READY WHEN NEEDED

This country has the best telephone equipment in the world and there's plenty of it.

There's plenty of it for the every-day needs of millions of telephone users — with something to spare for emergencies.

For the Bell System has two things of special value these days. It has experienced, adequate manufacturing facilities and a nation-wide distributing organization.

Both are handled within the Bell System by Western Electric. This has been a good policy for a generation. Never have its benefits been so clear as right now.

DEFENSE COURSES EXPAND College Trains Workers

Instruction for national defense training which the College of Engineering gives under the U. S. Office of Education has been considerably expanded with the arrival in Ithaca the end of March of forty-seven ensigns of the Naval Reserve, detailed for a special sixteen-weeks' course in Diesel engines. Courses given in Elmira to men employed in defense industries have also been augmented with one in Fluid Mechanics, and in Buffalo a new course has been added in Tool Engineering.

This brings to 1,245 the number of men being given instruction by the College under the national engineering defense training program, in addition to its resident undergraduate and graduate students. Seven courses in Buffalo have 844 enrolled; four courses in Elmira have 121; and in Ithaca, including four Saturday courses for men in industry, 230 are enrolled.

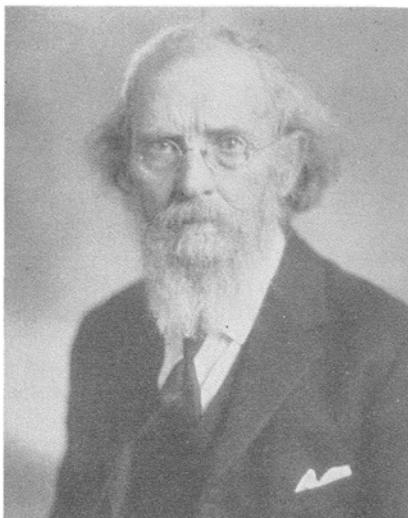

The young Naval officers are quartered in the men's dormitories and the University residence at 722 University Avenue. All have completed a course at Northwestern University and a training cruise at sea. Under direction of Professor A. C. Davis '14, Experimental Engineering, they are spending full time in lectures and laboratories studying Diesel engines in preparation for assignment to duty as engineer officers on Naval patrol ships. To assist in their instruction, the College has "borrowed" from industrial firms three engineers experienced in this field: Harte Cooke of the Diesel engine division, American Locomotive Co., Ralph J. King from the engine laboratory of the Caterpillar Tractor Co., and John M. McClellan '39, specialist on engine maintenance with Procter & Gamble Co.

Fluid Mechanics course in Elmira is in charge of Professor Charles O. Mackey '25, Heat-Power Engineering. Dr. Casper L. Cottrell, PhD '28, has been drafted from the Physics Department as assistant professor of Mechanics, to teach courses in Mechanics, Design of Aircraft Structures, and Geometrical Optics and Optical Instruments in Buffalo. The new Buffalo course in Tool Engineering is being taught by William B. LaBorde, newly appointed instructor. Martin W. Sampson '39, son of the late Professor Sampson, English, has come back to the College from General Motors Corp. in Buffalo as instructor, both to teach and to assist in the administrative office of the defense training courses.

General director of the defense training program for the College of Engineering is Professor Arthur S. Adams, assistant to the Dean. The program is financed from an appropriation of $9,000,000 made by Congress to provide technical courses at college level for workers in industry and other qualified persons who might be employed in national defense. Courses given in various universities and colleges are proposed to the Office of Education by these institutions after need has been determined, budgets are submitted, and when approved, the cost of instruction is paid by the government.

OLDEST CORNELLIAN

Oldest alumnus of Cornell, since the death of John A. Rea '69, is MADISON M. GARVER '76 (above) Emeritus professor of physics of Pennsylvania State College. He was ninety-two last November 12.

Born in Scotland, Pa., he entered the Science Course in 1872 from Pocatonia, Ill., having served in the 153d Illinois Infantry during the Civil War. He received the BS in Chemistry and Physics in 1876, was Senior Class marshal, and after teaching natural science for two years at Mercersburg College, returned as instructor in Chemistry from 1879-82. Thereafter, he was employed in the electrical industry and had a part in the development of trolley cars and the Westinghouse air brake, joining the physics department of Penn State in 1893. He is a member of Sigma Pi Sigma, physics honor society. Until he broke his hip in 1937, he was librarian of the department. He now lives with his son, David Garver, at The Evergreens, near State College, Pa.

Although eldest in years, Professor Garver is not the earliest living graduate of the University. This honor is held by Dr. Brandt V. B. Dixon '70 of Ferguson, Mo., and next is Royal Taft '71 of Scranton, Pa. Both are the only survivors of their Classes.

LAW SCHOOL TO ADJUST For Military Training

To accommodate students who may be called to military service, Dean Robert S. Stevens has announced that the Law School will divide its work next year into three terms of eleven weeks each, instead of the present plan of two sixteen-week terms. Thus, if a student is called to service in mid-December or early April, he will have been able to complete one or two terms of Law School work, including term examinations. Similarly, those returning from military duty may resume studies more promptly.

Provision is made for payment of tuition in three installments coincident with the three terms, and University credit will be given for each term completed. Tuition will be refunded to students who are granted leaves of absence for military service at such times that they do not receive academic credit for that term's work, or in proportion with the amount of academic credit allowed.

Under the new plan, Dean Stevens says, the amount of time to be devoted to each course will not be substantially reduced, but courses will be distributed among three terms instead of two. Students will therefore carry fewer courses in a term, but those carried will require as many hours as before. Virtually all courses taken in the second and third years will be units confined to a single term.

Program for the first year will include some one-term, some two-term, and some three-term courses. But even in courses which run more than one term, credit will not be lost by students called to military service before they are completed. Because the Faculty believes that examinations given after only eleven weeks of instruction in Law will not adequately test a student's aptitude and ability, Dean Stevens says that no first-year student will be dropped for scholastic deficiency at the end of the fall term. If called to service before he has opportunity to improve his record, he will be eligible to return to complete his unfinished year.

