ITHACA, N. Y., OCTOBER 26, 1916

PRICE 10 CENTS

TWO colleges of the University have announced the creation of committees of the Faculty to meet with standing committees of the Board of Trustees for conference in matters affecting the respective colleges. This action was taken under the law which the Trustees and Faculty passed last year to give the Faculty a larger share in the government of the University. That law gave the University Faculty the right to name three delegates to sit with the Board, and it provided also for the creation by colleges of faculty committees of their own, to consist in each instance of the dean and two members chosen by the college faculty. Sibley College of Mechanical Engineering has appointed to its committee Professor D. S. Kimball and Professor Herman Diederichs. The College of Civil Engineering has appointed Professor H. S. Jacoby and Professor O. M. Leland.

THE POWER of any conference committee is, by the terms of the legislation, to be determined by the faculty of its college. That is to say, the committee may, if the faculty choose, be ordered to serve for a definite term, or it may, if the faculty prefer, be constituted as any occasion for conference arises and only for that occasion. Sibley College, in announcing the creation of its committee, stated that Professor Kimball had been elected to serve for one year and Professor Diederichs for one semester, and that hereafter election would be for a single semester. The College of Civil Engineering did not announce a definition of its committee's power. The other colleges which have the right to appoint such committees are the colleges of law and architecture. The College of Arts and Sciences was invited to select so many similar committees as would adequately represent the different groups or departments of that college.

FIFTY MEMBERS of the senior class in Sibley College have elected this year to take the optional course entitled Industrial Engineering. This enrollment is an increase of five over that of last year, when the course was offered for the first time. The purpose of this senior option is to prepare students more exactly for handling the commercial problems that are connected with design, construction or operation in engineering. Besides a course of lectures and drafting-room work on industrial subjects it includes several courses in economics and allied subjects. Since it was established, a two-hour course on safety engineering and fire protection has been added. A prerequisite to this senior option is an elementary course in industrial organization provided for the junior year of the college curriculum. This year about seventy-five men from outside Sibley College have elected that elementary course.

THE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY during the summer purchased from Mrs. Guiteau the insurance library of the late John Wilson Guiteau. Mr. Guiteau was the statistician of the New York Life Insurance Company for many years, and collected a library of about fifteen hundred volumes. This collection has now been incorporated in the University Library's own insurance collection.

A SERIES of three concerts is announced by the University Orchestra. At each concert the orchestra will be assisted by a soloist or two—on November 11 by Albert Spalding, violinist, and Loretta Del Valle, soprano; on January 11 by Mme. Sonia Simitch, mezzo-soprano, and at the third concert, in March, by Mme. Alice Verlet, soprano. At trials held since the term began, more than twenty freshmen have qualified for membership in the orchestra.

THE YALE PAGEANT, in commemoration of the two hundredth anniversary of the coming of Yale College to New Haven, was held in the Yale Bowl last Saturday. Episodes in the history of the college were depicted. The final scene, entitled "Yale, the mother of colleges and men," included symbolic figures of thirty colleges which Yale has been instrumental in founding. Each of these figures carried a model of a building representative of the particular college. One of the colleges thus symbolized was Cornell, whose first president was a graduate of Yale. Others were Princeton, Columbia, Dartmouth, Williams, and Hamilton. Several Cornell men attended the pageant as spectators in behalf of the committee on the Cornell semi-centennial. They included Colonel Henry W. Sackett '75, chairman; Professor Charles H. Hull '86, Professor John T. Parson, Professor E. Gorton Davis, Professor E. P. Andrews '95, Louis A. Fuertes '97, and J. André Smith '02.

SECRETARY HITCHCOCK went to Nashville this week to attend the fifth annual meeting of the Association of Alumni Secretaries, to be held there on October 26, 27, and 28. The hosts of the meeting are Vanderbilt University and Peabody College for Teachers. The association is divided into three sections, comprising respectively the larger institutions, the smaller colleges, and the state institutions. The chairman of the first section this year is the representative of Cornell. Conferences, to be led by various alumni secretaries, will consider the relation of alumni to various college problems. One of these conferences relates to the problem of student housing, and the reading of a paper on this topic has been assigned to Mr. Hitchcock.

THE SEPTEMBER NUMBER of the Sibley Journal contains an illustrated article on "Mining the frozen gravels of the Arctic" by Dr. Henry M. Payne, who lectured on that subject here last year. Another article is "Industrial electric heating," by C. F. Hirshfeld, formerly professor of power engineering and now chief of the research department of the Detroit Edison Company. This number of the Journal contains a large number of employment notes.

A TOURNAMENT has been conducted by the Cornell Chess Club to select five men who shall represent the club in a match with the Harvard Chess Club. The match will be played in Cambridge on Friday, the eve of the Harvard-Cornell football game. Stewart C. Wilson '17, of Indianapolis, has been elected president of the club.

MEMBERS of last year's Student Council met this week to appoint days for the various class elections.

Scheme of a School of Commerce Adopted

The Trustees Approve a Plan for a College of Business Administration and Public Affairs at Cornell University

[At a meeting of the University Faculty, Wednesday of last week, October 18, the Secretary of the Faculty reported the receipt from the Board of Trustees of a copy of the "report of a committee appointed under authority of resolution of the Board of Trustees at their meeting held November 6, 1915, to consider and report upon the establishment of a school of commerce at the University." That report was dated June 14, 1916. The Faculty was further informed that the Board, at its meeting of June 20, 1916, adopted the report and the recommendations therein. The text of the report is given below.—EDITOR.]

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES:

IN their consideration of the question of the advisability of the establishment of a school of commerce at Cornell University your committee have had the benefit of a report recently submitted by a committee of the University faculty, appointed to consider and report upon the advisability and practicability of establishing a commercial course of education in the University. A copy of that report is hereto annexed. [For that report, see the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS, February 10, 1916, Vol. XVIII, No. 19, p. 222.] Your committee have also had the benefit of a lecture on "Schools of Commerce in Germany," delivered in last December before the members of all the faculties of the University by Dr. Moritz J. Bonn, professor of economics in the University of Munich, and lecturer in 1915 on the Jacob H. Schiff Foundation at Cornell University, a stenographic report of which lecture, substantially complete, is also hereto annexed. [For a report of that lecture, see the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS, December 23, 1915, Vol. XVIII, No. 13, p. 150.] Your committee have also considered the curricula and information set out in the announcements, issued by various colleges and universities of this country, of their courses, schools or colleges of commerce or business administration, and have sought advice from practical men of affairs outside of the educational world.

