SCHOOLS WORK GOES ON To Interest Boys in Cornell

Work of Cornell Clubs with secondary schools to interest outstanding students in the University will be continued, even in the face of the present war situation. This was the decision of the Alumni Association committee on relations with secondary schools, which met in New York City October 31.

President Edmund E. Day told the committee that it is likely that the Army and Navy will shortly assign men to colleges and universities only for brief periods of technical instruction. He said, however, that the organized program of interesting young men in Cornell is the most important contribution that alumni can make to the long-time well-being of the University, and urged that it be continued.

It was agreed that Cornell Day, which for nine years has brought selected boys to the Campus each spring, must be abandoned in 1943, but Clubs were urged to continue their activities with local schools and to keep prospective students informed about Cornell. Visits of members of the Faculty to schools and Clubs will be continued, the Alumni Office will continue to send motion pictures to Clubs for secondary school parties, and will supply monthly information to keep Club committees up-to-date on military rulings that affect college students.

Report was made that of 254 known high school seniors and 135 others whose classes were unknown, brought to Cornell Day last spring by Clubs, 191 have now entered the University. In addition, seventeen Cornell Day guests of 1941 have entered, and there are 1,005 boys now in the University who have attended Cornell Days. In the nine years of Cornell Days, 2,001 schoolboy guests have entered the University.

At the meeting, Edward H. Carman, Jr. '16 outlined the year-round secondary school program of his Cornell Club of Maryland, which includes two parties for prospective students and their parents, regular contact and follow-up with school officials, boys, and the University. Outline of this program, which has resulted in increasing the number of undergraduates from Maryland from three to fifty-five, is being mailed by the Alumni Office to all Clubs, and may be obtained by any Cornellian interested.

Clarence J. Pope '10 of the Cornell Club of Essex County, N. J., and chairman of the secondary schools committee, presided at the meeting. Besides Carman, other committee members who attended were Hugh C. Edmiston '15 of the Lackawanna Cornell Club; Walter G. Distler '12 representing John S. Gorrell '05, Cornell Club of Washington, D. C.; Alfred H. Hutchinson '09, Cornell Club of Chicago, Ill.; Clarence H. Davidson '11, Cornell Club of New York; Howard T. Critchlow '10, Cornell Club of Trenton, N. J.; Prentice Cushing '05, Cornell Club of Albany; Frank Nitzberg '22, Cornell Club of Michigan; and a new member, Paul E. Fitzpatrick '20, from the Cornell Club of Buffalo.

BERNAYS '12 IN CLEVELAND

Edward L. Bernays '12, New York City publicist, spoke at the monthly luncheon of the Cornell Club of Cleveland, Ohio, November 10 at the Mid-Day Club. His subject was "Our Wartime Public Relations."

MILWAUKEE OPENS SEASON

Alumni who attended the annual fall luncheon of the Cornell Club of Milwaukee, Wis., at the University Club November 14, feasted on roast pheasant which Henry W. Bryant '03 and his son had shot on a recent hunting trip to South Dakota. Guests were entertained with color movies of the University taken by the father of Laurence E. Peterson, Jr. '42 during four years of visits to the Campus, with the Cornell recordings and with a play-by-play account of the football game with Dartmouth in Buffalo that day.

Officers of the Club this year are C. Brooks Stevens '34, president; Herbert Moore '27, secretary; Eugene C. Batchelar, Jr. '39, treasurer.

WILLARD STRAIGHT MEMORIAL ROOM

THE STRAIGHT REPORTS Hall Has Busiest Year

Report of Foster M. Coffin '12, Director of Willard Straight Hall, for the Hall's seventeenth year outlines the magnitude and wide variety of its activities. In this first year of the war, the student board of managers and 370 members of student committees carried on an extensive program for the entire Campus. It included regular concerts, art exhibits, dances, teas, hobby shows, reading hours in the library, forums, and many other social and cultural activities.

Because of the accelerated academic schedule of the University and the presence here of the US Naval Training School, Willard Straight Hall has undertaken many new activities, including continuous events throughout the summer, entertainment of Naval officers and their wives, and the full-time provision of a social center for the University community. The Hall has been the center for sale of War Stamps, gave its facilities for the Red Cross blood donor campaign, has provided for recruiting by the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps.

