NEW YORK CORNELL CLUB.

Account of Largest and Most Successful Alumni Organization.

One of the liveliest centres of Cornell enthusiasm and activity nowadays is the Cornell University Club in New York City. Located in its handsome, new quarters in "The Royalton," a large, modern apartment and club hotel at 49 West Forty-third Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, in the heart of the club region, this institution has rapidly assumed proportions that refought; decisions argued against that have passed into history; policies discussed, coaches raked over and prowess praised with all the eagerness of days long since gone by; good stories told and old ones kept green in the affections. So with one group. Another centres around the chess fiends in the reading room. The bountiful supply of college periodicals and all current publications has its devotees. But as the evening waxes, "swipes" are called for and there is a general gathering about the piano in one of the larger in the evening. A table d'hôte dinner is served every night between six and eight, the price of which is fifty cents. This dinner is well patronized and there is seldom a vacant table. Breakfast, at thirty-five cents and an à la carte luncheon attract a good delegation every day. Despite the small price, the quality of the restaurant service is excellent.

The Club's café and restaurant service is conducted on a somewhat novel plan. The management of the Royalton Hotel runs the kitchen and bar, paying the license tax and assuming entire pecuniary responsibility for everything appertaining to these important departments. All that the Club has to shoulder pecuniarily is its lease, maintenance and the employment of servants enough to serve meals and attend to the wants of the members. Thus this Club escapes the troubled waters incident to running a restaurant in which so many other clubs have foundered.

The Club has been maintained on a safe, conservative basis from its inception four years ago. While there is a constant and growing demand for a house of its own for the Club, there is a unanimous sentiment against going into a club house until one can be built and maintained on a scale commensurate with the position of Cornell in the college world. These rooms, opening one into another, all on the ground floor of a modern hotel structure, and permitting as much expansion as is mention the thousands within 200 miles of New York eligible to non-resident membership, it is readily seen that the future of the Club and a home of its own on a scale worthy of the University are assured. The committee in charge of the proposed new building have come to the conclusion that when the resident membership reaches six hundred, of whom four hundred shall pay $20 a year dues (that is, those who have been out of college five years) the building and its maintenance may safely be undertaken.

At present there is no initiation or entrance fee, and the dues are nominal, i. e. ten dollars a year for residents, and five dollars a year for non-residents. The qualifications for membership are simply that one shall have been honorably connected with Cornell. Applications for membership are required to be approved and seconded by two members, and are then passed upon by a membership committee, which reports to the full Board of Governors for election. It takes about a month for these few formalities to be gone through with.

A new feature about to be instituted should attract a large increase of non-resident members. That is, leasing sleeping rooms in the club building which shall be set aside for the use of non-residents. There will be a charge of two dollars for a room and bath, and the rooms will be reserved on application by mail or telegraph. This will give members the combinations of a first class hotel make it not only a popular place for the gathering of fun-loving and loyal Cornellians, but also promise to make it a powerful influence in University life that will make for the welfare of Cornell.

When it is known that there is an attendance at the Club of more than twelve hundred a month, it is easy to realize what this organization accomplishes in the way of keeping fresh and alive the interest of alumni in their alma mater and stimulating that indefinable, and sometimes unrecognizable, something called "Cornell spirit." At last there is a place in the metropolis, with its fifteen hundred Cornellians, where one is always sure of finding in the late afternoon and evening a gathering of men keen on Cornell affairs. As might be expected, the most frequent visitors are men from the younger classes, but as time goes on the "old grads" are becoming more and more attached to the club's cosy corners and are discovering that few clubs in New York offer so many attractions for the amount of money invested. Saturday nights are naturally the ones when the Club rooms are generally liveliest. Alumni from out of town are coming to know that that is a good night to "happen in" and they find that a warm welcome is always ready. Groups gather by the affinity process in the different rooms and hold forth with the usually various degrees of wit and wisdom. Races are rowed over again; hard fought tussles on the gridiron are rooms, and the songs have sway until long after the hour when "Theodore" used to appear at the door and with threatening mien announce "Time to close up." On any night after a big football game or other Varsity contest, of course the club is crowded and it must be confessed that there are occasions when not all club amenities are observed. Once a month a "smoker" is given and the club plays host to its members and out-of-town visitors. When home talent becomes exhausted entertainers are imported. One of the favorites is the author and composer of the classic "Go way back and sit down."

