Cornell University

SCHOOL OF INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR RELATIONS

HISTORY AND PURPOSE

The New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell University was authorized in 1944 by act of the New York State Legislature as the first institution in the country to offer a comprehensive program of professional training at the undergraduate and graduate levels in the field of industrial and labor relations. In addition to resident instruction, research and extension work were also provided as integral parts of the program to fulfill the broad purpose for which the School was created.

The law under which the School functions states its objectives and purposes in the following terms:

It is necessary that understanding of industrial and labor relations be advanced; that more effective cooperation among employers and employees and more general recognition of their mutual rights, obligations, and duties under the laws pertaining to industrial and labor relations in New York State be achieved; that means for encouraging the growth of mutual respect and greater responsibility on the part of both employers and employees be developed; and that industrial efficiency through the analysis of problems relating to employment be improved.

...it is hereby declared to be the policy of the state to provide facilities for instruction and research in the field of industrial and labor relations through the maintenance of a school of industrial and labor relations.

The object of such school shall be to improve industrial and labor conditions in the state through the provision of instruction, the conduct of research, and the dissemination of information in all aspects of industrial, labor, and public relations affecting employers and employees.

The School came into existence as a part of Cornell University on November 5, 1945, with the admission of its first group of resident students. Subsequently, the research and extension programs were initiated, and the School moved forward to meet the responsibilities stipulated in its legislative mandate.

With the creation of the State University of New York in 1948, the School of Industrial and Labor Relations, as one of the four state-supported units at Cornell University, became an integral part of the State University of New York. "Created to provide a comprehensive and adequate program of higher education," the State University now includes more than sixty educational institutions. The School of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell, functioning in this broad context, offers training and research facilities in this important field to serve the needs of the state.

The School operates through four major functional divisions: (1) undergraduate and graduate resident instruction, (2) extension and public service, (3) research development, and (4) publications and school relations. In each of the divisions, programs are carried on to serve impartially the needs of labor and management in the field of industrial and labor relations. Professional training is provided at the undergraduate and graduate levels for young men and women who look forward to careers in labor unions, in business, in government agencies, or in other areas related to the broad field of industrial and labor relations. Through the Extension and Public Service Division, instruction is offered throughout the state on a noncredit basis to men and women already engaged in labor relations activities, as well as to the general public. Closely related to the work in resident instruction and extension, the Research Development Division is concerned with the development of materials for resident and extension teaching and the conduct of studies in the field of industrial and labor relations. The Publications and School Relations Division is responsible for the dissemination of such research data.

THE UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAM

CHARACTER AND PURPOSE OF UNDERGRADUATE STUDY

The undergraduate program of the School provides a professional education in industrial and labor relations in which study of technical subject matter is merged with education in supporting fields of knowledge. It also offers preparation for postbaccalaureate study in the fields of law, education, business, psychology, sociology, economics, history, political science, international affairs, and numerous new interdisciplinary graduate degree programs concerned with contemporary social, economic, urban, and political programs, both domestic and foreign. The essential characteristics of the four-year curriculum are a common exposure to a basic core of instruction in the introductory work in the field and in supporting disciplines, the completion of selected courses in advanced subjects of industrial and labor relations, and the complementation of this training with elective courses offered by the various departments of the School and the University. Specifically, the undergraduate resident teaching program seeks to develop within the student the following values:

In General Education

An understanding of the origin and manner of development of the basic institutions of Western civilization, including American ideals and institutions, and the ability to appraise them in the light of other cultures.

An understanding of the contribution of the social sciences to the development of society.

An understanding of the nature of man and the characteristics of human behavior in present-day society.

An appreciation of literature and the arts for the enjoyment and enlightenment they provide.

An ability to live and work cooperatively with other people.

In Professional Education

An understanding of the factors and forces, the organizations, and the customary behavior patterns in industrial and labor relations.

An understanding of the values in industrial and labor relations which are necessary for the progress of industrial society.

The ability to exercise the professional skills required for advantageous entry and progressive development in industrial and labor relations.

Members of the School faculty reflect a wide range of scholarly interests and backgrounds in industrial and labor relations. The School utilizes instruction offered in the College of Arts and Sciences and in other divisions of the University in accomplishing its curriculum of prescribed and elective work. Practitioners are regularly invited to the School to participate in instruction as guest lecturers or discussion leaders. These visitors, affiliated with government, unions, or industry, provide students with insights into the nature of current problems in the field.

Because students have ample opportunity to take courses in other divisions of the University, it is possible with careful planning to combine the course work in industrial and labor relations with concentrated work in one of the social sciences. Any student who wishes to take advantage of this possibility should discuss his intentions with his faculty adviser or with a counselor in the Office of Resident Instruction. Arrangements can then be made for him to receive guidance from a faculty member associated with the particular social science discipline.

The School maintains a counseling staff which offers both educational and personal guidance. In addition, every student is assigned a faculty adviser who provides counsel in the selection of courses and sequences, both elective and required, that will satisfy individual educational and professional goals.

ADMISSION OF UNDERGRADUATES

In addition to academic preparation, applicants for admission to the School of Industrial and Labor Relations are expected to present the following personal qualifications: the ability to work with others, the capacity to assume leadership in promoting cooperative relationships, intellectual and social maturity, and a high level of academic motivation. Work experience, full or part-time, also is given consideration in the selection process.

Completion of sixteen secondary school entrance units is required as minimum academic preparation. The sixteen units should include at least four units of English. The remaining twelve units may include subjects chosen from the following college-preparatory high school disciplines: foreign language (ancient or modern), mathematics, science, and social studies (including history).

Visits to the School

Members of the selection committee are available to discuss with prospective applicants the School's admission requirements and application procedures, and the appropriateness of the curriculum for satisfying individual educational and professional interests. Although appointments are not required, prospective applicants are urged to write to the Office of the Chairman of the Selection Committee, Room 101, Ives Hall, in advance of their visits. Office hours for informational visits are Monday through Friday, 9:00 A.M.—4:00 P.M., Saturday, 9:00 A.M.—12:00 M., September through May. During June, July, and August, the office is closed on Saturdays.

An informational visit does not take the place of the required interview scheduled for each applicant in early spring, after application materials have been submitted.

Application Procedures

The School follows the admissions procedure of Cornell University as described in the Announcement of General Information, which may be obtained by writing to the Announcements Office, Day Hall. Official application blanks can be obtained from the University Office of Admissions, Day Hall. Application materials are usually not available until August of the year preceding the year of desired admission. Every applicant is required to submit with his application a 500-word statement (preferably typewritten) indicating the nature and basis of his interest in the field of industrial and labor relations. Freshmen are admitted to matriculate in the fall term only. Candidates should submit applications before January 1 and no later than February 15. Transfer applicants are considered for admission in both fall and spring terms.

A personal interview is an important part of the applicant's total evaluation by the School's selection committee. These interviews with members of the committee are usually held in Ithaca in March and in New York City in January and March. Applicants are notified in advance, usually in the first week of March, concerning their appointments on the interview schedule. A student from outside the state of New York should, if at all possible, arrange for a visit to the School early in the admissions period to complete this interview. If distance makes travel to Ithaca or New York unfeasible, the interview may be waived on applicant request.

The Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board is required of all applicants. Achievement Tests in English and in mathematics (either Level I or Level II) are also required. Applicants are urged to take the December Scholastic Aptitude Test and may obtain a descriptive bulletin listing the places and times these tests are given by writing to the College Entrance Examination Board, Box 592, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

All freshman applicants are notified in mid-April of acceptance or rejection.

Transfer Applicants

Students who have completed college courses after graduation from high school should apply for admission as transfer candidates. Transfer candidates must submit official transcripts from all of the institutions previously attended. Secondary school records, the 500-word essay, the personal interview, and results of the Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board are also required of transfer applicants.

Transfer candidates for the fall term should submit applications no later than April 15. Applications for spring term admission must be submitted before December 1. Final review of transfer applications is not begun until grades for the applicant's term of current enrollment have been submitted to the selection committee. Decisions on transfer admissions are usually made at the end of January for spring term admissions, and in late June for September admissions.

Students entering by transfer may expect to receive credit toward degree requirements for completed courses of appropriate content and satisfactory quality, although transfer usually results in some loss of credit. Transfer students are required to complete a minimum of four terms of residence in the School. Questions concerning the granting of transfer credit should be directed to the School's Office of Resident Instruction, Ives Hall.

Advanced Placement and Credit

Prospective entering freshmen who have taken college-level courses in secondary school have the opportunity to qualify for advanced placement (and often for advanced standing credit) in these areas of study:

biology, chemistry, English, American and European history, classical and modern languages, mathematics, music, and physics.

In general, those who wish to be considered for advanced placement or credit should plan to take the appropriate advanced placement examination(s) of the College Entrance Examination Board. Some of the departments in which the subjects listed above are taught offer their own examinations at entrance as an alternative or supplementary method for determining advanced placement or credit. Details about this program are contained in a leaflet entitled Advanced Placement of Freshmen at Cornell University, available on request from the University Office of Admissions, Day Hall.

Special Students

Special student status may be arranged for qualified persons who desire to undertake a program of study designed to satisfy special professional interests. Although special students are not candidates for a degree, they must demonstrate competence to undertake college-level work in the field and may be required to complete testing programs designated by the selection committee. The usual term of residence for a special student is one year. All foreign students are initially admitted as special students, not as degree candidates.

PROFESSIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

Graduates of the School of Industrial and Labor Relations take positions involving industrial relations activities, enter work in related areas, or undertake further professional study. The largest number of industrial relations opportunities is in commerce and industry, although a significant number of openings exists in government agencies and the professions. Opportunities for college graduates in organized labor are more limited; however, positions usually are available for all graduates who desire to work for unions.

Students interested in careers in business and industry have a variety of opportunities available to them. They may be employed initially as personnel assistants, industrial relations trainees, or production trainees, and exposed to training programs of varying length; or, when previous preparation permits, they may be hired specifically to handle one or more personnel or industrial relations functions, such as employment, training, wage and salary administration, employee services and benefits, safety, labor relations, public relations, or research.

Graduates who choose to work for the state and federal governmental agencies may be employed in such positions as administrative assistants, personnel technicians, economists, technical aides, or research associates. These positions, for the most part, are filled through competitive civil service examinations designed for college seniors interested in entering government service. Some graduates also may be qualified for entering the foreign service (Department of State) or for noncivil service assignments with government-operated agencies such as the TVA and the Atomic Energy Commission.

Graduates interested in work in organized labor may anticipate employment in two principal areas of trade union activity. The first of these comprises work in the line structure of the union and usually entails a substantial period of service in a local union prior to the assumption of positions of responsibility. The other area comprises the technical staff functions such as research, public relations, and educational work, into which those who are qualified may move directly.

In addition to opportunities in business firms, trade unions, or governmental work, the graduate can find effective use for his training in public service agencies such as hospitals, in research organizations, in trade association and Chamber of Commerce work, municipal project administration, or in other allied areas.

Career opportunities are also available for those interested in teaching at either the secondary or college level. Preparation for secondary-level teaching entails completion of prescribed programs for meeting state certification and is planned in cooperation with advisers in the University Office of Teacher Preparation. Students interested in college teaching may use the elective credits available in the ILR curriculum to prepare for advanced work in any of the basic social sciences, including economics, government, history, psychology, or sociology. Similarly, students may prepare for the study of law or for advanced work in other specialized fields, such as business and public administration, following completion of the requirements for the Bachelor's degree.

The School, through its Office of Resident Instruction, offers placement assistance to graduates, alumni, and students seeking summer employment.

MILITARY TRAINING AT CORNELL

As a land grant institution chartered under the Morrill Act of 1862, Cornell has offered instruction in military science for more than ninety years. It provides this instruction through the Reserve Officers Training Corps programs of the three military departments, the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force.

The ROTC programs offer a male student the opportunity to earn a commission while he is completing his education, thus enabling him to fulfill his military commitment as an officer rather than through the draft, or to qualify himself for a career in the service of his choice. To obtain a commission in one of the armed services, a student must complete a two-year or a four-year course of study in a ROTC program and must meet certain physical standards. Upon graduation, he receives a commission and serves a required tour of active military service.

Participation in ROTC is voluntary. Interested students should, preferably, enroll in the fall of the freshman year since openings in the two-year program may be restricted, depending on conditions at that time.

Further information is given in the Announcement of Officer Education, which may be obtained by writing to the Announcements Office, Day Hall. Specific questions should be directed to the appropriate ROTC office in Barton Hall.

EXPENSES FOR UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS

Tuition

For undergraduate students who are, and have been for at least twelve months immediately prior to the first day of each term of the academic year, bona fide residents of the state of New York, tuition is $200 per term. For out-of-state students tuition is $300 per term.

Tuition and fees are payable within the first ten days of each term. Failure to meet this obligation automatically terminates a student's enrollment. In exceptional circumstances, the Treasurer may grant an extension of time for completion of payments. In such an instance, a fee of $5 is charged; but, upon reinstatement of a student who has been dropped for nonpayment, a fee of $10 is charged. For reasons judged adequate, the latter fee may be waived in any individual case.

Part of the tuition and fees will be refunded to a student who withdraws for reasons accepted as satisfactory within the first nine weeks of a term. No charge is made if the student withdraws within six days of the date of registration.

General Fee

A General Fee, $150 for New York State residents and $250 for out-of-state residents, is required at the beginning of each term and covers the following services:

1. HEALTH SERVICES AND MEDICAL CARE are centered in two Cornell facilities: the Gannett Medical Clinic (outpatient department) and the Sage Infirmary. Students are entitled to unlimited visits at the Clinic. Appointments with individual doctors at the Clinic may be made, if desired, by calling or coming in person; but an acutely ill student will be seen promptly whether he has an appointment or not. Students are also entitled to laboratory and x-ray examinations indicated for diagnosis and treatment; hospitalization in Sage Infirmary with medical care for a maximum of fourteen days each term, and emergency surgical care. On a voluntary basis, insurance is available to supplement the services provided by the General Fee. For further details, including charges for special services, see the Announcement of General Information. If, in the opinion of the University authorities, the student's health makes it unwise for him to remain in the University, he may be required to withdraw.

2. LABORATORY SERVICES for courses taken in the Statutory Colleges.

3. UNIVERSITY ADMINISTRATION AND SERVICES.

4. PHYSICAL RECREATION. The University's gymnasium and recreation facilities in Barton Hall, Teagle Hall, Lynah Hall, or Schoellkopf Memorial Building are available to every male student. Each woman student may use the facilities of Helen Newman Hall, the women's physical education and sports building.

5. WILLARD STRAIGHT HALL MEMBERSHIP. Willard Straight Hall, the student union of the University, provides social and recreational activities in which all students may participate.

6. STUDENT ACTIVITIES. Assistance is provided to various student activity programs through the student activities fund.

Additional Fees

An application fee of $15 must be paid at the time an application for admission is submitted.

A registration fee of $50 must be paid after the applicant has received notice of provisional acceptance. This fee covers matriculation charges and certain graduation expenses and establishes a fund for undergraduate and alumni class activities. The deposit is not refundable.

A deposit of $30 is required for a uniform, payable at registration in the first term by students who enroll in the basic course in Military Science. Most of this deposit is returned as earned uniform allowance upon completion of the basic course.

A matriculated student desiring to register after the close of registration day must first pay a $10 fee.

The amount, time, and manner of payment of tuition, fees, or other charges may be changed at any time without notice.

Supplies

Books and instructional supplies may cost from $40 to $75 a term.

Living Costs

Living costs cannot be stated with the same degree of certainty as regular University charges since they depend to a great extent upon the individual's standard of living. Recent estimates indicate that an all-inclusive budget, covering board, room, fees, books, laundry, and some allowance for clothing, travel, and incidentals is approximately $2,500 for single students who are residents of New York State and approximately $2,900 for nonresidents. More detailed information on costs can be obtained from the Cornell University Announcement of General Information, which is sent to all applicants for admission to undergraduate work.

A School committee with both faculty and student members.

FINANCIAL AID FOR UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS

Financial aid is provided by both the School and the University on the basis of academic achievement and need. Every effort is made by means of grants, loans, and work programs to enable promising students to undertake study at Cornell and to assist qualified students in residence to complete degree requirements.

A financial aid application is attached to each application for admission. It is to be completed (and left attached) by each candidate who wishes to be considered for financial assistance (scholarships, loans, jobs). In addition, a College Scholarship Service Parents' Confidential Statement (forms obtainable from secondary schools) should reach Cornell at about the same time as the application for admission and the application for financial aid. If a candidate applies for financial aid after January 15, he will be at a serious disadvantage because of the financial aid selection process.