Announcement of the Law School for 1941-42 will include a complete calendar of the three terms and details of the new plan. It may be obtained shortly from the Secretary of the University, Morrill Hall.

EIGHTY WOMEN undergraduates have been enlisted by the women's cabinet of CURW to knit sweaters, socks, and mittens for distribution in war areas by the American Red Cross, American Friends' Service Committee, and Chinese relief.

"Don't Forget The

nell and to provide funds for its maintenance. He saw his efforts crowned with the passage of the enabling legislation in 1894. Opening of the College of Veterinary Medicine, September 21, 1896, was the happiest day in his life.

The objectives of the College are prescribed by the laws of New York State, as follows: "To conduct investigations as to the nature, prevention, and cure of all animal diseases, including such as are communicable to man and such as cause epizootica among livestock; to investigate the economical questions which will contribute to the more profitable breeding, rearing, and utilization of animals; to produce reliable standard preparations of toxins, antitoxins, and other products to be used in the diagnosis, prevention, and cure of diseases and in the conducting of veterinary work by approved modern methods; and to give instruction in the normal structure and function of the animal body in the pathological prevention and treatment of animal diseases and in all matters pertaining to sanitary science as applying to livestock and correlatively to the human family."

At first, the College required four years of high school as a prerequisite for three years of study, leading to the degree of Doctor of Veterinary Medicine. It had a Faculty of eight and an entering class of eleven students. In 1916, the course was extended to four years. Since 1932, one year of college preparation has been required of all entering students. The College is supported almost entirely by the State of New York and the annual appropriation has grown from $25,000 to

IN APRIL, 1868, Ezra Cornell is said to have shouted to Andrew D. White, "Don't forget the horse-doctor!" The President of the new University, which was to open the next October, stood at a ship's rail embarking for Europe "to study technical institutions, to purchase needed equipment, and to secure certain professors such as could not then be found in our own country." Ezra Cornell's parting instructions came from the dock.

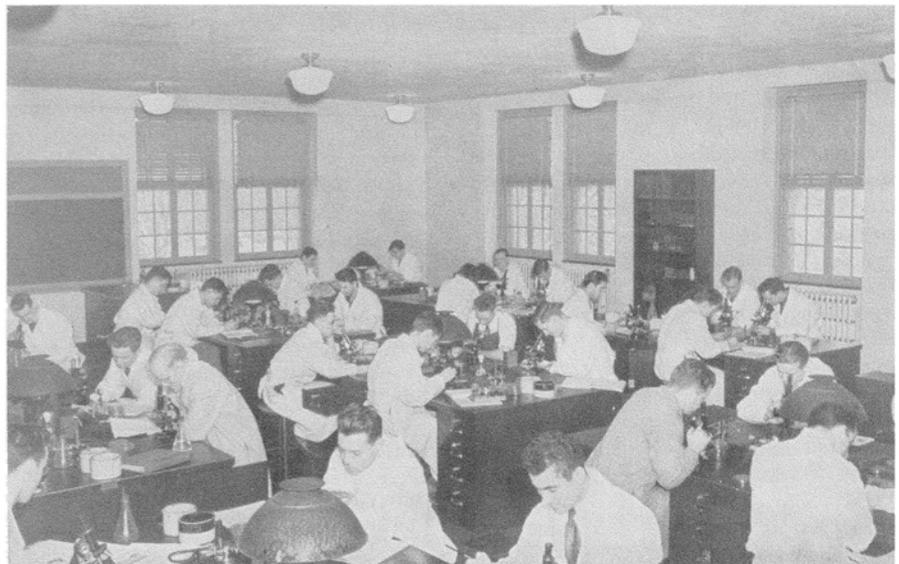

President White was successful in bringing to Cornell Goldwin Smith, Regius Professor of History at Oxford, and Dr. James Law of the British Royal Veterinary College. "It seemed to many a comical juxtaposition," wrote Dr. White in his Autobiography, "and various witticisms were made at my expense over the statement that 'I had brought back an Oxford professor and a Scotch horse-doctor'."

Appointment of these two men symbolized the new University in dramatic fashion. Here was tangible evidence that the humanities and the sciences were being placed on a par in a radical plan of higher education. The foresight of Ezra Cornell and Andrew D. White are amply rewarded in the far-reaching results which have followed. From the relatively few students who attended the classes of the "Scotch horse-doctor" has developed the College of Veterinary Medicine at Cornell, now recognized as one of the foremost institutions among the ten in the United States.

For seventeen years, Dr. Law maintained the Department of Veterinary Medicine at Cornell, before it was discontinued in 1885 because of lack of facilities. Four degrees were conferred during this period and all four graduates distinguished themselves. Dr. Daniel E. Salmon '72, one of the graduates, persuaded Congress to establish the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry in 1884. He was its first chief and served until 1905. Despite discouragements, Dr. Law struggled twenty-six years before he persuaded the Legislature of the State of New York to establish a Veterinary College at Cor-more than $200,000. The Faculty has increased from the original eight to thirty-four members.

Only the best qualified applicants are admitted to the College. Today, 173 students are enrolled, the maximum number which the Faculty feels it can train adequately. Entering classes are limited to forty. Last year, 389 sought admission. One reason for the large number seeking admission is that no competent veterinarians are out of work. The College has on file more requests for men for responsible positions than it can fill. Many communities are seeking practitioners; graduates are wanted as teachers and research workers; the veterinary service of States and the Federal Government has constant need for them; milk companies, the meat packing industry, and city health departments require them for dairy, milk, and meat inspectors.

Cornell men hold responsible teaching positions in eight of the ten colleges and departments offering veterinary instruction. Dr. Ward Giltner '04 is director of the Division of Veterinary Medicine at Michigan State College, while Dr. Clarence M. Haring '06 heads the Veterinary Department at the University of California.

