Vol. XXI, No. 29

Ithaca, N. Y., April 24, 1919

Price 12 Cents

THE Morrison Prize for original poetry has been awarded to De Elbert Keenan, a freshman in Arts and Sciences, of Elmira, N. Y. Of several poems submitted, one entitled "The Night Shift" is singled out for special mention. Two other competitors have honorable mention: Desmond S. Powell '20, of Waverly, N. Y., and Miss Marie Syrkin '19, of New York City. The prize is one hundred dollars in money or a medal of equal value, as the winner may prefer. The winning poem is usually read by the author at the Woodford contest in oratory in May.

THE SCHEDULE of the Interfraternity Baseball League has been completed, the games running from April 21 until June 5. This year's league is made up of thirty-two fraternities and clubs. There is also a Soft Ball League of nine fraternities having games arranged from April 21 to June 6.

THE APPROPRIATION BILL which has lately passed the Legislature provides $986,218 for salaries and maintenance of the State College of Agriculture at Cornell. Two sums amounting to $16,600 for a new road on the Agricultural campus and for farm buildings on experimental plots outside of Ithaca were vetoed by the Governor as unessential. The items retained show a total increase of $84,591 over last year's appropriation.

THE BILL of Assemblyman Fenner so amending the educational law as to permit pupils who have been in military or naval service during the preceding year to take the examinations for State scholarships in Cornell University, has been signed by Governor Smith. At present only those pupils are eligible who have been in attendance at school for at least six months before the examinations. The new law affects only those scholarships, one for each assembly district, which have been available since the founding of the University. The examinations are held on the first Saturday in June.

A POSTER COMPETITION for "The Yellow Jacket," the play to be given by the Women's Dramatic Club on Saturday, April 26, was won by Dorothy F. Levy '21, architecture, of Philadelphia.

GOVERNOR SMITH HAS VETOED a bill providing that the board of supervisors of a county in which there is a college of agriculture might appropriate annually a thousand dollars as a scholarship fund for students residing in the county. Though in general terms, the bill was so drawn as to make its provisions applicable only to the county of Onondaga. According to a news dispatch, the Governor, in disapproving the bill, said: "This bill is unnecessary in purpose and wrong in principle. The State maintains at Cornell, at a large expenditure of public money, a State College of Agriculture, and such money should not be diverted, directly or indirectly, to the support of private or sectarian institutions providing that class of instruction."

REGISTRAR DAVID F. HOY '91 is attending in Chicago, April 24-26, the ninth annual meeting of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars. The program deals largely with administrative problems growing out of the war. One paper, sent from Paris by Professor John Erskine of Columbia, is on "The A. E. F. University and its Work Overseas."

RAVEN AND SERPENT, the junior women's honorary society, announces the election of the following members from the present sophomore class: Jane I. Archibald, Bovina Center, N. Y.; Ruth M. Balcom, Rockville Center, N. Y.; Helen M. Bateman, Champlain, N. Y.; Grace H. Corwin, Riverhead, N. Y.; Hazel A. Dates, Groton, N. Y.; Esther I. Ely, Poplar Ridge, N. Y.; Agnes N. Hall, Lockport, N. Y.; Janet G. MacAdam, Rome, N. Y.; May A. Regan, New Britain, Conn.; Elsa C. Schlobohm, Yonkers, N. Y.

LECTURES DURING THE WEEK include "Zionism," by Mr. A. Bodansky before the Ethics Club; "Veterinary Work in Brazil and Uruguay," by J. H. McNeil, State Veterinarian of New Jersey; and "Cellulose" (illustrated), by Mr. Harry LeB. Gray of Rochester, before the Chemical Society.

TWO ADDITIONS are announced to the staff of The Sibley Journal: D. W. Myrick '22, of Brooklyn, and C. H. Alberding '23, of Clayville, N. Y.

THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS were presented by the Cornell Dramatic Club, on Friday and Saturday, April 18 and 19, in Goldwin Smith Hall: "The Ghost of Jerry Bundler," by W. W. Jacobs and Charles Rock, "A Farewell Supper," by Arthur Schnitzler, and "The Clod," by Louis Beach. This series of plays, the fourth since November, is the last that the club will attempt this year.

RESUMPTION OF PUBLICATION next month is announced by the Era Board, thus beginning its second half-century of activity. The Board announces that it "will publish a magazine that is rabidly pro-Cornell, a monthly mirror of all of the many and interesting phases of University life that directly and indirectly tend to mould the undergraduate into the final Cornell product."

