

The worst was yet to come as wet snow partially collapsed the tennis bubble on Kite Hill last Thursday when 21 inches of snow fell on the campus. Melted snow pooled at the ends of the bubble and began to freeze over by Saturday when workers had to deflate the structure completely in order to clean it off. It was re-inflated Monday afternoon and is expected to be in partial operation late this week and on regular schedule by Monday.

Sudden Spring Snow Closes University for a Half Day

The university was closed for 11½ hours last Thursday, for the first time since January 1977, when the heaviest spring snow storm to hit the area in more than a decade dumped 21 inches on campus.

William D. Gurowitz, vice president for campus affairs, ordered the university closed at 12:30 p.m. to allow employees to make their way home as the snow began to pile up in amounts that reportedly caught weathermen completely by surprise.

The storm caused little damage locally, according to day-after reports.

The big exception was the tennis bubble on Kite Hill which partially collapsed Thursday afternoon when four inches of wet snow fell in one hour, accumulating faster than the turned-up heat in the bubble could melt it off.

Workers had to deflate the bubble completely Saturday when the melted snow that was pooled at one end of the partially inflated structure began to ice over.

The bubble was re-inflated in the sunny warmth of Monday afternoon and was expected to be ready for tennis classes and team practice by late this week. It will be back to its full schedule of 7 a.m. to 1 a.m., seven days a week by Monday, according to Richard Cowles, director of operations for the Department of Athletics.

The bubble sustained only two relatively small tears (two and three feet long) which were easily repaired, Cowles said. Beds were set up in the lounges of several University Halls, for employees unable to make it home. About a dozen employees took advantage of the opportunity.

Other employees reportedly stayed with friends in the area rather than risk making it to homes at some distance.

The university was officially reopened at midnight. Most of the large parking lots, particularly A and B, were cleared during the night for the return of workers on Friday morning. The warm temperatures and frost-free ground melted the snow on streets and sidewalks.

Two Cornell Professors Elected To National Engineering Academy

Two members of the Cornell faculty, James W. Mayer and Franklin K. Moore, are among 58 Americans newly elected to membership in the National Academy of Engineering.

Election to the Academy is the highest professional distinction that can be conferred on an engineer, and honors those who have made important contributions to engineering theory or practice. Announcement of the 1984 members, along with five foreign associates, was made Friday (March 30) in Washington, D.C., by the president of the Academy, Robert M. White.

Only two other institutions, the University of California at Berkeley and the California Institute of Technology, had as many as two faculty members elected this year to the National Academy of Engineering. Twenty newly elected members are

Robert Barker Named As University Provost

Robert Barker, vice-president for research and advanced studies, will become provost of Cornell University at the end of the academic year, President Frank Rhodes has announced.

He will succeed W. Keith Kennedy, who is retiring after 35 years of service to Cornell, the last six as provost. Barker's appointment has been approved by the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees.

The provost is the president's first deputy officer and the chief educational officer of the university under the president, and is responsible for overseeing all academic programs, other than those at The New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center. His duties include the review, coordination and planning for the various schools and colleges, and for some centers. Also reporting to the provost are the University Libraries, the Office of Admissions and Financial Aid, the Registrar's Office, the Office of Minority Educational Affairs, and other support services.

In announcing his selection, Rhodes said, "I am delighted that Dr. Barker has accepted the position of provost. In his work as director of the Division of Biological Sciences, and more recently as vice president for research and advanced studies, he has gained the respect of the whole Cornell community. He played a major role in establishing the Biotechnology Program at Cornell and as vice president for research and advanced studies he has provided superb leadership, not only on campus, but in Washington and elsewhere. His demonstrated leadership, intellectual breadth, and varied experience will be great assets for the university as he assumes the position of provost."

Barker's selection follows a search for a provost from within the university, which Rhodes requested because of the need for a person familiar with Cornell's diverse programs. Rhodes was assisted by an advisory committee of faculty and academic staff, and by nominations from members of the Cornell community.

Barker came to Cornell in 1979 from Michigan State University, East Lansing, where he was professor and chairman, Department of Biochemistry. Prior to that appointment, Barker served on the faculties of the College of Medicine, University of Iowa, and the University of Tennessee. He studied for the B.A. and M.A. degrees at the University of British Columbia, and received his Ph.D. in biochemistry from the University of California, Berkeley.

An authority on the biochemistry of carbohydrates, Barker has been named to many scholarly panels, including those of the National Institutes of Health, the National Academy of Sciences, the National Board of Medical Examiners, and the Los Alamos National Laboratory. At Cornell, he has served on many University committees and is currently a member of the Dean's Council, the University Faculty Library Board, and the Center for Environmental Research Governing Board.

Gannett Foundation Gives $100,000 to Performing Arts

The Gannett Foundation has made a grant of $100,000 to the university toward construction of the performing arts center in the Collegetown section of Ithaca, it was announced Wednesday by Eugene Dorsey, president of the foundation, and Frank Rhodes, president of the university.

"We are most grateful for the Gannett Foundation's generosity," Rhodes said, "because it comes at a time when it is critical for us to maintain fund-raising momentum to ensure the timely completion of the center."

In January the Cornell Board of Trustees voted to proceed with construction of the center. Work is scheduled to begin this summer on the southern rim of Cascadilla Gorge at the Collegetown entrance to campus.

The construction budget is $16.5 million. With the Gannett Foundation grant, gifts and pledges total approximately $10.5 million for construction, with another $2 million committed for endowment.

The $100,000 grant is the latest example of Gannett Foundation support for Cornell that has totalled nearly $2.5 million since 1937. Frank Gannett was an 1898 graduate of Cornell who went on to found the Gannett group of newspapers and Gannett Co., Inc., now one of America's largest communications companies. He began his career as a journalist as a campus correspondent for out-of-town newspapers.

A $1 million grant from the Gannett Foundation made possible the 1980 expansion of the Gannett Health Center at Cornell. The original Gannett Clinic here was built in 1956 with a $500,000 Gannett Foundation grant.

After his graduation from Cornell, Frank Gannett was appointed secretary to Cornell President Jacob Gould Schurman and accompanied him to the Philippines, where

Funding for Lectures Is Often Overlooked

The availability of university funding for guest lecturers is being overlooked each year by many of the colleges and schools on campus, according to Judith A. Bower, secretary of the University Lectures Committee.

The committee is currently seeking nominations from faculty for guest lecturers during the 1984-85 academic year. But if past experiences hold true, most of the funding for the 13 to 15 University Lectureships sponsored by the committee each year will go to nominees from the College of Arts and Sciences, Bower said.

"This does not reflect a committee bias against Cornell's other schools and colleges, but rather a failure of faculty members in those units to submit nominations," said Peter D. McClelland, professor of economics and chair of the University Lectures Committee.

The nine-member committee, which makes the final selections for the University Lectures, is comprised of representatives of the various schools and colleges on campus. Dean of Faculty Joseph B. Bugliari, serves as an ex-officio member of the committee.

