PRICE 10 CENTS

STUDENTS of the University have given a good deal of time this week to helping the Liberty Loan campaign. In addition to a committee which has been working in Ithaca throughout the month, a special committee of undergraduates was organized to make a special solicitation for subscriptions about town during the last week of the campaign. A meeting was held in Goldwin Smith B on Monday night, and forty-seven students offered their services on the special committee. The subscriptions for the bonds among students of the University have been large.

A LEWIS GUN RANGE is the latest addition to the equipment of the U. S. Army School of Military Aeronautics at Cornell University. The administration committee of the Board of Trustees gave the school permission to install such a range east of Kite Hill, in the Cascadilla ravine near Alumni Field. The east side of Kite Hill will receive the bullets from the machine guns, and the range will be so constructed that there will be no danger of bullets landing anywhere else.

SALES of membership tickets in the Athletic Association up to the beginning of this week amount to $12,500, according to the Sun. That sum includes all money taken in for football season tickets, special faculty tickets, and season tickets for automobile stalls on Schoellkopf Field. The amount collected from these sources last year, the Sun says, was $26,500.

PRESIDENT SCHURMAN is giving a large share of his time, just now, to the work of the state commission on food conservation, to which he was appointed by Governor Whitman. The work has required his presence in New York, Albany, and Washington. While the commission is in process of organization, the burden upon the three members is heavier than it will be, probably, after a staff of paid assistants has been formed. The work falls into three general divisions: distribution, which will probably be Chairman Mitchell's field; production, for the supervision of which Mr. Wieting appears to be best fitted, and food conservation. The problems of conservation are mainly educational, and that will be doubtless be President Schurman's particular field. In planning its work, the commission is consulting the federal food administration at Washington, so that the state bureau may help and not interfere with the other.

THE REV. DR. HENRY VAN DYKE, former United States Minister to the Netherlands, will preach in Sage Chapel on October 28. On Saturday evening, October 27, Dr. Van Dyke will speak in Bailey Hall on the subject "Conscientious Objector: Fourth of July Type."

THE L. O. V., an organization of women students earning their college expenses, has bought a $50 Liberty Bond as a sinking fund to aid needy members, supply medical attention, etc. The organization has $5 toward a second bond, and it hopes to raise the remaining $45 by holding a co-operative station as it did last spring in raising the money for the bond already purchased. November 1, 2, and 3 are the days selected for the co-operative station work. Women students who report to Miss Lois Osborn at the Y. W. C. A. office in Barnes Hall will be assigned to work for which they are fitted among women residents of Ithaca. The money thus earned is to be turned over to the L. O. V. fund.

A FLEDGE of economy in dress materials is being taken by the women students. When President Schurman spoke to them at the beginning of the term he predicted that a regulation dress for women would be a product of war times. If he meant a uniform dress, his suggestion is unlikely to meet with favor on the hill. But a step toward economy has been taken. Cornell women have adopted what they call an eighteenth century fashion. In those days, they say, it was the proper thing to wear cotton, and, since it is the line rather than the material of a frock that determines its smartness, they see no reason why cotton should not again become the proper thing for war times. So they have organized and taken a pledge to wear evening dresses of cotton. The gowns are to be made of any colored cheesecloth or other cotton material, with a cost limit of about two dollars. They will be known as Liberty Bond dresses. Many of the students, some of them in groups of from two to six, have subscribed for Liberty Bonds, and the pledge of economy in dress is a part of their plan of saving in order to meet the payments on the bonds.

ARTICLES in the October number of the Sibley Journal include "Energy saving on street railways," by A. M. Buck '04, formerly of the faculty of the University of Illinois, and "Effects of varying light on the sensibility of the eye," by Edwin A. Hunger '11, of the Eastman Kodak Company. The September number of the Journal contained the annual alphabetical list and geographical index of former students of Sibley College. Officers of the corporation which publishes the Journal have lately been elected, as follows: President, E. G. Henderson '18, Columbus, Ohio; vice-president, J. A. Becker '18, Elmont, N. Y.; second vice-president, Professor C. A. Pierce; secretary, R. E. Lasher '19, New Hartford, N. Y.; treasurer, Ezra H. Day '19, Wortendyke, N. J.

DR. THOMAS O'HAGAN, who was a graduate student here in 1893-94 and who is well known in Canada as a poet and essayist, is making some researches in the Dante collection in the University Library. Dr. O'Hagan was a favorite student of the late Professor Corson. Last June Notre Dame University gave him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. In 1914 Laval University, Quebec, made him a Doctor of Letters.

OFFICERS have been elected by the Cornell chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, as follows: President, Professor William Strunk, jr.; vice-president, Professor R. H. Keniston; secretary, Dr. A. L. Andrews; treasurer, Professor L. N. Broughton; registrar, Mr. E. R. B. Willis. Mrs. L. C. Urquhart and Professor C. S. Northup were elected to the executive committee.

THE Cornell Chapter of Sigma Xi began its annual lecture series this week with a public illustrated lecture on aviation, given by representatives of the Thomas-Morse Aircraft Corporation of Ithaca.

BY ACTION of the Trustees, the privileges of the University Library have been extended to the instructors in the Army School of Military Aeronautics.