New York State residents can obtain information about New York State awards (Scholar Incentive Program, Regents Scholarships, and loans) from their high school principals and/or guidance counselors or from the Regents Examination and Scholarship Center, New York State Education Department, Albany, New York 12224.

Students registered in the School should address their requests for further information about the School-administered financial aids listed below to the Office of Resident Instruction, Room 101, Ives Hall.

New York State Scholarships

New York State offers various types of financial assistance to qualified college students who are state residents. It is very important that students seeking such aid obtain full information and meet each application deadline promptly.

SCHOLAR INCENTIVE PROGRAM. Applications should be filed before July 1 for each academic year but will be accepted up to December 1. Applications for the spring semester only have an April 1 deadline. Annual application is required.

REGENTS COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS FOR UNDERGRADUATES. Candidates should seek directions from their high school principal and/or guidance counselor.

NEW YORK STATE GUARANTEED LOANS. Inquiry should be addressed to the New York Higher Education Assistance Corporation, 159 Delaware Avenue, Delmar, New York 12054, or to any local participating bank.

Freshman Scholarships

THE LOCAL 325 SCHOLARSHIP was established by the Cooks, Countermen, Soda Dispensers, Food Checkers, Cashiers and Assistants Union of Brooklyn and Queens (Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International Union, AFL-CIO) in 1958. It is open to qualified sons and daughters of members and to qualified members of Local 325. Tenure is for four years, with an award of $1,000 for the first year and $500 per year for three additional years for degree candidates.

THE ED. S. MILLER SCHOLARSHIP was established by the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International Union, AFL-CIO, in 1964. It is open to qualified members, or sons and daughters of members of the International Union. A four-year scholarship of $2,000 per year is awarded in alternate years to a candidate from the Union's Eastern Scholarship zone, consisting of all states lying east of the Mississippi River; in Canada, the Provinces lying east of the Manitoba; and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

THE FATHER WILLIAM J. KELLEY, O.M.I., SCHOLARSHIP was established by Local Union No. 3 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL, in 1949, in honor of Father William J. Kelley, O.M.I. A four-year scholarship of $1,200 per year is awarded annually on the basis of academic achievement and professional promise. Sons or daughters of members of Local Union No. 3 are eligible to apply.

THE MICHAEL J. QUILL SCHOLARSHIP was established by Local Union No. 100 of the Transport Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO, in 1964, in honor of Michael J. Quill. It is open to qualified sons or daughters of members of Local 100. Tenure is for four years with an award of $1,000 or $1,400 (depending on residency) for the first year and $600 or $1,000 per year for the remaining three years to completion of the Bachelor of Science degree requirements.

THE MARTIN T. LACEY MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP was established by the New York City Central Labor Council as a tribute to Martin T. Lacey, late president of the AFL Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York and Vicinity. It offers $3,000 in alternate years granted throughout a four-year period through completion of the B.S. degree, to a qualified son or daughter of a member of a local union affiliated with the New York City Central Labor Council.

THE UNITED TRANSPORTATION UNION SCHOLARSHIPS were established by the Trainmen's Scholarship Assistance, Inc., in 1968. They are open to qualified sons, daughters, or grandchildren of members of the Brotherhood or the Ladies Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Two four-year scholarships of $500 per year are awarded annually.

Grants-in-Aid

THE DANIEL ALPERN MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP FUND was established in 1946 by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alpern in memory of their son Daniel J. Alpern. It is supported by the Alpern Foundation and friends of the Alpern family. Varied grants, maximum $400 annually, are made on the basis of scholarship and need to undergraduate students who have completed at least one term in residence.

THE FRANK J. DOFT MEMORIAL FUND was established in 1948 by Elliot B. Doft '48 in memory of his brother, Frank J. Doft. Varied grants, maximum $400 annually, are made to undergraduate students who have completed at least one term in residence. Awards are made on the basis of scholarship and need, with preference given to the physically handicapped.

THE BARNETT P. GOLDSTEIN MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP is the gift of Morris Goldstein '26 in memory of Barnett P. Goldstein. Varied grants, maximum $100 annually, are made on the basis of scholarship and need to undergraduates who have completed at least one term in residence.

THE SIDNEY HILLMAN MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP was established by the Sidney Hillman Foundation in 1946 in memory of Sidney Hillman. Varied grants, maximum $400 a year, are made to undergraduate students who have completed at least one term in residence. Awards are made on the basis of (a) the student's interest in such matters as improved race relations, advancement of democratic trade unionism, greater world understanding, and related issues; (b) scholarship; and (c) need for assistance. Where the first two factors are of a high order, the third is controlling.

THE LOUIS HOLLANDER SCHOLARSHIP FUND was established in 1965 through the efforts of members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, AFL-CIO, in honor of Louis Hollander, who has long been active in union work and who has served as a Trustee of Cornell University representing labor. Varied grants, maximum $500 per year, are made to undergraduate students who have completed at least one term in residence. Awards are made on the basis of (a) scholastic standing, (b) high ideals of service to humanity, and (c) need for assistance. Preference is given to children of laboring and/or union-member families.

THE INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR RELATIONS SCHOLARSHIPS are open to undergraduates in the School who have completed at least one term in residence. Varied grants, maximum $400 annually, are awarded on the basis of scholarship and need.

THE INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR RELATIONS ALUMNI SCHOLARSHIP FUND is supported by alumni of the School. Varied grants, maximum $400 annually, are made to undergraduate or graduate students who have completed at least one term in residence. Awards are made on the basis of (a) scholarship, (b) need for assistance, (c) promise of making a contribution to the field of industrial and labor relations.

THE INTERNATIONAL STUDENT FUND was established in 1964 with the aid of collateral grants received from the Creole Foundation. It affords financial assistance on the basis of need and performance to foreign undergraduates, special students, or to other undergraduates with special interest in the field of international labor relations, who have completed at least one term in residence.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT TEXTBOOK FUND provides varying amounts, awarded on the basis of need, to foreign students for purchase of textbooks.

THE THEODORE S. LISBERGER MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP was established by the family and friends of the late Theodore S. Lisberger. Varied grants are made to graduates or undergraduates studying in the field of human relations on the basis of academic promise and performance or ability in research, and financial need. Preference is given to qualified candidates who have had work experience in industry.

THE MICHAEL J. QUILL GRANT FUND provides varying amounts, awarded on the basis of academic achievement and financial need, to students who have completed at least one term in residence, with preference for children of trade union families.

LAWRENCE A. DELUCIA GRANT FUND was established by an alumnus of the School and provides varying amounts to undergraduate members of minority groups in the School of Industrial and Labor Relations. The general criteria are academic excellence and financial need.

THE ROCHESTER PERSONNEL WOMEN'S SCHOLARSHIP provides financial assistance to qualified female students in the New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations. It offers a grant of $300, awarded on the basis of professional promise in the field of industrial and labor relations and the financial need of the candidate. Students must have completed one year in residence for eligibility.

THE JOHN F. WEGMAN FOUNDATION SCHOLARSHIP in Industrial and Labor Relations provides grant-in-aid to able and needy students who are candidates for the undergraduate degree in the School. The fund reflects the interest of the Wegman Foundation in promoting harmonious relations between industry and management in New York State and in offering encouragement and assistance to young people who plan to prepare themselves for careers in the field. Students must have completed one term in residence and will be selected in accordance with the following criteria: (a) need for financial assistance; (b) academic performance; (c) promise of making a contribution to the field of industrial and labor relations; (d) amount of individual awards dependent on student need and on the amount of contribution in any one year; (e) the recipient must be a resident of Monroe County.

Prizes

THE DANIEL ALPERN MEMORIAL PRIZE provides two awards of $100 each which are made each year to outstanding graduating seniors elected by the faculty on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and service to the School.

THE JAMES CAMPBELL MEMORIAL AWARD, established in 1963 in memory of the late Professor James Campbell, is a cash award presented annually to the senior who is judged outstanding for his qualities of character, academic excellence, and service to the School.

THE CORN PRODUCTS COMPANY SOPHOMORE PRIZE IN INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR RELATIONS, amounting to $200, is the gift of the Corn Products Company and is awarded annually at the beginning of the junior year to the student who has achieved the highest academic record in his class for the sophomore year.

THE FRANK J. DOFT MEMORIAL PRIZE, a cash award of $200, is presented to the student receiving the highest academic average in his class for studies in the freshman year.

THE IRVING M. IVES AWARDS were established in 1962 in memory of the late United States Senator Irving M. Ives, first Dean of the School of Industrial and Labor Relations. Cash awards of $100 each are made annually to the freshman, sophomore, and junior students who, at the end of the school year, have best demonstrated the qualities of good faith, integrity, responsibility, cooperativeness, and good will. A plaque is awarded to a graduating senior selected by the same criteria.

THE SAUL WALLEN PRIZE was established in 1968 by friends of Saul Wallen in recognition of his contributions to the field of arbitration and dispute settlement and is awarded annually to the upperclassman submitting the best essay on dispute settlement. The prize-winning essay is to be published by the American Arbitration Association in The Arbitration Journal and the winner will receive a check for $100.

Other Financial Aid

THE DANIEL ALPERN MEMORIAL INTERNSHIP provides an annual grant of varying amounts awarded on the basis of academic promise and need in order to encourage and enable qualified students to undertake summer employment with industry, government, labor, or an academic institution in a capacity which will significantly enrich preparation for a career in the field. Preference is given to students who have completed the junior year.

THE CLEM MILLER SCHOLARSHIP ENDOWMENT, established in memory of the late United States Representative Clem Miller, provides a grant of varying amounts to a student selected for his potential ability in elective political life. Interest in an elective political career is encouraged by supporting a recipient during a summer assignment in the office of a member of the United States Congress.

NONRESIDENT TUITION SCHOLARSHIPS (four each year) are open to students who are not residents of New York State. One of the purposes of these scholarships is to assist students from foreign countries; but when no qualified foreign students are available, the scholarships may be extended to other qualified out-of-state students. The annual award of $600 is applicable to tuition only. Need and academic achievement are considered, with preference for students who have completed at least one term in residence.

THE SOPHIE L. SEIDENBERG AND FELIX KAUFMANN MEMORIAL AWARDS IN AMERICAN IDEALS are given to the students who receive in the fall and spring terms respectively the highest scholastic ratings in the course, "Development of American Ideals." The awards consist of twenty-five dollar gifts of books on American democracy.

THE ELEANOR EMERSON INTERNSHIP IN LABOR EDUCATION was established in 1968 by colleagues and friends of Professor Emeritus Eleanor Emerson in recognition of her contributions to the field of labor education. It provides a stipend of $500 for a semester to an upperclassman (with preference for seniors) selected on the basis of his interest in labor education and his ability to work effectively in the field.

THE TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY SUMMER INTERNSHIP offers a student in the ILR School an opportunity to work in the personnel services branch of that organization. The work assignments, usually in Knoxville, Tennessee, may vary from year to year. Criteria for selection include academic achievement and interest in the labor relations/personnel problems of quasi-governmental organizations.

THE INTERNATIONAL LABOR ORGANIZATION JUNIOR INTERNSHIP offers a selected junior the opportunity to do research and to work on the professional staff of the I.L.O. in Geneva, Switzerland. The term of the internship is from June through August. Transportation from New York to London or Paris and return will be provided by the School. The student will receive a salary from the I.L.O. during his residence in Geneva. Selection by a faculty committee will be based on a consideration of the student's academic record and the strength of his research proposal. Other qualifications being equal or nearly equal, some weight will be given to knowledge of conversational French.

THE BUREAU OF NATIONAL AFFAIRS SUMMER INTERNSHIP offers a student who has an interest in journalism and labor relations the opportunity to work on BNA publications dealing with labor relations problems. The work will involve research, reporting, and writing. The criteria for selection are academic achievement and interest in the field. Selection is made by the BNA on the basis of the application form and the results of a brief personnel test.

UNDERGRADUATE HOUSING

Men

Cornell University provides on the campus dormitory facilities for about 2,200 men. Complete cafeteria and dining service is provided in Willard Straight Hall, Noyes Lodge, Agnes and Jansen Noyes Center, Martha Van Rensselaer Cafeteria, and Stocking Hall (Dairy Bar) Cafeteria.

Except as indicated below, all freshman men are required under University policy to live in University residence halls for two terms.

Transfer students are not required to live in University residence halls, but may make application.

The exceptions for freshman men are: (1) men 21 years of age or older; (2) men living with their parents or relatives; (3) married men.

Information on off-campus housing is provided below.

Women

The University provides dormitories for the housing of undergraduate and graduate women. These residence units are supplemented by sorority houses in areas close to the dormitories. All freshman women are required to live in University residence halls. Information on housing should be requested from the Office of the Dean of Students, Day Hall, and/or from the Department of Housing and Dining.

An application form for living accommodations for undergraduate women will be sent with the notice of provisional acceptance from the Office of Admissions to each candidate.

Graduate women should make application for University dormitory housing directly to the Department of Housing and Dining Services.

Married Students

The University maintains apartment accommodations for some of its married students and their families. These are Cornell Quarters, Pleasant Grove Apartments, and Hasbrouck Apartments, with total housing for about 420 families. All apartments are unfurnished. For further information and application, write the Department of Housing and Dining Services, Day Hall.

Off-Campus Housing

The University has the policy of requiring all students to live in housing which is approved by the University Student Housing Agency. Continuing registration at the University is contingent upon meeting this requirement.

To assist students, both married and single, to secure adequate housing, the University Student Housing Agency provides an inspection and information service. Information on properties which have University approval and approved housing currently available is posted for your convenience in the Off-Campus Housing Office in Day Hall, Room 223. Because changes of currently available apartments occur daily, it is not practical to prepare lists. If at all possible, a student should plan to visit Ithaca well in advance of residence to obtain suitable quarters.

UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

The requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Science include the successful completion of 120 prescribed and elective credit hours, ten weeks of work experience, and the physical education requirement of the University. Degree candidates normally spend eight terms of residence in the School, although exceptions to the residence requirement may be made for transfer students and, with special permission, for students including foreign studies in their programs. A cumulative average of at least C— is required to maintain good standing and to be eligible for graduation.

Work Experience Requirements

One of the requirements for the undergraduate degree is ten weeks of work experience. The purpose of the requirement is to provide students with an understanding of the viewpoints, problems, and procedures of management, labor, and government in the conduct of industrial and labor relations. The requirement may be met by ten weeks of summer employment following matriculation. The student is responsible for obtaining the appropriate work experience, but the School will counsel and aid the student in every way possible.

Physical Education

All undergraduates must take four terms of physical education. Ordinarily, this requirement must be completed in the first two years of residence; postponements are allowed only by consent of the University Faculty Committee on Requirements for Graduation.

The requirement in physical education is described in further detail in the Announcement of General Information. The courses offered are described in publications made available to students by the Department of Physical Education and Athletics.

Undergraduate Curriculum

Sixty of the 120 hours required for the degree of Bachelor of Science are taken up by required courses. Twenty-four hours are allotted for ILR advanced electives which must be selected from the offerings of the various departments of the School. The remaining thirty-six hours are general electives and may be taken either in the School or in other divisions of the University.

Selection of electives, both ILR and general, is made in accordance with the upperclassman's particular interests in special areas within the field of industrial and labor relations or in the component social sciences. Counselors and faculty advisers offer guidance in program planning.

REQUIRED COURSES

The outline of the curriculum below provides the course numbers and titles of required courses and indicates the sequence in which they should be taken. As indicated, the curriculum for the freshman year is made up entirely of required courses, and at least half of the sophomore program also comprises required courses.

RECOMMENDED OUT-OF-COLLEGE COURSES

GOVERNMENT. American Government (Government 101 in the College of Arts and Sciences, a prerequisite to most other courses offered by the Department of Government) is strongly recommended as an elective to all ILR undergraduates, preferably in the sophomore year.

MATHEMATICS. Students considering graduate work in any of the social sciences are strongly urged to take appropriate courses in mathematics, such as calculus (Mathematics 111–112 or Mathematics 107–108 in the College of Arts and Sciences).

ILR ADVANCED ELECTIVES

The twenty-four required ILR advanced elective credits must be selected from the upperclass or graduate offerings of the School. No more than six of these twenty-four hours may be satisfied by independent study, ILR 499.

