CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS

VOL. XXV. No. 35

ITHACA, N. Y., JUNE 7, 1923

PRICE 12 CENTS

ALL classes stopped last Saturday, and the next period is given to the final Block Week of the school year, with practically no social or other gatherings of any sort until the festivities of Commencement.

THE GLEE CLUB recently gave a program in the community building of the Ithaca Social Service League.

STUDENTS, members of the Faculty, and others, have signed a petition endorsing Harry Emerson Fosdick, through a document left for signing in the Coffee House.

SENIOR SINGING, the best in years, was broadcast last week from the sending station in Franklin Hall. The receiver was set just back of the Andrew Dickson White Statue, and the sound was carried by a temporary wire stretched through the trees of the grove to the transmitting apparatus, and from there into the air. Those who hear the singing by wireless, on Thursday or Sunday evenings, are asked to write to Professor W. C. Ballard.

BUGGY RIDING has suddenly become popular, and sequestered dirt roads around Ithaca are being traveled more than usual. One favorite, and very safe, livery animal used to work on a rural mail route; when left to her own devices she meanders from one side of the road to the other, stopping at each of the galvanized iron boxes.

WOMEN STUDENTS, through the Women's Self-Government Association, have petitioned the Cornell Daily Sun to devote more space to news of women's activities, and to give at least two columns in each issue into the sole charge of the woman editor.

THE AUBURN Short Line, according to the latest developments, is likely to be sold to a group of local patrons and shippers along the line.

BUILDINGS at the junction of University Avenue and Mill Street, including the old Jeff Beardsley House, have been torn down preparatory to parking the area which they occupy. This change gives an unobstructed view into the falls of Cascadilla Creek; it was made possible by the generosity of Robert H. Treman '78, who bought the land and deeded it to the University.

THE LEHIGH VALLEY Railroad has started the erection of a tower from which closing gates will be operated at West State, Seneca, and Buffalo Streets, where they cross the Lehigh Valley tracks.

ON JULY 1, in accordance with the bill recently signed by Governor Smith, the Geneva Experiment Station comes under direction of the Trustees of Cornell.

THE FIRST DROWNING of the summer season was recorded when Allen Corbin, aged eleven, a son of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Corbin, colored, employees of Theta Delta Chi, walked beyond his depth in the swimming pool near the old fish hatchery in Cascadilla Creek.

KAPPA PHI, the second local fraternity to become nationalized this spring, on May 25 and 26 was installed as Theta Chapter of Delta Sigma Phi.

SENIOR WOMEN, Dean Georgia L. White '96, and the Misses Gertrude H. Nye and Grace Seely gave a reception to members of the Faculty and other friends on May 29 at Sage College. Students in the gymnasium classes gave a number of dances on the lawn, lighted by spotlights from the balconies.

GRADUATE WOMEN of the University have elected the following officers for the coming year: Julia Dale, president; Dorothy Willison, first vice-president; Violet Graham, second vice-president; Mary S. Steel, secretary; and Reta Dielmann, treasurer.

SATURDAY was Field Day in Ithaca. The Boy Scouts held one at Stewart Park; the Campfire Girls at Buttermilk Falls; the Confederation of Zonta Clubs adjourned from Elmira to the gymnasium of the Ithaca School of Physical Education; and the Italians of the city made use of the fairgrounds.

SAGE CHAPEL will be the scene of the wedding of Miss Eleanor Bedell, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Frederick Bedell, and Robert Cady Burt of Battle Creek, Michigan, on June 19.

HIAWATHA was not a member of the Ojibway Tribe, but a lawgiver of the Iroquois in the fifteenth century, and a native of the "Finger Lakes Region," according to a new booklet written by Ross W. Kellogg '12 and published by the Finger Lakes Association. It is even said that Longfellow's famous character actually founded the Six Nations, which early inhabited the country of the lakes.

OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD spoke to the members of the New York State Publishers Association in Ithaca last Monday, and a number of the members of the Faculty were invited to hear him, at a luncheon at the Ithaca Hotel.

LAST SATURDAY NIGHT was a large night in Ithaca, with crowds on the streets, the detonations of loud explosions and the glare of bombs and rockets. By many it was attributed to the celebrating of Governor Smith's signature on the repeal bill; others assumed that it was a make-up exam for field artillery practice; but really it was a field day of the Italian residents, coinciding with a meeting of the Zonta Clubs, sometimes known as the Lady Rotarians.

THE ALUMNI NEWS regrets to announce that owing to an unfortunate oversight, which was not, however, due to carelessness, it was erroneously stated (p. 408) that Van Breed Hart was recently elected to Sigma Xi.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM JARVIS, builder of the first six-oared boats used by the Cornell crews in their notable early victories at Saratoga in the seventies, died in Ithaca on May 20. He learned boat-building in England, where he was born in 1841, and conducted a shop and boat livery at Renwick Park for more than a quarter of a century, selling out about five years ago to Fred Johnson, who has succeeded to the business.