The report of the faculty committee covers the field so completely as to the present position of higher education for business pursuits, the chief problems in organization in connection therewith, the relative advantages and disadvantages of the different types of organization, the different grades or kinds of professional schools for the purpose of higher commercial education, and the general nature of the curriculum, so far as the scope of the proposed college was considered, that should be offered that your committee feel that no further discussion of those branches of the subject need be had. Only in one particular do your committee consider that such faculty report need be supplemented in connection with the subject in general, and that particular is really more a matter of detail than substance. It is that in the conduct of the work of the college effort should be made, where practicable, to have definite subjects taught by natives of foreign countries and in the languages of those countries, so that students already presumably well grounded in such languages may have opportunity to perfect themselves in the actual use of them for practical commercial purposes.

Probably the most difficult point to be settled in connection with the establishment of such a school or college is as to whether it should take the form of an undergraduate college or that of a professional college of graduate or semi-graduate grade. The faculty committee recommend in their report a professional college of semi-graduate grade, offering courses two years in length and leading to a master's degree, such college to be so organized that its work could be joined to that of any of the undergraduate colleges of the University, and to be "open to (a) college graduates, (b) students who had completed three years of work in any of the undergraduate colleges of Cornell University or in other colleges of similar grade, and, under careful restrictions, to (c) a limited number of mature students with business experience, not candidates for a degree." It would seem that such a plan, which would really require "but one more year of preliminary work than the usual type of undergraduate school of commerce makes a prerequisite to its technical business subjects" (faculty report) would meet the objections that are made to strictly graduate schools, and at the same time offer a type of institution for the benefit of young men who are not dependent upon finding immediate paying positions, that is, not an institution to train clerks, but one to give men who have the opportunity of entering the business world upon a favorable basis, an education to enable them to do so.

Your committee entertain the hope that it may be possible eventually, if not at the outset, to extend the scope of the proposed college to cover a field of the highest importance to this country from the patriotic standpoint, namely, the education of young men for the public service, municipal and state as well as national. The legal profession is now the principal gateway to public life. The past few years have witnessed a marked change in this country in the popular conception of the requirements and standards of public office and a growing demand for better trained and more efficient types of office holders, and there is a continually increasing number of young men who are in a position to and who desire to educate themselves for a life work in the public service on a plane that will meet such conception and satisfy such demand. It may be utopian to expect that a republican form of government can ever adapt itself to selections from such sources, but the tendency of the day seems to hold out hope that this may be. With this idea in mind your committee believe that the name of the proposed college should also be broadened so that it might be suggestive of such an extended field of usefulness, and that an appropriate name for such an institution would be "The College of Business Administration and Public Affairs at Cornell University."

The plans for the proposed college should contemplate the eventual establishment of a library devoted to the collection, as rapidly as possible, of the extensive and growing bibliography connected with the work to be covered, and the erection of a building sufficient to house the college and the library.

An additional important feature which might be hoped for in the future, but which is not essential to the establishment of the college or indeed to its successful operation, would be a commercial museum, modeled on the general lines of the great Philadelphia Commercial Museum, which is, your committee believe, now the only commercial museum in the United States. Similar museums are available to students in Germany and are helpful if founded and conducted on sufficiently broad lines, but the financial requirements of such a museum would probably be too great to warrant its consideration as an essential feature of the organization of the proposed college.

Your committee recommend:

1. That the committee of the University faculty, whose report is annexed, be requested to outline a definite curriculum for the proposed college and to make a careful estimate of the minimum annual increase which the establishment of such a college would make in the University budget.

2. That, provided ways and means can be found to cover the financial requirements, a new college, to be known as "The College of Business Administration and Public Affairs at Cornell University," be organized as a college of semi-graduate grade, offering courses two years in length and leading to a master's degree, and so organized that its work may be joined to that of any of the undergraduate colleges of the University, and open to (a) college graduates, (b) students who have completed three years of work in any of the undergraduate colleges of Cornell University or in other colleges of similar grade, and, under careful restrictions, to (c) a limited number of mature students with business experience, not candidates for a degree.

3. That the plans for such college be made sufficiently broad eventually to cover instruction in matters relating to preparation for the public service and to provide for the foundation of a library of commercial bibliography and for the erection of a building for the purposes of the college.

The University Scholarships

Five of Them Won by Students From the Boys' High School of Brooklyn

The eighteen University Scholarships have been awarded to members of the class of 1920. These scholarships pay $200 a year for two years. Thirteen schools are represented among the winners this year. All but one of these schools are in the State of New York, and all but four of them are in the City of New York. Every one of the five boroughs of that city is represented. Five of the prizes were won by graduates of the Boys' High School of Brooklyn. This is the eleventh time in twelve years that the honors in this competition have gone to that school. Two of the scholarships were won by students from the Morris High School (Bronx), New York. Following are the names of the winners:

The Cornell Scholarships: James Raymond Wadsworth, Parish High School; Harry Kroin, Boys' High School, Brooklyn.

The President White Scholarships: Hillel Poritsky, Morris High School (Bronx), New York; Russell Olin Hooker, Watertown High School.

The Henry B. Lord Scholarships: Madeline Fay Gilmour, Rogers High School, Newport, R. I.; Sophie Dazian Worms, Flushing High School (Queens), New York.

The McGraw Scholarships: Hyman Klein, Eastern District High School, Brooklyn; Samuel Feldman, Boys' High School, Brooklyn.

The Sage Scholarships: Lansing Southwick Hoskins, Mynderse Academy, Seneca Falls, N. Y.; Arthur William Hatch, Morris High School.

The Sibley Scholarships: Solomon Schwartzreich, Stuyvesant High School, New York; Morris Berkowitz, Boys' High School, Brooklyn.

The Stewart L. Woodford Scholarships: Mark Cymrot, Boys' High School, Brooklyn; Samuel Engel, Newtown High School (Queens), New York.

The John Stanton Gould Scholarships: Charles Eliot Rhodes, Boys' High School, Brooklyn; Joseph Nemser, DeWitt Clinton High School, New York.

The Horace Greeley Scholarships: Howard Malmar, Richmond Hill High School (Queens), New York; Frederick R. M. Undritz, Curtis High School (Richmond), New York.