The Alumni Association Undertakes War Tasks

American University Union in Europe—Cornell War Records

HOW to organize the resources of the General Alumni Association of Cornell University to meet certain special needs incident to the war was a question which the Board of Directors of the Associate Alumni considered at their regular fall meeting. The meeting was held on Friday afternoon, October 12, at the Cornell Club in New York.

One matter considered was that of maintaining a Cornell Bureau in the American University Union in Europe. About forty American universities and colleges have become members of that Union, which will look after the welfare of American college men in Europe during the war. The cost of Cornell's membership in the Union was met by an appropriation of $500 by the Board of Trustees in September. There remain to be provided the funds, estimated at not less than $5,000 a year, for proper support of Cornell's share of the work. Those funds the General Alumni Association is going to find.

Another need which was recognized by resolution of the Board of Directors at the meeting of October 12 is that of keeping a record of the military services of Cornellians in the war. The directors promised to co-operate with the University authorities in preparing such a record and expressed willingness to help in raising funds for that purpose if special funds must be obtained.

A Committee for War Service

A committee of the General Alumni Association had already been created to direct any work which the Association may find it necessary to do on account of the war. The chairman of that committee is Professor Martin W. Sampson, head of the University's department of English. The Board of Directors, after expressing hearty approval of Cornell's membership in the American University Union in Europe, directed the War Committee to co-operate with the Union and with the Trustees of the University in maintaining Cornell's membership in the Union. The directors made the further suggestion that the Board of Trustees of the University appoint a Cornell man to act as Cornell's representative in the Union.

A letter from Professor Sampson was read. In the letter he outlined what he thought the War Committee might do. He said:

"1. Let us not announce an elaborate programme, but do the things that are at hand. If we publish a vaguely ambitious plan we may not be able to make it good. If we let the work grow we shall have no trouble in stating what we have achieved.

"2. Raise the money indicated necessary by the University Trustees.

"3. Prepare a card catalogue of Cornell men engaged in war service, with clerical assistance which the University might offer.

"4. Keep our eyes open for all opportunities to serve Cornell men who are doing their part in the war, but avoid rushing forward with hastily considered projects to fill highly specialized, supposed needs; and avoid doing by ourselves things already undertaken by other and greater agencies, with which we should co-operate and with which we should not come into conflict."

The directors approved Professor Sampson's suggestions and assured him of the heartiest co-operation and confidence of the entire alumni body.

Cornell War Records

The following resolution was adopted unanimously:

"Thousands of Cornellians have entered or will enter the service of the Government in the course of the war, in work that will involve promotion, honor, casualty, constantly changing addresses, and, at the termination of the war, a return to civil life in different occupations and with different addresses from those left at the time of enlistment. A failure accurately to keep a record of such services and changes would work incalculable injury to the efforts of the Alumni Association and the Cornellian Council, and would reduce the value of the Ten Year Book and of the address lists of the Secretary of the University. The honor that Cornellians are bringing and will bring to the University, and the service they are rendering and will render to the country, should be matters of record kept accurately and up to date, immediately available for all purposes that will be for the benefit of the University or the country. The preparation of such a record involves an unusual amount of clerical work in checking all war lists, not only of officers, but also of enlisted men and persons in civilian service. In our opinion no department of the University administration can perform this service without considerable expense. The office whose proper function it is to keep such a list is that of the Secretary of the University.

"Resolved: That the Board of Directors of the Associate Alumni recommend that funds be taken from such sources as are properly available for such work to employ at once, and for the duration of the war, a responsible person to obtain data, check lists, and keep an accurate card index of such Cornellians as are, or will be, in the military, naval, or civil service; that the President of the Associate Alumni appoint a committee with full power to co-operate at once with the Board of Trustees and to advise and assist the Secretary's office in compiling and maintaining such records; that the Board of Directors express its willingness to co-operate in raising the funds necessary to carry on this work if they are not otherwise available immediately or cannot be diverted from some other work of less importance to the University; that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Board of Trustees, through the President of the University, and to the Alumni War Committee, through its chairman, and to the Cornellian Council, through its president."

University Union in Europe

Of the forty or more colleges and universities which have taken membership in the American University Union in Europe, a number are far ahead of Cornell in their provision for the support of their own share of the work. Several universities have already organized and financed individual bureaus in the Union, and have appointed their directors, who are already at work. In some instances the money for carrying on the work of the bureaus has been appropriated from university funds; in others it has been given by alumni or is now being sought among alumni. Cornell's payment of a $500 membership fee has entitled the graduates, undergraduates, and prospective students of this University to all the privileges of the Union; but Cornell has not yet made provision comparable with that of several other institutions to make her own large share of the Union's work her own charge, so that the many Cornell men in service abroad need not be ashamed of their University and feel that it has neglected them.

One purpose of the Union will be to provide at a moderate cost a simple club for American college men, both graduates and undergraduates, who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the Allies. Another important function will be an information bureau to aid American colleges, parents, and friends to obtain information about college men in all forms of war service. That agency will furnish reports on casualties, arrange for the visiting of sick and wounded, and provide means of communication between persons in America and their friends in the service.

