were hired to sell programs.

The list includes a doctor who is always on call for emergency cases among the spectators, matrons, office assistants to handle the money from gate ticket sales, the stockroom crew, the ground crew, photographers, operators of the scoreboard and public address system, statisticians in the press box, and operators of the telephone circuit between the stands and the coach's table on the sideline. Then there are the men directly connected with the game itself: the officials, the linesman's assistants, the trainers, assistant coaches, and compets.

This staff handled crowds of 5,700 and 6,000 for the first two home games with Bucknell and the Sampson Naval Training Station. Virtually the same staff handled more than 34,000 when Ohio State played the Big Red at Schoellkopf.

CROSS COUNTRY LOSES

Opening its season, the cross country team lost, 61-45, to Colgate at Hamilton, October 2. Colgate runners finished in the first three places, with Bruno timed in 25:46 for the four-mile course. Everett F. Perryman '44 of Sheridan, Wyo., finished fourth, followed by Richard L. Best '43 of Westfield, N. J.

SOCCER TEAM TIES

The soccer team played a 2-2 tie with Penn State at State College, Pa., October 2 after 98 minutes of action. The Cornell goals were scored by George Bailey, USNR, formerly of Princeton, and Joseph Saladi, USNR, formerly of Maryland. Neither had played intercollegiate soccer before.

WASHINGTON HAS SPEAKERS

Forty members of the Cornell Club of Washington, D.C., attended a dinner meeting at the Dodge Hotel, September 30. Larry E. Gubb '16, president of the Cornell Alumni Association, Walter C. Heasley, Jr. '30, acting Alumni Secretary, and Professor John C. Adams '26, English, told of the Alumni Association program and work with secondary schools.

Walter W. Burns '06 was elected president of the Club; John S. Gorrell '05, vice-president; John T. Elfvin '41, secretary; and Vertner S. Kenerson '36, treasurer.

ALUMNI AT MAXWELL FIELD

Sixteen Cornellians reported September 22 at the Army Air Forces Pre-Flight School for Pilots at Maxwell Field, Ala. They are Aviation Cadets Robert C. Bowman '39, Joseph A. Pecora '39, Joel Hillman II '44, William M. Quinn '44, Robert D. Cutting '45, George B. Fick '45, Alexander B. Millar '45, Paul M. Pinkham '45, Harold Shakin '45, William B. Ball, Jr. '46, Curtiss A. Blair '46, Richard Dworsky '46, Edwin P. Gardner '46, Frank L. Greene '46, Ralph E. Reed '46, and Norman A. Tagg '46.

In the third phase of their training as pilots, these men are receiving nine weeks of intensive physical, military, and academic instruction at Maxwell Field, preparatory to beginning their actual flight training at one of the primary flying schools in the Army Air Forces Eastern Flying Training Command.

SAVAGE CLUB QUARTET IN "GAY NINETIES REVUE"

Appearing with the Ithaca Community Players, these four Cornellians sang the old favorites. They are C. Wesley Thomas '25, William B. Corcoran '23, Truman K. Powers '30, and Allan H. Treman '21. Following three downtown performances, the show was given twice at the Sampson Naval Training Station on Seneca Lake October 6, the first before 2,500 apprentice seamen, and the second before the graduating class, staff officers, and guests. Besides the Quartet, a number of Cornellians took part in the show, which was directed by Mr. and Mrs. Eric Dudley. Al Sulla '29 came up from Westchester with his banjo; Dorothy M. Cothran '43 of Gasport and Thomas B. Tracy '31 did a bicycle skit called "Daisy Belle;" production manager was Pauline G. Bird, for many years with the Alumni Office.

AWARD VETERINARY PRIZES

"Honor Day" of the Veterinary College was in conjunction with the annual dinner and dance of the Cornell Junior Chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Society, September 18 at the Masonic Temple in Ithaca.

