730 SCHOOLBOYS ENJOY CORNELL DAY

Brought to Campus By Alumni From Thirty Clubs

Cornell Day was again a perfect May week end. The weather smiled on the Campus Saturday and Sunday, as it has for all five previous Cornell Days, and fortune favored Cornell athletes at home and away. For three days the entire community devoted itself to showing Cornell to the 730 schoolboys who came from the East and as far west as Chicago. Their undergraduate hosts entertained them in fraternity houses and showed them Cornell completely.

While the youngsters enjoyed themselves, their elders who brought them had their own good time. For many, it was a two-day reunion with Classmates and old friends. "Chauffeurs" were quartered in the dormitories and other University buildings and in private homes; were guests of the University at athletic events and at luncheon in Willard Straight Hall Saturday noon, and attended many Cornell Day events. Most of them brought boys selected by some thirty Cornell Clubs in as many cities, but some Cornellians brought boys "on their own," and not a few fathers, not Cornellians, brought their sons and others.

Fraternities Entertain

Willard Straight Hall was the center for Cornell Day. Here members of the Senior societies were on duty to welcome the boys and introduce them to representatives of the fraternities where they had been assigned. Many came Friday afternoon and were taken at once to fraternity quarters to get acquainted, then up to Schoellkopf to see the football squad in its final spring scrimmage and to the other points of interest. Friday night the Engineering Show brought crowds to the various rooms in Franklin

Hall, Sibley, Rand Hall, Lincoln Hall, and Baker Laboratory where students had set up an amazing array of exhibits and demonstrations. On the upper Campus, a gala carnival arranged by students in Agriculture, Home Economics, and Hotel Administration also drew a crowd.

Saturday Busy

Saturday morning the schoolboy guests were taken to visit the particular Departments and Colleges they wanted to see, many of which had made special exhibits for their information and entertainment. Back to the fraternity houses they went for lunch and then to finals of the interscholastic tennis meet, or the baseball games on Hoy Field, or the rugby game and freshman track meet on Schoellkopf, or to all of them. Later, a goodly number were at the Inlet for races among the crews that stayed home.

Saturday evening, most of the fraternities arranged for special dinner programs, with one or more Faculty members present to tell their guests about Cornell and answer questions.

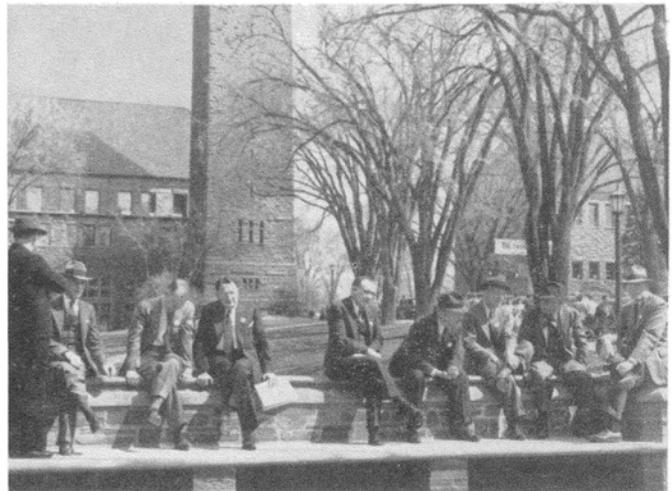

By nine o'clock, Bailey Hall was nearly filled with Cornell Day guests, students, alumni, and other visitors for the Cornell Day show, "Cornell's Apoppin'." Cheerleaders led them in Cornell cheers, they heard the Glee Club and ROTC Band, sang Cornell songs, and were given brief glimpses of more extended entertainment which was to follow in a "Midnight Club" on the terrace of Willard Straight Hall. This was all in the form of a mock broadcast, with Owen H. Klepper '39 at the microphone. President Day spoke briefly of the advantages of Cornell as a place to go to college, mentioning especially the "program of student initiative and responsibility" which goes with the University's long-standing tradition of student independence. President Walter H. Foertsch '39 of the Student Council welcomed the Cornell Day guests, and as he sat down newsboys rushed down the aisles crying an "Extra" of the Cornell Daily Sun which reported the meeting and his speech in full.

All Gather at Willard Straight

From Bailey Hall, a torchlight procession was led by the Band to an Open House at Willard Straight Hall, where the guests had opportunity to meet coaches, managers, student editors, and other representatives of Campus activities; were shown through the building;

New York Cornell Club has just rounded out a smashing season of extra-curricular laurel taking. April saw Captain Red Shaw's squash racquets team crowned champions of the Metropolitan "B" League. Red is one bird who never gets out of shape; looks just the same as when he captained the baseball nine at Ithaca in '27. He won our individual Club squash championship this year, permanently retiring the trophy with his third win. He turned right around and gave it back, for permanent competition. He's that kind of a guy!

Then our bridge team came off runners-up to the team from the Yale Club in the College Clubs' Bridge League. Bill Pellett '00 and Clark Wilcox '23 took the Dutton trophy, emblematic of tops in partnered play, for the League.

Not to be outdone, the bowling teams romped home in the van. Malcolm Carroll's ('19) "A" team was runner-up to the championship Harvards, while Pick Mills '36 saw his "B" team rendered a dinner by the other groups as the high scoring fivesome.

Biggest Cornell sports interest here last week was the award of the Sportsmanship Brotherhood medal to Jack Moakley, described elsewhere. The luncheon that packed the ballroom of the Horel McAlpin was a stirring spectacle.

The Club has taken on an international flavor of late. At the Mayor's request we've extended hospitality to the officers of the visiting fleet, and brass buttons will be no novelty about the place this summer. And these World's Fair visitors are dropping in from everywhere. Entries in the desk register ranging from Holland to Hollywood, and Montreal to Montana, remind us of Charlie Blair's prediction that this would be "Cornell's cross-roads of the world."

Our card room is decorated with prints of old playing cards—merry pasteboards that go back to Chinese examples used in the 13th century. The entrance door carries an oil painting reproduction of a 1480 Jack (or Knave) of Clubs, which was a portrait of Launcelot, the English knight. You know, of course, that the King on all the present decks is still the likeness of Henry the Eighth.

Shorty Davis '24, who finds time to play on both the squash and golf teams that represent the Club, also holds down the berth on the entertainment committee of card committee chairman. Last week there were more men entered in the first annual bridge pairs championship than we've had in years. A new silver placque placed in annual competition will bear the names of George G. Andrews '10 and

Tom Roberts '25, as the first champs. Pellett and Wilcox didn't fare so well, having an off night, and dropped in the ranking. To inquiry as to the why of such a big turnout, some one said, "Our wives are all playing poker these days, so we have to come here to play bridge."

SHOTS OF THE WEEK: Ned Sheridan '11, back from Europe, reporting on whys and wherefores...Carl Spang '39, Varsity end, and Dave Peace '41 down for the opening of the Fair...Eddie Gibson '08, frozen out in the bridge finals...George G. Brooks '94, here from Scranton for the '94 Reunion-mapping dinner...Curt Yohe '09, Pittsburgh railroader, seeing how the Fair was shaping up...Phil Ickelheimer '35 making the Club a loan of two magnificent ship models, faithful reproductions of "Atlantic" and "Blue-nose," which he's been two years a-building.