MISS KATE HALL '24, Architecture, from Syracuse, is the winner of the Sampson Fine Arts Prize.

DELTA SIGMA RHO, national honorary debating society, has elected Sidney A. Goldstein '24 of Brooklyn, Carleton C. Kirchner '24, of Poughkeepsie, Willis Dixon Morgan '23, of Sprakers, and Milton Rosenkrantz '24, of West Hoboken, New Jersey, to membership in the organization. All are in the Arts College.

THE CORNELL ORCHESTRA played at the East High School in Rochester early in May.

UNDER THE WILL of Susan Curtis Woodford, who died at her home in New York on April 27, Cornell University is made a contingent legatee of a trust fund of $140,000. The income is left to her adopted daughter, aged nine, but if she dies without issue the principal then comes to Cornell. Miss Woodford was the daughter of Stewart L. Woodford, formerly Lieutenant Governor of the State of New York and for many years a member of the Board of Trustees. He was the donor of the Woodford Prize in oratory.

THE SENIOR BANQUET is scheduled to be held in the Old Armory on the night of June 12.

WOMEN STUDENTS have been engaged recently in making a collection of old clothes from their dormitories and rooming-houses; and the salvaged garments will be used in Near East Relief.

LA TERTULLIA ESTUDIANTINA, an organization of those in the Spanish classes of the University, presented on May 23 the Spanish comedy "Zaragüeta."

ADD '19 NAMES

"Fuzzy" Seelbach, secretary of the Class of '19, supplements the list of reuners published last week with the following names, and announces a ball game and golf tournament with 1918 Saturday morning, June 16. A class smoker will be held at the west side of Baker cafeteria immediately following the alumni singing on Friday evening. The latest additions to the list are: "Obie" O'Brien, H. C. Vogel, Chauncey Stewart, N. Brookmire, R. H. Collacott, C. H. Banta, Peter Vischer, E. Dicker, C. Ennis, G. A. Spader, L. C. Ringe, C. B. Fraser, Charles C. Porter, Jr., John W. Ross, E. L. Duffies, F. W. Loede, Jr., A. L. Smith, H. B. Hoffman, and W. L. Chapin.

MORE '08 MEN COMING

Twenty-five or thirty more names of members of the Class of '08 who will be back for the reunion June 15-17 are added to the list published in our issue of May 24. The committee is scouring the country and promises that many more will be in Ithaca. Those who have said they were coming since the last list are Seth W. Shoemaker, William G. Mennen, Fred B. Townsend, R. W. Sailor, Paul O'Brien, Max W. Davis, Grandison N. Frisbie, H. N. Boyajohn, G. W. Lewis, Archie G. Rockwell, John W. Holt, Christopher P. Cox, Joseph N. Pew, Jr., Henry Burr, John M. Prophet, Isidore E. Wolf, William J. Henry, C. S. Sweeney, V. L. Whitehead, A. J. Boardman, Hamilton White, John V. Jacoby, Donald Stewart, M. B. Rosevear, Walter F. Masland, Ray Van Orman, William G. Moorman.

'93 COMING BACK

Although there has been too little time since the last letter went out to hear from all the members of the Class of '93, the Committee are counting on the following to be here on June 15-17:

Sibson, Jackson, Andrews, Gilbert, Moss, Hoxie, Insull, Berresford, Hale, Cavanaugh, Greene, Harrold, Hill, Howland, Miss Fitzpatrick, Miss Hull, Ladd, Northrup, Stebbins, Ernest White, Rollin White, Katte, Wing, Cushman, Ballantyne, Shriver, Ashby, Ripley, Von Schrenck, and Gardinier. And many wives, sisters, sons and daughters.

Here is a loyal nucleus of thirty which will be considerably augmented as further returns come in. Other members of the class are urged to write in at once or telegraph that proper reservations may be made. But even if you don't find time to write or wire, when June 14 rolls round pack your black bag, leave your troubles at home, smile, and board the train or Bill's auto for Ithaca. We will take care of you. And don't forget to bring your Cornell son or daughter, if a student here now, to the dinner as the guest of the Class. We will line them up and see how we looked quite a few years since.

We fill a whole paragraph with the joyful news that Prexie Adams has made his reservations. It's worth it.

SPORT STUFF

This is a special urge to you to come back to the reunion on June 15 and 16.

It doesn't make any difference whether or not your own class is getting together. Come back anyway. There will be men of your time here whatever your vintage and it's impossible for anyone to remain a maverick more than ten minutes. Some class is sure to get its brand on you.

There is a comfortable bed in the dormitory waiting for your exclusive use. There are three square meals that have been specially designed for you. There is a reunion bus waiting to pick you up and take you anywhere at any time. There are any number of defective quartettes needing just one more man to be practically perfect.

All you have to do is arrive. After that your personal responsibility ends. The machine sucks you up at that point and handles you until the time comes for you to take the train home.

Come back and get acquainted with your youth again. Come back and sit under the stars again with the old gang while the night breezes from the lake. Carry across the Library slope the smell of roses and the faint notes of "Matilda Ann from Beaver Dam."

