Cornelliana.

The University has received from Mr. Andrew Carnegie a check for $60,300 to cover the cost of the newly completed extension of the chemical laboratories in Morse Hall. When this gift was announced last year the amount was stated to be $50,000. The gift is made in honor of Dr. Andrew D. White.

Theodore H. Twesten, who has been acting as University proctor while on a six months' leave of absence from his position as lieutenant of police of Philadelphia, has resigned from the Philadelphia force. Mr. Twesten has been appointed proctor for next year, the University authorities evidently being of opinion that the new plan is a good one. In accepting the resignation of Mr. Twesten, the Philadelphia Director of Public Safety spoke highly of his work. Having served more than twenty-five years in the Philadelphia police department, Mr. Twesten is entitled to a pension.

Elections for life secretary and member of the Cornellian Council from the class of 1911 were held yesterday. The candidates for life secretary were R. E. Chapman, J. C. McCune and J. O. Winslow; for member of the Cornellian Council, C. C. Cheyney, A. W. Hawkes and W. F. Peterson.

Although a systematic canvass of the senior class has not yet been commenced, $17,800 has been subscribed by seniors to the Alumni Fund. The committee of the class of 1911 which has the subscription in charge started work about two weeks ago. Thus far seniors have been approached at random and the response has been gratifying. Already 1911 has subscribed more than half as much as 1910. Most of the pledges are for $100.

Officers for the coming year have been elected by the Sibley Engineering Club as follows: President, H. J. MacWilliams '12, of Wilmington, Del.;

vice-president, J. M. Swalm '12, of Pottsville, Pa.; recording secretary, C. I. Heikes '12, of New York City; corresponding secretary, C. L. Turner '13, of Clayton, N. J.; treasurer, A. T. Lockard '12, of Plymouth, Pa.

The Cornell Countryman has announced its 1911-12 board of editors as follows: Editor-in-chief, A. H. White '12, of Mount Vernon; alumni notes editor, E. P. Smith '13; artistic editor, H. E. Coffin '13, of Hackensack, N. J.; associate editors: J. S. Brown '13, of Somerville, N. J.; O. M. Smith '13, of Romulus; David Alleman '14 and H. C. Stephenson '14; business manager, G. M. Butler '12, of New Haven; assistant business managers, B. P. Jones '13, of Buffalo; H. A. Thompson '13, of Eau Claire, Wis.; W. de S. Wilson '13, of Napanee, Ontario.

Selections for the editorial board of the Sibley Journal for next year have been made as follows: Editor-in-chief, L. L. Thurstone '12, of Jamestown; business manager, W. H. Stevens '12, of Freeland, Pa.; publication manager, E. C. M. Stahl '13, of Yonkers; assistant business manager, C. L. Turner '13, of Clayton, N. J.; associate editors, H. H. Allport '12, of Chicago, Ill.; A. J. Jacobs '12, of Gloucester, Mass.; Stanley Wright '12, of Brooklyn, and S. K. Eastwood '13, of Owego.

The Kappa Sigma fraternity has let the contract for a tennis court which will be laid out west of its house. The plans call for 400 cubic yards of excavation, mostly in shale rock.

Charles E. Treman '89, State Superintendent of Public Works, was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Civic Club at the Alhambra Saturday night. Professor George L. Burr spoke on "Student Voting."

"Cowboy Songs of the Western Border" is the subject of a lecture to be given by John A. Lomax of the University of Texas on May 20 under the auspices of the College of Arts and Sciences. Mr. Lomax has made a study of these songs and has written a book on the subject.

The first shipment of 1912 Cornellians was placed on sale Friday morning and before the sale had been in progress two hours the last book was sold. The remainder of the edition arrived this week.

Janus is the name of a new secret society organized by undergraduates for the promotion of oratory and literature. Janus has about the same objects as The Owls, a society organized two years ago.

A big time is planned for the seniors who take part in the "Senior Stunt," which is scheduled for May 20. The men are to meet at the Brunswick Hotel in costume and parade to the foot of Buffalo street, where two steamboats will be ready to take them to Sheldrake. Ball games and other athletic sports will be held and there will be a clambake.

Dean Irvine spoke before the Cornell Section of the American Chemical Society Thursday night on "Expert Testimony." He gave practical suggestions for conduct on the witness stand and outlined the relation of expert testimony to procedure.

If the present plans are carried out the University Orchestra will conclude its season with a concert at Wells College on May 26. Another concert is planned to be given in Ithaca. This will probably be in connection with the senior singing.