CHANGES IN TRUSTEES

Trustees of the University have elected H. Edward Babcock, of Ithaca, acting chairman of the Board during the temporary incapacity of the chairman, J. DuPratt White '90, who is recovering from a serious illness and is expected to resume his duties later in the year. Babcock was first elected to the Board in February, 1930, by the State Grange as its representative, and has been re-elected each year since. He is a member of the State College Council and a director of the Cornell Research Foundation; has been a member of the Trustees' committee on general administration since 1935, and has served on committees on the Riding Hall, on President Day's inauguration, is chairman of the subcommittee on sports and recreational needs of the larger committee on the financial needs of the endowed Colleges, and was a member of the Trustees' committee on athletic policy.

The Board also received the resignation of August Heckscher as a Trustee. He recently celebrated his ninety-first birthday, and finds it impossible to attend meetings in Ithaca. He was elected to the Board November 14, 1931, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George F. Baker, and was re-elected by the Board in June, 1935, for a five-year term. In 1920 he established the Heckscher Research Foundation at the University with a gift of shares in a New York City realty corporation. To July 1, 1934, a total income of $475,000 was used to promote research, largely in grants to members of the Faculty. Mr. Heckscher was an interested guest at the recent opening of the New York Cornell Club.

AKRON CLUB SECRETARY

New secretary-treasurer of the Cornell Club of Akron, Ohio, is Arthur W. Browne, Jr., PhD '35. The ALUMNI NEWS April 20 reported incorrectly that Joseph P. Maider '11 had been elected.

NOW, IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

After an absence of twenty-five years, Class politics have come back to the Campus—by request. This year's selections for the Student Council are being made to the accompaniment of open electioneering, platforms, and partisan organizations.

For more than two decades that sort of thing, once a recognized major activity, has been officially regarded as not quite nice, although there have been periodic rumors of deals and what-not going on behind closed doors. The new move purports to have been made "to make democracy work", "to bring Campus politics out in the open."

The new rules bar only the use of paid advertisements, posters, and handbills. The present-day Campus Farleys think the way to elect a candidate to office is to get him a lot of publicity in the Cornell Sun. Deals behind closed doors are apparently regarded as no longer effective. In my time, that was what closed doors were for, and they worked splendidly.

If the undergraduates honestly desire to learn something of practical politics, they could not do better than consult the University Trustees. There is a vast deal of experience with successful Class politics concentrated in the present Board. In my time, a candidate who enjoyed the support of Mr. Neal Dow Becker '05 was as good as elected. Mr. Harry Stutz '07, while skilfully avoiding both publicity and public office, was the confidential advisor of the Class politicians, and the good ones did what Mr. Stutz said. Major Robert E. Treman '09 was never on the losing side in any Class election. Mr. Walter Teagle '99, now president of the Standard Oil Co., always landed butter-side-up in the turmoil of Campus politics; and while the Honorable Frank Hiscock '75 had graduated long before I arrived, the fragrance of his reputation as an astute Class politician still lingered over the elms when I first climbed the Hill.

Those men "made democracy work," and they made it work their way, which is the specific object of political activity national, municipal, and Campus.

The change in the student attitude strikes us as a salutary one. The only political activity that means anything is practical politics directed toward electing one's candidate to office. Four years in Cornell used to be, and ought to be, excellent preparation for practical politics.

For example, there was one year when our house had eight votes in the Junior Class, and because of them was promised a place on the Junior Prom Committee and the chairmanship of the Junior Smoker. We elected our man, but received neither promised appointment. When invited to explain "how come," the newly-elected president proved that three of our eight Juniors had not taken the trouble to vote, which relieved him of his promise and let us out. He was, of course, right under the then standards, and we had to admit it. Our fraternal wrath then turned upon the three delinquent brothers, who learned a lot about practical Class politics in the ensuing weeks.

The incident made good citizens of the three. No one of them has ever failed to enroll, register, and vote in every primary and general election from that day to this.

REPORT UNIVERSITY GIFTS

Comptroller George F. Rogalsky '10 reported to the Trustees at their spring meeting, gifts to the University since January 1 of $362,275.97. Of this amount, $251,045.34 was for the Colleges in Ithaca, and $111,230.63 for the Medical College in New York. Grand total for the period from July 1, 1938, to April 1, 1939, is $721,430.06.

During this fiscal year the University in Ithaca has received $476,986.22. For student aid—gifts, loans, grants, and prizes—the total is $19,760.82. Other restricted gifts and grants total $126,446. Unrestricted gifts amount to $150,027.03. From endowment funds, restricted income was $106,451., unrestricted, $74,301.37.

The Medical College in New York has received this fiscal year $1,500. for student aid; $198,793.84 in research grants; $38,000. for departmental development; and miscellaneous gifts of $6,150., a total of $244,443.84.

Largest gift reported was $124,133.87 from the estate of J. Norris Oliphant '01, who died in 1927, leaving his residuary estate one-half to the University and one-half to the Cornell chapter of Sigma Phi. The bequest to the University was unrestricted as to its use, and has been set up as the J. Norris Oliphant Fund. The donor was a member of the New York City brokerage house of James H. Oliphant & Co., which his father founded. He received the ME in 1901; was a member of the Savage Club, Undine, Bench and Board, Mermaid, and Sigma Phi.

Report was also made that by the will of Dr. Charles R. Davis '08, who died March 22, 1939, the University was made the beneficiary for the remainder of a residuary trust. Of the amount which it will receive, the income of $100,000 is to be used for "Charles Roy Davis Scholarships of at least $1,000 a year," awarded for "general worthiness of candidates, consideration being given to character, scholarship, and financial need." Income of the remainder, not exceeding $150,000, the will provides, is to be used to establish a Charles Roy Davis Professorship or Professorships. Having received the MD at the Medical College in New York in 1908, Dr. Davis practiced surgery in Detroit, Mich., for twenty-nine years.

HONOR COACH MOAKLEY As Leader in Sport

Coach John F. Moakley was honored from both sides of the Atlantic when he received the award for international sportsmanship at the twelfth annual meeting of The Sportsmanship Brotherhood in the Hotel McAlpin, New York City, May 2. Besides the notables of the American sports world who paid him tribute in person, cables were read by John T. McGovern '00, the toastmaster, from British statesmen and former Olympic stars including David Lord Burghley, Lord Desborough of Tapley, Evan Hunter, secretary of the British Olympic committee, Bevil G. D. Rudd, Evelyn Montague, Philip Noel Baker, M.P., and others.

A gold medal, 1938 award of The Sportsmanship Brotherhood, was presented to Moakley by the president, Devereux Milburn. Daniel Chase, executive secretary of the Brotherhood, presented a gold wrist watch. A Sidney Roth '39 represented the undergraduates and told of the high regard in which Moakley is held by all of them. Other speakers were Grantland Rice; Asa C. Bushnell, executive director of the Central Office for Eastern Intercollegiate Athletics; Gustavus Towne Kirby, treasurer of the American Olympic committee; Daniel Ferris, secretary of the AAU; Matty Geis, Princeton track coach; and Carl Merner, vice-president of the Association of College Track Coaches.