The boys have named the new baseball field after Mr. Hoy. This ought to make it easier to handle alumni traffic at the reunion games. Old Grads will now instinctively line up at the gate in an orderly way, remove their hats and hold their tickets in their hands.

ALUMNAE BREAKFAST SATURDAY

An event recently scheduled for the reunion program is the alumnae breakfast Saturday morning, June 16, at 7.45 at the Home Economics Cafeteria. Alumnae of all classes are invited to attend. Senior women will tell about various women's activities on the Campus and a general get-acquainted program is planned.

TWIN NINETEEN REUNION

Girls of 1919! Have you bought your ticket to Ithaca for the night of June 14? Better do it now! There will be not only old friends to greet you, but new friends to meet you. Lay aside your cares and come join in a three days' playtime just cramful of pleasures. This is our last reunion until 1928. Don't break the date you have with Twin Nineteen for June 15, 16, 17.

BETTY REIGART.

ATHLETICS

Name Hoy Field

Cornell's baseball park has been officially christened Hoy Field in honor of Registrar David Fletcher Hoy '91, who for nearly a quarter of a century has been baseball adviser on the Athletic Council. Formal decision to that effect was reached by the Council last Friday night, but informally such action had long been favored.

At this meeting the council also awarded the varsity letter to the following:

Track: H. D. Niles, G. D. Crozier, T. C. Hennings, W. F. Bernart, A. Rauch, A. C. Conradi, A. J. Leussler, M. Smith, O. C. Jaeger, R. G. Watt, C. K. Greening, G. L. Weissenburger, K. McBain and H. L. Ebersole.

Crew: C. F. Kells, R. O. Egeberg, C. N. Strong, E. A. Calleson, W. L. Hearn, E. V. Baker, J. Purcell, M. W. Filius, B. J. Nicholson.

Lacrosse: Joseph Rooney, C. W. Stainton, R. F. Hall, F. L. Sundstrom, C. E. Cassidy, S. E. Sisco, K. E. Paine, Bernard Meyer, E. P. Diehl, P. D. Clark, J. K. Bridgen, G. Hall, C. H. Sherbler, L. L. Lifshay, E. M. Veghte.

Tennis: M. H. Barredo.

The Council elected E. W. Mellinger '24 of Leetonia, Ohio, manager of the baseball team. W. Y. Naill '25 of Hanover, Pennsylvania, was chosen assistant baseball manager, R. W. Moulton '15 of Quincy, Massachusetts, assistant manager of freshman baseball, and E. B. Dennis, Jr., '25 of Crisfield, Maryland, baseball representative on the Interscholastic Council.

S. W. Pickering '24 of East Orange, New Jersey, was made manager of track and G. B. Catlin '25 of Detroit, Michigan, was elected assistant manager of track. E. M. Dorris '25 of Buffalo, New York, was chosen assistant manager of freshman track and F. B. Stellwagen '25 of Brooklyn, New York, track representative on the Interscholastic Council.

Defeat Syracuse Again

The baseball team made it two straight over Syracuse by defeating the Orange on Hoy Field Saturday by a score of 10 to 8. This was a free hitting affair, each team being compelled to change pitchers. Cornell batted Granai from the mound in the fourth inning, having secured six hits, while Heckle, who succeeded him, fared no better, allowing nine hits.

The Orange batters fell on Henderson unmercifully in the fourth frame, making five runs. Henderson, who was benched then, had allowed eight hits in all, but Brown, who succeeded him, had the visitors at his mercy after the fourth inning, allowing but three hits.

Bunched hits in the seventh and eighth innings won the game for Cornell.

At Philadelphia on Memorial Day the team lost the first of the series with Pennsylvania, the Quakers winning by a score of 7 to 3. Yadusky held Cornell to six hits, Fox the first baseman, getting three of them. Brown started on the mound for Cornell but was relieved by Henderson in the fifth.

Kirby Track Captain

The Cornell Track captain for 1923-24 is Edward G. Kirby of Newark, N. J., a junior in Civil Engineering and perhaps the greatest mile runner Coach Moakley has developed since John Paul Jones.

Kirby was elected at a meeting of the team on Saturday.

Kirby ran on his freshman team, showing promise. Making the varsity in his sophomore year, he placed third in the mile championships in indoor and outdoor intercollegiates.

Last winter he again placed third in the mile in the indoor Intercollegiates and came fast after that, winning the mile decisively in the outdoor championship games held at Franklin Field on May 26. In that race his time was 4 minutes 17 4-5 seconds, very fast going, which has been beaten by only two other Cornellians, John Paul Jones and L. V. Windnagle.

Freshmen Close Season

The Cornell freshman nine closed a successful season Saturday by walloping the Pennsylvania freshman team by a score of 17 to 2 on Hoy Field. Milligan pitched a fine game for the Cornell yearlings, striking out fifteen men and allowing but four hits. After the third inning the game developed into a batting fest for the Cornell youngsters, who knocked Long out of the box and treated his successor, Edison, with equal severity.

