LITTLE outward appearance of change marks the course of University life this fall. The effects of the war are not so disturbing as they were last spring, when students were leaving Ithaca by the hundreds, all athletic games had been abandoned, and instructors were finding it hard to keep the minds of students concentrated on the work of the class room. The University has passed through that phase of the war and has adjusted itself to the absence of many teachers and the loss of many students. A walk about the Campus and through the corridors of buildings now reveals little that is different from the ordinary. Perhaps the students appear to be younger, but that may be only because one thinks that the departure of so many upperclassmen ought to make a difference in the average age. One finds professors going about their usual tasks and learns of students taking up the undergraduate activities that others dropped last spring. Sophomores still hail freshmen who walk on the grass of the Quadrangle and warn them to keep on the paths. And the Co-op is just about as crowded as it ever was.

ONE CHANGE put into effect this fall is suggestive of the war, although it was first proposed long before the war began. That is the new arrangement of the drill hours. On five afternoons a week now, and from two o'clock to five, some part of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps is going through military evolutions on the Campus. On the parade ground north of the old armory companies of freshmen, still in citizens' clothes and wearing gray caps, are learning to count fours, change step, and march in line. In the Quadrangle on the same afternoon may be seen a sophomore company in khaki deployed across the lawn and charging by squads all the way from Sibley to Boardman. The schedules of the smaller colleges have been arranged so that their men all drill on certain afternoons. The men of the larger colleges are distributed through the afternoons of the week. Two or three companies drill for three hours on each afternoon from Monday to Friday. There are five companies composed of sophomores and eight of freshmen.

THE field officers of the R.O.T.C. this fall are: Colonel, James L. Berston '18, Yonkers; lieutenant-colonel, R. B. Stuart '18; majors, Francis C. Wilbur '18, Albany; William G. Milligan '18, New York, and Hubert H. Moon '18, Burke, Va. The regimental adjutant is Captain Julian A. Sohon '18, of New York, and the supply officer is Captain Henry W. Greenberg '18, of Flushing. The battalion adjutants are First Lieutenants William P. Woodcock '20, Spencer, Iowa; William S. Stempfle '19, Elmira, and Louis Drago '19, Richmond Hill. The captains of the companies are W. H. Colvin '20, Evanston, Ill.; C. E. Krey '19, Washington, D. C.; T. B. Huestis '19, Greencastle, Ind.; C. M. Christian '19, Horseheads; R. G. Starke '19, New York; R. J. LeBoeuf, jr., '19, Albany; Peter Vischer '19, Brooklyn; W. B. Greenwood '19, Forestville, Md.; E. L. Duffies '19, Washington, D. C.; W. D. Ellis '20, Atlanta, Ga.; Sherman Trowbridge '19, Flushing; W. C. Eldridge '19, Takoma Park, D. C., and K. M. Reid '19, Warren, Ohio.

MEN who were officers of the Cornell R.O.T.C. last year and who are now in the military service of the United States are the colonel, W. L. Saunders '17, three majors, J. B. Slimm '17, L. I. Shelley '17, and H. A. Holt '17; and H. C. Reed '17, D. C. McCoy '17, C. B. Benson '17, J. R. Schwartz '18, G. A. Benton, jr., '19, K. B. Champ '19, R. B. Hough, jr., '19, A. N. Volkhardt '19, W. E. Lauer '19, and L. R. Schaufler '20. Some of these men are on the staff of military instructors of the U. S. Army School of Military Aeronautics at Cornell.

A PORTRAIT of Irving Porter Church '73, emeritus professor of applied mechanics and hydraulics in the College of Civil Engineering, the gift of former students, will be formally presented to the University at noon on Friday, November 9. The presentation will take place in Goldwin Smith Hall. Invitations to be present at the ceremony have been sent out by a committee representing the donors, of which the chairman is Captain F. W. Scheidenhelm, C.E. '06. The portrait is now hung at the Cornell University Club, 65 Park Avenue, New York, where it may be seen until October 17.

SEVERAL PAGES of the October number of The Cornell Countryman are devoted to an editorial statement, ably reinforced by citation of particular cases, of the bad effect upon food production of the drafting of farmers into the National Army. The article includes a statement by Dean Mann of the College of Agriculture of the interruption of important work in that college by the calling of several of its teachers into the army. How the agricultural war emergency work of the State has been hampered by the drafting of agents of the farm bureaus is told by Professor M. C. Burritt, and Professor George A. Works describes the effect of the draft upon the teaching of agriculture in the high schools. The case of the individual farmer who must risk the loss of his crops and perhaps even of his farm because he is called to military service is presented by F. W. Wardle '14, who describes his own plight in an open letter to President Wilson. The point of the article is that if the farmers are to do what the country expects of them in augmenting the food supply they must have "help"—workers—rather than advice.

PROFESSOR J. C. BRADLEY of Cornell and Professor Edwin C. Van Dyke of the University of California have exchanged work for the current year, the Cornell Countryman announces. Although both are general entomologists, Professor Van Dyke is an authority on the coleoptera, while Professor Bradley is a specialist on the hymenoptera.

