A WOMAN GIVES A MAN

MORE planes might be named Diamond Lil if pilots and crews knew what this woman knows—that bombers wear jewels!

This woman is one of a little group of war workers whose job is producing synthetic jewels for electric aircraft instruments. The jewels are tiny bearings for moving parts which must be as accurate, and are almost as small, as the parts of a fine watch. They are made from glass by a secret process at a mass production rate, but each jewel must pass an inspection as exacting as a jeweler's appraisal of a precious stone. These jewels, which women are giving men to fly by, are given in painstaking devotion to precision—in manufacture and inspection.

The development of these jewels is an example of the application of General Electric research and engineering to small things, as well as large. Before the war, and before G-E scientists developed a special process for making these jewels synthetically from glass, we used sapphires for these bearings—importing many of them. Think what it would mean, with America's thousands of planes requiring millions of instruments, if we were still dependent upon a foreign source!

Small things perhaps, these jewels a woman gives a man—but in war, as in love, there are no little things. General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York.

This magnified glass jewel, one of several types, is actually smaller than a pin head. As one of the largest makers of aircraft instruments, and as a supplier of jewels to other instrument makers, General Electric is unofficial jeweler to many American planes.

Pin-up picture for the man who "can't afford" to buy an extra War Bond!

YOU'VE heard people say: "I can't afford to buy an extra War Bond." Perhaps you've said it yourself . . . without realizing what a ridiculous thing it is to say to men who are dying.

Yet it is ridiculous, when you think about it. Because today, with national income at an all-time record high . . . with people making more money than ever before . . . with less and less of things to spend money for . . . practically every one of us has extra dollars in his pocket.

The very least that you can do is to buy an extra $100 War Bond . . . above and beyond the Bonds you are now buying or had planned to buy.

In fact, if you take stock of your resources, and check your expenditures, you will probably find that you can buy an extra $200 . . . or $300 . . . or even $500 worth of War Bonds.

Sounds like more than you "can afford?" Well, young soldiers can't afford to die, either . . . yet they do it when called upon. So is it too much to ask of us that we invest more of our money in War Bonds . . . the best investment in the world today? Is that too much to ask?

Post-War Education Symposium Continues

By L. H. MacDaniels, PhD '17
Professor, Floriculture

POST-WAR education will be faced with many problems. One of these will be the immediate need for rehabilitation and vocational training. Another is the reorganization of education for the pattern of the future.

The immediate problems after this war will be in all probability be much the same as they were after the first world war in 1919-1920, when men returning from the armed forces sought further education to prepare themselves for civilian life. There will undoubtedly be a demand for short courses of a practical nature which will prepare men for professional work in the various fields. To meet this need there should be organized short courses resembling the winter courses which have been offered previously and which would be given at the practical level and not aimed to give any high degree of technical efficiency. Another need will be for what might be called a refresher course which would give those who were already in a profession prior to the war an opportunity to become familiar with the recent advances in the more technical phases of the professions.

The Department of Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture is planning to meet this immediate situation by offering practical short courses in commercial floriculture and nursery work immediately following the present war.

Must Educate for Living

As for the more advanced and technical courses, it seems unlikely that there will be drastic changes. For example, the facts of the basic plant sciences upon which horticulture is founded will not have been changed by the war and there seems to be no likelihood of any radical revision in teaching methods or in methods of presentation.

Considering the broader aspects of post war education, in my judgment there is a real need for a change of emphasis in education at the primary school, secondary school, and college level. In general, there should be more emphasis on improving living conditions and on the importance of such things as home surroundings and opportunity for worthwhile activities according to individual interests. The general thesis that "what we get out of life is the living of it" is in my judgment basically sound, and to achieve a better society more attention must be given to better living rather than so much to either merely earning a livelihood or giving disproportionate attention to the more abstract subjects, some of which at least as now organized have little relation to living. In the field of horticulture, this problem is relatively simple and involves the extension of the program of gardening as recreation and as a part of living. This would mean giving gardening instruction in the secondary schools on a par with the present courses in agriculture in the vocational secondary schools. This trend should also find expression in the improvement of the farmstead and the small home by careful planning and landscaping for use.

Need Individual Responsibility

The impact of the war in my judgment will be relatively less in horticulture than in many other lines. It has become increasingly evident during the war that if democracy is to function satisfactorily, there must be developed a far greater sense of responsibility in all its citizens. This should begin in the primary and secondary schools where individual responsibility for government should be emphasized in all possible ways. It is my impression that during the last decade there has been a tendency in both secondary schools and universities to decry or belittle democracy as a form of government and to make communism and other "isms" seem more attractive. The point to be emphasized continually is that in order to work, democracy assumes individual responsibility for government and much attention should be given to inculcating such responsibility; at the same time, of course, pointing out the weaknesses of the democratic system in

Vice President, American Airlines

I HESITATE to express myself in the broad field of education, since I recognize the complexity of the subject and frankly admit my unfamiliarity with it. Your inquiry is directed specifically at what changes the war should bring in education. In my opinion, the war, cataclysmic as it has been, will not make in the near future the substantial changes in the fundamental pattern of life that are frequently anticipated. In other words, the needs of education in the early post-war period will, I believe, be merely an expression and expansion of the needs which were evident long before the war.

For World Understanding

A prime objective of education, both national and international, must be the elimination of those barriers of custom, language, ignorance, and misinformation which have in the past bred misunderstanding, suspicion, envy, and hate, which are, I firmly believe, the prime causes of war no matter how well we may cloak the excuses under the headings of political, economic, social, or religious problems. We cannot legislate away these barriers to common understanding. They must be eliminated by education and enlightenment.

Tremendous forces are at work and the field of their effectiveness has been greatly increased by the worldwide activities of the war. Moving pictures, all forms of communication, all modes of transportation, and the wide dissemination of books and periodicals in foreign languages, are influences of the constructive type. Educational activities should line up squarely behind these influences and should promote Professor MacDaniels is on leave as head of the Department of Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture to serve as director of agricultural rehabilitation for the Near East Foundation abroad. His present headquarters is the American University of Beirut, Lebanon. His contribution to the Alumni News forum on Post-War Education was written just before he left Cornell last November.

