THE Beaux Arts ball, a great Oriental party, given by students in architecture, proved a decided success. About four hundred invited guests attended. Among other features were a pantomime by J. W. Ross '20, of New York, and an interpretative dance by Miss Ruth Chamberlain of Wells College. The artistic competition was won by Dorothy Levy '20 of Philadelphia; and the prize for costumes by Professor and Mrs. Eugene P. Andrews.

A RALLY in behalf of Mr. Hoover's candidacy was held in Barnes Hall last Thursday evening, the first public notice of the impending campaign. The speakers were Carroll N. Whitman '14 and Professors Bristow Adams, Martha Van Rensselaer, and Allyn A. Young. The meeting adopted as a campaign slogan, "The Man That Knows." Directors of a Hoover Club were elected, Professor Young being chairman.

PROFESSOR Ralph S. Hosmer, of the Department of Forestry, attended last week in New York a meeting of the American Pulp and Paper Association. The purpose of this conference was the gathering, from foresters, lumbermen, and consumers, of accurate information about the supply of pulp and paper, especially news print paper. This week, April 19-24, Professor Hosmer is representing Cornell at the meeting in Chicago of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association. A principal subject of discussion is the proposed National forestry program, in which both foresters and lumbermen have a chief concern. This meeting is attended also by Professor A. B. Recknagel as secretary of the Empire State Forest Products Association.

THE JUNIOR and senior honorary societies united last week in a complimentary dinner to the three new coaches of University athletics, Nicholas Bawlf, John P. Henry, and Gilmour Dobie. Each made a short address, principally about his own sport, but with suggestions also about athletics in general. Professor Bristow Adams was toastmaster.

THE NOTEWORTHY lectures of the week are "Oil: a Waning Heritage" by Dr. David White '86, chief geologist of the United States Geological Survey, before the Cornell chapter of Sigma Xi; and "High-Tension Insulators" by Mr. A. O. Austin, chief engineer of the Ohio Insulator Company, before the Ithaca Section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

A RECITAL of music and poetry for the benefit of the Bryn Mawr College Endowment Fund was given in Barnes Hall on Wednesday evening. The program was arranged by Mrs. Charles A. Carroll, Bryn Mawr '11; and those taking part were Miss Gertrude Nye, Mrs. Charles K. Burdick, Professor Martin W. Sampson, and a string quartette.

THE EDITORIAL STAFF of The Widow has been selected for the coming year. The editor-in-chief is William C. Murray '21, of Dunkirk, N. Y., who has previously held the position and who resigned upon the return of Sidney C. Doolittle '20, editor-in-chief when he entered Government service. Other officials are these: artistic editor, Albert S. Duncan '22, Brooklyn, N. Y.; business manager, Ansley Wilcox, 2d, '21, Castleton-on-Hudson; assistant business manager, Fred C. Chandler '22, Cleveland, Ohio; circulation manager, H. T. Foster '22, Utica, N. Y.

A NEW BOARD for The Cornell Law Quarterly is also announced: editor-in-chief, John W. Reavis '21, Washington, D. C.; managing editor, J. P. McGaughy '21, Pine Bluff, Ark.; business manager, Samuel C. Whitman '21, Afton, N. Y.; assistant business manager, Arthur S. Johnson '22, Woodside, N. Y.

SIX SENIORS, after preliminary trials, have been selected to compete for the Woodford Prize in original oratory: William H. Farnham, Buffalo, N. Y.; Charles H. King, Stockbridge, N. Y.; H. J. McNeil, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Archie M. Palmer, Hoboken, N. J.; Hyman Stansky, Brooklyn, N. Y.; and I. H. Warshaw, Brooklyn, N. Y. All the contestants are registered in Arts and Sciences. The public contest is set for Friday, May 17.

RAVEN AND SERPENT, the women's junior society, has elected ten new members from the present sophomore class: Katherine H. Blauvelt, Syracuse, N.

Y.; Evelyn N. Davis, Haddonfield, N. J.; Bertha H. Funnell, Huntington, N. Y.; Helen I. Howell, Ithaca; Helen Kinney, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Ferdinanda I. Legare, Charleston, S. C.; Gertrude M. Lynahan, Corning, N. Y.; Olive E. Northup, Ithaca; Elizabeth Pratt, Wellesley Hills, Mass.; and Mildred V. Rowe, Hampton, Va.

THE INTERFRATERNITY ASSOCIATION has under consideration some changes in the rules about rushing. Among other suggestions is a proposal to require of each fraternity at the beginning of the year a bond of possibly $500 as a guarantee against infractions of the rules. It is also suggested that there be created a board of impartial judges, men living in Ithaca but not connected with the University, whose duty it shall be to settle disputes arising out of alleged violations of the rules in their letter and spirit. The sentiment of the fraternity men at a recent meeting of the association was against second-term rushing and in favor of second-term initiation. These and other minor proposals will be voted on after discussion by the separate societies.

TWO PLAYS in French were given on Tuesday evening by members of Le Cercle Français: "Le Mariage Forcé" by Molière and "Les Deux Sœurs" by Jules Moineaux.

THE VARSITY golf schedule thus far includes five matches during the season. The first game is against Williams at North Adams, Mass., on May 13. They follow Amherst at Holyoke on May 14, Harvard in New York City on May 15, Columbia and Pennsylvania both in Philadelphia on May 28 and 29.

THETA ALPHA has bought a house at 618 Stewart Avenue for $22,000. The house has twenty-two rooms and the lot has a frontage of 104 feet. The fraternity will take possession on September 1, moving from its present rented house in the same block.

STUDENTS in architecture both at Cornell and elsewhere, have an opportunity to make an architectural tour of England, France, and Italy during the summer. The itinerary is being arranged and other plans devised by Ernest Coxhead of California.

