HERE are two rooms in the lowest story of Baker Tower which have been set aside to be used as social rooms by the residents of the new halls. They are furnished with tables, chairs, settees, and a piano. President White has hung on the walls of these rooms large framed reproductions in color of fifteen historical paintings. Most of the originals are in the British Parliament House. They include "The New Learning in England," by F. Cadogan Cowper; "Latimer Preaching before Edward VI," by Ernest Board; "The Origin of Parties," by Henry A. Payne; "Mary's Entry into London as Queen," by Byam Shaw; "The Age of Discovery," by Denis Eden; "Cardinal Wolsey at the Trial of Catherine of Aragon," by Frank O. Salisbury; "Queen Elizabeth's Visit to the First Royal Exchange," by Ernest Grofts; "Phoenicians Trading with the Early Britons on the Coast of Cornwall," by Lord Leighton; "King John Sealing Magna Charta," by Ernest Normand; "King Alfred the Great Rebuilding the Walls of London," by F. O. Salisbury; "Founding of the Bank of England," by G. Harcourt, and "Charles I Demanding the Five Members at the Guildhall," by S. J. Solomon.

CAPTAIN CHARLES F. THOMPSON, the professor of military science and tactics, came to Ithaca from Plattsburg on August 9 to supervise the assembling of about two hundred members of the cadet corps and their transportation to Plattsburg. They were expected to meet in Ithaca on August 15 and to get away for the military training camp on the 16th. They will spend three weeks at Plattsburg and will then start toward Ithaca on foot, marching by easy stages as far as they can before registration day. The cadets who go to Plattsburg in this contingent are all volunteers. The plan was adopted in place of the scheme to hold a two-weeks camp near Ithaca in September, and use will be made of the equipment, including two Ford trucks, which was bought with the $10,000 fund given by Willard Straight of the Class of 1901.

WHILE HE WAS AT PLATTSBURG this summer Captain Thompson commanded a company in the successive training regiments. His battalion commander was Captain Joseph W. Beacham '97, of the 29th Infantry, who had been for some time previously in the Army Service Schools at Fort Leavenworth. Captain Beacham is on duty at Plattsburg for the entire summer, and is reported by Captain Thompson to be in the best of health and condition.

DESPITE THE FACT that the new drill hall is far from being completed, Captain Thompson said that an effort would be made to provide military training for the sophomores as well as the freshmen this fall. By having drill outdoors on five afternoons a week as long as the weather permits, the corps can get along, and it is hoped that before snow flies the drill space in the new hall can be made ready. The doubling of the number of cadets will call for a corresponding increase in the number of field and company officers and will add otherwise to the burden of instruction. Captain Thompson, who was promoted from a first lieutenant of infantry on July 1st, will not have to leave Cornell on account of his promotion, because the War Department has recognized the increased importance of the Cornell detail and it is likely that the incumbent will hereafter regularly be a captain instead of a first lieutenant. Furthermore, a first lieutenant is to be detailed here this fall as assistant professor of military science and tactics on account of the doubling of the number of cadets. The staff of military instruction will then consist of a captain, a first lieutenant, and two retired sergeants of the regular army.

A CRUISE for the instruction of civilians on board battleships of the United States Navy has attracted several Cornell men. The training course, to continue four weeks, from August 15 to September 12, was arranged by the Navy Department. Among the Cornell men who are reported to have volunteered for this course are Morris S. Halliday '06, of Ithaca; Samuel E. Hunkin '16, of Cleveland; Walter R. Lalley '17, of Bridgeport, Conn.; Edward E. Anderson '17, of Washington, D. C.; George W.

Rapp, jr., '16, of Cincinnati; Alden B. Sherry '16, of Troy, N. Y.; William A. Franzheim '18, of Wheeling, W. Va.; and Francis H. Scheetz '16, of Norristown, Pa. All the Cornell men will be assigned to the battleship New Jersey. The cruise is a part of the Navy Department's plan to interest civilians in the Navy and at the same time to build up a naval reserve. It was to start at the New York Navy Yard and was to include a week of drill in ship routine, a week of harbor practice, a week of maneuvers with the Atlantic Squadron, and a final week of practice in harbor defense.

A DIRECTORY of graduates of Sibley College fills fifty pages of the July number of the Sibley Journal of Engineering, which accordingly is called the directory number. Such a list of graduates of the College of Civil Engineering has been published in the Cornell Civil Engineer every year for a number of years and has been very useful. In addition to the directory, which is both alphabetical and geographical, the Journal contains many pages of photographs of past and present members of the Sibley faculty, views of the shops, and pictures of old college buildings. The Journal has shown very commendable enterprise in getting out this useful information.

SIXTEEN HUNDRED STUDENTS have been enrolled in the Summer Session of the University. This is the largest attendance in the history of the session. As is usual, a large proportion of the students are teachers in secondary schools or colleges.

THE PAGEANT for which the women students of the University have been preparing will be given in October. The place finally selected for its presentation is the women's playground in the Cascadilla ravine. Plans have been made for an outdoor stage and seats for spectators. Members of the committee of arrangements have been attending the summer session and have carried on the preparations for the pageant through the summer.

PRESIDENT SCHURMAN paid a brief visit to the Plattsburg Training Camp this month.

The Report of Trustee Herbert D. Mason

To the Associate Alumni of Cornell University:

THE report of Trustee Edwards contains so careful and so full a synopsis of the principal recent activities of the Board of Trustees that it is quite unnecessary that the present report should deal with them to any great extent. There is, in fact, but one additional point in that respect to which I shall refer. That concerns a subject in which the alumni are so deeply interested that I shall mention it briefly,—especially as the action of the Board has never, so far as I am aware, been formally reported to the alumni for their information or approval.

The matter referred to is the disposition which is being made of the Alumni Fund, which is being raised and turned over to the University in annual installments as collected by the Cornellian Council.

The Alumni Fund

As is pretty generally known, the theory and plan upon which it was expected to raise this Alumni Fund was that, while comparatively few alumni could be expected to make an outright gift to the University of, say $500, $1000, or any larger amount, a large number of the alumni could pay to the University annually, through the Cornellian Council, the income on $500 on a 5 percent basis, to-wit, $25. Others could pay the income on $1000, to-wit, $50, and so on. Thus the University would receive the benefit of an income equalling the interest return upon a large amount of money which, in effect, might be considered as being held by the alumni for the benefit of the University. In other words, what the University received through the Council could, in substance, be considered as the income from a large number of separate quasi trust funds, the principal of which was held by the subscribing alumni. When the first contributions of about $20,000 were turned over to the University, the question arose as to whether the money received was to be considered as income or as an addition to endowment. It was finally decided to add it to endowment and this was done with the result that the amount available for immediate use was reduced to $1000, to wit, the interest at 5 percent on the said $20,000 so placed in invested endowment funds.