Littlewood, our alumnus contributor this time, is vice-president in charge of engineering of American Airlines, Inc., with offices at La Guardia Field, New York City.

them in every constructive way. We must recognize, however, that these very forces will accentuate the problem by bringing closer together peoples unprepared for common understanding and mutual respect. The responsibility of education in this field is clear. Interchange of students should be encouraged. Every effort should be made to give foreign students and visitors in America real experience in the American way of life, just as we should arrange that Americans will enjoy corresponding opportunities in foreign lands.

Help Plan Careers

With respect to the particular training of American college students for maximum usefulness in the post-war world, I would suggest that we look at the problem primarily from the point of view of maximum benefit to the student and society, and neither from the point of view of the University nor of business or industry. I would suggest that college training be designed to fit the student eventually to achieve the maximum possible individual success in life. To this end a specific course of training should be given in what might be called "Post Graduate Planning," intended to guide the student in a definite program of acquiring experience and advancement. I strongly favor the wide application of the cooperative type of college education. The student is alternately exposed to the practical experience of business or industry, and the more cloistered influence of the educational institution. Experience with this type of education has definitely indicated an earlier appreciation of the practical problems of business and industry. The practical experience has undoubtedly aided in guiding the intermittent educational activities.

Another purpose of my suggested emphasis on a course in post graduate planning would be to disabuse some of the very unreal conceptions with which college graduates are frequently filled. Too many businesses and industries have acquired the services of too many college graduates without recognition of their future opportunities, and have found themselves over a period of years with a large number of dissatisfied college trained people for whom adequate opportunity did not exist. The college should guard the student against such programs which can only be classed as selfish and shortsighted on the part of the industries concerned.

In general, I would recommend that great emphasis be placed on the broad fundamentals of education and that specialization be deferred as far as possible into extended or postgraduate courses beyond the normal four-year period. A very large percentage of college students never pursue activities directly associated with their highly specialized courses of study. Engineers trained in highly specialized technical branches frequently end up as salesmen or in other remotely associated fields, and would have been greatly benefitted by a much stronger emphasis on the use of English, or foreign languages, or business law, or public speaking, or accounting, or economics. All engineers should be given more training in those general subjects so basic to the conduct of business or industry, and so essential to activities in any field of life. I would heartily encourage teaching the practical knowledge and use of foreign languages, history, and customs as a fundamental to the broadening scope of educational requirements.

For Freedom

TO ROMEYN BERRY:

Your able, aggressive exposition of the foundations of academic freedom, as reported in the New York World-Telegram for January 18, will undoubtedly get the support it deserves among your own alumni. I am enclosing a check for $5 to take the place of one of the checks that had a ball and chain attached to it. I hope you and your associates will continue to fight it out on the line you have chosen.

—ROBERT U. REDPATH, JR., Yale '28

Your January 15 ALUMNI NEWS writing made me madder than hell at the damn fools that spent four years on our Campus and didn't learn. I have read a lot that you have written, but nothing that hits so many nails on the head as this last one. Maybe you're the twentieth century Tom Paine just coming into his own. An article such as your last, aimed at our present day "sunshine patriots," would do more to win the war than 100-octane gasoline. It would have to make Time or Reader's Digest, of course. This is only a suggestion.

What I am really writing about is this: Some few years ago I had to skip a year in making my own pledge good to the endowment fund. It was a market outlook condition. For safety's sake I had to retrench as much as possible, and I felt it would be worth more to Cornell in the long run for me to do so. Ever since that year I have been intending to make it up. So I am enclosing my check for the amount, with this understanding. Use as much of it, to make up for the skunks who are objecting to our freedom by skipping out on their pledges, as is needed; then place the balance in the fund under my own name, and if this isn't enough to make up for the skunks, let me know. Yours for an institution of still higher learning, if possible.

—THOMAS MIDGLEY, JR. '11

Here's my check for $5 made out to Cornell University. I think you may have some satisfaction in turning it over to the University, in view of your delightful article in the January 15 CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS. Congratulations!

—VICTOR D. HERRIMAN '08

On behalf of the conservative, Republican, and independent thinkers among Cornell alumni, for whom I have no authority to speak, thanks for your declaration of independence from the tom-tom influence of the Hearsts and McCormicks of our generation. Taken with Dr. Day's factual statement on the same subject, it should close the discussion among Cornell alumni who profited, mentally and spiritually, from their exposure to the healthy and stimulating atmosphere of the Hill.—WILLIS M. ROSE '10

Can't resist writing to tell you how much I enjoyed your column in the January 15 NEWS. You certainly hit the nail on the head in your own inimitable fashion. Hope it penetrates through the thick skulls of some of our reactionary alumni.

—CLARENCE T. SEIPP '08

Your ALUMNI NEWS article was good! Looks like more of that sort is going to be needed. Nice work. Keep punching.—PHILIP WILL '00

I was thrilled by your answer to those of our scared alumni who seem to think that any course on Russian which does not attack our great ally is a danger to our country. Thank you for supporting the great liberal traditions of Cornell. I am only one of many thousand Cornell alumni who support yours and President Day's stand.—EUGENE JACKSON '09

TO THE EDITOR:

Congratulations to Mr. Berry for his column on the teaching of Russian at Cornell. It is an eloquent and rousing defense of the freedom of inquiry, which was one of the strongest foundation stones on which this University was built. What a wonderful thing it would be if the Becker Book could be made required reading for all alumni!

I was also glad to see Dr. Day's statement making clear the details of the Army area and language program. I should be interested to know whether the civilian course in Russian culture has been dropped, as reported in the January 10 issue of Time. If so, was this done because of the World-Telegram's so-called exposé and the ensuing furor or for some other reason?

—Mrs. MARY BATES CLARK '36

The intensive study of contemporary Russian civilization for civilian students was offered at Cornell, with financial assistance from the Rockefeller Foundation, for the summer term July 5-October 23, 1943. It was planned as a one-term offering, and no announcement was made that the courses would be repeated. The program proved so markedly successful and timely, however, that all concerned were agreed that it should be made available again as soon as possible.

We are told that the University for a time contemplated repeating the courses during the term which begins March 1, 1944, but that a number of circumstances finally made this seem impracticable. It is now announced that the full program will be offered again in the 1944 summer term.

A similar set of courses on contemporary Chinese civilization will be arranged as soon as certain members of necessary staff are released from their present assignments in the Army training program.—Ed.