From establishment of the Naval Training School July 1 until its mess hall was opened September 10, Willard Straight Hall dining rooms department provided meals for some 600 officers. Other increased summer business brought the total for the dining rooms to nearly three times that of last summer, with shortage of help, difficulties in obtaining equipment, and shortage of some foods.

Last year, Willard Straight Hall employed 210 persons, of whom 86 were students. Exclusive of the summer business, 61 student employees of the dining rooms department earned more than $10,000 in meals.

Besides Coffin, the Hall is administered by Edgar A. Whiting '29, assistant director; Eleanor Thomas, social director; and board of managers comprised of eleven undergraduates, three members of the Faculty, and an alumna member. Chairman of the board and president of the Hall last year was Paul W. Leighton '42. Milton R. Shaw '34 is manager of dining rooms.

All students pay membership fee of $5 a term. Faculty and resident alumni dues are $5 a year, and non-resident alumni membership, giving priority in reserving rooms, is $3 a year.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1942, the operation of Willard Straight Hall added $12,141.04 to the reserve fund for major repairs and depreciation of the building. The dining rooms department showed an operating surplus of $926.57 after a reserve for extraordinary expense of $6,700. The Johnny Parson Club, operated by the dining rooms department, had a deficit for the year of $1,095.08.

Of the Hall's income of $117,128, approximately $65,674 was from membership fees, about $15,100 from rental of rooms, and nearly $15,000 from sale of candy, tobacco, and periodicals.

Operation and maintenance of the building cost $41,117; administrative salaries and expenses, $29,385; and the social and cultural program, $4,785. The barber shop showed a profit of $1,837; the billiard room, $734.

Income of $286,046 to the dining rooms department came $168,561 from the cafeteria, $33,060 from the soda bar, and the rest from the public and private dining rooms. Provisions cost $157,314; wages, $86,781; with laundry, repairs, and other expenses bringing the total to $285,119.

MEDICS REORGANIZE

Directors of the Medical College Alumni Association have advanced the vice-president, Dr. David N. Barrows '12, to the office of president in the absence of Major Preston A. Wade '22, who is on duty with the Cornell Army hospital unit. Dr. Anne S. Belcher '17 assumed the office of secretary, succeeding Major Laurence Miscall '26, who is with the Bellevue Hospital unit. Dr. Douglass Palmer '15 was elected a director of the Association. Mrs. Mary T. Webb, executive secretary of the Medical College Alumni Association since 1935, has resigned to become secretary of the Lenox School.

NEW HAVEN GATHERS

Thirty-five members and visitors attended a smoker of the Cornell Club of New Haven, Conn., at the Winchester Clubhouse November 6, before the Yale game. In the absence of the president, Dr. Thomas E. Shaffer '29, who is in the Army Medical Corps at Lovell General Hospital, Fort Devens, Mass., the secretary-treasurer, Diedrich K. Willers '36, presided.

The Club's secondary schools committee, last year headed by Lieutenant Philip A. Waldron '35, USNR, was commended for its efforts which have resulted in fifteen boys from the New Haven area registering in the University this year. Walter C. Heasley, Jr. '30, acting Alumni Secretary, spoke on the war's effects on the Campus, and Alumni Trustee Thomas I. S. Boak '14 told some of the problems the Board of Trustees faces. It was voted to extend membership in the Club free to all Cornellians of the area in the military services. Motion pictures of last year's Dartmouth football game closed the evening. Entertainment committee headed by John H. Duncan '19 arranged the program.

About ATHLETICS

WIN DARTMOUTH BATTLE

The football team twice came from behind in Civic Stadium, Buffalo, last Saturday to defeat Dartmouth, 21-19, through the accurate placekicking of Joseph J. Andersen '46 of Unionville, Conn. William S. Wheeler '44 and Walter A. Kretz '45, left halfbacks, ran for touchdowns to match the Dartmouth scores, but it was Andersen's kicking that won the game when Captain Kast of Dartmouth twice failed to convert points and missed once more in an attempt to register a field goal two seconds from the game's end.

About 8,000 persons braved a cold wind and sub-freezing temperature to see the game. The ground was so hard that both teams started the game wearing basketball shoes. When Dartmouth scored two touchdowns and 13 points in less than twelve minutes, Cornell players changed to cleated shoes.