Horace K. White Prizes of $50 and $25 were awarded to Charles G. Rickard of Ithaca and Hugh P. Studdert of Philipsburg, Mont., both Seniors, who made the highest academic records for the entire Veterinary course.

Charles Gross Bondy Prizes of $25 and $15, for the best work in practical medicine and surgery of small animals, went to Clarence P. Zepp, Jr., of New York City, and Maurice M. Jastremski of Richfield Springs, both Seniors. For the best work in bacteriology, the Mary Louise Moore Prizes of $25 and $15, given by the late Dean Veranus A. Moore '87, went to Rickard and Zepp. Rickard also won the Alpha Psi gold watch, as "the member of the graduating class who has shown by his scholarship, character, and breadth of interest that he is best equipped to advance the standards of veterinary science."

Anne Besse Prizes of $25 and $15, for the best work in medicine and clinical diagnosis, went to Seniors Charles F. Simpson of East Orange, N. J., and Elmer N. Coye of Naples. For humanness in handling animals, with special reference to anaesthesia, the James Gordon Bennett Prizes of $25 and $15 were awarded to Edwin B. Smith of Gainsville, a Senior, and to Studdert.

Addison D. Merry ['80] Prizes of $25 and $15, given by his son, Dr. Albert E. Merry '06 of Syracuse, for the best work in veterinary anatomy, were won by Grayson B. Mitchell of King Ferry and Joseph C. Shaffer of Lagrangeville, both Sophomores.

Jane Miller Prizes of $25 and $15 for veterinary physiology went to two Juniors, John Bentinck-Smith of Milton, Mass., and Richard K. McEvoy of Preble. And Joseph P. Arnaboldi of Mt. Sinai, a Senior, won the Poultry Disease Prize of $50 for his essay, "Prevention Is the Best Cure in Poultry Practice."

After presentation of the prizes by Professor Myron G. Fincher '20, Veterinary, addresses were given by Professor Charles L. Durham, PhD '99, Latin Emeritus, and Dr. Otto Stader of Ardmore, Pa. DeWitt T. Baker '44 of Ithaca, president of the Cornell Junior Chapter of AVMA, presided.

DELANO MEMORIAL FUND

The University has received a bequest of $6,000 from the late Elizabeth M. DeLano of Alplaus, in memory of her husband, Warren Varney DeLano '96. Receiving the ME in 1898 and for years a mechanical designer on induction motors at General Electric Co. in Schenectady, DeLano died March 2, 1942, at Alplaus.

The DeLano Fund will be used to assist students in Mechanical Engineering.

NEW YORK WOMEN

Annual tea of the Cornell Women's Club of New York for entering Freshman women brought fifty-nine enthusiastic guests to the Club rooms in the Barbizon Hotel, October 2. President Marjorie A. Rice '29 welcomed them and Joan M. Plunkett '42 staged the traditional fashion show to demonstrate a Campus wardrobe. Announcer was Eddie Burgess '41 and clothes were modelled by Florence J. Bellus '42, Laura J. McIntire '42, Christina Steinman '42, Grace H. H. Reinhardt '43, and Joan E. Blaikie '45. Mrs. Edward H. Sargent, Jr. (Shirley Richards) '41 played for the show and led the singing of Cornell songs. Tea was poured by Mrs. John E. Gray (Betty Niles) '41.

First of the Club's monthly afternoon parties for men in the armed forces was September 26. Forty-two service men enjoyed dancing and ping-pong with alumnae hostesses of the recent Classes and a buffet supper on the terrace of the Barbizon.

STUDENT AGENCIES ACTIVE

Former managers of the Student Agencies met for luncheon September 22 at the Cornell Club of New York, to discuss plans for commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the beginnings of the Student Laundry Agency and the Student Agencies in 1894. Thomas A. McGoey '31, president of the corporation, presided. Others present were University

NAVY MEN EAT WELL AT HUGE MESS HALL BELOW MEN'S DORMITORIES

The Mess Hall built by the University Department of Buildings and Grounds for the Naval Training School in the summer of 1942 is now enlarged to more than twice its original size. The University Department of Residential Halls directed by Mrs. Anna Fielden Grace '10 serves mess three times a day to nearly 2,700 apprentice seamen, Marine privates, and student officers.