One hundred and twenty-six members of the freshman class took the competitive examinations. The labor of computing the comparative standing of all these contestants kept two members of the mathematical faculty busy for two whole days. This computation is difficult because the contestants are not all examined in the same subjects. Every candidate is examined in three out of seven subjects—English, Greek, Latin, French, German, elementary mathematics, and advanced mathematics. Every one must take English and at least one of the other four languages, and any candidate who does not select either Latin or Greek must take advanced mathematics. How, then, measure the relative ability of a student who takes, for example, English, French, and Latin, and one who takes English, German, and advanced mathematics? The problem is solved by computing from the marks given in English—the subject taken by every competitor—a modulus by means of which, for every competitor, the marks given in diverse subjects may be reduced to a common measure of value.

Society of Civil Engineers

Annual Meeting Held for the Election of Officers—865 Members Now

The annual meeting of the Cornell Society of Civil Engineers was held at Stewart's Restaurant, 30 Park Place, New York, on Tuesday night, October 17. Nearly a hundred civil engineers sat down to dinner at seven o'clock. At the business meeting which followed the dinner President Wait was in the chair. He made a few remarks covering the various activities of the year, and reports from committees were received. James W. Beardsley '91 was then introduced. He gave an interesting talk about the irrigation service in Porto Rico. Mr. Clogher of the Electric Bond & Share Company completed the program by exhibiting a large number of lantern slides giving some fine views of the hydro-electric power development which is under way in the territory about Salt Lake City.

The report of the corresponding secretary shows a total membership of 865, of whom 277 are resident members living within a radius of fifty miles of the New York City Hall.

The report of the nominating committee was received and adopted, these officers being elected for the year: President, Charles N. Green '88; first vice-president, Egbert G. Moore '99; second vice-president, George H. Norton '87; recording secretary, Victor G. Thomasen '11; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Ernest A. Truran '95.

Arrangements for the evening were made by the committee on meetings, composed of D. H. Dixon '97, Robert W. Gastmeyer '11, and Charles S. Rindsfoos '06.

Associate Alumni Committees

President W. M. Irish has appointed the following committees:

Standing Committees

(1) Committee on relations with preparatory schools: Miss A. H. Bruère, Chairman; William R. Webster, jr., E. B. Whitman.

(2) Committee on local association scholarships: Not to be named at this time.

(3) Committee on benefactions: W. H. H. Hutton, jr., Chairman; E. B. Whitman, R. E. Coulson.

(4) Committee on Cornell publicity: R. W. Sailor, Chairman; W. W. Macon, N. H. Noyes, J. P. Dods.

(5) Committee on educational legislation: N. J. Weldgen, Chairman; L. L. Tatum.

(6) Committee for promoting the interests of the alumni: W. G. Ogden, Chairman; C. S. Northup, W. W. Macon, H. A. Hitchcock.

(7) Committee for establishing and developing local clubs and associations: J. P. Dods, Chairman; Harold Flack, H. A. Hitchcock.

(8) Committee on alumni relations with the university authorities and the undergraduate body: L. L. Tatum, Chairman; Miss A. H. Bruère, J. L. Tiernon, jr.

Special Committees

Committee on semi-centennial celebration: N. H. Noyes, Chairman; R. E. Coulson, J. L. Tiernon, jr.

Alumni News Committee: W. W. Macon, Chairman; N. H. Noyes, J. P. Dods.

Committee to interpret the rules and regulations now governing the election of alumni trustees: W. W. Rowlee, Chairman; Mrs. Willard Beahan, Roger Lewis.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATIONS

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

The second meeting and dinner of the newly organized association of Cornell men in Springfield and vicinity was held at the Hotel Worthy, Springfield, Mass., on October 9. About thirty enthusiastic graduates were present and took steps toward the formation of a permanent organization.

Walter Mulligan '98 was in charge of the arrangements, Charles E. Torrance '09 presided at the piano, and Linton Hart '14 engineered the songs. After the dinner a three-man minstrel show speeded things up for a half-hour, and then the crowd attended to business.

It was found that there were probably seventy-five Cornell men in Springfield and Holyoke alone, and it was resolved to include in the organization's mailing list all Cornell men in Western Massachusetts and vicinity. They are requested to forward their addresses.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected, as follows: President, C. H. Davidson '11, in care of Fred T. Ley & Co., Springfield; vice-president, Sidney E. Whiting '98, Holyoke; secretary and treasurer, Norman E. Hildreth '09, Springfield. A committee on organization was elected, consisting of C. M. French '09, C. E. Torrance '09, and John J. McCormick '13.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at the Nonotuck Hotel in Holyoke, some time in November. Notice of the date will be published in the ALUMNI NEWS, and all Cornell men in the vicinity are cordially urged to be present.

Practically all the men at the meeting signified their intention of attending the Harvard-Cornell celebration at Boston on the 28th.

CLEVELAND

The annual meeting of the Cornell Club of Cleveland was held September 29 and the following officers were elected: President, C. L. Bradley '08; vice-president, H. D. North '07; secretary, Dr. I. J. Kerr '91, 1015 New Guardian Building; treasurer, C. M. Colyer '15; directors, W. H. Forbes '06 and W. A. Bridgeman '14. The board of directors now consists of the following, besides the above officers ex officio: Willard Beahan, A. R. Warner, L. C. Welch, Roderick D. Grant, W. H. Forbes, and W. A. Bridgeman.

NEW YORK

The Cornell University Club of New York has elected the following men to membership: A. M. Mowry '89, H. G.

Bohn '02, C. M. Brown '04, J. B. Odell '04, F. W. Eveland '05, J. F. D. Hoge '06, R. W. Krass '06, G. G. Burlingame '07, J. O. Winslow '11, T. E. Murrell '12, Marshall De Angelis '13, Edward Haynes '13, B. P. Jones '13, P. T. Coffey '14, C. C. Lemnitzer '14, J. A. Moffitt '14, E. L. Sprague '14, H. J. Adair '15, L. M. Blancke '15, Frederick Weisbrod '15, W. S. Graham '16, Donald Hammond '16, M. W. Howe '16, D. J. Nightingale '18.