DR. OTTO H. SCHULTZE, professor of medical jurisprudence in the Cornell Medical College, is a recent advocate of plain talk for common understanding, deprecating professional cant and jargon. "Don't try to pass off suppositions," he says, "with high-sounding generalities such as 'toxic psychosis.'" It has been stated that Dr. Schultze is the original of "Craig Kennedy, scientific detective," the hero of Arthur B. Reeve's stories.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

New York

The Cornell Club of New York has elected a total of 314 new members in the last three months, since the beginning of the intensive membership campaign. Of these, 137 resident and 45 non-resident members were elected by the Board of Governors at its meeting on May 21. The May quota includes residents of China, Cuba, and France, breaking all records, both numerically and geographically. At the April meeting a resident of Canada was elected to membership.

At its March meeting the Board of Governors elected 37 resident and 14 non-resident members. In April 60 resident and 21 non-resident members were elected. A special campaign for membership is being conducted among Cornellians in Ithaca, and Dr. Harold Santee '04 is signing up graduates of the Medical College in New York.

The new Board of Governors of the Cornell Club of New York, which held its first meeting on May 21, consists of Neal D. Becker '05, Alexander C. Clogher '04, Egbert J. Moore '99, Robert H. White '15, James H. Edwards '88, John T. McGovern '00, Jansen Noyes '10, Winthrop Taylor '07, Willard I. Emerson '19, Thomas N. Page '07, Maxwell M. Upson '99, J. Dugald White '11, William W. Macon '98, Richmond H. Shreve '02, Walter H. McNeill, Jr., '09, and Hermann G. Place '16. At its meeting the Board elected the following officers of the Club for the coming year:

President, Neal D. Becker '05; vice-presidents, Robert H. Treman '78, Edwin N. Sanderson '87, J. DuPratt White '90, Charles H. Blair '97, and Walter C. Teagle '99; secretary, Robert W. White '15; treasurer, Alexander C. Clogher '04.

The names added to Club's membership roll at the May meeting of the Board of Governors follow:

OBITUARY

Frank S. Lord '88

Frank Stone Lord died in the Highland Hospital, Rochester, N. Y., on May 25.

He was born in New York City on September 3, 1866, and came to Cornell in 1884, receiving the degree of B. L. in 1888. He went to Rochester in 1890, and entered the service of the Post Office on September 13. He was advanced to the stamp window on March 1, 1906, and had served in that capacity since that time.

Lord was a member of Genesee Falls Lodge No. 507, F. and A. M. He was a loyal Cornellian and was well liked by all who knew him, both in and out of the Post Office. His cheery smile and cordial greeting will be greatly missed.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lena S. Lord, three sons, Raymond M., Frank L., and Ernest S. Lord, and two brothers, Sherman and George R. Lord.

John M. Nichols '92-3 Grad.

John Manson Nichols died at his home in Dorchester, Mass., on May 10, after an illness of several months. He was fifty-eight years old.

Mr. Nichols was born at Greene, Maine, the son of Charles F. and Martha Manson Nichols. At the age of sixteen he was graduated from the Lewiston, Maine, High School, and entered Bates College, graduating in 1885. Then he accepted an appointment as sub-master of the Rochester, N.H., High School, and from there he went to Middletown, Conn., as assistant principal of the High School. Upon resigning his position there he spent two years in graduate work at Harvard, coming to Cornell in 1892 and remaining one year.

From 1893 to 1900 he was principal of the High School at Peabody, Mass.; during the next two years he was principal of the Jordan High School in Lewiston, Maine, going to Portland, Maine, in 1902, as principal of the Deering High School. He resigned that position in 1910 to accept a position in the Roxbury, Mass., Latin School, going from there to Somerville, and after a year in that place he accepted the principalship of the High School at Norwell, Mass.

Although an able student of languages, Mr. Nichols was a successful instructor in mathematics and sciences. He was a great lover of birds and bird life, and had a fine private collection of mounted birds, including many rare specimens. He was a member of the Audubon Society of America, and had among his collection of books one of the original sets of Audubon. He is the author of "A Foundation for Caesar," a textbook used in many college preparatory schools.

Surviving him are his widow, two daughters, Ruth, a graduate of Radcliffe College, and Esther, a senior in Boston University, and a brother, Charles J. Nichols, an attorney of Portland, Maine.

Raymond H. Fuller '11

The Rev. Raymond Henry Fuller died at his home in Buffalo on May 22. He had been in poor health for some time.

Fuller was born on August 5, 1899, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fuller of Rochester, N. Y. He prepared at West High School, Rochester, and entered Cornell in 1907, receiving his A. B. degree in 1911, and spending the following term in graduate work. He was a member of the Owls Club, the Genesee Valley Club, the English Club, and Civic Club, of which he was vice-president in his junior and senior years, and served on the Era board in his sophomore year, becoming managing editor the following year, and editor-in-chief in his senior year. He was a member of the Class Day Committee and of Phi Beta Kappa.