Food for Army and Navy messes is strictly rationed, but Sunday dinner for the Navy requires 1,700 pounds of dressed frying chickens; 675 pounds of bacon is used for a meal, 1,100 pounds of fresh broccoli, 35 bushels of potatoes, 35 bushels of fresh beans. Except bread, all baking for the Navy mess, the Army mess in Willard Straight Hall, and the dining halls for women is done in the new University plant at East Ithaca, which also manufactures the ice creams and sherbets used, cuts and stores all meats and frozen foods in its recently-tripled cold storage. Monthly milk bills for the combined operations approximate $19,000, and 435 full-time workers are employed by the Department of Residential Halls.

Manager of the Navy Mess Hall is Olive Worden '31, who formerly ran the Prudence Risley dining room, and her chief assistant is Winifred A. Burns '42. Thirty-five student girls and about the same number of civilian men students work at the Mess Hall for their board and overtime pay. The girls are transported from Risley every morning at 6:10 in a Department station wagon. U. S. Navy photos

Trustees Willis H. Carrier '01 and Matthew Carey '15, Paul C. Wanser '18, Ellis K. Locher '30, Robert C. Trier, Jr. '32, and William H. Miller '38.

William F. Schmidt '36, a former Senior manager, has been appointed graduate manager of the Student Agencies operations in Ithaca for the duration of the war. He is assisted by John H. Bishop '45 of Ira and Harrie K. Washburn '45 of Schuyler Lake. War conditions in Ithaca have increased the laundry business, and it is hoped to start an undergraduate competition for assistant managements this fall.

TO STUDY FRATERNITIES Council Creates Committee

Thirty-five student representatives attended a meeting of the Interfraternity Council October 6, and voted to adopt the "Open Letter" resolutions which appeared in the ALUMNI NEWS October 1, including the one to disband the Council for the duration of the war.

To act for it and to conduct a study looking toward a program to "revitalize" fraternities after the war, the Council authorized appointment of a committee of fraternity alumni, members of the Faculty, and undergraduates. Secretary of this committee is Walter C. Heasley, Jr. '30, acting Alumni Secretary of the University, and its members will be appointed by Heasley and Edward D. Eddy '44, retiring president of the Interfraternity Council. A visitor at the meeting was Wilbur M. Walden '10, national secretary of Alpha Chi Rho, who suggested that the committee also consult with the national Interfraternity Conference.

It was Eddy who first proposed in The Sun that fraternities at the University should revise their aims and standards to make them more useful members of the community, and he outlined a plan based largely on the fraternity studies at Dartmouth. Subsequently, the Interfraternity Council defeated a motion to demand his resignation as president, and this final action of the Council carries out his recommendations.

SERVICE TEST NOVEMBER 9

Qualifying test for the Army and Navy college training programs, open to boys of seventeen through twenty-one, will be given in high schools and in many colleges and universities throughout the country, Tuesday, November 9. The same test, of aptitude and general knowledge, is given for both services and successful candidates will be sent to colleges at government expense after their induction. Boys who take the test may indicate their service and college preferences, but this does not oblige them to enlist.

Complete information about the test can be obtained from most high school principals.

TIME WAS . . .

