Change Convention Dates

Alumni Meetings To Be Held in Even-Numbered Years After Ithaca Session This Fall

The Board of Directors of the Alumni Corporation has voted that the conventions, which have been held in the fall of each year in different cities, will be more fruitful if they are scheduled in the future at intervals of two years. The ten conventions held annually since 1921 have served a useful purpose, both in providing a forum for the consideration of Cornell affairs, and in bringing the University, for two or three days, into important centers around the country.

The Board has made careful analysis of the conventions held, however, and feels that the alumni generally will be in agreement with a plan that will result in "bigger and better" conventions held less frequently. In coming to this conclusion the Board has been guided not only by the sentiment of Cornell alumni but also by the experience of the alumni of other colleges and universities.

It is planned to hold in Ithaca the convention scheduled for next fall. Thereafter conventions will be held on the even numbered years, in the fall of 1932, 1934, and so on.

The conventions are held in the fall of each year. The annual meetings are held in Ithaca in June. At the meeting to be held on June 14, the directors will present the proposal to amend the by-laws of the Corporation to permit of the new schedule of conventions.

CORNELLIANS AID BUILDING OF BIG OFFICE STRUCTURE

Two Cornellians are to be associated in the construction of the Empire State Building on the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, New York, projected as the tallest building in the world.

They are R. Harold Shreve '02 and Homer G. Balcom '97. The building, now in course of construction, was designed by Shreve, a member of the firm of Shreve, Lamb and Harmon, who was formerly instructor in the College of Architecture. Balcom is the consulting engineer in charge.

The Empire State Building will be the greatest office building in the world, capable of housing 20,000 persons, with more than fifty acres of usable floor space on eighty-four stories. The building will rise nearly a quarter-mile above its foundations. It is to be erected and completed in eighteen months.

Firms with which Shreve has been associated have designed the General Motors, Lefcourt National, and Salmon Buildings in New York, the Reynolds Tobacco Building in Winston-Salem, N. C., the Standard Building, Albany, and the Chimes Building, Syracuse.

Shreve acted as clerk of works for Carrere and Hastings during the construction of Goldwin Smith and Rockefeller Halls.

Balcom, after graduation, joined the Berlin Iron Bridge Company, transferring to the American Bridge Company when that company took over the Berlin Company. He was given charge of designing and estimating building construction. He served as structural engineer during the construction of the Grand Central Terminal. When that structure was finished, he opened his own office as a consulting engineer.

Nearly all the structures in the Grand Central zone in New York were erected under his direction, including Biltmore and Commodore Hotels and the Grand Central office buildings, the Chrysler Building, the Western Union Building, the Irving Trust Company Building, and the Department of Commerce Building at Washington, D. C.

FACULTY BOWLERS WIN

The Faculty bowling team won the championship of the Ithaca Bowling Association after a ninety-nine game schedule against eleven competing teams. The Faculty won in the final match of the season by taking two out of three games from the Y. M. C. A. team.

Members of the team were Dean Rollins A. Emerson, Sp. '99, of the Graduate School; Professor Romeyn Y. Thatcher '09, Professor Roy G. Wiggins, M.S. '15, Ph.D. '19, Professor Josiah R. Livermore '13, John J. McAllister, Professor Harry H. Love, Ph.D. '09, and William T. Craig.

IN Collier's for April 26 Dana Burnet '11 has a story entitled "Won't You Be William?"

Make Faculty Promotions

Trustees Also Ratify New Appointments—Two New History Professors Are Named by Board

Promotions of Faculty members to professorships and assistant professorships and appointments of new members were ratified by the Trustees at their spring meeting on April 26.

The two new appointees to the Faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences are Dr. Arthur Preston Whitaker, now associate professor at Western Reserve, to be professor of American history, and Dr. Carl Stephenson of the University of Wisconsin, to be professor of history.