Later some of the Alumni Trustees raised the point that this method of handling the fund resulted in the University getting, in these times of its great need, only the interest on what was in fact income from the quasi trust funds assumed to be held by the contributing alumni, and they urged that, in view of the well recognized fact that many members of the faculties were greatly underpaid, and in view of the equally well recognized fact that we were frequently losing distinguished teachers for lack of funds wherewith to meet the offers received by them from other universities, some method of deriving greater immediate benefit from the fund was imperative. It seemed to some of the members of the Board that this condition could be relieved temporarily (and pending the receipt of increased general endowment) by applying a substantial part of the Alumni Fund to the increase of professorial salaries in emergency cases. Of course the amount received was not expected at present to be large enough to carry the burden of a general salary increase, but, in view of the great need and after much discussion, it was decided to hold each year's contribution of the Council unappropriated during the year of its receipt in order that there might be paid out of it in strictly emergency cases enough to meet some of the most urgent of the requirements for salary increases and also enough to meet certain other emergency needs,—the balance of the contribution of the particular year which remained at the end of that year to be turned into general endowment at the end of the year, at which time the fund for the next year would be in hand. Already through this expedient men have been retained in the University whose loss would have been severely felt.

Of course this is only a temporary expedient because a salary increase of $500 here and $500 there means a permanent mortgage upon the future annual income donations from the Fund of just that amount, so that we receive the following year's fund with a pledge against it of just the amount of the salary increases, etc., of the past year. Therefore, as I have stated, the expedient is a temporary one; and it will continue to be of service only so long as the pledges of the moneys of the Fund do not exceed the amount of such Fund. For example, during the first few years the amount received was $20,000. Since then it has increased and it is expected that it will continue to increase in large measure. Only so long as the increase continues can these special increases of salaries be continued; but it is hoped that this plan will carry us through until such time as a substantial increase of general endowment from other sources will take care of the needed increase in professorial salaries. All of this makes very apparent the absolute necessity of using every endeavor to increase to the utmost the contributions to the Alumni Fund and to assist in every way the activities of the Cornellian Council to this end,—for it is largely to this fund that we must look, for the present, for the urgently demanded salary increases.

The Associate Alumni

There is an additional matter which I desire to present. That concerns the relation of the Associate Alumni to the Board of Trustees and to the Alumni Trustees. Co-operation is essential to success in any enterprise. Concurrence in endeavor and elimination of cross-purposes, lost motion and everything else tending to lack of unity and efficiency must be avoided. Harmonious concert of intelligent action is of the essence. Not all of these essentials are present in the full degree in the relations of the Associate Alumni to the Trustees or in the work of this Association considered by itself. The Associate Alumni is capable of great things and after some years of difficulty and of some uncertainty of effort it is clearly demonstrating that it is rapidly gaining a position in which it will play a most important part in the affairs of the University.

There are, however, two features of its activities and existence which, it seems to me, should be carefully considered with the idea of improvement. These are the matters already referred to, namely, its relation to the Board in general, and its relation to the Alumni Trustees in particular. So far as concerns its relation to the Board in general, it has been my observation that there is no sufficiently ready means of interchange of information between the Board and the Association; that the Association is frequently uninformed as to the attitude and action of the Board on problems discussed in the Association; that the Board is frequently equally uninformed as to the activities of the Association; and that there is much lost motion and duplication of work and lack of co-operation and harmonious action resulting from these insufficiencies. For example: At the forum of the Association held in Detroit last March several of the questions discussed had already been considered by the Board, or were then being considered by the Board. Much information had been gathered by the Board which should have been at the disposal of the forum. In addition some things were proposed for discussion at the forum which lay so much more within the province of the Board that advance discussion at the forum was hardly advisable.

The remedy for this difficulty is a simple one. The alumni have on the Board a large number of trustees. More of these members of the Board should be members of your Board of Directors and in addition the trustees in general, (or in any event all of the alumni trustees) should be invited to attend the forums. Definite arrangements should be made in advance of these forums to assure the attendance of one or more of the trustees in order that you may secure through them knowledge of the activities of the Board on all matters which are being brought before the forums.

In addition to the foregoing such an arrangement would give the alumni trustees a more concrete and less nebulous constituency than they now have. As it now stands, the alumni trustees have no ready means of ascertaining the sentiment of alumni on important questions. Their constituency is scattered all over the country, indeed, I might say, all over the world. There is one general association, to wit, the Associate Alumni. About the only means of obtaining the views of any considerable number of the alumni on any question is through consultation with the Association and through knowledge of the views of the Association. Therefore, it is apparent that if a number of alumni trustees are members of your Board of Directors, they will be in a position better to represent the alumni sentiment and to learn the wishes of the alumni. I am convinced that nothing but good would come from such an arrangement. Not only would it keep the alumni trustees better informed as to alumni feeling, but it would give them a backing, a force, and a strength in the presentation of alumni views, which, in the absence of a more concrete constituency, they now sometimes feel the lack of. This is one change which I hope the Association will consider earnestly and will find it wise to adopt. I know of no other thing which will so strengthen the position of the alumni in the affairs of the University.

In addition, the adoption of such a plan would, I am sure, tend directly to strengthen the Association and bring it more promptly to the position which it should assume, and is destined to assume, in the affairs of the University, —a position which, I believe, is to be preeminent in its possibilities of wise counsel, influence and direction on all subjects in which the alumni should have an important part.

The Dormitories

I can not close my report to the Alumni without calling attention to one additional matter, which is of the utmost importance to the student body, and so to those who are to become our Alumni of the future. I refer to the splendid progress which is now being made in providing dormitories for the men students. It is impossible to classify Cornell's need of such dormitories as anything less than one of its greatest and most pressing requirements. Thanks to the untiring energy and unrelenting effort of Mr. George C. Boldt, to whose heart Cornell has become so dear in recent years and to whom we owe so much in many other directions, the dormitory plan, so long a mere hope of the future, has become an actual development of the present, and we already have on the campus a magnificent beginning of what will eventually become a dormitory system unsurpassed at any university anywhere.

This means increased comfort, fellowship and fraternity among the students and that in turn means continued and increasing solidarity of interest, support and affection among the future Alumni. No one thing in the recent, if indeed in any part, of the history of the University means more to the students and to the Alumni than the realization of the complete dormitory system now so splendidly launched.

In closing this report, which ends my five year term as one of the Alumni Trustees of the University, I must of necessity be allowed to express my deep appreciation of the opportunity that the Alumni have given me for service to our alma mater. No greater opportunity lies in the gift of one's fellow Alumni and it scarcely need be said that the pleasure of the service vastly outweighs the labor involved. You may, therefore, feel certain that no Alumni Trustee finishes his term with anything but the deepest sense of gratitude for the opportunity of service which the Alumni have afforded him.

