Vol. XXIII, No. 37

Ithaca, N. Y., June 23, 1921

Price 12 Cents

COMMENCEMENT this year was more nearly normal, with a number of the pre-war features re-established, and new ones added. Among the innovations, the best from the academic point of view was the joint meeting of the four honorary societies, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, and Phi Kappa Phi. On the social side, the receptions by President and Mrs. Smith on Sunday evening and Wednesday afternoon, should mark the beginnings of a delightful custom.

SAO-KE ALFRED SZE '01 came pretty near being the busiest man on the Campus around Commencement time, with addresses and dinners and initiations. If Cornell gave honorary degrees he surely would have had one; as it was, he amassed the keys of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi. His talks gave his hearers a much clearer impression of Chinese affairs, and of American relationships with his country.

FACULTY "at homes" on certain nights each week have become a considerable feature in the undergraduate life at Cornell during the past year, and the practice is growing. Such gatherings are doing much to "make Cornell a more human place" and to obviate some of the drawbacks that go with a large institution.

THOMAS TREE '77 succeeds Edwin C. Stewart as acting mayor of Ithaca, and thus comes back to the mayoralty which he held six years ago.

THE STATE DRILL HALL is more and more proving its worth to the University in other ways than for purely military exercises. It provides a most acceptable place for alumni gatherings, whether the weather is or is not propitious.

W. C. T. U. representatives in Ithaca are starting a campaign for law enforcement, especially in respect to the National, State, and local prohibition measures.

A FLYING BOAT, or hydro-airplane has been sailing around the campus during Commencement Week, its hum sometimes drowning out the sound of the senior singing. It is doing an excursion business, with short flights at ten dollars a passenger, or it may be chartered by parties by the hour at $125, or at $600 for a day.

ALUMNI BASEBALL players, even with the redoubtable Tar Young, the collegiate Babe Ruth of his day, were unable to score against the varsity nine, which won by six runs.

THE ERA has elected Allan O. Geertz, Mechanical Engineering '22, of Montclair, New Jersey, and A. W. Koehler, jr., Arts '24, of New York City, as associate photographic editors; and Harold C. Cheston, Mechanical Engineering '23, of Yonkers, and E. W. Darling, Architecture '24, of Baltimore, Maryland, as associate managers.

PUBLICATION FUNDS for the bulletins of the College of Agriculture have been completely used for the current fiscal year ending June 30, and there are enough manuscripts now with the printer or in process of editing to utilize completely the curtailed funds authorized by the State Legislature for the fiscal year 1921-22.

SCENERY for future Kermis plays was obtained by the students of the College of Agriculture at the forced sale of the motion picture equipment of the Wharton Studios when the city took over the buildings and grounds of Renwick Park.

THE ANNUAL PARTY of the Faculty of the College of Agriculture and its numerous family brought together three hundred and fifty adults and a host of children last week in the Home Economics Building.

CHINESE STUDENTS in the University gave a reception for Jacob Gould Schurman, minister to China, and Sao-Ke Alfred Sze '01, Chinese minister to the United States, in Prudence Risley Hall on June 20. E-President Schurman was unable to attend the honor societies' dinner last Friday. The announcement in the NEWS was erroneous.

THE CONSERVATORY has purchased a residence at 311 North Tioga Street to house the Martin Institute for Speech Correction which it will open next fall. The lower rooms will be class rooms and the upper floors, dormitories.

THE POWER PLANT at Remington, which furnishes power for Ithaca street cars and lights, has been purchased from the Traction Company by the Tompkins County Power Corporation, a subsidiary of the J. G. White Engineering Company interests which also control gas and electric lighting lines in Ithaca. The new concern will lease power to the Traction Company.

GENERAL LEJEUNE of the U. S. Marine Corps has written to President Smith, as head of a "Distinguished College," saying that graduates of Cornell who apply for commissions in the Marine Corps will be considered for appointment as second lieutenants if they have satisfactory recommendations from the University and are physically fit.

THE MEDICAL COLLEGE in New York has expressed its willingness to participate in a movement to promote New York City as the medical center of the country. This is part of a plan to make the leading New York medical schools and their attached hospitals a single coordinated group.

MARGUERITE D'ALVAREZ, contralto soloist, is one of the singers already booked for a Cornell concert next year. She will appear on March 17.

OF FIFTY GRADUATES of the Brooklyn Polytechnic Preparatory School, five announce their intention of coming to Cornell. Williams gets eleven, Princeton seven, Harvard five, Yale two, Dartmouth two, Amherst two, Pennsylvania one, Hamilton one, and LaFayette one.

OF THE EASTERN colleges Cornell has by far the largest number of graduates who say they will go into farming.

PROFESSOR EVERETT GOODHUE, according to an announcement from Dartmouth, is leaving Cornell to become professor of economics at Dartmouth. He is a Dartmouth graduate and was for seventeen years a member of the economics staff at Colgate; during the past year has been professor of economics at Cornell.

PROFESSOR OLIVER L. MCCASKILL will teach law in the Columbia Summer School.

PROFESSOR LANE COOPER received the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature at the commencement exercises at Rutgers College. The degree was given him in recognition of his achievements in the field of research in English literature.

MRS. GERTRUDE MARTIN, Ph.D. '00, for several years warden of Sage College, is to be one of the speakers at the State Pastors' Conference at Keuka Park in August.

PROFESSOR SAMUEL N. SPRING is president of the Yale Forestry School Alumni Association.

EARL A. FLANSBURGH '15, who has been county agricultural agent in Livingston County, succeeds Frederick E. Robertson '09, as assistant State leader of farm bureaus, with headquarters at the College of Agriculture.

The Reunions

Summary of Alumni Days—Usual Busy Week-End is Held—1906 Revives Alumni Rally

Crowded with events from early Friday morning until late Saturday night, and with alumni reporting from every class from '71 to '20, the alumni reunion days on June 17 and 18 were well up to the standard of former years. 523 alumni registered at headquarters in the Old Armory, and probably another hundred were in town and neglected to sign up.

Celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary, '96 led the field. 58 members of the class reported, as against 54 for '01 and 47 for '06. The real feature of the week, however, was the reunion of '71, the fifty-year class that showed the way to all the younger classes by bringing back eight of its sixteen remaining members. R. G. H. Speed, secretary of the class, had been tireless in his work of preparing for the event for several months, and the results more than justified his efforts.

When rain on Friday necessitated the postponement of the ball game with the alumni against the Cornell regulars, Saturday became a gala day, with the alumni game in the morning and the varsity game with Penn in the afternoon. Apparently the alumni didn't have quite the stuff that the Philadelphians showed later in the day.

Class dinners at Glenwood, Sage College, the Senate, the University Club and at Forest Home Inn came on Friday and Saturday evenings. The University played the host at luncheon Saturday, serving in the Drill Hall.

The celebration came to a climax Saturday night, when 1906, the fifteen-year class, entertained the crowd in Bailey Hall. C. H. (Charlie) Tuck '06 presided, with Cass W. Whitney '13 pitching the tunes for "Give my Regards to Davy," "The Boustonian Chorus," and many another of the songs Cornellians like to sing. Professor James T. Quarles officiated at the organ, generously, and Judge George A. Benton '71, president of the oldest class, President Albert W. Smith '78, and Sao-Ke Alfred Sze '01, made three inspiring addresses. Judge Benton's class was escorted to the platform with pomp and ceremony, to seats of honor which '71 occupied during the exercises.

The evening was pronounced a distinct success and it proved that the interruption of the war has not obliterated the good custom which '99 inaugurated when it was the fifteen-year class in 1914.

CORNELLIAN COUNCIL ELECTS

The Cornellian Council has collected $77,462.87 for the Alumni Fund during this year, up to June 18, 1921, according to figures announced at its annual meeting on June 18. This figure, which exceeds the highest previous total raised by the Council in any one year, is expected to be increased to more than $80,000 before the end of the fiscal year on June 30. Of the total amount collected during the year, $28,211.85 represents principal and interest payments on undergraduate endowment subscriptions which are payable through the Cornellian Council as a part of the Alumni Fund. Funds amounting to $4,390 were allocated to special purposes, leaving $44,861.02 in unrestricted subscriptions.

Upon recommendation of the Council, the Trustees appropriated the balance collected through the Alumni Fund, beside that appropriated for dormitory and baseball field, to be used in payment of increases in professorial salaries which have already been made.

Walter P. Cooke '91 was reelected president of the Cornellian Council for the ensuing year; J. DuPratt White '90, formerly chairman of the Semi-Centennial Endowment Committee, was elected vice-president. The following members of the Council were elected to the Executive Committee, which has been enlarged from five to seven members: Walter P. Cooke '91, J. DuPratt White '90, Frank E. Gannett '98, George D. Crofts '01, William Metcalf, jr., '01, Raymond P. Morse '03, Edwin E. Sheridan '11.

President Albert W. Smith '78 was elected honorary member of the Council "in recognition of the valuable services he has rendered the University during his term of office as Acting President, and as an expression of the affectionate regard in which he is held by the alumni of Cornell University." Sao-Ke Alfred Sze, Chinese Minister to the United States, was elected an honorary member "in recognition of the honor which he has brought the University in his distinguished career in public life in the Republic of China."

The following members were reelected to the Cornellian Council as members-at-large: Alphonse D. Weil '86, Walter P. Cooke '91, Dr. Marguerite T. Lee '95, Frank O. Affield, jr., '97, and George D. Crofts '01. Hamilton B. Bole '11, of Cleveland, was elected as the sixth member-at-large, eligible for election at this meeting.

SIGMA XI FELLOWSHIPS

Two fellowships of the value of $1,800 each will be awarded for 1921-2 by the executive committee of Sigma Xi. They are intended for workers in fields other than physics and chemistry, those fields being similarly cared for by the National Research Council. Applications should be made to Professor Edward Ellery, Union College, Schenectady. Preference will be given to members of Sigma Xi or students endorsed by members of the society.

New Construction Planned

Fifth Dormitory and Chemistry Building Authorized—Baseball Field to be Completed

At the recommendation of the Cornellian Council, the Board of Trustees voted at their meeting June 21 to construct the fifth unit of the men's dormitories, and made an initial appropriation of $10,000. The new building is to be financed somewhat as was Founder's Hall; that is, the cost will be met by annual appropriations from the Alumni Fund and from the income of the dormitory. A further recommendation was made by the Cornellian Council and acted upon by the Trustees, when they appropriated $8,000 from the Alumni Fund for the completion of the new baseball field, provided that the Athletic Association would contribute a like amount. It was also voted to proceed with the construction of the new Chemistry Building.

Announcement was made that Governor Miller has reappointed Frank H. Miller, of New York, a member of the Board of Trustees; Walter P. Cooke '91, Frank H. Hiscock '75, and Ira A. Place '81 were elected to the Board, with Hiscock reelected as chairman. Edwin N. Sanderson '87 was elected to the Committee on Buildings and Grounds to replace James H. Edwards '88, whose term has expired. John C. Westervelt '94 was elected chairman of the Committee on Buildings and Grounds, and therefore resigned his membership on Veterinary and Agricultural College Councils, where he was replaced by George J. Tansey '88.

The President announced that Cornell has again been rated by the War Department as a "Distinguished College," the only one in its inspection area. Formerly fifteen institutions were so rated every year, but this year more rigid standards have been set up. The inspecting officer complimented Cornell on its military department and on the cooperation of the other departments of the University with the officers stationed here.

MATHEMATICAL PAPERS

At the spring meeting of the American Mathematical Society held at Columbia on April 23 the following papers were presented by Cornellians: "Hyperspherical Goniometry, with Applications to the Theory of Correlation for  $n$  Variables" by Professor James McMahon; "On the Apportionment of Representatives, Second Paper" by Professor Frederick W. Owens; "Topics in the Theory of Divergent Series" by Professor Wallie A. Hurwitz.