The Union has leased the Royal Palace Hotel in Paris for a clubhouse and headquarters, and the official opening of the quarters took place on October 20. The Harvard Alumni Bulletin says: "The hotel is at the corner of the Rue de Richelieu and the Place du Théâtre Français, in close neighborhood to the Rue de Rivoli, the Tuileries, and the Louvre. A modern establishment with eighty bedrooms and forty bathrooms, it can supply convenient lodging for at least 100 men. At the hotel restaurant meals may be obtained at reasonable rates by the week, day, or meal. There will also be writing and reading rooms, entertainments, and opportunities for relaxation and medical advice."

The officers and trustees of the Union are: Secretary Stokes, of Yale, chairman; President Hutchins, of the University of Michigan, vice-chairman; Trustee Henry B. Thompson, of Princeton, treasurer; Roger Pierce, of Harvard, secretary; President Finley, of the University of the State of New York; President Goodnow, of Johns Hopkins University; President Graham, of the University of North Carolina; Mr. John Sherman Hoyt (Columbia), nominated by the Y. M. C. A., and Mr. Dwight W. Morrow (Amherst), nominated by the American Red Cross. The board of trustees of the Union has appointed as its representative in charge of the European management of the Union the following executive committee, the members of which are, with but one exception, already at work in Paris: George H. Nettleton (Yale), director; Van Rensselaer Lansingh (Massachusetts Institute of Technology), assistant director; Paul Van Dyke (Princeton), secretary; James Hazen Hyde (Harvard), Charles B. Vibbert (University of Michigan), and Lewis D. Crenshaw (University of Virginia).

Practically all the universities named in the foregoing list of officers have established their own bureaus in Paris in connection with the Union. The University of Virginia is now completing a fund of $5,000 for such a purpose. The Virginia Alumni News says: "The many advantages of the Bureau are self-evident. It will be a source of comfort and encouragement to the Virginia men at the front and to their families at home. It will perform a personal service that no other organization can possibly give. The scope of the work is large. The opportunities are wonderful. And besides the more or less individual side of the work, the establishment of the office will place the University of Virginia in line with other great American institutions which have already opened bureaus to look out for their boys 'over there'."

Real Lab. for E.E. Seniors

Class in Sibley to Spend Whole Second Term at General Electric Works

A plan has been adopted by the General Electric Company and Cornell University whereby the fourth-year class in electrical engineering in Sibley College will do the work of the entire second semester of the senior year at the General Electric Company's works in Schenectady. The administration committee of the University Board of Trustees has given Sibley College authority to put the plan into operation for at least one year's trial.

The scheme does not require any change in the curriculum. The junior year of the course in electrical engineering is regularly given to the fundamental theory of electrical engineering. Theoretical instruction of an advanced character occupies the first semester of the senior year, and the final semester of the course is devoted in large part to a study of electrical machinery. Under the new plan the students will pursue their study of machinery at the very place where the machinery is made.

To take the work in Schenectady is optional with the student. In fact, not all the members of the senior class are electing to go there. There are twenty-eight men in the class. Twenty of them will do their work in Schenectady. The other eight are men who want to devote their last term to theory instead of to a study of machinery and so they will stay in Ithaca. The division of the class into those two sections will be of advantage to both divisions.

With the twenty students who go to Schenectady the college will send one professor and two instructors, who will remain in Schenectady and be responsible for their instruction. The students are to work on the test floor of the General Electric works. It will be as if instruction were given to the seniors by their regular teachers, but in a larger and much better equipped laboratory. Theoretical recitations will be conducted, as if the students were in the college, nine hours a week. The recitation hours will be 7 to 8 a. m. every working day, and three hours Saturday afternoon. Since there will be three instructors for the twenty students, the sections will be ideally small. The professor who goes to Schenectady will continue studies which he is making in wireless development; the two instructors will work in the General Electric's research laboratory, directly under the supervision of Dr. Steinmetz.

The General Electric Company will pay thirty cents an hour to the students, and $50 a month to the instructors. It will also pay the traveling expenses of Professor Alexander Gray, head of the department of electrical engineering in Sibley College, for a trip from Ithaca to Schenectady every two weeks throughout the term.

Professor Gray spent a part of his vacation at the works in Schenectady last summer, and the idea of sending his senior class there came to him during a talk with Mr. G. H. Pfeif, the director of the company's student course. Mr. Pfeif had said that there was a shortage of hands, particularly in his own department. When Professor Gray came back with a suggestion that the Sibley seniors be taken into the student course, Mr. Pfeif welcomed the suggestion, and between them the two men worked out the scheme. So far as they know at Sibley, they are the first to adopt this plan, but they believe it to be a rational modern development of electrical teaching. And they have learned, since Professor Gray worked out the scheme, that the faculty of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology is considering a similar plan, to be put into operation at the Lynn works of the General Electric Company.

LIEUT.-COL. H. E. TUTHERLY, U.S.A., who, as a lieutenant, was professor of military science and tactics at Cornell in 1889-92, is now, a retired officer, on duty at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, as executive officer of the war prison barracks.