Twenty-five Years Ago

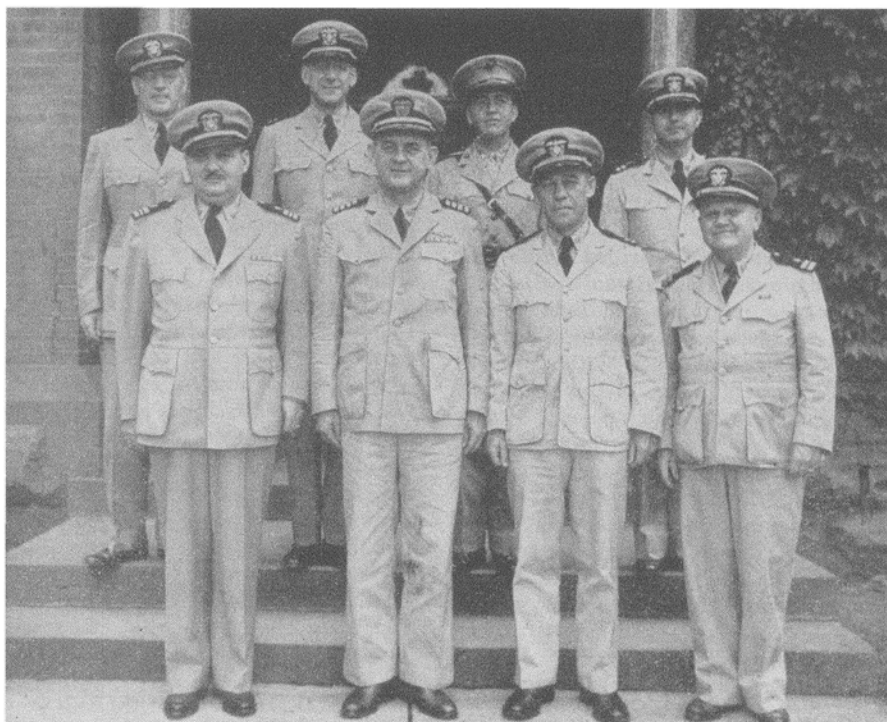

October, 1918—The north side of State Street between Tioga and Aurora has been designated "Liberty Block." Shop windows display models of desolated Belgian villages, a gory-handed devil murdering a child, and numerous caricatures of the Hun aristocracy, advertising the Fourth Liberty Loan. . . . A huge Liberty Loan banner, designed by Louis A. Fuertes '97, hangs across State Street between the Ithaca Hotel and the offices of the ALUMNI NEWS.

Lieutenant Colonel Frank A. Barton '91, head of the Military Department and commandant of the Students' Army Training Corps, has left Ithaca to take up his new duties in New York City as inspector of SATC units in the East. . . . New appointments to the Faculty include Professors Dwight Sanderson '98, Rural Social Organization; Homer C. Thompson, Vegetable Gardening; and Helen Monsch, Home Economics. . . . Emerson Hinchliff '14, former editor of The Sun, has been promoted from second to first lieutenant, Military Intelligence.

Fifteen Years Ago

October, 1928—Morris Bishop '14 reports: "The Campus views the titanic Hoover-Smith campaign with equanimity and aloofness. Exceptions are Professors Martin Wright Sampson, Frank Thilly, and Charles Love Durham, PhD '99, who have made some rousing speeches in the Smith interest. The Sun regards the contest with editorial indifference, although taking a firm stand on the crooked fence-posts on South Avenue." In response, The Sun conducted a Presidential straw vote October 17, which resulted in a student victory for Hoover and a Faculty edge for Smith.

Scoring twice in the final quarter, Cornell beat Hampden-Sidney 18-6, making it three straight. . . . The new ROTC Band of sixty pieces, organized by Colonel Joseph W. Beacham '97, Commandant of the ROTC unit, made its first appearance at the Cornell-Niagara game October 6. . . . And that night, in the Strand Theater, student celebrants brought pain to the bosoms of an inept male quartet and Manager Bill Dillon by hissing and groaning the act off the stage. Dillon addressed the audience in vigorous and parental tones, but later offered to stage a weekly "whoopie program" Saturday nights.