MINNESOTA

An error crept into the list of alumni associations as published in the NEWS this fall, under the head of Minnesota. The organization known as the Minnesota Cornell Alumni Association takes in Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Northern Wisconsin. The association is divided into the Cornell Clubs of St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Duluth. The secretaries of these clubs are respectively C. R. Vincent, W. C. Affeld, and A. T. Banning, jr. Mr. Vincent is secretary for the whole association. His address is Pioneer Building, St. Paul.

CHICAGO 1912 MEN SAVING UP

The men of the Class of 1912 living in Chicago and Milwaukee are already planning for their five-year reunion next June. A series of three banquets will be held in Chicago, including the Milwaukee men, one this fall, another in January, and the last in May. Circulars and letters have been sent to all the 1912 men in Chicago, who number 44, and to their classmates in Milwaukee. The class is going to inaugurate "The Cornell 1912 Reunion Fund." Each member opens a savings account in a certain bank in Chicago, in which each month he deposits $10. In June he will have $80 in his fund, enough to cover expenses to Ithaca and back. Those who cannot get to Ithaca in June will be entitled to withdraw the principal and use it for their own purposes, but with money on hand the class expects to send down a large delegation. The first banquet will be held on Oct. 28.

STEWART C. WILSON '17, of Indianapolis, has been elected manager of the Cornell Navy, succeeding Walter F. Beachy, of Oak Park, Ill., who did not return to the University this fall. Wilson is a member of Sigma Chi.

THE ELECTION of John Emmett O'Brien '17 (A.B., '15), of Shortsville, to the office of business manager, is announced by the Cornell Law Quarterly.

OBITUARY

W. R. Lazenby '74

William Rane Lazenby, professor of forestry in Ohio State University, died at Columbus on September 14 of pneumonia. Professor Lazenby was born in Yates County, N. Y., December 5, 1850. He entered Cornell University in 1869 and graduated in 1874 with the degree of Bachelor of Agriculture. From then until 1881 he was instructor and assistant professor of botany and horticulture at Cornell. In 1881 he was appointed to a professorship in the same subjects in Ohio State University. Since 1910 his title had been professor of forestry.

Professor Lazenby had published much on the subjects which he taught. He spent many of his summer vacations in studying horticulture and forestry in Europe. He was a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, a founder and past president of the Ohio Academy of Science, and a life member of the American Pomological Association and the American Forestry Society. His wife and a daughter, who is a student in Smith College, survive him.

A memorial service was held at Ohio State University a few days ago. At that service an appreciation of Professor Lazenby, written by his classmate Professor J. H. Comstock, was read. It reviewed Lazenby's struggle to support himself by labor during his college course, and spoke of him as the virtual founder of the horticultural department at Cornell. It continued:

"He showed early the public spirit that was so strikingly characteristic of his life. I remember an example of this, which occurred, I believe, in his sophomore year. Although the University encouraged students of limited means to come and support themselves while carrying on their studies, there was at that time no organized means provided for furnishing such students with labor. Lazenby had no trouble in finding work for himself, but there were others that were less resourceful. To aid these he called the laboring students together and organized an employment bureau. This was one of many instances where he showed himself willing to devote himself to matters of public interest. He took a prominent part in one of the literary societies of that day and in a social science club.

"Lazenby was a great favorite with his fellow students. His genial good nature, his unselfishness, and his great earnestness won the hearts of those associated with him.

"He was devotedly interested in the cause of agriculture, and took a prominent part in the work of the Grange and of agricultural and horticultural societies. He was the instrument of profoundly influencing the development of the agricultural work at Cornell University. This was before an interest in agricultural education had become general. The University endeavored to create such an interest by offering free tuition to agricultural students and in other ways, but comparatively few agricultural students came. Certain friends of agriculture, judging merely by the small number of agricultural students, came to believe that the University was betraying its trust, and there were introduced in a meeting of the State Grange resolutions condemning the University. These resolutions were about to be passed when Lazenby arose and, without attempting to refute the arguments that had been made, suggested that the right thing to do was to postpone action on the resolutions and to appoint a committee to investigate the agricultural work of the University. The justice of this position was recognized by the Grange, and a committee was appointed. The members of this committee came to Ithaca pronounced enemies of the University, they made a thorough investigation, and went away warm friends. I have often heard President White say that he believed that the quiet and tactful action of the young Instructor, Lazenby, saved the day for our College of Agriculture. From that time to the present, one of the most powerful influences favoring the development of this institution has been the support extended to it by the Grange.

"Later Professor Lazenby took a prominent part in the movement that resulted in the establishment of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva, New York. In fact I am told that he drafted the bill the passage of which by our State Legislature established this station."

To a person who knows the narrow quarters occupied by the Cornell Co-operative Society, the amount of business which that enterprising institution does is amazing. The society has never been able to obtain better quarters on the Campus than the small rooms in the basement of Morrill Hall where it has been cooped for about twenty years. The total standing room for customers is about one hundred and ninety square feet. Yet on many days three thousand customers are served. The greatest number of individual customers that entered the store and made purchases on a single day last year was 3,873. No wonder the society declares that, in spite of whatever improvements it may make in equipment and organization, it is unable to serve such numbers acceptably in its present quarters. The society does the largest business of all the university stores in this country with a single exception, yet it has about the least room of them all. One must regret that an organization of members of the University which renders so great a service to the community as the Co-operative does should have met with so little encouragement in its efforts to improve that service. The necessity of properly housing such an institution on our Campus, far removed as the Campus is from the business center of the town, is scarcely open to question.

THE REPORT of the Trustees' committee which considered the establishment of a school of commerce at this University is published in this number. It is worth reading. It contains among its ideas one that points to a way in which the University may render a particular service to the public, namely, by providing, in a professional school, instruction intended to prepare young men for the duties of public office. In its consideration of the need of such instruction, the committee makes some interesting observations of present political tendencies in this country.

THE SCHOOL of business administration should, the committee says, have endowment enough to provide for a building of its own. This raises a question which is likely some day to become pressing: Where shall future halls of instruction be placed on our Campus? Already the Campus is too large for convenience. New departments are sure to be established. Under the elective system of studies it is necessary that halls of instruction be as near as possible to one another. The suggestion is heard more and more that the University must in time reconcile itself to the necessity of placing buildings in the large quadrangle. The same proposal was made about fifteen years ago and aroused emphatic opposition, but at that time the need was less apparent. The proposal will recur, and the University might as well be thinking about it. What has been suggested is to place blocks of buildings across the quadrangle, when that becomes necessary, in such a way as to divide the large space into three quadrangles, a large one in the middle opposite the portico of Goldwin Smith Hall, and two smaller ones on either side, facing Boardman and Sibley respectively. Buildings devoted to instruction could be concentrated in that way, it is asserted, and architectural effects might be obtained even more pleasing than is possible with so large a central quadrangle as ours.