The change brought results. Wheeler, on the first play of the second period, ran seventy-nine yards for a touchdown. He went through left tackle, twisted away from a backer-up, headed for the sideline, and avoided a block from the last defender at the 14-yard line.

Six minutes later, Kretz exploded through the line from the 8-yard stripe to climax a thirty-seven-yard drive set up when Wheeler returned a Dartmouth punt thirty-four yards. After Dartmouth scored early in the third period on a twenty-yard pass, Kretz tallied again, going over from the 2-yard line after he and John B. Rogers '45, right end, had collaborated on a sixty-three-yard pass play. Rogers was run out of bounds two yards from the goal line, Kretz scoring on the next running play. Cornell missed a scoring chance late in the second period when it gained a first down on the Dartmouth one-yard line. Four downs later Cornell gave up the ball on the 6-yard stripe.

Dartmouth tried desperately to avert defeat with a last-minute rally as Sayers threw two passes to Wolfe and moved the ball sixty-eight yards to Cornell's 14-yard line. Frederick A. Westphal '45, left end, threw Wolfe for a ten-yard loss, and Louis J. Daukas '44, who played at center and blocking back, knocked down a pass. Kast's futile field goal attempt ended the game.

Cornell outrushed Dartmouth by a wide margin, 206 yards to 65, but trailed in forward passing, 173 yards to 90. Cornell completed only three of eleven passes, but these completions came at vital spots. Cornell registered eight first downs, Dartmouth seven. The game was remarkably free from penalties, each team losing only five yards.

Dartmouth took quick advantage of its first scoring chance. Wheeler elected to field a punt on the goal line and was downed on the 2-yard line. Charles R. Robinson '44 punted out and the ball, landing on the 30-yard line, bounded back to the 19. Wolfe turned the left flank for twelve yards to reach the 5-yard line, and three power plays netted only three yards. On fourth down Douglass crashed through guard for the score and Kast converted.

Wolfe returned a Robinson punt twelve yards to Cornell's 45-yard line to start Dartmouth's second touchdown drive, featured by Kast's forward pass to Cannon, an end, for thirty-eight yards and a first down on the 7-yard line. Douglass hit the line for four yards, and Wolfe went over through tackle for the touchdown. Kast's placekick was wide.

Then came Wheeler's splendid scoring run and his brilliant punt return that set up Cornell's second touchdown to tie the score. Douglass had kicked fifty-five yards to Cornell's 30-yard line. Wheeler let the ball roll behind him, but he picked it up and then bumped into Robinson, who had dropped back to block for him. Wheeler kept his feet, circled around his teammate, and stepped thirty-four yards along the sideline before Kast tackled him from behind on the Dartmouth 37-yard line.

Kretz did most of the gaining on this scoring drive. He cut through right tackle and circled left end for first down on the 24. Nicholas A. D'Onofrio '45, right halfback, picked up a yard, and Kretz hurled a pass to Westphal for fourteen yards for first down on the 9-yard line. Kenneth R. Davis, Jr. '45, fullback, picked up one yard. Kretz picked a hole at left tackle and raced through for a touchdown. Andersen's conversion put Cornell ahead for the first time, 14-13.

A Cornell misplay set the stage for Dartmouth's third touchdown early in the third period. Wheeler, taking a punt on the 25-yard line, dropped the ball as he tried to hand it to D'Onofrio for a criss-cross return. Monahan recovered for Dartmouth on the 23-yard line. Wolfe gained three yards on one running play, then rifled a pass to Monahan in the end zone. Kast missed the conversion and Dartmouth led, 19-14.

Eleven minutes later Cornell had the game won. From the 35-yard line, Kretz threw a flat pass to Rogers, and the right end traveled fifty-three yards before he was downed two yards from the goal. The line opened a big hole at left tackle, and Kretz breezed through for the touchdown. Andersen again converted.

OTHERS LOSE AND WIN

Junior Varsity football team lost Friday on Alumni Field to Pennsylvania, 21-12, and the 150-pound team defeated Villanova College, 6-0, at Villanova, Pa.

After a scoreless first period in the junior varsity game, Pennsylvania took a 2-0 lead in the second quarter on a safety scored by Richard A. Murphy '46. First touchdown was by Norman Dawson '46 after a fifty-two-yard run in the third period, but the visitors came back with two touchdowns and a 15-6 lead going into the fourth quarter. Cornell's second touchdown came late in the game after Pennsylvania put over its third score. The umpire ruled interference on Dawson's forward pass and awarded Cornell the ball on the Pennsylvania one-yard line. Dawson ran wide around left end for the touchdown.