Engineers Gather

CORNELL SOCIETY of Engineers held its winter meeting January 21 at the Cornell Club of New York with 130 members and guests present. Captain Maurice Witherspoon, USN, chaplain of the Third Naval District, spoke about his experiences at the front, and Lieutenant Colonel J. A. McAlarney, US Engineers, described his recent assignments in the Middle East. Vice-president Bernard A. Savage '25 presided.

Phi Kappa Phi Elects

PHI KAPPA PHI, scholastic honor society, has elected Professor Marion Pfund, Home Economics, president of the Cornell chapter. Other new officers are Professor Howard B. Adelman '20, Histology, vice-president; and Professor I. C. Gunsalus, Bacteriology, secretary-treasurer. The chapter elected to membership fifty-four Seniors from eight Colleges of the University, forty-two graduate students, and three members of the Faculty: Professors William H. Farnham '18, Law; John R. Moynihan '26, Engineering; and Lowell F. Randolph, PhD '21, Botany.

Now in My Time!

By Conyn Barry

OLD athletes keep popping up! Sometimes they appear unexpectedly around the corner of the house, but more often nowadays in the newspapers. Frequently one does not recognize them, however familiar they were, because one can't seem to recall ever having seen them before with their clothes on. The mental picture which survives is not of that man; it's of a slimmer and younger person sliding into second base, or skimming the high hurdles in the manner of a flat stone skillfully skipped across the surface of calm waters.

The latest one to pop up—in the newspapers only—was the new Governor of Bermuda. Lord Burghley had flown over to New York from the islands ostensibly to make a few purchases and to drop in on Terry McGovern '00. The last previous occasion we recall seeing him there was in 1925 when he'd come as an undergraduate of Cambridge University for a spot of hurdling with some Princeton and Cornell hurdlers. On that occasion, too, his efforts were crowned with success.

We suspect that Lord Burghley's latest visit to New York was not solely for the objects stated. We suspect that somewhere along the line between purchases and calls, he slipped in a little something for the Empire, for Bermuda, and the common cause. These Britons, we've learned painfully through trial and error, do not take their sports or their public responsibilities as lightly or as nonchalantly as they'd like to have the alien suppose.

At the top of his racing form—and after attending to Princeton and Cornell he went on to become Olympic champion—this charming deceiver would have had you believe that he took slight interest in the technique of hurdling. His mind might revert to it on some fair day when he felt he might be the better for a spot of exercise in the outdoor air; or on the Second Sunday after Epiphany, perhaps, he might run through a half flight of hurdles just to revive old memories.

But such amiable little deception will not long remain unrevealed to the eye of the American plainsman, trained in the arts of trailing and trapping. Back in 1930 when the Princeton-Cornell track team was being entertained at Burghley House, Terry McGovern and your reporter slipped outside between the crumpets and the strawberry tarts and picked up the spoor. On the ancient turf that had often borne the feet of Queen Elizabeth there were worn spots of bare ground. They stretched off in a straight line and there were ten such spots, exactly ten yards apart: the clear trail of the high hurdler and of no other animal, worn deep by endless weeks and months and years of patient practice until that peak of skill and stamina had been attained which brings a man home a champion.

There was no corroborative evidence around, in the shape of hurdles and spiked shoes. The butler had evidently succeeded in hiding these from the eyes of visiting trappers. But no butler, however tactful and adroit, could conceal the telltale marks in the turf.

And yet these Britons would have you think they "muddle through" to victory. Muddle, my eye! They win because they don't believe in getting licked and are willing to do what's necessary to win; including learning how. But they'll never tell you, and are apt to blush with embarrassment when you find them out. We learned a lot about the English character from those worn spots in the turf!

Nice boy, this new Governor of Bermuda! He'll go far, we suspect, in his own country. Bermuda has always been a stepping-stone to something else on beyond. If he wanted to come back to Ithaca and settle down he could, I think, be elected Sheriff of Tompkins County two years after he got his papers. When he was here in 1925 he liked the place; was enthusiastic about the view down the gorge from the Swinging Bridge. That sort of thing wins the heart of the Ithaca voters!

Lord Burghley is still president of the British Olympic Association and in close touch with the universities. Terry McGovern writes he thinks we should proceed cautiously in our talk of reviving the

Slants on Sports

By Bill Materna '27

Five Teams Busy

VICTORIES have been scarce on the sports front in the last three weeks. The swimming team won twice and the hockey team once in two contests, but the Varsity basketball team lost a pair of games and the Junior Varsity basketball team and the Varsity wrestlers were each beaten.

Swimmers Do Well

Outstanding in this winter sports season is the swimming team, coached by G. Scott Little, with six straight victories, including lop-sided decisions over Hobart, 68-7, in the Old Armory pool January 29 and over Penn State, 64-11, at State College February 5.

This record bears out Coach Little's private (not for publication) pre-season prediction that he would have a team as good as, if not better than, last year's. That team, you may remember, lost its opening engagement to Columbia in New York City, then won six in a row.

This year's team does more than win meets; it breaks records, not once but twice. The 300-yard medley relay team of Irving M. Katz, USNR, backstroke; Burton Preston, USMCR, breaststroke; and David C. Wiley, USNR, swam the distance in 3:06.7 against Hobart for new pool and Cornell records. Two weeks before, this same trio had been timed in 3:08.8 against Rochester, a performance which had shattered the old Cornell record of 3:09.3 and the old pool mark of 3:09.9.

In the Penn State meet, Captain Robert A. Moore '44 of Brooklyn replaced Wiley as the freestyle expert, and the relay trio broke the Penn State pool record with a 3:10.8 performance.

Two other new records were established in the Hobart match in the Old Armory. Ralph R. Riehl, USNR, was timed in 5:14.4 for 440 yards freestyle. This clipped two-tenths of a second from the pool record set two weeks before by Reynolds of Rochester. Paul C. Murray, USMCR, swam the 200-yard breaststroke race in 2:37.5. This bettered the pool record of 2:38.9 set by George F. Critchlow '42 in 1942.