GENERAL ELECTIVES

The thirty-six hours of general elective credit may be taken either in the School or in other divisions of the University. Undergraduates wishing to prepare for graduate work in one of the basic social sciences may use these hours to establish an informal minor in economics, government, history, psychology, or sociology. Others may choose to satisfy special interests in other disciplines such as the humanities or natural sciences. The normal allowance for electives in the endowed colleges is thirty-three credit hours. Students electing more than thirty-three hours in the endowed colleges will be billed for an additional tuition charge for each excess hour.

UNDERGRADUATE COURSES

All industrial and labor relations undergraduate courses, arranged by departmental area, and the required courses offered by other divisions of the University are described below. Qualified upperclass students may be admitted to graduate courses and seminars offered in the field of industrial and labor relations. A description of such graduate offerings begins on p. 65.

Students registered in other divisions of the University may elect courses specifically designed for non-ILR students (ILR 250, ILR 450), as well as other courses offered by the School. Students in other colleges interested in taking courses in this School should check prerequisites and enroll through the advisers in their colleges.

Required Courses Offered by Other Colleges of the University

FRESHMAN HUMANITIES (A&S*)

Credit three hours a term.

Freshman courses offered by various departments in the College of Arts and Sciences and concerned with (a) forms of writing (narrative, biographical, expository), (b) the study of specific areas in English or American literature, or (c) the relation of literature to culture. Conducted in small classes with limited enrollment.

MODERN ECONOMIC SOCIETY (Economics 101-A&S)

Credit three hours. Either term.

Centers on the determinants of aggregate economic activity. The main areas studied are the monetary and banking systems, the composition and fluctuations of national income, and the major conditions of economic growth, all as influenced by monetary, fiscal, and other policies.

MODERN ECONOMIC SOCIETY (Economics 102-A&S)

Credit three hours. Either term.

A survey of the existing economic order, with particular emphasis on the salient characteristics of the modern American economy. Concentration is on explaining and evaluating the operation of the price system as it regulates production, distribution, and consumption, and as it is in turn modified and influenced by private organization and government policy.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF HUMAN BEHAVIOR (Child Development and Family Relations 115-H.E.†)

Credit three hours. Fall term.

The aim is to contribute to the beginning student's knowledge and understanding of human beings through a study of their development from infancy to adulthood. Attention is focused on the role of biological factors, interpersonal relationships, social structure, and cultural values in changing behavior and shaping the individual. Special emphasis is given to the practical and social implications of existing knowledge.

* A&S: College of Arts and Sciences.

† H.E.: College of Human Ecology.

INTERGROUP RELATIONS: PREJUDICE, DISCRIMINATION, AND CONFLICT (Sociology 264—A&S)

Credit three hours. Spring term.

An evaluation of relations among ethnic, racial, and religious groups in terms of the social psychology of intergroup hostility and conflict and the position and role of these groups in the larger community. Prejudice and discrimination will be analyzed for their social, psychological, political, and economic causes and effects. Social and political movements based on intolerance and efforts to resolve intergroup conflict will be examined, with special attention to current developments resulting from the desegregation of public schools.

Collective Bargaining, Labor Law, and Labor Movements

Mr. Jensen, chairman; Mrs. Cook, Mrs. McKelvey, Messrs. Brooks, Cullen, Doherty, Donovan, Freilicher, Gross, Hanslowe, Kelly, Konvitz, Korman, Lipsky, Morris, Neufeld, Windmuller, Yaffe.

100. HISTORY OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES

Credit three hours. Spring term. Mrs. Cook, Mr. Brooks, Mr. Korman, Mr. Lipsky, Mr. Morris, or Mr. Neufeld.

A review of the development of industrial relations from colonial times to the present, with major emphasis on the last four decades. Aspects of the subject which will be explored include: the changing goals and structure of the organized labor movement, the rise of national unions, the evolution of personnel management, and the growing role of government. The major purpose is to provide an understanding of the forces which have influenced the growth, structure, and behavior of unions, management, and government, and to develop therefrom a critical view of current practice.

200. SPECIAL STUDIES IN THE HISTORY OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: Economics 101–102, ILR 100. Mr. Brooks, Mrs. Cook, Mr. Doherty, Mr. Gross, Mr. Korman, Mr. Morris, or Mr. Neufeld.

Several instructors will offer small undergraduate classes, each on a particular aspect of the history of industrial relations in the United States. Students will choose among classes which may vary from year to year and might include the following range of topics: industrial relations in the Age of Jackson, or the role of industry and organized labor in politics, or radicalism and dissent in the American labor movement, or the attitude of industry and organized labor toward technological advance, or the Negro worker and organized labor, or the role of immigrants in industry and unions, or the reaction of the mass production industries to the rise of the CIO.

201. LABOR RELATIONS LAW AND LEGISLATION

Credit three hours. Spring term. Mr. Freilicher or Mr. Hanslowe.

A survey of the law governing labor relations. The legal framework in which the collective bargaining relationship is established and in which the collective bargaining process takes place is analyzed. Problems of the administration and enforcement of collective agreements are considered, as are problems of protecting individual employee rights in the collective labor relation context. Also serves as an introduction to the legal system and method, and to legal and constitutional problems of governmental regulation of industrial and labor relations.

300. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mrs. McKelvey, Mr. Cullen, Mr. Gross, Mr. Jensen, or Mr. Lipsky.

A comprehensive study of collective bargaining: the negotiation and scope of contracts; the day-to-day administration of contracts; the major substantive issues in bargaining, including their implications for public policy; and the problem of dealing with industrial conflict.

301. LABOR UNION ADMINISTRATION

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Prerequisite: ILR 100 and ILR 200. Mrs. Cook, Mr. Brooks, or Mr. Neufeld.

A review of the operations of American unions, including a general theoretical framework, but with major emphasis on practical operating experience. The course will, among other subjects, cover: historical changes which have affected labor union administration; underlying structure and relationship among members, locals, and national organizations; the performance of the primary functions of organizing, negotiating, contract administration, administration of welfare programs, political action; roles of different levels of organization and staff including professionals; organizational or institutional purposes and objectives and how these are achieved.

302. CULTURAL AUTONOMY AND THE AMERICAN POLITICAL ECONOMY SINCE 1837

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisites: ILR 100 and ILR 200 or History 215-216. Mr. Korman.

An examination of the ways in which ethnic and racial groups have acquired political and economic power in northern cities.

400. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING: ISSUES AND PROBLEMS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: ILR 300. Mrs. McKelvey, Mr. Cullen, Mr. Gross, Mr. Jensen, or Mr. Lipsky.

An intensive study of the most significant current issues and problems facing employers and unions in their relations with each other, with particular emphasis being placed upon the substantive matters in contract negotiations and administration of the provisions of collective bargaining agreements.

401. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING STRUCTURES

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: ILR 300. Mr. Kelly.

An analysis of the impact of new and critical issues on the historical patterns, economics, and structure of collective bargaining. Collective bargaining preparation, policy, and procedures will be subjected to critical analysis, and public policy with respect to the structure of bargaining and the multi-employer bargaining process will be closely examined. Frequent papers will be required of all students. The course will be conducted on a seminar basis and enrollment limited accordingly.

The ILR Library, with a collection of over 90,000 books and 90,000 pamphlets, is available for student use on an open-stack basis.

402. CASE STUDIES IN LABOR UNION HISTORY AND ADMINISTRATION

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open to selected seniors and graduate students. Prerequisite: ILR 300 and 301. Mrs. Cook or Mr. Brooks.

A seminar concerned with the history and development of specific union problems or of individual unions at various administrative levels, with an analysis of their day-to-day operations and responsibilities. Students will investigate areas of particular interest to them for their research contribution to the seminar.

403. PROBLEMS IN UNION DEMOCRACY

Credit three hours. Spring term. Offered in odd-numbered years only. Prerequisite: ILR 300 and 301. Mrs. Cook, Mrs. McKelvey, or Mr. Neufeld.

Unions are considered as an example of private government, and union democracy is examined by standards and customary practices in both public and private governments. Included are such elements as elections, self-government by majority, rights of minorities, the judicial process including impartial review, local-national relationships, constituency and representation, the legislative process, executive power and functions. The regulation of private government by the state will be considered.

404. RESEARCH SEMINAR IN THE SOCIAL HISTORY OF AMERICAN WORKERS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open, with consent of instructor, to upperclassmen who have demonstrated their ability to undertake independent work. Mr. Korman.

The seminar will examine a different subject each year.

405. ARBITRATION

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: for undergraduates, ILR 300; for graduates, ILR 500. Mrs. McKelvey, Mr. Gross, Mr. Jensen, or Mr. Lipsky.

A study of the place and function of arbitration in the field of labor-management relations, including an analysis of principles and practices, the law of arbitration, the preparation and handling of materials in briefs or oral presentation, and the work of the arbitrator, umpire, or impartial chairman.

406. RESEARCH SEMINAR IN THE HISTORY, ADMINISTRATION, AND THEORIES OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open, with consent of the instructor, to upperclassmen who have demonstrated ability to undertake independent work. Mr. Korman, Mr. Morris, or Mr. Neufeld.

A seminar designed to explore the social, economic, and political background of industrial relations in the history of the United States. The seminar will examine a different subject each year.

408, 409. DEVELOPMENT OF AMERICAN IDEALS

Credit three hours each term. Fall and spring terms, respectively. Open to sophomores and upperclassmen. Mr. Konvitz.

A critical analysis of Western, particularly American, political, ethical, and social ideals—their meanings, origins, and development. In the fall semester: interests secured or pressing for recognition, such as freedom of religion, freedom of speech and press, freedom from discrimination, association, right of privacy. Relevant U.S. Supreme Court cases are read and discussed. In the spring semester: the religious, philosophical, and historical roots of basic Western ideals, such as individual dignity, justice, love, the higher law, the pluralistic society, democracy, freedom, equality. There will be readings from the Bible, Plato, Sophocles, the Stoic philosophers, Renaissance thinkers, Locke, Emerson, William James, and others.

499. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research, conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty, in a special area of labor relations not covered by regular course offerings. Registration normally limited to upperclassmen who have demonstrated ability to undertake independent work. Eligible students should consult with a counselor in the Office of Resident Instruction at the time of preregistration to arrange for formal submission of their projects for approval of the Undergraduate Program Committee.

Economic and Social Statistics

Mr. McCarthy, chairman; Messrs. Blumen, Evans, Francis.

210. STATISTICS I (Statistical Reasoning)

Credit three hours. Either term.

An introduction to the basic concepts of statistics: description of frequency distributions (averages, dispersion, and simple correlation) and introduction to statistical inference. Prerequisite to certain of the specialized courses on applications of statistics offered in various departments.

211. ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL STATISTICS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: ILR 210.

Application of statistical techniques to the quantitative aspects of the social sciences and of industrial and labor relations. Topics illustrative of the material to be covered are construction and use of index numbers, time series analysis, elements of the design of sample surveys, multiple regression and correlation, and a brief introduction to automatic data processing.

310. DESIGN OF SAMPLE SURVEYS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: one term of statistics.

Application of statistical methods to the sampling of human populations. A thorough treatment of the concepts and problems of sample design with respect to cost, procedures of estimation, and measurement of sampling error. Analysis of nonsampling errors and their effects on survey results (e.g., interviewer bias and response error). Illustrative materials will be drawn from the fields of market research, attitude and opinion research, and the like.

311. STATISTICS II

Credit four hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: Statistics 210 or permission of the instructor.

An intermediate nonmathematical statistics course emphasizing the concepts associated with statistical methods. Includes a treatment of estimation and tests of hypotheses with reasons for choice of various methods and models. Application to problems involving percentages, means, variances, and correlation coefficients with an introduction to nonparametric methods, analysis of variance, and multiple regression and correlation.

410. TECHNIQUES OF MULTIVARIATE ANALYSIS

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: ILR 311.

An advanced undergraduate and beginning graduate course emphasizing the techniques of multivariate statistical analysis, together with a discussion of underlying assumptions and illustrations of applications. There is no mathematical prerequisite, but some matrix algebra and related topics will be introduced. Techniques covered will include multiple regression and correlation, principal components, correlation between sets of variables, tests of hypotheses on sets of means and variances, multivariate analysis of variance, multivariate methods for ranked and qualitative variables, discrimination between populations, and applications of modern computing techniques in multivariate analysis.

411. STATISTICAL ANALYSIS OF QUALITATIVE DATA

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: ILR 311 and permission of the instructor.

An advanced undergraduate and beginning graduate course. Includes treatment of association between qualitative variates, paired comparisons, rank order methods, and other nonparametric statistical techniques, including those related to chi-squared.

499. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research, conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty, in a special area of labor relations not covered by regular course offerings. Registration normally limited to upperclassmen who have demonstrated ability to undertake independent work. Eligible students should consult with a counselor in the Office of Resident Instruction at the time of preregistration to arrange for formal submission of their projects for approval of the Undergraduate Program Committee.

Organizational Behavior

Mr. W. F. Whyte, acting chairman; Miss MacColl, Messrs. Aldrich, Brown, Gordon, Gruenfeld, Meyer, Rosen, Trice, Williams.

120, 121. SOCIETY, INDUSTRY, AND THE INDIVIDUAL

Throughout the year. Credit three hours a term. Department faculty.

The first part of ILR 120-121, a one-year sequence, deals with the relationship between industry and the economy as a whole to other social institutions in American society such as the family, the system of stratification, the political system, and American value systems. Comparisons with other societies are made. The second part deals with the nature of industrial organizations and of complex organizations in general, particularly the system of authority and of the division of labor, as well as such processes as goal setting, the system of rewards and punishments, etc.

ILR 121 deals with the relationship between the individual and the organization, and such basic psychological processes as need satisfaction, perception, attitude formation, and decision making. It describes and examines the individual as a formal and informal group member. Within this area, particular emphasis is placed on leadership, problem solving, and conflict resolution.

40 UNDERGRADUATES—COURSES

420. GROUP PROCESSES

Credit three hours. Fall term. Open to juniors and seniors. Mr. Brown or Mr. Gruenfeld.

Designed to increase the student's understanding of concrete social situations. Provides experiences in performance of group tasks, with readings, lecture, and discussion organized around this experience. Concepts drawn from the fields of social psychology are applied to the analysis of group processes.

421. EVALUATION OF SOCIAL ACTION PROGRAMS

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Trice.

A consideration of the principles and strategies involved in "evaluation research." The course first looks at objective research designs whose aim is to determine the extent to which change agents in fields such as training and therapy accomplish their goals. Second, it considers the adaptation of these strategies to larger social contexts, e.g., child guidance clinics, mental health clinics, and programs in the poverty areas such as Head Start. Finally, it considers the organizational circumstances most favorable to the introduction of program assessment and the organizational structures most amenable to the strategies of evaluation.

422. SOCIAL ORGANIZATION OF THE URBAN COMMUNITY

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Aldrich.

An examination of the social organization of the urban community, focusing on: ethnic and racial ghettos, the police and organized crime, business and industrial organizations, and political and educational organizations. The urban community will be treated as consisting of specialized activity systems, with a view toward studying the interrelation of the various systems. Special attention will be given to community conflict, e.g., civil disorder, community control of schools, and urban renewal.

424. INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF ATTITUDES

Credit three hours. Fall term. Open to juniors and seniors. Department faculty.

Designed to acquaint the student with what we know about (1) origins of human attitudes, (2) the determinants of attitude change, and (3) the measurement of attitude differences. Studies employing clinical, experimental, and survey techniques will be discussed. Each student will design, execute, and analyze a research study of his own.

425. ORGANIZATIONS AND DEVIANT BEHAVIOR

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open to juniors, seniors, and graduate students. Prerequisites: one or more courses in both sociology and psychology. Mr. Trice.

Focusing on the relationships between organizations and deviant behavior, the course covers (1) the nature and etiology of psychiatric disorders, particularly schizophrenia, the psychoneuroses, and psychosomatic disorders, (2) organizational factors related to these disorders and to the more general phenomena of role conflict and stress, (3) an examination of alcoholism as a sample pathology, in terms of personality characteristics and precipitating organizational factors, (4) evaluation of organizational responses to deviance, (5) the nature of self-help organizations such as Alcoholics Anonymous, (6) the structure and functioning of the mental hospital.

427. SOCIOLOGY OF OCCUPATIONS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open to juniors, seniors, and graduate students and to sophomores with permission of the instructor. Prerequisite: one or more courses in sociology or permission of the instructor. Mr. Trice.