Dr. Whitaker graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1915. Dr. Stephenson graduated from DePauw. He taught at Cornell during the first term of the academic year 1928-29, in the absence of Professor Preserved Smith.

Four assistant professors were promoted to professorships. They are Dr. Harry Caplan '16, assistant professor of the classics; Dr. John R. Johnson, assistant professor of organic chemistry; Frederick G. Marcham, Ph.D. '26, assistant professor of English history, and Dr. Howard S. Liddell, Ph.D. '23, assistant professor of physiology.

In the Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics, two new appointees were named to full professorships. They are Miss Day Monroe of the University of Chicago, to be professor of home economics, and Dr. Whiton Powell '24, associated with the Federal Farm Board, to be professor of business management in agriculture.

Five other Faculty members in these two colleges were promoted to full professorships on the recommendation of the State College Council to the Trustees. They are Helen Canon, who resigned a professorship in 1927 to study for her doctor's degree; Charles A. Taylor '14, specialist in extension service; Dr. Frank F. Hill, assistant professor of rural economy; Dr. Myers P. Rasmussen '19, assistant professor of marketing; and Grace Morin, assistant professor of home economics. Miss Morin also becomes temporary chairman of the Department of Household Art.

Newly appointed assistant professors include Dr. B. W. Jones of the California

ATHLETICS

DIVIDE LEAGUE GAMES

The baseball team broke even in two Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League games last week, losing to Columbia at New York, 8-7, and defeating Princeton at Princeton, 9-6. In a non-league game with Colgate at Ithaca, Cornell lost, 2-0.

Stevens lost a close decision in the Colgate game, when two timely hits scored a run in each of the seventh and eighth innings. Stevens gave only three hits, while Cornell gathered six off Slaght, Maroon pitcher.

A pass to Dashner with two out in the seventh started the Colgate scoring. Dashner stole second and came home on a single by Cottrell.

In the eighth Enoch walked, and the next two men were retired. Dowler got the only extra-base hit of the game, a triple to right, to score Enoch.

Cornell could not score base runners, seven men being left during the game. In the first inning, singles by Habicht and Moon went for nothing when the next batters failed to hit safely.

LIONS WIN IN NINTH

The Columbia game saw Cornell lose in the last inning, when a Lion rally produced the tying and winning runs. A brace of five runs in the eighth inning gave Cornell a two-run lead at the start of the ninth. Morrison opened for Columbia with a single. Habicht missed Balquist's grounder. Hewitt's sacrifice fly advanced the runners, and McLaughlin scored Morrison with a single, Bradley drove in the tying and winning run with a double.

Cornell got two runs in the third to start the scoring. Goodman walked and Heye was safe on Bender's error. Both advanced on a wild throw to first, and Boies scored them with a single.

The Lions took the lead in the sixth innings, only to see it fade under a barrage of Cornell hits in the eighth. Columbia errors helped to bring in five runs. In their half of the eighth the Lions scored two.

Boies gave thirteen hits in the eight innings he pitched, and the one hit off Stevens in the ninth was enough to win the game for Columbia. Bender gave only six hits.

Lewis pitched Cornell to victory at Princeton, although he allowed ten hits. Cornell rolled up a six-run advantage in the first four innings, and then added three runs in the eighth. Princeton rallies in the seventh and final frames failed to cut down the lead.

Cushman scored the first run of a brace of four in the second inning on a series of misplays by Carter, Princeton catcher. Cushman singled and stole second, only to continue on to third when Carter's throw went into the outfield. Cushman continued to the plate, scoring when Carter dropped Reinmund's throw.

Hits by Heye and Maiorana, two passes, and a wild pitch by Hendy, who relieved Moles, scored three more runs.

A hit by Maiorana, a pass to Habicht, a triple by Moon, and another wild throw by Carter gave Cornell two more tallies in the fourth. Hits by Carter and Vogt scored a Princeton run in the sixth.

Cornell hit safely fourteen times, Maiorana leading with three hits in six trips to the plate.

