*Lady
Into Fox!*

A lady, we hear, was telling a friend about us.

"Aren't you foxy," said the friend, "to find such a lovely hotel in a city that has so many hotels."

Among the reasons why people think so well of us are our location in the heart of one of New York's most desirable neighborhoods, our large good-looking rooms, the unusual atmosphere of quiet cosmopolitan good-living, and our hospitable dining room and popular little bar.

It's true the Grosvenor is a touch different—with differences you'll like.

ARCHITECTURE AIDS WAR ENTERPRISES

By Raymond F. Howes '24

Students in the College of Architecture who desire to use their professional training for war work face a paradox. Although the armed forces and civilian organizations with war contracts need more young architects than they can get, no deferment for students of architecture has yet been approved by Selective Service headquarters in Washington. Hence students subject to induction under the Selective Service Act can practice their profession only if they are commissioned in the Army or Navy or leave college for work with architects, contractors, or other firms with Government war orders.

Upperclassmen Enter War Service

Result of this situation is that at Cornell a large proportion of the men in the upper classes have applied for and received commissions in the ROTC or the Naval Reserve. During this year, including several who accelerated their programs and graduated in February, nine students in Architecture have been commissioned as ensigns in the US Naval Reserve under the V(S) program, which allows them to remain in college until graduation; six have been commissioned or will be commissioned second lieutenants in the US Army on completion of advanced courses in the ROTC; eleven are employed by architects or contractors on Army or Naval bases or on emergency housing; three are employed by the American Bridge Co. on important war work; two have joined the air forces; three have been drafted; and one has enlisted in the Army. One of these enlisted men has been chosen to attend the Engineer Officers' Training Camp at Fort Belvoir, Va. Two more students, who have completed four years in the University and hold commissions as second lieutenants in the ROTC, have been given permission by the Army to remain until they complete the five-year course.

Several of the men who hold commissions in the Army or Navy will be assigned to duties for which they are fully qualified but which are usually considered as engineering; for example, reading aerial maps, handling construction projects, and working on ordnance problems. A special committee of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture has pointed out in a statement to authorities in Washington that many architecture graduates are thus being employed by the Government

Seventh in our series on Cornell and World War II, this article shows some of the war contributions of the College of Architecture. All divisions of the University are rapidly adjusting their programs to give maximum assistance in the country's war effort. Previous articles have described these changes in several Colleges and departments. Others will be covered in succeeding issues.

under the title of engineer, and has asked, in view of the present and prospective scarcity of such graduates, that architects be included in the official list for occupational deferment. If this request is granted, the situation may change somewhat. But this year, with a first-term enrollment of 142, including thirty-three women, and a Senior Class of twenty-one, the College of Architecture has a very high percentage of upperclassmen on inactive duty in the armed forces.

"The remaining members of the student body," said Dean Gilmore D. Clarke '13 in a recent report to alumni of the College, "realize that, for the present at least, the best procedure in the circumstances is to carry on with their studies, thus to prepare themselves to follow in the footsteps of the older men who have joined the active ranks in the service of their country."

College Runs Throughout Year

In order that every student who desires to do so may complete his course in the shortest possible time, the College has adopted an optional accelerated program, with three terms of fifteen weeks in each year. Thus a good student may complete the usual five-year course in three and one-third calendar years. The time will vary somewhat for individual students, because Freshmen will be allowed to enter June 29 if they wish and thus take advantage of an eleven-week Summer Session before September, and because it is the general practice of the Faculty to determine the number of credit hours for which a student may enroll each term by his grades in preceding terms.

This year the College, in cooperation with the Graduate School, has expanded its instruction in city and regional planning to lead to the new degree of Master in Regional Planning which was authorized by the Trustees last June.

This is an outgrowth of undergraduate courses in planning which have been supported for five years with a grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York and opened to upperclassmen in all colleges.

Teach War Planning

These courses have taken on wartime application through some of the consulting work being done by members of the Faculty who teach them. Dean Clarke and Professor Thomas W. Mackesey have recently completed a report setting forth a new plan for the city of Watertown to meet conditions created by proximity to the Army's Pine Camp. The plan includes a new zoning law, new planning regulations, a new street layout, a program for traffic diversion, and the selection of special sites for war housing projects. Dean Clarke is also engaged on a war housing plan for the Meltropolitan Life Insurance Co. in Alexandria, Va., and on a War Department housing program at Mitchell Field, in association with R. H. Shreve '02. With Robert Moses he is consultant to the Michigan State Highway Department on a plan to develop certain highways in the strategic network of that State, and is chairman of the National Commission of Fine Arts, which works with Government officials in planning the erection of permanent and temporary war buildings in Washington, D. C.

The degree, Master of Landscape Architecture, will now also be given to graduate students who have previously received either the Bachelor of Architecture or the Bachelor of Civil Engineering. Dean Clarke explains that "landscape architecture is becoming of increasing importance as one of the contributory professions in the broader field of city and regional planning. In the last twelve years, great changes in our social and economic systems have naturally brought changes in the type of work which a landscape architect is called upon to render. Whereas before 1930 the development of the private estate was the chief source of income for the landscape architect, since that date emphasis has been placed upon the development of public and quasi-public properties, including parks, parkways, and housing. Since the war, airports, cantonments, and industrial planning have been added. This newer work requires an entirely different type of preparation for professional practice."

Two new elective courses in Industrial Design are being offered this year under direction of Charles H. Warner, Jr., and are open to students in other Colleges.

Not only can men and women thus trained do much to help the war effort, but they will also be called upon to do even more in the future, Dean Clarke believes. "The professions of architecture, landscape architecture, and city planning," he says, "will play major parts in the rebuilding of a war-torn world. The fine arts must also be kept alive, for we cannot afford to neglect the finer things of life even in the most dire emergencies. In the meantime, our students, Faculty, and alumni are sufficiently resourceful to carry on and serve where they can in this world-wide war."

THREE AT ILLINOIS

University of Illinois lists three Cornellians among the 125 winners of graduate fellowships and scholarships for next year. Arthur W. Galston '40, who receives the MS at Illinois this year, has a fellowship in botany. Mrs. Galston is the former Dale J. Kuntz '41. Ralph S. Ludington '40, graduated "With Distinction" in Chemistry, has a fellowship in chemistry. Robert Traub, MS '39, has a fellowship in entomology.