President Schurman spoke at a banquet given by the Glens Falls Club last week in honor of Governor John A. Dix '83. His toast was "Parties and Party Government." Attorney General Thomas Carmody '82 spoke for "The Legal Fraternity."

• Professor H. N. Ogden and seniors who are specializing in sanitary engineering are making experiments with a sewage control apparatus which has been loaned to the department.

The Music Festival.

Ithacans last week enjoyed what is always one of the notable events of the year—the Music Festival. Professor Dann every year trains an admirable chorus of two hundred or more voices, engages a staff of excellent soloists and brings to Ithaca the Boston Festival Orchestra under the direction of Emil Mollenhauer. It is an opportunity which would be more enjoyed if there were a suitable auditorium on the campus in which to hold the concerts, and this defect will be remedied within the next two years by the building of the proposed auditorium of the College of Agriculture. Five concerts were given in Sage Chapel on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and at every concert the chapel was crowded. The full program of the festival was printed in the ALUMNI NEWS for April 19.

Evan Williams was unable to sing in the production of "Faust" on Thursday evening, but the part of Faust was sung ideally by Lambert Murphy. Mrs. Grace Bonner Williams as Margarita made good use of a beautiful voice, and the other principal parts were delightfully sung by Mme. Florence Mulford, Willard Flint, Gwilym Miles and Eric Dudley. Professor Dann's well trained male chorus, supplemented by the Glee Club, sang the "Soldiers' Chorus" with such an overwhelming effect of tone and volume that the audience had the chorus sung over again.

In the Friday afternoon concert Mr. Dudley, an Ithacan and a favorite, sang and Señor A. Torello played the double bass. Mme. Mulford was heard in the aria "O Don Fatale." At this concert, as at the one on Saturday afternoon, the orchestra had much of the program to itself, and at the latter concert, Mr. Johnston played Guilmant's concerto for organ and orchestra.

Evan Williams was the star Friday evening. Pierne's "Children's Crusade" was presented Saturday evening, with an adult chorus, a large chorus of public school children, the full orchestra, the organ and four soloists.

Another Painting Received.

A second member of what may in time become a valuable art collection at the University was received Saturday. The second picture is Cabanel's "The Trysting Place of Souls," and is the gift of Henry R. Ickelheimer '88, a member of the Board of Trustees. The painting has been hung in the south corridor of Goldwin Smith Hall near the large painting, Gari Melchers's "Communion Sunday in a Church in Holland."

Cabanel is a member of the group of French artists which includes Gérôme, Bouguereau and Boulanger. This group has been called the classic-romanticist group because of its endeavor to combine the classicism of Ingres with the romanticism of Delacroix. Cabanel has several works in the Panthéon at Paris and his paintings are also hung in the Luxembourg and other famous galleries of the continent.

This classic-romanticist group of French painters were not as great colorists as Delacroix but they were draftsmen such as the world has never seen equaled and their compositions have been particularly valued for this draftsmanship and their scholarly characteristics rather than for color and other purely painterlike qualities.

"The Trysting Place of Souls," which was painted by Cabanel in 1872, is typical of the school to which he belonged. It represents a male and a female figure in semi-classic drapery. The female figure is seated on a rock and the male figure stands behind her. The time is twilight. The background is a landscape. Wonderful draftsmanship, beautiful proportions and harmony of lines and spaces characterize the painting. It has the shortcomings of the work of the classic-romanticists in that there is a thinness of color and an artificiality of the landscape in the background, which seems to be only a decorative accessory. The painter has well succeeded in giving the ethereal, almost unreal, feeling expected in the subject treated.

$155,000 Appropriation Bill.

Last week the ways and means committee of the Assembly reported favorably the Murtaugh-McDaniels bill to appropriate $155,000 for the College of Agriculture and the Veterinary College. The bill has already passed the Senate, and there is little doubt of its becoming a law at the present session. A heating plant, to cost $50,000, is the main addition to the College of Agriculture provided for in the bill. At present the buildings of the college have separate heating plants. The proposed building may be situated east of the filtration plant. Another barn, to cost $20,000, is provided for in the bill. This barn will be situated east of the campus, near the barn recently built there.

For the Veterinary College the bill sets aside $85,000 for a building to be used as a clinical laboratory and animal hospital. This has been one of the acute needs of the college. The sum named is enough to make a beginning, and the building complete is expected to cost $140,000.