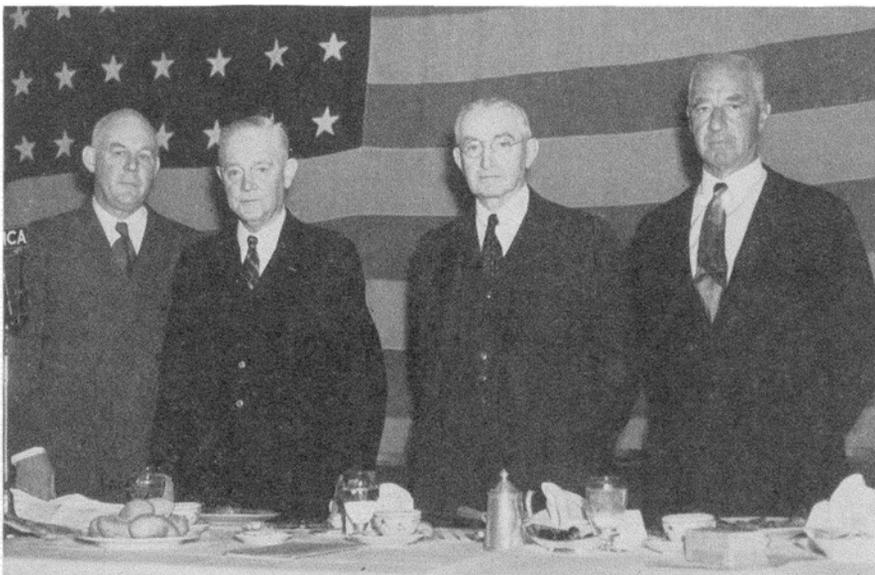

One and all, they paid high tribute to Moakley and cited the love and respect with which he is regarded the world over. He was hailed as "more than a great coach: he is a great sportsman and the type of man who helped to build the entire world of sport today." President Milburn characterized him as one who "has made a profound impression upon the entire world of sport."

NEW YORK WOMEN ACTIVE

April program of the Cornell Women's Club of New York was a busy one. First high spot was dinner at the Barbizon Hotel April 4 at which Ruth Darville '15, past president of the Club, introduced several alumnae in business. They told about their jobs and how they had attained them. Marguerite Hicks '26 was chairman of the arrangements committee.

Speakers were Mary K. Hoyt '20, assistant secretary and treasurer of the Montclair (N. J.) Trust Company; Laura J. Goulding '09, buyer for Bloomingdale Brothers; Katherine R. Buckley '01, New York representative of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company; Grace Dimelow '20, president of the Diamond Dee Brassiere Company; Mrs. Thomas A. Morris (Katherine Jacobs) '27, director of women's activities at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; and Ruth Irish '22, who is with the Union Dime Savings Bank. Mildred Taft '21, personnel supervisor of Cities Service Company, unable to attend, sent a poetic masterpiece about her work which was read to the great enjoyment of all.

April 12, a hobby exhibition was held at the Club's headquarters in the Barbizon. Excellent examples of painting, sculpture, stones, knitting, crocheting, and other arts and crafts were on display.

ΦBK MAKES AWARD

United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa last week made the first award of a fellowship founded with a bequest from Dr. Isabelle Stone, PhD '08, who died in 1934. It is the Mary Isabel Sibley Fellowship, named for Dr. Stone's mother. The recipient is Alice B. Critchett, Phi Beta Kappa member at Mount Holyoke, where she is now an instructor of French. She has received many previous scholarship honors, has studied abroad, and with this award of $1,500 will go to Paris in July for a year's further research.

Dr. Stone entered the University in 1905 for graduate study of Greek and Comparative Philology, having received the AB that year at Wellesley, where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Later she studied abroad, and taught Greek at Bryn Mawr. Her will bequeathed $1,000 to Cornell, "for repayment with approximate interest" of a University Fellowship she held here.

NEW CURW DIRECTOR

Cornell United Religious Work has announced a new director, beginning next August 15. He is William W. Mendenhall, for the last nine years secretary of the University of Pittsburgh YMCA. He is a former school teacher, graduate of North Dakota Agricultural College in 1917, and during the World War was in India and Mesopotamia with the British YMCA. For eleven years he was traveling student secretary of the State YMCA in Indiana. He is one of the founders of the Pittsburgh Community Forum, a member of the Pittsburgh Council of Adult Education, and an active layman in the First Baptist Church. He is married and has three children.

Since the retirement of the Rev. Richard H. Edwards as director of CURW in October, 1937, the acting director has been the Rev. James A. G. Moore, Congregational student pastor.

About ATHLETICS

BEAT SYRACUSE AT TENNIS

The tennis team defeated Syracuse, 8-1, on the Cascadilla courts May 3, losing its one contest in the doubles. Swift and Manhold of Syracuse defeated Captain Edward D. Devine, Jr. '39 of Detroit, Mich., and William H. North '39 of Cleveland, Ohio, in an extra-set match.

Cornell won six of the other eight matches in straight sets.

CREWS SURPRISE ALL

The Varsity crew turned in the first major upset of the rowing season last Saturday by defeating Navy, last year's Poughkeepsie champion, by one and one-half lengths over a mile and three-quarters course on the Severn River at Annapolis. Navy was a heavy favorite before the race, which was rowed under ideal weather and water conditions.

The Freshman crew turned in a decisive victory in the opening engagement, winning by four lengths. The Junior Varsity boat, in the closest and most exciting race of the regatta, lost to Navy by ten feet.

It was Cornell's first Varsity victory over Navy in several years.

The times of the races:

Varsity—Cornell, 9:02; Navy, 9:07.3.

Junior Varsity—Navy, 9:13.4; Cornell, 9:14.2.

Freshman—Cornell, 9:10.3; Navy, 9:24.7.

The Varsity demonstrated its power by holding to a lower beat all along the course, rowing 31 and 32 strokes to the minute and pulling away from Navy even when the midshipmen raised the beat to 34. Navy jumped into an early lead, but Cornell caught up, gained open water with about 200 yards to go, and outdid Navy in the finishing sprint.

In the junior varsity race, Navy was first off the mark, Cornell catching up at the mile and going into a one-quarter length lead a half-mile from the finish. Navy's finishing spurt nipped Cornell at the line.

The Freshman boat picked up a half-length lead in the first half-mile, and widened the margin in convincing fashion.

The Cornell boatings:

Varsity: Bow, Arthur A. Moak '39 of Brooklyn; 2, John W. Kruse '41 of Davenport, Iowa; 3, William E. Fisher, Jr. '40 of Stevens Point, Wis.; 4, Robert J. Harley '41 of Westfield, N. J.; 5, Commodore John R. Furman '39 of Elmira; 6, James A. Young, Jr. '40 of Angelica; 7, Clay R. Davis '39 of Scarsdale; stroke, Richard K. Collins '40 of Ithaca; coxswain, George A. Sears '40 of Brooklyn.

Junior Varsity: Bow, David R. Longenecker, Jr. '41 of Rockville Center; 2, Peter C. Foote '41 of Milwaukee, Wis.; 3, Benjamin E. Dean '39 of Owego; 4, John Weikart '41 of Baltimore, Md.; 5, William D. Lotspeich '41 of Cincinnati, Ohio; 6, John C. Perry '41 of Ithaca; 7, Stanley W. Allen, Jr. '40 of Glendale, Ohio; stroke, Christian J. Haller '41 of Ithaca; coxswain, Charles E. Boak '41 of New Haven, Conn.