The College has made a distinguished contribution to public health in its work for control of bovine tuberculosis, Bang's disease, and mastitis. Bang's disease is an acute infection of cattle, transmissible to man, and resulting in undulant fever. Mastitis, an inflammation of the mammary glands, affects milk and sometimes causes streptococcal infections of the throat. As a result of painstaking research and extensive field work, progress has been made in controlling all three diseases. The late Dr. Veranus A. Moore '87 led a crusade against tuberculosis of cattle in New York State and was largely responsible for the eradication of that infectious disease. His name has been given to a new pathology and bacteriology laboratory building completed two years ago. Dr. Raymond R. Birch '12 has conducted pioneer research in Bang's disease and has developed control methods which many dairymen are using successfully. Dr. Denny H. Udall '01 is one of the foremost workers with mastitis. In recognition of his outstanding contribution, he received the prize of the Twelfth International Veterinary Congress, held in Omaha in 1937.

Veterinary students in the amphitheater of the Medical Building learn the technique of diagnosis, as Dr. Winfield S. Stone '35 demonstrates use of the stethoscope on a dairy cow.

Evidence of the national standing of Cornell veterinarians is that eight have been presidents of the American Veterinary Medical Association. In the New York State Veterinary Medical Society, Cornellians consistently have held most of the important offices. Dean William A. Hagan, MS '17, is now president.

As alumni, no group of Cornellians has a stronger professional bond than those who hold the degree of Doctor of Veterinary Medicine. Each January a postgraduate course is held in Ithaca. This year, 250 Cornellians were among the 350 "vets" who came to learn the newer methods of the prevention and treatment of animal diseases. At the annual dinner of the Veterinary College Alumni Association, Dr. Albert E. Merry '06 was elected president.

"Vet" College students participate in the manifold activities of the Campus with distinction. Under the guidance of Dean Hagan, the College carries on instruction, research, and public service in the best traditions of the pioneers. Its graduates are adding to the prestige of Cornell and are assuming an increasing role in University alumni affairs.

Ezra Cornell's parting words to President White may well be repeated to all Cornellians: "Don't forget the horse-doctor!"

Faculty and graduate students hold weekly seminars in the lounge of Moore Hall. Speaker is Dr. William S. Monlux, graduate instructor in Pathology. Dean William A. Hagan, MS '17, of the Veterinary College is seated in center foreground.

CHICAGO WOMEN TALK JOBS

Cornell Women's Club of Chicago, Ill., devoted its luncheon meeting March 15 to considering opportunities for women in business. Discussion was led by Mrs. Julia Watson, of Careers Institute, and she was followed by Gertrude L. Huth '17 who is engaged in occupational reclamation for the Government in Illinois, and Rhoda Linville '32 who is on the staff of the Eli Bates Settlement House in Chicago.

Mrs. Albert C. Blunt, Jr. (Edna J. Snow) '10 of the Cornell Women's Club of Boston, Mass., was a special guest at the luncheon.

ROCHESTER ACTIVE

Speaker at the regular Wednesday luncheon of the Cornell Club of Rochester April 2 was the Rev. Donald M. Cleary, Catholic student pastor at the University. A licensed pilot and confidante of the football team, Father Cleary flew to Rochester to speak on "Flying, Football, and Faith."

April 16, President Edmund E. Day was guest of honor at a dinner and dance of the Club, at the Oak Hill Country Club.

May 4, the Cornell Club and the Rochester Chapter of the American Guild of Organists sponsor a Sunday afternoon recital by Professor Richard T. Gore, University Organist, at St. Paul's Church, with a reception following.

MOOT COURT AWARDS

At the annual banquet of the Law School in Willard Straight Hall April 14, Hon. George W. Maxey, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, handed down the decision in the final moot court case which had been argued by first-year students that afternoon. With him on the bench were Hon. Richard Hartshorne, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Essex County, N. J., and Hon. John Lord O'Brian, general counsel of the Office of Production Management, Washington, D. C.

The judges gave equal honors to the two teams which had been chosen in preliminary competitions to argue two cases before them. They ruled for one team in a case which involved Federal taxation of interest on state and municipal bonds, and for the other in a case in which a mythical State of York Island had levied income taxes upon Federal bonds.

Contestants were Douglas S. Moore '41 of Hawthorne, N. J., Samuel M. Schatz '41 of Hartford, Conn., Tozier Brown of Santa Fe, N. M., and Donald F. Maggs of Fitchburg, Mass.

Maggs, a graduate of Bates College last June, received the Phi Alpha Delta trophy awarded annually to the student "who has shown the most outstanding performance in moot court work throughout the year."

About ATHLETICS

NAVY BEATS GOLFERS

The golf team spent most of recess week practicing in and about Washington, D. C., then went to Annapolis April 5 and lost, 0-9, to the US Naval Academy. The team had had no outdoor practice in Ithaca.

John C. Sterling, Jr. '41 and Sidney B. Slocum '41 played in the first foursome for Cornell, Clifford A. Stanton, Jr. '44 and Solon B. Kemon '43 in the second, and George A. Orr, Jr. '42 and Robert M. Lowe '41 in the third.

START BASEBALL SEASON

The baseball team, defending its Eastern Intercollegiate League title, lost its first test, 4-5, to Pennsylvania at Philadelphia April 12 after having won three of five non-League games in the South during the spring recess.

Pennsylvania won in the ninth inning when, with two out, Beinstein, pitcher-right fielder, drove in a pinch runner with his only hit of the game. The run was set up when Ronald E. Stillman '42, shortstop, committed a two-base error on a grounder by Weiner. Stackhouse ran for Weiner, went to third on a sacrifice, and scored on Beinstein's hit.

Walter J. Sickles '41 held Pennsylvania to seven hits while Cornell collected nine, Stillman, Walter Scholl '41, third baseman, and Louis C. Bufalino '42, first baseman, each getting two. Cornell committed three errors, all told.