Against Hobart, Cornell took all first places. Against Penn State, Cornell won eight of the nine events. Riehl won the 220- and 440-yard freestyle races in both meets. Other winners in the Hobart meet were James H. Carrington, USNR, 50-yard freestyle; Harry J. Rogers '47 of Larchmont, 100-yard freestyle; Paul L. Klain '46 of New York City, 150-yard backstroke; Frank W. Wedge '44 of Wynnewood, Pa., diving; and the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Moore, Robert N. Holsten, USMCR, Katz, and Wiley. Other winners in the Penn State meet were Wiley, 50- and 100-yard freestyle; Murray, 200-yard breaststroke; Edwin Rorke '45 of Wynnewood, Pa., and the 400-yard freestyle relay team, this time made up of Carrington, Zachary Rosenfield, USNR, Moore, and Katz.

The team will conclude its season March 4 by entertaining the Sampson Naval Training Station swimmers in the Old Armory pool.

Basketball Drops Two

The basketball team lost to Colgate, 40-45, at Hamilton January 29 and bowed to Dartmouth, Eastern Intercollegiate League champion, 46-58, in an afternoon game in Barton Hall February 5.

In the Colgate game, the teams finished the first half in a 26-26 tie. Goals by Robert W. Gale, USNR, center, and Roger D. Booze, USNR, who plays guard or forward, put Cornell ahead early in the second half. Colgate rallied, overtook Cornell, and held on to a slim lead the rest of the way. Gale scored 19 points: almost half Cornell's total.

The team traveled to Hamilton without William E. Stone, USMCR, who became ineligible the night before the game. Nathan Militzok, USNR, who had left the squad for a time after the Columbia game after a rule infraction and a consequent demotion to the Junior Varsity squad, was reinstated and made the trip, appearing briefly in the game.

The Dartmouth game, played as part of a holiday week end—a wartime substitute for Junior Week—attracted a capacity crowd and was a good show. It presented two of the three highest-scoring players in the League: Captain Brindley of Dartmouth who counted 23 points to boost his League season's total to 133, and Gale of Cornell, who scored 21 points for a League total of 106, with one game left to play. Brindley threw one goal that didn't go through the basket because of a Cornell player's interference. Brindley, however, did not receive credit for the two points awarded Dartmouth by the officials. The goal was credited to the Dartmouth team as a whole.

Cornell sprang a surprise by going into a sliding zone, instead of its traditional man-to-man, defense. This defense confused Dartmouth for fifteen minutes. During that time Cornell played the visitors on even terms, with the score tied six times. The last deadlock was at 16-16, but then Dartmouth solved the zone, tossed in some long set shots, and shook Brindley loose for a few push-ups to run 13 points while Cornell was scoring 5. At intermission Dartmouth led, 29-21.

The visitors stretched their lead to 14 points midway in the second half, but Cornell, on a rally touched off by Gale's sharpshooting, whittled the advantage to only 4 points, 46-42, with five minutes to go. Dartmouth resorted to freezing the ball, forcing Cornell to shift to the man-to-man defense in an effort to regain control. With the shift in defense tactics, Dartmouth started another burst of scoring and sewed up the game.

Coach Emerald B. Wilson tried a new combination for this game, starting Kenneth M. Haggerty, USNR, and Booze as forwards, Gale as center, and Lawrence R. Davis, USMCR, and Irwin Alterson, USNR, as guards. Davis was second to Gale in scoring, with 11 points.

The day the Varsity went to Hamilton, the Junior Varsity stayed at home and lost to a pickup team of Navy V-12 trainees, most of them from Princeton, 33-39. It was the team's second defeat in eight games.

Hockey Breaks Even

The hockey team broke even in two contests, losing, 1-8, to the US Military Academy at West Point January 29 and winning, 7-1, over Penn State on Beebe Lake February 5.

Wrestlers Lose

The wrestlers lost, 12-16, to Penn State January 29 at State College, with each team winning four bouts. Penn State won twice by falls to gain the 4-point edge.

Penn State won the first four bouts, Lowrie gaining a decision over Fred D. McNair, USNR, in the 121-pound class; Shadley throwing Donald E. Orner '46 of Albany in the 128-pound class; Harrington defeating Robert W. Gerhard '45 of East St. Louis, Ill., in the 136-pound division; and McIlvaine pinning John Tutty, USNR, in the 145-pound class.

Cornell won the remaining four bouts by decisions, with Wilford C. LaRock '45 of Ithaca the winner at 155 pounds; Rodney Stieff, USNR, at 165 pounds; Joseph Dewhurst, US MCR, at 175 pounds; and Gordon H. Steele, USNR, unlimited class.

Track Men Run

The track team was represented in the Millrose games in Madison Square Garden February 5 by five runners. Walter Z. Newman, USNR, won a trial heat in the 60-yard dash, but was eliminated in the semifinals. In the trial, Newman was timed in 0:06.5. The two-mile relay team of Milton T. Smith, USNR, George A. Chalfant, USNR, Jay R. Bergen, USNR, and Rubin C. Gause, USNR, finished third behind Columbia and Colgate.

Post-War Education

a realistic manner. With all its faults, democracy in these United States has much to recommend it by comparison with conditions and government in most other countries.

In college education, it is my firm belief that one of the greatest needs is for a change of emphasis which will give increasing importance to the problems of motivating human endeavor along channels of increased personal responsibility for government and for society. It has become evident that science has developed technological skills and capacities to a point which far exceeds the ability of the people to handle them ethically. There is need for a much more realistic attitude toward problems of living on the part of the social sciences, particularly sociology, ethics, and philosophy. In my judgment, all too many scholars in these fields are not meeting modern conditions with anything like a realistic attitude or program. These subjects seem in large part to have failed to keep pace with existing problems; at the present time they are bogged down in an atmosphere of futility which falls far short of meeting the situation. Much of this seems due to failure to realize the implications of the scientific approach to their problems, and to spending effort in pedantic discussions and actions which have no bearing upon life as it goes on. In my judgment, the next great advance in education will be the application of the scientific approach to economics, the social sciences, ethics, and philosophy, with realization and appreciation of the implications of the method in all fields of knowledge.

Faculty Appointments

UNIVERSITY Board of Trustees, meeting January 29 at the Medical College in New York City, approved several appointments to the Faculty.