The Endowment Campaign

Undergraduates Pledge $320,010 on First Day—Grand Total $3,870,000

Undergraduate subscriptions to the Endowment Fund totaling $320,010 at noon of the first day of the undergraduate campaign swelled the grand total of the Endowment Fund to nearly four million dollars. Following an inspiring talk by Professor C. L. Durham '99 in a University Convocation 486 of the students who packed Bailey Hall signed subscriptions totaling $234,400, an average of $482. Previous subscriptions by student committeemen for both men and women brought the undergraduate total up to nearly one-third of a million dollars. The grand total at noon on April 19 was $3,870,376.20.

Because many who attended the Convocation did not turn in pledges at once, and because of the personal canvass of every man and woman in the University which will be carried on by the committee of undergraduates who have undertaken to raise these professorships, the committee predicts that the goal of a million dollars will be raised before the campaign ends next Monday. The $234,400 subscribed at the Convocation represents only about half of the subscriptions which may reasonably be expected.

The past week has seen a general quickening in the spirit of the campaign throughout the country. Practically every district has made substantial gains in the amount collected. St. Louis jumped from $26,260 to $73,460 and the end is not yet.

Four new cities have been admitted to the honor roll of the highest ten by percentage of Cornellians subscribing since last week. They are St. Louis, which is tied with Indianapolis for eighth place with thirty per cent; and Cleveland, Youngstown, and Detroit, all tied for tenth place with twenty-four per cent each. The Rochester women still lead this list with a one hundred per cent subscription; Duluth is still second with seventy-five per cent; the Rochester men are third with sixty-nine per cent; and Newark and Milwaukee have taken fifth and sixth places with forty-three per cent and forty-two per cent. Newark, which was two places behind Milwaukee at the last report, has now crowded in ahead to fourth place with forty-three per cent, leaving Milwaukee at fifth, Boston at sixth, and Buffalo at seventh. Philadelphia has come from tenth to ninth place, crowding Cincinnati and Minneapolis with twenty-nine per cent. Indianapolis still holds its position as eighth, but is being crowded by St. Louis, the new-comer on the honor roll. The cities having the ten largest percentages of Cornellians enrolled as subscribers for this week are as follows:

Rochester women	100 per cent
Duluth	75 per cent
Rochester men	69 per cent
Newark	43 per cent
Milwaukee	42 per cent
Boston	41 per cent
Buffalo	31 per cent
St. Louis	30 per cent
Indianapolis	30 per cent
Philadelphia	29 per cent
Cincinnati	29 per cent
Minneapolis	28 per cent
Cleveland	24 per cent
Youngstown	24 per cent
Detroit	24 per cent

In increase of total amount subscribed during the week, Chicago leads the ten cities which have collected the largest totals, with an increase of $22,994. New York is second in increase with $20,915, and Pittsburgh follows closely with $10,325. The names and amounts collected from each of the ten cities which have collected the largest total thus far appear below in the order of largest amount:

New York	$1,076,781
Chicago	361,174
Cleveland	214,079
Philadelphia	180,000
Pittsburgh	160,734
Youngstown	127,060
Newark	124,416
Ithaca	113,200
Boston	105,020
Milwaukee	100,100

The Class Campaigns

This week's reports show that '08 has forged ahead of '84 since last week, and holds second place in the honor roll of the ten classes which have subscribed the most so far with a total of $176,645. '97 still leads with $182,036. '84 holds third place with $164,780, and '00 is fourth with $116,432. The ten-year men have descended one place in the list, but with an increase in their total of $3,630. Three new arrivals in the honor roll of the highest ten have caused a general upheaval in the line-up as it stood last week: '06, with a total of $86,746, has come up from the depths to send '88, which held that position last week with $67,970, to ninth place, but with an increase to $69,245. '05 has come into the race with $75,616 to send '95, the former holder of sixth place, to the depths of oblivion below the glorious ten on this roll. '07 has entered the race with $65,950 to displace '92 from tenth place. '01 has dropped from seventh to eighth place, but with an increase from $58,651 last week to $70,806 this week.

The class of '06, beside appearing on the honor roll for large subscriptions for this week, holds the record for increase in number of subscribers. The '14 men have added the names of 54 classmates to their list. '12 is second with 29 new subscribers; '91 is third with 25 more than last week; and '17 is fourth with 18 new ones in the week. The remaining places in the list of the ten classes who have added the most to their number seem to be hotly contested this week. '15 and '10 are tied for fifth place with 16 each, and '05, '07, and '16 are tied for sixth place with 15 names added to each of their lists during the week. '13 and '14 have each added 14 new names, thus sharing the honor of seventh place, while '04 holds solitary sway in eighth place with 12 additions. '90, '99, and '18 are holding each other at ninth place with 11 new names each among their subscribers. '08 and '98, although ten years apart in time, are together at tenth place in the race for increase in number of subscribers with ten each. Ten years apart, tie for tenth place, with ten new subscribers each; where is the class of '10?

The total amount subscribed by each of the ten leading classes in the order of the amount of the subscriptions from each is as follows:

'97	$182,036
'08	176,645
'84	164,780
'00	116,432
'06	86,746
'94	77,740
'05	75,616
'01	70,806
'88	69,245
'07	65,950

A SOFT BALL LEAGUE has been formed by teams from eight fraternities. Games will begin this week. The schedule is so arranged that each team will play with each of the other teams only once. The winning team is to receive a cup presented by Treman, King and Company.

Young Going to Harvard New Chair Created for Him at Cambridge—His Career

Professor Allyn A. Young, since 1913 professor of economics and finance at Cornell, has accepted a call to Harvard and will begin his work there next fall. In 1910-11 he lectured on economics at Harvard; and ever since, it is said, Harvard has been anxious to add him to her permanent staff, and has now created a new professorship which he goes to fill.