The University Lectures Committee also sponsors the Messenger Lectures, the most prestigious lecture series on campus. This spring the Messenger Lectures will be given by physicist Herbert F. York, U.S. Ambassador to the Comprehensive Test Ban Negotiations in Geneva (1979-81). He will give three lectures, April 16, 17 and 19, on the overall theme of "The Nuclear Arms Race." They all will be in Hollis E. Cornell Auditorium, the first starting at 8 p.m. and the other two at 4:30 p.m.

Nominations for these lectureships should be sent to: The Secretary/University Lectures Committee/Cornell University/ 315 Day Hall/Ithaca, N.Y. 14853.

Any faculty member may submit a nomination for a University Lectureship. Such nominations should be accompanied by (a) a capsule biography, (b) a list of publications, and (c) at least two seconding letters from faculty members in other departments indicating the breadth of appeal of the proposed lecturer. Nominations should ideally be received at least one semester before the proposed visit of the lecturer.

For further information on either University Lectures or Messenger Lectures, faculty should contact the secretary of the committee by mail or by calling 256-4963.

Melanie Weymer Is Appointed Director of the Cornell Fund

Melanie S. Weymer, assistant director of the Cornell Fund, the university's alumni annual giving program since 1980, has been named director of that program effective immediately, according to Carol L. O'Brien, director of university development.

Weymer replaces Murray A. Death, who became director of the university's Public Affairs Regional Offices earlier this year.

"Melanie has been an exceptionally effective and creative member of the Cornell Fund staff," O'Brien said. "She has worked extraordinarily well with Cornell alumni and has assisted the university in reaching increasingly higher levels of giving from Reunion classes. I know the Cornell Fund will continue to prosper under her direction."

Last year the Cornell Fund raised $9.1 million. This year, with a goal of $10 million, the Fund stood at $7 million in mid-March, up 13 percent from the same time last year.

Weymer spent four years with Citizens Savings Bank in Ithaca before coming to Cornell. She was assistant branch manager for both the Triphammer Office and the main office for one year, and manager of the Triphammer branch for two years.

From 1971 to 1975, Weymer was an investment administrator with Bankers Trust Co. in New York City.

Weymer is a 1971 graduate of St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn. She is a native of Rye, N.Y.

Women's Role in Third World Will Be Topic of Conference

A two-day conference designed to enhance awareness of women's contributions to development in Third-World countries will take place Friday, April 6, and Saturday, April 7, at Cornell University.

Free to the general public, the conference is titled "Women and Development: Redefining the Issues." It will take place in the seventh floor meeting rooms of Clark Hall, under the sponsorship of Cornell's Women in International Development Group, a campus-wide organization of graduate and undergraduate students. Registration will be from 1:30 to 2 p.m.

The activities will open at 2 p.m. with an address by Meena Acharya, an economist at the University of Wisconsin and authority on the economic and social status of women in Nepal.

The two days will be devoted to in-depth sessions on issues concerning research, agriculture and fertility and will include:

—Session I: "Research Alternatives and Priorities," 3:15 p.m. Friday; Mary Elmen-dorf, anthropologist, and June Nash, anthropologist at City University of New York; respondent, Patricia Garrett, rural sociologist at Cornell;

—Reception, 6 p.m.;

—Session II: "Agricultural Production and Household Consumption," 9:15 a.m. Saturday; Devaki Jain, director, Institute of Social Science, India and visiting fellow in economics at Harvard University and Paul Sommers, nutritionist and UNICEF consultant; respondent, Penelope Van Esterik, anthropologist at Cornell;

—Lunch Discussion Groups, 11:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m.;

—Session III: "Women's Work and Fertility," 3:45 p.m., Saturday; Mayra Buyinic, director, International Center for Research on Women, Washington D.C. and Janet Salaff, sociologist at University of Toronto; respondent, Carmen Barroso, director, Carlos Chagas Foundation, Brazil and visiting fellow in sociology at Cornell.

For further details on the conference, contact Ruth Meinen-Dick in Rural Sociology, 134 Warren Hall, 256-2010 or Suzanne Wallen, Center for International Studies, Uris Hall, 256-6370.

'Echoes of Children' Scheduled Sunday

"Echoes of Children," an award-winning cantata written by Canadian composer Ben Steinberg, will be performed at 8:15 p.m. Sunday, April 8, in Sage Chapel. "Echoes of Children" was written in 1978 as a tribute to children who were victims of the Nazi Holocaust, and won the prestigious Gabriel Award in 1979. The performance is free and open to the public.

The hour-long work will be performed by the Cornell Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Associate Professor of Music Edward Murray, and the Cornell Chorale, directed by David Conte. Professor Thomas A. Sokol, director of choral music will conduct the cantata. Cantor Harold Ohrbach of Temple Israel in West Bloomfield, Mich., will sing tenor solo, Ithacan Marina Gilman will sing contralto solo. Narration will be provided by Rabbi Morris Goldfarb, university chaplain emeritus. Composer Steinberg will be present.

Schurman served as president of the first U.S. Commission to those islands.

Gannett was editor of the Cornell Alumni News in 1900, and from 1900 until 1906 he worked on newspapers in Ithaca and elsewhere before launching his publishing career in Elmira.

Gannett was elected a Cornell Alumni Trustee in 1926, and continued as a board member until 1949. He was then elected a Trustee Emeritus, a post he held until his death in 1957.

Gannett established the foundation bearing his name in 1935. Although legally independent of the company, it contributes primarily to charitable causes in more than 100 communities in the U.S. and Canada where Gannett corporate properties (including the Ithaca Journal) are located, and nationally to journalism related programs.

Nominations Now Being Sought For Research Vice President

Nominations and applications for the position of Vice President for Research and Advanced Studies are now being accepted by Provost W. Keith Kennedy and by Vice President Robert Barker, who will become Provost on July 1.

An advisory committee will be appointed and will review nominations and applications submitted by April 20.

Provost Kennedy and Vice President Barker will recommend one or more individuals for consideration by President Frank Rhodes.

All applicants should submit personal resumes. Those making nominations should include resumes, if available, for their nominees.

affiliated with universities, while the others are with engineering firms and industrial laboratories.

Three other Cornell faculty members, President Emeritus Dale R. Corson, Dean of the College of Engineering Thomas E. Everhart and Professor of Agricultural and of Environmental Engineering Raymond C. Loehr, are already among the 1,187 U.S. members of the Academy.

Mayer, who serves as the Francis Norwood Bard Professor of Materials Science and Engineering, was cited by the Academy for "original contributions to ion implantation, Rutherford backscattering spectrometry, and other major aspects of solid-state engineering research and education." He joined the Cornell faculty in 1980 from California Institute of Technology where he was a professor of electrical engineering. Mayer earned his Ph.D. in physics from Purdue University in 1960 and is a Fellow of the American Physical Society and of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers. He is the author or coauthor of several books on his research specialty, semiconductor materials and thin-film structures.