THE PURPOSE OF THE FOUNDERS

To the alumnus who takes his connection with Cornell University seriously, the booklet just published by the University, "The Inauguration of Cornell University," will be of intense interest. It is a reprint from the account of the inaugural proceedings October 7, 1868. The words of Ezra Cornell, Andrew D. White, and others who spoke at the ceremony, and of Goldwin Smith, who expressed himself in a letter to Dr. White, give clearly, and with little room for argument, the purposes for which Cornell University was to be established and maintained, the teaching of the subjects most important in the developing of citizenship. The book contains seventy-two pages of interesting material, brought together for the first time in attractive and convenient form. The edition is limited. A few copies are available, and one will be mailed prepaid on receipt of twenty-five cents by the Secretary of the University, Morrill Hall.

Two New Deans

Bogert '06 and Ogden '01 To Head
Law and Arts Colleges—Other Faculty Changes

The Board of Trustees have elected Professor George G. Bogert '06, Dean of the College of Law to succeed Dean Edwin H. Woodruff '88, who resigned, and Professor Robert M. Ogden '01, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences to succeed Dean Frank Thilly, who resigned. Both resignations and appointments take effect immediately. Dean Woodruff's letter of resignation stated that he desired to be relieved of administrative duties in order to devote his energies to teaching exclusively.

Professor Alexander M. Gray, director of the School of Electrical Engineering, was granted leave of absence for the year 1921-2, because of ill health. Assistant Professors Oscar D. Von Engeln '08 and Christian Midjo were promoted to professors, and J. H. Rogers was appointed acting professor of economics. On the recommendation of the Faculties of the College of Architecture and Agriculture, Professors E. Gorton Davis and Eugene D. Montillon '07 were given seats in the Faculty of the College of Architecture.

TRUSTEES ELECTED

Herbert D. Mason '00 and Ezra B. Whitman '01 have been elected alumni members of the Board of Trustees. Mason is elected for the third successive term, having been successful in 1911 and 1916.

The total number of votes cast was 4,378, of which 91 could not be counted because of various defects in them. Of the net total of 4,287, Mason received 3,083, Whitman received 2,877, and Erskine Wilder '05, the third candidate, 2,436.

One notable feature of the election was the increase in the total vote as compared with that of 1920, when the same number of candidates were in the field. At that time only 3,478 ballots were counted, as compared with 4,378 in 1921.

ROCHESTER PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Cornell Club of Rochester will be held on Saturday, June 25. Proceedings will get under way when the delegation meets at Convention Hall at 1:30 p. m., but the hour of curfew is most indefinite. The promise of Harry I. (Doc) Andrews '05 and his committee that there will be plenty of eats and games has resulted in a hearty response by members of the club.

Honor Societies Dinner

Highly Successful Event.—Important Address by Minister Sze

About two hundred and twenty-five members and guests of the four honorary societies, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Pi, and Phi Kappa Phi, enjoyed a joint dinner in Prudence Risley Hall last Friday evening. Dean Frank Thilly presided as toastmaster, and brief informal addresses were made by Dr. Sze '01, Col. Henry W. Sackett '75, and Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey. An orchestra stationed in the balcony furnished music, the tables were attractively decorated with flowers, and the affair, the first of its kind ever held at Cornell, was in every respect successful.

Dr. Sze expressed his satisfaction at meeting representatives of the four scholastic societies and begged them as searchers for the truth to do justice to China and not to believe all that had been written about that country. He expressed the hope that all present would one day visit China and judge for themselves what that country is doing.

Colonel Sackett urged that such gatherings be held more frequently, that the joint dinner be made an annual affair, and that everything possible be of membership in a honor society more desirable.

Dr. Bailey spoke briefly of the need in this day of externality for a motive power that came from within. "The motive power of individuals to-day is too often externality which presses them on without much thought or purpose. But the greatest motive power of life must always lie in some kind of internality. I am afraid we are inclined to look on life merely as a series of events without any philosophy in it. But we can make no prospect without retrospect. We are not able in this rapid age to estimate the value of a situation—not able to dramatize the events of the past.

"The more I see of life the more do I appreciate just such gatherings as this. Science, philosophy, letters, history, and reflection afford the satisfaction of life. When one comes to the turning point certainly it is not the external things that interest him most. Our young people are looking for ecstasy, and yet, knowing not the name, they call it 'thrills,' and it rhymes with 'frills.' It is time they learned that all the worthwhile things come out of the age-long verities. Really the only motive power is that which springs from within us."

At the close of the dinner the members of the societies adjourned to Bailey Hall, where under the auspices of the honor societies a public address was delivered by H. E. Sao-ke Alfred Sze '01.

Mr. Sze began his address by telling of his pleasure in returning to Ithaca after an absence of fifteen years and of his deep love for Cornell. He paid a tribute to the scholars who compose the honorary societies, and thanked them for their courtesy in honoring him. "I feel the deep significance of this. I believe it is a spontaneous indication of the friendship of this great country toward the country which I represent. When I came here twenty-eight years ago, people in America knew very little about China. It was merely a geographical situation; but since I have been here the last few months, I find testimonials on every hand of the cordial relations that exist between these two countries. China is a nation which begs your friendship, and your great sympathy here will find in China a responsive chord.

"In the affairs of the Far East, the United States must play a large part, because this country has a string of islands extending across the Pacific, the last of which is just at China's door. China is in a transitional stage. Just ten years ago the bloodless revolution brought the new republic into being. It is not to be expected that the republic should have smooth sailing at first. As soon as the centralizing forces weaken, the decentralizing force immediately starts work."

Dr. Sze reminded his audience that it was eleven years after the Declaration of Independence before the American Constitution was written, and several years more before the first president was elected. "History is repeating itself in China. In seeking a working solution for her problems she hopes for sympathy and help from her great sister republic across the Pacific.

"President Harding made an excellent choice in appointing Dr. Schurman minister to China. There have been hundreds of Chinese students at Cornell. All of them have come to love and respect him as a friend and mentor. One and all will give him a rousing welcome as soon as he sets foot on Chinese soil. More than this, however, the choice is fortunate because Dr. Schurman is an educator of international prominence, and in China we pay particular homage to teachers."