Pennsylvania scored one run in the second inning on two errors and a sacrifice, and three more in the sixth on four hits, a stolen base, and a base on balls. Cornell tied the score in the seventh with a four-run rally on Sickles' single; a pass to Robert E. Ochs '42, second baseman; singles by Stillman and Michael J. Ruddy '41, center fielder; a two-base hit by Scholl; and Bufalino's long fly.

Cornell started its southern series March 31, losing to North Carolina State, 1-4. The next day's game with Wake Forest was cancelled by rain. Then Cornell defeated the University of North Carolina, 4-2, and Duke, 8-5, before losing to Georgetown, 0-2. The final game of the trip, at Annapolis, resulted in an 11-4 victory over the US Naval Academy.

Two of the three victories were credited to Sickles and the third to Leo Hamalian '42. Raymond Jenkins '42 pitched two complete games and lost both. Best batter on the tour was Frank K. Finneran '41, catcher, who compiled an average of .333. Next was Sickles with .286. Only one Sophomore, William J. Andrews, appeared in the lineups of the first six games. He played regularly in center field during the southern trip and in right field in the Pennsylvania game.

A game with Syracuse, scheduled for April 9 at Syracuse, was postponed because the field was not in condition for play.

TENNIS TEAM STARTS

The tennis team won three and lost two matches during its spring recess trip in the South, with the Virginia match cancelled by rain.

Cornell twice defeated North Carolina State, 9-0, and also won from George Washington, 8-1. The University of North Carolina, however, won twice from Cornell, 7-0 (rain interrupted the doubles), and 7-2 in the tour's final match on April 5.

Coach Richard Lewis tried several combinations in singles, with Captain Kennedy Randall '41 in the No. 1 spot in four of the five matches. Randall won only one match. William E. Gifford '41 broke even in four matches as No. 2, and Louis C. Boochever, Jr. '41, at No. 3, won three matches and lost one.

When Coach Lewis withheld Randall and Gifford from one of two North Carolina State matches, Boochever played No. 1, Howard S. Dye '41, No. 2, and John R. Dingle '42, No. 3. Dye broke even in four singles matches, and Dingle won two of three. Only undefeated singles player was John M. Hansen '42, who played three matches. John E. Slater, Jr. '43 won three of four, and Jerome I. Lieberthal '42, two of three.

Dye and Lieberthal were used as a doubles team in all five matches, winning three. Randall and Gifford were paired, as were Boochever and Slater, each team winning two of three matches.

LACROSSE TEAM WORKS OUT

The lacrosse team went south during the spring recess and played one practice game, which it lost, as its scheduled contest with Johns Hopkins on April 5 was cancelled by rain.

The squad spent most of the week in Baltimore, Md., practicing with the Mt. Washington Club. Mt. Washington won the practice game, played April 2, at night, in Baltimore Stadium, 11-5.

FENCERS EIGHTH

The fencing team placed eighth in the Intercollegiates at Princeton March 28 and 29, as NYU won the team trophy.

Captain Daniel F. Kelley, Jr. '41 in foils, Donald S. Kent '42 in epee, and John W. Tunnell '42 in saber, reached the final rounds of their respective competitions. Rubin Clarvit '43 reached the semi-final round in foils.

PLAYERS ENJOY CUBA

The basketball team concluded a season that began with the Alfred game December 7 by winning three games from the Vedado Tennis Club team of Havana, Cuba, at Havana April 1, 2, and 3.

Minus James E. Bennet, Jr. '41, who underwent an appendectomy March 27, the squad left Ithaca March 28, flew from Miami, and arrived in Havana March 30. Milton D. Coe '43 was taken along in Bennett's place. Other players were William D. Stewart '42, who did not play because of a broken hand; Captain Kenneth N. Jolly '41, Howard S. Dunbar '41, Samuel W. Hunter '43 who took a separate train south and who was involved in a train wreck in Georgia without injury to himself, George W. Bouton '42, Robert J. Roshirt '43, Charles W. Jack '42, and Frank K. Burgess '42.

Others in the party were Robert J. Kane '34, assistant director of physical education and athletics, and Mrs. Kane, Coach Blair Gullion, Trainer Frank Kavanagh, and Manager Richard E. Holtzman '41. Irving R. Mitchell '43, a managerial compet, turned up at Havana and was pressed into service, first to keep records of the team's play, then to be used at forward in the last two games. He did not score.

Arrangements were made by Joaquin Molinet '21, former Varsity basketball

TEAMS ELECT CAPTAINS

Captains in three winter sports were elected just before the spring recess.

Joseph C. Littleton '42 of Corning and Forbes H. Brown '42 of Broadalbin will head the wrestling team. Littleton wrestled at 128 pounds in dual meets this season, but competed at 121 pounds in the Intercollegiates where he was defeated in the finals. Brown wrestled at 175 pounds until the Intercollegiates, when he won second place in the 165-pound class.

Co-captains of swimming will be George F. Critchlow '42 of Trenton, N. J., breaststroke specialist, and Norman F. Lewis '43 of Flushing, who competed in the backstroke event.

Philip B. Gibson '43, son of Professor A. Wright Gibson '17, Director of Resident Instruction in Agriculture, will lead the ski team.

ODDS AND ENDS

Two Junior Varsity and two 150-pound oarsmen last week were down with measles and twenty others, including some Varsity men, were under suspicion and daily medical checkups.

University champions in wrestling were crowned just before the spring recess. Winners in the week-long tournament were: 121 pounds, Joel L. Daigle, Sp '43; 128 pounds, Joseph C. ALL-TIME BASEBALL TEAMS

TO THE EDITOR:

Last year I wrote a letter to the NEWS in which I mentioned some former Cornell baseball players who had gone into professional ball. Several names were added to the list by the NEWS and others who wrote letters.

I thought it might be interesting this year to bring together some of the names mentioned and list a team of the earlier players and also a few of the more recent ones. None of us like to be thought of as "old timers," but the line has to be drawn somewhere if we are to select two teams. Accordingly, I am using the Class of 1909 as a dividing line. There are two 1909 players included on the list, and I am putting one in the older team and one in the more recent team.