THE TREASURER of the University has received from Mr. William A. Dole of Boston, as executor of the will of Mrs. Grace Weld (Soper) Dole, of the class of 1882, a check for $15 in fulfillment of a provision of the will. This bequest was: "To Sage College, Cornell University, my alma mater, fifteen dollars for its library."

FIVE MEMBERS of the senior class and thirty-four members of the junior class are enrolled in the senior course of the Cornell R. O. T. C. This course leads directly to army commissions.

THE Agricultural Association has elected H. S. Sisson '18, of Sherburne, N. Y., president for this year.

Son of B. W. Holt '90 Receives the French War Cross

A dispatch from Paris to the Associated Press on October 3 said that the War Cross had been awarded by the French Government to six members of Section 1 of the American Field Service for transporting wounded under heavy fire and against gas attacks. One of the six was William Stull Holt, of Brooklyn, a member of the class of 1919 in the College of Law.

Holt is a son of Byron Webber Holt '90, a well known writer on financial subjects, and is twenty years old. He entered the College of Arts and Sciences in the fall of 1914 and transferred to the College of Law a year afterward. He sailed for France on March 17 last as a volunteer in the American Ambulance Field Service. He was in the Verdun section at the time of the French attack there last summer. The New York Herald of October 4, in publishing the news of his decoration, published also a letter which he had written to his parents, a part of which follows:

"Now for the Verdun attack. Of course, you know a long time ago (August 20) that the French made a very successful attack there, taking in all about ten thousand men, and, what is more important, hills which had cost the Boches hundreds of thousands of lives.

"The hardest time for us was during the artillery preparation for the attack, the attack itself being so successful we were agreeably surprised. There were on the day of the attack only five hundred wounded in our division. We would drive every other twenty-four hours, and frequently would be called out on our off day. It was a routine of work, throw yourself into bed, then work again.

"I had a very close call with gas, which they used a lot, especially in one little valley that formed a pocket for it. There was another American section that came up to take over one of our many posts during the attack itself, and luckily on this night I took one of their men to show him the road.

"It was just about dusk when we started (my fifth trip that day) to the worst post that section ever had, and we got, without much excitement, to within about 1,000 yards of the post when a big motor truck 100 yards in front got hit by a shell (they were coming in pretty fast) and completely blocked the road. I couldn't get by and there were too many shells coming in for anybody to try to clear the truck off the road, so this other fellow and I crawled in a trench and waited. We huddled there for a long time getting splashed by mud thrown by shells several times, when gas shells started to come in. Then I decided we had to go on to the post where we would be safer and from where we could telephone back and warn the others.

"We started, crawling, throwing ourselves flat, crawling on with gas masks on. To make a long story short, and leaving out several interesting steps, we got to within about 100 yards of the post (a great big dug-out, almost a tunnel in the hill) when I was almost buried by a shell and a few seconds later a big gas shell went off within twenty feet of me. Something hit me on the head, putting a big dent in my helmet and raising a bump on my head. If it hadn't been for my helmet my head would have been cracked.

"As it was, I was dazed, knocked down and my gas mask knocked off. I got several breaths of the strong solution right from the shell. If it hadn't been for the fellow with me I would probably have cashed in because I couldn't see, my eyes were running water and burning, so was my nose and I could hardly breathe. The fellow with me grabbed me and led me the hundred yards or so to the abri, where the doctor gave me a little stuff and where I became all right again except that I was a little intoxicated from the gas for a while. I think the hardest thing I did was to go back again alone the next night. I had to call myself names before I got nerve enough."

IN TRENCH WARFARE SECTION

The following Cornell men are on duty in the Trench Warfare Section of the Gun Division, in the Office of the Chief of Ordnance, 1330 F Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.:

Major John H. Barr, M.M.E., '89.
Captain William A. Borden, M.E., '12.
Captain Alfred B. Quinton, jr., C.E., '12.
Captain John V. McAdam, M.E., '00.
Lieut. Sidney W. Treat, M.E., '07.
Lieut. Harry A. DeWitt, M.E., '09.
Lieut. Seth G. Malby, M.E., '10.
Lieut. William W. Woodruff, M.E., '11.

PROFESSOR BURR will give the first lecture of this year's series on the history of civilization on October 12. His subject is: "The world war and its place in history."

Senior Society Elections

National Service Left Only a Few Members Here This Fall

The senior societies made their fall elections from the class of 1918 on October 9. The two societies were greatly reduced in numbers this fall by the absence of many seniors who had gone into the national service. Of twenty-five men of the class of 1918 who accepted membership in Sphinx Head last spring, eighteen were in the service, leaving only seven for a nucleus of the organization this fall. Quill and Dagger took in seventeen men last spring and had only three left this fall, the other fourteen being in the national service.

When the Sun published the lists of the newly elected members this week, it printed also the names of the men in the national service, as follows:

Sphinx Head.—J. C. Carry, H. G. Benedict, Merrill Blanchard, W. F. Courtney, W. M. Dixon, W. H. Farnham, T. H. Farnsworth, J. A. Krugh, R. P. Matthiessen, P. P. Miller, W. F. Place, F. C. Reavis, jr., D. A. Ruhl, R. E. Ryerson, W. B. Shelton, C. M. Speed, J. M. Watt, and L. E. Wenz.