One of the most approved features of the Club is the cheap but really excellent restaurant service. The dining room, a glimpse of which is shown in one of the illustrations, is bright and attractive. Its tiled floor, low, curved ceiling and artistic decorations make it somewhat unique in appearance. There are tables for two, three, four or a dozen and about forty can easily be accommodated. Whenever more room is required, as for instance was the case on the occasion of the reception to Ambassador White, or on "smoker" nights, folding doors open the dining room into two other large rooms which accommodate two hundred or more. These extra rooms, it should be mentioned, though not leased by the Club, are, by the terms of its lease, at the disposal of the Club whenever required after eight o'clock needed from time to time, are felt to be immeasurably superior to a regulation "brown stone front," such as most young clubs occupy. In the meantime a strong and constant effort is being made to increase the membership and get it ready for the bigger things that are surely coming. At present the membership is but slightly in excess of four hundred, of whom more than one hundred are non-residents of Greater New York. When it is realized that there are twelve hundred Cornellians eligible to resident membership, not to and a college club, and at most reasonable expenditure. If the increase in the non-resident membership warrants it, this attractive innovation will soon be in force. Everything in fact is being done to keep the club on the advance and full of life and interest, and the success in these directions is the reward of the club's management.

Clarence J. Shearn, '90, is the President of the club, having been honored with re-election. Seymour P. Thomas, '72, is Treasurer, and E. C. Blair, '97, Secretary. Edwin B.

INTERCOLLEGIATE CHESS.

Cornell Wins from Pennsylvania
But Loses to Columbia.

The week of intercollegiate chess in which Cornell participated in New York city during the holidays resulted rather unsatisfactorily for the University. The Tri-collegiate league championship was won for a second time, but the unexpectedly small size and short duration of the tournament deprived the victory of much of its satisfaction. In the dual match with Columbia which followed, an overwhelming defeat was experienced. As the victors had already finished second to Yale in the Inter-collegiate league tournament, the result served to show that the virtual intercollegiate chess championship of the East had moved from its last year's seat—Ithaca—to New Haven.

TRIANGULAR LEAGUE TOURNAMENT.

The third annual tournament of the Tri-collegiate Chess league, resulted in a victory for Cornell by a score of 4½ games to Pennsylvania's 1½. Brown university, the third member of the league, was unable to take part, as it found at the last moment that two of her three players were ineligible. It was accordingly decided that the Cornell and Pennsylvania teams should hold a dual match, and in order to fill the four days of the original schedule it was arranged that each member should play two games with each member of the opposing team instead of the customary one game. A further modification of the plan was made at the end of the third day, however, when it was found that Cornell had secured enough games to make victory certain and the fourth day's games were omitted.

The playing began Monday morning, December 30, in the rooms of the Manhattan Chess club, United Charities building, 4th avenue and 22nd street. The players were Samuel W. Addleman, '02, and Don A. Pardee, '03, for Pennsylvania, and Ernest H. Riedel, '02, and Gerhard W. Heuser, '03, for Cornell. The substitutes were Irving Chapin, '03, Pennsylvania, and Charles L. Rand, '04, Cornell. Major J. Moore Hanham, of the Manhattan club, acted as referee.

The tournament did not equal in interest either of the two previous ones, owing partly to the smaller number of participants and its shorter duration. The result, moreover, was practically at no time in doubt. Riedel's victory over Pardee early in the first round placed Cornell in the lead and this position was maintained throughout. There were several excellent contests among the six games played, however, and the league's high standard of play was maintained. The victory gives the trophy cup, presented by Professor Isaac L. Rice, to Cornell for a second year.

The score by rounds follows:

Monday, December 30.

CORNELL-COLUMBIA MATCH.

The dual match with Columbia resulted in a disastrous defeat for Cornell, the score being 8 to 4. The affair was a return one for the contest held in Ithaca in the spring, when Cornell won by 7 to 5. The match was held Friday and Saturday, January 3 and 4, in the place in which the tournament preceding it occurred. Cornell was outclassed from the start, the games at boards 2 and 3 in the first round being lost before the noon recess, and only half a point being scored during the day. A remarkable recovery was made in the second round, but it was too late to secure the victory.

