The First Network!

ANOTHER MILESTONE IN THE PROGRESS OF TELEVISION

CHAIN television is here! With the recent dedication of the new Philco Relay Transmitter at Mt. Rose, N. J., the first Television Network, linking Philadelphia, New York and Schenectady, is in actual operation today. Now Philadelphians enjoy clear reception of programs from New York through their local Philco television station. Thus the first step has been taken through which you will be able eventually to witness events in your home that take place thousands of miles away ... by television!

HOW PHILCO RESEARCH SPEEDS THE ADVANCE OF TELEVISION

Television today has developed to the point where it offers a clear, enjoyable picture for your home. And just as the Philco laboratories have led the way in bringing you finer, clearer radio tone, so their research in television has emphasized the sharpness, clarity and detail of the picture. The standards they have developed and fostered are now generally accepted in the industry. Some day after Victory, when television arrives in your community, a Philco Television Receiver will bring you a picture that is as great a pleasure to see as a Philco Radio is a delight to hear.

HAS PIONEERED IN TELEVISION BROADCASTING

Since 1932, Philco has owned and operated its own television station, a rich laboratory of research and experience for television progress.

The Philco station has televised football, boxing, wrestling and other sports as well as news events direct from the scene of action.

Movies, variety acts, dramatic sketches, illustrated news talks and civic programs have been televised from the Philco studios.

EZRA CORNELL

Cornell University Press, the first university press in America, is celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding. Established as a printing concern in 1869, a year after Cornell opened, the Press is first mentioned as part of Ezra Cornell's favored "labor department." Mr. White had book publishing in mind.

Present-day activities of the Press are concerned entirely with book publishing and during coming months this column will carry notes concerning the publishing program of the University Press and of its associate, Comstock Publishing Company, Inc.

A recent publication of the Press, of great interest to all alumni, is Cornell University: Founders and the Founding by Carl Becker ($2.75). Only a few copies of the first printing remain, but a second printing has been received and all orders can be filled promptly.

The new Catalogue of Comstock Books, available on request, describes all books bearing this imprint. Special recognition has been given recently to The Mammals of Eastern United States by W. J. Hamilton, Jr. ($4.00). This book has been selected as one of the Sixty Textbooks of 1944 by the Textbook Clinic of the American Institute of Graphic Arts.

During the last twenty years, the controlling purpose at Cascadilla School has been to serve mature and serious students who want sound and quick training in return for steady and self-reliant work. Cascadilla is a co-educational, Regents' academy operating as a day school on a six-day week and without extra-curricular activities, with a moderate tuition charge. Year courses in any college entrance subject are completed in a single term.

Instruction begins September 18, but delayed registration will be permitted to students returning from the services or war production.

Becker Urges Political Changes To Preserve Liberties

OPENING the series of five Edward L. Bernays Lectures on Civil Liberties, Professor Carl L. Becker, History, Emeritus, spoke on "Political Freedom, American Style" to an overflow audience in two rooms of Olin Hall, September 6.

The speaker advocated modifying our Constitution to bring into closer relation the executive and legislative branches of the Government, so that freedoms and liberties may be preserved.

"In a world loaded with social dynamite," he said, "the United States must take its politics seriously, and with intelligence adapt its existing political institutions to the complex problems of a highly integrated technological society if the Republic and the liberties essential to it are to endure." Declaring that "the time is past when we could afford to take politics lightly as an amusing game played for low stakes," Professor Becker said that "we cannot go on forever muddling through with a system of government so effectively designed for passing the buck."

He decried the "gulf which now separates the executive and the legislative branches and permits them to work at cross purposes," adding his conviction that "sooner or later the complex conditions of modern society will make it necessary to find some means of inducing the White House and Capitol Hill to abandon the competitive struggle for occupying the limelight and avoiding responsibility and to assume a joint responsibility for framing coherent policies and carrying them into effect."

"We are now in the midst of another critical period in our history," he said. "The nation is faced with the problem of how to bring about, through the system of private economic enterprise, that degree of equality of possessions and of opportunity without which democracy is no more than an empty form, and at the same time preserve those freedoms of the individual in the intellectual and political realm without which democracy cannot exist."