Professor Young is now in his forty-fourth year. His college course was pursued at Hiram College, and in 1902 he became a Ph.D. of the University of Wisconsin. He afterward taught successively at Wisconsin, Western Reserve, and Dartmouth; and from 1906 to 1911 was head of the department of economics at Stanford. After two years at Washington University he came to Cornell.

In 1917-19 Professor Young was absent on leave engaged in war work. He directed the Bureau of Research of the War Trade Board and was a member of the commission which, under the direction of Col. E. M. House '81, made preliminary studies for the Peace Commission. In Paris he had, as an economic expert, a share in working out the amount of the German indemnity, and was one of the leaders at the Peace Conference.

Dr. Young has been since 1914 secretary and treasurer of the American Economic Association. He is a fellow of the Royal Statistical Society, a past president of the American Statistical Association, and a member of several other economic, historical, and statistical societies. He has made an enviable international reputation as a scholar and teacher, and his loss from our Faculty will be keenly felt.

1910 MEMORIAL PROFESSORSHIP

At a recent meeting of the members of the class of 1910 residing in and around New York City, it was suggested that a Memorial Professorship be established in honor of the men of the class who gave their lives during the Great War. It is hoped that the presentation to the University of this endowed professorship will be a feature of the Decennial Reunion in June. All subscriptions by members of the class that have not been designated for other professorships will be applied to this Class

Memorial. All who have not yet subscribed to the Endowment Fund are urged to do so and to indicate that such subscriptions are to be applied to the 1910 Professorship. Information concerning the scheme may be obtained by writing to the class secretary, Andrew J. Whinery, 790 Broad Street, Newark, N. J.

THE PITTSBURGH BANQUET

One of the most successful parties ever staged by the Cornell Association of Western Pennsylvania was held on April 10 at the Hotel Schenley, Pittsburgh. The attendance was 125, including several promising prep-school athletes who are headed towards Ithaca.

The principal speakers were Professor Orth and Graduate Manager Berry from Ithaca. Thomas Fleming, jr., '05, president of the association, took charge of the proceedings and introduced James I. Buchanan as toastmaster. Buchanan, having had an opportunity to become quite well acquainted with Messrs. Orth and Berry while on a personally conducted tour during the afternoon under the auspices of Roger Findley '09, was felicitous in his remarks and launched the speakers without mishap.

Professor Orth's speech, pointing out the responsibilities of college-trained men in leading the affairs of the nation through these turbulent days, coupled with Berry's story of activities at the University, made a very happy combination.

An ex-Glee Club quartette consisting of Ed. Goodwillie '10, first tenor, C. J. Ramsburg '99, second tenor, Karl W. Gass '12, baritone, and A. N. Slocum '01, bass, sang several selections and led the general singing. "Bunny" Ramsburg sang "My Mother's Songs" with quartette chorus, which made a hit and reminded a lot of old grads of Glee Club stunts in days of yore.

Motion pictures and slides furnished by the Endowment Committee proved of great interest, particularly to those who had not visited Ithaca in several years. While the subject of "Endowment" was taboo for the evening, a chart showing progress to date by groups of classes was hung on the wall where he who ran could read. The interest and enthusiasm aroused during the banquet stimulated efforts toward the endowment goal and have already resulted in several substantial subscriptions.

The Music Festival

Brilliant Assemblage of Soloists—Important Works to be Given

After a lapse of four years, the Department of Music announces the twelfth annual Music Festival to be held in Bailey Hall, May 13, 14, and 15. From every point of view it promises to be the most brilliant ever held at the University.

The following soloists have been engaged: Grace Bonner Williams, soprano; Louise Homer, contralto; Edward Johnson, tenor; Paul Althouse, tenor; Reinold Werrenrath, barytone; Thomas Chalmers, barytone; and Charles Trowbridge Tittman, bass. The leading works to be given are "Aida," by Verdi; "The Dream of Gerontius," oratorio by Edward Elgar; "A Song of Victory," a cantata by Percy Fletcher; "The Beatitudes," oratorio by Cesar Franck; and "Symphony No. 4," by Tchaikovsky.

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Frederick Stock will assist. There will be four concerts.

All the soloists have been heard in Ithaca before excepting Major Tittman, who comes highly recommended, and Thomas Chalmers, leading barytone of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Mr. Johnson's return to this country after ten years' study in Italy has been one of the musical events of the season. He will sing in "The Beatitudes" and "The Dream of Gerontius," both works being especially adapted to his voice. Mr. Werrenrath, who, it is said, has reached almost perfection in his art, will also sing in "The Beatitudes" and "The Dream of Gerontius," which are generally conceded to be the two greatest choral compositions of the last half-century. For "Aida," which will be given the first evening, a Metropolitan cast has been chosen, with the exception of Mrs. Bonner-Williams, who has the title role. Mme. Homer is said to be the greatest living Amneris and Paul Althouse finely adequate as Rhadames. Mr. Chalmers has made a great success with the Metropolitan Company as Amonasro.

Mail orders for season tickets accompanied by remittance will be filled at once, in the order of receipt. Prices $4, $5, $6, and $7 according to location. All tickets are transferable. Address, Department of Music, Box 417, Ithaca, N. Y.

CIVIL ENGINEERS' DINNER

The attendance at the annual spring meeting of the Cornell Society of Civil Engineers on April 9 was unusually large, and results of the meeting were encouraging for the proposed combined engineering society. The association met at the Engineering Societies' Building, 29 West 39th Street, New York.

Amendments to the constitution of the Cornell Society of Civil Engineers were suggested—changing the name to the Cornell Society of Engineers, and providing for the eligibility of all Cornell engineers to membership. These proposals will be acted upon at the annual fall meeting in October.