Pennsylvania, adding two victories during the week, went back into the lead in the standings of the six teams in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball Association, displacing Yale.

Pennsylvania defeated Columbia and Yale to make its record three games won and one lost. Cornell, breaking even in two games, had a record of two victories and two defeats and was tied with Yale for third place. Dartmouth, with two victories and one defeat, held second.

The standings:

The summaries:

LACROSSE TEAM PLAYS TIE

The lacrosse team played its third tie game of the season May 3 at Philadelphia, when Cornell and Pennsylvania were deadlocked at 5-5. The score at the end of the regular game was 4-4, and in the one extra period played, each team scored a goal.

Champion, Cornell attack player, led the Red and White offensive, scoring two goals unassisted in the first fifteen minutes of the game. Hadnot of Pennsylvania scored the only Quaker goal of the first half just before the end of the period.

In a scrimmage in front of the Cornell net just after the start of the second half, a Cornell player accidentally put the ball in for a free Pennsylvania tally. Taking a pass from behind the net, Trousdell scored to break the deadlock and give Cornell a 3-2 lead.

The Red and Blue went ahead in the next ten minutes on goals by Hadnot, but Fay's fine shot just before the whistle tied the score. Champion and Hadnot scored the goals in the extra period.

FRESHMAN RESULTS

Two defeats and a tie was the record of three freshman teams playing on May 3. The lacrosse team earned a 2-2 tie at Syracuse, while the baseball nine lost to Cortland Normal at Ithaca, 12-0, and the track team lost to Colgate at Ithaca, 80-55.

The yearlings obtained only four first places in the track meet. Rudiger captured the 100-yard dash in 0.10 $\frac{3}{4}$  seconds. Two freshmen broke the tape together in the two-mile run, Hamilton and McLaughlin. The time was 11.13 $\frac{3}{4}$ .

In the field events, Rieker took the shot put with a toss of 39 feet 3 inches, and Jones of Cornell hurled the hammer 108 feet 3 inches to win that event.

DR. FARRAND NAMED HEAD

NEW YORK HEALTH SURVEY

President Farrand has been asked by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt to serve as chairman of a special health commission to study and report upon the workings of the public health law and the various State and local authorities dealing with the promotion of health in New York State.

The proposed survey will be the first undertaken in seventeen years.

In a letter to those whom he has invited to serve on this commission, Governor Roosevelt indicated that, while New York State has one of the best public health laws of any of the States, and a State health department which has wide recognition as a leader in its field, the great discoveries in medical science make it desirable every few years to have an appraisal to determine the possibility of a more effective application in actual practice of the latest results of scientific research in the means of preventing disease and conserving health.

Among other members of the commission are Dr. George W. Cottis '04 of Jamestown and Dr. Edward L. Keyes, president of the American Social Hygiene Association and professor of urology in the Medical College.

IN Industrial Engineering and Chemistry for March volume 1 of A Handbook of Chemical Microscopy by Professors Emile M. Chamot '91 and Clyde W. Mason, Ph.D. '24, is reviewed by William H. Gesell. The book is a new edition of Chamot's Elementary Chemical Microscopy, 1915. The first volume deals with Principles and Use of Microscopes and Accessories. It is published by John Wiley & Sons and sells at $4.50. The second volume, now in preparation, will deal with Chemical Methods and Inorganic Qualitative Analysis.

THE SWINGING BRIDGE

BACKYARD BASEBALL

I hate to look at bad dancing, bad skating, bad billiards, bad golf. But there never was a game of bad baseball, played in whatever back lot, by whatever unproficient small boys, that I did not rejoice to watch. The feeble grounder going through the feebler shortstop's legs, the mild looping fly oozing through a fielder's butter fingers, the triumphant unearned run crossing the plate, the preposterous pose of the pitcher, manifestly derived from a big brother or an illustration on a sporting page, the coming batsman swinging three bats as valiantly as Babe Ruth, the cries of partisan rage and partisan joy, these are as tempting as forbidden fruit or a wine list in Dijon or Beaune. I can enjoy them all by myself, and I can't say that about many things.