The problem cannot be solved, Professor Becker said, "by appealing to the people to refrain from 'agitating' the institution of private economic enterprise, which is in fact the central issue. Above all, we will not solve it by resting in the comfortable conviction that our freedoms are secure because they are enumerated and defined in the forty-nine constitutions of the Federal Union and the component States. "We need now, as the founding fathers did in 1787, to give serious thought to the fundamentals of politics, and perhaps the first step in that direction would be to unlock our eighteenth century constitutions and examine with some care what is therein contained in the light of the problems raised by the complex technological society of our time."

Careful examination of the structure of the government raises an important question concerning our present system, Professor Becker said: "Would it not be desirable to have a system in which political power and political responsibility are more united, more clearly defined and placed, and more responsive to the clearly expressed will of the nation?"

He cited as defects resulting from the separation between the executive and the legislative branches the facts that neither the President nor the Congress can formulate and carry through a policy if the other objects, and that in case of conflict between the President and the Congress, the issue cannot be referred to the electorate until the next election, "when very likely the issue has been forgotten or merged in other issues."

"If then, we need a form of government in which power and responsibility are more united, more definitely placed, and more responsive to the will of the nation, we must work it out for ourselves within the framework of our traditional system of written constitutions, by a modification of the basic principle of separation of powers."

The lecture series of which Professor Becker's was the first was provided for the University by Edward L. Bernays '12, public relations counsel, of New York City. Open to the public and the University community, they are scheduled also for the four successive Wednesdays, by Max Lerner, editor of PM, on "Freedom: Image and Reality;" James L. Fly, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, on "Freedom of Speech and the Press;" Professor Rob-

How Well Do You Know Cornell? CAN YOU IDENTIFY THIS PICTURE?

HERE is the first of a series of "close-ups of the Campus," to test your knowledge of the intimate details of your University.

For the MOST POSITIVE identification of the accompanying picture, received from a subscriber not later than September 30, 1944, the Alumni News and University Press will present a copy of Professor Carl Becker's recently-published book, Cornell University: Founders and the Founding.

Write or typewrite your description briefly, naming the object pictured and giving its exact location on the Campus and such other information as will help to identify it. Your letter must bear date and sender's name and address. Entries received after September 30 will not be considered.

The News staff shall determine the winner, and its decision shall be final. In case of a tie, winner will be determined by lot. All manuscripts submitted shall be the property of the Cornell Alumni News, and may be published.

No person who lives within twenty-five miles of Ithaca is eligible to compete.

Name of winner and identification of this picture will be announced in the Alumni News October 15.

Towner K. Webster, Jr. '03, trustee of the Club's scholarship fund, reported that instead of using the fund now, a reserve is being built up for scholarships to worthy boys after the war.

Feed Small Potatoes

TEST of feeding cull potatoes to dairy cattle has been made at the College of Agriculture with two carloads of small potatoes shipped to the College by the War Food Administration. Silage made of these potatoes ground with hay was fed to one group of seven cows, and another group of seven was fed corn silage. Professor Kenneth L. Turk, PhD '34, Animal Husbandry, reports that the cows readily ate the potato silage and produced just as much milk as those on corn silage.

The test indicates a means of using Eastern cull potatoes to prevent waste and save transportation, instead of shipping them to dehydrating plants in the Middle West for later manufacture into feeds or alcohol, as was done last year.

The Caribbean Division operates three ATC bases in Florida and several others in the Caribbean area between Florida and the northern coast of Brazil.

Berry Disputed

SUBSCRIBER Edward R. Stapley '14, acting dean of the division of engineering at Oklahoma A & M College, takes issue good-naturedly with Romeyn Berry '04 for his reference to "the jargons of Oklahoma and the Bronx" in "Now In My Time!" of August 1. He accuses Berry of "stretching your imagination" and says, "I am confident that you have visited the Bronx, but I am very doubtful if you have visited the good State of Oklahoma."