Dean-elect Dexter S. Kimball, of the combined engineering colleges, delivered the principal address, and was enthusiastically received.

APPROPRIATION BILL SIGNED

Governor Smith, by signing the annual appropriation bill, has approved the expenditure of sums therein provided for the maintenance and future development of the College of Agriculture. According to recent reports from Albany, the college thus becomes assured of a total appropriation of $1,787,888.80, of which $517,000 is for the erection of new buildings and $14,530 for the State Game Farm.

Although the new law makes only a little more than half a million dollars available at once for new construction, it directs the State Architect to prepare plans for the further extension of the college; and it authorizes the Board of Trustees, following the architect's plans, to enter into contracts for additional construction to the amount of $3,000,000.

The remaining $1,256,358.80 is for the salaries of the staff and expenses of operation during the fiscal year from July 1, 1920, to June 30, 1921. This appropriation is larger than last year's by $282,855, of which about two-thirds will go for increased salaries.

The law also provides for some new officers of administration, principally a vice-dean of resident instruction and a vice-director of the Experiment Station. There is already a vice-director in charge of the extension service. The filling of the new positions will therefore complete the administrative organization in the three chief phases of work which the law requires of the college.

CINCINNATI FOOTBALL TROPHY

The Cornell Alumni Association of Southern Ohio, writes Tell Berna, holds a luncheon every Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce, Cincinnati. All Cornellians who happen to be in the city on a Wednesday are urged to attend. The association has voted to present a cup to be held by the championship interscholastic football team every year, and a medal to each member of the winning team every fall, in order to stimulate interest in Cornell.

1910 REUNION COMMITTEE

A reunion committee has been appointed by the secretary of the class of 1910 to assist him in the work preliminary to the Decennial Reunion which will be held June 19 to 21. Each member of the committee will communicate with the men in the class residing in his immediate section of the country and will persuade every one to attend the reunion if possible. The members of the committee are George Pond, "Hobe" Young, "Dutch" Wessinger, "Hank" Lindsay, Ed Goodwillie, "Erv" Kent, "Bud" Ebersole, "Puss" Lally, Paul Williams, "Bill" Clift, "Ted" White, "Jack" Dorrance, "Bert" Matthai, "Don" Dey, "Jim" Rutherford, "Mal" Jones, Dr. W. H. McNeil, "Polly" Noyes, "Brad" Delehanly, "Gil" Crawford, and Roy Taylor.

A MESSAGE TO 1905

1905 Men:

Are you on your toes for the fifteen-year reunion to be held in June? There is no question about the 125 members who were back for the Semi-Centennial Celebration last year. They have agreed individually and collectively to be on hand this year. In fact, you couldn't hold them back. The other six or seven hundred members of the class, however, do not know what they missed.

This is the year for a grand GET-TOGETHER of the old class of 1905. Eddie Holmes is going to handle the campaign. You will get his first hot-shot within a few days. Get into it now. Write to Eddie at 2844 Rockwood Place, Toledo, Ohio, any suggestions that you wish to have carried out. Get busy with your “cronies” in '05, especially those who have forgotten that they ever went to Cornell.

Send in your address to the Class Secretary at once that your record may be brought down to date. Time is short and we must have action.

DETROIT STUDIES STRIKES

The strike situation was discussed at the weekly luncheon of the Cornell Association of Michigan held at the Hotel Cadillac in Detroit on April 15. Heatley Green '01 spoke on “Industrial Aspects of the Strike,” and Dudley Alleman, of the Bureau of Markets, on “The Food Situation and the Strike.” “Doc” Peters '14 also spoke on “Ithaca Doings.”

On April 24 an intercollegiate luncheon is to be held.

LANDSCAPE PRIZE AWARDS

In the recent competition conducted by the Landscape Committee of the “Own Your Home” Exposition, the landscape layout submitted by Jacob John Spoon of 220 Broadway was awarded first prize. The jury appointed by the American Society of Landscape Architects consisted of Charles Downing Lay, Noel Chamberlain, and Gilmore D. Clarke. The second prize was awarded to Paul Allen de Tamble '18, a graduate of the College of Agriculture, and now a student in the Graduate School, and the third to Alberta Johnson '20, of the College of Agriculture. Twenty-two plans in all were received and the general average, the judges declared, was very high.

The first prize was $125; the second, $75; and the third, $50. The contest was open to all members of the New York chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects, all draftsmen and junior draftsmen employed in offices of practicing members of the chapter, and students of landscape architecture at Cornell University.

HORTICULTURAL PRIZES

The sum of $1,000 from the estate of Charles A. Ring of Newfane, Niagara County, has recently become available as the Ring Memorial Fund. The interest from this fund is to be used in the advancement of horticultural science.

It has been decided that this income shall be devoted to the establishment of two prizes in relation to horticultural research. The first prize is to be about $30 and the second about $20. They will be awarded to undergraduate students in the College of Agriculture for essays which review publications in floriculture, vegetable gardening, or pomology. These essays will be marked on the student's ability to measure the value of scientific evidence in these fields. The essays will be due annually on May 1.

In making the bequest to Cornell, Charles A. Ring, the donor, stated in his will that the action was taken because his father, Dr. William Ring, was a personal friend of Ezra Cornell; and that the bequest was “also in acknowledgment of the great assistance the University has been to me on my farm, and especially regarding horticultural matters.”