The 150-pound team closed its season with three wins and one defeat. In the Villanova game, both touchdowns were made by Frank B. Williams III '44, fullback.

SOCCER TEAM WINS

The soccer team defeated Colgate, 3-1, on Alumni Field November 11, for its third victory of the season.

Cornell took a 2-0 lead in the first period and each team scored once in the second. The game was finished under floodlights and was cut short five minutes when the Colgate goalie complained of poor visibility.

Cornell goals were scored by Dennis C. Redden '46 of West Hartford, Conn.,

John F. Cushman '44 of Ithaca, and G. Thomas Wyman '44 of Rochester.

FRESHMAN WOMEN at a mass meeting last week elected Anita M. Hansen of Rochester, their secretary-treasurer.

NOW IN MY TIME!

By Romeyn Berry

The word "must" has been added to the vocabulary of youth. On some points, also, faculties are being told and not asked. Those are the two basic and far-reaching changes that war has brought about in academic circles.

President Schurman is credited with having defined academic freedom—which he stood ready to defend with his heart's blood—as "the right of a professor to say what he thinks without thinking what he says;" and the degree of liberty accorded Cornell students under the traditions of the University has ever been a hissing and a by-word among the more austere Evangelicals west of Aurora Street.

Under the amiable statutes of Cornell, as long as a student passed his examinations, paid his fees, obeyed the medical office when he had the pink-eye, and avoided the more sordid forms of felony, he could do and say pretty much what he chose.

But all that's changed now. Forums and discussion groups do not flourish as they did. In universities, nothing stifles the exercise of free speech quite so effectively as the secret possession of a summons from the local Draft Board, returnable Tuesday. Silent, dignified fatalism seems to be the order of the day among the teachers and the taught.

But what is true of professors in general is not necessarily true of all the Faculty wives. Some of them have the coffee habit and have not lost their powers of articulation. And what seems to gravel the ladies most is the recent discovery that the man responsible for their anxiety is no other than Professor Paul M. O'Leary. A year ago, Professor O'Leary was translated from the Department of Economics to some undisclosed task in Washington which now turns out to be the direction of food rationing. He's the man who thinks up coupon books and the restrictions—real and imagined—on sugar, coffee, and beef stew.

Furthermore (personalities being so much more important than principles), Mrs. O'Leary is a Campus Tiger; she's the former Hattie Barton, daughter of the late Colonel Barton. The ladies are convinced that Professor O'Leary could not have thought up all those things about sugar, coffee, and beef stew without consulting Mrs. O'Leary, and they feel strongly that Hattie should have steered things a little bit to the benefit of Campus dwellers.

From all these manifestations your reporter derives a certain amount of internal, ironic amusement. For it was he who supplied the O'Learys, before they were wafted to high places, with their eggs, cream, dressed poultry, and potatoes; with their strawberries and sweet corn in season. It will be him to whom they will again look for such dainties on their return to peaceful obscurity. We like to think there's some small distinction in being "The Man Who Feeds the Man Who Feeds America, and How!"

NEW PANAMA CLUB

A new Cornell Club of alumni in the Panama Canal Zone held its first meeting in the Officers' Club at Albroom Field recently, with fourteen Cornellians attending. The organizers, Lieutenant James T. Mullane '35 and Walter T. Tatum '38, write that they are sending notices to all alumni, "especially of the armed forces that are coming in. On the eve of the Cornell-Penn game we hope to have more than 100 at a gala party in the exclusive Union Club, Panama City. Many prominent Panamanian families are amongst us, as well as high officials of the Panama Canal and Army."

Temporary address of the Club is Corozal Recreation Center, Post of Corozal, Canal Zone.

PAUL ROBESON CHARMS

Paul Robeson, Negro baritone, opened the University concert series November 10, with Bailey Hall completely sold out. Again and again he was called back to the stage, and was generous with ten encores, finally bringing the audience to their feet to sing with him "The Star Spangled Banner." In a graceful little speech before his last encores, he expressed his pleasure in being at Cornell, spoke of playing football for Rutgers but avoiding meeting Cornell's "great Eddie Kaw," mentioned knowing "Brud" Holland '39 and his family, said his own son is interested in taking engineering at Cornell, and paid tribute to Willard Straight '01 and his work in China.