Since I do not remember, personally, any of the men who played before 1907, I felt I should have some help in selecting these players. Consequently I asked "Tar" Young '99, "Rym" Berry '04, and Howard Cobb '95 who, according to Berry, knows more about Cornell baseball players than anyone else, to help me. "Tar" Young, of course, would not put himself on the team, but Mr. Cobb says he belongs there so I have included him as one of the pitchers.

We do not pretend that the list below includes all of the good men who have played on the baseball teams, but all of them have been rather outstanding during their years in College. I have included George Polzer as a second baseman, a position he did not play. I also have included "Dode" Birmingham '08 who left college to play with the Cleveland Indians and therefore did not play much baseball at Cornell. Realizing that space in the NEWS is valuable, I am submitting the list without any further comment:

OLDSTERS

YOUNGSTERS

1st base: Leslie D. Clute '13; 2d base: George F. Polzer '40; 3d base: Water Scholl '41; shortstop: Burke Magner '11; utility: Creed W. Fulton '09; outfield: Walter D. Switzer '35, Kenneth G. Brown '40, Paul W. Eckley '17, Edmund W. Butler '13; catcher: Paul Williams '10; pitchers: Walter J. Sickles '41, James A. Young '40, John A. Milligan '26.

APPROVES TELLURIDE

TO THE EDITOR:

Reading the article "Telluride—Democracy at Work" in the recent issue of the NEWS has repaid my subscription cost in full measure.

That unadorned, efficient-looking yellow brick house came into being while I was an undergraduate. The Telluride Association always remained a mystery to me as to its origin, organization, and purposes. If the Daily Sun of those days printed a story about it, I either missed it or received no clean-cut impression of that bit of "Democracy at Work" in our midst. My thought about it continued for a long time as another kind of fraternity house coming into existence to meet a vital need for student housing facilities.

In 1934, at Reunion time, I visited my friend Professor George Lincoln Burr who was then residing at the Telluride House. At my request, he gave me an outline of the Association but it was only a sketch to satisfy what he must have considered a bit of curiosity. Mr. Johnson's article claims and justifies a depth of meaning for the Telluride Association which I think characterizes some of the spirit of Ezra Cornell and the University he founded.

I am one of those unfortunate individuals who during all his life has accumulated debts that can never be fully discharged: debts to my university, to men like Professor Burr, Lane Cooper, and Professor Hull. During my undergraduate days I was unable ever to contribute to the extracurricular activities or responsibilities which constitute an important part of the life of democratic institutions. Quite by accident, and only after leaving college, did I become aware and sensible of some of my responsibilities as a citizen. Too few, even of college men, realize that a democracy provides for us all only in very general terms, and much work remains either as separate individual and group enterprise necessity, or as group effort in support of public agencies.

The training of individuals in the Telluride Association, for leadership in communities, is in my opinion of such important value as to be very much worth exposing and explaining.

FOOTBALL IN DENVER

Twenty members of the Cornell Club of Colorado entertained ten alumni of the University of Pennsylvania at a football smoker March 28 at the Brown Palace Hotel in Denver. Guests were welcomed by Fritz A. Nagel '12, and Charles Lahr '15 described last fall's Cornell-Pennsylvania football game as motion pictures were shown. The rest of the evening was given over to refreshments and singing.

NOW IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

In the daily introspections and appraisals to which a university submits itself at lunch, the students are commonly unconsidered. From the talk across the pushed-back plates and cups at Willard Straight, the visiting Boetian gains the impression that universities, constantly urged forward by the spirit of scholarly investigation, are as constantly held back by the necessity of having to deal with the undergraduate mind; all to the resulting quotient of zero.

Twenty years of that—or something like it—and the visiting Boetian becomes a self-appointed Tribune of the Plebes, the passionate advocate of the Third Estate. He rather welcomes the rumble of impending war, for Youth comes into its own once the guns are heard in the far hills and the thudding decibels come near.

Universities commonly operate in a sellers' market; the youthful customer takes what is offered him, pays the price plainly marked on the tag, and is supposed to like it. But universities and armies alike must have their cannon fodder, and the result is a competitive market advantageous to the customer.

So far, there has been some small leakage from the classroom to the training camp, but with the spring coming up and the students getting out again upon the soggy turf, there is no visible diminution in their number. From the window of the third-floor bathroom which Alma Mater has graciously assigned to the staff of the ALUMNI NEWS, one may overlook a vast expanse of playing fields and parade ground upon which at the moment is the usual excessive quantity of huge football players, mechanized artillery units, baseball teams (hard and soft), javelin throwers, discus hurlers, and military map-makers.

So far so good. But over in Morrill Hall where the budget makers ply their grim trade, there is justifiable alarm over the probable discontinuance of the present state of things. Each one of those javelin throwers is now paying annually into the clutching fingers of Mr. George Rogalsky, University extortioner, the sum of $400, and $400 becomes an imposing pile of money when multiplied by all those discus throwers, military map-makers, and intramural baseball teams. You can readily see then, from the foregoing, why the Third Estate is no longer overlooked in the professorial conversations at lunch.

Nobody knows how many students we'll have here next fall—least of all the budget makers. Already the departments have been warned to gird up their loins and be prepared to sacrifice all youthful, able-bodied, and unmarried instructors on the altar of patriotism. That's a pretty grim prospect—for the departments—but they are facing it courageously and are prepared to give and give and give, right down to their last unmarried instructor.

Your reporter will not here attempt to foretell what will happen in the fall, but he would be inclined to guess that applicants for admission will be received with more urbanity than they're met with in decades. Any young man of brilliant intellectual attainment, good moral character, and with the outward evidences of solvency, is apt to get in, we'd say. All the better, too, if he suffers slightly from flat feet, strangulated hernia, defective vision, and tooth trouble.

Students are becoming important again—even in universities!