"For your information," Dean Stapley continues, "probably no State in the Union has fewer individuals of other than English or American ancestry than does Oklahoma. As a result, there is probably less mixture of languages or dialects and a resulting purer English spoken within the State than can be found in any other section of the country, particularly in the East. Remember, Rym, I was born in New York State, have worked and lived in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Texas, and Oklahoma, in addition to having travelled in thirty-four other States, and have been a resident of the West for almost two decades, so I feel somewhat qualified to judge and compare."

"Even though you are an older man in years, but certainly not in spirit, I am suggesting that you call up, or on, my daughter Phyllis, a demure young lady who will be returning to Cornell in November for the last half of her Junior year and will be housed in Balch Hall. Phyllis has spent about eighteen years of her life in Oklahoma. You might enjoy hearing her quaint jargon and her descriptions of the odd people who inhabit the West, the big unknown to the average New Yorker and Bostonian."

"Also, Rym, broaden your ac-

Now in My Time!

By Romeyn Berry

IT'S a mistake to attempt to foretell the future in print; particularly so when you don't have to, and don't really know. It's safer to dwell upon the past. There you are on firm ground.

Twenty-odd years ago in this paper, we observed that the girls who came to Junior Week were running to short sizes; peewees mostly that would grade around twenty to the ton. That observation was accurate enough, but we went on to point out that the public interests were involved with the matter. A Junior Week girl, we remarked, was pretty apt to marry the boy who invited her up—or more frequently, perhaps, his roommate—and on that basis we ventured the ominous prophecy that "the Classes of 1948 and 1949 will be extremely rich in coxswains, but almost wholly devoid of tackles and shot-putters."

Well, it isn't working out that way at all! The first fruits of the period we commented upon are beginning to show up. The early samples of the Classes of 1948 and 1949 are not turning out as we anticipated. The typical fruit is a big specimen, all feet and hands. At sixteen (this accelerated education is fetching 'em in earlier); he's about six feet and 165 pounds of loose gristle that in another two years will become 195 pounds of hard meat.

Where we slipped up in our prophecy was in not knowing at the time about vitamins. Heredity and hormones don't make so much difference nowadays, apparently. You can grow 'em big from any original stock, with vitamins and whatnot from the drugstore.

But we did better as a prophet when we avoided eugenics and stuck to the basic instincts of the male animal. Back there in the early '20s, we spoke with some concern about current undergraduate expressions on pacifism and military service that to us smelled strongly of sedition and mutiny. But fortunately, we went on, "But it does not mean anything. Ninety-nine per cent of them are perfectly sound and are just playing a game momentarily fashionable."

"No one wants any more wars," we remarked. "No one wants to flirt with a dangerous subject. But I'd rather relish a war scare just for the fun of showing up some of these healthy undergraduates who think they are pacifists. Just get the nation scared and then let a lad who knows how, sound a bugle on Lower Alumni Field. I have a little loose change that says every undergraduate soap-boxer would stop in the middle of his oration, and that he'd be up there in thirty seconds with his mouth shut, his chest out, and his belly in, just as always."

Well, that prophesy turned out better than the lugubrious one about the dearth of big, hairy left tackles in the Class of 1948, didn't it? It encourages us to take another glance into the crystal ball.

Five years after this thing is over, the undergraduates will be right back where they were in the early '20s, saying things about military service and their relations to the United States calculated to make old soldiers wince, the alumni to write indignant letters.

Why take a year out of a man's productive life to teach him soldiering? Why burden us with taxes to keep the Croats and Lithuanians from bombing us in our beds? Why not try brotherly love on the Japs? I can see, as through a glass darkly, the letters and editorials in the Cornell Daily Sun, and the postman staggering across the Quadrangle with communications from outraged alumni!

All that will come again, and you must try not to mind too much when it does. Give those boys who are coming along the same chance to talk loose and silly that you enjoyed. And don't worry—not after the response to Pearl Harbor—about the degeneration of the race. You can't breed rabbits out of lion stock!

quaintanceship and viewpoint by visiting Oklahoma as soon as possible. If you will come to Stillwater, I'll assure you that the Stapley family will be delighted to guide you through many portions of this wild country and aid in interpreting for you the gibberish of its inhabitants. Come West, Rym, come West!"