As in the case of similar approprition measures in the past, the bill provides that the land on which the proposed buildings are to stand shall be conveyed by the University to the state, the University to retain control of land and buildings.

University Financial Conference.

The Treasurer of the University represented Cornell at an informal conference held at Yale on April 27 by officers of a number of colleges and universities charged with the business administration of their institutions. A similar meeting was held at Harvard last year, and next year's meeting may be held at Princeton. At this year's conference administrative officers were present from Amherst, Brown, the Carnegie Foundation, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Harvard, Oberlin, University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, Western Reserve, Williams, and Yale. We are indebted to the Princeton Alumni Weekly for the following list of the subjects discussed:

Methods of increasing graduate financial interest in university endowment.

The problem of the investment of trust funds—whether to apply each investment to a specific fund, or to invest funds collectively.

Dormitories—their construction, management and the income to be expected from them.

What constitutes adequate fire, liability, and casualty insurance?

Budget and appropriation systems.

The requirement of bonds from students for the payment of college bills.

Infirmaries administration and sanitary inspection.

Pensions for employees and the general question of "welfare work" for employees.

The problem of the dining hall.

The establishment of central stations for heat, light and power.

Consideration of the Carnegie report on "Academic and Industrial Efficiency."

Co-operative purchasing by universities.

Should students who can afford it pay the cost of tuition voluntarily?—about 40 per cent. of the cost of education now being paid by the student.

"Functional" administration versus "departmental" administration.

"Centralized Administrative Responsibility" versus "Committee Government."

Charles Wellington Furlong '98, F. R. G. S., gave an illustrated lecture at the Cornell University Club of New York last Friday evening on his travels and explorations in Patagonia and Tierra del Fuego.

ATHLETICS.

Track.

An unlooked for excellence in the field events and almost record breaking work in the distance runs by the Cornell men at Franklin Field Saturday won the dual meet from the University of Pennsylvania by a single point, the final score being 59 to 58. Several hundred undergraduates met the team when it returned to Ithaca Sunday morning. The results of most of the events were above the average of dual meets. Mercer, one of Pennsylvania's best sprinters, and Harris, a hurdler, were unable to take part in the meet because of illness.

Probably the greatest interest in the meet centered about the mile run, where Jones of Cornell, the intercollegiate cross-country champion, who has been a member of Cornell's record-breaking four mile relay team this spring, and Paull of Pennsylvania, intercollegiate record holder for the mile, were pitted against each other for the first time in a mile race. Jones won in 4 minutes 18 4-5 seconds, only one second slower than the record which Paull made at the intercollegiates in 1909.

Paull took the lead at the start and set a very fast pace. Boyle of Pennsylvania stuck close to his team mate, while Jones was keeping a steady pace about twenty yards in the rear. At the end of the first lap, Boyle began to drop back, while Paull increased his speed. During the second lap Paull and Jones did not change their relative positions, but in the third lap the Pennsylvania runner drew away from the Cornell man, so that when the last lap began Jones was twenty-five yards behind. Paull did not have the reserve which Jones showed in the final quarter mile. The Cornell man started after his opponent on the back stretch and by sprinting to the line he finished with eight yards to spare. Paull's time was 4 minutes 20 seconds.

In the half mile run Putnam of Cornell came within two-fifths of a second of the intercollegiate record, his time being 1 minute 56 2-5 seconds. Putnam had to fight hard for his victory with Bodley of Pennsylvania, who caught him after the second turn and ran abreast with him for seventy-five yards. Putnam had the pole and the Pennsylvania man had to take the outside on the turns. The Cornell man finished six yards in the lead.

Berna's time of 9 minutes 31 4-5 seconds for the two mile run was close to his record. Captain MacArthur made a showing in the quarter mile which promises something better in the intercollegiates.

The result of the field events is encouraging, for it is in this department that Cornell has been weak for the past few years. Bannister, who took first in the hammer throw; Little, winner of the broad jump, and Kanzler, who took first in the shot put, are all sophomores. The summary:

Shot Put—Won by Kanzler, Cornell, 41 feet 5 1-4 inches; Elder, Pennsylvania, second, 40 feet; Seagrave, Cornell, third, 36 feet 13-4 inches.

100 Yard Dash—Won by Minds, Pennsylvania; Brown, Pennsylvania, second; Ford, Cornell, third. Time, 10 seconds.

120 Yard Hurdles—Won by Haydock, Pennsylvania; Stibolt, Cornell, second; Griffith, Pennsylvania, third. Time, 15 3-5 seconds.