Moore serves as the Joseph C. Ford Professor of Mechanical Engineering and was cited by the Academy for "pioneering contributions to research in continuum mechanics, especially in the areas of shell theory and inelastic behavior of metals." He joined the Cornell faculty in 1965 after serving as director of the Aero-Sciences Division of the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory (CAL) in Buffalo. A specialist in fluid dynamics, energy systems and thermal pollution, Moore earned the Ph.D. in aeronautical engineering in 1949 at Cornell. He is a member of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, the American Physical Society and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Moore's recent research involves the flow and heat transfer in large cooling towers at power plants.

SANFORD I. WEILL

Entrepreneur of the Year Program to Be Held Friday

The imaginative entrepreneurs who are setting a new style for business success will be recognized at the first Entrepreneur of the Year Program here Friday. The event, sponsored by the Graduate School of Management (CGSM), will attract about 300 business people from across the nation.

A special feature will be the presentation of the first Entrepreneur of the Year award to Sanford I. Weill, president of American Express Co., by David A. Thomas, dean of the CGSM, Friday night.

Also on the program is Kenneth H. Blanchard, author of the best-seller, "One Minute Manager," and an internationally known management consultant. His talk is titled "Why This Needs to be the Age of the Entrepreneur."

"The entrepreneur is a visionary who leads us into the future," said Dean Thomas. "This program will recognize how that spirit enriches our society, and the vital role the entrepreneur plays today and in the future."

"Sandy Weill is a superb example of the successful entrepreneur," Dean Thomas said. "Through a series of astute acquisitions, in less than 20 years Sandy built his first company—Carter, Berlind, Potoma & Weill—into one of the giants of the securities industry, Shearson Loeb Rhoades, which merged with American Express in 1981."

In addition to serving as president of American Express, Weill is a director of Fireman's Fund Insurance Co., and a director and chairman of the board of Shearson/American Express Inc., both subsidiaries of American Express. He received a degree in chemical engineering from Cornell in 1955.

A highlight of the program will be afternoon "break-out" sessions led by nine successful entrepreneurs. They will meet with other business people from across the country to discuss such topics as developing and marketing a new business and international opportunities. The session leaders and their topics are:

—Stanley M. Blau, president of Consolidated Communications, Inc., "Profiting from Used Equipment: Building a Telecommunications Company"

—Logan M. Cheek, managing principal, The Pittsford Group, "Seeking Venture Capital"

—Herbert D. Doan, chairman and chief executive officer of Doan Resources Corp. and Doan Associates, "Nurturing the New Enterprise"

—William J. Kidd, partner, Lineberger, Kidd, Kamn & Co., "Leveraged Buy-outs: An Entrepreneurial Opportunity"

—Howard P. Milstein, president, Milford Hotel Corp., "Making Real Estate Pay"

—John K. Hoff, assistant to the president, Louis Dreyfus et cie, "Being the Best Overseas"

—Philip D. Rowe Jr., founder and president, Dempsey's Restaurants, Inc., "Stealing a Good Idea"

—Peggy Hart Earle, president, Hartstrings, Inc. and Bruce P. Earle, vice president for finance, Hartstrings, Inc., "Positioning for the Sale"

—David M. Ahlers, the Don and Margi Berens Professor of Entrepreneurship in the CGSM, "The University as a Source of New Products."

The program opens with a 10:30 a.m. talk by Robert Barker, vice president for research and advanced studies at Cornell, on "Cornell's Research: Its Role in Economic Development."

President Frank Rhodes will speak at the award dinner, and comment on, among others, Ezra Cornell, a 19th century entrepreneur who founded the university, in part, with capital raised from setting up a nation-wide telegraph network with Western Union.

Four Arts Seniors Here Win Mellon Fellowships

Four seniors in the College of Arts and Sciences, three of whom are College Scholars, are among the 117 recipients of Mellon Fellowships in the Humanities. The winners are Alyssa Bernstein, Saul Gitlin, David McQuaid, all College Scholars, and Rachel Tigner.

The fellowships, which include $7,500 cash stipends as well as tuition and fees for the first year of graduate school, are underwritten by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation and administered by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation. They are given to "exceptionally promising students in preparation for careers in humanistic teaching and scholarship." The awards are renewable for a second year and in some cases the Mellon fellows can receive support to complete their doctoral dissertations.

The winners were chosen from 1,106 candidates nominated by teachers at approximately 700 colleges and universities. Bernstein, a philosophy major, is a member of Telluride House. She is treasurer of Support for Israeli Peace Group and a former member of the Cornell Chorus and Risley Chamber Singers. She recently returned to Cornell after a two-year leave during which time she studied at Hebrew and Haifa universities, lived on a kibbutz and traveled through Israel.

Gitlin, a Chinese language and literature major, recently returned to Cornell after studying at Fudan University in Shanghai and traveling throughout China.

McQuaid is an east European history major and member of Telluride House. He recently returned to Cornell after an extended leave spending part of the time living in Poland.

Tigner, a major in comparative literature, was the 1983 winner of the Arthur H. Dean and Mary Mardon Dean Book Collection Contest. A lifetime resident of Ithaca, she is the daughter of Maury and Nancy Tigner. Her father is a professor of physics here.

Baxter L. Hathaway

Baxter L. Hathaway, founder and editor for 29 years of Cornell University's literary magazine "Epoch," died Thursday, March 29, at his home here after a long illness. He was 74. A memorial service is scheduled for 4 p.m. Saturday, April 14, in Sage Chapel.

A member of the Department of English in the College of Arts and Sciences from 1946 until his retirement in 1973, Hathaway is credited with being a key figure in the development of the department's creative writing program, regarded as one of the best in the country on both the undergraduate and graduate level.

He was elected the Old Dominion Professor of Humanities, Emeritus by the university's Board of Trustees in 1973.

A published poet and novelist, Hathaway's scholarly efforts were in the areas of creative writing, the history of criticism, grammar and contemporary and Renaissance literature. His novel "The Stubborn Way" was published by Macmillan in 1937 and he had numerous poems published in various magazines since 1930.

Hathaway was senior editor and publisher of Ithaca House Books, an experiment in small press publishing of books of poetry and fiction.

Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, Hathaway was brought up in Kalamazoo, Mich. He earned his bachelor's degree in Kalamazoo College in 1935, his master's in 1936, and his doctorate in 1940, at the University of Michigan. Before coming to Cornell he taught at the University of Michigan, the University of Montana, and the University of Wisconsin.

Hathaway is survived by his wife, Sherry Kitchen Hathaway; two sons, William Hathaway of Ithaca, James Hathaway of San Antonio, Texas; a daughter, Hannah Sanders of Kansas City, Kan.; nine grandchildren; a sister, Elizabeth Duer of Kalamazoo, Mich.; a brother, William Fee Hathaway of Kalamazoo, Mich.; and several nieces and nephews.