FRESHMAN: Bow, Charles C. Leigh of San Diego, Calif.; 2, Daniel Schwartzkopf of New Rochelle; 3, Robert O. Gundlach of Plainfield, N. J.; 4, Harry M. St. John of Detroit, Mich.; 5, Franklin P. Eggert of Westfield; 6, William W. Paty, Jr. of Honolulu, Hawaii; 7, John G. Aldworth of Garden City; stroke, William N. Kruse of Davenport, Iowa; coxswain, Fred H. Guterman of West Newton.

BASEBALL TEAM WINS THREE

Three Eastern Intercollegiate League victories last week raised the Varsity baseball team to third place in the League. A responsive Cornell Day crowd of schoolboys, alumni, students, Faculty, and townspeople crowded the stands at Hoy Field Saturday afternoon to see the team beat Columbia twice, 4-3 and 7-3.

Wednesday, also on Hoy Field, Cornell had defeated Pennsylvania, 9-6.

Walter J. Sickles '41 of Pearl River pitched to victory against Pennsylvania and the first Columbia game; James A. Young '40 of Cherry Creek accounted for the other. In the three contests, Cornell collected thirty-one hits.

League standings:

	W	L	PC
Dartmouth	5	1	.833
Harvard	5	2	.714
Cornell	4	2	.667
Pennsylvania	3	3	.500
Yale	1	4	.200
Columbia	1	5	.167
Princeton	0	2	.000

Cornell took a 5-0 lead in the first two innings of the Pennsylvania game, then fell behind, 6-5, going into the last half of the sixth. Here Sickles virtually won his own game. His triple drove in Walter J. Matuszczak '41 of Lowville with the tying run, and he scored what turned out to be the winning tally on a single by Kenneth G. Brown '40 of Millerton. For good measure Cornell scored twice in the eighth.

In the opening game with Columbia, the visitors gained a 3-2 lead going into the sixth inning. Michael J. Ruddy '41 of Alden, Pa., catcher, tied the score with a prodigious home run, the ball rolling almost to the center field fence. In an extra inning, the eighth, Walter Scholl '41 of Port Richmond singled, ran to third on Ruddy's sacrifice, and scored the winning run when Matuszczak lined a single to right.

The second game was featured by Cornell's extra-base hitting. Cornell scored three runs in the first inning to one for Columbia, then added two more in the third as George F. Polzer, Jr. '40 of Staten Island hit a home run to left field. William C. Mogk, Jr. '40 of Brooklyn followed it with a triple to center and scored when Columbia misplayed a grounder by Ruddy.

Cornell scored two more runs in the sixth on three Columbia errors and consecutive singles by Matuszczak, Charles S. Bowen '40 of Binghamton, and Young.

Cornell's defensive play was a highlight of the doubleheader, as only two errors were charged. Polzer stole three bases in the first game, scoring from third on one of his dashes.

The scores by innings:

Cornell	140	002	20X-9
Pennsylvania	001	023	000-6
Cornell	000	111	01-4
Columbia	001	020	00-3
Cornell	302	002	0-7
Columbia	100	001	1-3

TRACK TEAM WINS

The track team continued its long winning streak over Pennsylvania in the annual dual meet last Saturday on Franklin Field, Philadelphia. Cornell won ten first places and shared another in its 81-54 victory, and scored sweeps in the quarter-, half-, and two-mile races.

James B. Pender '39 of Lawrence, Mass., turned in two first places, in the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard low hurdles.

Captain William W. McKeever '39 of Wayne, Pa., returned to form in the hammer throw, tossing the ball 168 feet 9 3/8 inches, compared with his 156-foot effort in the Pennsylvania Relays the week before, to set a new meet record. The old mark of 166 feet 1 1/2 inches was set by Joseph L. Leone '36.

GOLF TEAM LOSES TWO

The golf team opened its Eastern Intercollegiate Golf Association campaign with two one-point defeats at State College, Pa., last week end. On Friday, Cornell lost to Pittsburgh, 5-4. On Saturday, Cornell bowed to Penn State by the same score.

OVERTIME LACROSSE TIE

The lacrosse team played Hobart to a 15-15 tie in an overtime game at Geneva last Saturday, averting a defeat by scoring two goals in the last minute of the extra period.

Cornell gained a 9-7 lead at the half. When the whistle blew the score was tied at 13-all. Hobart quickly scored twice in the ten-minute overtime period, but Carlton H. Sheely '39 of Syracuse and Robert D. Brennan '40 of Geneva again created a tie with their last-ditch goals.

FRESHMAN RESULTS

The Freshman track team defeated Syracuse and Colgate in a triangular meet on Schoellkopf Field Saturday afternoon, scoring 50 points. Colgate was second with 39, Syracuse scored 33.

Two other Freshman teams lost three games. Ithaca College and Colgate defeated the baseball team, 4-3 and 9-2, in games played off the Campus last week. The yearling lacrosse team lost to Hobart at Geneva, 8-6.

ODDS AND ENDS

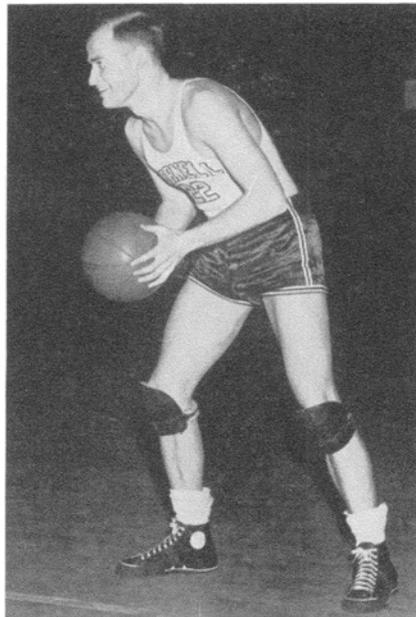

Cornell Rugby Club closed its first season of play, on Schoellkopf Field last Saturday, defeating Hofstra College, 9-3. Harold H. Liebman '39 of Long Island City and Richard H. Morgan '39 of Norristown, Pa., scored tries and John A. Lewis '42 of Bethlehem, Pa., made good a forty-three-yard penalty kick. The Club won two games and lost four during the season.

Pingry School of Elizabeth, N. J., won the third annual interscholastic tennis tournament, a feature of Cornell Day, last week end on the Cascadilla courts. Pingry's No. 1 player, Richard Bender, won the singles title by defeating Calvin Friedman of James Madison High School, New York City, and teamed with Caleb Baxter to win the doubles. Milburn, N. J., High School finished second. Utica Free Academy, Upper Darby (Pa.) High School, and Albany Academy were the other teams entered.

Spring football training season closed with an intra-squad game on Schoellkopf Field last Friday, Reds and Whites playing to a 13-13 tie. Fall practice will begin September 15.

The Athletic Association dedicated its first Varsity C dinner, May 2, to Harvard, "in recognition of the high standard of sportsmanship maintained by Harvard's players in intercollegiate athletics, and in acknowledgement of the cordial friendship which Cornell has from its very beginning enjoyed with Harvard University and hopes to preserve undiminished." James Lynch '05, Director of Physical Education and Athletics, introduced as speakers William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard, and President Day. Besides the 150 C men who received shingles, guests included the Varsity managers and members of the Council on Physical Education and Athletics and of the Advisory Council on Intercollegiate Athletics.