Respectfully submitted,

HERBERT D. MASON.

Tulsa, Oklahoma, June 17, 1916.

Class of 1916 Has $3,000 Fund In University's Custody—Reform of Finances by Student Council

The Student Council, which last fall superseded the old system of undergraduate government by class officers, has in this one year effected great economy in class finances. The gain is so great in this respect alone as to justify the creation of the Council. Although the books of the four undergraduate classes are still kept separate from one another, there is a single treasurer, a senior, for all of them, and he is responsible to the Council. The treasurer this year was Weyland Pfeiffer, of Scarsdale-on-Hudson. Under the constitution of the Council, he is, by virtue of his office, the life secretary of his class. His management of the finances of the Class of 1916 in the last year has given that class a permanent fund of about $3,000, the interest on which, about $150 a year, will be used to meet the life secretary's expenses. The Class of 1912 first established such a fund, finding about $800 in its treasury at graduation, and successive classes have done likewise, but 1916's fund is at least twice as large as any of them.

Under an agreement with the University which the Class of 1912 inaugurated, the $3,000 fund of the Class of 1916 will be turned over to the Treasurer of the University. He will pay to the life secretary of the class every year the income of the fund, computed at the average yearly rate of interest of the University's investments. That rate in 1914-15 was 5.29 per cent. These payments will be made as long as any 1916 class organization exists, and then the principal sum will become the property of the University.

There are sixteen members of the Student Council—seven seniors, six juniors, two sophomores and one freshman, elected by their respective classes—besides the treasurer, who is a senior elected by the senior class. The Council appoints committees to conduct the affairs of the several classes and controls, through its treasurer, the moneys handled by all such committees. This centralization of responsibility has stopped wasteful use of resources, such as free admissions to the junior promenade and the senior ball, duplication of stationery, and the purchase of costly "souvenirs" for committeemen.

For the three upper classes the chief sources of income are the big social events—the senior ball, the junior promenade, and the sophomore cotillion. The senior class adds to its income by means of a poll tax.

The freshman class has no way of getting money except by means of a tax. This year the tax, of at least one dollar a man, brought in only about $100. In other words, only about one hundred freshmen paid the tax. This is said to be not unusual, and is explained by the fact that freshmen are solicited for money for so many purposes of which they are ignorant that they become suspicious of any "touch." All the freshman affairs except the banquet were run by the treasurer of the Council. The freshman banquet lost money, but after this deficit was paid there remained in the 1919 class treasury a little over $40. This sum the class will have to begin its sophomore career.

The sophomore class, 1918, began this year with $9.95 in its treasury; the sophomore smoker cleared $4.20, and the sophomore cotillion made a profit of about $460. The class now has in its treasury, after all expenses are paid, about $450 with which to begin its junior year.

The junior class, 1917, this year began with $224.04 in the bank. Its profit from the junior promenade was about $900, and it cleared $12.65 from the junior smoker. This class carries over to its senior year a cash balance of about $1,100.

The Class of 1916 began its senior year with $409.06 in its treasury. The treasurer disbursed on account of the class about $360 (exclusive of what various committees expended). The poll tax of $4, imposed to cover Class Day expenses and provide a fund for the life secretary's use, netted the treasury more than $1,500. From the senior ball there was a profit of about $1,300. The Student Council took over the management of the senior singing and published a song book which made a profit of $13.21. The senior banquet was a failure and lost money. With expenses paid, the class on graduation finds itself the possessor of the handsome sum of $3,000.

The profits of $900 and $1,300 respectively made by the junior promenade and the senior ball have already caused a suggestion to be offered that the price of tickets for these affairs be reduced. Members of the Student Council say, however, that the present prices do not by any means insure a profit, even with management as efficient as these affairs had this year. Some ball committees in recent years have run into debt. Even the $1,300 profit on the senior ball was only about twenty per cent of the expenses, and that was an unusually successful affair.

It is provided in the constitution that the current expenses of the Student Council shall be met by appropriation from the class treasuries, two-thirds equally divided between the two upper classes and one-third borne equally by the two lower classes. The expenses of the Council for the year were $86.62, most of which was spent for account books, stationery, and printing.

The accounts kept by the treasurer of the Student Council are audited at the end of his term of office. The ledger sheets are then transferred and are kept, together with correspondence and other records, on permanent file at the office of the University Treasurer, where they are accessible to all future officers of the Student Council.

CAPTAIN BULL'S TRANSFER

Captain Henry T. Bull, U. S. A., former professor of military science and tactics at Cornell (1912-15), has been transferred from the 5th Cavalry to the 17th Cavalry, a new regiment now organizing at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas. The military expert of the New York Evening Post says that the 17th has every promise of being one of the best regiments in the army, if material is to be judged. Nearly all the troop commanders are graduates of the Mounted Service School at Fort Riley, "and are a picked set of officers, thoroughly fitted to whip the regiment into fine shape." Captain Bull is the commander of K Troop. His promotion to the rank of captain dates from July 1st, his being one of the names of 157 first lieutenants of cavalry which were sent to the Senate on July 21 for advancement. His transfer to the 17th Cavalry has recalled him from Mexico, where he has seen hard service since March as a member of the expeditionary force under General Pershing. Captain Bull is an honor graduate of the Mounted Service School.

INSTRUCTION will be resumed on Thursday, September 28.

Architectural Prizes Won

Successes of R. M. Kennedy and Other Cornell Students This Year

The success of Raymond M. Kennedy '15, of New Brighton, Pa., in winning the three year fellowship in architecture offered by the American Academy in Rome, was noted briefly in the July number of the News.

It has been a successful year for Cornell students of architecture in various intercollegiate competitions. Kennedy, the winner of the Rome fellowship, who was a graduate student this year, won also the Pupin Prize, a special prize offered by the American Society of Beaux-Arts Architects. This is given for the best three-day sketch dealing with the architectural embellishment of some practical mechanical device. This year the subject was "An aeroplane to be used by officers of the army for inspection." Kennedy's drawing was ranked first, and fourth place was awarded to J. R. Pelich, of Cleveland, a senior in the college.

The annual Paris Prize of the Society of Beaux-Arts Architects, which entitles the winner to a year's study in Paris, has not been in competition since the war began. Because the fund was accumulating, the society this year held a special competition, giving three prizes of $200, $100, and $50, with the stipulation that the prize money should be spent for architectural books. The competition was limited to students who had obtained at least six "values" in former Beaux-Arts competitions. Two graduate students of the college entered. H. S. Kirchberger '15, of Chicago, won the second prize, and G. L. Kaufman '15, of New York, won the third prize. The first prize was not awarded. The subject of the competition was "A Crematorium."