Officers who direct the activities of the 1650 apprentice seamen and Marine privates stationed at the University for training are pictured on the steps of Sage College, Navy headquarters. Left to right in the front row are Lieutenant Commander Richard Wagner, USN (Ret.), executive officer; Captain B. W. Chippendale, USN, commanding officer; Lieutenant Commander P. C. Olin, USNR, aide-for-training; and Lieutenant Commander C. B. Reemelin, USNR, officer-in-charge of the V-12 unit (the latter two were recently promoted from lieutenants). Top row: Lieutenant H. E. Stevenson, USNR; Lieutenant J. G. Cornwell, USNR, academic adviser; Captain W. J. Dumas, USMCR, officer-in-charge of the Marine Corps unit; and Lieutenant W. P. Marts, USNR.

COMMITTEE TO PLAN AHEAD

A new committee on University planning and development has been set up in the Board of Trustees. Its function, according to H. Edward Babcock, chairman of the Board, is "to look ahead and plan for the University; supervise the University's relationships with the alumni, and public, and the government; and correlate all activities designed to support the University."

The committee is divided into three subcommittees, on alumni relations, government relations, and public relations. Members are elected by the Trustees for one-year terms, with Babcock and President Edmund E. Day members ex-officio. Babcock is temporarily chairman of the general committee. Chairman of the subcommittee on alumni relations is Albert R. Mann '04, with Robert E. Treman '09 and Mary H. Donlon '20 as members. Subcommittee on government relations has Edward R. Eastman as chairman with Harry G. Stutz '07 and Harold M. Stanley '15. Subcommittee on public relations has Maxwell M. Upson '99, chairman, and Walter C. Teagle '00 and John L. Collyer '17.

Speaking of the functions of the new Trustee committee, Chairman Babcock says: "Cornell is the Land Grant University of the State of New York. As such, it performs important administrative functions for the State and Federal governments; it carries considerable responsibility for the public welfare; and it has obligations to an ever-growing body of alumni who are part of it and whose support and interest are essential to its long-time effectiveness. Obviously, the University must keep abreast of the times.

"The new committee on planning and development will recognize, perhaps more realistically than has been done in the past, the broad character of the services rendered by the University and will endeavor through its planning and leadership to develop a balanced institution which no one interest dominates, but in which all are served equally. Under this committee will come the general responsibility for all support activities to the University, from appropriations by the State Legislature to gifts by alumni. Another administrative officer who will function as a vice-president of the University will be selected by the committee and recommended to the Board of Trustees for election. He will devote virtually his full time to the committee's work under direction of President Day."

The Trustee committee on law has been made a standing committee of the Board, with Mary H. Donlon '20, chairman, and Trustees George R. Van Namee '01 and Neal D. Becker '05 as members.

Alumni Trustee Thomas I. S. Boak '14, formerly vice-chairman of the committee on buildings and grounds, has succeeded Ezra B. Whitman '01 as chairman.

Trustees' audit committee for this year has Tell Berna '12 as chairman, with Miss Donlon and Paul A. Schoellkopf '06.

COMMENCEMENT OCTOBER 17

Seventy-seventh Commencement exercises, in the University's seventy-sixth year, will be October 17 in Sage Chapel, with President Edmund E. Day the Commencement speaker. It was almost exactly seventy-five years ago, October 7, 1868, that Cornell University was formally opened with inaugural exercises in Library Hall in downtown Ithaca. Except last January and this fall because of the wartime accelerated program, the Commencement exercises have been held only at the end of the academic year.

Some 200 students are expected to complete the requirements for degrees when the present term ends October 23, and those who are in Ithaca for Commencement will march in caps and gowns from Goldwin Smith Hall, in the traditional academic procession. A special program will be rung on the Chimes.

A SOLDIER REMEMBERS

Sending from Sicily his contribution to the Cornell Alumni Fund, Private Joseph R. Barbara '40 writes, in part:

"Although I am merely a private in the US Army, I feel very proud in having been a student at Cornell University. Even in a war zone it is a soldier's privilege to relive his past. The University's Arts and Sciences courses are ideal in helping to make the average student a more cultured, more refined, better rounded individual. The quiet Campus, engulfed with natural beauty; the weathered, ivy-covered buildings; its celebrated Faculty, its admirable traditions, and its unique student body—all these things I cherish and have ingrained in my heart and mind. My return to Cornell is eagerly looked forward to and shall one day be fully realized."