Why does ardent baseball cast this spell on me? Movement, of course? but there is movement on a dance-room floor. Arithmetical results? but there is a score in golf: the score pretty nearly is golf. Zest? but there is zest in skating. Good spirits of youth? but there is that in many a game in whose presence I do not linger. It is, I wonder, because, like every other American man, I really know something about baseball,—not just know the rules, but know exactly why the players do certain things, and exactly why they do not do a hundred other things possible to do?

Knowledge is bliss.

ADDRESSES ON VERGIL

The Central New York Association of Phi Beta Kappa will hold its annual meeting with the Elmira Alumni Chapter on Saturday, May 17.

Luncheon will be served at the De Luxe Inn, 409 North Main Street, Elmira, at 12.45 Standard Time. Reservations should be made to Dr. Earl B. Howe, Elmira College.

The business meeting will follow in the College Library. Afterward Professor Herbert D. Yeames of Hobart will speak on "Vergil and Dante" and Professor Perley O. Place of Syracuse will speak on "Vergil, the Poet of Imperial Rome."

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY GIVES

D.C.S. TO MYRON C. TAYLOR '96

The honorary degree of Doctor of Commercial Science was conferred by New York University upon Myron C. Taylor '94 on April 16. The University has in the past twenty years granted a similar degree to sixteen other industrial leaders, including Charles M. Schwab, J. Pierrepont Morgan, Owen D. Young, Daniel Guggenheim, Coleman du Pont, and the late Elbert H. Gary.

"While commerce and industry are giving a new precision, new solidity and confidence, to the economic advance of our time, certain of the leaders are taking thought that these gains may be translated into gains for the higher life of all the people," said Chancellor Brown as he conferred the degree. "You, sir, have won a leading place among this number. Our meeting here today may be taken as accenting and symbolizing this new turn in American life."

The degree was conferred before a group of guests including Charles M. Schwab, Owen D. Young, Clarence Mackay, and others, at a private ceremony. It was conferred at this time rather than at the commencement exercises in June because of engagements which regularly take Mr. Taylor to Europe during the early summer months.

Among the notable achievements of Mr. Taylor during the past months were his plans for the recapitalization of the United States Steel Corporation, of which he is chairman of the Finance Committee, by which the bonded indebtedness of the company was eliminated, and his work in connection with the merger of the Guaranty Trust Company with the National Bank of Commerce in New York.

THE NEW SALARY scale at Northwestern increases salaries thirty-three per cent. Professors will receive $7,000 to $10,000; associate professors, $5,500 to $7,000; assistant professors, $4,000 to $5,000; instructors, $2,400 to $3,500.

MYRON C. TAYLOR, 94'

He was born in Fairfield, N. Y., on May 14, 1846, the son of James L. and Emaline Crane Morehouse. He received the degree of B.S. and was a member of Delta Upsilon. He received the degree of LL.B. from Hamilton in 1875, and had practiced law in Utica from that time until his retirement in 1927.

He is survived by four sons, Lawrence Morehouse '12, Merwin Morehouse '12, Russell Morehouse '13, and George C. Morehouse, Jr.

ISAAC P. ROOSA '74

Issac Percival Roosa, for forty years dispatch agent for the State Department at New York, died at his home in New York on April 29, of heart disease, at the age of seventy-six. He took three years in the science course. Mr. Roosa retired last January. His office was the only branch of the State Department outside of Washington. He had charge of all diplomatic mail and attended to all the requisitions made on the Department by diplomats and consuls throughout the world. Although he had never been abroad he had a remarkable knowledge of foreign lands. His wife died some time ago.

HARRY I. MILLER '83

Council Adds Members

Roll Call Bringing in 4,000 New Subscribers to Alumni Fund, Report to Trustees Shows

Four thousand new members of the Cornellian Council, an increase of nearly fifty per cent over the number of subscribers to the alumni fund of former years, is the estimate given by Harold Flack '12, executive secretary of the Council, in a report of activities to the Board of Trustees.