The players in order of their rank were as follows: Cornell—Ernest H. Riedel, '02, Gerhard W. Heuser, '03, Charles L. Rand, '04, Frank S. Storey, '02, Parker F. Scripture, '02, George W. Wood, '04. Columbia—Frank H. Sewall, '02, Howard A. Keeler, '03, Benjamin R. Von Sholly, '03, George W. Tucker, Jr., '05, Rudolph C. Schroeder, '03, Bernard H. Ridder, '03.

ASTHMA CURE FREE!

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.
WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler,
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

DRS. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.,

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., FEB. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th Street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M.D.

Feb. 5, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Obituaries.

MISS GORDON FERNOW.

Miss Gordon Fernow, '02, daughter of Professor and Mrs. B. E. Fernow, of Ithaca, died at the Infirmary on Friday night, January 3, of blood poisoning after an illness of only five days. Miss Fernow entered the University in 1898 and had since been prominent in Sage activities. She was a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority and of Raven and Serpent. Ever since her admission to the University she had maintained a high standard of scholarship, although devoting considerable time to outside interests. She served for three years as captain of the Sage basket-ball team and had rowed on the Sage crew. At the time of her death she was treasurer of Sports and Pastimes.

ABRAHAM LOESER.

On Thursday, December 11, Abraham Loeser, B.S., '86, died of pneumonia in New York City. He was a native of Cleveland, O., and was thirty-six years of age. At the University he took a prominent part in college journalism, being editor-in-chief of the Sun in his senior year. Upon graduation he joined the staff of the Buffalo Express, and later that of the New York Evening Post. He then entered the Columbia Law school and on taking his degree was admitted to the bar. At the time of his death he was a member of the law firm of Benjamin & Loeser. He leaves a wife and two children.

CORNELL CLUB OF NEW YORK.

We are fortunate in being able to present in this issue an accurate and comprehensive article descriptive of the Cornell Club of New York City as it at present is, with some indication of the future it may confidently be expected to have. The article can not fail to be interesting and profitable reading to the alumni belonging to other alumni associations who will doubtless be greatly surprised as well as gratified at the excellent organization that has been built up in New York city. Though New York city probably affords better facilities for the maintenance of an alumni club than any other place in the country, principally because of the large number of alumni resident there or in the vicinity, it would be robbing the members of that club of their just deserts were we to ascribe the success of the organization entirely to the surrounding circumstances and not give due credit to the untiring devotion of its members. We believe that the same patient and unselfish work for our Alma Mater done elsewhere would produce far better results than have been brought about by our alumni living in other sections of the country.

The Cornell Club of New York city has ever since its founding been a power which has been felt in many different branches of our University life, and its influence will doubtless keep on increasing with its advancing years. If our alumni living in other localities wish to have their opinions on University affairs given weight, surely one of the best ways to bring about this result is to effect the best organization that the local conditions will permit. To be sure, these conditions are not encouraging in many places outside of New York city, but where else have their possibilities, such as they are, been realized?

The major part of the credit for the success of the New York club, must, as our experience tells us, be given to its governing officers and committees, and we take pleasure in giving in the article the names of the officers and heads of committees for the coming year. Mr. Shearn may well be proud of his re-election to the presidency of the club. In our account of the reception given by the club to Andrew D. White, appearing in the issue of November 6, 1901, Mr. Shearn's name was, to our great regret, misspelled. He is too well known among the alumni to make this correction necessary, and our purpose in calling attention to it is simply to free our own consciences.

The attention of our alumni whom business or pleasure calls to New York city several times during the year is directed to the advantages afforded by non-resident membership to the club. The hotel privileges in themselves are quite sufficient to warrant the payment of the small annual dues, to say nothing of the opportunity afforded one to be for the length of one's stay in a center of Cornell life. We can think of nothing pleasanter for one who is unable to re-visit Ithaca itself.

Bearing in mind the enthusiastic appreciation of the club that we have, its members will surely pardon us if we urge them to take a livelier interest in the Medical College than they have up to the present time manifested. The College building is situated on the corner of First avenue and Twenty-eighth street. It is a magnificent structure and will well repay a visit. We have been authorized to extend through the columns of the ALUMNI NEWS a cordial invitation to the alumni to visit the College, and special arrangements have been made for the reception of visitors. It will be of advantage to the University to have the medical students, the majority of whom have never seen our beloved Campus, feel that they are only a small part of a larger body of Cornellians. Perhaps nothing could be more effective in inculcating in them a love for Alma Mater than for them to realize that Cornellians generally take an appreciative interest in their work and in their beautiful building. This interest can scarcely be better shown than by personal visits to the College. While these remarks apply to any Cornellians visiting New York city, they apply with peculiar force to the members of the New York Cornell Club. We trust that this suggestion will be acted upon by them.