TWENTY-SEVEN STUDENTS reported for college crews last week: ten from Arts and Sciences, ten from the engineering colleges, and seven from Agriculture. Three sets of men went out in gigs. The number of rowers will be increased by some who, though regular at practice on the machines, did not report at the boathouse.

AN ARRANGEMENT has been made by which the Eddy Street bowling alleys will be reserved for the University women on certain afternoons of the week from three to six. Those registered for baseball or tennis may substitute bowling by reporting at the alleys on these days.

THE CAPTAIN of the wrestling team for the coming year is Charles E. Ackery '20, arts, of Cuba, N. Y. Announcement is also made of the election of Byron E. Wrigley, jr., '20, civil engineering, of Philadelphia, as assistant manager of freshman football.

A "WHIPPET" TANK making an itinerary through central New York in the interest of the Victory Loan is promised for exhibition in Ithaca on April 24. A "whippet" tank, manned by a driver and a machine gunner, is a smaller kind of tank useful in clearing a way of approach for infantry.

THE EASTER NUMBER of The Widow, issued last Saturday, is not only the largest published by the present board but unique in having cartoons in colors.

Endowment Fund Campaign Its Work Now Fully Organized and Local Committees Being Formed.

The work of the Semi-centennial Endowment Fund Committee is now well under way. The committee is made up of three groups. The Trustees' committee is composed of J. DuPratt White '90, chairman, Walter P. Cooke '91, Henry R. Ickelheimer '88, Henry J. Patten '84, Charles M. Schwab, John L. Senior '01, George J. Tansey '88, Charles E. Treman '89, and John C. Westervelt '94. The committee representing the Cornellian Council is made up of Edward L. Stevens '99, Walter P. Cooke '91, Clarence A. Snider '91, J. Kenneth Fraser '97, and George D. Crofts '01. The Associate Alumni Committee is composed of John L. Tiernon '95, Raymond P. Morse '03, Romeyn Berry '04, Donald R. Cotton '05, Harold D. North '07, and John P. Dods '08. The secretary of the central committee is William Van Kirk '13, whose office is in 32 Morrill Hall.

Letters explaining the needs and purposes of the fund are now being forwarded to the alumni. The work of personal interviews will be carried on by local committees, to be established in the larger cities, while Secretary Van Kirk is planning a trip through the larger cities to interview the more prominent Cornellians, and to set fully before them the urgency of making the Endowment Fund campaign a success.

It will be the aim of the committee to obtain principally general subscriptions; but from the outset the assurance is given that any subscription will be applied precisely as desired by the donor. A strong effort is being made to secure a special endowment for several chairs. For example there should be a Corson Professor of English, a Hart Professor of English, a Tyler Professor of American History, a Stephens and a White Professor of History, a Crane Professor of Romance Literature, a Babcock Professor of Architecture, a Thurston Professor of Steam Engineering, and so on. Or the donor will be able to name the chair after a relative, perhaps a son or brother who has fought in the great war. The further condition may be imposed by the endower of an existing chair that the money thus released shall be used by the Trustees for the increase of certain other salaries. Funds will also be gladly accepted for a particular college. Only two of the present colleges receive any help from the State, Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine.

The Graduate School is much in need of chairs for graduate teaching and research.

The committee will be glad to have money given for any purpose; but obviously the greatest need, in view of the present economic conditions, is the increase of salaries of members of the teaching staff.

It is hoped that the campaign may be brought to a successful completion by the Semi-centennial in June.

Five Thousand in June First Returns Indicate that Figure for the Semi-centennial.

The Publicity Manager for the Semi-centennial Celebration reports that nearly two thousand Cornellians have already indicated that they will attend the Celebration on June 20 to 23. They have responded to the first circular letter which was mailed by the Associate Alumni Committee, of which E. N. Sanderson '87 is chairman. The work by class secretaries is just beginning to produce results. The fraternities are inviting their respective members to come back for the occasion. The local clubs all over the country are planning to hold luncheons, smokers, and other gatherings at which plans for obtaining a large representation in Ithaca in June will be considered. In each State a chairman has been appointed and he in turn has selected sub-chairmen to work under him. It is expected that every Cornell man will be reached by one of these sub-chairmen.

Evidently all methods of travel will be employed by former students in returning for the Celebration. Special Cornell trains are to be run from some more distant cities. The Cleveland Club will come by automobile. Two men in central Pennsylvania are planning to walk to Ithaca. Replies have been received from all parts of the world. Men who are still in service in France write that they will certainly be present if they have been returned to America by that time. Men in Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Philippines have indicated an intention to help celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the University. More than two hundred men in New York City, alone, have already returned cards signifying that they reach Ithaca on Friday, June 20. It is expected that at least five thousand former students will return for the Semi-centennial Celebration.

