MERCK
VETERINARY MANUAL
SIXTH EDITION

At MSD AGVET, building knowledge is just as important as developing pharmaceuticals.

Effective new products alone aren't enough to win the fight against animal disease.

Practitioners and educators also require a constant flow of information that builds on both current knowledge and new discovery. You get both from MSD AGVET.

MSD AGVET and our sister organization, Merck Sharp & Dohme Research Laboratories, routinely assist scientists from around the world in exchanging ideas on a variety of research and practical topics.

Our own specialists frequently publish technical information and reference materials to benefit the profession.

It's all part of our efforts to help make you the best-informed, best-equipped health professional possible.

Congratulations, you've made your dream come true.

After all the late nights and early mornings, and all the parties skipped because of anatomy, biochemistry and pharmacology finals, you're going to be a veterinarian. Before your new challenges begin, pause a while to revel in your achievement.

When you do set out in practice, keep in mind that Pfizer will be there for you every step of the way. With animal health products that meet the needs of today's veterinarian.

Backed by sales force and technical service assistance, product usage updates and client meeting materials that add value to the service you provide.

So even if your "Yorkshire dales" are in Albuquerque, New Mexico, or Canton, New York, Pfizer will help you write one success story after another.

The Iams Company started over 40 years ago with the philosophy of enhancing the total well-being of dogs and cats. This philosophy still holds true today.

It is for this reason that we strongly support the veterinary profession.

We understand that the learning process does not stop when you leave the university. That's why we furnish a toll free number to assist you with any nutritionally related questions. A veterinarian is available to help provide the answers for you. Or, if you would like to purchase Iams Pet Foods, talk to any one of our highly trained customer service representatives.

Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet Company, a worldwide leader in veterinary medicine and animal health, welcomes you to the team.

As the profession grows, practitioners ask for more and better products to meet their clients needs. Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet is committed to fulfilling those needs.

Products from Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet Company are safe, effective, and easy to administer. That's why veterinarians have come to rely on us over the years.

But there is more to Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet Company than just products.

We are concerned with advancing the field of veterinary medicine, and so we sponsor programs for students as well as practitioners. University Research Funding expands the broad base of knowledge, while our Summer Student Program offers opportunities for individual growth.

Publications such as: Starting Your Own Veterinary Practice and Marketing Large Animal Veterinary Medicine are popular additions to student libraries, as are the subscriptions to Veterinary Medicine magazine, which we provide free of charge to veterinary school seniors.

And, Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet Company helps you keep up to date after graduation, with parasite evaluation clinics, seminars, audio-visual and printed educational materials.

Quality, reliability, and continuing support; that's what Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet Company is all about. We recognize your commitment to veterinary medicine, and we're glad to have you on the team.

Quality products, services and education from Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet Company. Because some things are too important to leave to chance.

The progress of veterinary medicine depends on what we learn from the discoveries of today. That's why Hill's has always been committed to developing college programs in clinical nutrition.

In an effort to establish and encourage professional teaching of small animal clinical nutrition, Hill's Pet Products is pleased to fund seventeen residencies at eleven colleges of veterinary medicine. The programs offer graduate studies to the PhD, research in clinical nutrition and training requisite to certification in the recently founded American College of Veterinary Nutrition.

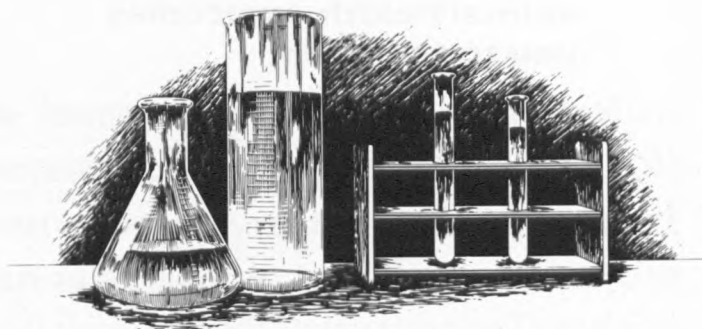

The graduates of these residencies will go on to establish small animal clinical nutrition teaching programs at the thirty-one veterinary colleges in North America. These programs will provide students with an understanding of the importance of dietary management in the prevention and treatment of disease in dogs and cats.

At Hill's, we believe our commitment to today's graduate research will inspire tomorrow's students of small animal clinical nutrition.

Dear Doctor:

As you advance into the profession of veterinary medicine, you will soon realize that the challenge you face is as great as the reward you seek.

Whether you proceed into private practice, or one of the other exciting areas of veterinary medicine, you will need to call upon your imaginative and enterprising skills to find your most rewarding position.