One Mile Run—Won by Jones, Cornell; Paull, Pennsylvania, second; Boyle, Pennsylvania, third. Time, 4 minutes 18 4-5 seconds.

Hammer Throw—Won by Bannister, Cornell, 142 feet 10 inches; Murphy, Pennsylvania, second, 137 feet 9 1-2 inches; Collins, Cornell, third, 117 feet 11 1-2 inches.

440 Yard Dash—Won by MacArthur, Cornell; Hough, Pennsylvania, second; Smith, Pennsylvania, third. Time 50 2-5 seconds.

220 Yard Dash—Won by Ford, Cornell; Minds, Pennsylvania, second; Brown, Pennsylvania, third. Time 22 seconds.

220 Yard Hurdles—Won by Haydock, Pennsylvania; Stibolt, Cornell, second; Griffith, Pennsylvania, third. Time 25 1-5 seconds.

Two Mile Run—Won by Berna, Cornell; Wölle, Pennsylvania, second; Hunger, Cornell, third. Time, 9 minutes 31 4-5 seconds.

880 Yard Run—Won by Putnam, Cornell; Foster, Pennsylvania, second; Levering, Pennsylvania, third. Time, 1 minute 56 2-5 seconds.

Pole Vault—d'Autremont and Everingham, Cornell, tied for first, 11 feet 6 inches; Proctor, Pennsylvania, third, 11 feet 3 inches.

High Jump—Won by Burdick, Pennsylvania, 5 feet 10 inches; Ferrier, Pennsylvania, second, 5 feet 9 inches; Lane, Pennsylvania, third, 5 feet, 7 1-2 inches.

Broad Jump—Won by Little, Cornell, 21 feet 3 3-4 inches; LaFlamme, Pennsylvania, second, 21 feet 2 1-4 inches; Elsenbast, Cornell, third, 21 feet 2 inches.

Alumni days are Tuesday, June 20, and Wednesday, June 21.

Baseball.

With Howard's return to third base last week, the expected shift in the varsity nine took place. Dauenhauer, substitute for Howard, and Thomas, substitute for Dauenhauer at center field, had both proved themselves too valuable as fielders and batters to be spared. Somebody had to go to the bench, and the player chosen to go was Thompson, Dauenhauer being his successor at second base.

The new combination worked very well when it was first tried in the Penn State game, as the batting and base running of Dauenhauer and Thomas practically won that game.

From the way the men stepped up to the bat and won the uphill contest with Penn State it looked as if there might be several "pinch hitters" on the regular nine. Against the Dartmouth pitchers the team was less successful, but still there seems to be good reason to hope for some hitting in the big games to come.

His work thus far marks Nisbet as the best of the pitchers. He is a sophomore. Curiously enough, all the other pitchers were used in the disastrous Dartmouth game, and then the game was finished by Abbott, who is a catcher, not a pitcher, although he did pitch last year. Hightower had not done very badly up to the time he was taken out of that game, and he might have finished it creditably if he had been allowed to continue.

With any one of the three catchers, Abbott, McCormick and Butler, the position is well filled, but McCormick's excellent work in the two games he played last week is likely to give him the preference. Only one base was stolen on him in the two games. Both Abbott and Butler are all-around players, and either one could be used as a substitute in any part of the field. Butler was the quarterback of last fall's eleven. On the freshman nine last spring he played shortstop, and he probably would be playing that position on the varsity now if there had not been a Magner filling it.

CORNELL 4, PENN STATE 3.

The Penn State game was the most interesting and most cleanly played of the season thus far. Nisbet was in fine form, and for five innings not a State player reached first base. From then on, however, the teams were neck and neck, victory going to Cornell by a score of 4 to 3. Last year State defeated Cornell 5 to 1. Things began to happen in the sixth inning, when two hits gave State the first run of the game. Cornell got two runs in the same inning with Clute's drive to right field, Thomas's three-bagger to the clubhouse and Dauenhauer's single over second base. The game was not won yet, for in the seventh, after a two-base hit to deep left and a liner to center field, Nisbet fumbled a hot bounder, allowing two men to score and putting State one run in the lead. Cornell tied the score again in the seventh, when Howard was passed to first and McCormick, running for him, went to second on Nisbet's sacrifice, took third on a wild throw and came home on Clute's clean rap to right. With two out in the eighth, State got two men on bases, but the next batter struck out. Cornell won the game in the eighth after Mahoney and Thomas had been put out. Dauenhauer singled, stole second and went on to third when Captain Kelley muffed the throw, and scored when Kelley got his feet tangled up in McCormick's grounder. State's chances looked good in the ninth till a double play ended the game.