Quill and Dagger.—C. S. Bailey, O. C. Brewster, L. G. Brower, S. C. Doolittle, J. L. Eastwick, F. M. Gillies, C. M. Micou, Frank Nelms, jr., H. B. Ortner, J. D. Sauters, jr., F. T. Shiverick, C. L. Thomas, J. C. Thomas, and W. H. J. Woodford.

The election this fall was notable for the fact that in at least one case membership in Tau Beta Pi, the honorary technical society, was counted as a recommendation to a senior society.

The names of the men just elected follow:

Sphinx Head

Ross Garrison Bennett, New York; musical clubs; Sigma Chi.

William Edward Blewett, jr., Glen Ridge, N. J.; freshman advisory council; Phi Kappa Sigma.

Jo Harnly Cable, Lima, Ohio; manager, musical clubs; Delta Tau Delta.

Lee Hinchman Clark, Brooklyn; Tau Beta Pi; Psi Upsilon.

Nelson Warren Cornell, Chemung; wrestling; Huntington Club.

George Turner Dibble, Lima; manager, Annals; captain, soccer; Alpha Zeta.

Edwin Philip Doerr, Chicago; musical clubs; Chi Psi.

Lester Wells DuBois, Brooklyn; manager, baseball; Beta Theta Pi.

Ernest Cleveland Fortier, Washington,

D. C.; track team; Tau Beta Pi; Delta Tau Delta.

Philipp Synyer Hill, Oak Park, Ill.; musical clubs; Delta Kappa Epsilon.

William Rossiter Hinchman, Brooklyn; manager, basketball; Phi Delta Theta.

Howard Archibald McDonell, New York; manager, track; Psi Upsilon.

Talbot Marion Malcolm, Ithaca; manager, freshman baseball; Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Malcolm Harley Tuttle, Honolulu; Sun; Pi Kappa Alpha.

Ralph Chapman VanHorn, Elmira; football; Delta Upsilon.

Quill and Dagger

Kenneth Ford Coffin, Somerville, N. J.; Delta Phi.

Carlos Lazo, New York; manager of the Navy; Delta Upsilon.

Henry Wisdom Roden, Dallas, Texas; Chi Phi.

Edwin Hewes Thomas, Wilmington, Del.; freshman advisory committee; Kappa Sigma.

THIRD TRAINING CAMPS

The Adjutant-General of the Army has announced plans for a third series of reserve officers' training camps, to start on January 5, 1918, and to continue for three months. These camps will be opened to enlisted men of the regular army, National Guard, and national army, and to graduates and undergraduates of certain selected colleges, universities, and military schools. Cornell is one of the universities whose students are eligible. The number of college men admitted will be limited to 2,490. Graduates and undergraduates of the institutions listed must be between 21 and 31 years old on January 5, 1918. They are not eligible for admission if they did not take the course of military training offered by their institution. Applicants for admission must apply on blanks provided for the purpose and must forward the completed application to "the Instructor in Military Tactics" of the institution from which the applicant graduated.

AT CAMP UPTON

The following Long Island Cornellians are in the National Army at Camp Upton: Morgan King Harris, LL.B., '14; Lyman Warren Davison, A.B., '16; James W. Andrews, A.B., '17, and John C. Kratoville, B.Chem., '17. They were among the first called from their respective districts.

PRESIDENT SCHURMAN AND HIS TWO YOUNGER SONS, WHO ARE IN THE ARMY
At the President's right is George Munro Schurman '13, second lieutenant, Field Artillery, Officers' Reserve Corps, assigned to the Regular Army and now on duty at Fort Ethan Allen. Jacob Gould Schurman, jr., '17, is a captain in the Infantry Officers' Reserve Corps, assigned to the National Army, and is on duty at Camp Dix.

WITH THE 25TH ENGINEERS

These Cornell men, members of the Engineer Officers' Reserve Corps, are with the 25th U. S. Engineers, now at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass.: First Lieut. Ralph A. Smallman, C.E., '08; First Lieut. Samuel A. Graham, C.E., '11; First Lieut. Philip T. Coffey, C.E., '14, and Second Lieut. William C. Anderson, C.E., '14. With the 301st Engineers, also at Camp Devens, is first Lieut. Ernest J. Weaver, C.E., '14.

WITH EXPORTS BOARD

Professor Allyn A. Young of the department of economics, who is now serving as chief of the Research Division of the Exports Administrative Board at Washington, has called two members of the class of 1917 to the capital to be members of his staff. They are James Herman Becker and Robert Sigmund Beifeld, both of Chicago. To Professor Young has been given the task of preparing export rations, based on ante-bellum trade, for Latin-American countries, and the two assistants are making some interesting statistical investigations under his direction. Both Becker and Beifeld are members of the Cornell chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

AT VANCOUVER

In the engineer training camp at Vancouver, Wash., are these Cornell men of the Engineer O.R.C.:

Major Charles B. Wing, C.E., '86, Palo Alto, Cal.

Major Norman B. Livermore, C.E., '95, San Francisco.

Lieut. Adolph Morbio, M.E., '13, San Francisco.

Lieut. Andrew W. Newberry, A.B., '05, San Francisco.