Dr. G. Watts Cunningham, PhD '08, Susan Linn Sage Professor of Philosophy, was appointed Dean of the Graduate School, succeeding Professor George H. Sabine '03, Philosophy, now Vice-President of the University. Dr. Philip A. Munz, PhD '17, was appointed professor of Botany and Horticulture in the Bailey Hortorium, effective July 1. Dr. John G. Kidd becomes professor of Pathology in the Medical College in New York, and Dr. Adrian M. Mills '20 is acting professor of Veterinary Medicine until November, when Dean William A. Hagan, MS '17, returns from Washington, D.C. where he is on leave with the US Department of Agriculture.

Professor Cunningham (above), the new Dean of the Graduate School, is a native of Laurens, S. C. He received the AM at Furman University in 1902, was professor of English at Howard College for three years, and in 1905 came to the University as fellow in the School of Philosophy, receiving the PhD in 1908. After teaching for nineteen years at Middlebury College and the University of Texas, he returned to Cornell in 1927 as professor of Philosophy. He has received two honorary degrees from Furman University, the DLitt in 1916 and the LLD in 1935. Dean Cunningham has written widely in the field of philosophy, has held lectureships at Bowdoin College and the University of California, and since 1930 has been editor of The Philosophical Review. He is a member of the American Philosophical Association, serving as president of the Western division in 1930 and of the Eastern division in 1937. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi.

Professor Munz joins the staff of the Bailey Hortorium from Pomona College at Claremont, Cal., where he has been professor of botany since 1917, becoming dean of the faculty in 1941. A native of Saratoga, Wyoming, he received the AB and AM at the University of Denver before coming to the University in 1914 as assistant in Biology and Botany, successively. The author of numerous papers on botany and conservation, Professor Munz is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, and many professional societies. At the Hortorium he will assist Professor L. H. Bailey in identifying plants sent in from all parts of the world, in revising Bailey's Manual of Cultivated Plants, and conduct other research.

Dr. Kidd comes to the Medical College from the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, where he has been an associate member for two years, serving previously as assistant in pathology and bacteriology from 1934-38, and as associate in the same fields from 1938-42. Born in Edgewood, Tex., Dr. Kidd received the AB at Duke University in 1928 and the MD at Johns Hopkins in 1932.

Dr. Mills will take over some of the duties of Professor Myron G. Fincher '20, Veterinary Medicine, who is acting dean of the College during the leave of absence of Dean William A. Hagan, MS '17. Dr. Mills comes to the University from a large certified milk farm in Earlville which he has operated for the last few years. He spent two years as a veterinarian in Hawaii, returned to the University as instructor in Veterinary Surgery 1922-23, and was then veterinarian for Borden Farm Products Co., Walker Gordon Farms, and the New York County Milk Commission. He is a specialist in mastitis, Bang's disease, and other diseases of dairy cattle.

The following elections by the University Faculty were reported to the Trustees: Professor Richard Bradfield, Agronomy, Faculty representative on the Board of Trustees for the five-year term beginning January 1, 1944; Professor Walter B. Carver, Mathematics, to the Board of Physical Education and Athletics, three-year term; and Professor Helen Bull '11 Home Economics, to the Board of Student Health and Hygiene, three-year term.

Tompkins County Trust Co. has a new president: William H. Burns was elected January 19 to succeed Albert G. Stone Sp '25., who has retired.

Alumni Association Reports on Trustee Nominations

DIRECTORS of the Cornell Alumni Association at a recent meeting approved a statement of policy and program relating to election of Alumni Trustees, as provided in the University Charter. The statement was formulated after the directors had asked for and received many suggestions, and the program is presented for the information of alumni as one which "they believe to be in keeping with the dignity of both nomination and election to the office and with the best traditions of Cornell." The statement follows:

Objectives

Objectives as adopted by the executive committee of the Cornell Alumni Association board of directors are:

1. To encourage the widest possible participation of the alumni body in the selection of representatives of the highest possible caliber. Every alumnus or group, large or small, has the right to nominate or offer suggestions for nomination. Election should be the result of the considered judgment of the alumni and not dependent upon expenditures or campaign pressure.
2. To assure the nomination of the most suitable and representative candidates. Electioneering practices are considered to be incompatible with the honor and dignity with which either nomination or election as a Trustee of Cornell University should be clothed so that nominees should feel free to accept nomination without fear of being subjected to embarrassment of electioneering.

The policy formulated to achieve these objectives is: Suggestions for nominations shall be received and considered by the Committee on Alumni Trustee Nominations, created by this Association, which shall be responsible for collaborating with alumni in selecting and presenting nominees to meet known needs of the University and making known their qualifications to the alumni body.

Procedures

It is hoped and expected that the alumni will approve this policy and cooperate by using the procedures which will be made available for effectuating it:

- A. All alumni and all organized groups within the Association will be invited to submit suggestions for nominations regularly.
- B. The Committee on Alumni Trustee Nominations, in cooperation with sponsoring groups, will attempt to insure the nomination of an adequate group among whom the voters may exercise preferences.
- C. Articles containing complete biographic information about all the candidates will be published in the ALUMNI NEWS.
- D. A series of articles, outlining the structure of the Board of Trustees, how members are elected and appointed, how the Board functions, qualifications for membership, and special problems encountered by the Board will be published annually in the ALUMNI NEWS.

E. This material will be reprinted and enclosed with the ballots which will be issued by the Treasurer of the University.

F. It is hoped that nominating petitions will be limited to no more than fifteen signatures of degree holders.

In line with these procedures, lists in the Alumni Office will not hereafter be made available for campaigning. It is hoped that, in harmony with the policy, no other lists will be used for such a purpose.

It is hoped that regular group publications, such as the Cornell Engineer, Cornell Countryman, Law Quarterly, etc., will report on the whole slate and that all candidates will be accorded equal mention.

Report on Nominations

Newton C. Farr '06, chairman of the Association's standing committee on Alumni Trustee nominations, has issued a statement concerning the work of the committee toward nomination of Alumni Trustee candidates for election this year. Farr's statement follows:

The Committee on Alumni Trustee Nominations, after giving careful consideration to the needs of the University in relation to the qualifications of a large group of alumni suggested to the committee by individuals and Clubs throughout the country, has endorsed the following four persons to be presented in the election to be held this spring:

William F. Bleakley '04, attorney, Yonkers

Alice Blinn '17, associate editor, Ladies Home Journal, New York City

Joseph P. Ripley '12, president, Harriman, Ripley & Co., Inc., New York City.