Touchstone Will Perform Saturday

Touchstone from Chapel Hill, N.C. will perform in concert at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, April 7, in the Auditorium of Anabel Taylor Hall.

The performance is the fourth in a series of concerts featuring the traditional music of Ireland, Scotland, Brittany, French Canada and America.

Tickets for the performance are on sale at the Ithaca Guitar Works, The Guitarist, ReBop Records in Collegetown and the Commons Coffeehouse in Anabel Taylor Hall.

Touchstone weaves old-time, bluegrass, country, Irish, Scottish, Breton and Canadian music together using a blend of modern and traditional instruments. The group's most recent album, "Jealousy" has been hailed by critics for its traditional pieces and for the powerful and moving songwriting of its two female members, Triona Ni Dhonnhaill and Claudine Langille.

The concert is being sponsored by the Cornell Council of the Creative and Performing Arts, the Commons Coffeehouse and Fine Sound Productions. The final concert of the series will be on May 4, and will feature Eritage from Montreal, performing the traditional music of Quebec.

Welch, CEO of General Electric, Will Be Hatfield Fellow Here

John F. Welch Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of General Electric Co., will deliver a major address on Thursday, April 26, as Cornell's fifth Hatfield Fellow.

Welch will spend the day in several Cornell classes and seminars before his public lecture at 4:45 p.m. in Uris Hall Auditorium.

The Hatfield Fellows program honors Robert S. Hatfield, a Cornell alumnus and member of the University's Board of Trustees, who was chairman and chief executive officer of The Continental Group, Inc. before he retired in 1981. He is now president and chief executive officer of the Society of the New York Hospital.

Welch became the eighth chairman and chief executive officer in GE's 103-year history in 1981. He has been with the company since 1960.

Welch served in GE's chemical-related operations before becoming general manager of the Plastics Business Department in 1968. He was named general manager of the Chemical and Metallurgical Division in 1971, and was elected a vice president of GE in 1972.

In 1973, Welch became vice president and group executive of the Components and Materials Group. He was promoted to senior vice president and sector executive, Consumer Products and Services Sector, in 1977, and was elected vice chairman in 1979.

Welch received a B.S. in chemical engineering from the University of Massachusetts in 1957. He holds M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in chemical engineering from the University of Illinois. He is a member of the Business Council, the national Business Roundtable and the National Academy of Engineering.

The Hatfield Fellowships are one of two major programs supported by a $500,000 endowment Cornell received in 1980 from the Continental Group Foundation. The fellowships enhance communication between the campus community and leading corporations by bringing national business leaders to Cornell.

Chief executive officers who have been here as fellows are Hatfield, Roger B. Smith of General Motors, Clifton C. Garvin of Exxon and Edward G. Jefferson of Du Pont.

The endowment also provides support for Cornell faculty members who propose innovative ways to strengthen the teaching of applied economics.

Announcements

EARS

EARS offers free and confidential, non-judgmental, short-term counseling to the Cornell community, including faculty, staff and students. EARS deals with all types of issues, large and small, including social, family, sexual and academic concerns. EARS counselors are skilled volunteers who have more than a year of intense training and have passed a rigorous selection process. We have extensive lists of workshops, support groups, and professional counseling organizations to which we can refer Cornell community members. If you have a problem you can't seem to solve, or just feel like talking, we welcome you to walk in or call. We're in 211 W.S.H. and our number is 256-EARS. Our hours are 3-11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and 7-11 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

MUGWUMP

An organizational meeting of Macintosh User's Group for Writers of Unique Macintosh Programs will be held Thursday, April 5, at 4:30 p.m. in the Morrison Seminar Room, atrium of Corson-Mudd Building. People interested in program development of the Mac/Lisa are encouraged to participate and exchange ideas. There will be many advantages (price breaks, "inside" information, etc.) in joining a user group. Be one of the founding members. Contact Chris Pelkie, evenings, 272-9402, or Tim Larkin, days, at 256-2003 for more information.

The Week in Sports

Tennis, Baseball, Lacrosse and Crew Have Events

A busy schedule is on tap for Cornell athletic teams in the next week. The men's tennis and baseball teams are the two busiest squads, playing three and four contests respectively at home this week. The women's lacrosse team has two games scheduled for Schoellkopf Field, while the men's lacrosse team and the lightweight crew will also be at home during the next seven days.

The men's tennis team has two important Eastern Intercollegiate Tennis Association matches at home this weekend, as the Big Red entertains Pennsylvania at 4 p.m. Friday and Columbia at 1 p.m. on Saturday. Cornell will also see action in the indoor tennis bubble Monday afternoon when it entertains Binghamton in a 4 p.m. match.

The Big Red will take a 1-5 record into this weekend's activities, and the team is coming off a spring trip to the Virginia-North Carolina area in which it lost four tough matches. During the week-long trip, the Red fell to Navy (6-3), James Madison (7-2), Virginia Commonwealth (5-4) and Old Dominion (6-3). Cornell played very well in all four matches, but fell to squads which have already faced a great deal of competition this spring. The Big Red has been led thus far by junior captain Dave Merritt, who has a 5-1 record at the number one singles spot. Freshman Eric Cruz has also looked solid at the number four spot, compiling a 4-2 record in singles play. Cruz has also teamed up with junior Mike Rytting to post a 4-2 mark in doubles action. Last year, Cornell lost to Pennsylvania and Columbia by scores of 6-3 and 7-2, respectively, but the Red defeated Binghamton 8-1.

The Big Red baseball team opens up Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League play this weekend, playing doubleheaders with Pennsylvania (Saturday) and Columbia (Sunday) at Hoy Field. Both twinbills will begin at 1 p.m. Like the tennis team, the baseballers traveled south for its spring trip, as it played 13 games in Florida. Cornell went 5-8 on the trip and showed a great deal of promise for this season. The hitting star for the Red was junior outfielder Mike Kalfopoulos, who leads the team at the plate with an average of over .500.

Cornell is anxious to improve upon last year's 3-11 record in the EIBL. Last season, the Big Red split a doubleheader with Penn, taking an 8-7 decision in extra innings before losing a 5-1 decision in the second contest. Cornell's two games with Columbia a year ago were cancelled because of poor weather.

The Cornell lightweight crew will kick off its 1984 campaign with a race against Pennsylvania on the Cayuga Lake Inlet Saturday. The Big Red is under the direction of first-year coach John Ferriss, who has spent the last seven years as the Cornell freshman heavyweight coach. Ferriss is directing a very young squad this spring as it looks to improve upon last year's 1-5 varsity record and third-place showing in the petite finals of the Eastern Sprints. The crew's leadership should come from four veterans: senior captain Brian Files, senior coxswain Lee Bender and classmates Chris Martin and Donald McManus. Juniors Thor Brickman and John Robb also have a great deal of rowing experience. Last year, the lightweight varsity lost to Penn by five seconds, while the freshman crew posted a 12-second victory over the Quakers.