INSPECTORS OF AIRPLANES

The following Cornell men are inspectors of airplanes and airplane engines, Signal Service at Large, U. S. Army: Warner D. Orvis, M.E., '06; Frederick Kühne, M.E., '11; Walter H. Rudolph, M.E., '12, and William R. Landmesser, M.E., '17. Kühne and Rudolph are in the office of the district manager of inspection, Signal Corps, U. S. A., 15 Park Row, New York. Orvis is at the Curtiss plant in Buffalo, where Landmesser is about to join him.

Many Faculty Changes

Trustees' Committees Receive Resignations and Make Appointments

Meetings were held on October 5 and 6 by the Trustees' committee on buildings and grounds, the Agricultural College Council, the Veterinary College Council, and the committee on general administration.

The following members of the Board of Trustees were in attendance at some or all of these meetings: President Schurman, and Trustees Cornell, Newman, VanCleaf, R. H. Treman, Westervelt, T. B. Wilson, Westinghouse, C. E. Treman, Williams, J. DuPratt White, Blood, Dix, Horace White, Edwards and Miller; Deans Moore and Mann, and Faculty Representatives Willcox, Kimball, Comstock, Fish, Stocking and Lyon.

Much of the time was devoted to a consideration of the requests to be made to the Legislature for the support of the College of Agriculture and the Veterinary College and the maintenance of the Drill Hall for the year 1918-19. The general lines of requests to be made were decided upon and the adjustment of details was left with the University officers.

Resignations were received as follows: J. W. Hebel, L. H. Boulter and D. L. Baldwin, instructors in English; J. C. Thompson, J. A. Bridgeman and M. W. Bray, assistants in chemistry; L. J. Sivian, instructor in physics; H. E. Hayes, instructor in civil engineering; G. S. Morath and I. L. Moore, assistants in physics.

Leaves of absence for the current academic year were granted to the following who have entered the national service: W. S. Foster, assistant professor of education; E. W. Schoder, assistant professor of experimental hydraulics; R. P. Anderson, assistant professor of chemistry; T. W. B. Welsh, instructor in chemistry; H. E. Baxter, instructor in architecture.

The following appointments were made: Herman Hilmer, assistant in economics; W. F. Chapman, assistant in political science; H. A. Sturgis, assistant in statistics; R. L. Emmons, assistant in economics; C. D. Bois and Miss L. L. Lamphier, assistants in economics; L. B. Hoisington, instructor in education; Mrs. Helen B. Owens, lecturer in mathematics; E. E. Smith, R. E. Billner and Mildred Severance, instructors in physics; J. M. Hyatt, P. Mertz, F. Van D. Field, F. H. McBerty, B. K. Northrup, Miss A. L. White, assistants in physics; R.

A. Liddle, assistant in geology; George H. Childs, Mary J. Fisher, and M. Caroline Chesborough, assistants in zoology; Joseph T. Sheridan, assistant in anatomy; John S. Latten, assistant in histology; Ruth Rand and William T. VanWagenen, assistants in histology and embryology; J. E. Foglesong, S. D. Jackson, R. E. G. Wyckoff and A. M. Erskine, instructors in chemistry; F. K. DuCasse, N. W. Colony, L. H. Clark, G. H. Brandes, A. J. Sherburne, E. D. Friderici, R. T. K. Cornwell, E. G. Thomas, P. M. Stouffer, John W. Hayes and Frank H. Pollard, assistants in chemistry.

In Sibley College leaves of absence for the year were granted to the following, all of whom are in the national service:

A. W. Smith, Dean of Sibley College.

W. N. Barnard, professor of power engineering.

C. D. Albert, professor of machine design.

C. W. Ham, assistant professor of machine design.

P. G. McVetty, instructor in experimental engineering.

Professor D. S. Kimball was appointed acting Dean of Sibley College during the absence of Dean Smith.

Other appointments were: B. S. Cushman, L. L. Richardson and R. L. Quick, instructors in experimental engineering; R. E. Bussey, H. A. Collin, H. A. Gaertner, W. L. Johnson, B. Nirenburg and F. H. Reimer, assistants in experimental engineering; C. R. Tobey, T. F. Stacey, C. E. Harrington, S. R. Irish and G. A. Worn, instructors in machine design; R. D. Elliott and J. B. Joyce, instructors in electrical engineering; D. H. Banks, assistant in electrical engineering; Dana Green, assistant in machine shop.

W. K. Blodgett was appointed assistant extension professor of farm mechanics in the College of Agriculture.

Leaves of absence were granted to Professors Paul Work and L. A. Maynard on account of military service.

The following appointments in the College of Agriculture were made: Charles Chupp, instructor in plant pathology; William A. White, instructor in dairy industry; Gilbert W. Peck, extension instructor in pomology; Gladys Smith, instructor in home economics; B. D. Wilson, instructor in soil technology; Gertrude E. Douglass, instructor in botany; H. E. Gayman, instructor in rural education; Hazel D. Bennett, instructor in rural education; Charles F. Sykes, secretary in the department of home economics; D. L. Baldwin, secretary to the Dean of the College of Agriculture.