THE ANNUAL triangular debates were held Saturday night on the question, “Resolved, that the United States should intervene in Mexico for the establishment of a stable government.” At Ithaca a Cornell team composed of W. H. Farnham '20 and Peter A. Schultz '20, both of Buffalo, N. Y., and Francis D. Wallace '21, of Geneva, N. Y., upheld the affirmative against Columbia; and in Philadelphia a Cornell team made up of Charles M. Cormack '20 of Buffalo, Charles C. Garside '21, of Meriden, Conn., and Hyman Stansky '20, of Brooklyn, upheld the negative against Pennsylvania. Cornell lost both debates, thereby repeating the record of last year. Full stenographic records were taken of the speeches in the Cornell-Columbia contest, for inclusion in the forthcoming new edition of “Intercollegiate Debates,” published by the H. W. Wilson Company.

THE REUNIONS

In another column will be found the reunion advertisement of the class of 1915, which holds its first five-year reunion in June. Every member of 1915 should take notice; for every member of the class has a share of responsibility for the success of the reunion. The return should not be merely coming back for a good time, though that is guaranteed; it should be also a pious pilgrimage to the shrine of Alma Mater, for the purpose of renewed inspiration and for study of Cornell's problems.

And this applies not to 1915 alone but to all the reunion classes. At the Big Reunion last June everybody had a first-class time; numbers helped in this, but after all did not contribute so very much; it was the spirit that had been developed, and that is a big asset always. Every class can have nearly as good a time at every reunion, if only the committee will first do its work, systematically and energetically, and the members of the class who can get away from home will then do theirs.

Think what it will mean for Cornell if every June five hundred or a thousand old students come back to renew friendships and study on the spot the questions that confront the University. The Alumni can and must take an active part in the affairs of the University on which they are now spending their money. But it must also be an intelligent part, based on full, first hand information.

STATE SUPPORT

It is a matter of much gratification that the Governor and the Legislature have had due regard for the pressing needs of the College of Agriculture and at a time when strict economy in State expenditures has been found imperative have not placed the burden of retrenchment on Dean Mann and his Faculty. The appropriation just voted will enable the college to make some much needed increases in salaries and to begin the erection of some buildings which have long been sadly needed, and without which the efficiency of the departments concerned would soon become decidedly diminished.

SUGAR IN CHICAGO

"The Sugar Situation" was the subject of an address by George M. Chapman '05 at the regular luncheon of the Cornell Association of Illinois at the City Club, Chicago, on April 15. The speaker explained why there was a sugar shortage last year, and spoke of the present prospects.

THE BRITISH-AMERICAN CLUB has now completed its organization. It begins its active work with a membership of one hundred and twenty-three, of whom sixteen are on the staff of instruction. The officers, elected last week, are: president, Willard I. Emerson '20, of New York City, formerly a student at Cambridge University, England; vice-president, L. K. Elmhirst, B. A. of Cambridge, now registered in the Graduate School; secretary, J. H. D. Hoyt '20, of Buffalo, N. Y., who has attended the University of Oxford; treasurer, Major E. A. Southee, of Rockdale, New South Wales, a graduate of Oxford; graduate treasurer, Harold Flack '12, of Ithaca. The club is considering a proposal to send each year one or two of its members to Oxford or Cambridge on terms similar to those governing Rhodes scholars.

THE CORNELL SPIRIT

The following song, written by Erwin L. Malone '17, made a decided hit at the Cleveland Cornell banquet last month:

It happened long ago,
But we all of us do know
Upon Cayuga's shore there fell a mirage wondrous clear;
And soon for all to see,
Arose majestically,
The Alma Mater that we hold so dear:

Chorus

Years roll on, yet there's one spot we never will forget,
And 'tis true the sun of fame can never on it set.
There's a spirit she imparts to all who come within her gates—
It's this touch alone that from a boy a man creates,
It's the cause triumphant in our victories,
But 'tis sure defeat can ne'er besmirch her name,
And this spirit that does life's troubles quell
In just one place will ever dwell,
With proud acclaim her name we tell—
CORNELL.

We've gathered here to-day
To tell you of the way
These sons of hers will fight for right until the day is done;
If ever we fall behind,
Bear this right in mind—
The battle's on, but then it's just begun!

Years roll on, etc.

NEWSPAPER FILES RECEIVED

The University Library has received from Edgar Williams '14, of Washington, D. C., an extremely interesting collection of newspapers printed in Germany and Belgium during the period from June, 1916, to March, 1917.

Among those received are the despised Continental Times published in Berlin, in English, for the purpose of enlisting the sympathy of the Americans in Berlin. There are also copies of La Belgique and Le Bruxellois, whose editors have been convicted of treason.

Other similar publications of more or less continuous issue during this time are also included, making a unique collection for the use of future students of this period.

C. E. COLLEGE BANQUET

The first annual banquet of the College of Civil Engineering since the war was held at the Ithaca Hotel Saturday night, and was attended by approximately 250 guests.

The guests were entertained with a banjo stunt by J. W. Ross '20 and A. B. Hunkin '20. Following this C. H. Baker '86 spoke on "The Connecting Link," describing the part played by the engineer in the development of man, from the first use of the forces of nature to the common use of electricity, railways, steamboats, and airships.

Nicholas Bawlf, coach of the lacrosse team, related the history of the game of lacrosse and showed the difference between the game as played by the originators and that of modern enthusiasts. He said that the sport is essentially a game of skill and one engineers are particularly adapted and fitted to play.

Awards of the college shingles for basketball were made by A. V. Wallace '20, chairman of the athletic committee, to the members of the college team: Robert Becker '22, Aaron Carrol '22, J. H. Stalker '20, F. O. Schreiner '22, C. E. Rice '23, and R. S. Anderson '22. These men composed the champion inter-college team of the University.

"The Lighthouse of Hydraulics" was the subject of a speech made by F. W. Scheidenhelm '05.

Prof. Dexter Kimball spoke on the consolidation of the engineering colleges, pointing out that after the union we shall have the largest engineering school in the country.