The women's crew also opens its season on Saturday as it travels to Syracuse. The Big Red is coming off its finest season ever, posting a 5-3 record in 1983 and finishing sixth at the national championships. Six key performers from last year's varsity boat return in seniors Karla Sievers, Lauri Nebel, Rhonda Alexis, Dallas Aronson and Sarah Emerson, and junior Sarah Dahlgren. Two other seniors, Jeannette Zimmerman and Helga Smits, should see action for the Red. A year ago, the Red began its schedule by dropping a race to Syracuse and Yale on the Cayuga Lake Inlet.

The women's lacrosse team has two games against state rivals at home this week. Cornell will play host to St. Lawrence on Monday and then entertain William Smith the next afternoon, with both games scheduled to begin at 3:30 p.m. Last season, the Red defeated St. Lawrence by an 8-6 score and also defeated William Smith twice during the spring. It posted a 10-4 victory over Smith during the regular season, and then handed the squad a 6-2 loss on the way to winning the New York state championship last May.

Brief Reports

Williams, Witlin Win Trustee Election

Kenneth W. Williams, Arts '85, and Scott Witlin, ILR '85, have been elected student trustees in a recent election conducted by the Office of the Assemblies. Williams will be seated for a two-year term; Witlin for a one-year term.

The results of the Student Assembly elections and the non-binding referenda on the student activity fee increase for next year and on South African divestment were also announced.

Winners of the Student Assembly elections are: Architecture, Art and Planning—Ida Rosa; Agriculture and Life Sciences—Kelly McKenney, Bern Weintraub; Arts and Sciences—Doug Masters, Gligor Tashkovich; Engineering—Rick Buck, Eric Thompson; Gay/Lesbian at-large—Marty Totin; Graduate School—Susan Johnson, Iftikhar Mostafa; Graduate School of Management—Sohail Salahuddin; Human Ecology—Eric Beckman; Hotel Administration—Alok Oberoi; Industrial and Labor Relations—Wendy Silverman; International Student at-large—Rajeev Bhaman; At-large—Paul Morenberg, Reed Stevens, Frank Goldman; Minority At-large—John Kuo. An election will be held in the fall to determine assembly members for the Law School, the College of Veterinary Medicine, and a freshman representative.

Total votes cast on the student activity fee increase were 3,527 out of a possible 17,621, or 20 percent of eligible voters.

Total votes cast on the divestment issue were 3,911 out of a possible 17,621, or 22 percent of eligible voters, with 3,200 voting in favor, 711 against.

More complete information on the election results is available at the Office of the Assemblies, 165 Day Hall.

Michael Boyd's Works Are on View in New York

Recent works of Michael Boyd, associate professor in the Department of Design and Environmental Analysis in the College of Human Ecology, are on exhibit at the Andre Zarre Gallery, located at 41 E. 57th Street in New York City, through May 4. Included in the exhibition are acrylic paintings on canvas and paper.

Boyd has had 15 solo exhibitions, six at the Andre Zarre Gallery, and has participated in more than 50 group exhibitions. His work is included in numerous collections including those of the Albright Knox Art Gallery, the Baltimore Museum of Art and the Chase Manhattan Bank.

Boyd has been a member of the Cornell faculty since 1968.

Two Graduate Students Win NSF Fellowships

One Cornell graduate student in operations research and one in plant pathology have been awarded postdoctoral fellowships by the National Science Foundation.

Donna Crystal, who is completing degree requirements for a Ph.D. in combinatorial optimization in the School of Operations Research and Industrial Engineering, has been awarded one of 30 NSF Mathematical Sciences Postdoctoral Research Fellowships. She will use the fellowship, which includes a stipend totaling $55,200 over two or more years, at the Rheinische Friedrich-Wilhelms Universität in Bonn, West Germany. The awards program, now in its sixth year, is designed to contribute to the future vitality of the nation's scientific effort.

Robert C. Garber, who completed his Ph.D. in molecular genetics in January in the Department of Plant Pathology, College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, is one of 50 Americans to be awarded North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Postdoctoral Fellowships in Science. Administered in this country by the National Science Foundation, the fellowship program was initiated in 1959 to advance science and technology and to promote closer collaboration among NATO members and associated countries. Fellows receive stipends of $1,500 a month for up to 12 months, as well as dependency allowances and travel expenses. Garber will use his fellowship at the University of Cologne, West Germany.

Race Relations Topic For Panel Discussion

The Theatre of Ideas will present "Race Relations: Prospects & Problems," a panel discussion with William Collins, director of the Learning Skills Center and adjunct professor of psychology at Cornell; Deborah Manning, a teacher at DeWitt Middle School and the first black woman appointed as one of Ithaca's police commissioners; and David Burak '67, a program coordinator in the Freshman Seminar Program.

The event is scheduled for 4 p.m. Monday, April 9, in the Memorial Room of Willard Straight Hall. Cosponsors include the WSH Program Board, the IFC, the Learning Skills Center and Sigma Phi Oliphant. A reception will follow.

Students May Run For Faculty Committees

Students interested in becoming candidates for membership on one of three faculty committees in 1984-85, may pick up application forms in the Dean of Faculty Office, the Dean of Students Office, at the desks in the Straight, Noyes Center and Robert Purcell Union, and at the Information and Referral Center in Day Hall.

Students who sign up as candidates will have their application forms forwarded to the chairperson of the committee(s) in which they expressed first choice interest. Each committee forwards its choices to the Faculty Committee on Nominations and Elections for final decision. In addition, student application forms will be kept to fill vacancies which may occur in the next academic year.

The three committees and the number of openings are: Faculty Committee on University Lectures (2), University-ROTC Relationships Committee (non-ROTC students) (4) and Faculty Committee on Music (1).

Four other faculty committees also have two students each. They are Academic Programs and Policies, Freedom of Teaching and Learning, Admissions and Financial Aids and Physical Education. Applications for these committees are available at the Office of the Assemblies, 165 Day Hall. The Student Assembly will make its appointments following its elections in April and before the end of this term.

Women's Studies Program Plans Open House

The Women's Studies Program will hold an open house from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, April 10, in 398 Uris Hall to acquaint prospective students with course offerings in the program.

Courses are in the fields of English, history, government, linguistics, as well as feminist theory. Faculty will be on hand to answer general questions about the program and specific questions about fall courses. Refreshments will be served.

Kennedy Memorial Competition Open

Cornell seniors planning a career in government or public service are eligible to compete for the annual John F. Kennedy Memorial Award of $850.

The Class of 1964 established the one-time grant as a reward for past accomplishments and to encourage future worthy service in the national interest.

Seniors may pick up applications at the Office of Financial Aid, 203 Day Hall, and return them by April 20. The 1984 Kennedy recipient will be announced May 11.

Applicants are asked to list on and off-campus activities, write two short essays about their experiences and career plans, and submit two letters of recommendation from faculty or others who can evaluate their work.