Dean Stapley says of Berry's column: "Needless to say, every alumnus enjoys 'Now In My Time!' A copy of the NEWS would not look right without it."

Year's Records

CLOSE was the outcome of the year's dual competitions for Cornell teams: fifty victories, forty-nine defeats, and one tie, in soccer.

The summer season which ended in late August produced six victories and seven defeats, with the track team showing the better record by winning three of its four dual meets.

In the fall of 1943, Cornell teams won fourteen, lost seven, tied one; in winter campaigning, won twenty-one and lost eighteen; and in the spring season, won nine and lost seventeen.

Football Ready

CRISP weather in early September emphasized that the fall sports season was at hand. Football practice was resumed September 5 on the south end of Hoy Field, and the soccer squad—first to go into action, with a game September 16—drilled on lower Alumni Field. Cross country and crew candidates were also hard at work, and members of the summer track squad continued to hold informal practice sessions.

The press information booklet on football, issued at the close of summer practice, states in the first paragraph: "Cornell's 1944 football team will be colorful, rugged, and spirited."

A look at a practice session bears out that statement. Coaches and on-lookers believe that the squad will match up, perhaps better, last year's aggregation. An experienced first team will be available, but the individuals now on it will face plenty of competition from up-and-coming reserves.

A large number of the candidates have faced enemy fire in the war and are now at Cornell either in the Naval Reserve or in the Marine Corps Reserve, studying for commissions.

Five regulars from the 1943 team are available: John M. Tully '46, USNR, end; George E. Williams '44 and Grant R. Ellis, USMCR, guards; and Allen E. Dekdebrun '47 and Frank J. Accorsi, USNR, backs.

Present indications are that the team will line up against Syracuse in Archbold Stadium, Syracuse, under lights September 23, as follows:

guard, Williams; right tackle, Charles R. Davidson '43, USNR, who was on the squad two years ago; right end, Tully; quarterback, Daniel Hrtko, USNR, who broke an ankle just before the start of the 1943 season; left halfback, Dekdebrun; right halfback, Nathan Scherr, USNR, who was on the squad as a fullback last year; and fullback, Accorsi.

Other prospects:

Left end: Paul Robeson, Jr., '48, son of the former Rutgers all-American, who has been shifted from fullback; Edward S. Sharafanowich, USNR, and Simon I. Degulis, USNR, in from the fleet.

Left tackle: Donald F. Hilbush, USNR, and Warren H. Fischer, USNR.

Center: Don M. Lins '48.

Right guard: Alexander M. Beebe '45, USNR, who has been on the squad the last two years and who has also had experience at tackle; Wilbur R. Dameron, USNR, formerly of Harvard; and Peter J. Verna, USNR.

Right tackle: Joseph Brozina, USNR, formerly of Newark College of Engineering, who was on the squad last year and who has returned to Cornell after duty with the fleet; Leslie O. Chapman, USNR, who has also attended DePauw and Southern Methodist; J. Alan Berkenfield, USNR; and Richard B. Loynd '48.

Right end: John K. Davidson, USNR, and Harry Rubin '48, formerly at University of New Hampshire.

Quarterback: Thomas E. Tennant, USNR, and Theodore W. Welles, USNR.

Right halfback: John N. Cullen, USNR, who was a low hurdler on the track team and who played one game for Northwestern last year; William J. Coffey, USNR, and William R. Davies, USNR, in from four years of duty with the Atlantic and Pacific fleets.

Fullback: William R. Best, Jr., USNR, formerly of Bucknell.

Coach Carl Snavely will begin his ninth season at Cornell. His assistants are Max Reed, George K. James, J. Russell Murphy, Ray Van Orman '08, Emerald B. Wilson, Robert L. Cullen, and Courtney D. Young '43.

Volunteer assistants are Lt. Samuel W. Maddaloni, USNR, who was graduated from Ithaca College in 1940 and who is in charge of the physical training for midshipmen in the Naval Training School at the University; Lt. William R. Secord, USNR, San Diego State graduate of 1938 who coached football at Needles, Calif., High School; and Tom B. Young, specialist second class, USNR, who was graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1929. Young was coach of the North Carolina varsity last year after a season as assistant to Head Coach James M. Tatum, former assistant football coach at Cornell.