ROCHESTER LUNCHEONS

George A. West '23, recently expeditor of food for the Lend-Lease Administration until ill health forced his return from Washington, spoke at the regular weekly luncheon of the Cornell Club of Rochester at the University Club September 29. Speaker September 15 was Robert J. Kane '34, acting Director of Physical Education and Athletics at the University. October 8, members of the Club and their guests enjoyed a clambake at Lake Shore Country Club.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

RAINED OUT once last month, the University's second street dance was finally held September 18 in the Bailey Hall circle. With the temperature in the 40's, service men and civilian students danced in wraps and were thankful every time Art Stallman '29 played a hot recording. Thirty hostesses collected enough nickels and dimes to add a $100 bond to the Willard Straight War Bond Fund.

WAC COMPANY commanded by Lieutenant Hilda Berry, daughter of Romeyn Berry '04, was the subject of a feature article from Norfolk, England, in The New York Times for October 2. Lieutenant Berry's command, one of the first WAC companies to go to England, is on duty at an American Air Force headquarters.

ORDER OF THE COIF membership has been awarded to Ephraim T. Brown, Jr. '44 of Birmingham, Ala., and Harry G. Henn '44 of New Rochelle, ranking members of the Law School's third-year class which graduated October 9.

THOMAS HAMMONDS, publisher of many fraternity chapter letters as local manager of the Stewart Howe Alumni Service since 1937, has received a medical discharge from the Army and is back in Ithaca from Fort Knox, Ky. He and Mrs. Hammonds have a son, born September 22, in Ithaca.

THIRD WAR LOAN drive went over the top in Ithaca. Tompkins County surpassed its $4,000,000 quota; 1,858 Navy men and Marines contributed $53,000; more than 1,000 of the Faculty and University employees added another $135,000.

INVOCATION and benediction at the Commencement exercises October 17 in Sage Chapel will be given by the Rev. Stewart H. Herman, former pastor of the interdenominational American Church in Berlin, Germany, who will also conduct the regular services in the Chapel that morning. Preachers October 3 and 10 were the Rev. G. Bromley Oxnam, Bishop of the Methodist Church in Boston, Mass., and the Rev. Boynton Merrill of the First Congregational Church in Columbus, Ohio.

SEVENTY-TWO STUDENT officers, graduates of the sixteen-week Diesel engineering course, left October 9 for assignments elsewhere in the Navy. They were the last group to be trained under the Engineering, Science, and Management War Training program. Present trainees, numbering about 100 here, and future ones, are under Navy

THE SUN published its Commencement issue October 7, containing the names of all October graduates, a farewell editorial beginning "This is the end of a journey . . ." and the traditional "Skittles and Beer" from the retiring editor, Edward D. Eddy '44 of Ithaca, who plans to enter Yale Divinity School. A new masthead appeared October 9, announcing The Sun's first woman editor-in-chief. She is Guinevere G. Griest '44 of Chicago, Ill., who has been women's editor. Morton D. Bogdonoff '46 of New York City has become managing editor, with Nancy Ford '45 of Rochester as assistant. Allen Kaufman '46 of Elizabeth, N. J., is editorial director, his former position as associate editor being taken by Robert J. Lifton '46 of New York City. Publication was suspended with the October 12 issue, until November 2, when the new term starts.

sponsorship, which now owns and supplies all equipment and shares instruction with the University for the new nineteen-week course.

CANDLELIGHT BALL in the Willard Straight Memorial Room October 9, vestigial descendant of the Senior Ball, honored the University's first October graduates.

HARRY MAYERS, former proprietor of Mayers Smoke Shop on State Street, died October 1 in East Orange, N. J., his home since 1928. As a boy, he worked in the store, then owned by his mother. After her death he and his brother Frank operated it.