Focuses on (1) the changing character of American occupations within the context of social change—specialization and bureaucratization, (2) occupational status—differences in income, prestige, and power and the resultant general phenomenon of social stratification, (3) vertical and horizontal occupational mobility, (4) recruitment and socialization into occupational roles, (5) the process of professionalization, (6) comparison of personnel occupations with the career and organizational patterns of other occupations, (7) a close examination of the nature and correlates of chronic unemployment as a means of demonstrating the functions of occupational roles for both individuals and society.

429. COOPERATION, COMPETITION, AND CONFLICT RESOLUTION

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: One course in social psychology and consent of the instructor. Mr. Brown.

An examination of theory and empirical evidence relating to the resolution of interperson, intergroup, and international conflict. Specific attention will be devoted to studying factors which contribute to the development of cooperative or competitive bonds between parties to a conflict. The following topics will be studied: the availability and use of threat; the credibility, intensity, and costs of threat; fractionating and escalating conflict, etc. Personality and situational factors which regulate conflict intensification will be stressed.

499. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research, conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty, in a special area of labor relations not covered by regular course offerings. Registration normally limited to upperclassmen who have demonstrated ability to undertake independent work. Eligible students should consult with a counselor in the Office of Resident Instruction at the time of preregistration to arrange for formal submission of their projects for approval of the Undergraduate Program Committee.

International and Comparative Labor Relations

Mr. Galenson, chairman; Messrs. Clark, Morris, Niland, Windmuller.

430. COMPARATIVE INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS SYSTEMS I

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite for non-ILR students: ILR 250 or consent of the instructor. Mr. Galenson or Mr. Windmuller.

An introductory course concerned with the history, structure, institutional arrangements, and philosophy of the labor relations systems of several countries in advanced stages of industrialization. Countries to be examined include Great Britain, France, Germany, Sweden, the Soviet Union, and others.

431. COMPARATIVE INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS SYSTEMS II

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite for non-ILR students: ILR 250 or consent of the instructor. Mr. Galenson or Mr. Windmuller.

A comparative review of systems of labor relations of countries in early and intermediate stages of economic development. Surveys the development of industrial labor forces, the evolution and functions of labor organizations, the role of government in industrial relations, and the emergence of different patterns of labor-management relations. Also covers the history of individual labor relations systems in selected countries of Asia, Africa, the Middle East, and the Western Hemisphere.

533. INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN LATIN AMERICA

Credit three hours. Spring term. Seniors with consent of the instructor. Mr. Morris.

A broad survey of industrial and labor relations in Latin America in their geographic, political, economic, and social settings. A framework for analysis of industrial relations systems in developing societies is presented and applied to the Latin American area. This is followed by discussion of labor codes, organized labor and political parties, management, and labor-management relations. The labor movements and industrial relations systems of five or six of the Latin American republics are then presented as case studies. Comparisons are made with United States experience whenever possible. Finally, the history and present status of hemisphere labor movements are presented and special comment is made on the role of United States labor in these movements.

536. ECONOMIC CHANGE AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN ASIA

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Niland.

An examination of the labor movements and systems of industrial relations in Asia. The course is set within a comparative framework that emphasizes the impact of economic development on labor and industrial relationships. Substantial attention will be given to the emergence of industrial labor markets and their institutions, manpower regulation and rationalization, and labor-management relations. The role of government and public intervention in shaping the systems within which labor and management function are also given attention. Comparisons are drawn where possible with relevant aspects of American experience and with that of other countries at advanced stages of development. Countries to be examined include India, Japan, the Philippines, Malaysia, and within the comparative context the United States, Great Britain, and Australia.

499. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research, conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty, in a special area of labor relations not covered by regular course offerings. Registration normally limited to upperclassmen who have demonstrated ability to undertake independent work. Eligible students should consult with a counselor in the Office of Resident Instruction at the time of preregistration to arrange for formal submission of their projects for approval of the Undergraduate Program Committee.

Labor Economics and Income Security

Mr. Raimon, chairman; Messrs. Aronson, Clark, Ferguson, Galenson, Hildebrand, MacIntyre, Perl, Slavick, Stoikov.

140. DEVELOPMENT OF ECONOMIC INSTITUTIONS

Credit three hours. Fall term. Enrollment limited. Lecture, T Th 9:05, Recitations, Th 10:10 or F 9:05, 10:10, or 12:20. Visiting Professor.

Designed to give the student an understanding of the historical development of our economic institutions and the nature of the problems incident to economic change and development as part of the background for understanding and analysis of important present-day issues. Attention is focused on the agricultural, commercial, and industrial revolutions, tracing their development from their beginnings in Western Europe to the present.

241. ECONOMICS OF WAGES AND EMPLOYMENT

Credit three hours. Fall and spring term. Prerequisite: Economics 101-102 or equivalent. Fall term: M W F 11:15, Mr. Raimon. Spring term: M W F 10:10, Mr. Aronson; M W F 10:10, Mr. Raimon; M W F 11:15, Mr. Perl; M W F 2:30, Mr. Perl.

An introduction to the characteristics of the labor market and to analysis of wage and employment problems. Among topics studied are the composition of the labor force, job-seeking and employment practices, methods of wage determinations, theories of wages and employment, economic effects of unions, the nature and causes of unemployment, and programs to combat joblessness and poverty.

340. ECONOMIC SECURITY

Credit three hours. Fall term. Lecture A, T Th 11:15, Recitations, F 11:15 or 12:20, Mr. Slavick. Lecture B, T Th 10:10, Recitations, Th 2:30 or 3:35 or F 8 or 9:05, Mr. MacIntyre.

A study of the philosophy, history, and economic and social effects of social security and minimum wage legislation. Programs offering protection against economic loss due to industrial accident, temporary and permanent disability, illness, old age, premature death, and unemployment. Critical examination of proposals for modifying social security and minimum wage legislation. Private and voluntary efforts to provide security, and the problems of integrating public and private programs. Comparative analysis of foreign security systems.

341. PROTECTIVE LABOR LEGISLATION

Credit three hours. Spring term. M W F 12:20. Mr. Slavick.

A survey of the nature of the problems and the basis for state and federal legislation in fields such as discrimination in employment, migratory labor, industrial health and safety, minimum wages and maximum hours, and child labor. Special attention is given to the problem of maintaining a proper balance between the efforts of industry, organized labor, and government in the development of labor standards. Proposals for amending existing legislation will be discussed.

441. INCOME DISTRIBUTION

Credit three hours. Fall term. T Th 1:25. Open to upperclassmen and graduate students. Mr. Ferguson.

A study of the sources and distribution of personal income in the United States. The influence of economic change on employee earnings, the size and distribution of family incomes, and the problems of poverty are particular topics of analysis.

[445. COMPARATIVE ECONOMIC SYSTEMS: SOVIET RUSSIA]

Credit four hours. Spring term. M W F 9:05. Mr. Clark.

A comparative analysis of the principles, structure, and performance of the economy of Soviet Russia. Special attention will be devoted to industry and labor.

44 UNDERGRADUATES—COURSES

447. SEMINAR IN LABOR ECONOMICS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open, with permission of the instructor, to juniors and seniors who have completed ILR 241 or equivalent. Th 2-4:25. Mr. Raimon.

The purpose of this seminar is to aid the student in improving his creative abilities in the areas of research. Papers may be written on any topic in labor economics and income security. Students typically will prepare three major papers during the term.

448. ECONOMICS OF COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open only to seniors. Enrollment limited. T Th 3. Mr. Ferguson.

The economic aspects of collective bargaining, including management and union goals in contract negotiation, elements in bargaining strategy, the nature of bargaining power, and the use of economic criteria in deciding terms of employment.

449. HEALTH, WELFARE, AND PENSION PLANS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open to seniors, graduate students, and to juniors by permission of the instructor. M W F 11:15. Mr. MacIntyre.

An analysis and appraisal of private health, welfare, and pension plans. A consideration of the origin and development of employer, union, and joint programs; and a critical examination of the financing, administration, and general effectiveness of the plans.

499. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research, conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty, in a special area of labor relations not covered by regular course offerings. Registration limited to upperclassmen who have demonstrated ability to undertake independent work. Eligible students should consult with a counselor in the Office of Resident Instruction at the time of preregistration to arrange for formal submission of their projects for approval of the Undergraduate Program Committee.

Manpower Studies

Mr. F. Miller, chairman; Messrs. Campbell, Foltman, Frank, Hodges, Niland, Risley, Stoikov, Wasmuth, Wolf.

360. MANPOWER AND ORGANIZATION MANAGEMENT

Credit three hours. Spring term. Department faculty.

Study and analysis of public and private policies and programs for forecasting, planning, recruiting, selecting, developing, utilizing, upgrading, rehabilitating, and evaluating manpower resources at the individual organizational (micro) level and at societal (macro) levels. A multidisciplinary approach is used in an analysis of theory, policy, and programs. At the public level this subject matter involves identification and measurement of human talent; education, training, and development of the work force; manpower planning; manpower information and standards; motivation and morale factors; mobility; distribution of manpower; rehabilitation and other manpower problems. At the organizational level this subject involves organizational analysis, planning, and reorganization; manpower forecasting and

363. TECHNIQUES AND THEORIES OF TRAINING IN ORGANIZATIONS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Mr. Foltman or Mr. Frank.

Deals with the methods used, formally and informally, by organizations for training personnel at all levels. These methods will be compared with relevant psychological formulations of the problems of learning. The place of practice, understanding, and motivation in the acquisition of motor and other skills; the use of the case and incident method; learning techniques in a group setting (discussion and role playing); learning during performance appraisals; learning as a result of identification. Various teaching methods will be practiced.

364. COMMUNICATION IN ORGANIZATIONS

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Frank.

A course devoted primarily to the study and analysis of the major concepts and research done in communication theory. Although primary emphasis will be devoted to an examination of the process of communication, analysis of communication breakdown within organizations will also be a major concern. The basis for this analysis will be structured on a consideration of communication models, diffusion process, meaning and language, organizational communication, channels and networks, technical language systems, learning, persuasion, and attitude change.

461. ADMINISTRATION OF COMPENSATION

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open to juniors, seniors, and graduate students. Prerequisite: ILR 360 or equivalent. Department faculty.

The development and administration of wage and salary programs with major emphasis on internal consideration. Subjects include program principles, objectives, and policies; organization of the function; and procedures to implement policies. Topics include job and position analysis; preparation of description-specifications; job evaluation; incentive applications; wage and salary structures; the use of wage surveys; supplemental payments, including premium pay, bonuses, commissions, and deferred compensation plans; and the use of automatic increment provisions. Case studies and assigned projects will cover selected programs.

462. INDUSTRY AND LABOR IN THE INDUSTRIAL COMMUNITY

Credit three hours. Spring term. Mr. Campbell or Mr. Hodges.

A study of problems of industrial cities. Through the use of case studies the course will focus on the actions of locally operating companies and local unions which contribute both to the rise of those problems and their solutions. Consideration will be given to the processes of change in communities and the media of social conservation; local government as the object and subject of influence, community communications during industrial conflict; promotion of community projects as urban renewal, industrial development, and equal opportunities for minorities; the impact of management and union decisions and attitudes on such matters as pollution control and abatement, plant location and removal, and employee recruitment, selection, and development.

463. DESIGN AND ADMINISTRATION OF TRAINING PROGRAMS

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Foltman.

An analysis and exploration of the training and retraining function as applied in business, government, and industrial organizations. Consideration is given to the conceptual framework in which learning activities are developed at the workplace at all levels. Included are various teaching methods such as vestibule schools, on-the-job training, conference discussion, role playing, programmed instruction, sensitivity training, and the utilization of audio-visual materials. Consideration is given to managerial, supervisory, and manual skills. Particular emphasis is placed on integrating public and private efforts for training and development.

465. FIELD STUDIES IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF MANAGEMENT TRAINING PROGRAMS

Credit three hours. Fall term. Open to upperclassmen by permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to eight students. Mr. Frank.

Will provide direct field experience and diagnosis of managerial training needs within four different organizations and will involve the design and construction of actual training programs. Each student will conduct interviews, observe work activity, study past training activity, and attempt to gain a general understanding of the basic operation of the particular organization to which he is assigned. He will then develop a detailed proposal for subsequent training activity within the organization, including development of materials to be used as well as the basic format for the training sessions. Class and reading assignments will be in the field of industrial training and adult education, with individual assignments contingent on the varying organizational assignments.

466. VALUES AND ETHICS IN BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Campbell.

An analysis of the values and ethical concerns which affect the management of business and industry. Attention will be given to (1) the role of values in the development of business and other economic institutions with special concern for the institution of collective bargaining, (2) value assumptions in theories and concepts of management and organizational behavior, (3) values and the personal development of workers and managers, (4) social responsibilities of the business manager. Readings will range from philosophical works to case studies and public statements by business executives and labor leaders. Among the values to be considered are such concepts as freedom, efficiency, competition, the value of work, loyalty, responsibility, progress and innovation, the individualistic and socialistic ethics, full employment, property rights, and centralism vs. decentralism.

499. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research, conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty, in a special area of labor relations not covered by regular course offerings. Registration normally limited to upperclassmen who have demonstrated ability to undertake independent work. Eligible students should consult with a counselor in the Office of Resident Instruction at the time of preregistration to arrange for formal submission of their projects for approval of the Undergraduate Program Committee.

Instruction of General Interest to Non-ILR Students

250. SURVEY OF INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR RELATIONS

Credit three hours. Either term. Fall term: M W F 11:15, Mr. MacIntyre. Spring term: Section A, M W F 9:05, Mr. MacIntyre; Section B, M W F 11:15, Mr. Doherty.

A survey for students in other divisions of the University. An analysis of the major problems in industrial and labor relations; labor union history, organization, and operation; labor market analysis and employment practices; industrial and labor legislation and social security; personnel management and human relations in industry; collective bargaining; mediation and arbitration; the rights and responsibilities of employers and employees; the major governmental agencies concerned with industrial and labor relations.

408, 409. DEVELOPMENT OF AMERICAN IDEALS

Credit three hours each term. Fall and spring terms, respectively. Open to sophomores and upperclassmen. Mr. Konvitz.

A critical analysis of Western, particularly American, political, ethical, and social ideas—their meanings, origins, and development. In the fall semester: interests secured or pressing for recognition, such as freedom of religion, freedom of speech and press, freedom from discrimination, association, and right of privacy. Relevant U.S. Supreme Court cases are read and discussed. In the spring semester: the religious, philosophical, and historical roots of basic Western ideals, such as individual dignity, justice, love, the higher law, the pluralistic society, democracy, freedom, and equality. There will be readings from the Bible, Plato, Sophocles, the Stoic philosophers, Renaissance thinkers, Locke, Emerson, William James, and others.

450. PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION IN SUPERVISION

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Open only to non-ILR students. Faculty of Organizational Behavior Department.

A review of the personnel function in business and industry with emphasis on the personnel responsibilities of the line supervisor. The course is closely linked to evidence developed by behavioral sciences research. Topics for discussion will include organization theory, leadership, organization structure and change, group influences on individuals, employee motivation, and other human problems of management. Specific personnel administration functions and practices, as they are related to these problems, also will be included, e.g., selecting, inducting, training, rating, and compensating employees; and developing techniques for interviewing, adjusting complaints and grievances, and aiding in the solution of employee and supervisory problems. Selected readings, case studies, discussions, and projects.

THE GRADUATE PROGRAM

ORGANIZATION OF GRADUATE WORK

Through the Graduate School of Cornell University, the School of Industrial and Labor Relations offers an opportunity to study for the degree of Master of Industrial and Labor Relations (M.I.L.R.), Master of Science (M.S.), and Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.). Candidates for the M.I.L.R. degree study under the direction of an assigned faculty adviser. M.S. and Ph.D. candidates study under the direction of a Special Committee of their own choosing. M.S. and Ph.D. students, however, may request assignment of a faculty adviser for their first term in residence.

The four-semester program for the M.I.L.R. degree is designed to provide general coverage of the field of industrial and labor relations. It is particularly suitable for students having little prior course work in the field who intend to prepare for professional work in business, government, labor organizations, or other institutions. Students who have already developed a specific interest and whose academic background is adequate for concentrated work may improve their knowledge through the M.S. program which provides for specialized work in a major and minor subject and requires the preparation of a thesis. Work leading to the Ph.D. degree is designed to give the candidate an opportunity to become particularly competent in his chosen major and minor subjects and to acquire proficiency in the methods of research and scholarship of the field.