In his eight years at Cornell, Coach Snavely's teams have won forty-one games and lost twenty-two, with three tied.

Games won in the series involved in this year's schedule are: Cornell 14, Syracuse 6; Cornell 18, Bucknell 1; Cornell 3, Yale 4; Cornell 22, Colgate 6, and two ties; Cornell 1, Sampson Naval Training Center, 0; Cornell 17, Columbia 11, and three ties; Cornell 0, US Naval Academy 2; Cornell 12, Dartmouth 14, and one tie; Cornell 12, Pennsylvania 35, and three ties.

Cornell's all-time record: Won, 321; lost 152; tied, 22 games.

Two Play for Navy

TWO former Cornell football players appeared in the lineup of the Sampson Naval Training Center team in its early games this fall. They are Donald S. Cushing '47, end, and Louis Stancampiana, USNR, guard. Cushing's brother, Meredith R. Cushing '44, captained the 1943 team and played center and blocking back.

Track Men Compete

RICHARD E. STOUFFER, USNR, won a decathlon competition for members of the track team on Schoellkopf Field, August 31 and September 1 and 2.

Stouffer, whose specialties are hurdling and high jumping and who wears the Intercollegiate stripe, scored 5,691 points. Co-captain James M. Hartshorne was second with 5,545 points, J. Paul Seider '47 placed third, and Paul Robeson, Jr. '48, fourth. There were seventeen competitors.

The events were 100-yard dash, broad jump, 16-pound shot put, high jump, 440-yard dash, 120-yard hurdles, discus throw, javelin throw, pole vault, and mile run.

Fall Schedules

FIRST to start the fall sports season is the soccer team, with a game with the University of Rochester at Rochester, September 16. Innovation in fall schedules this year is a regatta on the Charles River at Cambridge, Mass., in which Cornell will row against Harvard and MIT.

The complete fall schedules:

Teach USMA Preps

INSTRUCTION for first arrivals in the 1944-1945 US Military Academy Preparatory program at the University began September 5. Candidates are detailed here to be prepared for the Military Academy entrance examinations next March by a present staff of thirty-five instructors provided by the University from its staff and elsewhere, with more to be added as more candidates arrive.

Cornell is one of three colleges which have USMAP programs this year; the others are Amherst and Lafayette. Professor Charles W. Jones, PhD '32, English, is director of the program for the University, and Lieutenant Colonel Ralph Alsbaugh, Infantry, was detailed here during the summer as academic adviser for the Army.

Candidates who have been certified to the program without examinations because they have had a term or more of college work are given instruction in English, mathematics, chemistry, physics, government, and history, in six-week terms; and subject to approval of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences they may receive University credit for work completed. All others, not certified by the Military Academy, are tutored in algebra, plane geometry, and English with examinations every three weeks, the sole aim to prepare them to pass the US Military Academy entrance examinations with the highest marks. All candidates re-

CHI PSI HOUSE IS HEADQUARTERS FOR MILITARY ACADEMY PROGRAM

Dubbed "West Point Hall," the Chi Psi house at the top of University Avenue, on the site of the former Jennie McGraw Fiske mansion, is now occupied by the offices and some of the class rooms of the US Military Academy Preparatory program. Leased by the University for Army use, it was until recently occupied by soldiers in the Russian area and language program, who called it "The Kremlin."

New Haven Smoker

CORNELLIANS who expect to be in New Haven, Conn., for the Cornell-Yale football game October 7, are invited to attend a smoker the night before, given by the Cornell Club of New Haven in the Winchester Clubhouse, 4 Henry Street.

Communications regarding the smoker may be addressed to Diedrich K. Willers '36, secretary-treasurer of the Club, Box 906, New Haven, Conn.

Buffalo Golfers Gather

CORNELLIANS of Buffalo took part August 10 with alumni of Dartmouth, Michigan, and Pennsylvania in an Intercollegiate Golf Day at the Erie Downs Country Club, Fort Erie, Ont. Afternoon play was followed by a steak dinner at the Club with a song-fest afterward.