Changes in Forestry Staff

A New Appointee—Professors Spring and Bentley Absent

Bernard A. Chandler has been appointed assistant professor of forest utilization in the department of forestry. He comes from the Vermont Agricultural Experiment Station at Burlington, where he has been engaged in forest investigations. Mr. Chandler was born in New Gloucester, Maine, on December 20, 1884, and received the degree of B.S. in 1909 from the University of Maine, and in 1911 that of M.F. from the Yale Forest School. Shortly after he graduated from Yale he accepted the position of assistant state forester of Vermont, where he had a wide experience in many phases of forestry work.

His work will be largely investigative. During this autumn and early winter he will undertake a study of the utilization of the Adirondack hardwoods. This work will be done in co-operation with Professor Recknagel who is now on a year's leave of absence from the forestry department in order that he may act as forester for the Empire State Forest Products Association. The results of this study will be of value, not only as information that is much needed in forestry work in New York State, but also as an immediate help to the teaching of forest utilization at Cornell.

Ralph C. Bryant (Cornell 1900), professor of forest utilization at the Yale Forest School, has accepted a commission as major in the Forestry Regiment, known technically as the 20th Engineers. During the last summer he was with the Cornell department of forestry and conducted the work in forest utilization at the annual summer camp. Camp was held this year on the Frank A. Cutting tract near St. Regis Falls. At the close of the summer work Professor Bryant went to New Haven.

Professors S. N. Spring and John Bentley, jr., of the department of forestry, are on leave during the fall term and will be at New Haven, Conn., where they are both delivering lectures at the Yale Forest School. Professor Spring will give lectures in forest history and on the field of forestry. Professor Bentley is to lecture on forest utilization, taking the work of Professor R. C. Bryant. Both men expect to return to Cornell in February.

Talk to Women Students

President Schurman Speaks on Suffrage, College Work, and War Economy

President Schurman addressed the women students of the University in Barnes Hall on September 28. In introducing the President, Dr. Matzke made mention of his speech at Saratoga in favor of woman suffrage. Taking that theme as his starting point, President Schurman said that he was a firm believer in equal rights for women and that his belief was based upon his experience with the women students of this University. They possessed, he said, the capacity to govern themselves and to co-operate in the government of the University.

The present war, President Schurman went on to say, had changed the complexion of the whole problem, and its effects were likely to remove objections against suffrage for women. No longer was force alone sufficient to determine supremacy. This war of nation with nation might not in the end be determined by soldiers at all. Even now their part in it was comparatively a small part. Military power was an important consideration, but not less important were the economical and financial resources of the warring nations, and in those fields women were playing a large part. They were making the food problem theirs; they were working in factories; they were doing numberless things to release men for the fighting. Because, in the past, men have done the actual fighting, they have the ballot; yet only a small fraction of the men in the United States are now called upon to fight—only a low percentage of those between the ages of twenty-one and thirty.

There were women who wanted to fight, the President said, but they were not permitted to do so. At the aviation school here at Cornell a woman had offered her services. Aviation was a field in which women had been successful, as we all know, yet because our law specifies that this school shall be for men her offer had to be refused. In Europe to-day not only did women want to fight—they did fight. In the Russian campaign this summer a regiment of women had advanced and fought while men were running away.

He had come to this belief, President Schurman repeated, through his experience with the women of this University. Here they were on an equal basis with men. In the work of the University no distinction was made between men and women. Women had the added advantage of greater accommodation in residential halls; that was the only distinction. The number of women here was likely to be about the same as last year, and that fact would help the women. Several years ago the women students, not being represented on the Sun, had wanted to know why they were not represented there. The answer was that it was the men's paper—they wanted to run it. But now war had brought the women forward and they were represented on the Sun. The former attitude had been unjust and narrow, but things were now being adjusted and little questions were being settled. The women should not be impatient.

Cornell was not a place for dances and gaieties. Students were here for work and study. That was expected of both men and women, and students who did not come here for that purpose should not be permitted to enter. As a rule the women were better students than the men, for men were too much distracted by athletics and other diversions. Now, however, there was a growing suspicion that women students were allowing social diversions to claim too much of their attention. The Faculty was asked to remedy that state of affairs, but it was not for the Faculty to do that—it was for the women students themselves. Care of the health was most important, and a habit of regular work was essential to success.

Woman's great duty at the present time, President Schurman said, was to help maintain social standards. War had a tendency to brutalize men, and women's influence must be exercised to counteract that tendency.

In this period of war unusual economies were necessary. So far as the relation of the individual to the government was concerned, the question now was not what the customer could afford to buy with his money; it was what the nation could afford to let him buy. A war economy measure which the President said he would like to see Cornell start was regulation dress for women. Some one was going to start it, he said, and there was a chance for this university to make an epoch in the age of woman.

THE freshman advisory committee has organized with fifteen seniors and forty-five juniors for house-to-house visits to freshmen.

BISHOP TALBOT of Bethlehem, Pa., will preach in Sage Chapel on October 14.

723 Women Students

The Number Slightly Less Than at This Time a Year Ago

The number of women students registered in the University at Ithaca on October 5 was a little smaller than the number enrolled at the same time a year ago. The figure for this fall is 723; for last fall it was 737.