For a short time he was with the Rochester Railway and Light Company and taught English in the Rochester Evening High School. In 1914 he went to Washington and was an editor with the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture. In 1917 he entered the officers' training camp at Fort Myer, Va., receiving a commission as second lieutenant in the Quartermaster Corps, National Army, and being assigned to Camp Lee, Va. There he was a reporter on The Bayonet, the official newspaper of the 80th Division. Then he was transferred to Camp Joseph E. Johnston, Jacksonville Fla., and after being promoted to first lieutenant he was assigned to the Historical Branch, War Plans Division, General Staff, Washington, receiving his discharge from the service on February 1, 1919. He assisted Lieut. Col. H. H. Sargent, U.S.A., in the preparation of his book, "The Strategy of the Western Front."

In the fall of 1919 he entered the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, Mass., as a junior, and was elected president of St. John's Society, the student association of the school, for the year 1920-21. On February 19, 1921, he was ordained to the diaconate of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in St. Luke's Church, Rochester, and on June 16, 1921, he was graduated from the Theological School, with the degree of B. L. cum laude. Then he went to Buffalo as associate chaplain with the Church Extension Society, and on March 19, 1922, he was ordained to the priesthood in the Chapel of Holy Innocents, Buffalo. He continued his duties for a short time as associate civic chaplain and chaplain of the Episcopal Church Home, becoming curator of St. John's Episcopal Church last September.

He was unmarried.

PROFESSOR RALPH S. HOSMER attended the banquet given in Ann Arbor on May 28 by the foresters of Michigan to Professor Filibert Roth, who is soon to retire from active service at the University of Michigan.

FACULTY NOTES

WE extract the following from The M. A. C. Record for May 21: "Dick J. Crosby '93, who has been teaching at Cornell and doing research work on extension methods, is spending the present college year on sabbatical leave, making a study for the committee on instruction of the Land Grant College Association into the means which can be taken to promote higher scholarship among the colleges. Crosby states that the inauguration of the point system and the plan whereby students are separated into sections according to ability in mathematics and English are the two greatest steps M. A. C. has taken in this regard."

PROFESSOR WALTER F. WILLCOX, according to a statement in the Charlotte (North Carolina) Observer, says that the negro is dying at a rate, in northern States, that can but forecast the utter extinction of the race in those latitudes. This paper deduces from Professor Willcox's figures that the negro should remain in the South. The figures quoted indicate that in every one of the northern States negro deaths outnumber births, while in the southern States it is just the other way. In 1790, at the time of the first census, negroes constituted one-fifth of the population; in 1920 they furnished one-tenth. The conclusion of the article is, "better a home in the South with plenty of 'hog and hominy,' and the average human span, than a 'job' in the North for a few dollars a day and a hole in the ground for a permanency."

PROFESSOR KARAPETOFF was one of the speakers on May 24 before the Lehigh Valley Section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, at Bethlehem, Pa., on "Recent Electrical Research."

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

THE LIBRARIAN of Pennsylvania, Asa Don Dickinson, has recently appealed to the alumni and friends of Pennsylvania for increased support of his library, and in this connection he publishes the following statistics: The largest American university libraries to-day are Harvard, with 2,188,000 volumes; Yale, 1,515,000; Columbia, 833,000; Cornell, 673,000; Chicago, 647,000; Pennsylvania, 534,000; Michigan, 498,000; Princeton, 492,000; Illinois, 481,000; California, 473,000; Minnesota, 380,000; Stanford, 348,000; and Wisconsin, 304,000; average, 720,000. In order of size of appropriations for books, the universities rank as follows: Harvard, $112,000; Columbia, $84,000; Michigan, $64,000; Illinois, $62,000; Wisconsin, $60,000; Chicago, $57,000; Yale, $56,000; Princeton, $47,000; California, $46,000; Nebraska, $37,000; Stanford, $37,000; Minnesota, $35,000; Cornell, $34,000; Pennsylvania, $33,000; average, $55,000.

NAMING THE NEW BALL FIELD

NAMING a field or a building after one who is still living is a pretty custom. It takes none of the pleasure from the heirs, and yet gives the godfather an opportunity for such enjoyment as he can get from the contemplation of it while still occupying his mortal coil. As encouragement to unselfish devotion it should be highly efficient. One might almost suggest naming "for life or good behavior" and passing the compliment along.

The naming of the baseball field after David Fletcher Hoy, who is Registrar, is a happy thought. To those of the minority who have stepped up to his desk and tried to slip something over on him, something less peaceful than a ball field might seem more appropriate—a boxing arena, a bull pit, or the college abattoir. It is his instinct for the detection of crime and his frank disregard for the late Marquis of Queensbury that have won him a prominent place in song and story. His renown at repartee concerning entrance requirements has spread of its own weight and the popular superstition is that Mr. Hoy hangs out in "Morrull Num—burr Three" and personally sends out bust notices. Nothing could be further from the truth. He doesn't. He hasn't seen a bust notice for at least ten years. Perhaps it is much longer. There are those who think he still could do it adequately if he set his mind to it.