USMA Candidates

ceive four hours a week of physical training directed by the University coaching staff, and one hour a week of military drill under the Army staff.

Men are assigned to the program by one of five methods: Congressional appointment; appointment from an honor military school; by Act of Congress for sons of deceased World War veterans; appointment from the Army of the United States (both officers and enlisted men), or by Presidential appointment. In each of these groups, a principal and several alternates and competitors are appointed. They are of varied ages and background, and many have been in combat. Under military discipline, they are quartered in Cascadilla Hall and Sheldon Court, and mess in the Army dining room in Willard Straight Hall.

It is expected that additional candidates will arrive until March, the program continuing until mid-June.

Stories of Cornell

By FRANK A. WRIGHT '79

Hiram Corson

Among our early men Hiram Corson, professor of English Literature, will always be remembered. He was a great public reader, a great interpreter, especially of Browning and Tennyson. Reading like that is becoming a lost art. He never made a gesture. His face was immovable. The effect was produced wholly by an interpretive and articulate voice that brought out clear meanings and gave great pleasure. He served Cornell for thirty-five years. He died in 1911 in his eighty-third year. Princeton gave him the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters.

One vacation I remained on the Hill with several others. We took our meals at Mrs. Fiske's house (mother of Professor Fiske and what a jolly good sort she was. And such a good cook.) Corson was living next door in the President's House. He ate with us. We found out that he was a delightful story teller.

Though somewhat melancholy all that summer due to lobster and ice cream partaken when he saw Mrs. Corson off to Europe, I am told that Corson as a young man was rather gay and somewhat bibulous. Cornell laid him off for a year '71 to '72. Once the students reversed his buggy wheels while he was in the Clinton House and he drove up the Hill without comment. There were other occasions when the students formed a body guard to see him safely home.

In his later years he was a dignified figure, with long hair, like Tennyson, a slouch hat, and a long cape overcoat.

You may have heard this story I now tell, but it's worth repeating. He was accosted on the Campus one day by two bold Sophomores. One, bowing low, said "Good morning Father Abraham." The other in the same manner, "Good morning Father Isaac." Corson drew himself up and looking at them strongly said, "I am not Father Abraham, neither am I Father Isaac. I am the son of Kish out looking for my father's asses and lo! I have found them."

Schools Group Gathers

CHAIRMAN of the Alumni Association committee on relations with secondary schools, Edward H. Carman, Jr. '16 of Baltimore, Md., called a meeting of the committee with Larry E. Gubb '16, Association president, and Walter C. Heasley, Jr. '30, acting Alumni Secretary, at the Cornell Club of New York, September 8, to make plans for the year's activities. All members of the committee attended: Mrs. Bernard A. Savage (Carmen Schneider) '27 of Brooklyn, vice-chairman; Clarence J. Pope '10 of Orange, N. J.; Carlton H. Barrows, AM '33, of Brookline, Mass.; and Charles N. Mellowes '33 of Milwaukee, Wis.

On The Campus and Down the Hill

Alumni House was broken into and rifled over the Labor Day week end! Every desk drawer and closet on the three floors was turned inside out, and their contents variously scattered. Person or persons unknown entered the building through a basement door, breaking the glass to reach the key. They did an amateur job on the safe, which was found to be impregnable to the ministrations of an office screw driver. The ALUMNI NEWS petty cash and stamp box, however, proved better game. It was forced open and its contents raped. A 1932 Cornellian was taken from NEWS library and a dozen pictures of the Campus, destined for future publication, are missing. The staff of the NEWS is happy to find, in its bereavement, that in rifling Rym Berry's large roll-top desk in the corner of the office, the thieves managed to tidy it up considerably!

Ithaca schools postponed their opening two weeks, from September 6 to September 20, following an order from the Board of Health; the reason, "mounting hysteria over the infantile paralysis epidemic."