The architectural fellowship at the American Academy in Rome is awarded annually and is worth $1,000 a year for three years. It is open to graduates of American architectural schools, under certain restrictions. A program is issued usually in March, and a competitor is required to make a sketch of his design in ink within fourteen consecutive hours. Four are chosen for the final competition. Those admitted to it are required to make, within six weeks, a set of drawings in colors, which must be accompanied by a memorandum explanatory of the solution of the problem. The design must conform to the preliminary sketch. In this year's competition the subject was "A collecting and distributing station for the Red Cross Society." Kennedy's work was ranked first in both the preliminary and the final competition.

Kennedy is the second Cornell man within two years to win a fellowship in the school of fine arts of the American Academy in Rome. Last year Edward G. Lawson, of Buffalo, a graduate of the department of landscape art in the College of Agriculture, won the fellowship in landscape architecture, also worth $1,000 a year for three years. This fellowship is provided every third year and was first offered in 1915. Lawson is now in residence at the Academy in Rome.

The Fuertes Memorial Prize

Endowment Increased by C. H. Baker, the Founder, to Provide Three Prizes

Charles H. Baker '86, founder of The Fuertes Memorial Prize in Public Speaking, has increased the endowment so that hereafter, instead of a first and second prize of $100 and $20 respectively, there will be a first prize of $125, a second of $35, and a third of $20.

Following is a copy of the conditions of the award, which have been accepted by the University:

"1. The purpose of the foundation of the 'Fuertes Memorial Contest in Public Speaking' shall be to produce men of power and finish in public speaking from among the Junior and Senior year students in the engineering and architectural courses of Cornell University.

"2. The number of final contestants on the stage shall not exceed seven and the length of each speech shall not exceed fifteen minutes. The contest shall be held each year in accordance with such regulations as the Faculty may determine. The speeches may be semi-technical in character but devoid of formulae, and of the convincing, exhorting and argumentative type, that may be appreciated by an audience of business men and laymen.

"3. There will be a first prize of $125, a second prize of $35, and a third prize of $20; and the judges shall award the prizes upon the basis of a perfect score taken as 100 and applied as follows: Delivery, 40; composition, 30; value of subject matter, 20; scholarship and deportment standing in the University to date, 10.

"The method of scoring is predicated upon the theory that a highly cultivated power of speech, backed by fine personal character, is the most effective human instrument for commanding the respect, confidence, and appreciation of individuals and groups of men, and the public generally. A strong and convincing presentation of weak subject matter may prevail over a weak and artless presentation of strong and meritorious subject matter.

"CHARLES H. BAKER, Founder."

ORGANIZED IN OSSINING

A Cornell alumni association has been formed in Ossining, N. Y. The organization took place at a meeting held this summer at the home of Milton C. Palmer '81. These officers were elected: President, Mr. Palmer; vice-president, Joseph A. Greene '96; secretary and treasurer, E. C. M. Stahl '13. A committee was appointed to consult with other local organizations with a view to forming a county association for Westchester. The committee consists of County Judge Frank L. Young '88, Charles Ernest Acker '88, Dr. M. W. Barnum '88, Benjamin Fagan '94, and Joseph A. Greene '96. Besides those already mentioned there were present at the meeting Elliot Williams '73, Ernest Reynolds Acker '17, Isador Finkelstein '17, and Robert A. Philipson '19.

CLEVELAND WOMEN'S CLUB

The annual meeting of the Cornell Women's Club of Cleveland was held on July 15 at the home of Miss Martha Whitworth, Gates Mill. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Willard Beahan; first vice-president, Miss Ruth Stone; second vice-president, Dr. Delphine Hanna; secretary-treasurer, Miss Florence Rosenthal, 10209 South Boulevard, Cleveland.

THE ANNUAL WASH

The Annual Frolic and "Wash" of the Cornell Club of New England will be held at Villa Napoli, Nantasket Beach, on Saturday, August 26, afternoon and evening. The chairman of the committee is H. S. Brown, 50 Congress Street, Boston.

THE MUSICAL CLUBS

Graduate Manager Kent and Manager DeGray White of the Cornell Musical Clubs "advanced" the clubs' Christmas tour during the week of August 7. Mr. Kent went to Duluth, St. Paul, Davenport, and Chicago, while Mr. White visited St. Louis, Louisville, and Dayton. Those towns are all on the itinerary, as well as Rochester, Syracuse, and New York.

From the Architects of France

Two Medals Received by the College of Architecture for Award as Prizes

The College of Architecture has received from the French Société des Architectes Diplômés par le Gouvernement two medals, one of silver gilt and the other of silver, to be awarded as prizes to two students of the college. It is the society's intention to send similar medals every year. The college is sensible of the high honor of such recognition by that society.

A letter from M. Jacques-René Hermant, the president of the society, addressed to the dean of the college, has been received. It is dated Paris, May 30, 1916. A free translation of the letter follows:

"In accordance with the decision made by our Council on April 2, 1914, and at the suggestion of Mr. G. Mauxion, professor of architecture at Cornell University, we have sent to-day to your address, by American Express, one medal of silver gilt and one medal of silver, grand model, intended for award to two prize winners of the College of Architecture.

"Last year, on account of the difficulties caused by the war, to our great regret, we were unable to have these medals struck, and for this we beg your pardon. It is our intention to send you similar medals annually.

"At the moment when your country is giving ours proof of so much sympathy, we are happy to be able to afford to your students the encouragement of the architects of France.

"We hope sincerely that these prizes will help to increase the love of our art and that they will strengthen the bonds of good feeling which already unite us with our fellow architects in America.

"J. HERMANT, President."

M. Hermant, the president of the society, was the architect of the French committees which arranged for the participation of France in the World's Fair at Chicago.

Professor Georges Mauxion, referred to in the above letter, is on leave of absence from the college and is a lieutenant in the French army.

The two medals are alike in design and are about four inches in diameter. They will be used as prizes in one of the important competitions of students of the college, just which competition is yet to be determined.

Published for the Associate Alumni of Cornell University by the Cornell Alumni News Publishing Company, Incorporated.

Published weekly during the college year and monthly in July and August; forty issues annually. Issue No. 1 is published the first Thursday of the college year in September and weekly publication (numbered consecutively) continues through Commencement Week. Issue No. 40, the final one of the year, is published the last Thursday in August and contains a complete index of the entire volume.

ITHACA, NEW YORK, AUGUST, 1916

THIS issue completes Volume 18 of the NEWS. The attention of readers is called once more to the index, which will be printed immediately. A copy of this, together with a title page for binding with the volume, will be sent free of charge to any reader of the paper who asks for it. A volume of the NEWS is a complete record of the University year, and the index makes access to the record easy.