Dr. Sze spoke highly of the amount of educational work made possible in American colleges by the act of the United States Government in remitting half of the Boxer Indemnity Fund of $25,000,000 which the Chinese government was to have paid to this country over a period of forty years. "If the remission of half of this sum has been able to accomplish such great results in furthering China's welfare, the remission of the other half could do just as much."

In closing, he touched on a matter of vital importance in the field of education when he spoke of the limiting of the size of colleges and universities. "In this day of efficiency production, I hope we shall have some regard for quality production as against quantity production." He praised the efforts of the honor societies in assisting in the movement towards raising the standards maintained by educational institutions and towards a reasonable limitation of the size of colleges.

THE '71 REUNION

The class of '71 held its fiftieth reunion on June 17 and 18, 1921, it being the first fiftieth ever officially celebrated at Cornell.

Forty-one graduated in this class, of whom sixteen are still living and of this number eight attended this reunion. They were Judge James O'Neill, of Neillville, Wisconsin; Judge P. C. J. De Angelis, of Utica, New York; Judge A. H. Sewell, of Walton, New York; Judge George A. Benton, of Rochester, New York; Attorney John E. More, of Grand Rapids, Michigan; Frederic Schoff, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Royal Taft, of Scranton, Pennsylvania; and R. G. H. Speed of Ithaca.

TRUSTEE H. D. MASON

Judge Benton has been president of the class and R. G. H. Speed its secretary for the past fifty-one years, having held these positions in undergraduate days, and continuing by repeated elections ever since.

Of those not present, Miller A. Smith is in Cuba; Myron Kasson and S. F. Huntley are in California; C. E. Reeves in Michigan; K. W. Ingham is boring oil wells in Texas; and E. J. Hadley, of Boston, Rev. W. De L. Wilson, of Syracuse, and Loring H. Barnum, of Binghamton, were too ill to make the journey.

It was announced at the Alumni Rally that '71 had the largest percentage of attendance of any of the reunion classes this year, with fifty per cent, and hence won the attendance banner. The class will watch with interest succeeding fifty-year reunions, to see if any can surpass its record. This being an extraordinary year, the class held two dinners at the University Club, the first on Friday evening, and the second as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Schoff, on Saturday evening. Mrs. Benton, Mrs. Schoff, and Mrs. Speed attended these dinners, as did also Judge George B. Turner '73, of Auburn. Many reminiscences were told by those present. These were both very enjoyable occasions and cemented still more closely the ties which bind the members together. The menus were excellent and much appreciated.

The Secretary was authorized to send messages of regret to the members who are in ill health, and especially to L. H. Barnum, who is critically ill at his home in Binghamton.

On Saturday the Class gathered at an entrance to Morrill Hall, and a group picture was taken at the same place where fifty-two years ago, a picture of the then Class of '71 was taken, and which is still preserved with the Class records. Morrill hall was one of the three University buildings on the Campus at that time, the other two being White Hall and the large frame Chemical Building on the site where Lincoln Hall now stands. The two stone buildings were then known, however, as the North and South University Buildings.

The Class also attended the University luncheon in the Drill Hall Saturday, and there met many Cornellian friends. Some of the younger alumni were inclined to regard as curiosities the members of '71, with their gold-leaf badges, as it did not seem possible to them that Cornell could have graduates of such "advanced standing." The elder men were able to convince them, however, that they were really "flesh and blood," and very much alive, as the luncheon was being served.

After the Saturday evening dinner, the class marched in a body to Bailey Hall, where they had been urged to become the honored guests of the occasion, and as such, were conducted to seats on the stage. The speakers of the evening were Judge Benton, president of '71, Minister Sze '01, of China, and Albert W. Smith. The speeches were all excellent and aroused a good deal of enthusiasm. Charles H. Tuck '06, presided as chairman in his usual happy and forceful manner.

This ended the celebration of the regular alumni days, and the members of '71 were unanimous in the decision that this was the most interesting of their many reunions.

The class highly appreciated the official request to join in the academic procession of Commencement Day, but the members decided that they could not remain so much longer, and felt obliged to decline the complimentary invitation.

R. G. H. SPEED.

CORNELL'S FIRST FIFTY-YEAR REUNION

THE ALUMNI REUNIONS

The reunions of last week, while not record-breaking, seemed to be all that could be expected under the existing conditions. These conditions included the present critical business situation, the high cost of travel, and the fact that the ten-year class held its reunion at Spring Day instead of with the other classes. Disappointment at the small attendance was occasionally expressed, and there was a trace of feeling that the convention and Spring Day combined to take away interest from the regular reunions. We question whether there were many individuals who were absent because of actual attendance at the Convention or Spring Day, although admitting that in principle and theory these events could have had their influence.

The so-called Dix Plan of reunion, adopted without real opposition this June, should give an impetus to reunions. In it the narrower and more provincial point of view of the individual class is likely to break down under the presence of one's Cornell contemporaries in three other classes. Retrospect and reminiscence will perhaps yield the floor to forward looking and constructive thinking. The fun of the party should be multiplied by four, and the number of runners whom one knows by the same multiplier. The competitive spirit will spur on the class secretaries and their classes, and interclass rivalry can come to its own.

In short the reunion of the future will be more of a Cornell reunion than a class reunion. The proposers of the Dix Plan look for an increase in interest as well as an increase in attendance.

FULLER REPORTS LATER

The printing situation is not yet sufficiently settled so that the full account of last week's events can be given in one issue. Full accounts of the class reunions, and the more formal and detailed reports of the various organizations will be delayed for this reason, with the expectation of running most of them next week, our last regular weekly issue.

OBITUARY

Daniel O. Barto '77

Daniel Otis Barto died at Urbana, Ill., on January 18, after an illness of several months.

He entered Cornell in 1873, and remained three years. He was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, and rowed on the crews of 1875 and 1876, of which Acting President Smith was also a member.