PHILADELPHIA ELECTS

Cornell Club of Philadelphia, Pa., elected Donald E. Maclay '17, president, at the annual meeting April 2 at the Racquet Club. Donald P. Beardsley '13 is vice-president; Tinius Olsen, 2d '35, secretary; James B. Harper '20, treasurer; Karl G. Krech '19, athletic representative. Elected also to the board of directors are Arthur M. Harrington '05, Chandler Burpee '17, Ezra H. Day '19, Walter W. Buckley '25, Charles B. Howland '26, John S. Fair, Jr. '27, and John F. Macomber '29.

The Club meets for luncheon Fridays at 12:30 in the Arcadia Restaurant at Broad and Chestnut Street, operated by Guy Gundaker '98 and Clarence B. Kugler, Jr. '03.

MID-HUDSON WOMEN

Ten members of the Mid-Hudson Cornell Women's Club met April 6 at the home of the president, Mrs. Jack E. Spencer (Eleanor Bahret) '38 in Poughkeepsie. It was reported that the Club had raised approximately $40 for the Federation Scholarship Fund, and plans were made for a luncheon at the Vassar Alumnae House April 15 to entertain Director Sarah G. Blanding of the College of Home Economics.

Mrs. Nye Hungerford (Eunice Jourdan) '34 was elected the new president of the Club; Mrs. Edward L. Plass (Louise Hamburger) '19, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard F. Corney (Mabel Warren) '24, corresponding secretary.

About ATHLETICS

START LEAGUE SEASON

The baseball team bowed to Columbia, 2-3, at New York City April 13 in its 1942 Eastern Intercollegiate League debut. The game with Syracuse, scheduled for Hoy Field last Saturday, was postponed.

Columbia also won from Yale last week to go to the top of the League. The standings:

	W	L	PC
Columbia	2	0	1.000
Dartmouth	1	0	1.000
Princeton	1	0	1.000
Pennsylvania	2	2	.500
Harvard	1	2	.333
Cornell	0	1	.000
Yale	0	2	.000

Cornell collected only three hits off Columbia's pitcher, Ladin, who also struck out eight men. Two of the hits, combined with two walks, accounted for Cornell's two runs in the seventh inning. Louis C. Daukas '44 started the inning with a walk and Raymond Jenkins '42 beat out an infield hit. William S. Burns '43 walked to fill the bases, and Harry L. Turner '42 drove in the two runs with a single to left.

Columbia had scored its three runs in the third inning. Leo Hamalian '42 walked Ladin, the pitcher, first up. Accetta singled and Arden struck out. Governali singled, and Allison struck out. With two out and the bases filled, Yuknavich drove a double to right center to score the three runs.

Otherwise Hamalian pitched well. He gave up six hits all told, walked one, and struck out seven.

LOSE AT LACROSSE

The lacrosse team lost to Penn State, 4-9, at State College last Saturday, with four players sharing in the Cornell scoring. They were Seth J. Campbell '44, out home; Captain Gordon H. Hines '42, first defense; Stanley R. Brodhead '42, second attack, and George L. Babson, Jr. '42, center.

TENNIS TEAM LOSES

The tennis team lost, 2-7, to the US Naval Academy at Annapolis last Saturday, with two doubles teams accounting for the Cornell points.

Captain Jerome I. Lieberthal '42 and William J. Shaughnessy '42 defeated Putnam and Percy, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, and James A. Stein '44 and Leon C. Sunstein, Jr. '43 won over Slocum and Casey, 6-2, 6-3.

Shaughnessy was the only singles player to extend his opponent more than two sets. He finally lost to Scherer, 6-3, 4-6, 9-7.

VARSITY GOLFERS WIN

In wind, rain, and snow the golf team defeated Colgate, 7-2, at Hamilton last Saturday. Henderson G. Riggs '44, who defeated Burke, 2 up, was the Cornell medalist with 77. In the same foursome Irving R. Mitchell '43 lost to the match medalist, Perkins, 2 and 1. Perkins shot a 76.

In other singles matches, John B. Hutchings '45 defeated Rich, 5 and 4; Paul R. Thomas '42 defeated Feurbach, 6 and 5, and William H. Middleton '42 defeated Sweeney, 1 up, while Clarence H. Hutt '44 lost to Davy, 4 and 3.

Cornell won all three best-ball matches.

In the match between the freshman teams, Colgate won, 5-4.

FOOTBALL AWARDS

Annual awards of the Coffee Club, organized by Ithaca followers of the Cornell football team, were presented in Willard Straight Hall Sunday night.

Joseph L. Martin '44 was given the "most valuable player" award, the first time it has gone to a Sophomore. Mortimer W. Landsberg, Jr. '41 was given a medal for "outstanding competitive spirit" in a postgraduate award. Landsberg played fullback on the 1940 team; his successor on the 1941 team was Martin. Martin also received a prize for "outstanding competitive spirit."

Coach Carl Snively presented the "most improved player" award to Meredith R. Cushing '44, center; a trophy for "aggressive" play to Captain Peter M. Wolff '42, guard; and a medal for "competitive spirit" to Daniel C. Nehrer '43, blocking back. Wolff also received the trophy presented by Max M. Savitt '26, as having made "the greatest contribution to Cornell football tradition."

Speakers were Robert L. Griffith '29 of Rochester, Coach Snively, Captain Wolff, Captain-elect Kenneth L. Stofer '43, Trainer Frank Kavanagh, the Rev. Donald M. Cleary, Catholic chaplain, and Louis C. Boochever '12, Director of Public Information.

Spring football practice, meanwhile, has reached the scrimmage stage and will continue until early in May. In a talk to the Ithaca Exchange Club last week, Coach Snively said that he expected to have "a team probably as good as last year." He pointed out that "a full team has been lost out of the squad—not the best team but one that would do all right—" by graduation and to the armed forces.

A large number of Freshmen appeared in the A and B team lineups in a recent practice. The leading players on that day were:

Two other players are recovering well from recent operations. They are Joseph L. Martin '44, regular fullback last season, and Charles P. Weiss '44, a halfback.

NOW IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

They aren't going to have those winter courses for Short Horns any more. One by one, we seem to be losing those picturesque features that made Cornell different from other colleges, and made it glisten.

Ten thousand people have been Short Horns first and last, and it would be interesting to check up and find out where they all came from; what became of them. I think you'd find that all of them had made some useful contribution and that the group contained a disproportionately large number of distinguished names.