These new members were obtained through the Cornellian Council Roll Call.

Mr. Flack's report follows:

"The interest of the alumni has been concentrated recently on the Cornellian Council Roll Call which has been a nation-wide effort to increase substantially the number of members of the Cornellian Council, and consequently the number of annual contributors to the Alumni Fund.

"To date, although the Roll Call is not yet completed, we are glad to announce that we have already received at headquarters more than 2,000 new memberships, and it is estimated that at least 1,000 additional memberships are in the hands of local chairmen. We estimate conservatively that when the Roll Call is completed there will be at least 4,000 new members of the Council, which will represent a increase of nearly fifty per cent over the number of subscribers of former years. While this in itself is significant, we feel that the general impetus given by the Roll Call, and the meetings which have been held throughout the country, have been of even greater value to the University than the actual amount of money which has been raised in this effort.

"We have just received the final report from the chairman of the Rochester Committee. This is the first district to complete its canvass. Walter L. Todd '09 reports that the Cornellians of Rochester and Monroe County have obtained 235 new memberships for a total of $1603. This represents 82.9 per cent of the alumni in the district, and the total amount annually pledged by this group represents approximately $11,500.

"The following paragraphs are quoted from the report of the chairman of the Rochester Committee:

"The net result is that we have sent you 235 new pledges for a total of $1603. Undoubtedly the cards still outstanding will produce some additional results.

"While the amount of money raised is not large, we have done our best and feel very grateful to you for giving us the opportunity to participate in this great enterprise, because, as a result of it, we have added greatly to the memberships of the Cornell Club of Rochester; we have revived the Cornell spirit in a good many men who have been out of touch with Cornell affairs for a long period, and to our minds these by-products are just as important as the aggregate of these new subscriptions.

"You will note that our total number of Cornellian Council members or contributors has been increased to 452, which represents 83.9 per cent of the total number of Cornellians in Rochester and Monroe County, and representing approximately $11,500 in annual subscriptions."

"In connection with this effort it is estimated that nearly 100 Cornell dinners and other informal meetings were held throughout the United States and Havana and Hawaii on the evening of April 1, at which the Roll Call was launched. Many of these meetings were the largest Cornell gatherings ever held in their respective cities.

"It is expected that the total amount of the gifts to the University through the Cornellian Council this year will again approximate nearly $1,000,000, and in addition to the raising of unrestricted funds and also in raising money for specific purposes the Council's Committee on Bequests has worked quietly and persistently in its efforts to enlist the interest of the alumni and other friends of Cornell in making bequests to the University.

"It is estimated that more than $1,000,000 is written into wills with Cornell University as the beneficiary every year."

THE BIENNIAL CONVENTIONS

AMENDING the constitution is not by any means an innovation for the general alumni association. This is likely to be a fairly common incident in the existence of any body of the type of the Alumni Corporation. It can no longer be said with fairness, however, that the Corporation does little else. At present there is before the house a proposal to change the convention from annual to biennial.

There have been ten conventions of the Corporation and its predecessor, the Associate Alumnus. These meetings have pretty well covered the thickly Cornellian-populated parts of the country. From St. Louis through to New York and South to Washington, there has been a Cornell Convention at virtually every large center of Cornell population except Ithaca. Any center that could support a convention could have had one for the asking.

It has been apparent that in a few years it would have become necessary either to go again to some city that had been host before, or to go to cities with so few alumni that the individual burden would become prohibitive unless subsidized.

A biennial schedule will probably make it possible to hold conventions in some such manner. A longer trip would be possible for more of the regular attendants. It is still possible under the by-laws to hold special meetings in the event of an emergency and the same document has so constructed the basic organization that any distant district of the Corporation might readily hold a district convention in the in-between years if it felt that conventions were too distant or too infrequent.