ETA KAPPA NU, Electrical Engineering honor society, has elected Daniel Glosser of Johnstown, Pa., Thornton S. Lauber of Amsterdam, Ernest J. Sternglass of Buffalo, and Laurence A. Weber of East Orange, N. J., all of the Class of '45.

CONDUCTED by Lieutenant Hosea C. Ballou '20, USNR, forty-three Naval Aviation cadets arrived September 30 from Colgate University, bringing the total number of men here for flight training in the V-5 program to 110.

RUSSIAN LANGUAGE and civilization courses are described by Ethel M. Takce, Sp '43, in the October issue of Soviet Russia Today. Pictures of Professor Ernest J. Simmons, Slavic Languages, Sir Bernard Pares, and some of the students are included. The Faculty of Arts and Sciences voted last week to accept Russian as one of the foreign languages to satisfy requirements for the AB degree.

DR. HARRY G. BULL '08 advertised in the October 9 Sun: "Lost: The Prophet of Nazareth, by Nathaniel Schmidt. Will all you gentlemen who called upon me at my home two or three years ago to help speed my convalescence now look along your bookshelves for the above volume? One of you has it. Being long out of print, and an inscribed copy to boot, I am very anxious to repossess it. Naturally you each think someone else has it, but I would appreciate a good look just the same."

LIFE PHOTOGRAPHER Walter Sanders spent September 22 at the College of Agriculture, taking pictures of approved methods of storing fruits and vegetables for family use.

A B-26 BOMBER flew low over the Campus October 4, and Mrs. Alfred H. Grommon (Helen L. McCurdy) '31 spotted and reported it from the Aircraft Warning Service post atop Roberts Hall. A few hours later her brother, Captain Leon H. McCurdy '34, telephoned from Pine Camp to say that he had piloted the ship, on a reconnaissance flight from his Tallahassee, Fla., station.

SIXTH DISTRICT branch of the New York State Medical Society held its thirty-seventh annual meeting September 24 in Willard Straight Hall, with Dr. Norman S. Moore '23, director of the University Clinic, presiding.

200 ROTC FRESHMEN, enrolled in the Army motors course, formed a two-mile, twenty-one-truck convoy on a three-hour night march into the Ellis Hollow and Turkey Hill country last month. The trucks, driven by students at four to six miles an hour without lights and into a biting wind, were in short-wave radio communication with the Army staff headquarters in Barton Hall.

LENT'S MUSIC STORE in Ithaca, founded in 1893 by B. F. Lent who, at eighty-two, is considered the oldest active record dealer in the country, celebrated its fiftieth anniversary last month. His son, Ralph G. Lent '26, is manager of the store.

A FOOTBALL autographed by thirty-two members of the 1938 Varsity team, brought a top bid of $5,000 in a War Bond auction conducted by the Cornell radio station, WHCU. Donated by Everett McQuade, stock clerk in Schoellkopf, the ball has the signatures of Brud Holland, Walt Matuszczak, Captain Al Van Ranst, Walt Scholl, Hal McCullough, and their teammates, and is now owned by Frank H. Bassham, a Navy V-12 student, who was high bidder.

Concerning THE FACULTY

STANTON GRIFFIS '10, University Trustee and chairman of the executive committee of Paramount Pictures, has been named chief of the motion picture bureau of the Office of War Information. He will supervise the relationship between the government and the film industry, including motion picture cooperation in war bond drives and in government information programs.

STANLEY SCHAEFER '28, University Publisher and manager of the University Press and Comstock Publishing Co., has joined F. S. Crofts & Co., publishers of college textbooks, as manager of production and in charge of the editorial offices. President of the company is Fred S. Crofts '05, who is a director of the University Press. Their offices are at 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City, and Schaefer has moved his residence to Harmon. He has been manager of the Press and Comstock Publishing Co. since 1932 when the Press was established as a publishing concern and the two were housed together at 124 Roberts Place. He was appointed University Publisher in 1941, after the retirement of Woodford Patterson '95. For the present, Schaefer divides his time between New York and Ithaca.