A heterogeneous lot! We recall one woman who bred Percherons—or it might have been Berkshires or Buff Orpingtons. Anyway, she felt she needed more theory and became a Short Horn to get it. She rented the E. G. Wyckoff place for six weeks, installed a staff of servants, and made her eight-o'clocks in a Cadillac with two men up. There'd be some sprig of Asiatic royalty once in a while, seeking the mysteries of scientific agriculture for the benefit of a backward people, or there might be a missionary home on leave who had come to realize that his people needed both The Word and also better ways of cultivating soybeans.

But the largest single element in the varied ranks of the Short Horns was, of course, recruited from boys and girls on the farms. They could be spared from home for no more than six winter weeks, but they made those six weeks count, and 10,000 of them came and went back to become leaders in rural life and to make the land where their feet trod blossom with peculiar richness.

But the need for the winter short courses no longer exists, and enrollment has been declining. Agriculture is now taught in 340 high schools around the State. That takes care of the boys and girls. And the gardener, the dealer, the breeder of beef cattle and Buff Orpingtons can now get what he or she wants in a one-and-two week intensive course in a narrow specialty.

The customers are being taken care of adequately in other ways. The loss, I think, will fall on the University. The annual appearance of the Short Horns was a stimulant and a tonic. They were a funny looking group sometimes, and the regular students who got their clothes from George Griffin or Goldenberg, their shoes from Pat Wall, had a tendency to explain them and apologize for them, in Junior Week.

But not your reporter. He's proud to remember that even as an undergraduate he was never ashamed of the Short Horns, but that the Short Horns frequently made him ashamed of himself. They were working so hard to make the most of opportunities that we were frittering away. They were eager, conscientious, and responsive. We weren't. On more than one occasion, the mere passing of a knot of Short Horns on the Library Slope was enough to change our entire plan for the evening: to make us drop the bridge game in prospect and substitute a laborious five-hour session on our overdue term essay.

The Short Horns had something we didn't. I guess it was earnestness of purpose. Sometimes a little of it rubbed off and got on the regular students. It was a good thing.

'07 NEW YORK DINNER

Class Secretary Antonio Lazo announces that Class of '07 members of the Metropolitan District will gather for dinner at the Cornell Club of New York, April 30.

FLORIDA ALUMNI GATHER

Forty-four alumni, of Classes from 1882 to 1941, attended the annual banquet of the Cornell Club of Central Florida, April 13 at the Orlando Country Club. Among those present were Alexander B. Trowbridge '90, former Dean of Architecture; Archie C. Burnett, treasurer of the Alumni Association and former Alumni Trustee; and Theodore J. Lindorff '07, author of "Carnelian and White" and "Fight for Cornell." President of the Club is William G. Atwood '92, and George E. Cornwell '15 is secretary-treasurer. Speaker at the banquet was Lieutenant Colonel C. Seymore Bullock, US Army, Ret.

BUFFALO GIRLS' TEA

Cornell Women's Club of Buffalo entertained thirty high school girls and their mothers interested in Cornell March 29 at the home of Mrs. Walter R. Wilson (Anita Goltz) '24. At separate tables in the game room alumnae talked with the girls about the various Colleges of the University, the room was decorated with Cornell pictures and souvenirs, and undergraduate women, home for spring recess, served.

Mrs. Gardner H. Dales (Ruth Lindquist) '37, president of the Club, was assisted by Mrs. George D. Crofts (Frances Johnson) '05, Hilda L. Goltz '21, Mrs. Edwin M. Miller (Virginia Sturtevant) '39, Mrs. Stephen S. Jones (Marjorie Tillinghast) '40, and Margery G. Huber '41.

DR. LIBERTY HYDE BAILEY was the guest of 100 students and Faculty members of the Pomology Club, Vegetable Crops Club, and Floriculture Club at dinner in Willard Straight Hall April 16. Dean Bailey spoke of the early days of the College of Agriculture and of his own work as a horticulturist and teacher.

TELEPHONE SERVICE CONSOLIDATED

A new University telephone exchange, occupying two rooms in the east wing of Olin Hall, was put into operation March 29 by the New York Telephone Co. Using the latest modern equipment, the new central switchboard serves approximately 2,200 Campus telephones, replacing the old University exchange in Sage College and former separate switchboards and individual call numbers in the State Colleges and Willard Straight Hall.

Now, with but few exceptions, every telephone on the Campus may be reached by calling the University exchange, Ithaca 3331, twenty-four hours of the day. Formerly, about 600 telephones had other call numbers and most of those reached through switchboards in Martha Van Rensselaer Hall, the Plant Science Building, the Dairy Building, and Willard Straight Hall had only daytime and early-evening service. The switchboard necessitated changing telephone numbers, and a new Directory was promptly published by the University, with 5,250 copies distributed on the Campus and through stores and by boys selling them on the streets downtown.

The new switchboard, in a light, airy room on the second floor of Olin Hall, has places for five operators and ample room for future expansion. Operator in charge is Mrs. Catherine M. Dunlavey, who supervised the old board installed in a basement room in Sage College twelve years ago. Across the hall in a locked room is an intricate maze of wiring through automatic relays for the separate telephones, a power panel and storage batteries to operate the system, and an automatic ringing machine which accelerates service by relieving operators from manual ringing.

The switchboard is served by fifty-three trunk lines and fourteen toll terminal trunks which come into the building through an underground duct installed when the new building was being constructed. Since last December, as soon as the Olin Hall was closed in, Telephone Company workmen have been installing and wiring the new board under supervision of Frederick O. Spaid, Ithaca manager. E. J. Corcoran of the Ithaca office is assigned to its maintenance.

The Telephone Company began preparations for the new installation last summer. The main feeder cable from downtown Ithaca which ran underground to Sage across the site of Olin Hall was relaid to go into the new building. New underground cables were also laid from East Avenue the full length of Tower Road out to the Federal Nutrition Laboratory, and from the Plant Science Building across Alumni Field replacing overhead wires to the University heating plant, shops and service buildings of the Department of Buildings and Grounds, and the University laundry, store rooms, and print shop at East Ithaca.