The change seems to be a desirable one in every way. We hope the amendment as finally adopted will leave sufficient elasticity in the structure so that a convention can be held whenever and wherever one may be needed. Conversely, it would be a happy new thought in alumni government if the Corporation did not compel itself to convene where there is no need whatsoever for a convention.

Psychologist on Leave

Dallenbach, Ph.D. '13, Goes to Columbia University for Next Year. Jenkins '23 to Fill the Vacancy

Karl M. Dallenbach, assistant professor of psychology, has accepted the invitation of Columbia University to substitute for the year 1930-31 for Professor Robert S. Woodworth, head of the department, who will be on his sabbatic year. Dallenbach will give the courses in experimental psychology. To accept this invitation he applied for leave of absence from Cornell for the year, which was granted. His title at Columbia is visiting professor of psychology. His place here will be filled for the year by John G. Jenkins '23, Ph.D. '29, who left Cornell a year ago to teach at the University of Iowa. During this summer Dallenbach will give lectures on attention and memory at the University of Oregon, with Jenkins taking his place in the Cornell Summer School.

Professor Dallenbach has been at Cornell since his graduation (A.B., Illinois '10, A.M., Pittsburgh '11). In 1920 he acquired ownership of The American Journal of Psychology, the leading journal in the subject, and brought it to Cornell, where it took on a new degree of prosperity under the editorship of the late Edward Bradford Titchener and the management of Professor Dallenbach, who is now also editor-in-chief.

Dallenbach is a member of many organizations, including the National Institute of Psychology, the Society of Experimental Psychology, and the American Psychological Association, of which he is a member of the Council. During the War he was a captain, Psychological Division, Medical Corps, at Camp Sheridan. He is on the active list of the Central Board as a football official, usually officiating at Syracuse, Penn State, and other nearby institutions. He is a member of Delta Upsilon, Sigma Xi, Nu Sigma Nu, Phi Delta Kappa, Acacia, the Town and Gown Club, and the Rotary Club.

THE WEEK ON THE CAMPUS

WE have had, as yet, no answer from the Trustees to the handsome offer of Psi Upsilon and Sigma Phi to construct their houses as a part of the dormitory block. Charles H. Blair '97 has explained, in a letter to The Sun, the fraternities' purpose in such a way as to allay the fears of those who cannot conceive of a woodpile without a nigger.

MR. BLAIR points out the evil of the present housing policy, which is to concentrate non-fraternity men in a vast enclosure, and to send the fraternities ever farther into the country, thus emphasizing the social line of cleavage. He indicates the slowness of the dormitory development; we have succeeded in housing 331 men in 17 years, while the increase in men's registration has been over 1000. Sigma Phi and Psi Upsilon are making their offer "in order to bring about, if possible, the inauguration of a University Housing Policy that will include all students." Specifically, they propose to erect two buildings "at an aggregate cost of perhaps $400,000 or more, to be integral units of a dormitory group, built of native stone, with slate roofs, conforming in design and architectural treatment to the existing buildings. The proposal includes deeding these buildings to the University with provision for their maintenance and upkeep. There is no expense to the University." If the University accepts the policy, seven or eight other fraternities would seriously consider entering such a group immediately, with a second line in the distance of fraternities whose houses are gradually being kicked to pieces. The present layout of the dorms should be humanized by the allowance of space between the units to breathe and kick a football and pass a baseball; and recreation or lounging halls should be provided in all non-fraternity units. "Neither Sigma Phi nor Psi Upsilon is trying to get something from the University; on the contrary, according to their best judgment, they are offering Cornell a constructive plan which, if carried out, would provide a substantial and evergrowing addition to her endowment."