Robeson's program was varied and interesting, with some selections of dramatic interest and several Russian melodies and folk-songs and an old Hebrew chant whose solemn themes brought home to the audience the trials and persecutions of the artist's own race. He was great singing "Old Man River" and "I Still Suits Me" from his motion picture, "Show Boat," and in his many and varied Negro spirituals and folksongs, in some of which his accompanist, Lawrence Brown, joined in, to the delight of the audience. Robeson sang in French, German, Russian, and Chinese, as well as English, thoughtfully translating his foreign-language songs before he gave them.

The artist was a guest at Willard Straight Hall. The morning after his concert, he visited Ithaca's South Side Community Center for Negroes, and sang at Biggs Memorial Hospital.

LETTERS

Subject to the usual restrictions of space and good taste, we shall print letters from subscribers on any side of any subject of interest to Cornellians. The ALUMNI NEWS often may not agree with the sentiments expressed, and disclaims any responsibility beyond that of fostering interest in the University.

WARNER'S HIDDEN BALL

TO ROMEYN BERRY:

In August, 1941, I was listening to a program of "Information Please." A question propounded was when and against what team did Warner ['94] use the concealed football hoax. The consensus of opinion was that he used it against Harvard when he was coaching the Carlisle Indians. John Kieran said he thought that the incident occurred earlier in Warner's career.

I was interested, and wrote Kieran that he was right: that it was first used by Warner at Cornell against the Indians. To check on it, I wrote Frank Gannett, with whom I was rooming at the time, he representing several papers and I at the time representing the Associated Press and the Buffalo Express. It was in the fall of 1898, and Warner was accustomed to drop into our room at the foot of the Hill on East State Street. He told us he was intending to use the stunt in the game the following day. I requested Gannett to write Warner to ask his recollection of the incident. He wrote that I was right in all respects except that it was used, not against the Indians, but against Penn State; that Cornell was leading by a big score and that late in the game when a kickoff was received in the gathering darkness, the men went into a huddle and the ball was inserted under the back of Captain Mike Whiting's jersey. The players scattered in all directions, and the ball was soon behind the goal. "Pop" in his letter said that the referee, Dr. Newton I think, said, "It's a touchdown, but I'm damned if I know how the ball got here!"

Warner may have used the hoax when he coached the Indians against Harvard or some other team, but it was used the first time at Cornell under the circumstances here stated.

I read your column with great interest. I hadn't heard of Bingo Wells's death until today, when I read your column. I saw him last at the Cornell Club in New York when he was helping out temporarily after the death of Tom Ludlam.—JAMES O'MALLEY '01

PENG CHENG HSU, PhD '42, of Foochow, China, research associate in Nutrition, studying "foods for exercise," finds that vitamin B-1 is lost most rapidly during exercise and needs to be replenished. His research, he hopes, may serve to improve the nutrition of fighting men.

HEADS STRATEGIC RESEARCH

Stanley P. Lovell '12 has been called to Washington as head technical aide of the National Defense War Research Committee and director of research in the Office of Strategic Services. He is in charge of the work of finding new stores of critical materials, new manufacturing processes, new synthetics and new uses for those now known, and new weapons of warfare.

For many years an industrial chemist working with the shoe industry, Lovell perfected the material now universally used to stiffen the box toes and counters of shoes, displacing sole leather. He lives in Newton, Mass., was president of the Arden Box Toe Co. of Watertown, Mass. He entered the University after a year at Dartmouth; received the AB in 1909; was editor of the Era, member of Eleusis.

ON THE CAMPUS AND DOWN THE HILL

EFFICACY of the Sun's "Campus Notices" column was scientifically tested last week by a Freshman who inserted a notice that a certain English class would not meet that day. A later-published report from the experimenter explained that he had selected "a large class and one that met late in the morning so that most of the students could have read their Sun in earlier classes." Two-thirds of the members stayed away, he reported, but said that results were not absolute "because many of our fraternity brothers tipped off the students to attend the class and see for themselves the results of our census." Reaction of the professor conducting the class was not recorded.