The Kennedy award's intent is explained in a statement of purpose written by the Class of 1964:

"To some college graduates, politics is a 'dirty' profession and foreign service is filled with discomforts. For some, patriotism seems mawkish and immature. To still others, the financial rewards of such fields as business, advertising and law beckon strongly.

"For these and other reasons, college graduates sequester themselves in academic institutions or enter private business. But there is a critical need for intelligent and dedicated college graduates in government and public service to solve the problems of hatred, fear, prejudice, and poverty which abound in the world around us."

Barnes Shakespeare Competition Now Open

Entries are being accepted for the 1984 Barnes Shakespeare Prizes. A first prize of $275 and a second prize of $150 will be awarded from the fund established in 1887 by Mrs. Alfred Smith Barnes of Brooklyn.

The competition is open to all Cornell undergraduates. Each competitor shall submit one prose essay of her or his own composition, not more than 8,000 words in length.

Essays should be submitted to Judy Bower, 315 Day Hall, by noon Monday, April 16. Each entry must be submitted under an assumed name which should be written on the outside of a sealed envelope. Inside the envelope, the entrant should enclose his or her real name and local address.

For further information, contact Professor Timothy Murray, Department of English, 339 Rockefeller Hall.

Ecological Farming Is Lecture Topic

Stuart Hill of the Ecological Agriculture Project at MacDonald College will present a free lecture, "Ecological Agriculture Farming for Tomorrow," at 7:30 p.m. Friday, April 6, in Room 45 Warren Hall.

Hill's lecture is being sponsored by the Natural Organic Farmers Association of New York 1984 Conference, which is being held on campus April 6-8, and Ecology House.

Dean of Students' Office Needs OCC Volunteers

The Dean of Students' Office is looking for students to serve in the Off-Campus Housing Counselor (OCC) program beginning in August. OCC's should be available at the Dean of Students' Office during the two weeks which precede the beginning of each semester.

During the past two years OCCs have

SAGE CHAPEL

Catholic Chaplain To Speak at Sage

Father Michael Mahler, University Catholic chaplain, will speak at the 11 a.m. Sunday, April 8, Sage Chapel Service. His sermon topic will be "The Last Great American Taboo."

Mahler, a priest of the Rochester diocese, was educated at St. John Fisher College, St. Bernard's Seminary and at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome. He joined the Cornell Catholic community in the spring of 1983. Before that time he worked in campus ministry at SUNY-Geneseo from 1976 to 1983.

Music for the service will be provided by the Sage Chapel Choir under the direction of Donald R.M. Paterson, university organist and choirmaster. Stephen May serves as assistant conductor and accompanist.

helped new Cornell students find off-campus housing and have aided their adjustment to living in the local community.

Applications are available at the Willard Straight Hall Desk and in the Dean of Students' Office, 103 Barnes Hall. Application deadline is Friday, April 20. For further information call or stop by the Off-Campus Housing Office, 103 Barnes Hall, 256-5373.

Caribbean Politics Subject of Lecture

Puerto Rican political commentator Juan Mari Bras will give a public lecture on current Latin American politics, particularly in the Caribbean, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 11, in Room 120 of Ives Hall.

Part of Latin Week activities on campus this year, Bras' talk is sponsored by the university's Third World Student Programming Board.

Secretary of the Puerto Rican Socialist Party from 1971 to 1982, Bras had a private law practice in San Juan, Puerto Rico, from 1960 through 1970 and served as director of "Claridad" newspaper in Puerto Rico in 1970-73, 1977-78 and 1982.

He has given numerous speeches and written extensively on political issues.

Women in Muslim Lands Is Subject of Lecture

Professor G. Badawi from St. Mary's University in Canada will lecture on "Women in Muslim Lands" at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, April 14, in the Founder's Room, Anabel Taylor Hall.

Badawi's lecture is being sponsored by the Muslim Educational and Cultural Association at Cornell and is partially funded by the Graduate Funding Commission.

Graduate Bulletin

Students wishing to add or drop courses at this time must petition for changes and pay a $10 late processing fee.

Students who have not yet completed requirements for advanced degrees but who expect to complete requirements by the May 18, 1984 deadline should fill out the Provisional Commencement List form available at the Graduate School office. Deadline for submission of this form to have your name put on the commencement program is April 20. May 18 is the deadline for submission of all materials for a May degree. No exceptions to this deadline will be made.

Cornell Has Never Stopped Teaching Him

By MELISSA COOK '85

"Research and the tailor business are similar," said Michael Lanieu '73, as he bent, concentrated, over a pair of moss green knickers in his Willard Straight Hall tailor shop. "Both involve using your hands to be creative and imaginative in problem solving."

Lanieu, who graduated from Cornell's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences with a bachelor of science degree in animal science, epitomizes the Cornell catch-phrase "diversity." He says, "I'm someone who has always had a variety of interests and I've been able to do a lot of different things." He has worked at jobs from dairy cattle research to zipper repair and he has found something of value in each job he has held.

After graduation from Cornell, Lanieu entered the Peace Corps through which he traveled to Brazil's Amazon to do research on dairy cattle. A year later, he returned to Ithaca in hopes of finding a research position at Cornell. Such a job didn't come along until the following year, and in the meantime, Lanieu worked for the New York State Dairy Herds Improvement Cooperative, a Cornell affiliated facility, and as a cashier at Brooks Pharmacy, now out of business.

When a position as a research support specialist in Cornell's College of Veterinary Medicine opened up, Lanieu grabbed it. "I did some really exciting research with a new virus," he said, "but I never felt that I was working for me. The problem with research is that you're always working according to someone else's rules."

After four years at the Vet College, Lanieu answered an advertisement for a tailor to open up a shop in Cornell's Willard Straight Hall. He says, "I had always enjoyed sewing and this was my chance to set up my own work hours and to be my own boss." His sewing career, which started out with a button here and a hem there, blossomed into a much-enjoyed hobby. "One day, I made a shirt and that was the turning point — from then on, I decided that if I had the pattern, I could make anything. The sky was the

Poetry Contest Winners Announced

The Poetry Contest Committee of Networking is happy to announce the winners of the Networking Poetry Contest.

1st Prize Winner: "Pipe Dream" by Mary Jane Curry

2nd Prize Winner: "Tennis Without a Net" by Terrill Kay Tower

3rd Prize Winner: "Incest" by Janis Dickinson

Two Honorable Mentions are:

"Haiku" by Marie-Celeste Ruberti

"Wedding Canticle" by Mary Jane Curry

Congratulations to all winners and to everyone who submitted a poem.

We regret not being able to print all three poems, but a booklet containing all the poems entered is planned to be published soon.

An awards presentation will be held on Thursday, April 12, 12:00-1:00, Room 415 Space Sciences Building. At that time, all the poems submitted will be available to read. The Cornell community is invited to join us in the festivities.

The Networking Advisory Board and the Poetry Contest Committee members would like to thank Ingrid Arnesen, Modern Language & Linguistics and Kathleen Platt, Plann. Assoc., Dean's Office for judging the contest.