Quitting the Camion Service Cornell Men in France Seeking More Effective Duties, Rothwell Writes

News of Cornell men in France is contained in a letter which James Lee Rothwell '18, of Elmira, wrote to his mother from Paris on September 21 and which has been published in the Elmira Star-Gazette. Rothwell joined the Cornell section of the American Field Service in France last spring. Upon his arrival in France, about the end of April, he entered the camion or transport service, going into the First Transport Section, which was composed for the most part of Cornell men, under the leadership of Edward I. Tinkham '16.

Rothwell writes that practically all the Cornell men who drove motor trucks behind the lines during the summer have become discontented with that service because they found it too safe and easy. When he wrote, all but five of them had resigned to go into other branches of service where they hoped to be more useful. He himself was going into the U. S. Navy flying corps. A part of his letter follows:

"I have returned to Paris after having spent a most delightful vacation in the French Alps, details of which I wrote you while there. I can now return to duty with a good heart, although I do not expect to remain long in the transport service. I can not say too emphatically that I have been well satisfied with it and have intensely enjoyed the camion work, but as I have mentioned before this work is, from a war standpoint, free from danger. The fact that not an American among the hundreds in this service has been scratched would indicate this. But when Americans come to face the Boche and U. S. blood commences to spill the situation alters. I feel that I cannot face the prospect of going through this war bearing such a comparatively trivial share of its dangers and hardships. In short, my conscience will not allow me to remain in this service.

"Our Cornell bunch started out with about forty men. A few of them left the service a few weeks ago to enter the aviation service. Within the last month many have been leaving for service in the several branches of the U. S. Army, feeling that they cannot go through the war as transport men. Only five of the original body are now left in the service.

"The U. S. navy authorities in Paris are now getting together a bunch of students for a naval aviation school to start the last of September. I learned all I could of the project. The successful aviators are to work with land bases in the work of submarine destruction, and the men in charge seem to be a fair and square bunch.

"I am especially strong for getting a chance to sink a sub as one tried to sink me on the way over here. In this work there will be a chance for the individual to show his standard of stuff, which is more than can be said of the transport service. So I applied and was given a mental examination which I passed. Then I went to —, the U. S. French seaport, where I was examined physically. This exam I passed without a fault. So I will start training about the last of September, which will mean giving up a trip home before the war is over. I have been talking with Tinkham, who is in full agreement that the transport service since the entrance of the United States into real business is not the thing for men like me. He has resigned from the field service and will take up naval aviation.

"I am sorry to be leaving the front just when there is so much doing. I wish you could have heard an English speaking officer tell of a raid in which he took part. It sounds exciting enough to attract any one who would like to take a thousand to one chance with death. * * *

"In — we went to the Y. M. C. A., and at the cafeteria there we got a fine American meal for two francs. We had a short talk with Admiral Fletcher, who has an office by the docks, which is in an old dingy stone building. Next morning we started back to Paris. * *

"After reaching Paris I talked with an ambulance driver just back from Verdun, who gave me a good description of a gas attack through which he passed a few days preceding, in the recent successful French operations there. The gas was a new kind—heavy, gray and sweet—so heavy that it was hard at first to see your hand at arm's length. It was poured out over a front of three miles and effectually stopped the French artillery for some time. The next day their section alone carried four hundred gas victims. They suffer horribly. In many cases they do not get bad until the second day, when blisters an inch thick appear on their hands and faces."

PROFESSOR W. T. HEWETT, former head of the department of German, returned to Ithaca from Europe about the time the University reopened.

Dudley L. Hill '18 Cited

"For High Courage in the Recent Attack at Verdun"

An Associated Press dispatch from Paris on October 19 said that a member of the Lafayette Escadrille was cited in the latest French army orders. The citation was: Dudley L. Hill, of Peekskill, "for high courage in the recent attack at Verdun, especially on August 18 when his airplane was seriously damaged."

Dudley Laurance Hill was the first Cornell undergraduate to enlist in the American Ambulance Field Service in France, and the first of many to leave that service for aviation. He is the son of Edward F. Hill of Peekskill and is 24 years old. He graduated from the Peekskill Military Academy and entered Sibley College in 1914. Here he joined the Zeta Psi fraternity.

He did not complete his freshman year in the University, for on March 27, 1915, he sailed for France as a volunteer in the American Ambulance Field Service, being one of the earliest to join that auxiliary of the French army. He drove an ambulance for a few weeks during the campaign of 1915, and then, saying that he wished to see some real action, he resigned and went to a flying school.

The great battle of Verdun was in progress when, in the spring of 1916, Hill was accepted as a volunteer war pilot in the French army. His opportunity came, before that summer was over, to join the famous American squadron of fighting flyers which now, since America's entry into the war, is known as the Lafayette Escadrille. Sergeant Clyde Balsley, a Texas member of the squadron, was lamed for life by a German bullet which entered his thigh and exploded. Hill was sent to the front to replace Balsley, and he joined the American squadron as a corporal.

One day Lieutenant De Lange, Sergeant Kiffin Rockwell, and Corporal Hill were on patrol duty over the battlefield, flying at a great height, when they saw three German machines in the distance. They flew at once toward the hostile machines. Two of the enemy airplanes fled while Corporal Hill, who was in the lead, gave battle to the third. The German was evidently hard hit by the American's first volley, for he immediately dived to the ground, directly behind the German lines at Fort Thiaumont, unable to make his regular landing place. For that feat Corporal Hill received his promotion to the grade of sergeant.