A CORNELL PRESS NEEDED

Theodore Stanton '74 writes us:

"Apropos of the articles which you published last summer by Professor Lane Cooper and myself concerning the need of a Cornell University Press, let me call your attention to what met my eye in the advertising pages of the Yale Review, when I opened the October number of that excellent periodical. Under the autumn announcements of the Yale University Press, I read: 'Cornell Studies in English. The Yale University Press takes pleasure in announcing that it has been authorized to publish for Cornell University the "Cornell Studies in English." Inquires concerning the Series and orders therefor may be addressed to either the New Haven or New York office of the Yale University Press.' Isn't there something humiliating to Cornell men when they read such a notice as this? It seems to me so."

RECEPTION TO JORDAN '72

A dinner was given in honor of David Starr Jordan '72 at Billings, Mont., on October 10 by alumni of Cornell and Stanford Universities. Cornellians present were Mrs. David Roe (Nina Angell) and Mr. Roe; M. B. Gray and Mrs. Gray; W. W. Gail and Mrs. Gail, and E. M. Sneckenberger, all of Billings.

In introducing Dr. Jordan, Mr. Gail said:

"It was forty-four years ago that Dr. Jordan received his diploma from Cornell, and though he has since labored in other fields and become identified in the mind of the world with that great institution on the Pacific coast, Leland Stanford Junior University, of which, after twenty years as president, he is now chancellor emeritus, we of Cornell still claim him affectionately and jealously as our own.

"There is a reason for that which is of peculiar interest to Billings and this vast, almost virgin country which we call the Midland Empire. When Ezra Cornell founded the university which bears his name he said: 'I would found an institution where any person may find instruction in any study.' In that motto lay the cornerstone of a new era in American higher education, an era in which should be opened to the many the doors of educational opportunity that theretofore had been open only to the few.

"That Stanford typifies today the most advanced ideals of modern education is a tribute to Dr. Jordan's genius as teacher, administrator and moral leader. Yet I am sure I do no injustice to say that in the final analysis it stands as another monument to the new vision of education whose seed first found root on the rugged shores of Lake Cayuga half a century ago.

"I mention these things because of their significance to us here in Billings. We too have an institution founded on the principle of democracy and service, and I feel that it requires no gift of prophecy to foretell that our own Polytechnic, which stands now a struggling little college beneath the shelter of the rimrocks, will some day be to this great inter-mountain region what Cornell has been to the east and Stanford to the far west."

DOWN-TOWN NEW YORK LUNCHEONS

The weekly luncheons of Cornell men in New York City are held Wednesdays at the Machinery Club, 50 Church Street. Although the attendance was not large during the summer, renewed interest is now shown. It is hoped that more Cornell men will avail themselves of this opportunity for social intercourse. It is not, however, possible to reach or remind them all by mail. The committee would be pleased to see the table filled every Wednesday. Most of the fellows appear about one o'clock.

SENDS NEW AGENT TO ITHACA

Announcement has been made by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company of the establishment in Ithaca of the headquarters of N. W. Pringle, division passenger agent. Mr. Pringle will be associated with Paul S. Millspaugh, assistant general passenger agent at Buffalo, in the handling of the passenger business of the Lehigh Valley in New York State. The company's announcement of this change notes also the resignation of Frank H. Wingert, who gave up the office of traveling passenger agent at Ithaca and is now associated with the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS. "His resignation was a matter of regret to the railroad management," the announcement says. Mr. Pringle, the new officer at Ithaca, was formerly New England passenger agent of the Lehigh Valley, with headquarters in New Haven.

A MILITARY HOP will be held in the Armory on November 10, the eve of the Michigan game, after the concert of the musical clubs.

Proposed Amendments

Changes in By-Laws of the Associate Alumni to Be Voted On October 28

At the adjourned annual meeting of the general alumni association, to be held in Boston on October 28, amendments to the by-laws will be considered which propose to effect certain changes, as published duly, in conformity with the requirements of the by-laws, in the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS of October 5, four issues in advance of the meeting, and as also published in the report of the annual meeting in the issue of July, 1916, page 464.

To effect these proposed changes the following amendments are necessary, and are therefore offered under the five heads submitted in previous issues when publishing notice of the changes, as follows:

(1) The omission of representation of university classes requires amendments to Sections 25, 27, 28, 30, and 33.

(2) The transforming of the forum into the more enjoyable convention necessitates changes in Sections 16, 17, 24, 28, 28a, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 38, and 40.

(3) Holding the convention not oftener than once in three years changes only Section 29.

(4) The same section is amended to give more latitude in the choice of weather and popular outside events.

(5) Giving the Board of Directors a greater choice in dates for their fall meeting requires change in only Section 6.

(6) The omission of Section 25 compels the renumbering of Sections 26, 27, 28, and 28a, as Sections 25, 26, 27, and 28.

The text was published in the NEWS of October 19, 1916.

The Co-op Dividend

The report of the president of the Cornell Co-operative Society, Professor John S. Shearer, for this year, says:

"In accordance with its usual custom, the Cornell Co-operative Society reports at this time to the University public upon the business of the past year. The total or gross receipts of the society for the year ending April 1st were $177,500, including post office and other accommodation or no-profit business. In spite of the unfavorable conditions in many lines of trade, the directors were able to declare a dividend of eight per cent on registered purchases, as in previous years. This amounts to about $7,000 and will be paid November first to eighteenth."

The Senior Societies

The senior societies on Tuesday of this week extended bids to members of the class of 1917. In the elections last spring Sphinx Head took in twelve men and Quill and Dagger twenty-three men. The names of the men elected this week follow:

Sphinx Head

Alexander Glencairn Acheson, Ardsley-on-Hudson; track team; Delta Upsilon.

William Jackson Blackman, Brooklyn; captain, lacrosse; Phi Kappa Psi.

William Mitchell Blair, Chicago; captain, tennis; Kappa Alpha.