Tompkins County Non-Partisan Committee was organized September 6, with Professor Frank S. Freeman, Education, as chairman, Mrs. Dorothy Marcuse, AM '42, secretary, and Professor Charles K. Thomas '21, Speech, treasurer. Purpose of the Non-Partisan Committee is "to encourage citizens to register and vote, and to campaign for Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, Robert F. Wagner, and Julian P. Bretz" (professor of American History, emeritus, American Labor Party candidate for Congress from the 39th District, and research chairman of the Non-Partisan Committee).

Lawyers gathered in the Ithaca Elks Club September 9 for the annual meeting of the Federation of Bar Associations, Sixth Judicial District. Principal speakers were Captain Burton W. Chippendale, USN, commanding the US Naval Training School at the University and Professor Carl Becker, History, Emeritus, and University Historian, on "Collectivism." A panel discussion on "The Lawyer After the War" was conducted by Professors George J. Thompson and Herbert D. Laube, Law, and Sherman Peer '06, counsel for the GLF Exchange. Louis K. Thaler '25, president of the Tompkins County Bar Association, gave the welcoming address. Bert T. Baker '97, president of the Sixth District Federation, and Supreme Court Justice Ely W. Personius '98 of Elmira presided over morning and afternoon sessions of the convocation.

1944-45 AA Books went on sale last week. Residents of Campus and town can buy $29.15 worth of athletic contests, including four home football games, for $14.40.

Architectural Record has an eight-page spread in its August issue on Olin Hall of Chemical Engineering. Twelve pictures of the building, inside and out, taken by J. Hubert Fenner, University Photographer, and six floor-plans illustrate the text.

Senior picnic of the women of the Class of '44 was September 14 in Balch Court. Seniors in Home Economics will graduate at the end of the summer term, October 24.

Senior Week committee co-chairmen are Mary E. Mershon '45 of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Apprentice Seaman William F. Hoffman '45, USNR, of Teaneck, N. J. (Their engagement was announced May 1.)

Proceeds of the Engineering honor societies' Autumn Formal in Barton Hall September 30 will go to the Army-Navy Relief Fund.

FIRE FIGHTING and gas defense drill on the green in front of Alumni House has been the most popular course in the Midshipmen's School this summer. About seventy-five men at a time, in swimming trunks, are instructed every few days in the use of such Navy equipment as carbon dioxide, foam, and fog sprays; a power hose which shoots water 100 feet up and down South Avenue frequently wets the doorstep of the University bachelors' quarters at 1 East Avenue. Asbestos suits and rescue breathing apparatus are also put to use. Campus dogs enjoy the show as much as the actors. But cold weather threatens to lessen the pleasure of hose play. Lieutenant Don W. Jopling, USNR, officer in charge, says the men will soon be issued foul weather gear and drills will continue through the football season.

Earthquake awakened several hundred Ithacans September 5, including the residents of the County jail whose slumbers were disturbed by the rattling of their heavy cell doors. One professor reported ceiling plaster in his bathtub, and the Lehigh Valley's morning "Star" from New York arrived an hour late, having cautiously tested each bridge enroute with its cow-catcher.

Summer tennis tournament, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, was won by Betty Rosenthal '47 of New York City, who defeated Suzanne Jameson '46 of Buffalo, 5-7, 6-3, 6-3.

The Labor News, "published every other Friday in the interest of organized labor," first appeared August 11 in The Ithaca Journal. The one-page insert is paid for by AFL unions in Ithaca and contains local and national news with a labor slant.

Public lecture: "How Can People Seeking Liberal Legislation Be Politically Effective?" by Professor Julian P. Bretz, American History, Emeritus, August 30, sponsored by the public affairs committee of CURW.

Photographic exhibition of modern Dutch architecture and city planning was on display in White Hall August 29 to September 16.

Faculty wives, on behalf of the American Friends Service Committee, are sewing, packing, and shipping clothing for the civilian population of France. In the van are Mrs. Bristow Adams, Mrs. Albert L. Andrews, Mrs. Myron G. Fincher (Evelyn Davis) '22, and Mrs. George H. Sabine (Mary Sprague) '04.