DARTMOUTH 8, CORNELL 1.

The spectators of Friday's game with Dartmouth had a large variety of emotions during the contest. Hope gave place to despair, astonishment was felt as pitcher after pitcher was batted "out of the box" by the visitors, the inability of the Cornell team to hit Ekstrom aroused dismay, and not a few persons showed a feeling of pity. Captain Magner was "spiked" in the fourth inning while covering second base. In the ninth Krogstad was hit on the head by a batted ball and fell to the ground stunned, and in the same inning Captain Emerson was knocked senseless by a pitched ball. Fortunately none of the injuries was serious. Five Cornell pitchers tried to stem the tide of Dartmouth hits, but the havoc only became worse. Hightower lasted five innings, Burkart two, Carvajal one, and Krogstad and Abbott divided the ninth inning between them. Abbott was totally unprepared, having done no pitching whatever this spring. Ekstrom, a left-handed twirler, held Cornell to four widely scattered hits. Cornell's only run was the result of O'Connell's base on balls and Mahoney's two-bagger in the first inning. Thereafter Mahoney struck out three times, and the rest of the team did little better. The score was only 2 to 1 when Burkart succeeded Hightower. In his first inning, the sixth, only three batters faced Burkart. In the seventh he hit two men and a single filled the bases. The next man struck out, and but for an error by Butler the visitors might not have scored. But three runs came in, and three more were added in the eighth and ninth. The score:

CORNELL 6, DARTMOUTH 0.

With Nisbet and McCormick as the battery, Cornell won Saturday's game with Dartmouth in clean fashion. The visitors did not get a run. Cornell did not get a safe hit till the seventh inning, but in the second three bases on balls and an error brought in two runs. Another was added in the seventh when Magner hit and stole second, went to third on Clute's bunt, and scored when Mahoney was thrown out at first. In the eighth Thomas led off with a triple, McCormick was safe on a fielder's error, Howard hit for two bases and Nisbet for one, and three more runs came in. Cornell played a faultless game in the field. Not a base was stolen off McCormick. Although Howard is credited with only one hit, he reached first every time he went to bat—four times—three grounders from his bat going through the hands of infielders. His fourth clout was a two-bagger to the clubhouse. McCormick hit over the cinder path in left field in the third inning, but the Dartmouth captain made a spectacular running catch. The score:

June 21, Penn at Philadelphia.

Athletic Notes.

In order to give undergraduates an opportunity to see the crews in action oftener during the season, the Intercollegiate Athletic Association has chartered the steamboat Horton and will run several afternoon excursions to Crowbar and back this month. The first trip is planned for tomorrow, and the boat will leave Renwick at 5 o'clock if the weather conditions are favorable for rowing on the lake.

The lacrosse team was defeated 5 to 0 Saturday in New York by the Crescent Athletic Club, which has about the fastest lacrosse team in the country. H. O. Walbridge '10, captain of the Cornell team last year, played with the Crescents.

A golf tournament is in progress and Monday a tennis tournament was started for the freshman championship of the University.

The University has made an auspicious beginning of what may some day be a notable collection of paintings. Professor Melchers's "Communion" is one of the most famous of contemporary works of art. Near it in Goldwin Smith Hall now hangs another famous canvas, Alexandre Cabanel's "The Trysting Place of Souls," a gift to the University by Henry R. Ickelheimer '88. Professor Brauner says that this painting will be one of the most famous of the French school. Cabanel (1823-1889) won the grand prix de Rome in 1845 and other medals of honor. Such paintings as these are not generally to be seen outside of large centers of population, but the campus of a large university ought to be a suitable place for them. There is no doubt whatever that they are admired and intelligently appreciated at Cornell.

Professor Andrews has been giving a series of lectures on Greek sculpture this year, and he has had to repeat every lecture. The students who go to hear him must be interested in the subject, for they do not receive "University credit" for doing so. Sage Chapel is filled by the audiences that go to hear Mr. Johnston's Friday afternoon organ recitals. The taste for such things may not be any keener here now than in earlier years, but fortunately the means of indulging and educating it are becoming more numerous.

CLASS REUNIONS.