HEADS GLASS COMPANY

Robert L. Clause '14 was elected April 3, president of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Pittsburgh, Pa. His father was one of the pioneers of the company. Clause joined it as a draftsman after he received the ME in 1914, became a director in 1922, vice-president in charge of glass manufacturing in 1926, and last June was elected to the newly-created post of executive vice-president. He is a member of Chi Psi; lives in Sewickley, Pa. Associated with him as superintendent of Pittsburgh's plate glass factories is David G. Hill '24.

Goodwillie '08 is executive vice-president and a director of Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Co. in Toledo.

CLUB MEETS IN AMHERST

Seventy-five Cornellians and friends met at the Lord Jeffrey Inn, Amherst, Mass., March 17, to hear Dean Carl E. Ladd '12 of the Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics. Dr. Hugh P. Prizes endowed by the late Forbes Heermans '78 for the best one-act plays on an American theme have been awarded for this year to E. Ann Nash '43 of Armonk and to Irving R. Merrill '41 of Ames, Iowa.

Miss Nash, a Sophomore in Home Economics, won first prize of $100 for her play, "Fork in the Road," in which a young woman considers the possibilities of marriage among several suitors, each scene taking place in her former home which has become a tourist resort. Second prize of $50 was awarded Merrill for his "Ballad of Claudius Smith," treating humorously the life and works of a notorious outlaw.

For "Claudius Smith" and another play, "Enchantment," Merrill also received second prize of $15 in a supplementary contest for plays on New York State themes. First prize of $25 in this went to Frederick M. Shelley III '42 of East Orange, N. J., for his plays, "Ruloff" and "McSorley." A Junior in Arts and Sciences, Shelley has demonstrated competence and versatility as an actor in several Dramatic Club productions.

Walker, Jr. of Waverly.

Hooker Fellowship in Hydraulics, writes the second of three parts on "Yellow River Regulation." "President's Message" of John P. Syme '26 to the Cornell Society of Engineers recounts that two former Deans of the College of Engineering, Albert W. Smith '78 and Dexter S. Kimball, have been elected the first honorary members of the Society. Syme also points out that a new regional group has been formed in New Jersey, headed by George N. Brown '08 as vice-president of the Society, and that $100 has been allocated for members of the Cornell Engineer board, eight book awards of $10 each for the two Sophomores in each School of the College of Engineering with outstanding scholastic records, and $250 each to the Alumni Fund for the College and to the University Placement Bureau.

DISTRIBUTE FUND MANUAL

Approximately 100 chairmen of Class committees for the Alumni Fund have received a new Class Representatives' Manual prepared by the Alumni Fund Council. The Manual is designed to assist Class committees in soliciting contributions to bring the Alumni Fund to its goal of $125,000 by June 30.

A foreword by President Edmund E. Day outlines "The Importance of the Alumni Fund to Cornell." Other "background" material summarizes the organization and operation of the Alumni Fund, the amounts raised annually since it was founded in 1909 (total of $2,443,255 in unrestricted gifts), the needs of the University including graphs showing distribution of income and expense and Cornell's endowment compared with those of other universities, and a statement of reasons for giving to Cornell with comparison of alumni contributions to other leading universities. With 12 per cent of its alumni contributing last year, Cornell ranked behind Dartmouth (56 per cent), Wellesley (45 per cent), Yale (23 per cent), and Harvard (14 per cent).

Five pages are devoted to suggestions for Class organization and procedure and to program of the Alumni Fund office, with a yearly calendar for the guidance of committee workers.

The Manual is in loose-leaf form, to allow for addition of supplementary reports and Class lists of contributors to be sent out by the Alumni Fund office as the current campaign progresses between now and June. The booklet is being sent to all of the 1,000 or more members of Class committees as they are appointed.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

ARCHITECTS celebrated the coming of spring with an egg-rolling contest Easter Monday on the greensward at their end of the Quadrangle. This was anathema to Engineers, as had been expected, and they came out of Sibley in force to do their duty. The scheme was cooked up last week as the Architects lolled in the sun in thirty-eight newly-purchased beach chairs in front of White Hall.

SUN BOARD for 1941-42 put out its first issue of the paper two days before spring recess. Night before, this sixty-first board of student editors and managers received felicitations of outgoing Seniors, editors of other publications, and representatives of the Faculty, coaching staff, and Ithaca businessmen at the annual Sun banquet at the Dutch.

NEW-EDITOR-IN-CHIEF and editorial director of the Sun is Frank C. Abbott '42 of Rocky River, Ohio, who is this year president of the student board of CURW. William J. Huff '41 of Upper Darby, Pa., editor-in-chief this year, remains as managing editor. Business manager is John H. Sanders '42 of Evanston, Ill., with David G. Hast '42 of Pittsburgh, Pa., circulation manager, and Philip R. Livingston '42 of Wayne, Pa., national advertising manager. Women's editor is Carolyn M. Evans '42 of Rockville Center, and Jean B. Coffin '42 is women's business manager.

TWO SENIORS from Stanford University upheld the isolationist point of view in a debate on "Our Present Foreign Policy" in Willard Straight Memorial Room April 9. Robert Newell and Linn Moses from the West Coast met William W. Sorn '41 of Albany and Frederick W. Jaqua '42 of Winchester, Ind., on the platform. Presiding officer was Professor David Harris, History, here this year from Stanford. No decision was announced.

STUDENT REQUESTS for discussions of "how to gain poise and ease in meeting people, attending social functions, and personal relations" have resulted in a series of six meetings arranged for successive Thursday afternoons in Willard Straight Hall. First of these, last week, was on "Observing the Amenities," led by Cecilia Werner, social director of the Hall. Milton R. Shaw '34, manager of dining rooms, follows with "Dinner at Eight." Then come Professors Bristow Adams, Agriculture Publications, and H. Darkes Albright, PhD '36, Public Speaking, on "General Appearance;" "Levels in an Adult Personality" by Dr. Ralph K. Concerning THE FACULTY

PRESIDENT EDMUND E. DAY, speaking before a special education panel of the twenty-eighth annual Schoolmen's Week at the University of Pennsylvania March 27, said that democratic methods alone could handle a defense task. He urged educators to restore a sense of responsibility in the lives of all Americans, asserting that "If there is any development in national life which seems to be ominous, it is the gradual weakening of the sense of responsibility in the local communities."