Society of Civil Engineers

Officers Elected—Resolutions on the Death of Professor Crandall

The annual meeting of the Cornell Society of Civil Engineers was held on October 16 at Stewart's Restaurant, 30 Park Place, New York. About fifty men sat down to an informal dinner at half past six o'clock. President C. N. Green '88 presided at the business session which succeeded the dinner.

Officers were elected for the year, as follows: President, Joseph C. Hilton '96; vice-president, J. H. Dickinson '90; second vice-president, Ira W. McConnell '97; recording secretary, Carroll R. Harding '10; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Ernest A. Truran '95.

Interesting reports were received from J. C. Hilton '96, chairman of the membership committee; R. W. Gastmeyer '11, chairman of the committee on meetings; J. A. Knighton '91, chairman of the committee on revision of the courses of instruction at Lincoln Hall, and from D. H. Dixon '96, and W. D. Kelley '80 for the committee on the testimonial to Professor Church.

Resolutions of Sorrow

Resolutions, drafted by a committee consisting of J. B. French '85, H. G. Balcom '97, and Harold D. Hynds '12, were adopted by the Society, as follows:

"Whereas, by the death of Professor Charles Lee Crandall the members of the Cornell Society of Civil Engineers have sustained a great loss, and

"Whereas, it is desired to indicate, however inadequately, our most sincere appreciation of his life work as a teacher and of his uprightness and strength of character as a man,

"Resolved, that the Cornell Society of Civil Engineers hereby record not only the deep sense of loss which is felt by all its members at this time, but also that sense of thankfulness for the influence of his character which will always remain with us to strengthen our efforts to do earnest, honest work, to uphold the dignity of our profession and to worthily help our fellow men.

"Resolved, that this Society extend to Mrs. Crandall the most heartfelt sympathy of its members in this hour of sorrow and express the hope that the memory of Professor Crandall's beautiful life may comfort and strengthen her in the years to come.

"Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be engrossed and sent to Mrs. Crandall."

The Society voted to raise from $1,500 to $2,000, and invest the money in Liberty Bonds, to be given to the University to endow a testimonial to Professor Church, in addition to the portrait of him which is to be given to the University on November 9. Announcement was made at the meeting of the receipt of a contribution to the testimonial fund from Mario G. Menocal '88, President of the Republic of Cuba.

Mr. Green made a short address covering the activities of the year, in which he named some of the members of the Society who are in the United States service, and he then presented Mr. Hilton, the new president.

The corresponding secretary reported the membership to be: Honorary, 7; resident, 300; non-resident, 641; total, 948. Two new members were received at the meeting, bringing the total to 950.

The officers met at noon on October 19 and elected the following members to serve on the executive committee with the officers: William D. Kelley '80; Clyde Potts '01, John C. Wait '82, James H. Edwards '88, Alexander Thomson '99, and Fred J. Biele '09.

E. A. TRURAN,
Corresponding Secretary.

Resolution of the Faculty

THE sudden death of Professor Emeritus Charles Lee Crandall on August 25, 1917, came as a shock to all of his colleagues as well as to his friends among alumni and townspeople. His colleagues had cherished the hope that he would remain with them for a decade or more. Since his retirement from active university service in June 1915, he was continuously engaged in a variety of pursuits. He revised several of his books, continued active work on the Committee on Iron and Steel Structures of the American Railway Engineering Association and served as a member of the Board of Public Works of the City of Ithaca, since January 1915.

The Faculty expresses its deep sense of personal loss and extends its warmest sympathy to the bereaved family.

Resolutions relating to his character and service were adopted by the University Faculty at the time of his retirement. It may be appropriate, however, to add a hearty endorsement of the following editorial note published in Engineering News-Record, September 27, under the title "Professor Crandall: A Successful Teacher":

"The lot of the professor of engineering is not always a happy one. Compensation is low, recognition is often belated. The main reward must come from a sense of duty well performed and the affection of a long line of students. Success of the more material sort came to Professor Crandall of Cornell University, but the crowning professional success, the affectionate regard of forty engineering classes, was his in exceptional measure. Kindliness and sympathy were the lodestones by which he attracted the young men, and forever kept them as friends; but to these traits he added a sureness of technical knowledge that made him in after years a professional mentor as well. His work and the place he holds in the memory of his boys should be an inspiration to every teacher. He showed how great a success can be made in the teaching profession."

In Choosing Alumni Trustees Graduates May Now Receive Campaign Arguments with Their Ballots

Arguments in favor of the election of any candidate for the office of Alumni Trustee of the University may hereafter be sent out with the official ballots. This permission has been granted so that the friends of a nominee may, if they wish, give the graduates of the University fuller information about his qualifications than the rules have permitted in the past. Heretofore there has been mailed with the ballots a biographical sketch of each nominee. Last June a committee of the Alumni Association suggested that the nominators of a candidate might be permitted to tell the electors just why they proposed him for the Board of Trustees. Accordingly, at their regular fall meeting on October 12, the Board of Directors of the Associate Alumni instructed the Secretary to admit to the biography of any candidate an argumentative paragraph, properly labeled to indicate its character. In such a paragraph the nominators may state reasons for urging their candidate's election—reasons which might not find place in a sketch strictly biographical. Such argumentative paragraph may not exceed one hundred and fifty words, including the label designating such paragraph as argument.