WOMEN PLAYERS SCORE

At the Lyceum on Saturday, April 17, the Women's Dramatic Club presented Percy Mackeye's "A Thousand Years Ago" to a large and enthusiastic audience. Admirable staging, splendid costuming, well chosen parts and acting which seemed complete in spite of the soprano voices of the burly lords and courtiers, combined to make the performance in keeping with the high standards of Cornell dramatics.

The play was directed by Marcia McCartney '20, and to her also is due much praise for the clever interpretation of the part of the princess. Her acting was buoyant and unforced; the scene in the second part of Act III, which afforded her the best opportunity for stage-play, clearly showed her ability.

Laura Zametkin '21, as the prince, probably had the best speaking voice of the cast, and threw a great deal of fervor into her part.

Janet MacAdam '21, as emperor, carried off her part with due jauntiness and nonchalance, which lent special charm to her always clever acting.

The support by the masquers from Venice, lords of the divan, and slaves of the harem, was excellent. As a whole the play was exceedingly well done. The players constantly gave evidence of careful and intelligent effort. The Oriental flavor was maintained from start to finish.

TEMPERANCE WORKERS

Professor Thomas N. Carver, Ph.D. '94, of Harvard, and Dr. Haven Emerson of the Cornell Medical School were on March 26 elected vice-presidents of the Scientific Temperance Federation at its annual meeting. The organization is extensively engaged in supplying information on special topics to authors and workers in America and abroad, and in furnishing exhibits for conventions, fairs, and expositions. It thus does important work in the education of public sentiment.

COL. THOMPSON AT PITTSBURGH

At the weekly luncheon of the Cornell University Association of Western Pennsylvania, held on April 16 at the Chamber of Commerce, Pittsburgh, the guest of honor was Colonel Joseph H. Thompson, of the 28th Division, who, after being wounded four times, cited twice, and decorated once, gathered the American Army athletes in the Pershing Stadium at Paris and won the Inter-Allied Athletic Meet.

OBITUARY

William M. Aber, '87-9 Grad.

Professor William M. Aber, head of the department of Latin and Greek at the University of Montana, died as a result of an attack of influenza, in a hospital at Waterbury, Conn., on September 2 last, in his seventy-second year. He went to the hospital early last summer. When it became apparent that he could not resume his work for some time, a leave of absence was granted him by the authorities of the university, which he had served for twenty-four years.

He was a Yale graduate and studied classical archeology here in 1887-9.

Of Professor Aber Dean A. L. Stone writes thus in The University of Montana Alumni Quarterly:

"Ever since there has been a University of Montana, Professor Aber's name has been closely connected with all records of its good works; he was identified closely with the progress of the institution and his influence was felt far outside his department; his appearance at any general function at the university or the mention of his name was a signal for a cheer. A close and careful student, Professor Aber knew boys and girls even better than he knew books. While the department of which he was the head is associated generally with the ultra-academic traditions which are at variance with the more recent concept of effective educational work, Professor Aber held to none of the moss-grown ideas; he was young at heart, vigorous in mind, and courageous. His fidelity to the university's physical development was not greater than his earnest desire that its standing should never be lowered and that its fair name should never be sullied. He learned in his quiet way to know nearly all of the students, though the registration of his own department was comparatively small. The interest which he took in the young men and women was sincere; there are many stories told on the campus of Aber-given assistance to young men in trouble of some sort or other."

LITERARY REVIEW

A History of Industry

An Introduction to the Industrial History of England. By Abbott Payson Usher, Ph.D. Boston. Houghton Mifflin Company. 1920. 8vo, pp. xxii, 530, xxxiv. Price, $2.50 net.

No history of industry for the use of the people, so far as we know, has yet been written. Yet this is perhaps the most important phase of history. The opening of the Liverpool and Manchester Railway in 1825 was of infinitely more importance to the world than the accession of William IV to the English throne. We have heard a great deal of the Reform Bill of 1832; but the development of the great industrial movement which led to this redistribution of Parliamentary representation is a fact of greater significance, since it led to results of which the Reform Bill was only one, and was by no means the most important.

A series of readable texts on the history of industry in the leading countries of the world such as Dr. Usher has given us for England would be of the greatest value, and besides being used in courses in industrial history might well serve as collateral reading for students of political and financial history. Take the development of the railway, for example. Who would have supposed that after the invention of the Newcomen engine, patented in 1705, it would take sixty years for James Watt to conceive the idea of the separate condensing chamber and thus reduce the waste of Newcomen's machine (1765), or that it would require another sixty-five years before the first railway could be opened? Such facts make one duly modest as a member of the race of intelligence.

Dr. Usher's first three chapters are introductory and deal with forms of industrial organization, the rise of the crafts in antiquity, and craft guilds in medieval France. Then he takes up the growth of population in England between 1086 and 1700, in which time the number of inhabitants is estimated to have increased from 1,800,000 to 5,653,000, and in mean density from 35.38 to 111.10. The population of London, which in 1348 was under 50,000, had increased by 1595 to 152,478 and by 1801 to about 864,000. Then the author studies the village and the manor; he is duly and properly suspicious of attempts to read into the industrial history of the past conditions peculiarly unfavorable to the toiler. This chapter is followed by studies of the traders and the towns; the development of the English guilds; the woolen industries; the enclosure movement and land reform; the industrial revolution which came after, though not necessarily as a result of, the rise of inventions; the East India Company and the vested interests; the cotton industry after the coming of machinery; the reorganization of the metal trades after the invention of the coke-burning furnace and the steam engine; the rise of the modern factory system; collective bargaining; state protection of health; the development of the railway and government regulation of the roads; combinations and monopolies; and the problem of incomes, wages, and social unrest.

The author's style is eminently readable and his attitude is judicial and fair. He has appended a good list of selected references with illuminating critical comments, and a good index.