MAJOR PAUL V. KANE, ROTC instructor from 1926-29, is now a brigadier general in command of the 96th Field Artillery Division.

PROFESSOR ARTHUR C. DAHLBERG, Grad '27-28, Dairy Industry, has been elected president of the American Dairy Science Association. Head of the Dairy division of the Geneva Experiment Station since 1921, Professor Dahlberg came to the Dairy Department of the College of Agriculture last July.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM J. HAMILTON, JR. ★ '26, former professor of Zoology, who has been assistant medical inspector for the Headquarters 8th Service Command, Dallas, Tex., since he left the University in July, 1942, has been transferred to the Fifth Military Government School, Ft. Custer, Mich.

PROFESSOR WILLIAM I. MYERS '14, acting Dean of Agriculture, has been appointed to the State War Council by Governor Dewey, succeeding the late Dean Carl E. Ladd '12.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY PRESS has published, at $3.00, A Hand-List of Bede Manuscripts, by Professor Max L. W. Laistner, History, with the collaboration of Henry H. King, research assistant in the University Library. This is an authoritative, though necessarily incomplete, bibliography of the extant MSS of the Venerable Bede, one of the "classic" authors in medieval libraries, whose popularity from the eighth to the early sixteenth centuries is attested by the widespread distribution of his works. Professor Laistner explains in his Preface that in these times "manuscripts may perish with the libraries that contain them or they may be carried off by unscrupulous emissaries of the Axis governments from the collections in which they have long reposed."

PROFESSOR GEORGE R. HANSELMAN '22, Engineering, addressing the Binghamton chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants September 30, spoke on the training of accountants under the University's Engineering, Science, and Management War Training Program.

CHEMICAL INVESTIGATIONS of Professor Harold G. Wolff and Dr. Clara Torda of the Medical College in New York have thrown new light on the cause of progressive muscular weakness. The body normally produces a certain powerful chemical, which keeps the muscles in good condition. Failure to produce this chemical, they found, results in the muscular disease known as myasthenia gravis.

PROFESSOR PAUL M. O'LEARY, PhD '29, Economics, announced in Ithaca October 1 his resignation as deputy administrator of the OPA in charge of rationing. He has returned to teaching in the University. Professor O'Leary left Ithaca in February, 1941, to join the price stabilization division of the advisory committee of the Council on National Defense, which later became the OPA. As deputy administrator of rationing he drafted and administered all rationing programs except the original tire and automobile restrictions imposed immediately after Pearl Harbor.

GEORGE E. DETMOLD '38, instructor ★ in English from 1939-42, was commissioned a second lieutenant at the Ordnance Officer Candidate School, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., September 25. He enlisted in November, 1942, after completing work for the PhD, and was stationed for seven months at Fort Riley, Kans. With Mrs. Detmold, who was formerly assistant to Professor Blanchard L. Rideout, PhD '36, Arts and Sciences advisory board for underclassmen, he spent September 12-14 in Ithaca, on leave. A HOTEL AND WAR...

We, too, must get along on less, and at the same time please the tastes of a constantly changing group of people who, working or travelling under war-time pressure, look to us even more for the small comforts that mean so much.

We undertake this job as a challenge to our ingenuity—a contribution we are glad to make.

Atmosphere

A hotel may have beautiful rooms, excellent food, convenient location; but without atmosphere, it's just another rooming-house.

Ask a Grosvenor guest why he comes back again and again. "I like the atmosphere of the place," he invariably replies. And there's a reason. The Grosvenor goes back to the brownstone era of great houses and lavish entertaining. Through the years it has kept pace with modern trends, held fast to the hospitality which made it famous. On lower Fifth Avenue, in the heart of exclusive Washington Square, it is today the last word in a smart town residence.

It's atmosphere that follows the wanderer home, colors his memories and brings him back.