James Embury Brinckerhoff, Orange, N. J.; crew; Psi Upsilon.

John De Witt, Parshall, Col.; captain, golf; Alpha Delta Phi.

Philip Wright Fitzpatrick, St. Paul, Minn.; Phi Delta Theta.

George Blaine Howell, Ithaca; track; Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Howard Jerome Ludington, Holley, N. Y.; Sun; Sigma Nu.

Gustave David Stahl, Berlin, N. H.; crew; Alpha Tau Omega.

Bertram Francis Willcox, Ithaca; Era; Psi Upsilon.

Guy Brown Wiser, South Bend, Ind.; Widow; Delta Upsilon.

Quill and Dagger

Ivon Harold Budd, Caldwell, N. J.; baseball; Sigma Nu.

Julian Augustus Fay, Washington, D. C.; president, musical clubs; Chi Phi.

Robert Emerson Mackenzie, Canton, Ohio; Sun; Phi Sigma Kappa.

Clarence Tilley, Upperville; football; Zeta Psi.

Stewart Collins Wilson, Indianapolis; manager, the Navy; Sigma Chi.

An invitation was extended by both societies to George Stebbins Kephart, Ithaca, coxswain of the varsity eight. He was on a forestry trip in the North Woods and the bids were sent by wire. His reply had not been received up to Wednesday morning.

Bids from both societies were received and refused by Hermann Gauntlett Place, of New York, business manager of the Sun, and his roommate, Laurence Douglas Kingsland 2d, of St. Louis, stroke of the varsity eight, who are members of Psi Upsilon.

A CCNTEST in the writing of one-act plays is announced by the Dramatic Club, which hopes by that means to obtain plays suited for its own production. The contest will run through November.

The Schedule

Cornell, 26; Gettysburg, 0.
Cornell, 42; Williams, 0.
Cornell, 19; Bucknell, 0.

October 28—Harvard at Cambridge.
November 4—Carnegie Tech at Ithaca.
November 11—Michigan at Ithaca.
November 18—Mass. Ag. College at Ithaca.
November 30—Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

Many Changes in the Team

In an attempt to remedy the weakness of the football team with respect to the ends, the coaches last week made some experiments in a rearrangement of the players. These changes were made only two days before the Bucknell game, and the team had not adjusted itself to them when it entered the game. The work of the line especially was below standard.

Two new men were put into the wing positions—Gillies and Tilley. Gillies was taken from tackle, where he played regularly all last season. Nothing less than poverty of end material could have persuaded the coaches to shift this player. And yet, in playing his part in the line, he had shown some of the qualities that go to make a good end. He combines speed with weight, and his keenness in following the ball and alacrity in getting over the field in the early games of this season had made up for some of the uncertainty resulting from the lack of experienced ends. Gillies, therefore, was moved out to left end.

At right end was placed Clarence Tilley, a senior who had played left tackle throughout the Pennsylvania game last year, having taken the place of Jameson when that player was disabled. In earlier games last year Tilley had been a substitute for Anderson at guard. It is said that the coaches had planned to put Tilley at center this season, but he was late in returning to the University, and by the time he did report there was apparently more need of a new end than of a new center. Tilley is of stocky build, physically a man of the O'Hearn type. He played only the first period of the Bucknell game.

Sutton, a sophomore, took the place of Gillies at left tackle, and there were other substitutions in the line. Taylor, the regular substitute at left guard, played instead of Miller, who was laid off on account of a minor injury. Carry was at center in place of Brown. The only regular forwards who started the game were Anderson, right guard, and Jewett, right tackle. All the back-field regulars were in except Benedict, whom an injury kept on the bench, and Bretz, freshman captain last year, was in his place. In the early part of the Bucknell game things went as might have been expected, with such a remade team. For one thing, Tilley was not familiar with the signals. The line seemed unable to do its part in the offense, and as a defensive line it left more than was right for the secondary defense to do. It had rained all the day before and the soft ground made the interference slow in starting, with the result that when the offense reached the line of scrimmage any hole that might have been there was generally plugged. Off-tackle plays yielded disappointing results because Bucknell had prepared a special defense for them which was too much for the new Cornell ends. Cornell would have played the first half without a score but for a beautiful drop-kick by Shiverick from the 45-yard line.

Substitutions began, however, to restore the team to something like its former estate. Zander and Ryerson went in at the ends, Gillies returned to his old place at tackle, and Brown displaced Carry at center. These changes had an encouraging effect by showing how much progress had been made by Zander and Ryerson in end-play. Either of these men weighs less than 170 pounds, and their light weight is one reason why other men have been preferred to them. In addition, Zander has been deprived of practice this season by an injury which occurred in the first week of training. But they both helped materially to turn the tide against Bucknell. After a safe score was tucked away by Cornell, two other ends, Hoff and Ensworth, had a trial.

The result of all this experiment was to leave the situation still doubtful with respect to the ends and the line. If the experiment had pointed out to the coaches the way to a solution of their problem before the Harvard game, the solution was not apparent to the man in the stands.

Two substitute backs made a good showing—Bretz and VanHorn. Van Horn took Bretz's place late in the game, in time to make one of the touchdowns, in making which he gave a pretty exhibition of low and fast running through a hole in the line.

Cornell 19, Bucknell 0

In the first period Bucknell defended the south goal and had the advantage of the wind. Both sides fumbled badly for a while. Meanwhile Cornell gained on exchanges of punts, and the playing was in Bucknell territory when the first period ended without a score. In the second period Cornell began an attack from midfield which carried the ball to a first down on Bucknell's 35-yard line. Then a 15-yard penalty put it back to midfield. Shiverick regained the fifteen yards in one play, and then, standing on Bucknell's 45-yard line, he made a drop-kick for a field goal. In the second period Shiverick and Bretz did some effective work and advanced to Bucknell's 25-yard line, where the visitors held for downs. Cornell was threatening the Bucknell goal again when the first half ended. Score: Cornell, 3; Bucknell, 0.