It was in April, 1930, that the first large University switchboard was installed in a former basement laundry room in Sage College, to serve the dormitories which until then had had only coin telephones in the corridors. This made it possible to give every dormitory room telephone service, and this has now been extended even to the outside cottages occupied by students. In June, 1933, most of the telephones in the endowed Colleges were transferred from the downtown exchange to the board in Sage and became extensions of the University call number, 3331. But since March 29, quicker service and greater convenience have been possible to persons calling both from University buildings and outside, by having virtually all telephones reached with this one number.

FOR ENGINEERING FRESHMEN

The College of Engineering published last week a special Announcement to Prospective Freshmen of Accelerated Programs. The booklet points out that Freshmen may enter the College either next June 29 or September 28, and outlines the academic programs of the Freshman year for those who enter Civil Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, or Chemical Engineering. Freshmen entering this year may receive degrees in the first three Schools in September, 1945, and in Chemical Engineering in May, 1946.

Provisions for financial aid, both through scholarships and from a special fund provided by the University Board of Trustees to meet added expenses of the summer term and to compensate for loss of summer employment are outlined. For students in Engineering, the Trustees have made $200,000 available for this purpose.

It has also been announced that all students following accelerated programs of study may borrow from other University loan funds if necessary and if they are otherwise qualified, including having satisfactorily completed at least two terms in the University.

MEDICAL ALUMNI FUND

Announcement was made at the annual Alumni Day banquet of the Medical College Alumni Association, April 16, of a special Alumni Fund for the use of the Medical College in New York, to be raised among the 2,000 alumni of the College.

Dr. Mary M. Crawford '04, treasurer of the Association, says of the new Alumni Fund: "In view of prevailing conditions, a goal of only $4,000 was set for 1942, and it was agreed that the success of the new undertaking would be measured not so much by the amount raised as by the percentage of graduates of the Medical College who contribute. The accelerated teaching program, plus rising costs of supplies, confront the College with an increasing financial problem. In the efforts to meet the problem, alumni support will have a value far beyond the cash amount of the gifts."

It was also announced that a Medical College Alumni Scholarship will be awarded for the first time this year.

NEW UNIVERSITY SWITCHBOARD IN OLIN HALL

Most modern equipment enables five operators now to handle some 2,200 Campus telephones with one call number, Ithaca 3331, replacing five former switchboards and many individual lines.

Directors of the College Alumni Association have appropriated $300 from the accumulated interest on the Association's dormitory fund for an award to a deserving member of the Freshman Class. Principal of the dormitory fund will be kept intact for its original purpose, but part or all of the yearly interest will go to the Alumni Scholarship. The directors also voted to liberalize the collateral requirements of the Alumni Student Loan Fund. A scholarship fund is also being raised by the Class of '17, commemorating its Twenty-five-year Reunion, with $25 asked from every member.

Speakers at the Alumni Day banquet in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel were President Edmund E. Day of the University; Dr. David P. Barr '11, professor of Medicine and physician-in-chief of the New York Hospital; and Dr. John H. Morris '11, president of the Medical College Alumni Association.

Earlier, professional exhibits were arranged for alumni at the College. Dr. Barr lectured in the morning, and Dr. William Dock, professor of pathology at Stanford University, lectured in the afternoon. Chairman of the Alumni Day program committee was Dr. William D. Stubenbord '31.

GIVE 142 MID-YEAR DEGREES

President Day has announced the award of 142 degrees for work completed at the end of the first term, January 31. First degrees were conferred upon 91 students, Master's degrees upon 20, and the PhD went to 31. In addition, Daniel T. Gilmartin, Jr. '18 was designated War Alumnus in accordance with provision made after World War I.

Of the thirty-nine Bachelors of Arts, Mary L. Fagley of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Aaron D. Freedman of Albany were graduated "With Distinction" in Zoology; Helen F. North of Ithaca, "With Distinction" in General Studies; and Jean M. Garrett of Syracuse and Mary D. Rettger, daughter of the late Professor Ernest W. Rettger, Engineering, "With Distinction" in French. Thirty-nine were awarded the Bachelor of Science, of whom twenty-six were in Agriculture, nine in Home Economics, and four in Hotel Administration. The Bachelor of Architecture was awarded to five, and eight Engineering degrees were conferred: four Bachelor of Civil Engineering, two Bachelor of Science in Administrative Engineering, and one each Bachelor of Mechanical Engineering and Electrical Engineer.

Ten Master of Arts degrees were awarded, of which one was in Education. Of ten Masters of Science, three were in Agriculture and one each in Education and Engineering.

Among those who received the PhD are Leon Bernstein '37, Orman B. Billings '37, Charles M. Clark '37, Irving Rappaport '35, and Robert S. Reich '34.

CORNELL DAY READY FOR BOYS

Plans for Cornell Day entertainment at the University May 1 and 2 of several hundred prospective Freshmen invited through Cornell Clubs are well under way. Fraternity houses will provide accommodations and meals, and a committee of ten representatives of undergraduate organizations has charge of the general entertainment of the group.

This year, twenty-nine Cornell Clubs are arranging to send boys, some of their own selection through their secondary schools committees, and some nominated by undergraduates. Because of the tire shortage, a few Clubs are sending their boys by railroad and bus, but most are finding it possible to enlist alumni "chauffeurs" and cars to bring them.

Schoolboy guests and alumni will register at Willard Straight Hall upon arrival, for assignment to their quarters for the week end. Most of them are expected Friday afternoon, May 1. That evening is planned a military demonstration in Barton Hall by units of the ROTC, including the Band, the crack Pershing Rifles drill team, and gun drills.

Saturday morning, undergraduates will take the boys on tours of inspection to the various Colleges of the University. It is likely that they will have opportunity to see the last spring football scrimmage, and boys and alumni will be guests at the afternoon athletic events, including a double-header baseball game with Yale, Varsity and Freshman lacrosse games with RPI and Syracuse, respectively, and Varsity and Freshman tennis matches with Buffalo University and Penn State, respectively. That afternoon, also, there will be League matches on the University golf course.

Fraternities are inviting speakers from the Faculty and resident alumni to talk to the boys about Cornell at dinner Saturday evening, after which alumni, schoolboys, and their undergraduate hosts will attend a Cornell Day rally in Bailey Hall. President Edmund E. Day will be the principal speaker, and entertainment including the Glee Club and Alfred F. Sulla, Jr. '29 with his banjo will be in charge of a committee headed by Raymond Jenkins '42, president of the Student Council. After the Rally, boys will be taken to Willard Straight Hall to meet coaches, captains and managers of athletic teams, and representatives of publications, the Musical Clubs, and other undergraduate enterprises.