AN ACCOUNT of the manner in which undergraduate social and class enterprises have been financed by the new Student Council is printed elsewhere in this paper. An idea of the efficiency of the new system may be gained by comparing the amounts which the several classes had at the beginning of the last year with the treasury balances which the corresponding classes have for beginning next year. The sum, about $3,000, which the Class of 1916 has been able to convert into a permanent fund is also significant of good management. The disposition of this class fund is interesting. It will remain in the custody of the Treasurer of the University, who will pay the interest every year to the life secretary of the class, and when the class organization ceases, some sixty years from now, the University will become the owner of the principal sum. Five classes now have entrusted funds to the University under this plan for ultimate reversion of the money to the University itself. It will be two generations before the endowment benefits by the reversion, but there is promise of a not inconsiderable increment every year thereafter. Since the size of these class funds will be measured, to some extent, by the efficiency with which the class finances are handled during undergraduate years, it is pleasant to know that the Student Council has already justified its creation by eliminating waste and centering responsibility for honest administration of funds.

THE STATEMENT was printed in the NEWS several months ago that the constitution of the Student Council had been amended to provide that the office of life secretary of each class and the office of class representative on the Cornellian Council should both be held by the same person, namely, the one who had served in his senior year as treasurer of the Student Council. We now learn that the proposed amendment was defeated. The NEWS opposed its adoption for the reason that it did not seem advisable to give the two offices to one man. To do so would have meant, in time, the virtual merging of the Cornellian Council and the Association of Class Secretaries. Those two bodies have different functions, and the members of either body ought to be chosen with reference to either's particular function. We therefore believe that the undergraduates did wisely in defeating the proposition. The treasurer of the Student Council will become secretary of his class, but another member of the class will be chosen to serve on the Cornellian Council.

CORNELLIANS have reason to hope that Mr. Morton G. Bogue will be persuaded to withdraw his resignation as Columbia's representative on the board of stewards of the intercollegiate regatta. Mr. Bogue can not well be spared from the board at the present time. He is a positive champion of cleanness and sportsmanship in rowing. We have no doubt that if his resignation is accepted Columbia will replace him with a man whose ideals are not less high than his own, but it would be difficult for any university to find a man equally interested in keeping intercollegiate rowing on a high plane and equally vigorous in insisting on the maintenance of right standards of sport by those who take part in the regatta. The Intercollegiate Rowing Association needs both the ideals and the backbone of Mr. Bogue.

LETTERS are going to those members of the Class of 1916 who have not yet sent in their statistics, asking them to fill out the blanks at once and forward them. It is only by means of these statistical forms that the life secretary of the class can keep trace of the members. Forms should be sent to Weyland Pfeiffer, Scarsdale-on-Hudson.

COPIES of several books have been sent to the NEWS recently for review, but the pressure of news matter has prevented proper notice of them. The editor begs pardon of the authors and publishers and promises to give them notice at the first opportunity.

A CORNELL UNIVERSITY PRESS

Mr. Theodore Stanton '74 writes us apropos of the article published in our issue for June 15 and entitled "The Need of an Endowed University Press:"

In Professor Lane Cooper's excellent communication on what a university press can do for the advance of humane scholarship in America, he mentioned several times in support of his argument the example of the famous Clarendon Press of Oxford University.

On the occasion of two sojourns in Oxford, I was careful both times to visit rather thoroughly its magnificent University Press. This was especially the case in July and August 1909, when my daughter attended the Summer School there and I accompanied her. I recall particularly a tea which we took with the then Printer to the University, Mr. Horace Hart, M.A.—he always printed this academic degree after his name on the books he issued—who on that occasion permitted me to make a more complete examination than I had ever before made of the ins and outs of this superbly mounted printing-office. Mr. Hart, who had visited the United States and who was always especially friendly to Americans, was evidently pleased to point out to us a large photograph, hanging on the walls of his artistic office, of the Clarendon Press building with the stars and stripes at half-mast on the roof. "That was out of respect for the death of President McKinley, and was done on my orders," he said with unconcealed satisfaction. We had spent the afternoon of the day before with the late Sir James Murray, editor-in-chief of the great Oxford Dictionary which is being printed at the Clarendon Press, and Mr. Hart gave instructions that all the processes in connection with this grand undertaking should be shown us during our subsequent visit to the printing-offices. I told him how Sir James had praised to us the workmanship and executive arrangements of the Press, and Mr. Hart in turn complimented Sir James on the editorial work, and then added rather facetiously: "His care is so great that on one occasion he wrote Stevenson for the definition of a strange word which one of the readers for the Dictionary had discovered in one of that author's stories; whereupon, Dr. Murray received this reply on a post card from Stevenson: 'For heaven's sake do not touch that word; it is a misprint!'"

Since my visits to Mr. Hart, he has retired from the management of the Clarendon Press and is now residing at his country home near Oxford. But the impetus which his long incumbency gave to the cause of good printing and binding in England and the high professional standard which he established there still live on under his successor, Frederick Hall, the present Printer to the University.

The sales-rooms of the Press at Amen Corner in the publishing district of London, I have also visited repeatedly and examined in every detail. Here too is a new management since a few years. But Mr. Henry Frowde, now approaching his eightieth year, did there what Mr. Hart did at Oxford, and Mr. Humphrey Milford, the present head of the London office—his title is Publisher to the University—is simply continuing with new vigor the old and excellent traditions.

My own relations with the printers and publishers of the great Oxford institution and with some of the scholars and experts connected therewith, fully confirm the wisdom of the suggestion of Professor Cooper that those who should be eventually called upon to organize the proposed Cornell Press would do well to study the history, organization and present methods of the Clarendon Press.