MRS. CLARA C. IRVINE, widow of the late Judge Frank Irvine '80, former Dean of the Law School, died March 22, 1941, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence J. Pope (Lida Irvine) '13, in Orange, N. J.

TRUSTEE WALTER C. TEAGLE '99 is one of four members appointed by President Roosevelt to represent employers on the eleven-man National Defense Mediation Board to "halt the wave of strikes that have tied up defense production." Since its organization meeting in Washington March 25, the Board has taken action to settle several strikes which slowed production of defense materials.

PROFESSORS HARRY P. WELD and Karl M. Dallenbach, PhD '13, Psychology, attended the annual meeting of the Society of Experimental Psychology March 27 and 28 at Rutgers University. This society was founded at Cornell in 1904 by the late Professor Edward B. Titchener.

PROFESSOR DEXTER S. KIMBALL, Engineering, Emeritus, predicted that "The United States will face eventually the temptation of using its armament for 'crusades';" at the twenty-fifth anniversary dinner of the Ithaca Chamber of Commerce, March 27. Speaking on "My Observations of the National Defense Program," Dean Kimball, who is chairman of machine tools priorities in the Office of Production Management, continued that "we shall emerge from this program armed to the teeth, with the greatest navy that ever sailed the seas . . . supported with the greatest productive capacity the world has ever seen." Admitting that the immediate result of the defense program had been tremendous expansion, he asserted that the country wasn't headed for another "silk shirt era. . . . The government is giving very thoughtful consideration to getting back to normal . . . a little easier." Professor Liberty Hyde Bailey, Agriculture, Emeritus, honored as one of four survivors of the original fifteen directors of the organization, spoke briefly comparing present world conditions with those of 1916.

DR. WILLIAM T. JAMES, PhD '29, Psychobiology, has discovered a nerve quality that may explain civilian bravery in wartime, according to the Associated Press. Experimenting on dogs and reproducing conditions comparable to "wartime" life, Dr. James found that stolid dogs turned coward when faced with repeated electric shock and suspense conditions, while high-strung animals adjusted to the expected shocks, escaping them as far as possible and then developing a "tolerance" to them.

PROFESSOR CHARLES A. TAYLOR '14, Extension, and Professor Carrie C. Williams, Home Economics Extension, were married March 30 in Ithaca, with Charles A. Taylor, Jr. '35 and Mrs. Taylor (Mary Willmott) '35 as attendants. After a tour of several western states, they will live at 204 Fairmont Avenue, Ithaca.

HENRY C. STANWOOD is a lieutenant-colonel in the Maryland National Guard and has supervision over the selective service boards of his State. He lives at 2702 Queen Anne Road, Winsor Hills, Baltimore. Incidentally, he should have no difficulty in getting into a discussion of Cornell affairs at any time, for at number 2701 dwell KARL PFEIFFER '12 and Mrs. Pfeiffer, and (when she is home) Miss Mary C. Pfeiffer, Freshman in Architecture.

JOHN H. BRODT reports from Chicago that his one-man building specialties business is keeping him about as busy as the famous one-armed paperhanger.

A Silver Anniversary certainly merits the kind of Jamboree which Cornell's Sons of '16 can stage, and your secretary sees many indications of a record turnout in June. Let's all resolve now to put '16 across at the Reunion on the Hill, just as Charlie Barrett used to get them over the line against Penn.

Called on President Williams of the Lehigh Valley Railroad recently, with Classmate FRED LYFORD, who runs the New York, Ontario & Western these days, and were soon engaged in the discussion of the smoothest and most efficient arrangements for taking care of '16's pilgrims going back to Ezra Cornell's town by way of the Lehigh's modern, comfortable train service. Williams assured us of complete cooperation in lining up special sleeping cars for '16 out of Pennsylvania Station, New York, Thursday night, June 12; also from Philadelphia, Chicago, etc., provided there is the proper enthusiasm among the local gangs at the latter places for traveling together in relaxation and good cheer. After all, one of the highlights of a Reunion is the pre-celebration in the club car the night before; with the complete assurance that you are headed right in the general direction of Ithaca!

In addition to the usual lower and upper berths, there will be drawing rooms and bedrooms available for reservation from New York, so put in your order right soon to your secretary. And let's see what '16 can do in the way of rail delegations from other points.

One of the pleasant memories of Cornell life is of genial, kindly Frank Lehigh, who did so much to smooth the perplexities of timetables and fares in the old days. As you know, he joined the Great Fraternity Beyond some years ago, and we'll miss him when our cars roll up to the big depot at the foot of the Hill. Leo Sullivan is carrying the ball for Frank these days, and he'll be glad to give us the benefit of his long railroad experience, as will Fred Kittler who heads the Lehigh Valley's Ithaca staff.

Looking out for our comfort on the New York sleepers will be Randolph, who has been on the Ithaca run since we were Sophomores, and in the intervening years has tucked many of us into our berths and ministered to our wants.

And that ubiquitous fixture of the Lehigh's organization, Alonzo, still lights the depot with his shining countenance. In his day he has hefted a mountain of Cornellian luggage, and time was when, if you visited practically any two better-class Ithaca restaurants of a Sunday, you would be vaguely puzzled to find Alonzo serving you each time. How he thus "doubled in china" has never been satisfactorily explained, but remains one of the minor secrets of the Cornell cabala. Yes, Alonzo will be on hand to greet his friends of '16 when the trains roll in for the Three Great Days in June!