George C. Brainard '11, president,
General Fireproofing Co., Youngstown,
Ohio

These persons have been interviewed by their sponsors and have agreed to accept nomination. They are persons with records of achievement and with experience in their various lines of endeavor which can be of great value to the University.

The Committee on Alumni Trustee Nominations wishes to state that its policy is not to take a position with reference to the reelection of Alumni Trustees who are now on the Board. This should in no way compromise the availability of such Trustees for renomination by alumni. The committee understands that its function is to bring new desirable nominees into the field each year and to insure the presentation of a number of names among whom the alumni may make their choice.

The committee also wishes it to be clearly understood that it is not a nominating committee in the customary sense, and that the operation of the committee does not contravene the right of any ten alumni to nominate any candidate of their choice.

This year the alumni are to elect two Trustees; the voters, therefore, will have an opportunity to make their choices from a well qualified list of candidates.

The committee on Alumni Trustee nominations was appointed in October, 1942, its members to represent all constituent groups of organized alumni. In January, 1943, the committee requested from the officers of Cornell Clubs and other member organizations the names of persons to be considered as possible candidates for Alumni Trustees. Besides Farr, members of the committee during the last year have been Albert R. Mann '04 from the Alumni Trustees; Weyland Pfeiffer '16, Association of Class Secretaries; Harold L. Bache '16, Alumni Fund Council; Mrs. Bernard A. Savage (Carmen Schneider) '27, Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs; Allan H. Treman '21, Law Association; Dr. John G. Wills '06, Veterinary Alumni Association; and H. Victor Grohmann '28, Society of Hotelmen.

Olympic Games, but he'd like to see the old Oxford-Cambridge relations with the American universities picked up just as soon as the cinders cool off.

It's a pleasant thing to the ancients of sport to see the young hurdlers coming along; still wearing spots in the turf from their efforts to achieve victory, and after victory perhaps a little worldwide decency. It's probably a mistake to set down one's objectives too specifically and in too much detail in the middle of the race. But among old sportsmen and young hurdlers who have contended across the waters, a little more widespread decency, as they've come to understand the term, isn't too much to hope for.

Class of '44 Finishes

CORNELL'S seventy-eighth Commencement, the University's seventh in wartime and the fifth to be held under the present accelerated program, will be Sunday afternoon, February 27, in Sage Chapel.

Some 300 Seniors and fifty graduate students are candidates for degrees, the largest group for any Commencement other than the regular June exercises. As in last October's ceremony, members of the graduating class will wear academic costume, and the traditional procession will be led by the commanding officers of the Army and Navy units, the Deans of the Colleges, the baccalaureate preacher, and the President. Graduates who are in Army and Navy programs will wear caps and gowns over their uniforms, according to a ruling similar to that of last October made by Colonel Edwin R. Van Deusen, USA, and Captain Burton W. Chippendale, USN.

Dr. William Pearson Tolley, chancellor of Syracuse University, will preach the baccalaureate sermon in Sage Chapel at 11, and President Edmund E. Day will be the Commencement speaker.

The Class of '44 will hold its Class Day exercises and Senior singing, traditional spring events, February 26, tentatively in Willard Straight Hall, with the Senior Ball that evening in Memorial Room. Vinton N. Thompson II '44, now in the Army program, is chairman of the Class Day committee.

Club Hears WAVE

CORNELL Women's Club of Northern New Jersey, meeting for dinner February 4 at the Hotel Robert Treat in Newark, heard Lieutenant Commander Marguerite Hicks '26, WAVES, who came up from Washington, D. C., where she is on duty in the Communications Division of the Navy Department.

Show Makes Hit

"GIVE ME LIBERTY—Or At Least a Pass," a variety show presented by the servicemen's committee of Willard Straight Hall for the benefit of the American Red Cross "and the cast's ego," packed Bailey Hall to the rafters February 5.

Written, produced, and directed by members of service units on the Campus, the show was also acted, sung, and danced by a cast of 300 enlisted soldiers, sailors, and Marines, handsomely abetted by members of the Dramatic Club, the Women's Glee Club and many other, co-eds, the staff of Willard Straight Hall, and (for all we know) Olsen and Johnson. It boasted a "Cornellzapoppin" pre-curtain clown act, two big choruses, a half-dozen separate sensuous pony-ballets, a good healthy orchestra, and a lot of heartfelt Campus humor.

"Responsible for the show," according to the program, which added, "may the Military Police protect them," were Apprentice Seaman Francis R. Montalbano, USNR, producer and director; Private First Class Alvin S. Evans '42, who wrote and directed the book; Private Robert Funger, USMCR, who staged the dances; and numerous other production, business, and technical managers. Brightest spots in the all-star entertainment were the radio monologue broadcast from AWOL, Elmira, by PFC Al Evans, the slick jitterbugging of Helen M. Otto '47 and PFC John Martocci, and the costume contretemps of dancer Ann E. Shively '45, who lost an essential button just as her red-skirted chorus ensemble went into their first high kick.

Time Was . . .

Twenty-five Years Ago

February, 1919—Benjamin Ide Wheeler, professor of Greek and Comparative Philology at the University from 1888-99, has resigned as president of the University of California . . . President Jacob Gould Schurman, speaking at the Cosmopolitan Club, endorsed the proposed League of Nations . . . Herbert A. Wichelns '16 is in the editorial department of the Ronald Press Co. in New York City.

Captain John H. Murphy '07 has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross . . . First Lieutenant Emerson Hinchliff '14, Infantry, is attached to the American Legation at Berne, Switzerland . . . Second Lieutenant William H. Farnham '18 writes from the Second Army overseas that his commanding officer is Lieutenant Colonel Charles F. Thompson, formerly professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University . . . First Lieutenant Leslie J. Rummell '16, who reached France three months before the Armistice, yet shot down seven enemy planes to become one of Cornell's four accredited aces, died there February 2 of pneumonia. He had recently been awarded the DSC.

Fifteen Years Ago

February, 1929—The Campus had 4,500 Farm and Home Week visitors; attractions included two addresses by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and an exciting exhibit of lice, bedbugs, flies, fleas, sheep ticks, hog lice, bot flies, aphids, and corn borers. While in Ithaca, the Governor was the guest of Charles E. Treman '89 . . . Peter G. Ten Eyck has been appointed to the University Board of Trustees by Governor Roosevelt.