In cooperation with the School of Education, the School of Industrial and Labor Relations offers opportunities for work toward the degrees of Master of Education (M.Ed.) and Doctor of Education (Ed.D.). Candidates for these degrees take their major work in the area of development of human resources. The Announcement of the School of Education provides additional information concerning these two degrees.

Applicants for any of the degrees described above may occasionally be recommended for admission as provisional candidates. Provisional candidacy is appropriate where it is initially difficult to appraise the qualifications for candidacy but where there is promise of ability to complete the program successfully. For the terms under which applicants may be admitted to provisional candidacy, consult the Announcement of the Graduate School: Social Sciences.

When staff and facilities are available, a limited number of persons may be admitted as noncandidates for a period of not more than two terms of residence. Noncandidate status is designed for those who wish to supplement academic or work experience with advanced training. Admission of noncandidates depends in each case on the merits of the applicant's proposed program of study and evidence of his ability to benefit from it.

Detailed requirements for the degrees of Master of Science and Ph.D. are described in the Announcement of the Graduate School: Social Sciences. Certain of the general requirements for these degrees are described below. The School of Industrial and Labor Relations, with the approval of the Graduate School, administers the program leading to the M.I.L.R. degree. Requirements of this program are described on pp. 59-60.

ADMISSION OF GRADUATE STUDENTS

Admission to graduate standing is determined by the Graduate School. Candidates for advanced degrees in the field of industrial and labor relations will be recommended to the Graduate School for admission in terms of the following criteria:

1. The Nature of Previous Academic Preparation

- (A) The Master's degrees. Candidacy for the Master's degrees is normally open to students who have had preparation in one or more of the social sciences at the undergraduate level such as to permit effective concentration at the graduate level. Students whose prior exposure to the social sciences has been limited may be obliged to undertake some preparatory study before beginning advanced work in industrial and labor relations.
- (B) The Ph.D. degree. The applicant should have had previous academic training in the social sciences with emphasis in one or more of the following fields: anthropology, economics, government, history, industrial relations, education, labor problems, personnel management, psychology, sociology, statistics. Candidates are normally accepted for the doctoral program only if they have completed a Master's program or its equivalent in postgraduate work. Applicants who have exceptional academic qualifications and are able to present evidence of outstanding research ability may apply for direct admission to doctoral study.

- (C) The Master of Education or Doctor of Education degree with concentration in development of human resources: The applicant normally should have a background of work experience and education in training people either for initial industrial employment or for their subsequent career development in industry.

2. The Capacity for Graduate Study

High quality of preparation is essential for admission to graduate study. Submission of the results of the aptitude test of the Graduate Record Examination is required. Similar tests, e.g., the Graduate Study in Business Test, the Law Aptitude Test, may not be substituted. Information concerning times and places of the Graduate Record Examination may be obtained by writing to the Educational Testing Service, Box 955, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. Applicants should ensure that the Graduate Record Examination is completed well in advance of the application period since results are not available for at least a month after completion of the test. For either fall or spring admission applicants, the test given in the preceding fall is strongly recommended. Applicants who wish to compete for fellowship or scholarship awards should complete these tests before October 1.

Applicants whose first language is one other than English are not required to take the Graduate Record Examination. They are required, however, to submit results of the Test of English as a Foreign Language, administered by the Educational Testing Service, or the Michigan English Language Test by arrangement with the English Language Institute, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan. (See the Announcement of the Graduate School: Social Sciences.)

3. Work Experience

Practical experience with labor, management, and government agencies dealing with industrial and labor relations, or experience in industrial teaching or administration, is desirable.

4. Interviews

In certain instances, it may be necessary to interview applicants for graduate study prior to completing action on their admission. In such cases, applicants are interviewed in Ithaca (and occasionally elsewhere) by members of the Graduate Committee of the School and by other faculty members representing subjects in which the candidate proposes to study.

APPLICANTS FOR ADMISSION to graduate study should be in the office of the Dean of the Graduate School by January 15 for September admission and by November 1 for February admission.

SPECIAL INFORMATION FOR GRADUATE STUDENTS

Graduate students should see the Announcement of the Graduate School: Social Sciences for information on health requirements on entrance, health services provided by the University, and opportunities for graduate students interested in advanced courses in military science.

Graduate Housing

University dormitory housing is available to single graduate students upon application to the Department of Housing and Dining Services, Day Hall. Married graduate students may apply to the Department of Housing and Dining Services for University-operated housing. Applications for all University housing should be made as soon as possible after January 1 for all fall matriculants; after October 1 for spring matriculants. Detailed information concerning University housing may be obtained by writing to the Department of Housing and Dining Services.

Sage Hall, the graduate center, provides dormitory housing for approximately 200 men and women. Situated in the center of the campus, it is convenient to all colleges. There is a cafeteria in the building. Cascadilla Hall accommodates approximately 160 graduate men and women. It is conveniently located just inside the southwest entrance to the campus.

Off-Campus Housing

The University has the policy of requiring all students to live in housing which is approved by the University Student Housing Agency. Continuing registration at the University is contingent upon meeting this requirement.

To assist students, both married and single, to secure adequate housing, the University Student Housing Agency provides an inspection and information service. Information on properties which have University approval and approved housing currently available is posted for your convenience in the Off-Campus Housing Office in Day Hall, Room 223. Because changes of currently available apartments occur daily, it is not practical to prepare lists. If at all possible, a student should plan to visit Ithaca well in advance of residence to obtain suitable quarters.

Expenses for Graduate Students

TUITION AND FEES

Tuition for graduate students whose major field of study is industrial and labor relations (a state-supported division of the University) is $200 per term. A University General Fee of $287.50 per term is required of each graduate student. Tuition and fees are payable within the first ten days of each term.

A description of other fees, of rules for vehicle registration, parking, and payments and refunds is included in the Announcement of the Graduate School: Social Sciences.

The amount, time, and manner of payment of tuition, fees, or other charges may be changed at any time without notice.

LIVING COSTS

Living costs cannot be stated with the same degree of certainty as regular University charges since they depend to a great extent upon the individual's standard of living. Recent estimates indicate that single students spend from $220 to $275 a term for room; $350 to $400 a term for board. Laundry and cleaning, done in Ithaca, may require $50 to $60 a term. Books and other supplies will cost about $60 a term. Additional allowance must be made for clothing, travel, and incidentals. Married students, of course, should expect proportionately larger expenses.

FINANCIAL AID FOR GRADUATE STUDENTS

Graduate Assistantships

The position of graduate assistant in the School of Industrial and Labor Relations is designed to provide the School with qualified personnel for various types of work of importance to the School and at the same time to provide financial assistance for outstanding graduate students. The graduate assistantship requires services in connection with such academic activities as instruction, research, extension programs, and the library. During the academic year 1969-70 it is expected that the normal weekly work assignment will correspond to fifteen hours.

Appointment to a graduate assistantship may be made for an academic term or for an academic year. During 1969-70 it is expected that the assistantship stipend will amount to $332.75 for doctoral candidates having completed four terms of graduate study and $297.75 for all others.

The assistantship provides a full tuition waiver in the Graduate School and may also provide for a waiver of fees. A limited number of assistantships are normally available during the summer months; these appointments do not provide for a waiver of tuition in the University Summer Session.

Applications for graduate assistantships to begin September 1970 should be received not later than February 1, 1970; and for February 1971, not later than November 1, 1970. Announcements of September appointments will be made on or after April 1, 1970. Applicants for admission to graduate study in industrial and labor relations who are interested in applying for graduate assistantships should write to the Office of the Graduate Field Representative, Room 101, Ives Hall, New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations.

Scholarships and Fellowships

The School of Industrial and Labor Relations presently has available the following fellowships and scholarships:

INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR RELATIONS GRADUATE FELLOWSHIP. Provides a stipend of $2,500 annually plus tuition and fees. It is the intention of the fellowship to attract persons with superior qualifications for advanced study in the field of industrial and labor relations. The fellowship will normally be awarded to a candidate undertaking Ph.D. work following completion of a Master's degree but may be awarded to one beginning work at the Master's level. Selection of the fellowship winner will be made by the Graduate Committee of the School of Industrial and Labor Relations.

KENNECOTT COPPER CORPORATION FELLOWSHIP IN INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS. Established by the Kennecott Copper Corporation for graduate students studying for an advanced degree in industrial relations. The program provides a stipend of $2,500 a year to the Fellow, with an additional grant to the School from which the bulk of tuition and fees will be defrayed. While the award is made without any obligation on the part of the corporation or the recipient, the donors hope that a good percentage of the highly promising students holding this fellowship will become acquainted with, and interested in, working for the corporation.

FRANCES L. PERKINS MEMORIAL FELLOWSHIP IN INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR RELATIONS. Established in honor of former U.S. Secretary of Labor Perkins by the Telluride Foundation and the School of Industrial and Labor Relations. The fellowship provides financial support for graduate study leading to a career as teacher and scholar, practitioner, or consultant in industrial relations. It is the intention of the fellowship to attract applicants with a background in the social or behavioral sciences and outstanding academic credentials, dedication to civic and social service, and keen interest in graduate study in such subject-matter areas as labor economics, industrial sociology or psychology, economic and social statistics, collective bargaining, arbitration, history of labor movements, and theories of industrial relations. The Telluride Foundation provides a "living scholarship" which includes free room and board for fellowship holders only at the Cornell Telluride House. The School of Industrial and Labor Relations provides tuition, fees, and a stipend of $2,500 for the year.

THEODORE S. LISBERGER MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP. Provides modest grants in varying amounts to graduates or undergraduates studying in the field of human relations. Awards are based on the applicant's promise of exceptional academic performance or ability in research, and vary in amount according to estimated financial need. Preference is given to qualified candidates who have had work experience in industry.

OWEN D. YOUNG FELLOWSHIP. Established by the General Electric Company for graduate students concentrating their studies in the area of organizational behavior. Usually awarded to assist students with exceptional promise or ability in research in the preparation of their theses or dissertations. The award includes a stipend of about $2,500 a year and an additional sum to meet tuition and fees. The donor hopes that the topic of the applicant's research will relate to management problems, but this is not a restriction on application.

TUITION SCHOLARSHIPS. The School has available four tuition scholarships normally awarded to students from foreign countries. The awards are for tuition only and do not include the Cornell University General Fee.

The Graduate School of Cornell University has a number of general scholarships and fellowships for which candidates in the Field of Industrial and Labor Relations may be considered. All fellowship and scholarship awards are made as tax-exempt gifts, and normally include waiver of tuition and fees. Applicants are strongly urged to compete for outside fellowships as well as Cornell fellowships.

For further details concerning scholarships and fellowships, applicants are referred to the Announcement of the Graduate School: Social Sciences. Application forms may be obtained from the Office of the Graduate School, Sage Graduate Center. Fellowship applicants are advised that their applications, including all supporting letters and documents, should be submitted no later than February 1.

Information on New York State Awards (Scholar Incentive Plan and Regents College Teaching Fellowships) may be obtained by writing to the Regents Examination and Scholarship Center, New York State Education Department, Albany, New York 12224.

GRADUATE DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

Residence

Residence is calculated in terms of residence units: one residence unit corresponds to one regular academic term of full-time study satisfactorily completed.

A minimum of two units of residence for a Master's degree and six units of residence for a Ph.D. degree has been established by the Graduate School. For the Master of Industrial and Labor Relations four terms of study are required.

Candidates in the Field of Industrial and Labor Relations normally do not earn residence credit during the Summer Session because of the limited program offered in that period. More than the minimum period of residence may be required for any of the graduate degrees, depending on the adequacy of prior preparation, academic performance, and other conditioning factors. This is particularly likely in the case of graduate students whose native language is not English.

Academic Programs

MASTER OF INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR RELATIONS

A candidate for the degree of M.I.L.R. follows a program of study designed to fulfill the requirements outlined below. In planning the program of study to meet the requirements, the candidate is aided by his faculty adviser and may arrange his program to permit flexibility in the sequence of courses and seminars. Four terms of study in residence and the completion of fourteen courses or seminars are required. In addition to the formal requirements, candidates will in many instances want to spend time on special reading or informal study and will be encouraged to do so with appropriate relation to interest, prior preparation, and objectives.

Requirement A

Candidates are required to complete nine basic courses as follows:

ILR 500 Collective Bargaining I

ILR 502 Labor Relations Law and Legislation

ILR 505 Labor Union History and Administration

ILR 510 Economic and Social Statistics

ILR 520–521 Organizational Behavior I and II, plus one course in Personnel Administration

ILR 540 Labor Economics

ILR 544 Social Security and Protective Labor Legislation

Candidates may request exemption from a basic course by demonstrating competence satisfactory to the department concerned. If exemption is granted, the student should select other courses or seminars in consultation with his adviser to complete this portion of the M.I.L.R. requirement.

Requirement B

A candidate will be required, in addition, to complete satisfactorily five seminars or courses, either from within the School or elsewhere in the University, as determined in consultation with his faculty adviser.

MASTER OF SCIENCE

A candidate for the Master of Science (M.S.) degree works under the direction of a Special Committee composed of two members of the faculty. For the degree of M.S., selection of the major subject is made from the list given below. The minor subject may be selected either from this list or from other subjects in the University approved by the Graduate School for major or minor study. The specific program to be taken by a candidate will be arranged with the approval of the candidate's Special Committee. The Special Committee may, for example, require the candidate to display competence in a foreign language if the minor subject is International and Comparative Labor Relations. In addition to courses and seminars available in this School, candidates may select offerings from other divisions of the University. The candidate must also complete an acceptable thesis. The thesis is ordinarily written in the candidate's major field under the direction of the chairman of his Special Committee.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

A student in the Ph.D. program works under the direction of a Special Committee of three members of the faculty. This Special Committee, in consultation with the student, provides the structure within which graduate education at Cornell proceeds, with only a minimum of regulation by the Graduate School and the Field of Industrial and Labor Relations.

The Graduate School requirements include:

1. Six units of residence credit at graduate level;
2. Satisfactory work in the major and minor subjects, as determined by members of the Special Committee;
3. Successful completion of the Examination for Admission to Ph.D. candidacy, to be taken before the start of the seventh unit of residence;
4. Submission of an acceptable dissertation.

Requirements of the Field of Industrial and Labor Relations include the following:

1. Completion of a Master's degree program prior to admission to the doctoral program, except for direct admission in cases of unusual promise;
2. Selection of one of the two required minors outside the Field of Industrial and Labor Relations;
3. Acquisition of teaching experience during graduate study.

The detailed planning of the program, including course work and the dissertation, requires careful consultation between the candidate and his Special Committee. The system of graduate studies at Cornell is highly flexible so that every program can be tailored to fit individual needs within the framework of established requirements.

The candidate is advised to consult the Announcement of the Graduate School: Social Sciences for further details concerning the requirements for the above degrees.

Approved Major and Minor Subjects for the M.S. and Ph.D. Degrees

Candidates for the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees who propose to major in industrial and labor relations must select a major area of specialization from the five subjects listed below:

- Collective Bargaining, Labor Law, and Labor Movements
- Economic and Social Statistics
- Organizational Behavior
- Labor Economics and Income Security
- Manpower Studies

In addition to the list above (as well as other approved subjects in the various fields of the Graduate School), the following areas may be offered as minor subjects:

- International and Comparative Labor Relations
- Industrial and Labor Relations Problems (available only as a minor for candidates majoring in fields outside industrial and labor relations)

Candidates for M.S. and Ph.D. degrees are expected to engage in a considerable amount of independent study. The following requirements of the different subjects for majors and minors should, therefore, be regarded as minimum expectations and as a basis for further investigation.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING, LABOR LAW, AND LABOR MOVEMENTS

For a Ph.D. major, the candidate must show proficiency in the following areas of knowledge: (1) history of the labor movement and collective bargaining in the United States; (2) history of unionism and labor relations in major industries; (3) theories of labor unionism and collective bargaining; (4) structure, government, administration, and activities of the labor movement and of major national unions; (5) structures, procedures, practices, and major issues in collective bargaining; (6) federal and state legislation, and leading cases in labor relations law; (7) role of government in labor relations, with emphasis on the methods and implications of different forms of dispute settlement; (8) history and problems of labor movements and labor relations in other countries; (9) bibliography and major sources of information in collective bargaining and labor unionism.

For a Ph.D. minor (1), (3), (4), (5), (6), and (7) are required.

For an M.S. major (1), (4), (5), (6), and (7) are required.

For an M.S. minor (1), (4), and (5) are required.

ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL STATISTICS

For a major in this subject, the candidate must show (1) thorough understanding of the principles of statistical reasoning, including such mathematical statistics as is necessary for their development; (2) proficiency in the use of statistical methods and in the processing of statistical data; (3) competence in applying the proper statistical tools of analysis to a specific topic in economics or social studies.

For a minor, the required knowledge and competence are less advanced than for a major.

ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR

The subject matter of this field involves analysis of human behavior in organizations. A program of study reflects behavioral science disciplines with emphasis on organizational problems. Analysis and study focus on individual human behavior, organizations in society, and industrial society. Candidates majoring in this subject must demonstrate: (1) knowledge of the fields basic to understanding individual and social behavior and theories of organization, and (2) ability to isolate issues worthy of research, to identify and locate relevant studies or other sources of information, and independently to develop and conduct additional research.

For a minor, the required knowledge and competence are less advanced than for a major.

INTERNATIONAL AND COMPARATIVE LABOR RELATIONS

Available only as a minor subject. This subject is concerned with (1) the development and current role of labor movements in countries in various stages of industrialization and the economic, political, and social context influencing their respective labor organizations; (2) the development of an industrial labor force in the context of social and cultural changes; (3) similarities and diversities in systems of labor-management relations at different stages of economic development; (4) labor market, wage policy, and economic security problems, especially in countries undergoing rapid economic change; and (5) national and international organizations having special interests in international labor questions.

In addition to attaining, through comparative study and other methods, a basic knowledge of (1), (2), (3), (4), and (5), students electing a minor in this subject are expected to acquire a thorough knowledge of labor problems and labor-management relations in one specific country or area other than the United States.

Ph.D. candidates will be required to demonstrate a speaking and reading knowledge in one foreign language.

LABOR ECONOMICS AND INCOME SECURITY

Study in this subject involves analysis of the labor force, labor markets, wages and related terms of employment, income distribution, unemployment, health and safety in industry, superannuation, and private programs and legislation designed to meet income and employment problems.

For a major in this subject, the candidate must demonstrate (1) comprehensive knowledge of historical developments and current issues in the area of employment and income; (2) skill in quantitative and qualitative analysis of economic, political, social, and administrative problems in this field; (3) knowledge of the significant legislation dealing with income, employment, and employee welfare; (4) detailed acquaintance with the literature and sources of information in the field; (5) familiarity with income and employment problems and related legislation in selected foreign countries.

For a minor, (2) and (3) are required.

MANPOWER STUDIES

Major competence in this subject requires a knowledge of (1) historical and legislative foundations of various public manpower programs in the area of training, retraining, manpower planning, employment opportunity, mobility, and compensation; (2) the nature of the manpower or personnel function within work organizations; (3) educational methods and principles of learning, as well as the system of public and private educational resources relevant to manpower development and allocation; (4) systematic information about jobs, technology, and organizational structure, especially as they relate to career opportunities facing different elements in the labor force; (5) economic analysis of manpower problems in both planning and evaluation stages of programs and their analysis at the level of the firms; and, (6) research methods appropriate to the investigation of economic and organizational aspects of manpower problems.

Minors in the department are expected to meet the requirements in (1), (2), (4) and either (3) or (5) above.

INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR RELATIONS PROBLEMS

Available only as a minor to graduate students in fields of study other than industrial and labor relations. A candidate for an advanced degree must have a general understanding of the subject matter in the field of industrial and labor relations. In order to prepare for a minor in this field, the candidate will normally complete three to five courses in accordance with a program approved by his Special Committee.

Opportunities for student participation in Extension programming increase each year.

GRADUATE COURSES AND SEMINARS

Undergraduate courses may often form an appropriate part of the graduate student's program; hence attention is directed to industrial and labor relations undergraduate offerings described elsewhere in this Announcement. Graduate students in the Field of Industrial and Labor Relations may also enroll in courses and seminars offered in other fields of the Graduate School. In the School of Industrial and Labor Relations, graduate courses are numbered 500 to 599; graduate seminars are numbered 600 to 699. Advanced undergraduate students may, with the permission of the instructor, register in graduate courses and seminars.

Collective Bargaining, Labor Law, and Labor Movements

Mr. Jensen, chairman; Mrs. Cook, Mrs. McKelvey, Messrs. Brooks, Cullen, Doherty, Freilicher, Gross, Hanslowe, Konvitz, Korman, Lipsky, Morris, Neufeld, Windmuller.

ILR 500. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING I

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Not open to ILR undergraduate students. Mr. Cullen, Mr. Gross, Mr. Jensen, or Mr. Lipsky.

A comprehensive study of collective bargaining with special emphasis being given to philosophy, structures, process of negotiations, and administration of agreements. Attention will also be given to problems of handling and settling industrial controversy, the various substantive issues, and important developments and trends in collective bargaining.

It is recommended that ILR 502 (Labor Relations Law and Legislation) be taken prior to, or concurrently with, ILR 500.

ILR 501. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING II

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: ILR 500 or equivalent. Mr. Cullen, Mr. Gross, Mr. Jensen, or Mr. Lipsky.

A detailed study of contract making and administration with particular reference to recent trends and problems in collective bargaining. Attention will be given to several representative industries, and prevailing agreements and case problems will be studied.

ILR 502. LABOR RELATIONS LAW AND LEGISLATION

Credit three hours. Fall or spring term. Open to ILR graduate students. Mr. Freilicher, Mr. Hanslowe, or Mr. Konvitz.

A survey and analysis of the labor relations law in which an examination is made of the extent to which the law protects and regulates concerted action by employees in the labor market. The legal framework within which the collective bargaining takes place is considered and analyzed. Problems of the administration and enforcement of the collective agreement are considered, as are problems of protecting the individual member-employee rights within the union.

ILR 503. ARBITRATION

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: for undergraduates, ILR 300; for graduates, ILR 500. Mrs. McKelvey, Mr. Gross, Mr. Jensen, or Mr. Lipsky.

A study of the place and function of arbitration in the field of labor-management relations, including an analysis of principles and practices, the law of arbitration, the preparation and handling of materials in briefs or oral presentation, and the work of the arbitrator, umpire, or impartial chairman.

ILR 504. LABOR DISPUTE SETTLEMENT

Credit three hours. Fall or spring term. Prerequisite: for undergraduates, ILR 300; for graduates, ILR 500. Mrs. McKelvey, Mr. Gross, Mr. Jensen, or Mr. Yaffe.

A historical and contemporary study of the role of government in the adjustment of labor disputes, including such topics as the Railway Labor Act, Taft-Hartley Act, and state and federal laws governing emergency and public employment disputes. The course will also cover the leading administrative agencies in this field, including the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service; state mediation agencies with special emphasis on the New York State Board of Mediation; and municipal mediation services. Various governmental techniques for dealing with labor disputes, including injunctions, seizure, fact finding, and compulsory arbitration will be analyzed. The final section of the course will be devoted to comparisons and contrasts of labor dispute settlement procedures in the private sector with those employed in the public sector.

ILR 505. LABOR UNION HISTORY AND ADMINISTRATION

Credit three hours. Fall term. Not open to ILR undergraduate students. Mrs. Cook, Mr. Brooks, Mr. Korman, or Mr. Neufeld.

A presentation of the history of labor in America, with some reference to colonial and early nineteenth-century labor, but with emphasis upon post-Civil War trade union development; an analysis of the structure and functions of the various units of labor organization, ranging from the national federation to the local union; and some consideration of special problems and activities, such as democracy in trade unions and health and welfare plans, as well as of various types of unions, such as those in construction, maritime trades, entertainment, transportation, and basic industry.

ILR 506. READINGS IN THE HISTORY OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: for undergraduates, ILR 300 and 301; for graduates, ILR 505 or equivalent. Mrs. Cook, Mr. Korman, Mr. Morris, or Mr. Neufeld.

A seminar covering, intensively and in historical sequence, the key documents, studies, legislative investigations, and memoirs concerning American industrial relations systems. Primarily designed to aid students in orienting themselves systematically and thoroughly in the field. Among the authors and reports covered are E. P. Thompson, John R. Commons, Norman Ware, Lloyd Ulman, the Abram Hewitt Hearings, the Henry W. Blair Hearings, the United States Industrial Commission, Philip Taft, Paul F. Brissenden, the United States Commission on Industrial Relations, Theodore W. Glocker, George E. Barnett, Frederick W. Taylor, Henry Gantt, Mary Parker Follett, Irving Bernstein, and Walter Galenson.

ILR 507. THEORIES OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS SYSTEMS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: for undergraduates, ILR 300 and 301; for graduates, ILR 505 or equivalent. Mrs. Cook, Mr. Korman, or Mr. Neufeld.

An examination of the leading theories concerning the origins, forms, organization, administration, aims, functions, and methods of industrial relations systems. Among the theories studied are those formulated by Karl Marx, Mikhail Bakunin, Georges Sorel, Vladimir Lenin, Lujo Brentano, Beatrice and Sidney Webb, Herbert Croly, Antonio Gramsci, Selig Perlman, Frank Tannenbaum, the Guild Socialists, Karl Polanyi, Clark Kerr, Frederick Harbison, John Dunlop, and Charles A. Myers.

ILR 508. POVERTY AND SOCIAL POLICY

Credit three hours. Fall or spring term. Open to graduate students and, with permission, to advanced undergraduates. Mr. Konvitz.

A study of poverty in the United States; a study of public policy with respect to poverty from colonial times to the current "war on poverty" in the United States. The Report and the Supplemental Studies by the (Kerner) National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, the Report by the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice, and the Report of the Citizens' Board of Inquiry in Hunger and Malnutrition will be among the materials studied.

ILR 509. READINGS IN THE LITERATURE OF AMERICAN RADICALISM AND DISSENT

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Mr. Neufeld.

Each term this course will concentrate on a different historical aspect of American radicalism and dissent. Examples of the range of topics and character of writers who might be selected for study include: agrarian reform, Thomas Skidmore, George Henry Evans, and Ignatius Donnelly; anarchism, Josiah Warren, William D. Haywood, Emma Goldman, and Paul Goodman; communism, John Reed, Jay Lovestone, and William Z. Foster; economic dissent, Henry George, Thorstein Veblen, and Francis Everett Townsend; equal rights for Negroes and black nationalism, William E. B. Du Bois and Marcus Garvey; fascism, Father Charles Edward Coughlin and Gerald L. K. Smith; peace movements, Jane Addams, Emily Balch, and A. J. Muste; religious radicalism, Roger Williams, Tom Paine, and Robert Green Ingersoll; social planning, John Humphrey Noyes and Margaret Sanger; socialism, Langdon Byllesby, William Heighton, Daniel De Leon, Morris Hillquit, and William English Walling; utopianism and communitarianism, Edward Bellamy, Albert Brisbane, and Austin Tappan Wright; and women's rights, Margaret Fuller, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, and Susan B. Anthony.

ILR 580. ADMINISTRATIVE TRIBUNALS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open to seniors with permission of the instructor. Mr. Hanslowe.

An examination of the law controlling administrative agencies, including executive departments, in their complex tasks of carrying out various governmental programs. Legislative bodies determine general programs, and administrative tribunals make them more specific through making rules, deciding cases, investigating, prosecuting, and supervising. One important focus is on procedural safeguards and on the allocation and control of power in decision making, including the structuring, checking, and confining of discretion. Another central inquiry is how to accommodate procedural fairness to the efficient accomplishment of legislative purposes. The general quest is for understanding principles of exertion of governmental authority and principles of justice that cut across functions of federal, state, and local tribunals and their relation with reviewing courts and with legislative and executive bodies.

LABOR LAW (Law 409)

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Hanslowe or Mr. Oberer.

The study of collective bargaining, including the right of employees to organize and to engage in concerted activities (strikes, boycotts, picketing); the resolution of questions concerning the representation of employees; the duty of employers and unions to bargain; the administration and enforcement of collective bargaining agreements; grievance procedure and arbitration; the duty of fair representation; and internal union affairs.

ILR 600. SEMINAR IN LABOR RELATIONS LAW AND LEGISLATION

Credit three hours. Fall or spring term. Permission of the instructor required. Mr. Freilicher, Mr. Hanslowe, or Mr. Konvitz.

A seminar devoted to an intensive study of controversial aspects of labor relations law and legislation in the United States. Concentration will be on the questions that currently have a special interest because of their impact on public opinion as well as on labor-management relations. Some of the problems that may be analyzed are national emergency disputes; legal aspects of labor relations in the public sector; remedies for violations of section 8(a)(3) and (5) of the NLRA; common situs picketing; enforcement of arbitration clauses and awards; the duty to bargain about subcontracting and plant removal; legal problems arising from multiemployer bargaining; regulation of labor relations in agriculture; a union's duty of fair representation; discrimination on the basis of sex and race under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

ILR 601. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Mrs. McKelvey, Mr. Cullen, Mr. Gross, or Mr. Jensen.

An analysis of various aspects of collective bargaining, with particular emphasis upon the negotiation process, contract issues of current and future significance, and student research papers.

ILR 602. PROBLEMS IN LABOR LAW

Credit three hours. Fall or spring term. Mr. Freilicher and Mr. Hanslowe.

Intensive analysis of selected groups of legal problems arising out of labor relations and arbitrations, based on documentary materials including briefs, minutes, court and agency proceedings. Weekly or biweekly written reports are required.

ILR 603. GOVERNMENTAL ADJUSTMENT OF LABOR DISPUTES

Credit three hours. Spring term. Mrs. McKelvey, Mr. Gross, or Mr. Jensen.

A study of particular problems of the role of the government in the adjustment of labor disputes in the public and the private sector. Opportunity is afforded to investigate and analyze the various dispute settlement techniques which are commonly used and to investigate particular governmental agencies and their operations, including federal, state, and municipal agencies.

ILR 605. RESEARCH SEMINAR IN THE HISTORY, ADMINISTRATION, AND THEORIES OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES

Credit three hours. Fall or spring term. Prerequisite: ILR 506 and 507, or permission of the instructor. Mrs. Cook, Mr. Brooks, Mr. Korman, Mr. Morris, or Mr. Neufeld.

Intensive studies in theories of industrial relations, the social and political history of workers in urbanizing and industrializing communities, the history of ideas which impelled the labor movement, the history and government of individual unions and confederations of unions, the development of ideas in the management of personnel, and comparative studies of American, European, and non-European industrial relations systems. The areas of study will be determined each semester by the instructor offering the seminar.

ILR 606. LABOR AND GOVERNMENT FROM THE 1920s TO TAFT-HARTLEY

Credit three hours. Fall term. Open to graduate students and to seniors with consent of the instructor. Prerequisite: for undergraduates, ILR 300; for graduates, ILR 505. Mrs. Cook.

A historical survey of the pre-New Deal, the New Deal, World War II, and the immediate postwar periods, culminating in the passage of the Taft-Hartley Act. The course will trace the development and explore the nature and effect of government policy on labor welfare and labor relations legislation. Students will each select a specific event or problem for intensive research on which they will report to the class and prepare a paper.

ILR 607. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING IN PUBLIC EDUCATION

Credit three hours. Spring term. Permission of the instructor required. Mrs. Egner and Mr. Doherty.

The seminar will consist of a study of the legal, financial, administrative, and educational problems raised by collective bargaining in the public schools. Major attention will be directed at existing statutes covering the employment arrangement for public school employees, the subject matter and administration of collective agreements, the ideological postures of teacher organizations, the resolution of negotiating impasses. Individual and group research projects will be required.

ILR 608. PROBLEMS OF LABOR RELATIONS IN PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT

Credit three hours. Spring term. (Also listed as Law 523.) Open to seniors and graduate students with permission of the instructor. Mr. Oberer.

The course will entail a study of the legal problems inherent in the superimposition of collective bargaining relationships on existing patterns of public employment, including the problems of sovereignty, unit determination, representation procedures, unfair practices, scope of bargaining, impasse procedures, and the strike against government. The study will also include an examination of civil service systems, government budgeting, restrictions on political activities of public employees (e.g., Hatch Act), loyalty oaths and security programs, and other problems peculiar to public employment.

ILR 609. PROFESSIONALS, WHITE-COLLAR WORKERS, AND THEIR ORGANIZATIONS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Offered in even-numbered years only. Open to seniors and graduate students with permission of the instructor. Mrs. Cook.

Attention will be directed to characteristics of professional and clerical workers in the white-collar section of the work force. The problems of professionals, both self-employed and salaried, will be considered. A variety of professional organizations and of trade unions will be studied as responses to the collective needs of both groups. The distinctions arising from the conditions of public and private employment will also be considered.