Alumni "chauffeurs" will be guests with coaches and members of the Faculty at Saturday luncheon in Willard Straight Memorial Room with President Day as speaker, and at a special alumni party in Willard Straight after the Rally.

Professor Bristow Adams of the Faculty committee on relations with secondary schools is adviser to the student committee on Ithaca arrangements, and Clarence J. Pope '10 is chairman of the secondary schools committee of the

DURHAM '99 GOES WEST

Professor Charles L. Durham '99, Latin, Emeritus, spent the early days of April with Cornell Clubs in the Middle West.

April 2, the Cornell Club of Cincinnati, Ohio, had twenty prospective Freshmen at a party in the University Club. At the annual banquet that evening, Professor Durham spoke and R. Selden Brewer '40 entertained with sleight-of-hand and led the singing. The Club elected L. Bartlett Shapleigh '24, president, succeeding William H. Hopple '06. John J. Luhrman '35 is secretary-treasurer.

Cornell Club of Chicago had fifty-eight high school boys from the vicinity and a number of undergraduates and alumni to make a total of eighty-five at the Glenview Country Club the evening of April 3. Professor Durham spoke on Cornell, F. Cushing Smith '43 of Wilmette, Ill., gave the undergraduate viewpoint, and pictures of the Campus were shown, with Frederick H. Bird '11 leading the "Evening Song" and "Alma Mater" as the last picture faded on the screen. Thomas S. McEwan '11, president of the Club, also introduced Robert D. Gordon '11 who told of the Club's plans for sending boys to Cornell Day in Ithaca May 1 and 2, and Frank J. Durham '16 who talked on scholarships.

Professor Durham spoke also at the annual banquet of the Cornell Club of Milwaukee, Wis., in the University Club April 7. Some sixty alumni attended, with Robert F. Phillips '18, president of the Club, as toastmaster. C. Brooks Stevens '34 was elected the new president; C. Herbert Moore '27, secretary; and Eugene C. Batchelar, Jr. '39, treasurer.

FIND FUERTES DRAWINGS

A number of original drawings by the late Louis A. Fuertes '97, thought to have been lost, were discovered recently by Professor E. Laurence Palmer '11, Rural Education. Professor Palmer purchased the Slingerland-Comstock Co., Ithaca publishers of nature manuals, and in going through the company's stock found these drawings. Some of them, he says, represent Fuertes's best pen and ink work. The 266 drawings were done between 1911 and 1920. One group, including seventy-six drawings of mammals, Professor Palmer recently exhibited in Comstock Hall. He is arranging the bird drawings for later exhibit.

Also in the collection were four drawings by the late Professor Anna Botsford Comstock '85, and twenty-six by Albert W. Force '19, who now lives in Forest Home.

TRAIN PHYSICISTS QUICKLY

Two-year emergency training of technical workers for war service and as a foundation for scientific leadership after the war was announced last week by Professor R. Clifton Gibbs '06, chairman of the Department of Physics.

Present urgent need for persons sufficiently trained in physics for special work in war industries, to assist in war research, and for the technical branches of the Army and Navy has prompted the Department to offer an intensive schedule of courses in Physics, Mathematics, and Chemistry that will enable students to get in about two years the training usually encompassed in a four-year major in physics.

Further purpose is to lay a sound foundation for later study in preparation for "the constructive and creative scientific leadership that will be so acutely essential in meeting the challenges of the recovery period," Professor Gibbs says. To this end, provision is made that students who complete this intensive course and leave for war service may return after the war and complete the requirements for the AB degree within three terms. Graduates of secondary schools with high scholastic records may enter the new course either June 29 or September 28.

Professor Gibbs says: "With less than 6,000 physicists with graduate training in the country in 1941, and with a demand which, on the basis of conservative estimates of competent authorities, promises to grow to 10,000 by the end of 1943, American youth with serious purposes and a determined interest in physical sciences can find ample incentive to embark upon a career in this field. This opportunity will not be confined to the war period, for in the judgment of those most familiar with the nature of secret war developments, these present activities are opening up new opportunities for post-war work in physics and its applications to an unprecedented degree.

"In certain instances," he says "it may prove desirable and be considered in the best interest of national service for students who have completed this two-year program to continue their college studies without interruption, and even to go on with graduate study as a preparation for scientific work of a creative character. It is in this latter area that an acute shortage of man power has been brought about by the very nature of the world war development which in so many aspects is largely physical."

SUBURBAN WOMEN MEET

Forty members of the Cornell Women's Clubs of Western Connecticut and Westchester County attended the annual combined luncheon April 11 at the General Putnam Inn, Norwalk, Conn. Mrs. Allan H. Mogensen (Adele Dean) '23, president of the Connecticut club, introduced Director Sarah G. Blanding of the College of Home Economics who spoke of recent events on the Campus, and her husband, Mogensen '23, who described his methods of work simplification which are being widely used to increase production for the war effort. Chairman of the luncheon committee was Mrs. George A. Shedden (Dorothea Dickinson) '24.

MODEL ASSEMBLY of the State Legislature met at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs, April 17 and 18, with four Cornell delegates among the members. They were Julian A. Sobel '43 of Brooklyn, Harriet I. Gauss '43 of Wellsville, Karl Schmeidler '44 of Staten Island, and Frances Steyer '44 of Brooklyn.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

WINNER of the Guilford Essay Prize this year is Howard J. Samuely of New York City, a Freshman in Chemical Engineering. His essay, "War Babies," won the contest, endowed by the late James B. Guilford with a bequest of $3,000, to "promote a high standard of excellence in English prose composition." From interviews, his own observation, and from his reading, Samuely records the shift in popular attitudes toward war since 1920. He was editor of the school paper at DeWitt Clinton High School before he entered the University last fall.

JEFFERSON MEMORIAL being completed at Washington, D. C., has forty-eight American elms from the region of Ithaca in its landscape plan. The forty-five-foot trees, all of symmetrical vase shape, were collected and sold to the landscape contractor by White Nursery Service of Mecklenburg, of which Philip M. White '34 is proprietor. They were selected here because of freedom from Dutch elm disease and because the wanted vase type trees are common in the Finger Lakes Region.