HONORARY DEGREES

From Reedy's Mirror, St. Louis, June 30, edited by William Marion Reedy

This is the season of the bestowal of college degrees. They are thicker than blackberries and many of them without reason. So many of them are scattered around that the honor is meaningless, the distinction doesn't distinguish anybody. Therefore it is gratifying to learn that the Cornell University faculty, at a meeting this month, voted, with virtual unanimity, to continue its long-established policy of not conferring honorary degrees. The question has been considered by the alumni in connection with preparations for celebration of the Cornell semi-centennial in 1918. Some men thought that on such an occasion a few degrees might be distributed among men of achievement, and President Schurman put the matter up to the faculty for decision with the results noted. I believe that in its fifty years, Cornell has given but one honorary degree. It was a degree well-bestowed, the recipient being David Starr Jordan. He did not present a thesis, though of course he could have done so. Cornell has given no kite-tails of letters to politicians or to money magnates, who made donations to the institution. It has not pensioned its trustees with LL.D.'s and the like. The result is that a Cornell degree means something. It means at least that the man who wears it has done good, hard, honest, studious work for it, that it is not a courtesy title. The Cornell degree isn't like "Colonel" in the South or "Judge" in the Far East, or "Doctor" worn jauntily by the chiroprapist. It were well if others of our universities would abandon altogether the gifts of honorary degrees and thus increase the value of the honor. The mystic letters after a man's name would then have a higher and finer significance. Perhaps there should be established some degree for bestowal upon men who have distinguished themselves in public service of various kinds. But it is absurd to give the degree of, let us say, Doctor of Laws, to men who know nothing about the science of law or laws. We have known cases of men being given the highest honorary degree for doing things that were a disservice to their country and their kind—to exploiters of the people and the people's possessions. Cornell's example in this matter is worthy of emulation by all other universities. Honors loosely given are not honors at all. University degrees should mean that those who wear them have won them by worthy investigation and demonstration in well-defined fields of knowledge under conditions requiring something like originality of analysis, synthesis, conclusion, and presentation.

[Cornell has conferred no honorary degrees except in 1886, when the degree of Doctor of Laws was bestowed upon David Starr Jordan '72 and Andrew D. White.—Editor of the News.]

TAYLOR, KELLEY, BECKER & ROBERTS

A partnership formed July 1st for the practice of law in New York City contains three Cornell men. The firm name is Taylor, Kelley, Becker & Roberts, and the firm's offices are at 30 Pine Street. The Cornell men in the partnership are William Winthrop Taylor LL.B., '07; Charles Earl Kelley, A.B., '04, and Neal Dow Becker, LL.B., '05, A.B., '06. The fourth member is Gilbert W. Roberts.

Taylor was the senior president of the Class of 1907 and the winner of the Woodford Prize in Oratory. After his graduation he entered the office of a Brooklyn law firm. During the last five years he has been in independent practice in New York City. The law firm of Kelley & Becker, which is merged in the new partnership, has been in existence since January, 1911. Kelley was formerly with James W. Osborne, and Becker was previously associated with Rand, Moffet & Webb. Becker won the '94 Memorial Prize, and Kelley was an '86 Memorial speaker. Becker is the author of "Road Rules and the Law of Automobiles" (1910).

KELLY & ST. JOHN

Announcement is made that the law firm of Kelly & St. John will begin practice in Ithaca on September 1st. The members of the firm are John Alfred Kelly, LL.B. '13, and Edward Morgan St. John, A.B. '11, LL.B. '13. Mr. Kelly was employed in the office of George S. Tarbell for some time after his graduation and about a year ago he opened an office of his own. Mr. St. John after his graduation from the law school entered the office of Cobb, Cobb, McAllister, Feinberg & Heath. During the last year he has been in the office of George S. Tarbell. The new firm will occupy offices at 142 East State Street.

ATHLETICS

Mr. Courtney Advisory Coach

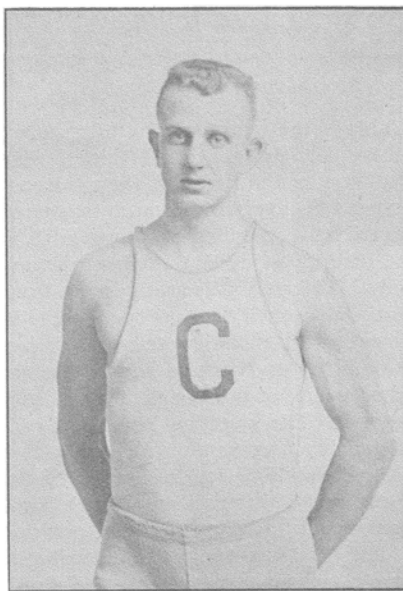

J. L. Collyer '17 Appointed Assistant Coach—John Hoyle Resigns

At his own request Mr. Courtney has been relieved of responsibility for the active coaching of the university crews. His contract with the athletic association has expired, the office of advisory coach has been created and he has been appointed to the office. The term of the office is not fixed. It is understood that Mr. Courtney will retain his supervision of the crews just as long as health permits him to do so, and that he will give as much of his time and energy to the work as he feels inclined to give. Cornell rowing, which has enjoyed his active direction for twenty-eight years continuously, will retain the benefit of his invaluable knowledge and experience.

John Lyon Collyer '17, of Chelsea-on-Hudson, has been appointed assistant coach for next year. His selection was Mr. Courtney's own suggestion. Collyer is in his twenty-third year. He entered Sibley College in 1913. He rowed in Cascadilla School and has rowed for three years at Cornell. He stroked the freshman crew to victory against Princeton, Harvard, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, and Columbia in 1914. The next year Collyer was on the varsity eight. In the two-mile crew which was defeated by Yale and Harvard that year he was at No. 4, but he stroked the eight which defeated Stanford, Syracuse, Columbia, and Pennsylvania on the four mile course on the Hudson. In the 1916 races Collyer was stroke oar against Harvard and in the Hudson River Regatta. He is a member of Chi Phi, Quill and Dagger, and Aleph Samach. During the last year he has been one of the representatives of his class in the Student Council.

John Hoyle, who has been at Cornell as boatbuilder since 1899 and has for a good many years been assistant coach, has resigned. The tender of his resignation by Mr. Hoyle followed the decision of the association to appoint Collyer assistant coach. The association then decided to buy its boats, instead of continuing to build them, and reluctantly accepted Mr. Hoyle's resignation. He has not announced his plans for the future.

A committee of the athletic association has been created to look after routine matters at the boathouse now that Mr.

JOHN L. COLLYER

Courtney has given up the active direction of affairs there. The committee consists of G. E. Kent '10, graduate manager of the athletic association; Charles E. Treman '89, graduate adviser of rowing, and Professor Herman Diederichs '97, president of the athletic council.

Mr. Courtney is resting this summer at Long Point, on the east shore of Cayuga Lake. He has recovered from the strain of the last rowing season and is said by his friends to appear in better health than at any time since he suffered a fractured skull in June a year ago.

COLUMBIA AND THE REGATTA

Recommendations made by Morton G. Bogue, of the intercollegiate board of stewards, and Francis S. Bangs, his predecessor, that Columbia withdraw from intercollegiate rowing, were voted down by old crew men, captains and managers and other Columbia alumni who met at the Columbia University Club in New York on July 20 to discuss the university's rowing future. It was unanimously resolved to be the sense of the meeting that Columbia should not withdraw from intercollegiate rowing. The meeting was called by Messrs. Bangs and Bogue, who urged, as the reasons for their recommendation, that little interest was taken in rowing by the students of Columbia, that too few men tried for the crews, and that there was little material from which to make a 1917 crew.