BROTHERS opposed each other in the Cornell-Dartmouth football game in Buffalo Saturday. From Nashau, N. H., Louis J. Daukas '44 who played at center and blocking back, faced his brother, Nicholas Daukas, Dartmouth left tackle. Thomas Douglass, long-punting Dartmouth fullback from Groton, Conn., is the brother of Robert J. Douglass '45, a Cornell assistant manager.

TEN OFFICERS in the Naval Reserve and forty enlisted men awaiting call to active duty arrived last week to take the Civilian Pilot Training instruction directed by Foster M. Coffin '12. By arrangement with the Naval Training School, the officers are quartered in the Baker dormitories and mess with the officers of the School. Enlisted men are housed at 102 West Avenue and take their meals at Willard Straight Hall. The last group of fifty CPT students finished the eight-week course October 28.

PRESTON MELTON, honorary member of Theta Xi and their house steward for more than thirty-five years, died November 11. He was also steward at the old Town and Gown Club on Stewart Avenue. He lived at 207 Cleveland Avenue, Ithaca.

CORNELL DAILY SUN has announced election of V. Stewart Underwood '43 as business manager, in place of J. Larkin Hoyt '43 who resigned because of ill health. Underwood is the son of E. Victor Underwood '13 of Ithaca; Hoyt is the son of Dr. Clare J. Hoyt '09 of Walden. Sun board has also elected Edward D. Eddy, Jr. '44 of Ithaca, associate editor; Arthur H. Kesten '44 of Malverne, sports editor; and Walter P. McQuade '44 of Port Washington, editorial assistant. Six Sophomores have been elected to the board as the result of competitions: Anthony F. Giffone of New York City and Jack S. Morgan of

NEW FLAG at Willard Straight Hall is pictured on our cover this week. A staff designed by the building's architects was erected over the main entrance and the flag made its first appearance last week.

Utica, business; and to the news boards Andrew J. Lazarus of New York City, Mary J. Hall of Jersey City, N. J., Ina Hundinger of Bronxville, and Charna R. Slonim of Brooklyn.

LAWRENCE E. GUBB '16, newly-elected president of the Alumni Association, spent Thursday and Friday last week in conferences at Alumni House and meeting members of the University. Another Campus visitor was Judge Jacob Gould Schurman, Jr. '17, whose son Joseph is a Sophomore in Arts and Sciences.

SENIOR ENGINEERS were addressed Friday by Dr. Albert C. Durand '06 of Ithaca, on "The Care of the Eyes." Prelims and mid-term reports were due last week.

ORDER OF THE COIF, national scholastic society in Law, has elected to membership Douglas S. Moore '41 of Ithaca and Samuel Schatz '41 of Hartford, Conn., both third-year students in the Law School.

THE REV. ALLEN C. BEST has come to Ithaca from the Evangelical Congregational Church in Easton, Mass., as pastor of the Forest Home Chapel and to succeed the Rev. G. Eugene Durham '19 as student pastor for the First Methodist Church. Graduate of Syracuse University in 1935, he received the Bachelor of Sacred Theology in 1938 and the PhD in 1940 at Boston University.

SERVICE MEN'S CLUB has been opened in a former store at 311 East State Street by the recreation committee of the Tompkins County War Council. Mrs. Leonard Miscall is directly in charge. Her husband, Lieutenant Commander Miscall '19, USNR, is at Pearl Harbor. Women of the community raised $500 to equip the Service Men's Club with furniture, a library, and writing room. Dances and refreshments are to be provided for enlisted men stationed here, home on leave, or who may come to Ithaca from the Naval Training Station at Sampson. Pauline Bird of Alumni House, in charge of dances, has sixty volunteer hostesses on call.

NORMAN THOMAS, several times the Socialist candidate for President, was the Campus Forum speaker November 18. His subject was "A White Man's War?"

ARMISTICE DAY passed without official University observance, but in Barnes Hall there was an "Interfaith World Government Day service, crystallizing aims and problems of the post-war world." Captain Burton W. Chippendale, commanding the US Naval Training School at the University, was the Armistice Day speaker in DeWitt Park, downtown.

FRONT PAGES last week carried notice that the Daily Sun would not shine on Monday mornings hereafter for the remainder of the year. Reason was explained as "an increased cut in our newsprint allotment and further losses of labor."