Corinthian Yacht Club, of students, and Ithaca Yacht Club were hosts to two-man crews from Haverford and Williams Colleges for a regatta on Cayuga Lake, September 10. '18, '29 WA; '75 BME—In the Saturday Evening Post of August 19, Arthur W. Baum writes on past and present research of the Corning Glass Works with a picture of it's "able president," Glen W. Cole. The late Professor George S. Moler '75, Physics, worked with the company in its early research around the turn of the century, Baum reports. Early results of research were Pyrex glass and reliable railroad signals; a hard brown material that has "three times the rigidity of steel weighing the same," the current war-time function of which is unannounced, is one of many promising modern research developments. Dr. George Macauley, father of George G. MacCauley '34 and James E. MacCauley '38, was engineer in charge of making the 200-inch telescope mirror now being installed at the California Institute of Technology's observatory, which the Post identifies as "probably more valuable than the British Museum's ancient Portland vase, hitherto the most valuable piece of glass in the world."

'18—John S. Knight, publisher of the Akron Beacon Journal, Detroit Free Press, and Miami Herald, writes in Editor and Publisher that the creation of a single French news agency by the French National Committee with exclusive rights to distribute foreign news in France is a step backward in the fight of all newspapers for freedom of the press. Knight recommends a firm policy by the US toward both allies and enemies in insuring a free flow and exchange of news in the post-war world and an end to the pre-war type of regulated and "corrupted" press of Europe.

A HOTEL AND WAR...

We, too, must get along on less, and at the same time please the tastes of a constantly changing group of people who, working or travelling under war-time pressure, look to us even more for the small comforts that mean so much.

We undertake this job as a challenge to our ingenuity—a contribution we are glad to make.

Good Medicine

No one travels these days for the fun of it. After standing in line for tickets and scrambling for food in diners, the average citizen comes off the train feeling slightly demented. Only the thought of a good hotel keeps him from gibbering.

It's a matter of record that he gets what he wants at The Grosvenor. The cool quiet lobby, the pleasant welcome at the desk are an instant relief to his shattered nerves. He finds his room large and airy, with bath, shower and running ice water. Refreshed, he goes in search of food; makes the acquaintance of the little Lounge Bar and the Wedgwood Room, both air-conditioned, and is restored to sanity. The next day he clicks on the job.

There's a reason.

....STEP UP YOUR PAY ROLL PLAN!

War is a continuous job.

Ever-widening, ever-advancing fighting fronts call for a never-ending flow of manpower and materiel—financed by a continuous flow of money.

Your responsibility as top management increases with the mounting tide of battle. You've been entrusted with two major responsibilities—steadily maintained production, and steadily maintained War Bond Sales through your Pay Roll Savings Plan.

So keep this one salient fact before you at all times: The backbone of our vital war financing operation is your Pay Roll Savings Plan.

Back the Attack! SELL MORE THAN BEFORE!

Your job is to keep it constantly revitalized. See to it that not a single new or old employee is left unchecked. See to it that your Team Captains solicit everyone for regular week-in and week-out subscriptions. And raise all percentage figures wherever possible.

Don't underestimate the importance of this task. This marginal group represents a potential total sales increase of 25% to 30% on all Pay Roll Plans.

Constant vigilance, in a quiet way, is necessary to keep your Pay Roll Savings at an all-time high. Don't ease up—until the War is won!

DIVING THROUGH FLAK

THE attack is on! A squadron of Grumman Hellcats against an enemy destroyer.

How much damage can they do? Plenty. On rare occasions—and without bombs—Hellcats have sunk a destroyer. Their .50 caliber bullets can pierce armor—strafe personnel—and transform the ship's bridge and upper works into a shambles.

The enemy has the advantage of striking first. His pom poms can hurl four two-pound shells into the air every second. But those pom pom gunners have to be good. Their aim must anticipate a Hellcat's position by 50 or more yards. Not an easy task. Our Navy flyers are past masters at swift maneuvers.

Also, because the U. S. Navy puts a high value on the lives of its flyers, Grumman Hellcats are designed to "take it" as well as dish it out. Many a pilot has brought his flak-riddled plane back to its flat top . . . and both have gone forth to fight again.

The men and women of Grumman Aircraft salute the men of the Navy who fly Hellcats.