Since the meeting was held, Mr.

Bogue has tendered his resignation from the board of stewards.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

The football schedule for the coming fall is: September 30, Oberlin at Ithaca; October 7, Gettysburg at Ithaca; October 14, Williams at Ithaca; October 21, Bucknell at Ithaca; October 28, Harvard at Cambridge; November 4, Carnegie Institute of Technology at Ithaca; November 11, Michigan at Ithaca; November 18, Massachusetts Agricultural College at Ithaca; November 30, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

TENNIS

Francis T. Hunter '17, of New Rochelle, captain of the university tennis team, won the North Side championship singles for the second year in succession at the University Heights Tennis Club in July. Hunter and his partner also won the doubles championship.

Names of More Cornell Men Who Are Out With the National Guard

Fritz Fernow '09, at Headquarters Troop I, 1st Cavalry, New York National Guard, McAllen, Texas.

G. Vail Hartwell '09, with Squadron A, New York Cavalry, on the border.

J. Dugald White '10, son of J. G. White '85, sergeant with the armored motor battery at Peekskill, N. Y.

Grenville W. Parker '11, sergeant, Company K, 7th New York Infantry, McAllen, Texas.

Merrell E. Clark '11, Company B, 7th New York Infantry, McAllen, Texas.

J. T. Child '12, Illinois Engineer Corps, San Antonio, Texas.

J. A. W. Iglehart, with the Baltimore contingent of the Maryland National Guard, on the border.

Gordon Wightman '17, with Battery E, 2d New York Field Artillery, on the border.

ARTICLES by two Cornell men are included in the June number of the National Geographic Magazine. Frederick V. Coville '87, botanist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, contributes an article entitled "The wild blueberry tamed." His article describes the successful experiments made under his direction in the Department of Agriculture to improve the blueberry by artificial selection and cultivation. Another article, "The citizen army of Holland," is by Henrik Willem van Loon '05, now a lecturer in the University's department of history.

OBITUARY

Clinton D. Smith '73

Clinton DeWitt Smith, instructor in extension teaching in the New York State College of Agriculture, died suddenly at Buffalo on August 4. He was stricken with apoplexy in that city while he was on his way from Ithaca to deliver a series of lectures in western New York.

Professor Smith had had a long and useful career as teacher of agriculture in this country and Brazil. He was born at Trumansburg, N. Y., March 7, 1854, a son of Reuben and Clarissa (Pease) Smith. He graduated Bachelor of Science at Cornell in 1873 and received the degree of Master of Science in 1875. For several years he taught school and then, for a short time, he practiced law at Trumansburg. In 1891-3 he was director of the experiment station and professor of dairy husbandry at the University of Minnesota. In 1893 he was called to the Michigan Agricultural College to be professor of agriculture and director of the experiment station. He left there in 1908 to accept the first presidency of the Escola Agricola, at Piracicaba, in Santo Paulo, Brazil. This was Brazil's first agricultural school. Its foundation by the government was a part of a plan to introduce a diversified system of agriculture, including the growing of grain and improved breeds of livestock, in a country where coffee had been almost the only improved crop. Professor Smith completed the organization of the school and remained there for five years, at which time the school had 170 students from all parts of the country. He was urged to stay longer, but he preferred to return to this country. In 1913, therefore, he took up his home on his ancestral farm near Trumansburg. He continued his agricultural work by lecturing and teaching for the New York State College of Agriculture in its extension service. Professor Smith is survived by his wife and by one brother.

The funeral was held at Trumansburg on August 8. The honorary pallbearers were Dr. L. H. Bailey, Professor A. R. Mann, Professor J. L. Stone, Professor G. W. Cavanaugh, Professor E. O. Fippin, Professor H. H. Wing, Professor D. J. Crosby, and Professor G. A. Works.

Dr. J. H. Woodward '79

Dr. Julius Hayden Woodward, who was distinguished among eye, ear and throat specialists, died at his home, 200 West Fifty-eighth Street, New York, on July 2. He was born at Castleton, Vermont, May 31, 1858. He entered Cornell in 1875 and took the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1879. After graduating from the College of Physicians and Surgeons and studying in Berlin he practiced in Vermont and then in New York City, specializing in diseases of the eye. He was for many years a teacher in the University of Vermont until his removal to New York in 1897. In 1908 he was appointed professor of ophthalmology in the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital. He was a member of the New York Academy of Medicine, the American Medical Association, the Société Française d'Ophthalmologie, and other societies. His wife survives him.

Judson H. Boughton '03

Judson Hartwell Boughton, M. E., '03, died July 29 at Milwaukee, Wis., from the effects of burns received in the explosion of a motor boat engine on Lake Michigan July 27. Boughton was president of the Great Lakes Boat Building Corporation of Milwaukee and he was testing one of the company's new boats when the accident occurred. He was accompanied on the boat by his niece, Miss Annette Housam, who leaped overboard to escape the flames and was drowned. Boughton was thirty-five years old. After studying at Purdue University he entered Sibley College in 1902 and graduated in 1903. For several years after his graduation he was employed in the New York office of the Ocean Accident & Guarantee Corporation of London. In 1907 he was appointed secretary and manager of the National Light & Improvement Company of St. Louis, which operates gas companies and electric railway, light, and power companies in the Southwest. He was elected president of that company in 1911. In 1914, while retaining his connection with that company, he organized the St. Louis Yacht & Boat Company for the manufacture of motor boats. Recently he merged the St. Louis company and a Milwaukee company in the Great Lakes Boat Building Corporation, of which he became the managing director, and he moved from St. Louis to Milwaukee last February. He leaves a wife and two children.

R. H. Harrison '10

Raymond H. Harrison, M. E., 1910, died on August 10 at his home in Orange, N. J. An acute form of anaemia was the cause of his death. He was twenty-six years old and was born in Orange, where he had lived all his life except the four years when he was at college. He was employed by the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey. His parents and two sisters survive him.

C. B. Shakespeare '15

Charles Baird Shakespeare, who was for two years a member of the Class of 1915 in the College of Arts and Sciences, died July 31 at his home in Philadelphia. The cause of death was infantile paralysis. A short time before his death Shakespeare had gone to New York on business and it is believed that he contracted the disease while he was there. He was a member of the Chi Psi fraternity. His mother and a brother, Edward O. Shakespeare, B. Arch., '16, survive him.

BRIEF UNIVERSITY NOTES

AMONG THE CHARTER MEMBERS of the newly organized Optical Society of America are P. G. Nutting, Ph.D., '03, of the research laboratory of the Eastman Kodak Company; Edward Bausch '75, of the Bausch & Lomb Optical Company; Dr. H. P. Gage '08, of the Corning Glass Company, and Professor F. K. Richtmyer, of the department of physics, Cornell University. Dr. Nutting has been elected president of the society.