Books and Magazine Articles

In The Journal of English and Germanic Philology for October, lately issued, Dr. Allen H. Gilbert '09, of Rice Institute, writes on "The Furrow in Keats' Ode to Autumn." Professor Oliver F. Emerson, Ph.D. '91, of Western Reserve University, reviews the second edition of Hartley Bateson's "Patience, a West Midland Poem of the Fourteenth Century" (Longmans). Professor Joseph Q. Adams, jr., Ph. D. '06, reviews Charles L. Lockert's edition of Massinger and Field's "The Fatal Dowry," a Princeton dissertation.

Professor Oliver F. Emerson, Ph. D. '91, of Western Reserve, contributes to Modern Language Notes for March an article on "Mead-Meadow, Shade-Shadow, A Study in Analogy." Professor Elijah C. Hills '92, of Indiana University, contributes "A Bibliography of the Published Works of Federico Hansen," director of the Instituto Pedagógico of the University of Chile, who died on August 29. Professor James W. Bright, the editor, reviews Professor Frederick C. Prescott's "Poetry and Dreams" (Boston, The Four Seas Company).

In The Cornell Civil Engineer for February Colonel Fred W. Scheidenhelm '05, who was in charge of the water supply service of the First Army, A. E. F., writes on "Keeping the First Army Supplied with Water." Robert L. Fox '09, city engineer of Bethlehem, Pa., describes "Tests on 63-Inch Core Joint Reinforced Concrete Pipe." Alfred S. Mirick '01, chief construction engineer of the Nebraska Department of Public Works, writes on "Concrete Road Construction in Nebraska." George F. Wieghardt '09, highways engineer of Baltimore, is the author of an article on "More than Eighty Miles of Concrete Alleys in Baltimore," reprinted from The Concrete Highway Magazine. Marius S. Darrow '99 discusses briefly "Taking the Question Out of the Good Roads Question."

In the Journal of the American Institute of Architects for March Frederick L. Ackerman '01 continues his serial on city planning with a discussion of "Where Goes the City Planning Movement?"

In The Engineering News-Record for March 11, Frances A. Kellor '97

presents "A Leaf from Lenin's Policy on Manpower." Her concluding paragraph is: "Let us take a leaf out of Lenin's policy of applying manpower eight hours a day relentlessly to the job, cutting out the camouflage and fog, and make Bolshevism impossible in America through revolution because American industrial leadership has believed in and solved the problem through evolution."

John L. Elliott '92 writes in The Survey for March 20 on "The Worn Doorstep; Hudson Guild After Twenty-five Years." In the issue for March 27 Frederick L. Ackerman '01, under the title of "The Hearing," discusses the present shortage of houses.

In The New Republic for March 17 Dr. Herman M. Biggs '82 writes on "The Henry Street Settlement," pleading for support of the Visiting Nurse Service administered by the Henry Street Settlement throughout Manhattan, Staten Island, and the Bronx.

The Railway Age for March 5 contains an article on "Remuneration Not Commensurate with Services" by Professor Fred A. Barnes '97, in which he expresses the view that the railroads themselves are responsible for the fact that so many engineers are leaving railroad work.

THE FUERTES PRIZES for excellence in public speaking were awarded on Friday, April 16, the three prizes going to William D. Ellis, of Atlanta, Ga., Earl F. O'Brien, of Solvay, N. Y., and C. M. Stotz, of Crafton Station, Pa. Ellis urged that a reinforced concrete bridge should be built over Cascadilla Gorge between West Avenue and Eddy Street; O'Brien spoke against such a structure; and Stotz's topic was "A Commercial Building as a War Memorial." The winners are registered respectively in Sibley, in Civil Engineering, and in Architecture, the three colleges whose students may enter the competition. There were four other speakers. These are cash prizes of one hundred and twenty-five, of thirty-five, and of twenty dollars, founded by Charles H. Baker '86. They are altogether distinct from the Fuertes Medals awarded for scholarship and research in civil engineering.

THE SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER for Sunday, April 25, is the Rev. Dr. Wallace E. Brown, formerly of Ithaca, now of the University Methodist Episcopal Church of Syracuse, N. Y.

ATHLETICS

Spring Football Practice

Upwards of one hundred candidates for next fall's football team are taking part in daily practice on Schoellkopf Field, where Coach Gilmour Dobie is laying the foundations for next season. All of the men who will try for positions on the team next year are expected to take part in this practice except those who are actively engaged in some other form of sport.

Dobie is teaching the men the fundamentals of the game, laying especial emphasis last week on position, carrying the ball, pivoting, and running. This week's program included blocking, tackling, falling on the ball, and passing.

Lacrosse Revival

An effort is being made to interest a large number of undergraduates in the game of lacrosse not only as a varsity but as an intercollegiate sport and a form of pleasant recreation and exercise. Nicholas Bawlf, the varsity coach, is taking an active part in this movement, which so far is meeting with success.

Candidates for football and other sports are being urged to take up lacrosse as a form of exercise designed to make them better fitted for the sports in which they are especially interested.

Meanwhile the varsity lacrosse squad, recently doubled in numbers, is working vigorously in preparation for the intercollegiate contests of the spring. The first game, a practice affair which will not count in the league standing, will be played with Hobart at Geneva Saturday.

On its Southern trip the team defeated Swarthmore, 7 to 0, and Maryland State College, 8 to 0, but lost to Johns Hopkins, 9 to 1.

Baseball Team Ready

The varsity baseball team will open the season on Percy Field Saturday with Colgate as the opposing team. In the period that has elapsed since the team returned from the Southern trip the men have made marked progress despite the unfavorable weather conditions, and it seems possible that the team this year will be a strong one. Certainly as a team it shows much greater strength in batting than has been the case in recent years.