In the following table are shown the numbers respectively of former students returned and of new students, and the distribution of the women among colleges of the University, as filed in the office of the Adviser of Women. It will be seen that only the Veterinary College and the College of Civil Engineering at present have enrolled no women students:

College	Old	New
Arts.....	268	129
Agriculture.....	176	93
Architecture.....	2	1
Law.....	6	5
Medicine.....	5	3
Mechanical Engineering.....	2	..
Graduate School.....	9	10
Special students.....	7	7
Totals.....	475	248

To the early fall registration of the year 1916-17 were added, in the course of the year, 31 women who entered the University in February and 19 in the Medical College, so that the total enrollment of women students for last year was 787.

Dean Smith Gets Leave

To Work for Industrial Concern—Kimball Acting Dean of Sibley

The Dean of Sibley College, Professor Albert W. Smith '78, has received leave of absence from the University for the year 1917-18 in order that he may serve as consulting engineer to the Mathieson Alkali Works at Saltville, Virginia. For several years, including the present year, Dean Smith has given his summer vacations to work for that company. The company manufactures salt products. Its general manager is William D. Mount '90.

Professor Dexter S. Kimball, head of the department of machine design and industrial engineering, has been appointed acting dean of Sibley College. He held the office during a former absence of Dean Smith. He is a graduate of Stanford University and has been a member of the Sibley Faculty since 1898. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and a director of the Society of Industrial Engineers.

ITHACA, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 11, 1917

BUY a Liberty Bond for the Alumni Fund! The present national campaign for the Liberty Loan offers Cornellians a double opportunity. A Liberty Bond, turned into the Alumni Fund, while it gives more power to the American defenders of the rights and liberties of the free nations of the world, also helps to assure to Cornell University the power to do the great part which this institution will be called upon to perform in the education of those who must defend and make firm those rights and liberties in the future. The University must look to its alumni, more than to any other class of persons, for the support it will need. Now is an excellent time to help both the country and Cornell. The proposed action of the Cornell Club of New England, as told in another column of this issue, is interesting. The club has given up its annual banquet this year. That relieves its members of the expense of such an affair. So the club is asking all Cornell men in New England to give the club at least ten dollars each and is proposing to invest the money thus obtained in Liberty Bonds. The bonds are to be held in the club's treasury and the donors are to determine what use shall be made of them. Here's success to the plan of the Cornell Club of New England!

THE list of days and places for the holding of Cornell luncheons in various towns, published on page 32 of this issue, has not been revised since last spring. Some of the Cornell clubs may be making different arrangements with regard to luncheons this year, and the editor will be grateful if secretaries of clubs will inform him what their luncheon arrangements are.

THE COLUMBIA DISMISSALS

A Letter from a Cornell Professor

The Cornell Daily Sun having published an expression of its approval of the action of the board of trustees of Columbia University in dismissing two professors "for alleged disloyal utterances," Professor Walter F. Willcox of the Cornell University Faculty wrote the following letter which the Sun published on October 11:

To the Editor of the Sun—SIR:

The question whether the Trustees of Columbia University acted wisely in dropping Professors Cattell and Dana from the teaching staff of that institution is one about which comparative outsiders have no right to speak with assurance. For years Professor Cattell has been as a thorn in the side of President Butler and he has done many things also which antagonized people outside of the governing board of that institution. So, while deploring their action in his case, I am not surprised at it. Professor Dana is a younger and less irritating person and I am especially sorry that in his case the Trustees did not follow the recommendation of President Butler and impose a milder penalty.

But the main question is, What effect will the action of the Trustees at Columbia have upon the future of that institution and of university education in this country? Upon this question the immediate resignation of Professor Beard throws some light. He is not a pro-German, as a casual reader of your editorial might suppose. On the contrary, he was one of the first to urge a declaration of war against Germany. He is unwilling to retain his position because now his loyal and stirring words can be met by the jeer, "He is paid to attack Germany and if he did not he would lose his job." Nothing could happen more disastrous to university education than for the opinion to become general that university teachers in this country, as in Germany, are little better than the hireling defenders of the popular or government view. This opinion now is far too common and the action of the Columbia Trustees will strengthen it.

Professor Beard is a scholar whose work is in high repute on both sides of the Atlantic and one of the most brilliant young teachers at Columbia. After years of teaching there he has decided that the Trustees who are governing the university "have no standing in the world of education, are reactionary and visionless in politics and narrow and medieval in religion" and that he can wear their collar no longer. Professor John Dewey, a man of even greater reputation and perhaps of greater power, speaks of Professor Beard's resignation as "the natural consequence of the degrading action of the Trustees." Under the cloak of patriotism they have aimed a heavy blow at the cause of higher education in America. As an alumnus of Columbia I feel humiliated and as a long-time teacher at Cornell I cannot but rejoice that, whatever provocation they may have had, our Trustees have not been betrayed into similar action.

WALTER F. WILLCOX.

Obituary

James M. Belden

James Mead Belden, who was a student in Cornell University in 1868-70, died on September 14 at Syracuse, N. Y. He was born at Pompey, N. Y., July 10, 1852, and attended the public schools of Syracuse, where he settled after he left college. He was at one time a major in the state militia, and was for two years a member of the Syracuse board of education. Four sons survive him.