CORNELLIAN editor-in-chief for the 1943 volume will be Barber B. Conable, Jr. of Warsaw. Business manager is William B. Farrington of Danbury, Conn. Other Senior board members for next year are David J. Coons of Woodmere, managing editor; Miriam Freund of Albany, women's editor; Katharine L. Rogers of Westfield, N. J., women's business manager; Fred J. Anderson of New Rochelle, photographic editor.

STEWART AVENUE BRIDGE across Fall Creek, its construction interrupted by high water, now has girders reaching toward the center from both walls of the gorge. American Bridge Co., the contractors, expect that it will be completed early in June.

NEW CONSTITUTION of the Student Council, adopted last week, makes the majority of its voting members the heads of student organizations. Full voting membership is given to the former ex-officio members, presidents of the Interfraternity Council, Independent Association, Willard Straight Hall, Freshman Governing Board, and the editor of the Sun. President and vice-president of the Women's Self-Government Association are retained as voting members, and the presidents of Risley and Sage and of CURW, Sphinx Head, and Quill and Dagger are added. Only eight of the twenty members will now be elected as such, three Senior men, three Junior men, and two Sophomore men. President of the Council will be the Senior member-at-large who receives the majority of votes in the election, and the treasurer and secretary shall also be members-at-large. The change, it was said, puts student government into the hands of responsible Campus leaders. The new constitution was adopted by a vote of 928 to 100.

ALUMNI FIELD and Sage Green are noisy and busy these spring afternoons with intramural softball games. One day last week, Alpha Sigma Phi beat Zeta Psi, 16-4; Delta Tau Delta overwhelmed Chi Phi, 16-6; the Killers took Faducus apart, 28-13; the Naval Reserve ensigns ran over the Independent Association, 26-6; and the Catholics crushed the Presbyterians, 19-2.

VISITOR at the University last week was Dr. Carl R. Woodward, PhD '26, who took office recently as president of Rhode Island State College. He was formerly at Rutgers University.

FRESHMAN CLASS gathered 175 strong for the Class banquet in Willard Straight Memorial Room April 18. Toastmaster was Roy B. Unger '43, and the speakers were Louis C. Boochever '12, University Director of Public Information; Larry Kelley, former Yale end now at Peddie School; and E. L. Olsen of the FBI.

MOOT COURT argument of the first-year Law School class was won by the student attorneys for the respondents in a case which involved the Constitutional right to freedom of speech as applied to handbill ordinances. Winners were G. Edward Cotter of Sharon, Conn., and Richard V. Runyan of Cincinnati, Ohio, against Dickson R. Knott '42 of San Antonio, Tex., and Ephraim T. Brown of Birmingham, Ala. Judges who heard the case were Rowland L. Davis '97, former justice of the State Supreme Court, and Justices Henry J. Kimball '11 and Lewis A. Gilbert of the Supreme Court. At the moot court dinner in Willard Straight Hall, Brown was awarded the Phi Alpha Delta cup for the best moot court work through the year.

VENEZUELAN NIGHT at the Cosmopolitan Club was April 19, the National Independence Day of that country. The twenty Venezuelan students in the University were hosts to approximately 150 guests at a buffet supper of Venezuelan food, they entertained with songs and dances of their country, had an exhibit of Venezuelan art, and Dr. R. Ernesto Lopez, former Secretary of National Education in Venezuela, came up from New York City with colored motion pictures of the country. Master of ceremonies was Gaston E. Vivas-Berthier '43 of Caracas.

CANOES are now available on Beebe Lake Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9 for both men and women who can swim, under regulation of the Women's Athletic Association. Women and mixed parties will be given preference before 8, it is announced, and men alone may have any boats left after 8.

VICE-PRESIDENTS of the women's dormitories and presidents of the University cottages, chosen from the Junior and Sophomore Classes by WSGA, are receiving training for their duties. They were addressed by Thelma L. Brummett, Counselor of Students; Eleanor Simonds, her assistant; and Dr. Harold E. B. Speight, executive secretary of the State committee on teacher education. They will attend house committee meetings in their residences for next year, receive coaching in their duties from the vice-presidents now serving and from head residents, and will take a written examination on the course.

MAJURA chapter for next year will have these members of the Class of '43: Edward P. Clarke of Great Barrington, Mass., William H. Eisenman, Jr. of Cleveland, Ohio, Charles W. Flint of Tulsa, Okla., William H. Hawley of Carlisle, Pa., Jack D. Rice of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mead W. Stone, Jr. of Garden City.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER April 26 is Professor Gregory Vlastos of Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario.

LECTURES this week include the concluding two of the Messenger Lectures, by Dr. Herbert M. Evans, April 20 and 22; Professor Cornelius Weygandt of the University of Pennsylvania, "Consider the Swan: An Instance of the Familiar Essay in the American Scene," on the Goldwin Smith Foundation, April 20; and Ernst Cassirer, visiting professor of philosophy at Yale, on the Schiff Foundation, "Art and Language" April 23, and "The Philosophical Significance of the Science of Galileo" April 24.

CLASS OF '42 Memorial Fund committee of some eighty Seniors dined in Willard Straight Hall April 14. President Edmund E. Day spoke of the University's need for financial support from alumni, and Walter C. Heasley, Jr. '30, executive secretary of the Alumni Fund, described the alumni organization and told of the opportunities and responsibilities ahead of the Seniors as alumni. The Senior committee decided not to conduct a solicitation for Alumni Fund pledges this year, but instead, to work with Classmates next year. Chairmen of the committee are Jean B. Coffin of Ithaca and Richard S. Young of Waverly.

Concerning THE FACULTY

JUDGE FRANK H. HISCOCK '75, chairman emeritus of the University Board of Trustees, spent part of his eighty-sixth birthday April 16 in his law office, as is his daily custom. Dean of Syracuse lawyers, he is senior member of the firm of Hiscock, Cowie, Bruce, Lee & Mawhinney. He has been a Trustee of the University for forty-six years, continuously since 1901, and until he resigned in 1939 was chairman of the Board for twenty-two years. He was successively a judge of the New York State Supreme Court, of the Appellate Division, and member and chief judge of the Court of Appeals; serves now as official referee of that Court.

PROFESSOR LEONARD A. MAYNARD, PhD '15, Director of the Federal Nutrition Laboratory here, was elected president of the American Institute of Nutrition at its recent meeting in Boston, Mass. He had been for three years secretary of the Institute, which is a branch of the American Societies for Experimental Biology, and was vice-president one year.