A much larger group have never seen the entrance requirement side of Mr. Hoy and, after having unlearned most of the popular belief, have come to know him as the benign patron saint of baseball, the man who for years has been the Faculty representative for this sport on the Athletic Council, the confidant of the players, managers, and coaches, the man who thinks baseball whenever he hasn't anything urgent that requires his attention.

We do not seem to hear the students of the future reverently referring to the baseball field as Hoy Field. It requires no great run of the imagination, however, to hear them speak of it as Davy Field, one-tenth in semi-superstitious irreverence, and nine-tenths in genuine affection.

Farrand at Trinity Church

President Speaks at Special Services in Connection With Trinity College Centennial

An unusual compliment was paid Cornell University in the invitation extended to President Farrand to speak at the special services held at Trinity Church, New York, on Sunday, May 27, in connection with the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the founding of Trinity College. President Farrand is one of the few laymen who have ever spoken from the pulpit of Trinity Church.

The threat of national complacency and of popular intolerance was described as a stumbling block to America's progress by the President.

"The most disquieting phenomena of the times is the outbreak of intolerance and the reign of prejudice which seems to have seized the American people," President Farrand said. "The right of the majority to rule is conceived of as a charge to translate a prevalent and often ill-formed opinion into a code of conduct to which all must conform. This menace is not confined to one single group. East and West our legislative halls echo with the wrangling which narrow, restrictive, and sumptuary legislation must always cause."

Two influences stand out with promise for the future, said President Farrand. These are education and religion, and, broadly conceived, these two are not to be held apart; for, as knowledge without idealism has proved so often a false guide, so ignorance will always nullify highest aspirations.

LITERARY REVIEW

Before Columbus

North America in Days of Discovery.
By A. J. Fynn, University of Denver.
With an Introductory Note by Livingston Farrand. Boston. Richard G. Badger. 1923. 21.2 cm., pp. 277. 6 plates. Price, $2, net.

This book comes to fill a distinct place and meets a long-felt need. There has been much work done on the early history of life on the Western Continent, but it has hitherto remained chiefly in the form of scattered articles and monographs, inaccessible to the great public of general readers. Dr. Fynn has therefore rendered good service in bringing together these scattered facts and putting them together so attractively. The book is as entertaining as a story.

Indeed, it is a story—not fiction, but as true and far more strange. How many of us, for example, as we speed westward in the comfortable Pullman on our journey to the Coast, have reflected or realized that the route of the shining rails was carefully selected not by the surveyors, not by the early settlers in Iowa or Colorado or California, not by the Indian, not indeed by the eye of man, but by the buffalo! One does not say this, of course, of every foot of railway or macadam; but it has long been recognized as true of the great general routes, not only eastern and western but northern and southern as well.

At this point, however, we must rise for information. Dr. Fynn says that the general appearance of the buffalo, wherever found, "has been anything but handsome." There is, then, in his mind a norm of beauty in the type of animal to which the buffalo belongs, to which the buffalo does not approach. Where does Dr. Fynn get this norm, and by what right or authority does he order or expect us to think likewise? Suppose it is the ordinary domestic bull. But what if one should maintain that it is the bull that is ugly and not the buffalo? The point is that such statements have, we think, no place in such a work. If the author has the opinion that the bison carries off the palm for beauty, it is only his opinion, and is not on the same plane with other statements of fact, e.g. that "the weight of the (buffalo) bull was from sixteen to eighteen hundred pounds."

Fascinating indeed are the chapters on travel. One gets a new notion of the aboriginal intelligence from the many varieties of boat used in different parts of the country—kayak, umiak, dugout, birch-bark canoe, pirogue, bull boat, balsa. Land travel, like that by water, was a response to several great urges—avoidance of heat or cold, search for food or water, desire of barter. Most interesting is the manner in which the travel routes have been influenced by the great physical facts of lake and stream, mineral deposits, trees and deserts, medicinal springs, abundance of animal or vegetable life for food.

Then the infinite variety of human life and achievement before the white man came! Stupid Tlinkit, warlike Mohave, fierce Apache, pious Navaho, homekeeping, intelligent Iroquois—who shall say how much Nature did to make these Indians what they were?

Of the treatment of the redmen by the whites, the less said the better. Crimes there were on both sides, not the least of which was the bringing of firewater. What we need to-day above all else is intelligence, knowledge of the facts, sympathy, a desire to give the Indian a square deal in our thought of and dealing with him.

Finally, how much longer must we wait for the chair of anthropology which some wealthy alumnus, let us say as a compliment to the President, is going to endow on the Hill? No new chair that we can think of is so much needed.

Books and Magazine Articles

Samuel M. Thomson '14 is the joint author, with C. L. Folger, of "The Commercial Apple Industry of North America," published by the Macmillans as one of the Rural Science Series edited by Dr. L. H. Bailey.