134 Students Busted Alarming Rumors Prove Exaggerated —Comparison with Other Years.

One hundred thirty-four students were dropped from the University as a result of failure to pass the necessary twelve hours for the winter term. The numbers for the various colleges for the last six years are as follows:

	1913	1914	1915	1916	1917	1918	1919
Arts	29	27	40	41	65	50	61

Total 4803 5015 5345 5656 5549 4082 3411

The figures of total registration for 1913-18 are the total numbers for the respective years; the figure for 1919 is that given out soon after the beginning of the third term. It should also be understood that the numbers of dropped students for 1913-18 are for the first semester, after one-half of the year was over; this year, for the majority of students, two-thirds of the year were over at the time of the trial tests.

A rumor had been circulated that six hundred bust notices had been sent out this spring.

Morse Stephens Dies

Professor Henry Morse Stephens, who filled the chair of modern European history at Cornell from 1894 to 1902, died suddenly at his home in Berkeley, California, on April 16. He had attended the funeral of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, and dropped dead on his return.

Professor Stephens was born in Edinburgh on October 3, 1857, and was educated at Haileybury College and at Balliol College, Oxford, where he took the degree of B.A. in 1880 and that of M.D. in 1892. From then till 1894 he was a staff lecturer on the Oxford University Extension System, and lecturer on Indian history at Cambridge, writing also for The Academy, The Daily Chronicle, The Speaker, editing India, and acting as London correspondent for The Statesman and the Calcutta Friend of India. Coming to Ithaca in 1894, he speedily became one of the most popular men in the Faculty and took part in many lines of student activity. In 1902 he went to the University of California as professor of history and director of university extension. The latter office he resigned in 1909; last fall he became dean of the College of Arts. He was a Lowell Institute lecturer in 1900, 1905, and 1909 and president of the American Historical Association in 1915. He was the author or editor of a number of important works, chief of which was his "History of the French Revolution" (1886-92), and which included "The Story of Portugal" (1891) and "Revolutionary Europe, 1789-1815" (1893). He was a contributor to the "Encyclopaedia Britannica" and "The Dictionary of National Biography." He had been married, but his wife, a victim of a mental disorder, remained in England. Harvard in 1909 conferred on him the degree of Litt.D.

NEW YORK AUCTION

This evening occurs the big wind-up party of the New York Cornell Club at its home at 65 Park Avenue. The frolic will begin with a dinner at six (tax $1.50, with free beer), followed at 7:30 by an auction of a considerable part of the club furniture, which it has decided to sell rather than store it. Furniture valued at approximately $6,700 will be sold to the highest bidder. The list of items includes 1 Bar, value nothing, which fact will cause a sigh from many a thirsty soul. But never mind: for this one night let joy be unconfined. Free beer will help all to forget their sorrow, and steel their nerves against the sad tomorrow.

The auction will be followed by the annual meeting, at which will be elected four members of the Board of Governors. The following have been nominated: to serve until May 1, 1923, William F. Atkinson '95, Neal D. Becker '05, C. S. Rindsfoos '06, A. B. Williams '06; to serve until May 1, 1922, Robert E. Coulson '09; to serve until May 1, 1920, Frederick W. Hackstaff '05.

A jazz combination will furnish a refined, modest, and subdued entertainment as long as those present shall desire.

New State Trustee

George A. Blauvelt '90 Appointed to Succeed John A. Dix.

George Alanson Blauvelt '90 has been appointed by Governor Smith a Trustee of Cornell to succeed Former Governor John A. Dix '83.

Mr. Blauvelt was born in 1866. He prepared at the Chappaqua Mountain Institute, a school in Westchester County, and was graduated from Cornell with the degree of B. L. in 1890. After leaving Cornell, he entered Columbia University, where he received the degree of LL. B. in 1892. He then engaged in the practice of law in New York, in 1906 becoming a member of the firm of Graff, Blauvelt, and Hitchcock. He served in the Assembly of 1911, and in the Senate (representing the 23d District) in the following year. In 1914 he entered into partnership with Former Attorney General Thomas Carmody and Joseph A. Kellogg. He was a member of the State Constitutional Convention of 1914. He attended the First Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburg in 1917. His present business address is 61 Broadway, and his residence is at Monsey, N. Y.

REED RETURNS TO NEW YORK

Harold Lyle Reed, Ph.D. '14, assistant professor of economics, has tendered his resignation to take effect at the end of the academic year. Professor Reed has been at Cornell as instructor and professor since 1914, except for several months of service at camp in the Army. He takes next year an assistant professorship at New York University. He filled a similar chair at New York some years before coming to his present position at Cornell.