The fencing squad has elected Russell L. Hopping '40 of Brookline, Pa., captain of the 1940 team.

Election of ALAN W. VAUGHAN '40 (above) as captain of the Varsity basketball team for next year was announced at a dinner given the squad by Red Key. Last season Vaughan played regularly at guard, and occasionally at forward. He is the son of Leonard H. Vaughan '03 of Western Springs, Ill.; a brother of John C. Vaughan '29, Leonard H. Vaughan, Jr. '33, and Gager T. Vaughan '36. Like his two next older brothers, the new captain combines talent for basketball with expertness at tennis.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA, professional Education society, has elected Robert C. Bradley '40 of Moberly, Mo., president for next year; John Weiner '40 of Livingston Manor, vice-president; Donald R. Nesbitt '40 of Albion, secretary; and Alexander W. Trainor, Jr. '40 of West Leyden, treasurer. Professor Riverda H. Jordan, Education, was re-elected Faculty advisor.

CORNELLIANS RANK HIGH

Of a total of 626 members of Phi Beta Kappa in Greater New York City from eleven up-State colleges and universities, 172 are Cornellians, according to Harland B. Tibbetts '04 who is division chairman for these colleges in the New York campaign for the "defense fund" being raised by United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa. A recent dinner at the Hotel Astor to launch the campaign was attended by 3100 persons.

Tibbetts was editor of the ALUMNI NEWS for two years while he was attending the Law School, from which he received the LLB in 1906. In the law firm of Tibbetts, Lewis, Lazo & Welch, 15 Broad Street, New York City, he is associated with George F. Lewis '07 and Carlos Lazo '18. He is president of the Brooklyn Heights Association, chairman of the committee on courts of superior jurisdiction of the New York City Bar Association, and member of the boards of governors of the Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York, the Cornell Club of New York, and the Bellport (L. I.) Country Club.

NEW CLEVELAND OFFICERS

Cornell Club of Cleveland has elected as president for next year J. Bentley Forker, Jr. '26, who was formerly secretary. Ladimir R. Zeman '16 is vice-president; Warren E. Monson '15, secretary; and Charles M. Colyer '15, treasurer. Three new directors elected are George W. Teare '22, Paul R. Gros Jean '35, and James C. Forbes '36. They will serve with Joseph K. Bole '00, James A. Webb '09, John C. Barker '12, MacRea Parker '14, and Arthur B. Rathbone '30.

SYRACUSE WOMEN GATHER

Approximately seventy alumnae from Syracuse and nearby towns attended a luncheon meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Syracuse, in the Terrace Room of the Hotel Syracuse, April 22. Guest speakers were from Ithaca: Mrs. Robert C. Osborn (Agda T. Swenson) '20, president of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs, who spoke on the Federation Scholarship Fund; and University Provost H. W. Peters '14, who told of the need and plans for increasing the University's endowment. Mrs. Leonard E. Tiffany (Florence K. Snyder) '12, chairman of the luncheon committee, welcomed the guests and introduced Frances A. Scudder '24 as toastmistress. Mrs. Paul F. Grassman (Florence A. Case) '30, president of the Club, also extended greetings.

TAKE LETTERS BY PHONE

Novel service of interest to business men visiting New York City has been started there with Donald E. Seeley '31 as general manager. From hotel rooms, offices, clubs, or any telephone it is now possible from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. to dictate letters, memoranda, and reports to the new Steno-Phone Service, and have finished copies delivered shortly by messenger. Trained stenotypists take dictation directly over the telephone, to be typed at once in the offices of Steno-Phone Service, 160 West Forty-fourth Street, and delivered immediately to the client. Service is obtained by calling BRyant 9-6985 on any New York City telephone.

TO MARK FOUNDER'S HOME

Members of the Cornell Club of Syracuse and other alumni from Ithaca and elsewhere will gather at the site of Ezra Cornell's boyhood home near DeRuyter May 20, to dedicate a marker placed there by the State of New York. Professor Albert W. Smith '78, Engineering, Emeritus, will go over from Ithaca to speak at 3 p.m. at the site of the house which the young Cornell built at the age of nineteen. All Cornellians are invited to be present.

The village of DeRuyter is forty-one miles east of Ithaca on Route 13. The State will place one marker on Route 13 in the village, directing attention to another marker about three and one-half miles east, on the road to Quaker Basin, where the Cornell house stood.

A committee of the Cornell Club of Syracuse headed by Walter W. Edwards '93 has been instrumental in locating the exact spot and getting the State markers erected.

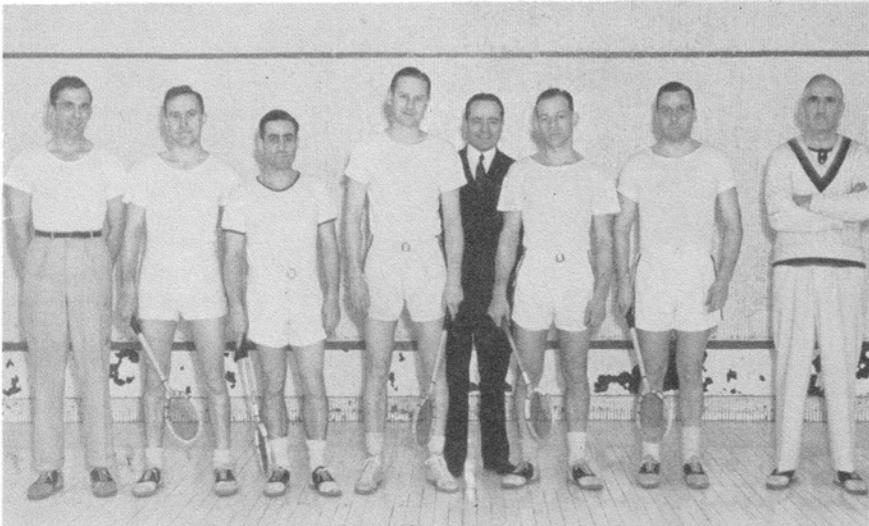

ENGINEERS HELP PLACEMENT

Again this year, as last, the Cornell Society of Engineers has contributed $100 to the University for furtherance of the work of the Employment Service of the Cornell Club of New York. Sending the Society's check to President Day, Walker L. Cislis '22, president, writes as follows:

As you probably know, for a long time the Cornell Society of Engineers has taken an active interest in helping our engineers find positions. For many years this work was handled by some member on his own time and expense. Since the establishment of the Cornell Club Employment Service in New York City this work was turned over to that office. Its director now is Paul O. Reyneau '13 who is secretary-treasurer of the Society and a member of its executive committee.

At the last meeting of the executive committee, I was authorized to recommend to you and to the Board of Trustees a continuation and a broadening of the University's interest and support of this placement and guidance for alumni. This service has been of great value to many Cornellians both as employers and employees and is an effective means of cementing the ties between the University and its alumni.

As was done last year, a contribution of $100 has been authorized by the Society for the furtherance of this work, in recognition of its major importance and its need for more adequate support. Our check is inclosed.