REGARDLESS of what may be built on this area, we are all delighted with one bit of destruction. They are tearing down the mess halls which stand just below the War Memorial, and which up to the present have given a needed object lesson on the architectural horrors of war. They were put up in the summer of 1918 to feed a corps of 450 radio engineers to be stationed here along with the flying school. Influenza and the Armistice prevented the formation of the corps. The halls were then converted to service as the Baker Cafeteria, and were so used until Willard Straight Hall was opened in the fall of 1925. It was indeed a situation to provoke a fit of musing in the sort of person who goes around having fits of musing; the sort of person, I mean, who wears a beard and who stands about poking at things with a cane. The boys, living in noble Gothic buildings of ancient beauty, would dash thrice daily to these mean and melancholy sheds, and throw in sufficient fuel and run away. Whereas, in the old tradition of the English universities, one may lodge as one will, in furnished chambers in town; but the one unalterable requirement is that one shall dine in hall, thus learning the public manners of a gentleman and absorbing the spiritual influences exuded from ancient oak and silver.

FRATERNITY LIFE has its special menaces from which the independents are free. A genial young man called at the Beta Sigma Rho House, introducing himself as a brother from Penn State. So many small objects disappeared within a couple of hours that the Penn State brother was rudely interpellated. He restored the articles demanded of him, and left the house in sorrow. But after he left further suspicions were aroused; he was pursued, arrested, searched, and discovered to be in possession of several Beta Sigma Rho shirts, a fraternity pin, a number of fountain pens, cigarette lighters, cigarette cases, ten dollars in cash, and other keepsakes. His name is given as Sidney Fisher of Edwardsville, Pa.; he was a student in Penn State last year.

THREE FRATERNITIES were entered early last Saturday morning: Chi Psi, Scorpion, and Pi Lambda Phi. The thief went through the pockets of the sleeping members, collecting a total of $240 in bills. The arrangement of many of the houses is ideal from the point of view of the sneak thief. The boys sleep in a dormitory on the third floor, leaving their clothes and valuables in studies or dressing rooms on the second floor. And of course, the front door is never locked.

THE INTERFRATERNITY athletic competition for the '97 All-Round Championship was won by the Chinese Students' Club. What price Nordic Supremacy now?

THE UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA gave its annual Spring concert with the aid of the Gerald Hinckley Endowment, and with the added attractions of solos by Edith Kimple, of Ithaca, pianist, and Francis Jones, violinist of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. The Orchestra presented in a most creditable manner what was probably the most exacting program of its career. George L. Coleman '95 was the director.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB on May 2-3 repeated its admirable production of "Six Characters in Search of an Author." As the play was advertised as "cerebral," there was hardly a student in the audience. Good business was reported down town for "The Girl Said No! He took Her for a Ride!—and Had to Walk Home Himself!"

ORLO H. MAUGHAN '31 of Ithaca tied with S. Richard Buscalia of Canisius College for first place in the Eastern Semi-Final Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest, held at Syracuse University. They will take part in the finals, to be held at Fordham College on May 16.

STATION WEAU is expanding still further. The College of Home Economics is broadcasting a homemakers' hour, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 1.15.

THE EAST ITHACA car made its last adventurous journey on Tuesday, April 29. It was a social event, Mayor Bergholtz and other notable characters being among the passengers. The students helped out with firecrackers, explosive powders on the track, and appropriate loud yelling.

DID YOU SEE the letter about us in Time for April 28? Stop me if you've heard it. "Sirs: Noted that you referred to Stanford University as the Cornell of the West in your recent article about David Starr Jordan (Time, March 17). I wish to take exception to that title. . .

"Stanford resembles no institutions in this country or any other. It is far more advanced than many and so hopelessly outclasses Cornell that it is unfair to Stanford to be called a counterpart of that School. With due respect to Cornell graduates, there are few who can go to the far corners of the earth and be considered outstanding because of their college, and that is the case of Stanford men. It is sufficient recommendation to say you are a 'Son of the Stanford Red' to have yourself respected anywhere as a person who amounts to something. Outside of this country, few people have heard of Cornell or care much about it. I am not saying this because President Hoover is a Stanford man, but that fact gave him a powerful recommendation and aided him greatly in reaching his present position. .