PING-PONG CHAMPION of the University is Edward M. Gilbert '44 of Huntington. Playing spectacularly in the finals of a ladder tournament which was a feature of "women's night" in the Willard Straight Hall game room, the new champion defeated Hugo J. Gelardin '44 of New York City, 21-10, 21-12, 21-14.

SAGE CHAPEL PREACHER November 22 is the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo of the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas, New York City.

HOLSTEIN COWS of the University herd won two first places, a second, and a third among all animals of the breed in the United States for production of butterfat in their respective age classes during 1941.

"DIG DEEPER" is the slogan of a Cornell Victory Chest campaign launched at a meeting of "V Wardens" in Willard Straight Hall November 15. A twelve-foot poster in the Willard Straight lobby records the daily descent of a huge V bomb from a speeding plane toward the cowering figures of Hitler, Mussolini, and Hirohito. Goal of the campaign, of which William H. Hopple, Jr. '43 of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Maxine L. Katz '45 of Manchester, N. H., are chairmen, is $10,000 to be devoted to United Nations War Relief, United Service Organizations, and student aid. Ithaca and Tompkins County simultaneously launched a campaign for a $104,170 War and Community Fund.

THANKSGIVING CONCERT at the Ithaca High School this year Miss Laura Bryant has dedicated to alumni of the Glee Club who are in the armed forces. She has heard from nearly 100 former High School singers. T. Nelson Magill, PhD '41, will be guest soloist and Merle D. Livermore '24 wrote Miss Bryant that he would be on hand for his twenty-second Thanksgiving concert.

Concerning THE FACULTY

AFTER AN inspection tour of more than 125 institutions as technical consultant for the War Man Power Commission, Professor John R. Bangs, Jr. '21, Administrative Engineering, says that American colleges and universities are learning to adapt their teaching to actual problems of industry and industrial concerns are gaining respect for the aid which colleges can give them through the Engineering, Science, and Management War Training program. "There were naturally many difficulties at first in setting up the nation-wide program . . . Now that 200 institutions have trained more than 500,000 men and women under this Federal program, colleges and industry have learned how to work together." He also reports an increasing interest in all parts of the country to learn what is being done elsewhere. The exchange of programs and course outlines among colleges has proved most helpful. Correspondence courses are also being started under the ESMWT program. "Such courses," Professor Bangs says, "are just another illustration of the flexibility of the ESMWT program, which is designed to meet the needs of industry and government for trained workers by offering tuition-free instruction at the college level."

MARIE TOLSTOY, granddaughter of Count Leo Tolstoy, Russian author and social reformer, is teaching in the Russian courses sponsored at the University by the American Council of Learned Societies to aid in the war effort. Arriving in New York City in 1940, she has since made two extensive lecture tours of the country. In her opinion, the spirit of the Russian people is now higher than at any time in history. She left Russia in 1924, was graduated from the University of Prague in 1932, and was in Czechoslovakia in March, 1939, when Hitler marched in. "After that," she said, "conditions were the most awful you could imagine; yes, a thousand times worse." She is the wife of Vladimir Mansvetoe, writer and journalist, now in New York City.

THIRD EDITION of American Orchid Culture, revised and enlarged by Professor Edward A. White, Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture, Emeritus, has been published by A. T. De La Mare Co., New York City. The first two editions appeared in 1927 and 1930. Professor White has collected orchids in every part of the world; most recently in the jungles of Burma and the Malay Peninsula. He tells how he met in many remote corners of the world Cornell graduates who extended hospitality to him. He describes the best cultural, propagation, and marketing methods of American orchidists and gives a new and complete list of American orchid hybrids.

FIVE MEMBERS of the University Staff attended the sixteenth annual meeting of the New York State Association of Deans and Other Guidance Personnel held in Albany November 12-14. They were Dean Sarah G. Blanding, Home Economics; Counselor of Women Students Thelma L. Brummett; Professor Jessie Rhulman and Professor Jean Failing, Home Economics; and Professor Andrew L. Winsor, PhD '29, Rural Education.

THE FARMER'S SHOP BOOK by Professor Louis M. Roehl, Sp '18, Agricultural Engineering, has gone into its eleventh printing according to report of the Bruce Publishing Co., Milwaukee, Wis. Professor Roehl has conducted special teacher training courses in farm shop work in many universities, and in 1927 he established shop work at Dartington School in Totnes, England, run by Leonard K. Elmhurst '21 and Mrs. Elmhurst.