CORNELL CLUB TEAM WINS METROPOLITAN SQUASH RACQUETS CHAMPIONSHIP

For the Class B title they defeated the Bronxville Field Club, Westchester County champions, 3-2. Earlier, they defeated the New Jersey B champions, Plainfield Country Club, 4-1.

President Day acknowledged the contribution, and wrote, in part:

I am personally of the opinion that this service pays large dividends and am anxious to see it given more adequate support than it has had thus far. We are including in the budget for next year a modest increase of the University's appropriation and shall be doing what we can from time to time to bring added resources to the work which Mr. Reyneau has in charge. Any suggestions you may have at any time as to how the work can be made even more effective than it is will be much appreciated.

FIRM HAS EIGHT ALUMNI

Eight Cornell Civil Engineers are associated with the Baltimore, Md., engineering firm of Whitman, Requardt and Smith. Ezra B. Whitman '01, a Trustee of the University, and Gustav J. Requardt '09 are members of the firm. Benjamin L. Smith '14 is manager of the Albany office, and his assistant is A. Russell Vollmer '27. Theodore W. Hacker '16 is currently in charge of building sewage interceptors and a treatment plant at Staunton, Va.; lives at Severna Park, Md. Norman D. Kenney '24 is manager of the Baltimore office; Roy H. FEEDING THE STOCK

(R. B. in "State and Toga," Ithaca Journal)

Last summer we had a field of timothy still left standing by the time our barn was stuffed to the roof. We knew the hay in the barn would settle considerably, but we figured the shrinkage would leave just about room enough for the second cutting of clover. So we traded the field of timothy (on the hoof) for a lot of fence posts we knew we were going to need this spring.

And then, you remember, we had a long dry spell in August. As a result of that our second cutting of clover didn't amount to much. Instead of the six or eight loads we expected, we got up a scant two and there we were out on a limb. So last week we put our pride in our pocket, sneaked over after dark and bought back two loads of our own hay from Mr. Updike.

You can buy hay after dark, but you have to draw it in broad daylight. And I can now assure you—in case you're the least bit interested—that when you come down the road in April with a load of your own hay that you've just bought back, you feel pretty silly and conspicuous. You can't fool the neighbors about that sort of a hay deal!

One lives and learns. Doubtless we shall again sell some hay, but you can be pretty sure that the next time we sell hay we shall have the barn full and a nice big stack somewhere outside large enough to tide us over any possible emergency.

TRUSTEES INTEGRATE INSTRUCTION Form Two New University Departments

A new Department of Sociology and Anthropology in the College of Arts and Sciences, and consolidation of all University work in Zoology into a single Department, were approved by the Board of Trustees at its spring meeting in Ithaca April 29. This was recommended by President Day and the Faculty. The new order will take effect next fall.

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology will offer a program that includes some courses heretofore given in the Economics Department of the College of Arts and Science, some from Rural Social Organization in the College of Agriculture, and several new courses. It will offer graduate work jointly with the Department of Rural Social Organization, for advanced degrees in Sociology.

Chairman of the new Department will be Professor Leonard S. Cottrell, Jr., now of the Department of Rural Social Organization. Julian L. Woodward '22, Economics, will be advanced from assistant professor to associate professor of Sociology, and R. Lauriston Sharp, instructor of Anthropology, becomes assistant professor. Dr. Cottrell joined the Faculty in 1935 as assistant professor of Rural Social Organization and became professor last fall. He received the BS at Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1922, the MA at Vanderbilt in 1926, and the PhD at University of Chicago in 1933; is a member of Sigma Xi and of the Sociological Research Association.

Courses not heretofore given at the University which will be offered in the new Department next year will include "Personality and the Behavior of Groups", "Pressure Groups and Propaganda", "Culture and Personality", "Comparative Social Institutions," and a seminar in "Population Theory."

The reorganized Department of Zoology will be under the chairmanship of Professor Frederick B. Hutt for the first year, and his title will be changed to Professor of Animal Genetics. He will also remain as head of the Department of Poultry Husbandry, and will be a member of the Faculties of both the College of Agriculture and the College of Arts and Sciences. The Department will include the work in McGraw Hall directed by Professors William J. Hamilton, Jr. '26, Albert H. Wright '04, and Benjamin P. Young, PhD '19; that in Ornithology in Fernow Hall under Professors Arthur A. Allen '08 and George M. Sutton, PhD '32; and work in Stimson Hall, formerly a part of the Medical College in Ithaca, directed by Professors James W. Papez, Anatomy, James B. Sumner, Biochemistry, Howard B. Adelman '20 and Benjamin F. Kingsbury, PhD '95, Histology, and Joseph A. Dye, PhD '25, Physiology. Professors Howard S. Liddell, PhD '23, and Oscar D. Anderson, formerly in the Physiology Department, will be transferred to the Department of Psychology. Professor Robert Matheson '06, Entomology, will remain a member of that Department but will also be attached to the Zoology Department, as will Professor Henry H. Dukes, Veterinary Physiology.

Appointments, Promotions

The Board appointed Richard T. Gore to succeed Luther M. Noss next year as University Organist and assistant professor of Music. This year he is organist and assistant professor of music at Mount Holyoke. He received the BA degree at Columbia in 1931, was for four years instructor of music at New York University, spent a year studying at the University of Berlin, and returned to Columbia to major in musicology and composition, receiving the MA in 1938. He is a Fellow of the American Guild of Organists, has trained choral and instrumental groups and taught varied courses.

Professor Noss will be university organist and assistant professor of music at Yale next year.

Assistant Professor Frank A. Southard, Jr. was elected Professor of Economics, effective next year. He has been a member of the Economics Department since 1931, having received the AB at Pomona College in 1927 and the PhD at University of California in 1930. He studied two years abroad under fellowships, conducted research in England in 1932, in 1934 received a Carnegie Foundation grant for study of Canadian-American industry, and has served as an economic analyst for the U. S. Tariff Commission and the Treasury Department.

Dr. Herbert J. Davis, who came from University of Toronto last fall as professor of English and chairman of the Department, was appointed Goldwin Smith Professor of English Literature.

The Trustees also promoted the following instructors to become assistant professors: Robert W. Shaw, PhD '34, Astronomy; William F. Bruce, Chemistry; Charles W. Merriam, Geology; C. Douglas Darling, Hygiene and Assistant Medical Advisor; John B. Rosser, Mathematics; LeRoy L. Barnes, PhD '32, Physics; Cecil W. Armstrong, Mechanical Engineering; Walter W. Cotner '28, and Wilbur E. Meserve, PhD '33, Electrical Engineering.

COVER PICTURE

DEMOCRACY IN THE CREWS

The success of the Cornell crews at Annapolis does not necessarily guarantee a fully successful season. The event is, however, of sufficient importance to justify a hope of the renaissance of Cornell's rowing tradition.

Of course, it could be but a coincidence. We might find that Syracuse, MIT and Annapolis are below par this year, and that the other crews on the schedule will not have deteriorated enough to produce continued victory.

Yet one is led to feel, if not to believe, that Saturday's event marked the turning point on the long road back. For Annapolis did carry the traditional broom in anticipation of a clean sweep, and by the length of a broom handle or less they were saved from having to lend it to Cornell's Navy.