From 1880 to 1888 Barto was principal of the Ithaca High School, leaving Ithaca for California, and later teaching in the Roxbury Latin School. He returned to Ithaca in 1890, and again became principal of the High School, in 1893 taking up similar work in the State of Illinois. He was graduated from the University of Illinois late in life, and remained there as head of the department of poultry husbandry until his death.

He was twice married. His first wife, who was Lola Dewey '77, died in California in 1888. In 1892 Mr. Barto married Miss Lucy Murray '92, who survives him, with two daughters, Harriet Thompson Barto, an instructor in nutrition in Teachers College, Columbia, and Margaret Murray Barto, an instructor in physical education in the University of Illinois.

Just before his death he wrote, on December 8, to a classmate a letter from which extracts are given below:

"If I was surprised at getting a letter from you I was also greatly pleased because of the chance to call a hello over the space of forty years and, as it happens in my case, to add a good-bye, for I am now in my easy chair waiting for the call which I am promised will come within a few weeks to cross over.

"About three years ago, after sixty-five years of perfect health and a very happy active life, my physician informed me that a cancer had fastened its grip upon me and that a year would probably bring the end here.

"From the experience of my acquaintances who have met this most dreaded disease I preferred to make no fight but use whatever time was granted me as peacefully and usefully as I could. My case has surprised my friends and the doctor in that its progress has been so slow and so peaceful. I have been able to go on with my university work, as director of my department, and last September was reappointed for another term; so I am to be permitted to reach the end with the harness on. But I realize that the end is very close and if I am wearing the harness I have ceased to pull any load.

"I can only attribute the slow progress of the disease to the effects of the old rowing days, which helped give me a strong, sound body that has resisted so stubbornly.

"Another surprise has been that I have not found this experience so terrible. With the comforts of my home and the care of my family I have never found the pain more than I could bear quietly, and the pleasure that my reading and visits with my friends, both those here and the old ones who have gone ahead—I am not a Spiritualist but I mean the living over again in memory the days that you have enjoyed and renewing in this way the friendships that death interrupted.—All these things I have found intensely enjoyable.

"Then, too, I have found much interest in watching the gradual unwinding of the spring that has kept us going here. And most of all the thinking, wondering what the great Beyond holds for us. And more and more as I draw nearer has my conviction strengthened that existence on the other side must be a continuance of the life here with all its interests, all we loved still possessing us and lived under the conditions more perfect.

"I had no thought when I began of imposing all this on you. I hope age hasn't made me a garrulous old man. But I know there is a common interest in the experiences of our friends as we reach the years when we know that the same things are just ahead for us all.

"You probably don't look just as I recall you, but your face and voice and my liking for you are still very distinct. Maybe,—I hope—sometime we may meet and continue what we enjoyed here.

"But I imagine I hear you saying, 'I don't remember Barto as being such a talker.' Good-bye."

President Smith writes of Professor Barto as follows:

"I was associated with Professor Barto in the intimate relation of membership in the varsity crew that rowed at Saratoga in 1876. We used habitually to take our light walking exercise together and thus we had opportunity for interchange of ideas upon all subjects. I have never known a man of finer character or of higher ideals of life; and with all his serious earnestness there was a deep sense of humor that showed in the sparkling eye and the ready smile. His sympathy was unfailing and he was always mindful of the feelings and rights of others.

"He was a modern knight, without fear and without reproach."

CLASS SECRETARIES MEET

With the best record of attendance in the memory of the oldest secretary, the Cornell Association of Class Secretaries held its annual session in Goldwin Smith Hall on June 18.

Thirty-four classes were represented, and of these twenty-four were represented by the secretary and ten by delegates.

The suggested change in the scheme of Cornell reunions, a modification of the so-called Dix Plan, was unanimously adopted upon presentation of the report of the committee which has been investigating the question since the December meeting of the Association. The committee produced figures showing an overwhelming sentiment on the part of alumni for the adoption of the plan, with a vote of 226 to 6. This vote represented officers of clubs and classes, members of the Cornellian Council, members of the Board of Trustees, and many other Cornellians of various official and unofficial degrees.

Officers of the Association for the ensuing year were elected as follows: president, Andrew J. Whinery '10; vice-president, Willard Beahan '78; treasurer, Clark S. Northup '93; secretary, Foster M. Coffin '12; member of the alumni representative's committee, John H. Comstock '74.

FUERTES GRADUATE MEDAL

The Fuertes Graduate Medal was recently awarded by the University Faculty to Thomas E. Mao '17 for his valuable contribution to the determination of secondary stresses in bridge trusses. By his original investigations he has developed both a graphic and an analytic method for computing such stresses in but a fraction of the time which was required by former methods.

It is worthy of note that Professor Mao became interested in secondary stresses when writing his thesis for the degree of M.C.E. at Cornell in 1917, and that for two and a half years he pursued the task of finding a simpler solution of the problem. He is now a professor of structural engineering in the Chinese Government Engineering College at Tangshan, North China.

NEW YORK GOLFERS

More than two dozen golfers of the Cornell Club of New York entered the club's annual golf tournament at the Ardsley Country Club on June 15. The tournament was in charge of a committee consisting of F. A. Wright '79, J. F. Taylor '98, and Henry B. Clark '00.

The four players turning in the lowest net score qualified for match play for the club championship and for temporary possession of the President's Cup recently presented by Neal Dow Becker '05, president of the club. The cup must be won three times by the same player before permanent possession is achieved. Becker himself had one of the three low scores, the other two being turned in by J. H. Ballantine '89 and J. F. Taylor '98. There was a tie for fourth place between Wright and H. A. Earle '06.

The special trophy presented by Taylor for 36 holes low net score was won by R. K. Blanchard '77, who also won the afternoon prize for 18 holes low net score. The prize for the low net score for the morning round was won by Wright with 18-14-70.