DR. W. T. HEWETT, emeritus professor of German, was present late in June at the Encenia of Oxford University, a ceremony annually held in commemoration of founders and benefactors. The Oxford Times noted that Professor Hewett was in the procession of heads of houses and doctors which accompanied the Vice-Chancellor from the Hall of Christ Church to the Divinity School, where the ceremony took place.

THE PUBLICATION of the reading course bulletins of the College of Agriculture has been resumed. It was halted by Governor Whitman's veto of the legislative printing bill, but only for a short time. It is understood that a way has been found to continue the printing until the next session of the legislature.

PROFESSOR A. R. MANN became acting director of the College of Agriculture on August 1st, when the resignation of Dr. B. T. Galloway took effect and Dr. Galloway returned to the Department of Agriculture at Washington. Professor Mann has been appointed acting director for one year.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE of the city of Ithaca is pushing a project for the development of Six Mile Creek Gorge as a park and playground.

YALE'S BICENTENNIAL

YALE UNIVERSITY will celebrate next October the two hundredth anniversary of the removal of the college to New Haven. A part of the celebration will be a pageant. A part of the pageant will be a representation of Yale as a mother of colleges. There are about thirty institutions in whose foundation Yale graduates have played conspicuous parts, and no less than nineteen colleges whose first presidents were Yale men. These colleges, including Cornell, have been asked to co-operate with the managers of the proposed pageant. The names of the nineteen colleges, the name of the first president in each instance, and the year of his accession, are: Princeton, Jonathan Dickinson, 1747; Columbia, Samuel Johnson, 1754; Dartmouth, Eleazar Wheelock, 1769; Williams, Ebenezer Fitch, 1793; Middlebury, Jeremiah Atwater, 1800; University of Georgia, Abraham Baldwin, 1801; Hamilton, Azel Backus, 1812; Kenyon, David B. Douglass, 1825; Illinois College, Edward Beecher, 1830; Wabash, Elihu W. Baldwin, 1833; University of Missouri, John H. Lathrop, 1840; University of Mississippi, Augustus B. Longstreet, 1848; University of Wisconsin, John H. Lathrop, 1849; Beloit, Aaron L. Chapin, 1850; Cornell, Andrew D. White, 1866; University of California, Henry Durant, 1870; Johns Hopkins, Daniel C. Gilman, 1875; Tulane, William Preston Johnston, 1884; University of Chicago, William R. Harper, 1891.

THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

Beginning next October, when the Rhodes examinations will be held, a year's intermission in electing scholars for study abroad will be done away with, and a new plan substituted whereby scholars from thirty-two of the forty-eight states will be chosen annually. Hitherto the Rhodes system chose scholars from all states of the union in two successive years. Then there followed a year when no one was elected. In the future scholars will be elected from thirty-two states every year, and for this purpose the forty-eight states have been divided into three groups of sixteen each—A, B, and C. Thus in 1916 scholars will be elected from A and B; in 1917 from A and C and in 1918 from B and C, and subsequently in the same rotation. New York, the New England States and Pennsylvania are among those in group A, and hence will send scholars this year.—School and Society.

ALUMNI NOTES

'81, Ph.B.—Yale University last June conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Science on Dr. Theobald Smith, director of the department of animal pathology of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

'90, B.S. in Chem.—William M. Irish, president of the Associate Alumni, was recently elected treasurer of the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia.

'93, M.E.—James Francis Barker has resigned the office of principal of the East Technical High School in Cleveland, Ohio, to become the head of the Mechanics' Institute in Rochester, N. Y.

'97, A.B.—Newell Lyon, who has been manager of the New York state sales department of The White Company, with offices at Syracuse, is now in the company's home office at Cleveland, Ohio.

'99, M.E.—Emmett B. Carter, chief engineer of the Midvale Steel Company, Nicetown, Philadelphia, is the president of the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia, an organization of 2,500 members.

'04, M.E.—Barrett Smith had charge of the electrical division of the industrial exhibition "Fifty Years of Technology" held by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology late in June to commemorate its fiftieth anniversary and the moving into the new home in Cambridge. He was appointed by the Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation, which had been asked to handle that division of the exhibition. It covered the branches of water power, power transmission, central station practice, electric railroads, electric lighting, motors and turbines. Smith organized the advertising department of Stone & Webster and had charge of it for several years, but it is now under the management of Lewis E. Palmer '05. Smith is now in the advertising business independently, with office at 20 Central Street, Boston.

'04, M.E.—Roberto J. Shalders is the manager of the soap and candle factory of Castro & Oliveira in Rio de Janeiro. His address is Caixa do Correio No. 356, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

'06, B.S.A.—The address of A. S. Coelho was incompletely given in the News of June 1st. It is Caixa No. 1, Jahu, S. Paulo, Brazil.

'07, M.E.—Charles W. Mortimer has been promoted to be Second Assistant Examiner in the U. S. Patent Office.

'07, A.B.—A watch fob was presented on July 31 to Louis W. Fehr, secretary of the Park Board of New York City, at his office in the Municipal Building. The fob was a token of the appreciation of the bazaar committee for the relief of Jewish war sufferers of the fact that Mr. Fehr, although not himself a Jew, had given his services to the committee as promotion adviser of the bazaar. Mr. Fehr handled the bazaar's advertising and news publicity.

'08, M.E.—A daughter, Jane Burchfield Mann, was born July 26 to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey B. Mann of Pittsburgh.

'08, C.E.—L. M. Brockway, as resident engineer of the Power Construction Company, has completed the Readsboro development of the New England Power Company on the Deerfield River, and is now engaged on reconstruction work at the Vernon plant of the New England Power Company on the Connecticut River. He is living at Hinsdale, N. H.

'08—Edward F. Merrill was married to Miss Kenneth Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Y. Russell, of Chicago, on July 20.

'09, A.B.—A daughter, Anne McCormick, was born July 13 at New York City to Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Beers (Julia McCormick '09).

'09, M.E.—Edward Heermans Clark was married to Miss Ruth Bessier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bessier, of Ithaca, on August 8. Mr. and Mrs. Clark will make their home in Cortland, N. Y. Clark is the manager of his father's newspaper, the Cortland Standard. Mrs. Clark is a graduate of the Cortland Normal School.

'09, M.E.—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Katherine Arnold of Muncie, Ind., and Lieut. A. C. Sullivan, C. A. C. The wedding will take place October 12, 1916, at Corregidor, Philippine Islands.

'10, A.B.—Dorothy Colby was married to Victor H. Lawn, a graduate of the University of Michigan, on July 14. They will make their home at 3135 Diamond Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