Again, congratulations to winners and honorable mentions.

Pipe Dream

By MARY JANE CURRY

The summer I was thin
we were aboard the boat;
your uncle sipped gin and tonics. We stayed afloat with Broadway tunes
we hummed, note by note until hoarse with sun; by the dunes we moored, grabbed sponges, dove like pelicans who croon and cruise the waters above, then swoop skim, attack. In thanks we scrubbed algae. I loved you differently then. The planks creaked only your name.

Our image, cleaning, yanks
this memory to my older brain:
after lunch, sea-sick
I rocked over waves, tame as if caged; I wanted to lick the salt from my wounds, queasy and drowsy in the sun. A hick from the city, you said. Easy to laugh: the rocking motion of time strips away greasy drops of sweat, a potion of heat. I never told, but twice you divined a notion of love, planted like rice for a wedding. You knew as if steered by compass: a nice kid who could but coo denials of love. I scrub ingrained cages; I keep a zoo of former selves: a grizzly cub, a chained and pleated peacock, wild boar, snout in the grub of sea and sun where my heart's locked.

A Matter of Choice: Each Employee Can Weigh Options for Supplemental Retirement Investment Opportunities

Contributed by University Personnel Services

Faculty and staff at Cornell who wish to invest pre-tax dollars in tax-deferred annuities will have four new options in addition to TIAA/CREF as of July 5, 1984. As a regular employee of either a statutory or an endowed unit, you can take advantage of these retirement investment opportunities which are unique to institutions of higher education and qualified non-profit organizations.

The plan change, approved by the Board of Trustees in its March 24, 1984 meeting, allows you to prepare your own tax-sheltered investment program by investing in one or more of the funds offered by these groups: The Fidelity Group, The Vanguard Group, The Equitable Life Assurance Society, Unionmutual Insurance Company and Teachers Insurance Annuity Association/College Retirement Equities Fund (TIAA/CREF). Together, these investment groups offer up to forty distinct funds which vary from low to high risk.

These companies were selected by the Tax-Deferred Annuity Alternative Investment Committee consisting of faculty and non-academic staff members, Employee Benefits representatives, administration and investment personnel reviewed the investment alternatives.

The committee has met weekly over the past several months to select investment options with the diversity that the faculty and staff have requested. You will be able to make tax-deferred investments in money market funds, income funds, income-and-growth funds, and stock and bond funds. These options will allow you to tailor an investment program to meet your specific needs. You may invest in any one or a combination of these funds up to a maximum contribution allowed under the Internal Revenue Code 403(b). Employee Benefits will be able to help you determine your maximum limit.

Employees who have participated in the Supplemental Retirement Annuity (SRA) portion of the TIAA/CREF program are familiar with the tax-deferred contribution as a means of investing for retirement while reducing current Federal and State tax liability. Your contributions and your earnings can be made on a tax-deferred basis. This means that you will not pay income tax on these monies until you receive the money for your use.

To help you learn more about these opportunities, employee meetings with representatives of the various companies are scheduled for May 8. Prior to that time you will receive information concerning these meetings. com-

Brussels Sprouts

Did you know...

That according to speakers of a University of Rochester symposium, brussels sprouts are the most recently discovered soldiers helping science win the war on cancer? A recent Ithaca Journal article quotes Dr. Frank J. Rausher, Jr., senior vice president of the American Cancer Society, as saying "brussels sprouts contain two chemicals, as yet unidentified, that are potent inhibitors of cancer."

Connie plans to keep naturally grown brussels sprouts on hand to combat her depressions every time she reads about a newly discovered EDB-tainted product she has to pull from her pantry.

Questions & Answers

Q: As I go into some of the offices across this campus, I can't help but make comparisons on the amount of cigarette smoke that one can encounter. Some have no smoke and are pleasant to walk into, others are overwhelming with the room almost blue with smoke — smoke that comes from the staff who are there to greet and work with students, staff, faculty and visitors. There are possibly smokers in the offices with no smoke, but they probably do their smoking elsewhere, which is considerate. I would like to know if there is such a thing as a smoking policy on campus and what it is if there is one. Thank you. Anonymous

A: Dear Anonymous: This question has been turned over to the Smoking Policy Committee on campus and we hope to have an answer ready for the next issue of Networking.

Open Heart Club Welcomes New Members

Tompkins County Heart Club is sponsoring an Open Heart Club to provide important services to heart patients and their families. Its main purpose is to help relieve the fears and anxieties that usually accompany heart surgery before the operation and during the recovery period.

Members of the Club have experienced heart surgery and are well aware of the personal problems that are associated with this operation. Members intend to meet with those contemplating surgery and try to alleviate the doubts and apprehensions of the patient and their family. They well understand the patient's premonitions and believe that a first-hand account from one who has actually been through this operation will have a very reassuring effect.

Doctors and cardiologists are enthusiastic about the Club and are giving their full support. Those who are well informed in both the technical and human aspects will prove to be the better patients. Join us ... it will do your heart good!

Ithaca Festival: Get Involved

Each year Cornell employees enjoy the activities when we celebrate the Ithaca Festival. How about getting involved this year — Ithaca Festival needs volunteers in all areas of the planning for this year's Festival which is scheduled to start May 31. No matter what your expertise is or isn't, the Festival can use your assistance. Call the Festival office at 272-0775 or show up each Monday evening at 5:30 p.m. at the office, located at the top of the T.G. Miller building.

Formal and Informal Job Searches Discussed at Cornell Careers

Careers

Next Week: Interviewing

Contributed by University Personnel Services
Over fifty attendees at the March 8 "Cornell Careers" seminar heard some practical advice on the job process at Cornell from Kay Gilcher, Director of Career Services at the School of Industrial and Labor Relations.

In discussing the issues to consider when making career move decisions, Kay emphasized the importance of matching the individual's needs to the job. These needs might include career growth, flexibility or perhaps just stability, she noted.

Kay discussed both informal and formal job searches, defining an informal search as "seeking information about jobs that interest you by talking to employees in other departments who hold those kinds of jobs." By talking to others, employees can learn about the different "work cultures," or work environments around campus, she advised. According to Kay, this type of information gathering provides a more realistic picture of actual work situations as well as a feel for the duties and demands of the jobs themselves.

She defined formal job searches simply as those which involve actually applying for specific jobs. For employees, this means reading the "Job Opportunities" listing in the Cornell Chronicle each week and then submitting Employee Transfer Applications for specific positions. Kay advised her audience to make their job search more effective by first researching these positions before applying.

Cornell Careers seminars are held the second Thursday of each month from 12:15 until 1:15 in Uris 202. At the next seminar on April 12, Wendy Phoenix, Director of Administrative Operations at the School of Architecture, Art and Planning, will talk about ways to prepare for an interview and give advice on answering difficult interview questions.

For more information about Cornell Careers, contact the Training and Development section of University Personnel Services at 256-7400.