It is time that the impression the East has that Far-Western schools are merely a flock of cow colleges populated by a bunch of ignorant hayseeds who can do nothing but play football. . .

WILLIAM K. CURTICE

San Francisco, Calif."

A Stanford man on our Faculty commented that the letter must have been written "by a true-to-type alumnus with about three shots of beer in him."

BOOKS

A PENNSYLVANIA FAMILY

The Jacoby Family Genealogy: a Record of the Descendants of the Pioneer Peter Jacoby of Bucks County, Pennsylvania. By Henry Sylvester Jacoby. Lancaster, Pa. Lancaster Press, Inc. 1930. 23.6 cm., pp. xiv, 667. 300 copies printed.

This is a well made book embodying the results of many years' work. Since 1914 the author has written over 5,200 letters, more than five thousand in long-hand. He has gone through 1354 other genealogies to discover intermarriages. He has been most thorough. From the record he would seem to have been fairly successful in obtaining information; but he has not been well supported by subscriptions. The descendants of Peter Jacoby have no cause to be proud of the size of this edition. But probably many other families would make little if any better showing. The truth is that in spite of our 6,000 genealogies the importance of family history is far from being appreciated as it should be.

Professor Jacoby has employed an excellent system of numbers which indicate family relationships. The genealogy proper fills 532 pages. There are 43 pages of lineage charts. There are good indexes filling 23 pages.

Pp. 1-68 are filled with general historical matter highly interesting to the general reader. Peter Jacoby came to America in 1741 from the Palatinate. This suggests a careful study of the Pennsylvania Germans in general, which the author has not shrunk from, making it as full as space would permit. In 1752 the population of Pennsylvania was about 190,000; of these about 90,000 were Germans. They were and have always been among our most loyal and reliable citizens. In the Revolution they rendered invaluable service.

Since a large number of Jacobys intermarried with Scotch-Irish families, a chapter is devoted to the Covenanters. The history of this group, both before and after its representatives arrived in America, is vitally important for the understanding of much of our American life. The Scotch-Irish were among the first to appreciate the importance of education. Like the Germans they ardently supported the Revolution. They furnished, moreover, a large part of the colonial population. It has been estimated that in 1775 there were not less than 900,000 Scotch-Irish in America, whereas the Puritans could scarcely have numbered more than 600,000. And they were among the first to agitate emancipation. In 1826, out of 143 emancipation societies, 103 were in the South and there was not one in Massachusetts. The movement received its chief momentum in Virginia, Tennessee, and Kentucky. And it is the Covenanters together with the Baptists of Rhode Island and the Quakers of Rhode Island and Pennsylvania who deserve the chief credit for having given America religious liberty.

Let us have more of this kind of historical study. If anyone wants to go on, let him consult Professor Jacoby's list for the Germans, pp. 47-51, and for the Covenanters, Charles A. Hanna, The Scotch-Irish, or The Scot in North Britain, North Ireland and North America, New York, 1902, ii. 531-51.

. Uncle Pete . . .

"EVER since the first tower rose on this Hill-of-Dreams-Come-True, The Spirit of the Lake has beckoned to the sons of Cornell to come and row. Undaunted by defeat, unspoiled by victory, they have never failed in their devotion to this most poetic of the sports of men. Under the flush of sunset, over smooth waters, the throb of rowlock, and the whisper of feathering oars have sounded through many a greening spring and glowing fall, until The Spirit of the Lake has come to abide in the hearts of Cornellians the world around.

One of the best-loved of all Cornellians, Uncle Pete Smith is, of course, in the group of historians whose writings made A Half-Century at Cornell.

The paragraph is from The Spirit of the Lake, his story of the beginnings of the Cornell navy. And how much more you'll appreciate the Crew Song and Poughkeepsie Course after you've read it!

It's a fair sample of A Half-Century at Cornell, the Hill's human history—by the humans who made it.