ST. LOUIS BOAT RIDE

Cornellians along the Mississippi Valley are awaiting with interest Saturday, June 25, when the Cornell Club of St. Louis will hold its boatripe. The destination of the ride was yet to be announced at press time, but that seems to make little difference to the big delegation that has signed up for the party. The committee in charge of the arrangements are H. C. (Shorty) Schuyler '10, Albert A. (Al) Terry '94, Harry H. Nugent '15 and Edward R. (Rowse) Thompson '13.

717TH ORGAN RECITAL

A special recital for Commencement Week was given by Professor James T. Quarles in Sage Chapel on June 20. The assisting artists were W. Grant Egbert, violin; Karl Van Hoesen '23, viola; Jerome A. Fried '10, violoncello; and Miss Gertrude Houston Nye, Piano. The program was as follows:

Sonata in D minor, Opus 65, No. 6
Choral	Mendelssohn
Andante sostenuto
Allegro molto
Finale-andante
Gavotta	Martini
Ariosa, "My Heart is Fixed"	Bach
Phantom Waltz	Arensky
Fantaisie	Sjogren
Andante from Piano Quartet, Opus 10
Violin, Viola, Violoncello,	Boellmann
Piano, and Organ
Intermezzo	Brahms
Fiat Lux	Dubois

BUFFALO PICNIC

Buffalo Cornellians are saving the date of July 9 for the Cornell picnic at Olcott Beach.

BALTIMORE WOMEN ORGANIZE

On May 16 the Cornell women of Baltimore met at the home of Mrs. E. F. Brundage, 1211 North Calvert Street, and organized the Cornell Women's Club of Baltimore. Mrs. Brundage was made president and Miss Gertrude Gorsuch secretary and treasurer. The second meeting was held on June 3 at the home of Mrs. Karl Pfeiffer in Windsor Hills.

ATHLETICS

Two Out of Three at Poughkeepsie

Third in the varsity race, first in the junior varsity and freshman races, that is the record of Cornell achievement in the revival of the annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, which returned to the Hudson at Poughkeepsie last Wednesday after a five year interim. The judgment of rowing followers and Cornellians generally is likely to be that Cornell has every reason to be satisfied with the results of the transition from the coaching of Charles E. Courtney to that of John Hoyle. In fact there was nothing to distinguish the crews on the Hudson Wednesday from typical Cornell crews of other years. The Courtney system in every essential is being carried on by the Old Man's long time associate.

The varsity race was won by the Navy, a magnificent crew, one of those rare eights that one sees about every decade or so, by three and a half lengths over the powerful California eight, which in the last half mile managed to wear down the Cornell varsity in a desperate struggle and beat it across the line by just three feet, according to the decision of the officials on the finish boat. Indeed there were those who declared the California-Cornell finish a dead heat, but checking up revealed that the giants from the coast had hurled their shell ahead of Cornell's in the last drive for the line. Pennsylvania finished fourth, a length and three-quarters behind Cornell, Syracuse was fifth and Columbia last.

The junior varsity race was a walk-away from the so-called light Cornell varsity, which swept across the line five lengths ahead of Pennsylvania, with Syracuse third and Columbia fourth, while the sterling Cornell freshman crew defeated Syracuse, the favorite, by a length and a half in a well rowed race in which the Cornell youngsters successfully met and overcame a stout challenge by the Orange eight in the last half mile. Penn was seven lengths behind the Orange yearlings and Columbia two lengths back of the Quakers.

Cornell's time in the junior race was 10:38, in the freshman race 10:32.

Although the crew that represented Cornell in the varsity race, not chosen in preference to the light varsity until the Monday before the regatta, was called the "heavy" varsity, it was as a matter of fact the lightest of all of the six crews that competed in the feature event of the regatta. This Cornell crew, averaging 166 pounds, was called upon to row two much heavier and more powerful eights in the Navy and California. Though defeated by more powerful crews, it gave a mighty good account of itself. And it is worth noting that inside the ranks of the members of the rowing association, the four universities that are usually represented in this regatta, Cornell regained supremacy. In that respect the showing this year is better than in 1920.

It remained for the specially invited crews to win chief honors in one of the greatest races the course has ever seen. The Navy eight, rightly a general favorite on its past showing, which included among other triumphs the winning of the Olympic championship at Antwerp last summer, and unquestionably one of the finest crews turned out in this country in many years, shot out in front at the beginning, closely pursued, however, by Cornell. Down to the bridge Cornell stuck close to the Middies, with California coming up into third position, and Penn, Syracuse, and Columbia following. The Navy had been rowing a 33 beat, Cornell 30 to 32. At the bridge Stroke Freston raised his beat and Cornell made a game effort at cutting down the Navy's lead, but the sailors had plenty of reserve power and raising their own stroke a little, they shot ahead. From that time forward Annapolis continued to gain, and the real battle of the race developed with California's magnificent challenge of Cornell. Two lengths behind at the bridge, the oarsmen from the Far West raised their stroke and wore down the Cornellians, who lacked the power to quite withstand the mighty rush of the "Bears." Within a quarter mile of the finish California was within a half length of Cornell; in the last few hundred yards they came abreast and in the rush for the line they managed to defeat Cornell by the scant margin of three feet.

It was the Navy's first victory at Poughkeepsie. The sailors established a new three mile record of 14 minutes 7 seconds, as against Pennsylvania's 15 minutes 51 1-2 seconds at Saratoga Lake in 1898. California finished in 14:22, and Cornell also well within the old record.

Penn Wins Long Ball Game

Pennsylvania defeated the varsity nine by a score of 6 to 5 in a 15-inning game at Percy Field last Saturday, the last game of the year, and in all probability the last varsity game to be played on Percy Field. It is hoped that by another spring the baseball field on the hill will be ready for the varsity.

Saturday's game, witnessed by many alumni and Senior Week guests, was a bitter struggle, a contest of endurance and nerve. Cornell got away to a promising start, scoring two runs in the first inning on a two-base hit by Mayer, singles by Davies, McNichols' error, and Wegner's long fly to right. The home team put another run across the plate in the second when Cowan, who walked to first, came in on a passed ball.

Penn was held scoreless until the fifth inning, but tallied once in that frame, and twice in the sixth. Cornell scored in the sixth on a base on balls to Fritz and Woodin's single.