The home team put on considerable steam for the second half, and twice as many plays were made in this half as in the first. The result was two touchdowns. But the first score of the half was a safety. Bucknell kicked off, Hoffman made a run-back of twenty-five yards, and then Shiverick sent off a beautiful punt which rolled to Bucknell's six-yard line. The return punt was blocked for a safety. The Cornell team pulled itself together about this time and earned a touchdown with real football. Then another touchdown was obtained, partly with the help of two penalties inflicted on the visitors. Sixteen of Cornell's nineteen points were made in the third period of the game. It is a curious fact that Cornell scored against Bucknell in every way possible in football. The line-up:

Cornell	Bucknell
Carry.....center	Kirth
Anderson.....right guard	Gilbert
Jewett.....right tackle	Cockrill
Tilley.....right end	McDermott
Shiverick.....quarterback	Hall
Hoffman.....right halfback	Mendren
Mueller.....fullback	Baldauf

Touchdowns—Mueller, VanHorn. Goals from touchdowns—Shiverick, 2. Goal from the field—Shiverick. Safety—Hopper. Substitutions—Zander for Gillies, Ensworth for Zander, Gillies for Sutton, Brown for Carry, Bard for Anderson, Dixon for Jewett, Ryerson for Tilley, Hoff for Ryerson, Speed for Shiverick, VanHorn for Bretz, Shiverick for VanHorn, Haucke for Hoffman, Fischer for Mueller. Referee—V. A. Schwartz, Brown. Umpire—W. R. Okeson, Lehigh. Linesman—E. A. Land, Annapolis.

Freshman Football

The freshman football team, in its first game of the season, defeated the Hotchkiss School eleven at Lakeville, Conn., last Saturday by a score of 34 to 6. The school eleven was much outweighed.

Seventeen players took the trip to Lakeville. They were William Carry, Chicago; L. D. Christie, Haworth, N. J.; H. F. Davies, Roselle, N. J.; T. D. Finn, jr., Exeter, N. H.; H. E. Howell, Wynnefield, Pa.; Geoffrey Knight, New York; J. K. Knapp, Forestville, N. Y.; L. M. Masius, New York; J. P. McClain, Belleaire, Ohio; T. E. Moffit, Wallace, Idaho; C. B. Palmer, North Tonawanda; F. S. Pendleton, jr., Brooklyn; George C. Potts, Philadelphia; B. O. Ruther, Pine Plains, N. J.; J. D. Shuler, Davenport, Iowa; A. B. Trowbridge, jr., Flushing; and L. von Heygendorff, New York.

Shuler has been elected captain. He is a brother of Charles Shuler '15, and is playing at quarterback.

D. F. Taber '15 is the coach of the freshman squad.

Cross-Country

Seven men have been selected by Coach Moakley for the cross-country training table. They are Boynton '17, Campbell '18, Dresser '19, Maynard '18, McDermott '19, Wenz '18, and Captain Windnagle '17. These men will get luncheon and dinner at the cafeteria of the department of home economics.

The selection of these men was made after a trial run held last Saturday over the four-mile course. Twenty runners were timed, as follows: 1, Wenz, 23:27; 2, Dresser, 23:33; 3, McDermott, 24:02; 4, Windnagle, 24:14; 5, Campbell, 24:14 2-5; 6, Boynton, 24:51; 7, Maynard, 24:57; 8, Yost, 25:03; 9, Speer, 25:22; 10, Hooker, 25:36; 11, Seelbach, 25:41; 12, Tinnerholm, 25:41½; 13, Eschweiler, 25:46; 14, Dawson, 25:51; 15, Fernschild, 26:11; 16, Ball, 26:37; 17, Davidson, 27:05; 18, Mason, 27:07; 19, Haines, 27:41; 20, Robertson, 28:00.

The cross-country team has seldom lost in one year so many excellent runners as Potter, Hoffmire, Corwith, Eldred, and Tinkham, who all ran last fall. In addition to that fact, the squad this year is uncommonly small. There are twenty-two men out at present—the twenty who ran last Saturday and two others who have shown promise. The dual meet with Harvard comes to Ithaca on November 4, the Pennsylvania meet will take place at Philadelphia on the 11th, and two weeks after that will be the intercollegiate event.

Rowing

Candidates for the crews have taken advantage of every opportunity afforded by the weather and by their schedules to get practice on the water since the term began. John Collyer, assistant coach, has had active charge of the practice, and Mr. Courtney is acting as advisory coach. Saturday afternoons have seen as many as three varsity and two freshman combinations setting out from the boathouse.

Four Men Barred From Athletics Eckley, Clary, Valentine, and Wolford Found Technically Ineligible

Four students have been debarred, under the eligibility rules of the Faculty governing student organizations, as those rules stand at present, from future participation in intercollegiate athletic contests. The offense with which they were charged was the violation of Rule II c as applied to summer baseball.

The four students are Paul W. Eckley '17, of New Kensington, Pa., who played right end on the varsity eleven and shortstop on the varsity nine last year; Francis J. Clary '17, of Seneca Falls, N. Y., catcher and captain-elect of the varsity nine; A. I. G. Valentine '18, of Chicago, outfielder on the varsity nine, and C. C. Wolford '17, of Ithaca, who was a baseball substitute.

The rule which had been framed and adopted by the Committee on Student Affairs to prohibit summer baseball reads:

II. Intercollegiate Athletic Contests in General—No person shall represent the University in any intercollegiate athletic contest either at home, or abroad: * * *

c. If he receives or has ever received any remuneration or consideration of any sort for his services in any branch, as performer, player, coach, or otherwise, apart from such necessary expenses in excess of ordinary expenses as are actually incurred by him as a member of a college team, or of a permanent amateur organization in connection with occasional amateur contests.

[Note—In applying Rule (II), c, to baseball, any person who plays under a name other than his own, or who plays in a contest at which admission is charged, except as a member of a school or college team, shall be conclusively presumed to have violated this Rule.]

In every one of the four cases the student was presumed to have violated the above rule because he had played, during the last summer, in baseball games at which admission was charged. Clary and Valentine, while attending the summer session of the University, and Wolford, a resident of Ithaca, played in a series of games among companies of the Ithaca Fire Department. At those games admission was charged and the receipts went to the department. Eckley worked for a company in his home town during the summer and played on a baseball team composed of employees of the company, in a series of games at which an admission fee was charged for the benefit, it is said, of a "welfare work" carried on by the company.

In none of the four cases is it charged that the player received any remuneration for his playing. In each case the offense was the playing in a contest at which admission was charged. The intent of the faculty rule against such playing was to prohibit "summer baseball," that is, as commonly understood, the participation by college athletes in professional or semi-professional games in the summer vacation.