ILR 680. RESEARCH SEMINAR IN THE HISTORY OF LABOR IN THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

Credit three hours. Fall term. Offered in odd-numbered years only. Mr. Korman.

A seminar in the social history of the nineteenth century devoted to the study of workers in urbanizing and industrializing communities. Research ventures will extend across the various fields of history combining in particular the traditional field of labor history with aspects of urban and business history.

ILR 699. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty.

Economic and Social Statistics

Mr. McCarthy, chairman; Messrs. Blumen, Evans, Francis.

ILR 510. ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL STATISTICS

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Mr. McCarthy.

A nonmathematical course for graduate students in the social studies without previous training in statistical method. Emphasis will be placed on discussion of technical aspects of statistical analysis and on initiative in selecting and applying statistical methods to research problems. The subjects ordinarily covered will include analysis of frequency distributions, regression and correlation analysis, and selected topics from the area of statistical inference.

ILR 610. ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL STATISTICS

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: permission of the instructor. Mr. Evans.

Directed primarily toward the basic concepts underlying qualification in economics, and an examination of how these requirements are realized in practice. The course is intended to familiarize students with the tools used to analyze the labor-force, employment, unemployment, production, value-added, productivity, labor costs, prices, capital stocks, etc.; determine what they mean; their proper areas of application; and their limitations. Topics in the methodology of economic statistics, including time series analysis and index number problems, will be reviewed.

ILR 614. THEORY OF SAMPLING

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: calculus and at least one semester of mathematical statistics. Mr. McCarthy.

A companion course to ILR 310, Design of Sample Surveys, stressing the development of the fundamentals of sampling theory. Attention will be paid to recent progress in the field. Occasional illustrative material will be given to indicate the application of the theory.

ILR 699. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty.

Organizational Behavior

Mr. W. F. Whyte, acting chairman; Messrs. Brown, Gordon, Gruenfeld, Rosen, Trice, Williams.

Graduate students majoring or minoring at the Master's or doctoral level in the area of organizational behavior will normally complete the core offering in this area, Organizational Behavior I and II, ILR 520, 521. Depending upon the nature of the program of the individual student, both courses may be taken in the same term, or they may be taken in different terms with either course preceding the other. In addition, graduate students majoring in organizational behavior will normally take ILR 524-525, Behavioral Research Theory, Strategy and Methods I and II. (Exemptions and exceptions are made on an individual basis.)

ILR 520. ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR I

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Required of graduate students majoring or minoring in the area of organizational behavior and M.I.L.R. candidates. Open to other graduate students with a major or minor in the field of industrial and labor relations. Department faculty.

Survey of concepts and studies from the fields of individual and social psychology, selected for their pertinence to the area of organizational behavior. The relationship between research findings and application to organizational problems will be stressed. Consideration of individual differences of various kinds; attitude formation and its relation to social processes; factors affecting different kinds of learning; motivation and its relationship to productivity; perception and its relationship to evaluation of performance; leadership and the influence process; group formation and its effect on the individual and the organization.

ILR 521. ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR II

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Required of graduate students majoring or minoring in the area of organizational behavior and M.I.L.R. candidates. Open to other graduate students with a major or minor in the field of industrial and labor relations. Department faculty.

Organizational Behavior II deals primarily with three major subject areas including (1) the structure and dynamics of organizations, (2) the administration of the employee relations functions, and (3) cases and problems which help the student to integrate and apply conceptual understandings underlying work in the subject of organizational behavior. Designed to provide graduate students with the basic background and understanding of the organization and management of organizations and the problems arising within the organizational context. The basic background is intended to be preliminary to more intensive work in organizational behavior.

ILR 522. THEORIES OF ORGANIZATION

Credit three hours. Fall or spring term. Prerequisite: ILR 521. Mr. Gordon.

Intended for students interested in more intensive work in theories of organizations and organizational behavior. Writings in the now extensive field of organizational theory will be examined. These may include the following: the intellectual predecessors of the field (Marx, Weber, and Durkheim). Contemporary works of organizational theory may include Homans, Blau, Caplow, Barnard, March and Simon, Etzioni, Crozier, Dahrendorf.

ILR 523. THEORIES AND METHODS OF ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGE

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open to graduate students and upperclassmen. Prerequisite: ILR 520, ILR 521 and/or consent of the instructor. Department faculty.

The primary concern will be an examination of certain change agents as they attempt to initiate, structure, and direct organizational change. Attention will be given to the strategies used by these change agents as they are related to selected theories of organizational behavior and organizational change. Among the change agents which will be considered are consultants, union organizers, applied social scientists, staff and managerial personnel.

ILR 524. BEHAVIORAL RESEARCH THEORY, STRATEGY AND METHODS I

Credit variable. Fall term. Permission of the instructor required. Department faculty.

Designed to meet the needs of M.S. and Ph.D. candidates majoring in organizational behavior, but other graduate students may enroll.

Units of material to be included in 524 and 525 are (1) theoretical, conceptual, and ethical questions; (2) survey research and attitude scaling procedures; (3) laboratory research methods; (4) participant observation and interview methods, and (5) the use of documents and qualitative data analysis. The course will provide the student with important philosophical background for doing research and will expose him to a well-balanced, interdisciplinary set of quantitative and qualitative research tools. Readings will be supplemented by projects and laboratory exercises.

ILR 525. BEHAVIORAL RESEARCH THEORY, STRATEGY AND METHODS II

Credit variable. Spring term. Permission of the instructor required. Department faculty.

Must be taken in sequence with ILR 524 except by petition. Designed to meet the needs of M.S. and Ph.D. candidates majoring in organizational behavior, but other graduate students may enroll.

ILR 526. MANAGEMENT OF SCIENCE

Credit three hours. Spring term. Open to undergraduates with permission of the instructor. Mr. Gordon.

The course treats the management of science on both the micro- and macro-levels. It will examine empirical findings as they bear on national policy with respect to science, and as they bear on environmental settings which inhibit or stimulate accomplishment. Emphasis will be placed on current problems such as freedom and control of science, scientific secrecy, bureaucracy and creativity, financial and political underpinnings of research, and the emerging social system of science.

ILR 528. PSYCHOLOGY OF INDUSTRIAL CONFLICT

Credit three hours. Fall term. Open to juniors, seniors, and graduate students. Permission of the instructor required. Mr. Rosen.

An application of frustration theory to the analysis of conflict and stress in organizations and society. Comparisons are made between industrial relations, race relations, international relations, and other settings. Readings include behavioral research findings from a variety of studies in industry. Relevant contributions from experimental, social, and clinical psychology also are considered.

ILR 620. SEMINAR ON PERSONALITY AND ORGANIZATION

Credit three hours. Fall or spring term. Prerequisite: ILR 520 and ILR 521, or permission of the instructor. Mr. Williams.

A seminar which attempts to integrate available research and focuses on both personality and organizational variables. Investigations in the field of culture and personality will be examined for their utility in the understanding of organizational functioning. The relationship of personality to economic development will also be examined. Participants will be encouraged to write a term paper on the interrelationship of technology and values.

ILR 621. TOPICS ON ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: ILR 521 or consent of the instructor. Mr. Meyer.

The seminar will review the recent literature on organizational structure. In 1969-70, special attention will be paid to universities and colleges as complex organizations. An attempt will be made to analyze the structure of universities using concepts and findings from contemporary research.

ILR 622. CROSS-CULTURAL STUDIES OF WORK AND INSTITUTIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Credit three hours. Fall term. Permission of instructor required. Mr. Whyte and Mr. Williams.

A research seminar devoted to the analysis of survey and anthropological field reports from Peruvian villages, industrial plants, schools, and from comparable United States organizations. Each student will select a problem area for analysis and will write a research paper.

ILR 623. SEMINAR IN ORGANIZATIONAL THEORY

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: ILR 521 and 522 or equivalent. Graduate students and selected undergraduates admitted with the consent of the instructor. Mr. Gordon.

A seminar devoted to an intensive analysis of the major work of recent theorists of organizational behavior. The works of Barnard, March and Simon, Homans, Caplow, Etzioni, and Crozier will be discussed this term.

ILR 624. LEADERSHIP IN ORGANIZATIONS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Permission of the instructor required. Mr. Gruenfeld.

A seminar designed to examine theories and research findings from the behavioral sciences that are relevant to leadership and the influence process in groups and organizations. Personality, situational factors, intra-group processes, interpersonal perception, as well as motivation to lead and to follow will be discussed. The implications for leadership training, organization development, and action research will be explored.

ILR 629. CROSS-CULTURAL STUDIES OF ORGANIZATIONS

Credit three hours. Fall or spring term. Open to graduate students and upperclassmen with consent of instructor. Enrollment limited to twenty.

The seminar will deal with cross-cultural similarities and differences in organizational processes, e.g., recruitment, decision making, authority, reward, and punishment. Organizations in all sectors of society will be considered, i.e., economic, political, educational, health, etc.

ILR 699. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty.

SOCIOLOGY OF SCIENCE (Sociology 503)

Fall term. Prerequisites: Graduate student status or consent of instructor. Mr. Gordon.

Examination of the relationships between the scientist and society, and of the effects of the scientist on society and of society on the scientist.

International and Comparative Labor Relations

Mr. Galenson, chairman; Mrs. Cook, Messrs. Clark, Hildebrand, Morris, Neufeld, Whyte, Windmuller.

ILR 530. COMPARATIVE INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS SYSTEMS I

Credit three hours. Fall term. Not open to ILR undergraduate students. Prerequisite: for non-ILR graduate students, ILR 250 or consent of the instructor. Mr. Windmuller.

An introductory course concerned with the history, structure, institutional arrangements, and philosophy of the labor relations systems of several countries in advanced stages of industrialization. Countries to be examined include Great Britain, France, Germany, Sweden, the Soviet Union, and others.

ILR 531. COMPARATIVE INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS SYSTEMS II

Credit three hours. Spring term. Not open to ILR undergraduate students. Mr. Windmuller.

A comparative review of systems of labor relations of countries in early and intermediate stages of economic development. The course surveys the development of industrial labor forces, the evolution of functions of labor organizations, the role of government in industrial relations, and the emergence of different patterns of labor-management relations. Also covers the history of individual labor relations systems in selected countries of Asia, Africa, the Middle East, and the Western Hemisphere.

ILR 533. INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN LATIN AMERICA

Credit three hours. Spring term. Seniors with consent of the instructor. Mr. Morris.

A broad survey of industrial and labor relations in Latin America in their geographic, political, economic, and social settings. A framework for analysis of industrial relations systems in developing societies is presented and applied to the Latin American area. This is followed by discussion of labor codes, organized labor and political parties, management, and labor-management relations. The labor movements and industrial relations systems of five or six of the Latin American republics are then presented as case studies. Comparisons are made with United States experience whenever possible. Finally, the history and present status of hemisphere labor movements are presented and special comment is made on the role of United States labor and Latin American labor movements.

ILR 536. ECONOMIC CHANGE AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS IN ASIA

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Niland.

An examination of the labor movements and systems of industrial relations in Asia. The course is set within a comparative framework that emphasizes the impact of economic development on labor and industrial relationships. Substantial attention will be given to the emergence of industrial labor markets and their institutions, manpower regulation and rationalization, and labor-management relations. The role of government and public intervention in shaping the systems within which labor and management function are also given attention. Comparisons are drawn where possible with relevant aspects of American experience and with that of other countries at advanced stages of development. Countries to be examined include India, Japan, the Philippines, Malaysia, and within the comparative context the United States, Great Britain, and Australia.

ILR 630. SEMINAR IN INTERNATIONAL AND COMPARATIVE LABOR PROBLEMS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: ILR 530 or 531 or consent of the instructor. Mr. Windmuller.

Students will examine selected problems in labor relations in the light of international and comparative experience and will be expected to prepare, discuss, and defend individual research papers. Seminar topics will vary from year to year in line with student and faculty interests.

ILR 699. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty.

Labor Economics and Income Security

Mr. Raimon, chairman; Messrs. Aronson, Clark, Ferguson, Galenson, Hildebrand, MacIntyre, Slavick.

ILR 540. LABOR ECONOMICS

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Required of graduate students majoring or minoring in labor economics and income security and M.I.L.R. candidates. Not normally open to undergraduates. Prerequisite: Economics 101-102 or equivalent. Enrollment limited to twenty students each term. M W 12-1:15. Mr. Stoikov.

Economic issues in the employment and compensation of labor. Topics discussed include labor force growth and composition, structure and functioning of labor markets, unemployment, wage theories, wage levels and structures, the economic influence of unions, income distribution, the problem of poverty.

ILR 544. SOCIAL SECURITY AND PROTECTIVE LABOR LEGISLATION

Credit three hours. Fall term. Normally required of graduate students majoring or minoring in labor economics and income security and required of M.I.L.R. candidates. T Th 3-4:15. Mr. Slavick.

The fundamental aspects of employee protection and income security. Emphasis will be placed upon state and federal minimum wage and hour laws, health and safety legislation, employee benefit programs, and the social insurances. The underlying causes of the legislation, as well as the legislative history, the administrative problems and procedures, and the social and economic impact of the legislation will be studied. Efforts of unions, employers, and government in the establishment of labor standards will also be considered.

ILR 546. ECONOMICS OF MANPOWER

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: ILR 540 or equivalent background. Open to qualified undergraduates only by permission of the instructor. M W F 3:35. Mr. Aronson.

Analysis and discussion of the factors determining the nature and scope of the need for manpower policies and planning in industrial economies. Topics covered include: labor force development and behavior; occupational choice and occupational mobility; human capital formation; determinants of occupational employment; manpower policies and their relation to economic policies in the United States and abroad. Methodologies of projecting labor force and manpower requirements and related statistics are systematically covered. Special topics will be developed in accordance with student interests and preference.

ILR 547. SEMINAR ON INVESTMENT IN MAN

Credit three hours. Fall term. Prerequisite: ILR 540 or equivalent background. M W 1:25-2:40. Mr. Stoikov.

The seminar will cover activities which influence future monetary and psychic income by improving the resources in people. The investments covered include schooling, on-the-job training, medical care, migration, and the search for information on prices and incomes—with main emphasis on education and health. A last section covers educational planning.

ILR 549. ECONOMICS OF POVERTY

Credit three hours. Fall term. M W 3-4:15. Mr. Perl.

The focus of the course is on the causes of and remedies for income inequality in industrialized economies. We will concentrate first on alternative theories of inequality in the functional distribution of income—monopolies, rents and quasi-rents, ability, and the acquisition of human capital. The course will then turn to an examination of the relative efficiency of alternative means for remedying these inequalities—countervailing power, taxation, redistribution of social service.

[ILR 645. COMPARATIVE ECONOMIC SYSTEMS: SOVIET RUSSIA]

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Open to undergraduates with permission of the instructor. Prerequisite: ILR 445. Hours to be arranged. Mr. Clark.

Preparation and discussion of individual papers on selected topics concerning the Soviet economy. Not offered in 1970.

ILR 647. WORKSHOP IN LABOR ECONOMICS

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Hours to be arranged. Mr. Galenson.

Designed for Ph.D. students at the dissertation writing stage. The course will be concerned primarily with the formulation, design, and execution of dissertations. Preliminary plans and portions of completed work will be presented to the workshop for discussion.

ILR 648, 649. SEMINAR IN LABOR ECONOMICS

Credit three hours each term. Fall and spring terms. (Also listed in the Announcement of the College of Arts and Sciences as Economics 641, 642.) Mr. Galenson.

Reading and discussion of selected topics in current labor economics in the fields of theory, institutions, and policy. (ILR 648 is offered in the fall; ILR 649 in the spring.)

ILR 699. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty.

Manpower Studies

Mr. F. Miller, chairman; Messrs. Campbell, Foltman, Frank, Hodges, Risley, Wasmuth.

ILR 560. MANPOWER AND ORGANIZATION MANAGEMENT

Credit three hours. Alternate terms. Prerequisite: ILR 520 or 521. Mr. Foltman, Mr. Miller, or Mr. Wasmuth.

A basic graduate course covering the major areas of manpower and organizational policy as they relate to human behavior and work organizations. Intensive consideration will be given to such aspects of personnel work as selection and placement, compensation, training and development, employee-employer relations, health and safety, employee benefits and services, and personnel research. The course will examine how the conduct of the personnel function affects attainment of all organizational objectives. In addition, the personnel and industrial relations occupations will be examined in terms of their career patterns and organizational role.