Personnel Notes

CCTS Trustee Legislation Clarified

Contributed by University Personnel Services

A recent inquiry to the Cornell Children's Tuition Scholarship (CCTS) Advisory Board has indicated that some of the information provided to employees prior to the plan change in July of 1983 was unclear in specifying the level of benefits available to employees hired prior to July 1, 1983. University employees who became eligible for the Plan after the July 1, 1983 plan change may receive benefits equal to 50 percent of Cornell's tuition and administrative fees for an eligible child attending Cornell.

To assist employees in the process of applying for CCTS benefits, Employee Benefits will sponsor an information session on Friday, April 13, 1984 at 12:00 noon to 1:00 p.m. in Kaufmann Auditorium, Goldwin Smith Hall. This session will provide an opportunity for questions and answers on CCTS in general.

Next week, new CCTS booklets outlining benefits and procedures of the current Plan are being distributed, with applications, to employees who have a child now receiving CCTS. Other employees requesting applications, instructions, and booklets, as well as those with questions on eligibility should call Adele Feierstein at 256-3936.

On the Employee Assembly

At the Employee Assembly's March 21, 1984 meeting, the resolution on the Transportation Master Plan was unanimously passed. The resolution is presented below:

Be it resolved that

The Employee Assembly supports the improvement of parking facilities on the Cornell University campus. As such capital improvements have been necessitated by recent expansion of University facilities and as such capital improvements will enhance the quality of community life and will improve the efficiency of operations, the Employee Assembly recommends that capital expenses related to parking construction be funded as other University construction is funded.

Be it resolved that

The Employee Assembly opposes the imposition of additional parking fees on employees and that the Employee Assembly oppose any plan which would require employees to spend more of their own time getting to and from work in order to continue to have free parking and:

Be it further resolved that

The Employee Assembly recommends that the Administration maintain or increase its support for Transportation Services from general funds as this service is one which employers customarily provide and one which benefits the entire campus community.

The resolution was presented to the Board of Trustees at their March meeting.

Enrollment Still Open for Several Spring Workshops and Seminars

You still have time to register for several of the workshops and seminars to be offered this spring by the Training and Development section of University Personnel Services. To register for one of the programs listed below, contact your supervisor for a copy of the registration form. After completing the form and securing your supervisor's signature, send it via campus mail to Training and Development, 111 Day Hall.

Effective Communication: Making Effective Presentations, April 20, 27, May 4, 11, 18 and 25, 9:00-10:30. Obtain training and experience in making presentations to small groups, large gatherings, and in one-to-one situations. Gain skills in organization of materials, interviewing and non-verbal communication. Six session program. ($40.00 charge to dept.)

A special Problem Solving workshop for Cornell managers and supervisors will be offered May 10 and 11, 1984. This two-day workshop will be conducted by Warren Adams, a trainer and management consultant who also conducted the Decision Analysis program offered to Cornell staff members last fall. Participants in this program will learn a proven system for problem solving that focuses on accurate problem identification, gathering complete and relevant data, and the analysis and evaluation of alternative solutions.

A program of particular interest to new or inexperienced office employees will be offered on May 22, 1984. The Effective Filing Systems program will help individuals in designing filing systems and procedures that will allow for easy filing and quick retrieval of documents and information.

For more information on either of these programs, consult the Spring Calendar of Workshops and Seminars distributed to Cornell employees through Contact in late February or call Training and Development at 256-7400. This information is also available through CUIN-FO—Cornell's computerized information service.

Dedicated Service Award

Many individuals at Cornell University contribute to the success of their department and the University through the use of talents that may not be recognized in their official job description.

Do you know someone who takes particular pride in their work, who exhibits a willingness and cheerfulness in the dispatch of their duties, who provides service beyond the call of duty, and who makes life at Cornell a rewarding experience for those with whom they come in contact? Networking is looking for special people you feel should be recognized for their special contribution. The Dedicated Service Award is open to any Cornell employee, regardless of rank.

Nominate someone today by filling in this form and please note that you should accompany your ballot with a paragraph explaining why you wish to nominate this person and a list of signatures from other department members supporting your candidate. If your candidate is selected, we will be in touch with you to supply additional information.

Who to Call for What

You can call Employee Benefits for information on specific benefits. This concludes the series "Know Your Personnel Services" in Networking. A new series of articles this spring will introduce Cornell employees in other departments who are of service to Cornell faculty and staff, either in person or behind the scenes.

Call June Franklin, Assistant Manager of Employee Benefits at 63936 for information on time off with pay or any time you feel you need additional assistance after speaking with the Benefits specialists.

Call Bonnie Clark at 6-3936 for information on Basic Group Life, VADD, and Central Employee Registration (CER).

Call Pat Cooke (left) or Nan Nicholas at 6-3936 for information on extension of group health care benefits for endowed employees, dependents' changes, Cornell Health Care Plan for Endowed Employees enrollment, Long-Term Disability, Major Medical, Medicare, Short-Term Disability, and Aetna prescription drug program.

Accidental Death and Dismemberment Insurance Available to Eligible Staff

Submitted by University Personnel Services

Accidental death and dismemberment insurance is available to eligible Cornell employees who wish to protect themselves and their families against financial hardship resulting from accidental death or injury.

Accidental death and dismemberment insurance, provided through Cornell's VADD Plan, allows for enrollment in either an individual or family plan. Staff members may choose any amount of insurance from $10,000 to $250,000; however, amounts in excess of $100,000 may not exceed five times the annual budgeted salary.

The family plan covers a spouse, under age 70, and dependent children for the following percentages of coverage:

Situation 1	Situation 2	Situation 3
Employee 100%	Employee 100%	Employee 100%
Spouse 40%	No Spouse —	Spouse 50%
Children 10%	Children 15%	No Children —

Benefits under the VADD Plan are payable in addition to any other insurance which may be in effect at the time of the accident. The insurance provides worldwide coverage 365 days a year, 24 hours a day in the event of death, dismemberment, loss of sight, or permanent total disability from any kind of accident (subject to the exceptions listed in the Plan). It covers accidents at work, at home, and on vacation.

The Plan covers accidents that occur during travel by train and automobile, and also during travel as a passenger on airplanes licensed to carry passengers.

To obtain further information or to enroll in the VADD plan, call Bonnie Clark, Benefits Specialist, 256-3936.

limit." His tailor shop opened in the fall of 1982 and is patronized largely by students in need of interview suit alterations and mending.

The tailor shop, however, is only half of Lanieu's career. Weekday mornings, he works as a secretary in Cornell's government department, devoting his afternoons to the shop.

Lanieu says that, in his nine years here, Cornell has never stopped teaching him. He says, "In each job I've held, I've learned and grown and I've found this community to have so much to offer. I'm building skills with each job I hold and I'm learning to tackle all kinds of problems with practicality and imagination."

Editor's Note: Many of our readers work in a section of the university that they want more employees to know about. If you have a service to share, tell it through Networking.