They say June is the month for brides, but March seems to run a fairly close second. Recent weddings include JUNE MILLER to BOB RAY '40, March 8 in Sage Chapel. It was quite a Cornell wedding, with GERTRUDE JOHNSON '38, maid of honor and JOHN RAY III '42, best man. DR. BURTON J. RAY, Bob's father, is a Cornellian, having received his PhD in 1909. Bob is now a lieutenant in the US Army, and is stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C. They are living at 9 South Ashe Street, Southern Pines, N. C.

BARBARA CHAPMAN BYRNE writes: "... resigned my position as supervising dietician in the Nurse's Residence of the Hartford Hospital February 1. February 15, CHARLES BYRNE '40 and I were married in St. Paul's Church, Endicott. Charles is a chemist in the quantity control laboratory of the Snider Packing Corp. in Albion, where we live at 331 East State Street."

JEAN LINKLATER was married to Douglas Paine March 29 in the Kenmore Baptist Church. Doug is a preparator in the University Zoology Department, and they will probably live in Ithaca.

Along with the wedding announcements came this: Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. McTighe of Binghamton have announced the engagement of their daughter, HELEN '39, to DR. ROBERT O. ALLEN, DVM '38. Dr. Allen is meat and food inspector in Johnson City, where he also has offices at 269 Riverside Drive. Mrs. McTighe was the former MARY DONNELLAN '07.

Plans have been underway for Reunion for some time. The following committee will carry the bulk of the responsibilities for Reunion week-end on their capable shoulders: COSTUMES, SALLY STEINMAN; banquet, MARY DODDS and ETHEL PINES; registration, DORIS HEATH; finances, MARGARET PADDOCK. If you have any suggestions, we would like to hear them before final plans are made.

BEVERLY SCHWARTZ and AL SIKES '40 are being married April 19 in the Trumansburg Church. They will return to their respective jobs in Washington, D. C.

My Goodness, what springtime does! Here's another. Also April 19, but in the Little-Church-Around-the-Corner, New York City, RUTH MAUGHN is to be married to Alan F. Dick also mentions having spent an evening with BILL CONNOR and his wife in Tampa. Bill is the manager of the Tampa Yacht and Country Club.

BILL AYERS writes from Toledo, where he is with the Spicer Corp. in the engineering department, that he is enjoying his work and at the same time managing to take in night school at Toledo University. He also reports that TOMMY SCHULTZ is in Evansville, Ind., with Bucyrus-Erie Co. and that BOB HALLER left Barberton, Ohio, for New York April 1.

Congratulations are in order for DAVID ROE who reports the birth of a son, David Edwin, Cornell '62 (we hope), January 5. As far as I know, he is the first son of our Class. If any other proud father can dispute this, please let me know; otherwise David Edwin Roe will be the first official son of the Class of '40.

ART PETERS recently wrote me a very interesting letter from New York where he is with the Grace Co. He is thoroughly enjoying his work and manages to see BOB MARCUSSEN, BOB WOOD, JOHNNY LITTLE, and GEORGE WALKER at the Med School and DALL COORS and ED GREMSE who are working with him at Grace Co. Art also brings my attention to three recent marriages: the congratulations go to JIM BOSTWICK, BOB JOHNSON, and BOB RAY. Jim is in the Canadian Army, Bob Johnson is living in Chatham and works for Wright Aeronautical Corp. in Paterson, N. J., and Bob Ray is on duty at Fort Bragg, Fayetteville, N. C.

Art also mentions that FARRAND BENE-DICT is a second lieutenant at Aberdeen Proving Grounds and that he thinks DON WEADON is in the army at Fort Dix.

I was recently in Pittsburgh and managed to spend a little time with JOE MARSHALL who is with Westinghouse Electric. I also bumped into MARNE OBERNAUER '41 and PAUL MACNAMARA '37 at the Roosevelt Hotel where they are both working in the public relations department of the Hotel.

CURT ALLIAUME writes to say that he is in the 27th Division of Infantry at Fort McClellan, Alabama, rather than in Georgia as I had previously mentioned. He says it's still mighty cold down there and wants to know how BEW WHITE gets this "Sunny South" propaganda. Better answer that, Bew! I've received similar complaints from some of our Classmates now stationed in the neighborhood of your former stamping grounds.

On a recent trip to the East and Ithaca, during initiation week (all fraternities hold initiations at the same time now), I ran across GEORGIE SEARS and BOB SCHUYLER who are both taking courses at Cornell. I also saw STAN ALLEN at crew practice and am happy to report that he was holding a position in the first boat. Here's hoping we see you in the winning boat at Poughkeepsie, Stan.

TOO TIRED TO GET OUTDOORS?

It's Spring! Try Drinking
KNOX GELATINE
To Help KEEP UP ENDURANCE!

It's Spring! And that means bright sunshiny days for golf, tennis, hikes, and other outdoor activities. Are you all set for good times . . . or are you just too tired?

Perhaps your tiredness is caused by lack of enough of the right proteins in the diet. Then try this. Drink Knox Gelatine every day. Knox . . . that same familiar gelatine that's been used for over 50 years for salads and desserts . . . is an excellent supplementary protein. Taken in concentrated drink form, it may be just what you've been needing! Give Knox a trial, beginning today!

For more information, write for the FREE Knox Booklet E, Knox Gelatine, Dept. 89, Johnstown, N. Y.

FOLLOW THIS KNOX BUILD-UP FAITHFULLY . . . AT LEAST 2 WEEKS

Drink 4 envelopes of Knox a day for 2 weeks, then 2 a day for 2 weeks. After that, as you feel the need. Here's how to drink Knox.

1 Pour 1 envelope of plain, unflavored Knox Gelatine into a glass $\frac{3}{4}$ filled with water or fruit juice, not iced.

2 Let the liquid absorb the gelatine. Then stir briskly.

3 Drink immediately. If the gelatine thickens, stir again. Knox is tasteless, odorless.

Get Knox at your grocer's, in the regular 4-envelope kitchen package or the new, money-saving 32-envelope package. But be sure it's plain, unflavored Knox Gelatine—and only Knox!