While there may be a sense of resignation, by some, to the perceived limited opportunities for new veterinary graduates, we at Haver do not share this view. We believe that instead of accepting a perceived static or declining veterinary market, those of us associated with the veterinary profession should commit our energies to expanding and increasing the opportunities in veterinary medicine. We pledge our full support in helping the veterinarian by providing new services, new veterinary medical specialties, and by promoting additional veterinary involvement in aquatic and avian medicine. We encourage the promotion of the human-animal bond and pet behavior management, in an effort to help reduce the needless euthanasia of unwanted pets.

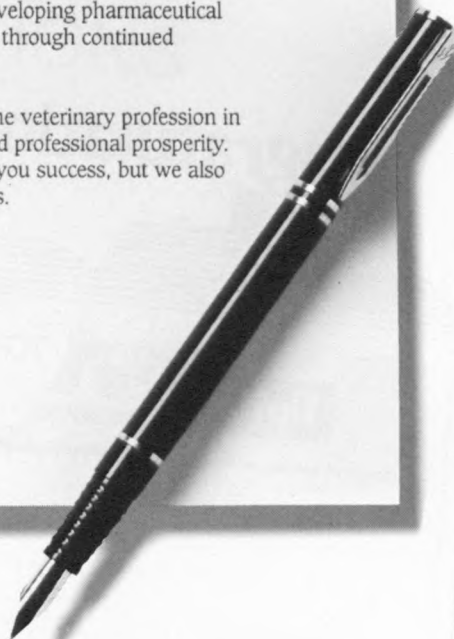

We will continue to contribute to the veterinary profession by advancing the technology in disease prevention and management, by developing pharmaceutical and biological products incorporating this technology, and through continued advocacy advertising on behalf of the practitioner.

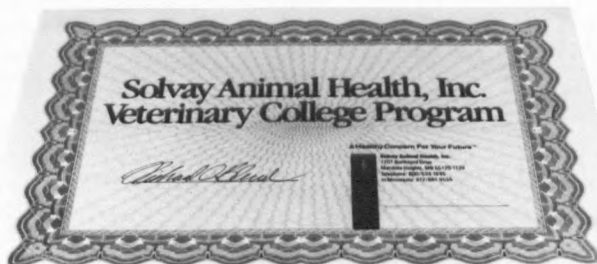

With committed leadership and participation, we believe the veterinary profession in the decade of the 90s will reach new levels of personal and professional prosperity. At Haver we are committed! Therefore we not only wish you success, but we also promise a team effort to help you achieve these new levels.

Sincerely,

GRANNICK'S BITTER APPLE

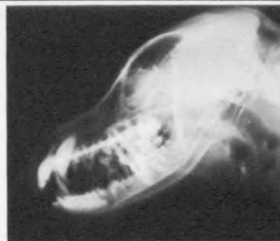

was first introduced in 1960 to Veterinary Colleges and Veterinarians as a professional product. Its professional, therapeutic success gradually filtered through to the general public, and became the Number One Product in its Field.

Bitter Apple also helps in Ferret and Dog Training Techniques, and promotes weaning earlier. Horse owners have used our product to eliminate chewing of manes and tails, blankets, stable wood and fencing.

You, our customer, may find another new use for your own individual purpose. If so, let us know about it.

GREATER ACCURACY. EASIER OPERATION. THE VALUE BEHIND THE BENNETT IMAGE.

Every image produced by a Bennett x-ray system shows you the advantages of relying on the world's most advanced x-ray technology.

Bennett's new HFQ high-frequency generators—the only systems to operate at 100 kHz power—are more accurate than any single-phase or three-phase generators. With true high-frequency, radiation dose is reduced by at least 26%, which dramatically lowers the exposure to the operator. Exposure times are 50% faster, minimizing the effects of voluntary and involuntary motion.

Every Bennett programmable veterinarian system comes standard with Signature Software created by Victor Rendano, V.M.D., M.S., D.A.C.V.R.. Pre-programmed techniques save time and eliminate costly retakes.

BIVONA SILICONE TUBES

Bivona Inc. manufactures a full line of all silicone endotracheal and tracheostomy tubes for large and small animal practices. Sizes range from 3.0mm I.D. to 35mm I.D. Silicone tubes offer you many advantages over other materials. Total reusability—all tubes can be steam sterilized.

► SAFETY—silicone is completely inert. The material is implant tested and exceeds current USP implant requirements for tracheal tubes. Soft distal tube tips, compliant cuffs and ease with which tubes conform to anatomy all contribute to less tissue damage.

► VERSATILITY—summer or winter temperatures will not affect the tube.

► COST EFFECTIVENESS—cost per use is less than plastic, red rubber or latex because silicone resists deterioration.

► FIX-IT-SERVICE—Bivona provides repair or replacement on all AIRE-CUF® tubes.