THE MUSICAL CLUBS

Return From an Extended and Successful Western Trip.

On Saturday, December 28, at Buffalo, the musical clubs disbanded after an eight-day trip which took them as far west as Chicago. They were well received in all of the cities at which they stopped, but the enthusiasm of the Williamsport and Chicago audiences deserves special mention. The program in the NEWS of December 18, was followed substantially throughout the trip except that at Erie, Mr. Owen, leader of the mandolin club, rendered a mandolin solo in place of the regular number by the glee club quartette; at Buffalo, also, the quartette was omitted.

C. E. MOTT, '03,
Leader of the Glee Club.

The first stopping place of the clubs was Elmira where they gave a concert on Friday night, December 20, followed by a smoker tendered by the local alumni. The audience was not large but quite enthusiastic, and the clubs left, feeling that the trip had been well started. At Williamsport on Saturday, was scored one of the greatest successes of the tour. Again the audience was not large but it was the first appearance of the Cornell clubs in Williamsport, and the alumni apparently wanted them to come again. After the concert, the men were invited to the hotel where they were given a reception followed by one of the most enjoyable dances of the trip. At Erie, the clubs found a royal welcome. On Monday afternoon, Miss Hunter gave them a reception which was one of events of the Erie society season. The clubs in the evening played and sang to a good house in Scott's Hall, and later attended a dance in their honor. Tuesday evening found the men in Kalamazoo. The Cornell delegation there is not large and the visit of the clubs was not as successful as elsewhere.

Nowhere did the clubs more thoroughly enjoy their stay than at Chicago, where they were on Christmas day. To a fashionable audience they rendered an unusually successful concert in Studebaker Hall. The concert was preceded by several dinner parties given by Chicago society ladies including Mrs. Chalmers, Mrs. W. T. Carrington, Mrs. Charles Henriotin, Mrs. J. T. Noyes, Mrs. J. R. Winterbotham, Mrs. Hugh T. Birch, and Mrs. Potter Palmer. Later in the evening the Chicago alumni tendered the men a smoker at the Winter club. From Chicago the clubs jumped to Milwaukee. Here they were entertained by Mrs. and Henry Schoelkopf, '02. Joseph Uhlein, '00, escorted the entire party through the Schlitz brewery during the afternoon.

On the way east, Cleveland was visited, and society turned out en masse to attend the concert at Association Hall. It was a great success, the numbers being encored repeatedly. Many of the local alumni attended.

When the clubs reached Buffalo on Saturday, the twenty-eighth, they had begun to show the effects of excessive singing, social functions, and constant travelling. The concert, however, was well received, although the audience was neither large nor demonstrative. The Buffalo concert was the last of the trip and was the only event in which the clubs figured during their short stay in that city.

As a whole the trip was only an ordinary one; neither musically nor in the general impressions left upon the cities visited, was it any more successful than many which have preceded it. There were some unusual features, however, which deserve mention. As the readers of the NEWS are aware, the banjo club this year was abandoned, the management believing that the time and expense put upon this club would, if placed at the disposal of the mandolin club, result in a higher standard for the latter, which has usually been the more successful of the two. Consequently Mr. George L. Coleman, leader of the Lyceum orchestra of Ithaca, was engaged as director of the mandolin club, this being the first year the club has had any coaching other than that of the leader. There was a noticeable improvement in the playing of the club, but it can hardly be said to have surpassed those of recent years. Just before they left Ithaca, Director Dann stated that this year's glee club was one of the best he had ever sent out, and their work on the trip justified the assertion. The solos of Mr. Mott, '03, and Mr. Culver, '02, were especially successful. Most of the glee club's humorous songs, notably, "Love's Hypnotism" and "Dixie Land", never failed to catch the audiences. The mandolin club's "Medley" and the rendering of "The Rosary" were also popular.