T. W. Cady

Theodore Wood Cady of the class of 1897 died at Saranac Lake, N. Y., on September 17, after a long illness. His home was in Plattsburg, N. Y. Three years ago he went to live in Albuquerque, New Mexico, in the hope that the change of climate would restore his health. His wife survives him. He was a member of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

PROFESSOR LAURENCE PUMPELLY, who gave his summer to the American Field Service in France, has just returned.

ANNOUNCEMENT

CIVIL ENGINEERS

The regular annual meeting of the Cornell Society of Civil Engineers will be held on Tuesday evening, October 16, at Stewart's Restaurant, 30 Park Place, New York, at 6 o'clock. Dinner will be served for one dollar. There is much important business to be transacted, including the election of officers, and there will be a few short, interesting talks. Note the change of time.

NEW ENGLAND

In a circular letter to its members, under date of Boston, October 4, 1917, the Cornell Club of New England announces the decision of its governing board to omit the annual banquet this year, on account of a feeling that the present is no time to hold such a celebration.

Having decided not to hold the banquet, the governing board now appeals to all Cornell men in New England, whether members of the club or not, to help raise a fund of at least $5,000 with which to purchase Liberty Bonds and thereby show that they are with the Government and want to aid the boys in the Army and Navy. Each Cornell man in New England is asked to send to the treasurer of the club, Mr. H. S. Brown, 50 Congress Street, Boston, the sum of $10—or more if he feels that he can do so. All the money received will be invested in Liberty Bonds and will be held in the club's treasury to be disposed of as the contributors to the fund may hereafter determine. The announcement is signed by Henry F. Hurlburt '75, president, and Albert C. Blunt, jr., '07, secretary of the club.

CLEVELAND

The Cornell Club of Cleveland, at its annual meeting held on September 30, 1917, at the University Club, elected directors and officers: Directors, Willard Beahan '78, re-elected, and Herbert N. Putnam '12, succeeding A. R. Warner '87. The board of directors now consists of Mr. Beahan, R. D. Grant '03, C. W. Wason '76, W. H. Forbes '06, W. A. Bridgeman '13, Mr. Putnam, H. D. North '07, and I. J. Kerr '91. The directors elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, H. D. North '07, of the Ferry Cap & Set Screw Company; vice-president, R. D. Grant '03, of The Roderick D. Grant Company; treasurer, H. N. Putnam '12, of The James L. Stuart Company; secretary, I. J. Kerr '91, 1015 Guardian Building.

The matter of weekly luncheons was discussed and it was the unanimous opinion of those present that they should be continued. President North appointed H. N. Putnam chairman of the luncheon committee.

C. W. Wason '76 was appointed to collect a list of the Cornell men from Cleveland who are now in the service of the Government.

CHICAGO

The annual field day and annual meeting of the Cornell University Association of Chicago was held at the Westmoreland Country Club, Evanston, on October 5. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John P. Dods '08; vice-president, Henry J. Patten '84; secretary, John C. Carpenter '07; treasurer, William J. Miskella '05; registrar, M. D. Vail '12. George W. Graham '76 and S. A. Bingham '05 were elected directors for two years, and P. M. Walter '98 and Tom N. Bishop '12 for three years.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I.

Friday, August 17, was set aside in Southampton, L. I., as Cornell Night. Invitations were sent to seventy Cornellians resident in about forty towns within a radius of twenty miles of Southampton. The weather that night was very bad; a heavy thunder storm prevented many from attending. The program started in the Garden Theater about 8:30 o'clock. H. Strycker Mills '17, who had charge of the arrangements, gave an introductory talk, and J. Carleton Corwith '15 welcomed the guests to Southampton. Three reels of Cornell motion pictures were shown. At 10:30 o'clock twelve couples motored to Rose's Grove Casino for supper and dancing.

AT NAVAL TRAINING STATION

At the U. S. Naval Training Station, Charlotte, N. Y. (on Lake Ontario), are the following Cornell men:

Lieutenant-Commander William B. Zimmer, A.B., '03, of Rochester, N. Y., commanding officer of the station.

Ensign Harold Edwards, M.E., '14, of Syracuse, N. Y., watch officer.

Assistant Surgeon (lieutenant, junior grade) Julius L. Waterman, M.D., '11, of Rochester, N. Y., medical officer.

PLACES FOR COLLEGE WOMEN

A large automobile concern is offering positions as draftsmen to college women. A publishing house offers employment to college women. Particulars may be obtained from the Adviser of Women, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

FOOTBALL

Oberlin and Cornell

The Oberlin-Cornell football game on October 6 was the first game of the season for both teams, and both teams showed that they had had little practice. The final score was 22 to 0 in favor of Cornell, which had scored three touchdowns and a field goal.

In the Cornell line-up were Rubenstein '20, left end; Wipperman '19, left tackle; Swanson '20, left guard; Reuther '20, center; Huntington '19, right guard; Herriman '19, right tackle; Colvin '20, right end; Carry '20, quarterback; Hoffman '18, left halfback; VanHorn '18, right halfback; Pendleton '20, fullback. Substitutes included Minier '18, for Hoffman; Nethercot '19, for Carry; Harris '20, for Rubenstein; Miron '18, for Huntington; Spiegelberg '18, for Reuther; Bowker '18, for Swanson, and Trowbridge '20, for Herriman.