Alpha Delta Phi house at 777 Stewart Avenue was completely destroyed by fire, February 11. None of the nineteen occupants was injured and part of the first-floor furnishings was saved, but the total loss is estimated at $125,000. One day earlier the house had been full of Junior Week guests.

Eastman Stage, Rice Debate, and Home Economics Prize contests in public speaking, held annually during Farm and Home Week, are war casualties this year, along with the February gathering of farmers and homemakers. The Eastman Stage had been held for thirty-four successive years.

WILLARD STRAIGHT TERRACE MESS HALL AND "WHITING HALL"

The former open terrace of Willard Straight Hall is snugly closed in to provide messing space for the Army. The temporary frame structure "under den linden" below it was built as a coat room and entrance hall for the men marching in the west door to mess. Shortly after it was opened, some unidentified wag hung up a neatly lettered sign dubbing it "Whiting Hall" in honor of Edgar A. Whiting '29, the general factotum and assistant manager of Willard Straight. An Army student was heard to remark, "Wonder who this Whiting is? They sure don't miss a chance to name buildings at Cornell!" Leviton '44

400 At Luncheon

NEARLY 400 Cornellians and guests attended the forty-eighth annual luncheon of the Cornell Women's Club of New York on the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City, February 5.

Alumni Trustee Mary H. Donlon
'20 announced the theme for discussion as "Cornell Plans for the World of Tomorrow," and introduced President Edmund E. Day, Dean Sarah G. Blanding, Home Economics, and Professor Ernest J. Simmons, Slavic Languages and Literatures. The President told of the many war activities of the University and predicted that much of the teaching being given for the Army and Navy would result in new techniques and procedures for teaching after the war. Dean Blanding described the research on frozen foods which is being conducted by the School of Nutrition and the Colleges of Home Economics and Engineering with the Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva and which is expected to revolutionize the processing, distribution, and use of foods after the war.
Professor Simmons spoke of the area and language studies which the University has organized for Army trainees and the continuance of similar courses as part of the University's post-war instruction.

Members of the Board of Trustees and alumni officials were special guests at the luncheon.

Officers of fourteen Cornell Women's Clubs met with those of the Federation and with Pauline J.
Schmid '25, new Assistant Alumni Secretary, before the luncheon, at the Cornell Club rooms in the Barbizon Hotel. Mrs. William H. Hill (May Thropp) '20, acting president of the Federation, presided. Reports were given by officers and committee chairmen. The treasurer, Ruth E. Davis
'17, reported that the Federation Scholarship Fund to support scholarships for undergraduate women at the University, had increased to $26,330.

Nominate Trustees

TO February 10, when this issue closed, nominations of George C.
Brainard '11, Alice Blinn '17 and William F. Bleakley '04 had been filed with the Treasurer of the University for election as Alumni Trustees this spring.

The Charter of the University provides that two Alumni Trustees are to be elected by the alumni each year for five-year terms, taking office at the Commencement meeting of the Board.
The terms of Paul A. Schoellkopf '06 and Matthew Carey '15 expire in 1944.

Alumni Trustees may be nominated by any ten degree holders who file nominations with the University Treasurer by April 1. Ballots are mailed by the Treasurer to all degree holders of record shortly after April 1, and results of the election will be announced at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association in Ithaca, at the time of the spring Commencement. The ALUMNI NEWS of April 15 will publish pictures and biographies of all Alumni Trustee candidates nominated.

Colleges Win Praise

GOVERNOR Thomas E. Dewey, in his budget message to the State Legislature January 31, praised the State Colleges of Agriculture, Home Economics, and Veterinary Medicine at the University for their wartime contributions to the critical food situation, and recommended increased appropriations to continue the vital research. The Governor also paid tribute to the State Emergency Food Commission, formerly headed by University Trustee Howard E. Babcock.

"At the College of Agriculture," Dewey said, "I recommend that we institute a broader program of research and extension to further the artificial insemination of cattle in this State. The practice is no longer in the experimental stage, but the improvement in the productive capacity of our herds can be raised to levels yet unrealized."

The Governor recommended increased appropriation to permit full enrollment of 600 students in the College of Home Economics from 520, and "a modest appropriation" for research, praising the contributions of the College to the food and nutrition problems of the State. He requested research and extension funds for the Veterinary College to stem the mounting losses of cattle, sheep, and horses from parasitic diseases.

Moore Research Fund

VERANUS A. MOORE Research Fund has been established at the University with an anonymous gift of $10,400. Income from the Fund will be used for special research in the Department of Clinical and Preventive Medicine.

The new Fund is in honor of Dean Veranus A. Moore '87, of the Veterinary College, who died February 11, 1931. His son, Dr. Norman S. Moore
'23, is head of the Department of Clinical and Preventive Medicine at the University.

On The Campus and Down the Hill

---

"The Facts About Cornell's Course on Russia" announced on the front page of PM January 30 a page-and-a-half illustrated article on the University's Russian courses. Staff writer Evelyn Seeley spent two days in Ithaca gathering information for the story. No other news-sheet which wrote about the Russian program had sent a reporter to the Campus. In its story, PM quoted Romeyn Berry's ALUMNI NEWS column on the subject. One result was a check for $7.75 from an alumnus, $5 for the Alumni Fund and the remainder for a copy of Professor Carl Becker's Cornell University: Founders and the Founding.

Fire in Willard Straight Hall, discovered before it caused serious damage, was extinguished by an impromptu bucket brigade of service men, using metal waste-paper baskets, before the Fire Department arrived with its more specialized equipment. Starting in the service kitchen off the Memorial Room, the fire succeeded only in blackening a few cupboards and cracking some plaster.

Mrs. Caroline M. Noey, who had been in the office of Willard Straight Hall since 1928, died February 8 at her home, 602 North Cayuga Street. She was ill for about a year. Her son is PFC J. Lynn Noey '44, US Army, and her sister, Mrs. Allen B. Reed (Elsie Murphy) '22.

"War Flying Restrictions Lifted: Instruction and passenger rides available at the Airport"—ad in The Bulletin February 4, by Ithaca Flying Service, Inc.