By this stage of the game Larson, who had issued three passes in the fifth had been retired in favor of Stout, for Pennsylvania, and in the sixth Coach Carney sent Rollo to the mound to replace Maloney, who had given six bases on balls. Each team scored again in the eighth, and then ensued a desperate duel. They remained deadlocked until the 15th when a two base hit by Maher, subsequently elected captain of the Penn team, brought in Mehaffey with the winning run. In the tenth and twelfth Cornell threatened, but Rollo, ordinarily a good hitter, struck out, the first time with the bases filled, the next with men on second and third. A double play in the second in which Mayer caught Maher's fly and then threw to the plate nipping Mouradian, was a fielding feature. Cornell outhit Penn with 12 hits to 7, but made twice as many errors, and was not as effective in pinches.

Davies Elected Baseball Captain

H. F. Davies '22 of Roselle, New Jersey, has been elected captain of the baseball team for next year. Davies played a fine game at first base throughout the season, and was the outstanding hitter on the team. He also led in extra base hitting. Davies has played varsity baseball for two years, and in the fall of 1919 was left halfback on the varsity football team. A knee injury in the Penn State game put him out of the game for the rest of the season, and a recurrence of the same trouble barred him from playing football last year.

CORNELLIAN EUGENICISTS

The Second International Congress of Eugenics is to be held at the American Museum of Natural History in New York on September 22-28 next. On the general committee are Dr. Herman M. Biggs '82, representing the American Social Hygiene Association, Dr. David Starr Jordan '72, Dr. Vernon L. Kellogg, '91-2, Grad., of the National Research Council, Professor Charles R. Stockard, of the Medical College, and Professor Walter F. Willcox. Professor Sutherland Simpson will represent the University of Edinburgh. Among the papers to be read are the following: "Inheritance of the Effects of Alcohol,"

Professor Stockard; "The Size of Families in the United States from 1680 to 1900," Dr. Frederick S. Crum '93, of the Prudential Insurance Company, Newark, N. J.; "The Distribution and Increase of Negroes in the United States," Professor Willcox; and "A Comparison of the Birth Rate of Early and Recent Graduates of Women's Colleges," Professor Anna H. Morgan '06, of Mt. Holyoke College.

LITERARY REVIEW

Books and Magazine Articles

Professor Hendrick W. Van Loon's "Ancient Man" (reviewed in our columns on April 21) is favorably noticed by Philip Becker Goetz in The Buffalo Evening News for May 28.

The Era for June 11 includes the conclusion of "The Peasley Murder," a composite story by Romeyn Berry '04, Archie M. Palmer '20, Frank Sheehan, Howard B. Cushman '21, Mary A. Walker '22 ("Devillette in the Sun Berry Patch"), and Professor Martin W. Sampson. A prize is offered for the identification of the authors of the respective chapters. Elwyn B. White '21 writes on "The Manuscript Club."

Science for June 10 prints the inaugural address delivered by Dr. Ernest F. Nichols, M. S. '93, on becoming the head of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His subject was technical education in general.

The April number of The Cornell Veterinarian is a Conference Number, and contains the following articles: "The Progress and Opportunities in Veterinary Medicine," Dean Veranus A. Moore '87; "Acute Exudative Meningo-Encephalitis in Domestic Animals," Professor Samuel A. Goldbert '14; "The Cause and Treatment of Rickets," Professor Howard J. Milks '04; "The Blood, Urine, and Tissue Juices in Azoturia," Professor Charles E. Hayden '14 and Dr. Marcos A. Tubanguí, '18-20 Grad.; "Remarks on the Etiology of Infectious Abortions in Cattle," Dr. Theobald Smith '81; "Some Results of the Treatment of the Genital Tract of Cows," Professor Dennie H. Udall '01; "Studies in Calf Pneumonia," Dr. Charles M. Carpenter '17 and Dr. Herbert L. Gilman '17; "The Medicinal Treatment of White Scours," Professor James N. Frost '07 and Dr. James R. Varley '20; "The Care of Cows and Young Calves," Dr. Cassius Way '06; "What About the Horses?" Dr. Wayne Dinsmore; Presentation to the University of the portrait of Professor Simon H. Gage '77, Dr. John G. Wills '06, Simon H. Gage, and Acting President Smith '78; "The Ultra Particles of the Blood and Chyle," Professors Gage and Pierre A. Fish '90; "Pneumonia in Swine with Special Reference to Swine Plague," Dr. James W. Benner, M.S. '20; "The Veterinary Curriculum," Dr. Ray W. Gannett '05; Agriculture and Veterinary Education," Dean Albert R. Mann '04.

ALUMNI NOTES

'77 BME—Willard E. Lape is designing steam engineer for the by-product coke oven plants of the Semet-Solvay Company, Syracuse, N. Y. He lives at 1513 East Genesee Street.

'84 BCE; '05 AB, '06 CE—Daniel W. Mead and Frederick W. Scheidenhelm, consulting engineers, announce the removal of their offices from 120 Broadway to 30 Church Street, New York, where they will continue their practice in the hydraulic engineering field, including the legal and geological phases thereof, and covering the investigation, design, and construction of water power, water supply, irrigation, drainage, and flood control projects.

'87 AB; '89 ME—At the inauguration of Lotus Delta Coffman as president of the University of Minnesota on May 13, Cornell University was represented by George D. Shepardson '89, professor of electrical engineering at the University of Minnesota. At the educational conference held on the afternoon of the same day, an address was given by Dr. James E. Russell '87, dean of Teachers' College, Columbia University.

'91, '92 BS—Fred D. Smith is division representative of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, in charge of the Albany district. His mail address is 82 Maiden Lane, Albany, N. Y.

'92 BS—At the twenty-first annual meeting of the Geological Society of American Cordilleran Section, at the University of California on March 26, Professor Arthur S. Eakle read papers on "The Probable Occurrence of Massive Froilite in Serpentine" and "Jurupaite, a New Mineral from Crestmore."