The game was not worthy of extended comment. Only the simplest formations were used by either team. Most of Cornell's gains were made by runs around the end. The field goal was kicked by Hoffman in the first period. The number of spectators was small.

ROWING

More than a hundred students have registered their desire to train for the varsity and freshman crews. Some of them have already begun to row on the Inlet, where practice will be held while the weather permits.

WORKING WITH MR. MOAKLEY

A large number of students have accepted an invitation which Coach Moakley extended when the University reopened and are taking exercise under his direction on the track or across country. He offered to give advice to any who might ask for it. In this way Mr. Moakley is doing all he can to promote the purpose of the Athletic Association to broaden the scope of athletics here and provide exercise and training for as many students as possible.

About thirty undergraduates are undergoing the intensive training of the varsity cross-country squad. They are led by I. C. Dresser '19, who has been elected captain of the team for the season. A meeting is to be held in New York City in a few days to determine whether there shall be an intercollegiate cross-country run this fall. In any event the Cornell team is likely to have a few intercollegiate dual meets. Novice runs and blind handicaps are to be held every week for the aspirants to the team.

ALUMNI NOTES

'78, B.M.E.—Robert H. Treman of Ithaca has been succeeded as deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York by J. Herbert Case, vice-president of the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, who resigned from that company to accept the post. Mr. Treman was elected in June, 1916, to the deputy governorship, which was created at that time to permit Benjamin Strong, the governor, to take an indeterminate leave of absence on account of ill health. He took the office with the understanding that the directors were as soon as possible to obtain a deputy governor to relieve him. In electing Mr. Case to the office, the directors adopted a resolution requesting Mr. Treman to continue his present duties until the end of the year, in view of the absence from the bank of Pierre Jay, the reserve agent, and in consideration of the work entailed by the second Liberty Loan. He will therefore remain in New York for two or three months more before returning to Ithaca. Mr. Treman has been a Class A director of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York since the federal reserve system was inaugurated in 1914.

'86, B.S.—Having completed the report upon the geology of Southern California for the U. S. Geological Survey upon which he has been engaged for several years past, Robert T. Hill has opened an office for the practice of his profession of geologist at 702 Hollingsworth Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

'89, B.L.—Charles E. Treman of Ithaca has been appointed by Herbert C. Hoover, national food administrator, to be chairman of the state executive committee, which is to conduct the food conservation campaign in New York State during the week of October 21-28. The purpose of this national campaign is to enlist families in the conservation of food products and to teach food economy in the household.

'97, LL.B.—The address of Lieut.-Col. Joseph W. Beacham, jr., U. S. Infantry, is now Headquarters 26th Division, American Expeditionary Forces, via New York.

'00, Ph.B.; '02, A.B.—Benjamin B. Avery, Charles A. Taussig (A.B., '02), Almond D. Fisk, and Horace W. Palmer (Ph.B., '00) have formed a partnership for the practice of law, under the firm name of Avery, Taussig, Fisk & Palmer, with offices at 220 Broadway, New York.

'01, A.B.—Ralph M. Brown has been a member of the U. S. Army Ambulance Service since May 20, 1917. The Cornell Section, No. 560, is still at the Allentown camp.

'01—Paul B. Mattice of Middleburgh, N. Y., is in the second reserve officers' training camp at Fort Niagara.

'03, M.E.—R. C. Fenner is treasurer of The George Zucker Company and manager of the company's plant in Chicago. His address is 2920 Carroll Avenue Chicago.

'04, LL.B.—Charles R. McSparren of Buffalo has resigned as counsel to the New York State Tax Department to become associated with the law firm of Morris, Plante & Saxe of New York City. McSparren originally went to Albany to serve as deputy under Attorney General Edward R. O'Malley '91, of Buffalo. He was retained through the Democratic administrations, and after continuing for one year under Attorney General Woodbury was appointed counsel to the tax department. In that office he reorganized the legal department and established a policy of frequent communication with the tax officers and taxpayers of the municipalities of the State. A HELP TO THE SOLDIER

The National Army School of New York City has prepared a set of charts of military instruction that should prove valuable to those who desire to see a graphic representation of the Manual of Arms and to have drawings and a detailed description of the United States Army Rifle for the purpose of self-study, in addition to the instruction given in the training camp.

The charts should prove useful alike to our men in the Officer's Reserve, in the National Army or in the Home Guard, as their use will enable them to more readily master the important details of the subjects therein treated, and to devote their time to more advanced work. The time thus gained is likely to prove a factor indetermining the individual's value to his unit.

The charts were edited by Lieut. Col. G. S. Simonds, U. S. A., and are endorsed by General Wood. They are durably made to stand hard use, and may be depended upon to produce results. No better gift could be sent to the new man in the service of his country.

A small cut of one of the charts appears in the advertisement on the inside front cover page of this issue. There are twenty-five charts in the set, which will be sent postpaid upon receipt of the price.