Boom! Rah! Rix!

Boom! Rah! Rix!

We are Cornell Ninety-Six!

Doesn't that sound natural? Don't you think that would sound good coming across the campus? Wouldn't you like to help send it? If so, why not come to Ithaca in June and see the old crowd once again? There will be plenty doing and a good time for everybody. Send word you are coming to

GEORGE S. TOMPKINS,
Class Secretary,

All signs now point toward a big three-year reunion for 1908. The return postals attached to the notices that were sent out three weeks ago are coming in slowly, but already there are 37 who have said they will be in line in June. So far 51 "regrets" have also been received. Just where the other 400 and more return postals are is a problem. Everybody search around in their clothes and send back that postal with a big "yes" on it. Don't hesitate any longer. After you have sent in your return postal sit down and write six other fellows to do the same. Remember that not everybody in the class will read this notice. Those who do should pass the good word along. We must have at least 100 1908 men in Ithaca on June 20 and 21.

The following have so far sent in word that they will be at the reunion:

C. R. Andrews, Jay Boardman, F. S. Brannon, George N. Brown, Charlie Burns, John Condon, jr., H. C. Desbecker, S. J. Dulaney, Sam Eckert, Harry D. Fox, Jerome A. Frank, Henry P. Gage, Eddie Gibson, Melvin B. Goodwin, Bill Harries, Bill Heller, Charles S. Humphrey, Burt M. King, Ric Lally, Carl F. Meyer, Dave Pratt, Ken Roberts, John N. Schilling, Seth Shoemaker, Frank G. Smith, Eddie Stillman, H. L. Trube, Steve Vanderveer, Ray Vincent, H. Earle Weaver, A. U. Wetherbee, Ham White, Rice Warren White, Ward Ben White, Van Loan Whitehead, jr., L. H. M. Whitney, J. Stewart Williams.

Philippine Cornell Men Meet.

The fourth annual banquet of the Cornell Alumni Association of the Philippine Islands was held on February 25 at Mrs. Smith's restaurant in Manila. The Philippine Carnival was in progress at the time.

There were twenty-two present at the dinner and they sang the old songs and told stories of their university life. Captain P. A. Welker '78, the oldest man in years but the youngest in spirit of those present, made such a hit with his song "My Suit of Corduroy" that he was elected president of the association for the ensuing year. Captain Welker said the song was well known in his day, but it was a new one to everybody else present. After the dinner those present were the guests of Antonio Brias '08 at the San Miguel Beer Gardens on the carnival grounds. The following men were present: P. A. Welker '78, Austin Craig '95, C. Mandelbaum '94, J. C. Knudson '94, Abraham Gideon '95, E. J. Murphy '98, R. Clauson '02, P. W. Tinan '03, H. Redmond '05, A. B. Zerns '05, A. L. Mason '05, G. H. Re-kate '07, G. B. Canaga '07, H. K. Morgans '07, J. Gallagher '07, R. F. Knight '07, G. W. Mayo '07, O. G. Jones '07-'08, E. J. Flynn '08, I. P. Hartigan '08, H. H. Gill '08 and A. Brias '08. Owing to the fact that Harry D. Gibbs '94 was called out of town, Mayo acted as toastmaster, and toasts were given by Knudson, Flynn, Tinan, Welker and Murphy. The menu card had a picture of the campus on the cover and contained the words of the favorite Cornell songs. A notice of the dinner had been mailed to the Cornell men in the Philippines in the form of a map of the islands, showing all roads leading to Manila on February 25. Officers for next year were elected as follows: President, Welker; vice-president, Gibbs; secretary and treasurer, Gideon; executive committee, Murphy and Brias.

'74, B. S.—Dr. John C. Branner of Stanford University is the head of a zoological expedition to the coast of Brazil which sailed from New York on April 18 for Para. The Stanford Alumnus says: "From Para the party will go to Natal, where they will take a boat and work northward along the coast, across the mouth of the Amazon, to Cape Orange, on the northern frontier of Brazil, studying the marine fauna, both as it is today and as found in fossils. Dr. Branner has already explored the Brazilian coast south of Para. One of the interesting questions to be solved is the effect that the Amazon may have in forming a fresh water barrier, preventing the intermingling of marine forms to the north and south of it, and the light that may be thrown on the results that have followed the disappearance of the great salt inlet that used to occupy the whole basin of the Amazon. Some conclusions may also be drawn as to the reasonableness of