For an outsider, the fundamental change at the Inlet is a spiritual one. The physical equipment is unchanged. Foremost among the factors is that the coaches have somehow produced an attitude in the crew squad by which minor infractions of discipline, tending to reduce the power and stamina in any boat, from the Varsity down to the third Frosh fifties, is dealt with publicly by the entire squad, sitting as a jury of peers, and with the captain acting as Chief Justice as well as Prosecuting Attorney.

The oarsman's mental picture of himself is thus decorated with a frieze of all the little stolen cigarettes, and late hours, and other little cheats that put the added burden on the seven other men in the boat.

A democracy will eventually win against the kindest of dictatorships. We are led to pin more hope on this change in attitude than on even the recently recorded successes in dual and triangular regattas. We hope and believe that it means more power to the Cornell Navy for the long climb back to a rowing tradition which is without equal in any branch of sport.

crowded the cafeteria for a songfest and Memorial Room for motion pictures of the Dartmouth football game. More than a thousand persons occupied temporary stands on the Willard Straight terrace and sat on the floor for a midnight show under floodlights, given by the performers who had appeared earlier in Bailey Hall. Klepper again presided, and introduced, among others, the Sophomore quartet from the Glee Club, composed of Gilbert H. Cobb of Newton, Pa., Oliver C. Fuller of Milwaukee, Wis., Raymond W. Kruse of St. Davids, Pa., and Richard H. Lee of Washington, D. C.; Kruse at the piano and Harold B. Zook '42 of Hinsdale, Ill., with his drums; Alfred F. Sulla, Jr. '29 and his banjo; R. Selden Brewer '40 of Hartford, Conn., magician; and Kenneth B. Sadler '39 of Cleveland, Ohio, dialectician. As the show broke up, the Chimes pealed out from the Clock Tower a succession of familiar Cornell songs.

Alumni Hear President

Alumni "chauffeurs" had as their own program a meeting Saturday morning largely devoted to discussion of Club arrangements for Cornell Day, a general songfest at the Johnny Parson Club after the Bailey Hall show Saturday night, and luncheon in Memorial Room that noon.

President Day was the only speaker at the alumni luncheon. He was introduced to the 160 alumni present by William J. Thorne '11, chairman of the secondary school committee of the Cornell Alumni Corporation, who also called to their feet Creed W. Fulton '09, president of the Alumni Corporation, and four newcomers to the Campus, Directors William L. Malcolm, PhD '37, Civil Engineering, and William A. Lewis, Jr., Electrical Engineering, Walter C. Heasley, Jr. '30, executive secretary of the Cornellian Council, and Provost H. W. Peters '14. Thorne reported that of the 658 boys who had registered earlier, 516 had come from farther than 150 miles from Ithaca. He expressed appreciation to Ray S. Ashbery '25, Alumni Field Secretary and chairman of the coordinating committee, for the smooth running of the Cornell Day arrangements.

Theme of the President's talk was the importance of Cornell Day efforts by Clubs and individual alumni to the University's problem of "stimulating an increased flow of high class student material to this Campus." Pointing out that some Colleges of the University are already under severe pressure for admission, he said that others could take more students and some should select from a larger number of suitable applicants. "The quality of student material seeking admission is steadily improving," the President said. "The result of this program compels us all to more thoughtful consideration of the qualities we want for Cornell students. These qualities must include excellent academic records, of course, but ability in other fields is also important. More and more this Cornell Day must be an invitation affair, with real selection of candidates made by the Cornell Clubs.

Clubs' Job Important

Cornell Clubs the President characterized as the "most important single element in our alumni picture," and he said that "the job of scrutinizing possible candidates for Cornell and inducing a larger number of qualified candidates to take an interest in this University is the most important single project to any Club."

He referred to the proposed plan of alumni coordination, saying that one of its purposes is to make more "plus Clubs" and to give service to all of them. "All types of alumni activity," he said, "ought to knit together and each should be a by-product of the others; generous giving ought to be a reflex action; every alumnus who is interested in Cornell should subscribe to the ALUMNI NEWS; Cornell Day should not be the end of our activity, but we should get steamed up about all of Cornell."

"Beat Dartmouth"

"You are not obligated to serve Cornell," the President said; "it is in your interest and in the interest of the University that we all get together. You need the University just as much as the University needs you, because a fundamental human need is to tie to something more important than individual experience, and this is a great permanent institution that represents human achievement at its best. I know that there are things in this Cornell that offer us opportunities such as are given to few institutions. We have something to sell."

He referred to Dartmouth's well-known excellence in alumni activity and said, "I give you as a slogan in this alumni program of ours, 'Beat Dartmouth.' I would like nothing better than to see Cornell beat Dartmouth in local activities of its alumni in every town in this country."

Undoubtedly, some alumni here for Cornell Day did not register in Willard Straight Hall. Names of the 148 who did, with the Clubs or regions from which they came, we shall publish next week.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

ITHACA CLOCKS were moved ahead an hour Saturday night, after a straw vote conducted by the Ithaca Journal showed a five-to-one majority in favor of daylight saving time, and all surrounding towns had adopted it. As the huge hands in the University's Clock Tower were moved from one to two a.m., the Chimes rang out for a ten-minute program of familiar tunes. It wasn't to celebrate the coming of daylight saving, really, but was a Cornell Day feature arranged at the close of the "Midnight Club" performance at Willard Straight Hall.

UNIVERSITY ORCHESTRA closed its season May 2 with the annual public concert endowed by the will of the late Gerald W. Hinkley '15, former member of the Mandolin Club. George L. Coleman '95 led them in Bailey Hall in a distinguished program which included the first public performance of "Montevallo," a concerto for piano, organ, and strings, by Elliott Griffis, Pulitzer Prize winner and brother of Stanton Griffis '10. Mrs. Ida Deck Haigh, wife of Professor Andrew C. Haigh, Music, and Professor Luther M. Noss, University Organist, were at the piano and organ, and the composer was present. Also appearing as guest artist was Maria Parisella, violinist.

UNSCHEDULED entertainment was provided Cornell Day visitors by a spectacular fire Friday night at the Zeta Beta Tau house on the brink of Deadhead Hill, north of Fall Creek gorge. Flames shooting skyward from the roof attracted thousands, and cars blocked Stewart Avenue and the road leading to the fraternity house seriously to delay the Ithaca fire department. Fire damage was confined to one wing of the house. Only injury reported was that of an undergraduate woman who got in the way of the fire-fighting apparatus, but some $20,000 damage is reported to the house and personal property. Five Cornell Day guests and the twenty-four members living there were accommodated in other fraternity houses, but some of the latter have already moved back, and repairs will be started at once. The house was built in 1924.

torially that this "commendable step . . . has eliminated a regulation which was as outmoded as was prohibition at the time of repeal . . ." Now, women must register on special blanks if they are going more than five miles from Ithaca.

EARLY REPORTS from the model State Assembly held in Myron Taylor Hall April 28 and 29 led to an error on this page last week. The Assembly did pass the bill for socialized medicine as reported, but later reconsidered and resolved it could take no action. Neither did it take action on a bill to provide two more years of high school instruction. All they did, apparently, was to levy new State taxes.