ILR 561. OCCUPATIONAL ASPECTS OF MANPOWER STUDIES

Credit three hours. Spring term. Mr. Miller.

A three-part course which starts by examining the job analysis process and its conventional contributions to various personnel activities. Next it examines professional and organizational careers, with special scrutiny of their accessibility and adaptability to poor, undereducated and otherwise disadvantaged elements in the population. Finally, individual student projects will consist of preparing job descriptions for various career stages of one high-talent occupation beginning with the least demanding and ending with the most demanding. These projects will be evaluated by outside manpower experts in the appropriate professional or organizational specialty.

ILR 562. ADMINISTRATIVE THEORY AND PRACTICE

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: for advanced undergraduates, ILR 120-121 or its equivalent and permission of the instructor; for graduate students, ILR 520 or permission of the instructor. Mr. Campbell.

Analysis of the role of the decision-maker in carrying out his administrative functions. Consideration will be given to organizational structure and relationships, process of planning and decision making, measurement and control, and the direction of work. Basic theories from scientific management, bureaucratic studies, and human relations research will be analyzed with regard to their usefulness to the practicing administrator. Current practices will be evaluated against research findings. Cases will be used frequently to examine the nature of administration as both art and science.

ILR 563. MANPOWER PROBLEMS AND RESEARCH

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Niland.

Consideration of recent and on-going research into the problems of manpower rationalization in the United States. Selected projects, such as those sponsored under the Manpower Development and Training Act and by the National Science Foundation, are examined in detail. Issues to be covered from these sources include manpower mobility, development, utilization, and forecasting. The approach is primarily to issues at a macro level, using the economist's tools of analysis.

ILR 564. PUBLIC POLICY AND DEVELOPMENT OF HUMAN RESOURCES

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Foltman.

Analysis of the need for development of human resources, trends in work force requirements and implications for public policy, the role of government and of educational institutions in providing development programs, and the effectiveness of such programs. Examination of the rationale, organization, and administration of specific programs, such as apprenticeship; vocational and technical schools; technical institutes; university programs for development of technical, scientific, and managerial skills; and the foreign technical assistance program. Implications and problems of public support for the development of human resources.

ILR 565. PERSONNEL SELECTION AND PLACEMENT

Credit three hours. Spring term. Prerequisite: ILR 210, 510 or equivalent. Mr. Rosen or Mr. Trice.

A study of the employment function in personnel administration. Designed to analyze the techniques and devices used in the recruitment, interviewing, testing, selection, and placement of personnel. Emphasis is placed on applied psychological measurement principles and techniques. Interviews, personal history analysis, psychological tests, and the evaluation of these procedures in terms of appropriate criteria of success on the job will be considered in detail.

ILR 566. ADMINISTRATION OF COMPENSATION

Credit three hours. Fall term. Open to graduate students and upperclassmen who have completed ILR 360, 521, 560 or equivalent. Department faculty.

The development and administration of wage and salary programs with major emphasis on internal considerations. Subjects include program principles, objectives, and policies; organization of the function; and procedures to implement policies. Topics include job and position analysis; preparation of description-specifications; job evaluation; incentive applications; wage and salary structures; the use of wage surveys; supplemental payments, including premium pay, bonuses, commissions, and deferred compensation plans; and the use of automatic increment provisions. Case studies and assigned projects will cover selected programs.

ILR 567. MANAGEMENT AND LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Campbell or Mr. Foltman.

Study of the factors affecting the growth and development of managers and leaders in industrial and other organizations. Consideration is given to organizational environment, formal and informal developmental programs, leadership theory, and individual attitudes and beliefs. Special emphasis is given to analysis of specific case studies of actual practice.

ILR 568. CASE STUDIES IN PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION

Credit three hours. Fall term. Mr. Wasmuth.

A seminar devoted to an analysis of personnel management activities and their impact on organizational objectives and administration. Cases, incidents, and field data, derived from a variety of institutional settings, will provide a framework for examining and explaining the various roles played by personnel managers. When it is appropriate, attention will be given to the evolution and formalization of personnel activities within growing small business organizations. Students will have an opportunity for field work and are required to prepare individual cases for class presentation and discussion.

ILR 569. DESIGN AND ADMINISTRATION OF TRAINING PROGRAMS

Credit three hours. Spring term. Mr. Foltman and Mr. Campbell.

The development of education and training programs in government, business, labor, and voluntary organizations. Attention will be given to the role of line and staff and to problems and techniques in policy determination, the identification of training needs, and the design, implementation, and evaluation of programs. Case studies will focus on the philosophy and administration of selected training programs.

ILR 570. OCCUPATIONAL COUNSELING AND CAREER GUIDANCE

Credit three hours. Spring term. Mr. Campbell.

The philosophy, theory, methods, and problems of counseling as related to employability, planning, employment, career guidance learning and training, and work discipline. Role of the counselor including psychological and ethical aspects of counseling and developing effective relationships with individuals and agencies importantly associated with the counseling function. Utilizing sources of information with regard to jobs, occupations, and career ladders. Methods utilized in counseling such as structured and nondirective interviews, biographical data, tests, and measurements. Problems in counseling such as developing rapport, avoiding overdependence, securing commitment, and encouraging growth, development, and emotional maturity.

ILR 660. MANPOWER AND ORGANIZATION MANAGEMENT

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Mr. Foltman and department faculty.

A seminar in which intensive study will center on one or two specific areas of manpower and organization management. Selection of study areas will be jointly determined by student and instructor. Acceptable topics for intensive study include manpower planning and forecasting; compensation; justice processes; training and development; or other organizational manpower processes. Individual or group research may also focus on external influences or organizational manpower policies, practices, and strategies.

ILR 662. SIMULATION WORKSHOPS AND MANAGEMENT TRAINING

Credit three hours. Fall term. Open to seniors with consent of instructor. Mr. Wasmuth.

The seminar will be conducted through the technique of simulation applied to a rehabilitation workshop. Although the substantive material relates to workshop management, simulation as an approach to training managers has wider and growing importance. The key factor in workshop simulation is the high degree of involvement of participants to set goals, identify problems and possible solutions. The seminar will focus on key problem areas in the organization and administration of sheltered workshops. Students are provided with realistic problem-solving situations. The seminar will focus on a variety of manpower aspects of the management process and on the dynamic changes which occur in organizations. The content of the seminar will be research findings, selected readings, and lectures.

ILR 667. CURRENT ISSUES AND RESEARCH IN HUMAN RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT

Credit three hours. Fall and spring terms. Department faculty.

A graduate seminar centering on selected issues and relevant research involved in the development of managerial and work-force skills (particular emphasis for the seminar to be determined with the seminar group). Seminar papers and class discussions might concentrate on such topics as management development, impact of technological change on training programs, development of scientific and professional personnel, or labor union education.

ILR 668. CASE STUDIES IN ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOR, COMMUNICATION, AND PUBLIC OPINION

Credit three hours. Spring term. Mr. Hodges.

A seminar dealing with representative cases and problems in the public and in-plant relationships of industry and labor, with particular emphasis on employee communications and community relations.

ILR 699. DIRECTED STUDIES

Credit to be arranged. Fall and spring terms.

For individual research conducted under the direction of a member of the faculty.

LIBRARY

"It will be essential to develop at the earliest possible moment a comprehensive library, both of standard works and periodicals and of documentary materials." (Board of Temporary Trustees of the New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations, 1945.)

An evaluation of the resources of the School library indicates that this objective has been achieved and that the library can be considered one of the major industrial relations collections in the country. Serving all phases of the School program, it combines the functions of an undergraduate college library, a highly specialized research library, a public information center, and a center for the collection and organization of documentary materials in the field. Its collection includes more than 90,000 volumes and more than 90,000 pamphlets and it regularly receives periodicals, labor union journals, business and industrial publications, press releases, and labor-management services. Important collections of noncurrent books and documents have been acquired and additional materials are constantly being added.

Documentary materials provide original sources of data and offer opportunity for laboratory work by the student as well as furnishing resources for research by the staff. An integral part of the library is its Labor Management Documentation Center which has responsibility for extensive files of published and unpublished documents and records of unions and other organizations, personal papers of people active in the field, collections of documents from selected dispute cases, and other similar materials.

In order that the student may acquire facility and confidence in research methods and in the use of published and unpublished material, guidance and reference services are made available to all students on an informal and personal basis. Restrictions in the use of library materials by students have been kept to a minimum, and the aim of the School has been to provide whatever the student may need in connection with his work as quickly as possible without discouraging barriers.

Information service and the loan of books and documents by mail to organizations and individuals is an added function of the library. In support of this service, it distributes a monthly Acquisitions List and compiles a comprehensive bibliography of current books, pamphlets, and periodical articles which appears as "Recent Publications," a regular feature of the Industrial and Labor Relations Review. Through the extension of specialized service beyond the limits of the Cornell campus, the library contributes to the accomplishment of one of the School's principal aims—the dissemination of authoritative information for the better understanding of the problems of industrial and labor relations.

UNIVERSITY SUMMER SESSION

The School of Industrial and Labor Relations, in conjunction with the Cornell University Summer Session, offers credit courses designed primarily to meet the needs of persons in industry, labor, government, and education. Both undergraduate and graduate instruction is available in courses usually of six weeks' duration.

Dates for the six-week Summer Session in 1970 are June 24 through August 7. Descriptions of Industrial and Labor Relations course offerings, application forms, and information concerning registration, tuition, and fees are included in the Announcement of the Summer Session which may be obtained from the Office of the Summer Session, Room B-20, Ives Hall.

PUBLICATIONS AND SCHOOL RELATIONS

The School publishes two monograph series, Cornell Studies in Industrial and Labor Relations and Cornell International Industrial and Labor Relations Reports; plus bibliography, paperback, and lecture series; miscellaneous books; and a bulletin series. In addition, there are Key Issues reports (summaries of materials of interest to employers and unions), public employment relations reports, reprints of articles by the faculty, and Issues in Industrial Society, a magazine that devotes each of three issues a year to a single area of current interest to practitioners in companies, unions, and government.

The School also publishes the Industrial and Labor Relations Review, a quarterly professional journal. The journal carries articles, discussions, book reviews, and other items of interest to academicians and professionals as well as laymen and students concerned with a wide range of labor-management problems.

Inquiries concerning the School's publications may be addressed to the Division of Publications. Requests to be placed on the mailing list to receive announcements of new publications will be welcomed and should be addressed to the Distribution Center of the School.

RESEARCH DEVELOPMENT

The research activities of the School deal with the preparation of teaching materials and with basic and applied problems in the field of industrial and labor relations. Most members of the on-campus teaching faculty are involved in research. The projects cover a wide range of topics, reflecting the diversity of interests and educational backgrounds of the faculty. Graduate students have an opportunity in some instances to work with faculty members on projects of mutual interest as research assistants or as degree candidates working on theses. Some examples of major projects underway are:

Labor-management relationships in the public sector. Professors Kurt Hanslowe, Walter Oberer, Robert Doherty, George Brooks, Alice Cook, Jean McKelvey, and Ronald Donovan.

Mobility profiles of workers in low- and high-wage industries and sectors, 1959-1963. Professor George Hildebrand.

Social and organizational factors affecting scientific accomplishments. Professor Gerald Gordon.

A study of change in Peruvian communities. Professors William Foote Whyte and Lawrence Williams.

The origins and development of the leading ideas which sparked the activities of organized labor in the United States during the most energetic periods of its history. Professor Maurice F. Neufeld.

Research interests of the School in international and comparative projects were recognized by reactivation of the Institute of International Industrial and Labor Relations. Under the direction of Professor Walter Galenson, the Institute in 1967-68 sponsored a series of seminars on international labor affairs, each one featuring an expert drawn from outside the Cornell community. It is hoped that the Institute will stimulate interest and research in foreign practices in the labor and social sphere.

The Institute has entered into a cooperative agreement with the International Center for Advanced Technical and Vocational Training, located in Turin. The Center is an affiliate of the International Labor Office. The Institute will assist the Center in curriculum planning and research.

Information about these projects and other research activities may be obtained from the professors in charge or from the Division of Research Development. Inquiries from prospective graduate students concerning the availability of research assistantships and fellowships should be addressed to the Office of Resident Instruction.

EXTENSION AND PUBLIC SERVICE

The Extension and Public Service Division provides educational services without college credit for labor, management, government, civic, educational, and community groups throughout New York State. Programs conducted to meet the specialized needs of such groups are usually concerned with basic issues and developments in the field of labor relations. They deal with subjects of significant social consequence, including critical issues confronting the political economy of our country, as well as with topics relating to purposes and methods of industrial and labor relations programs and practices.

Extension programs may include topics such as responsibilities of employers, unions, and communities for manpower development and training; the function of education and training programs in dealing with problems of unemployment, of automation, of depressed areas; and human relations and employee relations. Some may emphasize problems of union democracy; labor's public responsibility; and unions and community affairs, foreign affairs, and economic life. Collective bargaining subjects include the nature and structure of collective bargaining; grievance handling; labor arbitration; collective bargaining and management rights; and the impact of the economic climate and of government on collective bargaining. The Division offers programs for industrial and labor relations practitioners in areas such as effective supervision, techniques of training, executive development, labor legislation, and the history, structure, and functioning of labor unions.

Participating in the School's adult education programs are persons of differing backgrounds and needs: executives and foremen, government administrators and supervisors, union officers and stewards, hospital administrators, engineers, members of professional associations, and social studies teachers. One of the important functions of the School is to help labor and management groups to develop and conduct their own educational programs. The Extension and Public Service Division also assists in teacher training and in the preparation of instructional materials. Correspondence courses are not offered.

To conduct its adult education program the School appoints teachers from Cornell University, from other educational institutions, from business, industry, labor, government, and the professions. Special effort is made to match the teacher's training, experience, teaching methods, and personality with the interests and levels of experience of the students in the group served.

Extension programs are held in communities throughout New York State as well as on the Cornell University campus. They vary in length. Some are made up of eight or ten weekly sessions of about two hours each; others are of several days' duration, a week, or several weeks' duration; some courses may be scheduled for weekly sessions for twenty or thirty weeks.

Many extension programs, teaching materials, and services are provided without cost for organizations in New York State. A charge is made when unusual expenses for teaching, teaching materials, or rentals are involved. Charges are sometimes made for extensive and experimental programs or when substantial services are provided for the same organization.

A large program of workshops, conferences, and seminars is conducted for which charges are made to cover the expenses of the program. Such programs, open to general enrollment, are announced in advance periodically. Individuals interested in knowing about the School's programs may request to be placed on the mailing list to receive program announcements in their field of interest and to receive a Conference Calendar issued monthly.

The Division publishes the ILR Extension Newsletter five times a year which contains information about selected program activities and advance information on conferences and special programs. This publication is available to interested persons upon request.

THE CONFERENCE CENTER

The Conference Center is yet another means of providing on-going education and information to practitioners and scholars concerned with industrial and labor relations. Over the years as the School's interest has widened to include more completely the issues related to industrial society, so too has the range of conferences broadened.

The Conference Center is becoming a focal point for those working on the broad range of social, economic, and political problems relevant to the urban scene. For example, this year the School will sponsor a series of six symposia on the theme "The Corporation in Mid-Century America." These symposia will focus on the complete spectrum of questions related to the corporation in society. Similarly, we have held a conference of, by, and for poor people. The Conference Center has filled a need for training public employees and public administrators who have come to the Center to learn about collective bargaining and the relatively new legislation related to union organization of public employees.

While the Conference Center initiates and offers conferences covering the full scope of industrial and labor relations, the Center also responds to requests from individual groups for specialized conferences. The Conference Center draws upon resources from the entire University and, where required, brings in outside resources to meet unique information requirements of the participants.

Services of the Conference Center, in connection with educational programs, include arrangements for dining and housing, transportation around the Ithaca area, special tours, catering, and special group requirements. The Center offers a full range of audiovisual equipment including video-taping for instant feedback on special sessions.

Further information may be obtained by writing to the Office of the Director of On-Campus Programs, New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York 14850.

Index of Courses

The numbering system for ILR courses and seminars, using a three-digit number, permits the identification of the level of the course in the department of the School offering the course and supplies a unique designation for each offering. Undergraduate courses are thus numbered in the 100, 200, 300, or 400 series, the first digit indicating freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior level; graduate courses are numbered in the 500 series, and graduate seminars in the 600 series.

Undergraduate students may, with the permission of the instructor, register in graduate courses and seminars.