ITHACA, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 25, 1917

SATURDAY, December 1st, is the day chosen for the observance this year of All Cornell Night. Local clubs and associations of Cornellians are urged to hold meetings at that time. Especially desirable is it that meetings be held then by associations whose members get together infrequently. All Cornell Night was established for such associations particularly, so that they might have the stimulus of knowing that they are taking part in a country-wide Cornell assembly. The Secretary of the General Alumni Association is now, by instruction of the Board of Directors, writing to the local associations to suggest that this year, on the occasion of All Cornell Night, they give some attention to a particular subject—the subject of the recognition and encouragement of scholarly work on the part of students of the University. Readers of the NEWS can not have forgotten the interesting and valuable discussion of that subject which was held last year. It is suggested by the Board of Directors that alumni review the report made by the Faculty committee of which the late Professor Sill was chairman. That report has been printed in pamphlet form. In an early number the NEWS will sum up the tangible results of the movement for a higher standard of scholarship, and the Faculty committee's suggestions for the future. The present crisis is compelling universities to regard their duties with a new seriousness. It is proper that alumni should consider what they may do to raise university standards in this country.

CLEVELAND WOMEN'S CLUB

The annual meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Cleveland was held on October 13. Miss Ruth Stone was hostess. The officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, Miss Lewette Pollock '14; first vice-president, Mrs. Viola Buell ('80, G.); second vice-president, Dr. Florence L. McKay '05; secretary and treasurer, Miss Florence Rosenthol '15, No. 10209 South Boulevard, Cleveland.

IN LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN

The publicity department of the Liberty Loan Committee of the second federal reserve district for the second Liberty Loan of 1917, at New York City, includes Foster M. Coffin '12, assistant to the director of publicity; James I. Clarke '12, manager of the advertising bureau, and E. R. Stempel '12, assistant to Clarke. Another member of the department is C. B. Tailby, who has recently left the staff of the Cornell Co-operative Society after long service there to become J. I. Clarke's assistant in the advertising department of the National Bank of Commerce in New York and is working this month on the Liberty Loan.

THE four classes are electing members of the Student Council this week.

FORESTERS IN THE ARMY

Outdoor life of the forester is reflected in the appearance of the Tenth Engineers (Forest), now in France. This fitness was the result of working at outdoor jobs which required strength and alertness. College athletes are important members of the regiment, including not a few recent graduates and undergraduates from forestry colleges ranging from Yale to California. Frey, of Cornell, was one of the intercollegiate champions in the two-mile run. Another Cornellian, and one of the smaller men, is George Kephart, coxswain of one of Cornell's championship crews. He was also a member of Cornell's intercollegiate championship wrestling team. These men are typical of those who marched along with others who had achieved championships in "burling," cordwood-cutting, and the like. Equipment included, besides sawmills and logging machinery and implements, a Red Cross ambulance and kitchen trailer. These were contributed by the members of the United States Forest Service, through funds gathered among the active workers all over the country. The Forest Service will help to supply the regiment with reading matter, and with various other necessary luxuries, under a systematic plan; and the American Forestry Association, of which Charles Lathrop Pack is president, will see that they are supplied with tobacco and other comforts.—Lawrence Perry in the New York Evening Post.

CLASSES OF '69 TO '83

Through the kindness of Edward Maguire '84, of Jamestown, Pa., the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS has been able to complete its file of The Cornellian from 1880 to the present year. The following nine volumes are still needed to complete the set: The Cornellian of 1869-70, 1871-72, 1873-74, 1876-77, 1877-78, 1878-79, and 1879-80, and The Cornellian of 1874-75 and 1876-77. These volumes are often a valuable source of biographical information and are needed for consultation in the course of editorial work in the NEWS office.

THE WARTIME PLAYERS, an organization of Buffalo amateurs, left Buffalo last week for a tour of army camps and cantonments in the South. The troupe was organized and is directed by Robert Dempster '04, and one of its members is George R. ("Pink") Wilkins '06. It goes to the camps to present plays in response to a call from the national committee on training camp activities.

Resolution of the Faculty

THE University Faculty deeply deplores the loss of Professor Henry Augustus Sill, who, in mid-August, just before the completion of his summer lectures at Columbia University, was snatched from life by sudden illness. He had served the University with loyal zeal and marked ability, and he died in the prime of his manhood before the fulfillment of all the high hopes which his gifts of mind and rich scholarship had inspired.

At his coming to us, fifteen years ago, he identified himself promptly and fully with the life of the University. In the work of this body, as in all the faculties in which he held membership, his interest was ardent and unflagging. Advancing their purposes by his facility in suggestion and never losing sight of the educational purpose to which their action was directed, he won the respect and admiration of us all by his honesty of purpose, his warmth of heart, his frankness and straightforwardness, his good humor and generous temper. Although his regard for the opinions of his colleagues was great and he yearned to have their confidence and good-will, he did not fear to embrace the unpopular cause; and no one was ever left in doubt as to where he stood. He met every call for service willingly and enthusiastically and performed with energy and loyal devotion every duty he undertook.