The frontpiece to Bird-Lore for March-April is a beautiful colored plate of four orchard orioles by Louis A. Fuertes '97. Professor Arthur A. Allen '07 writes on "Bird Communities" and on "April in the Marshes."

The Bangor and Aroostock Railroad has published a useful and beautifully illustrated book of 160 pages entitled "In the Maine Woods," including not only the article on "Dry-Fly Fishing on the Sour-nahunk" by George K. Woodworth '96 of Boston, to which we recently referred, illustrated by a picture of Woodworth himself fishing, but also papers on "The Pull of Mount Katahdin," "Davis Pond," "Canoe Cruises," "Moosehead Lake," "Hunting Grounds for Big Game," "Bird-Shooting," "Sebec Lake," "Roosevelt's Favorite Lake" (Mattawamkeag), "The Allagash Trip," and "The Aroostock as a Fishing and Agricultural Country." While frankly propaganda, it is big value for ten cents, sent to the G. P. A. at Bangor, Me.

In School and Society for May 19 is printed the address on "Further Developments in the School of Education" delivered by Dean James E. Russell '87, of Teachers College, at the University of Iowa at the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the first department of education in an American university, on April 27 last.

In The Auk for April appears an important study of "Blue Feathers" by Professors Wilder D. Bancroft, Emil M. Chamot '91, and Ernest Merritt '86, and Clyde W. Mason. The studies on which it is based were made under a Heckscher Grant. A fuller account of the matter is to be published in The Journal of Physical Chemistry.

The Bryn Mawr Alumnae Bulletin for May includes a sketch of Mrs. Louise Hyman Pollak, Bryn Mawr '08, wife of Julian A. Pollak '07, of Cincinnati.

Dr. Leon A. Hausman '14, of Rutgers, has been named a contributing editor of the new "Compton's Encyclopaedia," a work in eight volumes designed for students of grammar and high schools. In the volumes which have lately appeared about seventy articles on general biological subjects are from Hausman's pen.

Commerce and Finance for May 16 contains a portrait of Warren D. Orvis, M.E. '06, of the firm of Orvis Brothers & Company, in connection with a study of Cotton Exchange activities. The firm was established in 1872 and is a member of the New York Stock, Produce, Cotton, and Coffee & Sugar Exchanges, the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade, and the Philadelphia Stock Exchange. The name of Orvis should be added to the list of Cornell bond dealers on page 390 of the ALUMNI NEWS.

In The Cornell Civil Engineer for May Professor Samuel L. Boothroyd, '04-8 Grad., describes "The Irving Porter Church Telescope of the Fuertes Observatory." H. C. Boyden, of the Portland Cement Association, continues his serial on "Recent Developments in Concrete." Professor Herbert H. Scofield '05 and Earle N. Burrows '07 discuss "End Bearing Strength of Wood on Surfaces Inclined to Fibers." All of these are illustrated. Vice-Dean Fred A. Barnes '97 reviews the second revised edition of "Engineering Economics" by Professor John Charles Lounsbury Fish '92, of Stanford.

The Cornell Independent, published by the Independent Association, has recently appeared with a discussion of problems that confront the non-fraternity students. It contains articles by President Farrand, Professors Bristow Adams and Charles V. P. Young '99, Coaches Moakley and Dobie, and others. The expressed purpose of the publication is to unite the independent students.

The Cornell Veterinarian for April includes the following articles: "Progress in Veterinary Education," Dean Veranus A. Moore '87; "The Present Status of So-called Cottonseed Injury," Professor Samuel Goldberg '14; "The Rate of Passage of Material Through the Digestive Tract," Professor Pierre A. Fish '90; "Lead Poisoning in Calves," Dr. Frederic W. Andrews '05, Mt. Kisco, N. Y.; "Intestinal Parasites of Dogs," Professor Howard J. Milks '04; "The Male as a Spreader of Genital Infections," Professor Walter L. Williams; "The Relation of Colostrum to Immunity of New-born Calves," Professor Jacob Traum '05, of the University of California; "Hemorrhagic Septicemia in Swine," Professor James W. Benner,

M.S. '20; "Natural and Artificial Immunity of Young Pigs to Hog Cholera," Professor Raymond R. Birch '12; "A Survey of Important Cases Handled in the Ambulatory Clinic of the N. Y. State Veterinary College," Professor Denny H. Udall '01, Edward R. Cushing '18, and Myron G. Fincher '20; "The Disposition of Tuberculin-Reacting Cows and Their Milk," Professor Traum.

"Words and Their Backgrounds" by Professor George H. McKnight '92, of Ohio State University, is appreciatively reviewed in the London Times Literary Supplement for April 19.

Professor Edwin D. Shurter '92, of the University of Texas, has written an introduction to the new "Textbook on Parliamentary Law" by Alta B. Hall and Alice Fleenor Sturgis, which the Macmillans have lately published.

In The Philadelphia Bulletin for May 14 Garret P. Serviss '72 maintains that "The School Teacher Is Worthy of a Lasting Memorial."

The New York Times for May 27 had a good picture of the intercollege races on the 19th.

