
CONTRIBUTORS

Benedict R. O'G. Anderson is the Aaron L. Binenkorb Professor of International Studies at Cornell University

Michael Bodden is Assistant Professor of Indonesian Language and Southeast Asian Literature at the University of Victoria, British Columbia

Siddharth Chandra is completing his PhD dissertation titled "Development and Market Structure in Indonesia: Three Essays" in Economics at Cornell University

John G. Butcher is a member of the faculty of Asian and International Studies at Griffith University, Queensland

Audrey R. Kahin is an editor and historian currently writing a book on the modern history of West Sumatra

Sarah Maxim is an editor and consultant based in Jakarta. She received her PhD in Southeast Asian History from Cornell University in 1992

Linda Owens studied Indonesian at the University of Washington in Seattle and in Yogyakarta, Central Java. She is currently working as a graphic designer and translator in Bali

Danilyn Rutherford is a Visiting Tutor in the Anthropology Department at Goldsmiths College in the University of London

Nora Taylor is completing her PhD in Art History at Cornell University

EDITORS' NOTE

The editors of Indonesia welcome submissions dealing with the subject of language in Indonesia for a special issue of the journal to be published in October 1997.

We invite contributors to interpret this broad topic as they see fit.