An inspiring classroom teacher, who brought the treasures of varied study and a full mind to the illustration of his theme, he was also, in the quiet of his office, a helpful counsellor to many a perplexed student, who came to appreciate in no common measure the stimulus of his many-sided comment, often humorous but never frivolous, upon the concerns of scholarship and the larger problems of life.

A progressive by temper as by political conviction, he was actively concerned for the betterment of the University and the community, giving his time and energy without stint to all projects which might promote good scholarship or good citizenship. The University Club was largely his creation, the Arts Association his protégé, the project for a Student Union eagerly furthered by him; and these are but a few of the activities which were always outrunning his time and his strength and crowding into the background his work as investigator, thinker, and writer, for which he seemed else so admirably fitted. Few among us could so ill be spared.

Graduate Manager Resigns

G. E. Kent Will Withdraw as Soon as a Successor Is Appointed

G. Ervin Kent '10 has resigned the office of graduate manager of the Cornell University Athletic Association. The resignation is to take effect as soon as the athletic council is able to fill the place.

The council will have to go outside the athletic office to find a successor, for the office of assistant graduate manager, which once existed, lapsed several years ago. Mr. Kent held that office from December, 1910, till September, 1911, when he was made graduate manager. The work of the office includes the management of the Musical Clubs and The Masque.

Mr. Kent resigns to become business manager of the Wharton Releasing Corporation of Ithaca. The Whartons have been producing motion pictures at Ithaca for several years. Recently the company has been reorganized and divided into two—one corporation for the production and another for the releasing of pictures. The producing organization is about to begin the making of a serial illustrating the work of the United States Secret Service. Mr. Kent will continue to live in Ithaca.

INSTRUCTORS NEEDED

The U. S. Army School of Military Aeronautics at Cornell University is greatly in need of more instructors for MILITARY TRAINING and for TELEGRAPHY and for subjects requiring a knowledge of the latter.

The instructors should be clean-cut, capable men of good character who can conduct intensive courses. The students are picked men of the highest mental and physical qualifications and keen for the work. As the students are being trained to serve as officers for the new army of flyers, which is yet to be created, these instructorships offer about as good an opportunity for one to do his bit as can be found anywhere.

The School would like to be put in touch with men suitable for such instructorships, and in accordance with a recent ruling of the Provost Marshal General it is possible to assign to this work MEN ACCEPTED FOR DRAFT provided such men have not already been ordered to mobilization camps.

W. N. BARNARD,
President, Academic Board.

AN interscholastic cross-country run will be held at Cornell on November 10.

FOOTBALL

Colgate 20, Cornell 0

A fast and skilful Colgate eleven defeated Cornell's team on Schoellkopf Field on October 20 by a score of 20 to 0. Colgate made three touchdowns, two in the first period and one in the fourth. The visiting eleven would probably have given Cornell's 1916 team an interesting afternoon. The contest last Saturday was one-sided. In the first three periods Colgate made twelve touchdowns to only one made by Cornell, and Cornell was on the defensive about all the time. After the game was lost, in the final period, Hoffman made a desperate effort to score by carrying the ball in play after play. He carried it to Colgate's 15-yard line, but there it was lost on downs. The Cornell eleven seemed to be playing without leadership, and it never did get together. It found itself in a hole within a minute after the first whistle blew, and its efforts to get out of the hole during the next sixty minutes revealed no great degree of tactical judgment.

Captain Hubbell of Colgate caught the initial kick-off and ran the ball back fifty yards, and after a couple of jabs at the Cornell line the ball was on the 10-yard line. An intercepted forward pass checked the Colgate advance only a few minutes, for the Cornell punt was poor. Carry, the Cornell quarterback, was hurt in this struggle and had to leave the game. Colgate got a touchdown in a few minutes. In the visitors' advance for their second touchdown a 25-yard forward pass helped a good deal. Near the end of the second period Colgate missed a field goal from placement. The touchdown in the last quarter was the reward of several sharp punctures of the Cornell line after Colgate caught a punt forty yards from the Cornell goal.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

In the first intercollegiate game of the season, the association football team was defeated by Pennsylvania on Alumni Field, October 20, by a score of 5 to 2.

OBITUARY

Timothy Sanderson '72

Timothy Sanderson, A.B., '72, died on September 9 at his home in Walton, N. Y., of Bright's disease. He had been in ill health for several years and had failed rapidly in the last few months. He was one of the oldest and best known members of the Delaware County Bar, having practiced law in the county since 1879 and having been elected to offices of trust by his fellow citizens.

Mr. Sanderson came of Scotch-Irish ancestry and was born at Meredith, in Delaware County, on October 11, 1845, one of a family of ten children. He spent his early years on his father's farm, and attended Delaware Academy at Delhi and the Walton Academy. When Cornell University was opened in 1868 he was enrolled as a student, and he took his degree in 1872.

During the next two years he was principal of the Red Creek union school in Wayne County, and then he was for three years principal of the union school at Sag Harbor. He returned to Ithaca in 1877 and became a student in the law office of the late Frank E. Tibbetts '72 and was admitted to the bar in 1879. Soon afterward he began the practice of law at Sidney Centre, Delaware County.