In The Cornell Era for Spring Day R. Warren Sailor '07, of the ALUMNI NEWS, writes on "The First Spring Day and Others." Morris Bishop '13 tells "How One Man Won a $10,000 Job." This one article alone will undoubtedly sell many copies of this attractive issue.

Associate Alumni By-Law Amendments

'19, '21 ME—Daniel H. Beck is with the Phoenix Utility Company, Salt Lake City, and he is living at 562 Sixth Avenue, Beaver, Utah.

'19 AB—Ivan C. Dresser is one of the inventors of the Kracker-Kup, an edible cup, shaped like a drinking glass, which is made of cracker material and lined with pure chocolate. He says the idea came to him back in November, 1921, and he played around with it in his mind for several months. Then he decided to stake everything on it and with two companions who know the food business incorporated a small company and started to work out the formula and machinery. After four or five months they began to manufacture their product with two small hand machines in a "little hole in the wall" in New York. The entire output of these machines was sold in a short time to a few schools in New York, Brooklyn, and Yonkers, where milk and crackers were being sold to the children. That was nearly a year ago, and they have been selling to those schools ever since. During the trial period they have learned the ins and outs of their manufacturing and shipping problems and have designed the automatic machine which is expected to turn out twenty thousand cups a day. When this is put into operation, they intend to sell Kracker-Kups in cartons through the regular trade channels. The cracker of which the cup is made tastes much like a Nabisco wafer, and the cup is so made that one can bite out a piece without breaking the whole thing and spilling the contents. The chocolate lining adapts it for holding such a liquid as milk for a considerable length of time without soaking or leaking. The company is known as the Kracker-Kup Company, Inc., and the office is at 41 Perry Street, New York.

'19, '21 WA—Earl S. DeWitt is sales engineer and manager of the Baltimore office of the American Blower Company. He lives at 722 Wyndhurst Avenue, Baltimore.

'20—Donald F. Peck has resigned as town clerk of Bloomfield, N. J., a position which he has held for the past four years, to enter the real estate business in Bloomfield, under the firm name of Kierstead and Peck.

'20 AB—Since January 1, Abraham A. Zausmer has been with the National Cash Register Company, 247 West Fayette Street, Syracuse, N. Y., getting selling experience in the city territory preparatory to entering their sales school in August. He lives at 117 Marshall Street, Syracuse.

'20—Albert C. Dickson is associated with Lamborn and Company, 300 Murphy Building, Detroit; his residence address is 49 King Avenue.

'21, '22 BChem—Stuart N. Hyde is a salesman with H. Reeve Angel and Company, 7-11 Spruce Street, New York, makers of chemical filter papers. He went into that work immediately following his graduation, and after intensive training in filter paper manufacture and salesmanship he went on the road. Thus far he has covered only six States, but he expects eventually to complete practically the whole of the United States. Mail for him may be addressed to his home, 616 College Avenue, Elmira, N. Y., or in care of the company.

'21—Jesse D. Stark will spend the summer at Camp Arrowhead, Lake St. Catherine, Poultney, Vermont, in the capacity of counselor. His home address is 139 Third Street, Troy, N. Y.

'21 EE—Miss Elsie Lee MacIntosh of Philadelphia, and F. Earle Fairchild '21 were married on May 12 and are living at 19 Nutts Avenue, Phoenixville, Pa. Fairchild is engaged in research work with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

'21 BS—Miss Hilda Lee Goltz has changed her residence address to 955 Lafayette Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y. She is assistant biochemist in the State Institute for the Study of Malignant Diseases, 114 High Street, Buffalo.

'21 ME—Spencer T. Olin is chief inspector with the Western Cartridge Company, East Alton, Ill. He lives at 1128 State Street, Alton.

'21, '22 BS—Roy D. Gibbs will teach next year in the agricultural department of the Gouverneur, N. Y., High School.

'20, '21 CE—Paul E. Fitzpatrick is president of W. H. Fitzpatrick and Sons, Inc., general contractors; secretary and treasurer of the Seminole Construction Company, railroad construction; and second vice-president of the Depew and Lancaster Railroad. He has just been appointed by Governor Smith as a member of the advisory board of the New York State Insurance Fund, an honorary position carrying no salary. His mailing address is 1920 Seneca Street, Buffalo.

Let the Co-op. Deliver Your Candy

WHITMAN'S candy has been favorably known among students at Cornell for years. The "Shield" package we find is the best seller and the "Sampler" next. If you send candy to someone graduating send us the order and we will deliver a fresh box for you.

New Books

Adams
Life of Shakespeare
$7.50

You may think the life of Shakespeare has been very well and frequently written but the clearness and full treatment given in this book makes it of value to the reader of Shakespeare's works. Professor Adams is a member of the faculty at Cornell.

Young
Courtney & Cornell
Rowing, $1.50

"Cornell Rowing" is of interest to more than crew men past and present. Rowing at Cornell has always been closely related to Courtney. Courtney's life is interesting and in this book it is made especially so.