The cases of Clary, Valentine, and Wolford came to the notice of the Athletic Council through the Ithaca newspapers, which published their names as members of fire company teams. Eckley himself wrote to Dr. Sharpe, before the University reopened, telling the circumstances of his playing in the summer and asking if it was true, as he had heard, that he had violated an eligibility rule. Dr. Sharpe passed the query on to Professor Diederichs, president of the Athletic Council, who informed him that if the circumstances were as related, Eckley had made himself ineligible to further participation in university athletics.

The Athletic Council having declared the four men ineligible under the rule quoted above, Valentine and Eckley appealed from the decision to the Committee on Student Affairs. Clary and Wolford did not appeal. It is said that Clary had been warned, in writing, by the Athletic Council, against violating this rule, when an Ithaca newspaper announced in the summer of 1915 that he was expected to play in a summer team at Waterloo, N. Y., and that he heeded the warning at that time. It is said that Clary received a similar warning early last summer, when the announcement was made that he was to play in a fire company team.

The Committee on Student Affairs denied the petitions of Valentine and Eckley, because the violation of the rule was admitted and the committee had no power to set the rule aside in individual cases. The application of the rule has resulted in debarring Eckley from the football team, where he played right end all last season.

It was apparent to the Committee on Student Affairs, especially in the case of Eckley, that Rule II c is so framed that no distinction can be made between real offenses against the amateur code and trivial violations of the letter of the rule. A doubt was raised whether a participant in a baseball game at which an admission fee is charged thereby in any circumstances makes himself unfit for college athletics. The committee appointed a sub-committee to frame and report a revision of the rule so as to provide a better definition of "summer baseball," without relaxing the purpose of the rule.

ALUMNI NOTES

'88, Med. Prep.—Dr. George L. Brodhead's address is changed from 144 West Fifty-eighth Street to 50 West Forty-eighth Street, New York.

'92, A.B.—Elijah Clarence Hills, who has been professor of Romance languages at Colorado College since 1902, has been appointed editor-in-chief of a series of text books, to be known as "The Modern Language Series," and to be published by D. C. Heath & Co., of New York. Professor Hills was a fellow in Romance languages, Cornell, 1892-3; student at the University of Paris, 1893-4, and dean of Rollins College, Florida, 1896-1901. He is the author of several books on Romance languages, particularly Spanish.

'97—Henry Sheldon, of New York, has been in Texas since the first of July with the New York division of the National Guard. He is captain of the machine gun troop of Squadron A, New York City. The introduction of machine gun drill into National Guard tactics was due in the first instance to Sheldon's interest in that arm of the service.

'97, B.Arch.—J. K. Fraser is a member of the jury in the trial of the Rofrano murder case in New York City. George H. Bayne, jr., M.E., '04, is a member of the same jury.

'98, M.E.—William H. Thomson, jr., has resigned as general manager of the Kansas City Electric Light Company and is located temporarily in St. Louis.

'01, LL.B.—Earl J. Bennett, of Rockville Centre, N. Y., is the nominee of the Republican, Progressive, Independence League, and Prohibition parties for re-election as Comptroller of Nassau County.

'01, A.B.—J. P. Harris has been appointed to the newly created post of bond officer of the Citizens Savings & Trust Company of Cleveland. Harris has been the representative in Cleveland of the bond house of Harris, Forbes & Co., for a number of years, having had charge of Ohio territory for that house. He will enter on his new duties with the Citizens bank on November 1st. He will be the expert in charge of the bank's own investments and those of its trust funds.

'04, LL.B.—A son was born October 17, 1916, to Howard C. and Elizabeth L. Lake at 3915 Broadway, New York. They have another son, five years old. Lake is practicing law at 115 Broadway.

'05, M.E.—John H. Raidabaugh has opened an office, with F. G. Fahnestock, jr., an architect, at Rooms 401-402 Patriot Building, Harrisburg, Pa., for architectural and engineering work.

'06—Percy B. Ingham has recently gone to Providence, R. I., as manager of the Welsbach Company, 119 Westminster Street.

'06, A.B.; '07, A.M.—Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Whitney Fletcher, of Ayer, Mass., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Doris Whitney, and the Rev. Frank B. Crandall '06. Mr. Crandall was one of the University Preachers last year.

'07, C.E.—H. A. Brainerd is engineer with the American Bridge Company at 600 Continental Trust Building, Baltimore.

'07, A.B.—Louis W. Fehr has been elected president of the graduating class (1917) of the Fordham University law School, in which 530 students are enrolled.

'07, C.E.—Harold A. Brainerd has changed his address from Westfield, N. J., to 3905 Hawthorne Avenue, Forest Park, Baltimore, Md. He is with the American Bridge Company.

'09, A.M.; '11, Ph.D.—Shirley G. Patterson has been promoted from instructor to assistant professor of Romance languages in Dartmouth College.

'09, A.B.—Cornelius F. Roland is New York representative of the metallurgical department of the National Tube Company. His office is at 30 Church Street.

'09, C.E.—R. Y. Thatcher is with the Interstate Commerce Commission, division of railway valuation, and lives at 1825 I Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

'10, M.E.—J. Birchard Green is president of the Chicago Steel & Wire Company, manufacturers of stitching wires, 1123-1129 West Thirty-seventh Street, Chicago.

'10, M.E.; '11, A.B.—A daughter was born June 30, 1916, to Robert W. Canfield '10 and Caroline Merry Canfield '11, of Corning, N. Y. Mrs. Canfield is a daughter of Addison D. Merry '80, of Syracuse, N. Y. Canfield is now with the General Electric Company at Newark, N. J., and they will make their home after December 1st at East Orange, N. J.

'10, A.B.—The Bond Buyer says: "The services of Mr. Stanton Griffiths, office manager for Messrs. Hemphill, White & Chamberlain, investment where you can find them.

This is the simplest binder made. It has the appearance of a regular bound book. It opens flat to any page. It is so simple in construction and operation that the filing or extraction of magazines requires but a few seconds

No punching of holes is necessary—just a slight slit between the pages with a pen knife and the insertion of a metal clip. Patent clasps make it easy to put in the new issue each week.

The cover is of Art Velum, with the name stamped in gold on the back and front. Each binder will hold one volume (forty numbers) of the CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS.

By making a special arrangement with the manufacturers we are able to supply these binders to our subscribers for $1.00 each, charges prepaid.