Public lectures: "Synthetic Rubber," by William C. Geer '02, formerly vice-president, B. F. Goodrich Co., February 4; "Under Cover," by John Roy Carlson, February 12; "The Soldier's Vote," by Professor Robert E.ushman, Government, February 13.

"An Evening in Russia," entertainment prepared by soldiers in the ASTP Russian division, was presented to the public February 4. A Chekhov play, Russian skits, an "animated painting," and a soldier chorus highlighted the show.

La Cabana, a recreation center for the fourteen-to-eighteen-year-old youth of Ithaca, opened January 28 in Colonial Hall over Atwater's, where the Misses Bement used to have their dancing school. Sponsored by the American Legion and the Ithaca Youth Civic Service Council, the club is open Friday and Saturday evenings; has a juke box, a soda bar, a piano, and a band stand.

Ithaca Railways, Inc., cited by the Public Service Commission last October to reduce bus fares because of excessive profits, announced February 7 that tickets would be seven for fifty cents instead of twelve for $1. Single rides are still ten cents.

Dance Club sponsored Valerie Bettis, New York artist of the modern dance, January 29 in the Willard Straight Theater.

Mrs. Venephe H. Wilson, who ran a student rooming house at 526 Stewart Avenue for many years, died January 29. She was the mother of Mrs. William Corrigan (Marjorie Wilson) '13, Howard G. Wilson '12, and Stuart Wilson '16.

Ithaca Protective Police has re-elected Allan H. Treman '21 its captain. Other officers re-elected include Claude L. Kulp, AM '30, lieutenant; Professor Benton S. Monroe '96, English, Emeritus, secretary; and R. W. Sailor '07, sergeant-at-arms and torch bearer.

"Give Me Liberty," service men's variety show presented February 5 at Bailey Hall, is expected to net about $1,500 for the American Red Cross.

THE WAR has added a new slant to houseparties. Four houseless fraternities, Alpha Delta Phi, Chi Psi, Kappa Alpha, and Psi Upsilon, dispossessed by service men, rented the second floor of the Clinton House for imports and co-eds February 4-5 and threw a whoopedoodle. Some forty-five couples, on hand for the tea-dance Saturday night, drank champagne cocktails in the dining room, and then, a local cuisine being lacking, broke up into smaller groups for solid refreshment elsewhere. After the Bailey Hall show and the Liberty Ball, those with stamina and gasoline set out for Mt. Pleasant Lodge on Turkey Hill. Icy roads forced some of the party to turn back, but the persevering arrived in time for a few hours' relaxation in front of a roaring fire and a breakfast of bacon and eggs.

Lionel Hampton, with the hottest, darkest, and smoothest band ever to hit Cornell, "sent" 1,500 couples at the Liberty Ball February 5 in Barton Hall. The crowd stood and watched the pyrotechnics most of the time, and "got feelin' mighty groovy," to use "Choo-Choo Baby" Lionel's phrase. The "band of the year" returned to the stand next morning for its regular Sunday broadcast to the country's war workers. Sponsored by the War Manpower Commission, the 11 a.m. NBC show attracted a worshipful audience of 500, many of them from the lower end of town.

Sage Chapel services were conducted February 6 by the Rev. J. Harry Cotton, of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Chicago, Ill.; and February 13 by the Rev. Lynn H. Hough, dean of the Drew Theological Seminary in Madison, N. J.

Trick-shot billiard champion Charles C. Peterson packed the game room of Willard Straight Hall January 28 for two exhibitions of some very fancy shooting, followed by free pointers to the more serious of the pool room habitués.

Ice show and skating festival, with national junior skating champion Fay Kirby '46 of Newton, Mass., displaying her school figures, drew a large crowd to Beebe Lake, February 6. Racing and hockey were also featured.

Columnist Leonard Lyons mentioned in his nationally syndicated column, "Lyons' Den," February 1 that old pictures of "Slidin' Billy Watson's Beef Trust," pony ballet of the gas-light era, are being presented by George Jean Nathan '04 to his Alma Mater. Neither the University Library, University Theatre, nor the Department of Animal Husbandry has yet received the collection.

Westbrook Pegler, writing from Albany February 4, about the State Capitol: "Years ago, when Al Smith was speaker of the Assembly, a big fire in the west end of the building did a great deal of damage. John A. Dix, then governor, asked Al if he could manage to rip off a wall and throw into the flames a terrifying portrait of old Ezra Cornell, the founder of the university, and Mr. Smith, always a citizen of great public spirit, tried his damndest but couldn't manage because it was screwed fast."

Concerning The Faculty

Professor Emeritus Liberty Hyde Bailey, Agriculture, former Dean of the College, spoke January 19 at the annual dinner meeting in Ithaca of Epsilon Sigma Phi, honorary Extension fraternity. He told of the founding of the College of Agriculture in 1904, and said that its origin lay in the extension contacts made by Cornell with farm groups and rural schools in New York. Professor Richard F. Fricke '17, assistant State county agent leader, was elected president of Epsilon Sigma Phi for 1944.

Leading article in The Saturday Review of Literature January 15 was "Russian Writing Since the Revolution: A Running Survey of the Record in Fiction, Poetry, and Drama," by Professor Ernest J. Simmons, Slavic Languages and Literatures. The article is from the forthcoming Columbia Dictionary of Modern European Literature, the Russian section of which is being edited by Professor Simmons.

Listen, Chipper...

This is your old man talking.

We've got big plans for you, son. Nothing's going to stop you from being a big man in life . . . not if I can help it.

Oh, you'll get a few bumps along the way—everyone does—a black eye from some husky playmate, a reprimand now and then for the way you scuff your shoes. But if lots of love, a happy home, and a good education can develop a fine boy into a healthy, well-adjusted man who's going places . . . then, little man, that's your future.

Just to be sure that nothing prevents your getting this good start in life, today I've taken enough life insurance to protect you and your mother in case anything happens to me. Now I know you'll both be taken care of. You see what I mean? . . . I'm taking no chances on your future.

It is a prime purpose of The Prudential to provide protection such as this father wants for his son—such as you want for your loved ones in time of emergency. Not only does Prudential Life Insurance provide a safe future . . . it also provides it at low cost. For 68 years there has been no safer way of protecting your family.