'94 PhB, '96 DSc—The inauguration of Dr. Bertha Stoneman as president of the Huguenot University College, Wellington, South Africa, took place on Founders' Day, May 7.

'97 AB—Mr. and Mrs. Newell Lyon, 5630 Blackstone Avenue, Chicago, announce the birth of a daughter on April 28. She has been named Elsie Schuyler Lyon.

'00 ME—Henry T. Coates is clerk of works and resident engineer for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and for Arnold W. Brunner, architect. He is at present superintending the erection of capitol buildings, bridges, and other park improvements at Harrisburg. These improvements will cost approximately $30,000,000 and will make this group of capitol buildings the finest in the country. Coates's office is at 421 Walnut Street, Harrisburg.

'01 AB—George S. Whitney is with Ter Bush and Powell, Inc., general insurance, 419 State Street, Schenectady, N. Y.

'02 AB—Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Taussig announce the birth of their second son, Charles Avery Taussig, jr., on May 9. Taussig says he is hoping that eighteen years or so from now the boy will be on the line-up with his brother, Edward David, on the Cornell team, and performing otherwise for Cornell.

'03 LLB—On May 23, Judge Harold L. Hart, of Binghamton, took the office of Federal Prohibition Director for New York State. Judge Hart has practiced law in Binghamton for the past fifteen years, and is the recognized political leader of Broome County. After being admitted to the bar he became associated with the law firm of Jenkins, Page and Hayes. Later he opened an office for private practice. Then he became special city judge, then city judge; he is now serving his second term, which expires December 31, 1923. He is married and has a son ten years old.

'04 AB—President Harding has designated Major Lawrence Martin as the representative of the Department of State on the United States Geographic Board.

'04 AB—Howard W. Douglass, of McKeesport, Pa., has announced his candidacy for judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Alleghany County, Pa., for the vacancy to be caused by the retirement of Judge Marshall Brown at the end of his term. Douglass received his law degree at the University of Pittsburgh, and has been actively engaged in the practice of law for the past fourteen years; he is at present a member of the firm of Douglass, Fife and Young, with offices in the Frick Building, Pittsburgh, and in McKeesport. For the past five years he has been city solicitor of McKeesport, and he is chairman of the Alleghany County Republican Committee. He was married in 1910 to Miss Frances Virginia Van Kirk, and they have two children.

'04 LLB—Frederic H. Cowden announces the removal of his law offices from 30 Broad Street to the new Munson Building, 67 Wall Street, New York.

'05 ME—Rudolph L. Weber is with the Kansas City Railways, Kansas City, Mo.

'05 BArch—Oscar V. Vatet, architect, announces the removal of his offices to 15 East Fortieth Street, New York. He is a member of the American Institute of Architects, registered in the States of

New York, New Jersey, and Michigan. He lives at Pleasantville, and may be found at noon at the Cornell Club of New York, almost any day except Saturday and Sunday.

'05 AB—Isaac E. Chadwick is president of the Chadwick Pictures Corporation, with offices at 130 West Forty-sixth Street, New York.

'06 ME—A son was born on May 25 to Mr. and Mrs. Warner D. Orris, 72 East Seventy-ninth Street, New York.

'07 AB, '10 MD—A certificate has been filed in the Westchester County Clerk's Office, constituting B. Harrison Betts, of Yonkers, as examiner in mental defects.

'07 ME—Sidney W. Treat is with the Signode System, Inc., 564 West Adams Street, Chicago, Ill. He lives at 445 Wellington Avenue.

'09 ME—The marriage of Miss Martha Shipley, of Cincinnati, and James Monroe took place on May 21 in Cincinnati. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe are at home at 2313 Bellfield Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio. Monroe is with the Link-Belt Company, 429 Kirby Building, Cleveland.

'10 CE, '12 BArch—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Marian Louise Spencer of River Forest, Ill., to John Walter ("Ginger") Smith, of 1500 Park Avenue, Baltimore, Md. The wedding took place on June 1, at Tucson, Arizona, where Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home.

'11 ME—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Lafferty announce the birth of their second son on May 9. He has been named Herbert Ray Lafferty, jr. Lafferty is with the Red Jacket Manufacturing Company of Davenport, Iowa.

'11 BArch—Miss Gertrude Caroline Hanrahan and Henry Noble Hinekley, both of Ithaca, were married on May 19 at the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas in New York. Hinekley is practicing architecture in Ithaca, with offices at 109 North Tioga Street.

'11—Keneth B. Fiske is general manager of the Roberts Portable Oven Company, which is running tests on insulating materials for portable ovens, and on coal oil fuel heaters for both portable and non-portable ovens. Fiske would like to hear from Cornellians having suggestions along these lines. He lives at the Hotel Somerset, Chicago.

'11—Jerome D. Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post Standard, has received the degree of Master of Arts from Syracuse University.

'12 AB, '14 AM—James Storer is secretary of the Board of Education of Buffalo, and he lives at 589 Parkside Avenue, Buffalo.

'13 ME—Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of Buffalo, N. Y., announce the engage-

How a class can help develop a college

No college man can ever repay his Alma Mater for the priceless gifts she has bestowed upon him.

It is, therefore, only right that he and his classmates endeavor to protect her and enable her to exert the same kindly, constructive influence upon others that she has upon him.

Many recently graduated classes of our largest universities, inspired to repay in some small measure the great debt they owe, have taken out Endowment Policies, naming their college as beneficiary.

One class in particular, numbering 385 members, has taken out a policy of $75,000, each man contributing according to his individual ability. The average yearly subscription was less than $10 a man—a small sum, indeed.

Twenty years from date, through this class, the University will receive $75,000.

What a splendid thing it would be if every college class should adopt this plan! Every year, the universities they are proud to honor and acclaim, would receive incomes of thousands of dollars for development purposes.

Class officers, both graduate and undergraduate will do well to inquire closely into such an arrangement and acquaint their class with its manifold advantages. In this connection the services of The Prudential are at their disposal. Why not write for particulars today, stating number of men in the class and amount of Endowment that might be considered.