In 1883 he was elected to the Assembly and served with distinction on the Judiciary Commission and the Committee on Public Education. In the early nineties he removed to Walton, and there he served on the board of education and as justice of the peace.

Mr. Sanderson in 1893 married Miss Roxie Bishop of Sidney Centre. She survives him, with a daughter, Elizabeth.

H. A. Hitchcock '00

A brief announcement of the death of Harry Alton Hitchcock '00, Secretary of Cornell University, on October 17, was published in the NEWS last week. His death occurred at the Ithaca City Hospital after an operation.

Mr. Hitchcock was born on January 8, 1877, at Bath, Maine. He entered Cornell in 1896, graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1900, and remained here for a year of graduate study. He was a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity and was on the Magazine board.

After he left Ithaca he went to Boston and was employed as editorial reader and assistant to the business manager of the Atlantic Monthly. He was afterward editorial reader and staff assistant to the editor-in-chief of the book department of the Houghton Mifflin Company. Then he went to New York and was successively a member of the business staff of The Nation, head of manufacturing and publicity in the book department of the Baker & Taylor Company, and managing editor of the book department of Robert M. McBride & Co., publishers. While he was in Boston he assisted in the organization of the Cornell Club of New England, and he was national secretary of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity in charge of the New England district.

Mr. Hitchcock succeeded H. W. Peters in the office of Secretary of the University in May, 1916. The duties of the office are multifarious. The Secretary is the University publisher, he looks after University publicity, and he is required to keep the alumni records. Mr. Hitchcock came to Morrill Hall with an ambition to make the office as useful as possible in all its departments. He accomplished a great deal to promote closer relations between the University and its alumni. The officers of the General Alumni Association, the Association of Class Secretaries, and the Cornellian Council have testified to the encouragement and help given them by him. He planned several series of motion pictures and circulated them widely among alumni associations and high schools.

His wife and a two-year-old daughter, his mother, and a sister survive him. His only brother, Samuel Patch Hitchcock '01, died in December, 1911.

ALUMNI NOTES

'77—Devoe P. Hodson, of Buffalo, formerly a member of the New York State Public Service Commission of the Second District, is the Democratic nominee for Attorney General of the State of New York.

'86, C.E.—Major Charles B. Wing, Engineer O.R.C., has been ordered from Vancouver, Wash., to duty at Camp Meade, Maryland.

'99, Ph.B.—Theodore L. Bailey of New York is a captain in the Aviation Section, Signal Reserve Corps, and is on duty in Washington.

'99, M.E.—S. Wiley Wakeman, general superintendent of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, at Quincy, Mass., has been promoted to take charge of the Fore River plant, with the title of Manager. His promotion is a consequence of the recent centralization of several large ship yards in a new corporation called Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company. The plants thus assembled are those of the Fore River company, the Harlan & Hollingsworth Corporation in Delaware, Samuel L. Moore & Sons Corporation at Elizabeth, N. J., the Sparrows Point plant of the Bethlehem Steel Company, and the Union Iron Works at San Francisco. A vacancy at the Fore River plant was created by the appointment of Joseph W. Powell, president of the company, to be vice-president and directing force of the consolidated ship yards, with office at Bethlehem, Pa. Mr. Powell is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy. Wakeman was advanced to take his place, becoming head of the Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company. Wakeman is a graduate of the school of marine construction in Sibley College. After his graduation he spent eighteen months with the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Company, and then entered the service of the New York Shipbuilding Company, where he remained for about fourteen years, being promoted step by step through all the departments of the yard until he became assistant to the general manager. Early in 1916 he was called to Quincy by his friend President Powell and appointed general superintendent of the Fore River plant. Messrs. Powell and Wakeman had made each other's acquaintance when they were rowing on the crews of the Naval Academy and Cornell respectively, in 1897. Wakeman married Miss Vicary,

Your duty as a red-blooded American requires that you know how to handle a rifle, as your ancestors knew at Lexington, Concord, and Gettysburg. There is no such thing as "Modern Warfare." In the end American marksmanship must be the deciding factor. We teach you all about the army rifle, how to care for it, how to shoot it, and how to drill, giving the manual of arms in complete detail, by means of our Military Instruction Charts, (actual size 11 by 14 inches) edited by Lieut. Col. Simonds, U. S. A. Endorsed by General Wood. A set of charts for your son or brother in the National Army will help him secure promotion.

HELP A SOLDIER

The National Army School of New York City has prepared a set of charts of military instruction that should prove valuable to those who desire to use a graphic representation of the Manual of Arms and to have drawings and a detailed description of the United States Army Rifle for the purpose of self-study, in addition to the instruction given in the training camp.

The charts should prove useful alike to our men in the Officers' Reserve, in the National Army or in the Home Guard, as their use will enable them to more readily master the important details of the subjects therein treated, and to devote their time to more advanced work. The time thus gained is likely to prove a factor in determining the individual's value to his unit.

The charts were edited by Lieut. Col. G. S. Simonds, U. S. A., and are endorsed by General Wood. They are durably made to stand hard use, and may be depended upon to produce results. No better gift could be sent to the new man in the service of his country.

A small cut of one of the charts appears in the advertisement on another page of this issue. There are twenty-five charts in the set. They will be sent postpaid upon receipt of the price, which is three dollars.