J. J. OWEN, '03,
Leader of the Mandolin Club.

Following are the names of those composing the clubs. Glee club:

"All-America" Football.

Walter Camp writing for the sporting department of Collier's Weekly chooses an All-America football eleven from the teams of the past season as follows:

End—Campbell, Harvard.
Tackle—Cutts, Harvard.
Guard—Warner, Cornell.
Center—Holt, Yale.
Guard—Lee, Harvard.
Tackle—Bunker, West Point.
End—Davis, Princeton.
Quarter—Daly, West Point.
Half-back—Kernan, Harvard.
Half-back—Weekes, Columbia.
Full-back—Graydon, Harvard.

Mr. Camp also places Hunt and Purcell at guard and half-back respectively on the second eleven. He comments as follows upon these men; "The position of guard this season * * * has had men of experience whose work has been what that of the guard needs most to be—consistent and conscientious. Warner of Cornell has done the most work in this place. Warner was a strong, aggressive guard and conceded by his opponents to be one of the hardest players to handle. Hunt was patterned after his captain and many believed would if facing on some other team, have given him a difficult job. He was good in interference, and could himself advance the ball. Purcell was a strong defensive player and a fast calculating runner. He had also the merit of keeping his feet well and always taking his opening."

Other Cornell men mentioned by Mr. Camp for good work the past season are Taussig, Lueder, Kent Brewster, Coffin, and Schoellkopf.

In the Outing for January appears Caspar Whitney's choice for the "All-America" team, as follows:

End—Bowditch, Harvard.
Tackle—Cutts, Harvard.
Guard—Barnard, Harvard.
Center—Bachman, Lafayette.
Guard—Hunt, Cornell.
Tackle—Blagden, Harvard.
End—Snow, Michigan.
Quarter—Daly, West Point.
Half-back—Kernan, Harvard.
Half-back—Morley, (captain) Columbia.
Full-back—Graydon, Harvard.

For substitute quarter, Mr. Whitney chooses Brewster of Cornell. Further comment in the Outing upon these men is as follows: Hunt "is one of the coming players, strong, alert, a fine ground gainer." Brewster "punts as well as Daly, and is the most deadly interferer of all the quarter-backs of the year." In general the Outing has this to say of the season at Cornell: "Cornell had the best team in her history, although it averaged in weight about ten pounds less per man than Princeton or Yale, and about twenty pounds less than Harvard. What it lacked in weight, however, it made up in strength, speed and a good system of play. A hard, well-varied attack, cleaving the line of heavier opponents, instead of trying to push it back, and giving the preference to runs between tackle and end, never failed to gain substantial ground except in the second half of the Princeton game, when the latter retained the ball and did most of the ground gaining."

Barnes Hall Notes.

During the past few days the Christian Association has been carrying out its annual work of receiving the winter course students in Agriculture and making as smooth as possible their entrance into the University community. When the students arrived in Ithaca, they were assisted in securing quarters and in other ways. On Saturday evening, a reception to the new students was given in Barnes Hall. About sixty of the men were present and spent a pleasant two hours in forming acquaintances and in meeting their professors. A large part of the faculty of the College of Agriculture, including Dean Roberts, Professor Craig, Professor Wing, Professor Stone, Mrs. Comstock and others were present. Some of the women students of the University assisted at the reception and served the refreshments. After a pleasant social hour, several of the faculty including Professors Roberts, Craig and Wing and Miss VanRensselaer, spoke informally to the students, and William C. Geer, '02, president of the Christian Association, welcomed them to the freedom and privileges of Barnes Hall.

On Sunday at 3 o'clock, a meeting was held for the new students in Barnes Hall and about fifty were present. H. S. Braucher, '03, addressing the meeting. At its close a Bible class in the life of Christ was organized and about a dozen men have already registered in it. The association has also arranged to throw open its membership to the winter term students for a moderate fee.

Next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, R. S. Miller, '88, formerly general secretary of the Christian Association, will give an address on "Student Christian Work in the New Japan." Mr. Miller was for several years engaged in Y. M. C. A. work among the Japanese colleges and is now secretary of the U. S. Legation at Tokyo. He is in this country on a brief visit and will return to Japan March 1.

Professor Harry H. Powers delivered an address in Westminster Church, Buffalo, on Sunday, January 5, in a series upon sociological questions.