In a practice game with the freshman team last Saturday the varsity won 15 to 3, getting fifteen hits. Rickard and Maloney worked on the mound for the varsity and allowed seven hits between them, only three being secured off Rickard in six innings. The feature of the game was a home run drive by Davies, who pounded one of Flumerfelt's offerings over the clubhouse, a feat said not to have been performed since Phil Lewis's day.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

THE MUNICIPAL University of Akron will celebrate, on June 13-16, the semi-centennial of the foundation of Buchtel College. The college was founded by Ohio Universalists in 1870 and continued to be a Universalist institution until 1913, when it was taken over by the City of Akron as the College of Arts of the newly established Municipal University.

AT CHICAGO Tau Kappa Epsilon has held the first place in scholarship since the fall of 1917. In the list of standings lately announced, its eleven members and nine pledges made a grade of 3.266. Delta Chi was next with 3.216 and Chi Psi third with 2.823. Alpha Delta Phi and Delta Chi were the only fraternities out of a group of twenty-three that were able to initiate all of their pledges. In one fraternity fifty per cent of the pledges were held up because of low standings.

COLUMBIA COLLEGE has instituted an honors system. Candidates for gradua-

Movette

That forward pass that saved the day, that sprint of twenty yards that swept the whole field off its feet or that accurate kick clean over the goal they were all caught by Movette in actual motion and held "for keeps." You can now refer to them at any time and see just how each play was carried out. No still, lifeless snapshot will serve the purpose. It was all motion and motion alone can produce it.

It's the easiest thing in the world to do this with Movette.

You simply place the small film package in the camera, turn the crank, and return it to us for developing and printing. The result is motion pictures as clear as those you see in the theatres but smaller -- just the right size for the fraternity house or club.

Send for beautifully illustrated catalog describing the system in detail tion with honors will be required to read, discuss, and study a select list of books. Meetings of the honors men, held weekly for discussion, will be under the charge of professors or others whose study of the books has been thorough. For this work twenty-four hours of credit will be given. In addition each candidate will select a field in which to do special and intensive work and which, it is hoped, will cross departmental lines. The honors men will be in charge of a faculty committee of six. Two other innovations recently adopted at Columbia are the adoption of the psychological tests as an alternative method of admission and the five-hour required freshman course in contemporary civilization, which Professor Woodbridge has spoken of as an attempt to impart "like-mindedness" to the Columbia undergraduate body.

VIRGINIA has decided to admit women to the graduate and professional schools. The women admitted must be at least twenty years old and must have had two years of college work; these requirements for the most part place them on the same footing with men.

ALUMNI NOTES

'92 ME—Frederic H. Parke has recently been made general engineer of the Westinghouse Company. Parke went to work for the Westinghouse Machine Company immediately after his graduation, first as a draftsman and later as engineer of tests. In 1898 he became associated with the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, and spent the first four years of his service in Petrograd, assisting in the installation of the Westinghouse air brake plant being erected there to handle the Russian railway business. Returning to the home office at Wilmerding, Pa., he was placed in charge of the publicity department, and afterward was made industrial engineer, serving in this capacity until 1911; he was then made resident engineer of the Southeastern district, holding this position until his recent promotion.

'92 CE—Ernest H. Baldwin is chief construction engineer with the Sinclair Refining Company, Chicago, Ill.

'93 ME, '94 MME—On March 16 at the annual convention of the American Railroad Engineering Association, Edwin B. Katté was elected to the board of directors for a term of three years, and was made chairman of the committee on electricity. He is chief engineer of electric traction with the New York Central Railroad, and lives at Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y.

'96 CE—George S. Tompkins accepted, on April 1, a position as superintendent of the improved risk department at the Eastern office of the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company, located at 70 Kilby Street, Boston.

'03-4 G—Dr. George Canby Robinson will on July 7 next become dean of the Vanderbilt University School of Medicine. The Vanderbilt Alumnus for March has the following to say about him: "Dr. Robinson is a Baltimorean by birth, and received his B. A. degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1899, and his M. D. degree from the same institution in 1903. His first academic appointment was in the Department of Anatomy at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, where he served for part of a year, and resigned to become resident pathologist in the Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. After serving in this capacity for two and one-half years he became resident physician in the same hospital and continued in this work for two years. At the end of his hospital service he spent a year in Germany, taking most of his work in the department of medicine, University of Munich, under Professor Friedrich von Müller. After completing his studies in Europe he returned to Philadelphia in 1909, and engaged in the practice of medicine and organized the laboratory of the Presbyterian Hospital in that city. In September, 1910, at the opening of the Hospital of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, he was appointed resident physician of that institution, where he remained for three years. In 1913 he became associate professor of medicine in Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri. During the war Dr. Robinson served as acting dean of the Washington University Medical School, and during the past year he has held the position of dean. His training has been in internal medicine and in pathology. Although this change becomes effective July 7, 1920, Dr. Robinson will not assume active charge of the teaching of medicine in the Vanderbilt School of Medicine until the fall of 1921, but will

1915 Reunion Plans Spring Day---May 22---Ithaca

The party is rapidly gathering momentum and promises to be a regular 1915 affair. Every member of the class in each locality should assist other members in that locality along the following lines:

1. Start a series of weekly luncheons or dinners to work out plans among the local men for attending the reunion. This is already being done in New York.

2. Each fraternity man take up with the active chapter of his fraternity the question of an individual 1915 reunion at the chapter house while the members are in Ithaca.

3. Prepare a stunt to be pulled off by a 1915 man as a part of the Spring Day Show which the 1915 class will hold for the benefit of the Athletic Association. The show will be in the form of a revue with members of the class in different cities putting on individual acts depicting conditions or some particular character in their city. A valuable prize will be awarded to the participants who produce the best act.

Information on developments along these lines should be sent to