PROFESSOR ALEX M. DRUMMOND, Director of the University Theatre and Robert M. Gard, AM '38, have compiled a book of New York State plays, which includes "The Lake Guns of Seneca and Cayuga" by Professor Drummond. Shortly to be published by the University Press, the book represents work of the New York State Play Project, sponsored by the Rockefeller Foundation and the University Theatre. Professor Drummond is one of a committee of three, with Walter P. Eaton of Yale and Barrett H. Clark of the Dramatists' Guild, to act as final judges for the National Theatre Conference's nation-wide contest for new plays.

ROBERT BOOCHEVER '39, son of Louis C. Boochever '12, Director of Public Information, was commissioned a second lieutenant of Infantry, US Army, April 10 at Fort Benning, Ga., where he had attended the Officers Candidate School for three months. He received the LLB in 1941, won the "C" in football and tennis, is a member of Quill and Dagger and Telluride.

PROFESSOR RANDALL K. COLE, MS '37, was called into active service February 10. He is a first lieutenant attached to the 717th Military Police Battalion, Trenton, N. J. He is a specialist in genetic resistance to poultry diseases and for some years collaborated with Professor Jacob Furth of the Medical College in study of genetic resistance to neoplasms in mice.

WALTER A. JOHNSON, Machine Design, has developed a machine that simulates the vibrations of airplanes which is being used to test aircraft radio equipment. Electrically operated, the machine makes vibrations up to 2,000 a minute. Johnson has built them for three Westinghouse radio plants, for Philco Radio and Television Corp., Hazelton Service Corp., one is in use at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, and four more are under construction.

EGON PETRI, Pianist-in-Residence, from March 12 to April 16 fulfilled musical engagements in Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, Illinois, Iowa, Utah, Washington, and British Columbia, including two USO appearances and two university performances. He also spoke before the Colorado State Music Teachers Association meeting in Denver.

A DAUGHTER, Virginia Carol, was born April 2 to Mrs. L. B. Hixon of Millbrook. Mrs. Hixon is the daughter of Professor Lloyd R. Simons '11, Director of Extension Service in Agriculture and Home Economics.

MASTER SERGEANT CHARLES MARKS, USA, in charge of the ROTC offices in Barton Hall these twenty years, and Mrs. Marks had a ten-day visit last week from their son, Lieutenant Donald V. Marks '43, who had just finished at the Officer Candidates' School of the Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J. He left the College of Engineering last spring for the Army.

PROFESSOR ARTHUR B. RECKNAGEL, Forestry, is the author of "Fuelwood from New York Farms," a war emergency bulletin just published by the College of Agriculture.

PROFESSOR DWIGHT SANDERSON '98, Rural Sociology, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Southern Sociological Society in Chattanooga, Tenn., April 3. He spoke on "Community Organization for War and Peace."

PROFESSOR HERBERT A. WICHELNS '16, Public Speaking, spoke on "Emerson as a Lecturer" at the University of Louisiana, April 9.

PROFESSOR ROBERT S. BREED, Bacteriology, of the Geneva Experiment Station, recently visited the Federal Regional Laboratory in New Orleans and the Sugar Experiment Station in Houma, La., and planned to stop at the Regional Laboratory in Philadelphia, Pa., on his return from the South. During his absence the work of the Inter-American Committee for the Dairy Industry was made a federal project supervised by the US Bureau of Dairy Industry. Dr. Breed was called to Washington and New York City to report on the work accomplished in Cuba and Mexico. He expects to return to Geneva May 2.

Pleas to send news items about '13 to the Class Secretary for use in this column seem to be honored as much in the breach as in the observance. In one recent number of the ALUMNI NEWS, for example, we find something about the life secretary himself under (just imagine it) "Concerning the Faculty." On another page we discover that WARD KREMER was elected vice-president of the newly-formed Cornell Club of Monmouth County, N. J. Under "About Athletics" we find another familiar name, RUSSELL T. KERBY, JR. '44 having been made assistant manager of swimming.

'14, '15 AB—CHARLES B. MERRILL is head of Merrill, Turben & Co., Union Commerce Building, Cleveland, Ohio. He is chairman of the annual special gifts committee for the Cleveland Orchestra and is also on the executive committee and chairman of the underwriting committee of the Northern Ohio Opera Association.

'15 AB—IRENE M. MONTGOMERY teaches in the Lowell School, Fifth and Nedro Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. She lives at 535 Prescott Road, Merion Park, Merion, Pa.

The Spring Barbecue on the banks of the Rappan River is off, for this year. Before your Fiftieth Reunion, it is hoped you elderly gentlemen of the Class will realize that plenty of demands are going to be made on your time and leisure, and that you would be wise to avail yourselves of a bit of relaxation. Especially so when it comes in the form of a week end at the Farmington Country Club at Charlottesville, Va., topped off by the SPEIDEN hospitality at Hemstead Plantation! Complete lack of support caused the death of a fine party, but it may have given an extra year of life to the young Black Angus steer named "Matt" who was being fattened up for the party. That is, if we are not all in the Army or Navy by spring of '43.

Class President FROSTY SPEIDEN has just finished getting a "25,000-mile overhaul" at Walter Reed Hospital, and is now back on the plantation recuperating. The reminder came out that even if we have no tires, the railroads still run to Charlottesville, so all we had to do was get there.

CLASS OF 1937 Women

By Carol H. Cline, Class Secretary
1053 Cumberland Avenue, Dayton, Ohio

You may (we hope) read this column to find out what your Classmates are doing. Of course, we already know what is going to be in it because we write up a batch of items and the News prints as much as it has space for each week. But we don't know when a Classmate is going to crash some other department of the News. When we read, therefore, that LOUISE F. DAVIES '37 was one of the speakers at this year's Fields of Work for Women Conference for undergraduate women, we got excited and pleased and proud. "Davy" was too modest to mention it to us herself, but there it was in the News for all the world to see! My goodness, who would have dreamed five years ago when we were undergraduates and "Fields of Work for Women" was a new experiment that one of us would be an "authority" at that conference so soon? (MIRIAM REED writes to remind us that it was at that same conference during our Senior year that she met Miss Becker of John Hopkins, one of the speakers that spring, and that same Miss Becker hired her the following year for the job she still holds. If you want to hear the details of "Hep's" job at Hopkins, incidentally, write her at 808 North Broadway, Baltimore, Md.)