PERCY FIELD from May 2-11 was a "southern" training ground for thirty members of the Ottawa team of the Canadian-American Baseball League.

MAY DAY the Architecture students celebrated with a lunch-hour parade from White Hall to the statue of Andrew D. White, which they danced around bearing banners with such legends as "Quit Stalin", "The Fuehrer the Better", "London Britches Falling Down", "Axis No Questions, Italian No Lies." That morning, following custom, each Senior woman found on her door a bouquet of spring flowers, the gift of a Sophomore woman.

Catherwood, PhD '30, Business Management, have written a book, Industrial and Labour Relations in Great Britain, based on a personal study made last summer in Great Britain. Articles are included on British methods of dealing with labor relationships, and development of a new spirit between American employers and employes is urged.

PROFESSOR EDWARD A. WHITE, head of the Department of Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture since it was organized in 1913 as the Department of Floriculture, will be honored by his former students, friends, and associates at a dinner in Willard Straight Hall June 15. Subject this year was "Children in a Democracy."

PROFESSOR CLIVE M. McCAY, Animal Nutrition, has written a section, "Chemical Aspects of Ageing," in a recently published work, Problems of Ageing. He is supervising studies of fishes at the newly-remodelled State fish hatchery near McLean. PROFESSOR PAUL T. HOMAN, Economics, who lived in China for several years, told the Campus women's current events class recently that Japan, under pressure of increasing population, is "merely following lessons taught her earlier by imperialistic nations." He sees America as "on thin ice" in the present situation with Eastern and European powers, but said that active American support of England and France might serve to discourage a Japanese alliance with Germany and Italy.

PASCAL: THE LIFE OF GENIUS, by Professor Morris G. Bishop '14, Romance Languages, has been translated into German, and recently published in Berlin. The book has also been published in England. Paintings by Mrs. Bishop (Allison Kingsbury), including many Ithaca landscapes, are on exhibition at the Ferargil Galleries, 63 East Fifty-seventh Street, New York City, from May 8-23.

PROFESSORS CARL BECKER, History, and Otto Kinkeldey, Musicology, University Librarian, are among those to whom Carl Van Doren makes acknowledgments for contributions to his Benjamin Franklin, Pulitzer Prize winner. In the bibliography Professor Becker's work on Franklin in the Dictionary of American Biography is mentioned as the "best brief account." His book, The Declaration of Independence, is also mentioned as a source of material.

PROFESSOR JOHN R. BANGS, Jr. '21, Administrative Engineering, spoke on "Creative Imagination in Business and Industry" at a meeting of the Rochester Rotary Club May 2.

Super World's Fair To Have Big Opening

Dignitaries Will Not Speak

'29's Super World's Fair will open in the quaint little old world town of Ithaca at 3 p.m. on the afternoon of June 16th, at which time a comic ray will be snatched from the gleaming eye of a mirthful co-ed to set in motion the train of delicate mechanisms which will result in belly laughs and good natured hilarity for all. No one of any importance whatsoever will say anything in dedicating the Fair.

Serious Exhibits

Your Committee heartily recommends that all Ithaca visitors view the "Cornell Today" exhibits in the Drill Hall and other University buildings. Those interested in still further serious or instructive exhibits can drop in at our branch show in New York—just a stone's throw from Ithaca.

Amusement Center

Marked by the famous trylon and perispheres (representing a billiard cue and two pool balls symbolizing the carefree life of the "terrific '20's") will be the amusement center. Games of skill and chance will invite your attention as will—NO DOUBT—the free refreshments provided by '29 as Host and Sponsor. Plan to be with us!

Sheldon Court rooms and suites are all completely furnished, with prices reasonable and a range of location and size to suit every requirement. The building is virtually fire-proof, and is kept quiet and clean.

Rooms are now being reserved for the school year 1939-40. Complete information, with room diagram and prices, will be mailed promptly on request. Address:

The Greatest Show on Earth

Be the team winning or losing, Cornell's crack ROTC Band can be depended upon to bring the crowd to its feet between the halves.

The Navy Day Ball, held annually on the eve of Spring Day (this year it's Friday evening, May 26) is the sole support of the Band — pays for uniforms, transportation, hotel bills, and the host of other expenses.

Attend the 1939 Navy Day Ball and do your bit to help send the Band to Ohio State — to provide a sorely needed rehearsal room — to keep it "the greatest show on earth."

Dance in the gaily decorated Drill Hall to music by Horace Heidt and his Musical Knights and a supporting band to be announced soon. Heidt brings with him his full troupe of 30 entertainers, fresh from a three-year run at the Hotel Billmore in New York City — dancers, comedians, the Heidt-Lights quartet, and the Glee Club.

The coupon saves you fifty cents on each ticket. (Advance Sale $4.50 per couple, $5 at door.) 1939 NAVY DAY BALL Drill Hall . . . Friday, May 26

IF YOU CAN'T attend and would like to help the band, send your check with the coupon and we will see that your ticket is given to some deserving student who could not otherwise attend — or to anyone you wish to designate.

CAMP OTTER

JULY 3 TO AUGUST 26, 1939

FOR BOYS EIGHT TO SEVENTEEN YEARS

THIS is a discourse on self-reliance, poise, unselfishness, skills, and physical vigor. These are qualities that you want your boy to have. They cannot be measured objectively, but all parents know how to recognize their development in their sons. And those whose boys have been at Camp Otter will tell you that no other experience does as much for them.

Bill Crewson

For twenty years Bill Crewson, who lives at Camp Otter the year around and whose picture adjoins, has been guide, mentor, and friend to succeeding generations of Camp Otter boys. A licensed Canadian guide, he leads them in small groups on canoe trips through the lakes and forests of the unspoiled wilderness, keeping them safe and well fed and instilling a knowledge of woodcraft, an appreciation of nature, and his own wholesome philosophy of self-reliant living.

Not a few former campers, now influential in business and industry, still count Bill Crewson their friend. They send their sons back to Camp Otter to learn the fundamentals of living which they first gathered at his cheery campfire.

Your Boy Is Safe Here

Bill Crewson typifies the Camp Otter tradition. Counsellors are mostly Cornell undergraduates, selected for character, responsibility, and leadership. Many of them play on Cornell teams. They live in the cabins, each with four or five boys.

In the twenty-eight years of its wholesome existence Camp Otter has never had a serious accident or an epidemic of any kind. The camp tradition is against foolhardiness. Unyielding discipline is maintained in and around the water. Food, water, and sanitation are subject to rigid, daily inspection by the camp physician.

No Coddling

But these safeguards are not obtruded and no boy is ever more than dimly aware of the protections that are cast about him. They all enjoy Camp Otter, and come home from eight weeks in the woods bigger, better poised, self-reliant, well developed.

Ask These Fathers

Year after year the number of Camp Otter boys whose fathers came here increases. Many of these fathers are Cornellians, since Camp Otter in its twenty-eight years has become more or less a Cornell tradition. You'll find Camp Otter boys among the Farrands, the Tremans, the Bostwicks, the Bettons, the Staggs, the Durhams, the Smiths, and many other well-known Cornell families.

Cost Is Moderate

The fee for eight glorious weeks at Camp Otter is only $175. For the 1939 booklet, write Howard B. Ortner '19, director, 109 Irving Place, Ithaca, N. Y.