We got a real thrill a few weeks ago when a card from VEE DOMINIS KOCH appeared in the mail box. To quote: "I have another future Cornellian to add to your list of '38 babies. Constance Keolani was born November 29, 1941. We are already bringing her up on songs sung by the Glee Club and played by the Band and Chimes. Even at this tender age, she seems to enjoy them. We are all fine on this war front and life continues as near as usual as possible." In case you don't have the Koch's address, it's 963 Alewa Drive, Honolulu. Thanks, VEE, and congratulations.

More congratulations to JULIE (ROBB) and Paul Newman on the birth of their son, Robb Wellington, March 27. Mother and son were doing fine when we visited them during vacation, and they have moved back to their home in Cayuga by now.

HALE COOK will receive his MD at Harvard Medical School in May. He is engaged to Doris J. DeLine of Boston, Mass. Future Dr. H. H. Cook plans to begin his internship at the New Orleans, La., Charity Hospital in July, and then enter the medical mission field for the Presbyterian Church. No date has been set for the wedding.

The address of First Lieutenant CARL LOUIS COOK is 502d Signal A. W. Regt., U. S. Army. His residence address is 26 Grand Street, Sidney.

Got another letter from First Lieutenant AL BROWN all the way from Kingston, Jamaica. Al says: "After two months training in Brooklyn in loading ships, I was sent down here to handle discharge of supplies for the Jamaica Base. The work is very interesting and the responsibility and authority are enjoyable since I am in charge of the Army Transport Service at this port, and responsible only to the Supt., Army Transport Service in New Orleans. . . . This is my second stay in Jamaica, and it is more enjoyable than the first despite the war. My impression of the beauty of the island remains the same, namely, that Jamaica is the 'Garden Spot of the West Indies.' Al's address is Lt. A. S. Brown, Jr., Q.M.C., Ass't. Supt., U.S.A.T.S., 2-B North Street, B. W. I.

Several members of the Class joined the ranks of married men recently; among them BUD WEEKS who married Maudie Hewitt way last August 30, though I just received the clipping from his fraternity paper. Bud is working as a tool designer for American Tool Works Co. in Cincinnati, and is living at 3622 Zumstein Avenue. Also SVEN LOMAN, who was married to Alice Dann of Dryden. Sven is an instructor in floriculture at George Junior Republic. And March 20, Ensign JAN NOYES married Mildred O'Day of Brookline, Mass. Jan is on a new destroyer which is not ready for sea as yet; he says the work is hard and there is plenty of it. He may be addressed as follows: USS Fitch, D. D. 462, care Postmaster, New York City.

And now for the service department: HERB POLK who was with the law firm of Newman & Bisco until last May when he was inducted into the Army, is now attending Officer Candidate School, Camp Lee, Va.

CHARLES CLARK is a first lieutenant at Fort Sill, Okla.

TOM SCHULTZ who was formerly employed by the Bucyrus-Erie Co. is now stationed in San Diego, Cal., at the Recruit Depot.

WALT FINLEY was appointed an aviation cadet at the Naval Air Station in Jacksonville, Fla. When he successfully completes his flying and ground school courses, he will be commissioned an ensign in the Naval Reserve and will join the steadily-growing Naval Air Force.

ALICE SANDERSON visited her parents in town a couple of weeks ago, during her spring vacation from teaching home economics at Remsen Central School.

We have news that LORIEL MCPHERSON DARMI, one-time song leader for our Class, is living at 1611 Kappock Street, Riverdale. Her husband, PETER DARMI '39, is owner of Jean Darmi & Son flower business in New York City.

BETSY NISBET is assistant home demonstration agent in Allegany County, with headquarters in Belmont. MARTHA CROSS is home ec. teacher there and ART DUFFEE '40, Martha's fiancé, is assistant farm bureau agent there, so they all have a grand time together.

A letter from BETTY DICKER (Kaplan) tells us that she and Chester Kaplan were married September 7, 1941, with Cornell well represented. They're living at 155 Prospect Avenue, Staten Island.

Betty sends news of other '41ers: SYLVIA ROSEN is going to Traphagen Fashion School in New York; BETTY ASEN is working very hard with the New York School of Social Work; and ESTHER ROBFOGEL is doing secretarial work in Jersey City, N. J.

Another marriage, that of BILL SORN to Lynette Tripp last December 20, goes on record. Bill holds a commission as second lieutenant in Field Artillery, but has been working as a test engineer for General Electric in Schenectady. Address is 32 Edgewood Avenue, Albany.

BILL KATTREIN and his wife, Mary Dunn of the fall of 1940, live in a newly-bought house on 166 Breavotter Street in Albany.

FRASER SCHOLES and his wife, the former Florence McClevey of Ohio Wesleyan, live at 727 Ashland Avenue, River Forest, Ill., where Fraser is an engineer in the production and planning department of Goodman Manufacturing Co., Chicago.

ARTHUR WESSELS recently joined the throng of happy husbands. He married Barbara Hambur, a student at Wellesley, and is spending his time with her and with the Union Carbide Co.

GEORGE LATIES writes that he's expecting his MS in plant physiology from the University of Minnesota in June. After that, it seems to be either the Army or a research assistantship at the University of California. George's address until June is 2110 Knapp Street, St. Paul, Minn.

Lieutenant LEONARD LEWIS wrote me a letter recently, stating that he has been sent from Fort Bragg to the Field Artillery School at Fort Sill, Okla. If you readers don't mind a long quotation, here's some news that Lenny sends: "JULES WIENER and RUSS SMITH went down to Bragg with me. Russ is out here (Fort Sill) and as far as I know Julie is still at Bragg. I've run into JOHNNY LYNNAH and GEORGE KNAPP here at Sill, and they're both first lieutenants as of February 1 or thereabouts. George told me that HENRI FRANK is now a battery commander in a tank destroyer battalion (somewhere in the world). While at Bragg, JULIE WIENER, TOM REDDINGTON, and FLOYD KYTE (now in Miami) were in my battalion. GIL COBB was in the same regiment. I also bumped into GEORGE BECKER, JOE BERNSTEIN, JIM ROBINETT, and MELVIN LIEBOWITZ. FRANK HUGHES is also out here with me."