THE DETROIT CLUB

At the meeting of the Detroit club at the Board of Commerce on April 17 A. A. Templeton, president of the Detroit Board of Commerce, addressed the club on "Civic Service." His speech aroused much interest and called out an extended discussion, and plans were made by the association to take an active part in local civic affairs.

Only twenty-two men were present, the ranks of the club being still somewhat depleted because of the absence of members in France. Among those present were Lieut. Col. George Walbridge '98 and Lieut. John H. Brodt '13.

ARMY AND NAVY

Ennis '19 Wins French Cross

First Lieutenant Charles Ennis '19 has recently been decorated by the French Government with the Croix de Guerre for special acts performed on the Champagne front, near Rheims, while his division was fighting with General Gouraud's 4th French Army. He is attached to the 2d Division Supply Train, Regulars, now with the Army of Occupation, and has been overseas since January, 1918.

Ennis is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Ennis, of South Lyons, N. Y., and a brother of George S. Ennis '16. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha, and in his sophomore year was a member of the Cornell Countryman Board.

Two Crosses for Burns

The Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre have been awarded to Lieutenant Harold Walton Burns '18 (deceased), and will be sent to his mother, Mrs. L. P. Godwin, of Gary, Ind.

Letters telling of Lieutenant Burns' heroic conduct in the last engagement in which he participated, and of his illness and death, have been received from Brigadier General Fleming, of the 158th Artillery Brigade, from Captain McGill, commanding officer of the 308th Trench Mortar Battery, from the nurse who cared for him in the hospital, and from officers and enlisted men who were with him in the last engagement.

A part of the captain's report follows:

"Lieutenant Burns and Lieutenant Fourman deserve high commendation. They worked very hard before the fight and during the action. Under a boche barrage they went from gun to gun, inspiring the men by their coolness, encouraging them to continued efforts, and at times aiding in operating the guns."

Lieutenant Burns was taken to the hospital on October 28, suffering from the effects of mustard gas, which had affected not only his lungs, but his eyes, nose, and throat. Pneumonia developed and he died on November 2.

Cornellians in Coblenz

A post-script to Lieutenant Herbert Snyder's letter, published last week, was received on April 9. It reads:

"I forgot to mention Johnnie Newhall '04 in my last letter; he is Y. M.

C. A. athletic director for the 2d Division, and is very well liked. 'Bill' [William D. M.] Schuman '17 and I went to a dance in Coblenz the other night—he is a lieutenant in the 6th Field Artillery, 1st Division. I saw 'Pork' [George B.] Howell '17 there—he is a lieutenant in the Motor Transport Corps, stationed at Coblenz, and expects to be home by June. So do I—in 1922."

Cornellians on A. E. F. Crew

Lieutenant Homer J. Brooks, B.S. '15, has been selected to stroke the American crew which will take part in the International Regatta to be held on the Seine on April 27. While in college Brooks substituted on the freshman crew, and was stroke of the victorious 1913 junior varsity crew.

Two other Cornell men will row on the crew: Captain James E. Brickerhoff, M.E. '17, and Private Royal G. Bird, B.S. '16. Brickerhoff rowed on the varsity and the junior varsity crews in his junior year; and Bird was a member of the famous varsity eight which defeated Leland Stanford at Poughkeepsie in 1915.

The complete American combination is as follows: bow, Sergeant Collis S. Cole, Yale; 2, Private Royal G. Bird, Cornell; 3, Sergeant Howard McHenry, Yale; 4, Captain James E. Brickerhoff, Cornell; 5, Lieut. Thomas Jeffries, Harvard; 6, Captain Royal Pullen, University of Washington; 7, Captain Harry Cabot, Harvard; stroke, Lieut. Homer J. Brooks, Cornell; Guy Gale, University of California, coxswain.

Col. Thompson Honored

Lieutenant Colonel Charles F. Thompson, former commandant of the Cornell R. O. T. C., has received the Distinguished Service Medal on recommendation of General Pershing. The citation reads:

"Lieut. Col. Charles F. Thompson—for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. As assistant chief of Staff, as G-2, of the First Army, he aided in its organization by his skill and sound judgment, participating in the preliminary preparations and operations at the St. Mihiel salient. The successes achieved by his section are largely due to his high military attainments, his great energy and painstaking devotion to duty. He served with equal ability, as G-2, of the Second Army in September, 1918, at all times showing great skill and accomplishing results of exceptional value."

Colonel Thompson came to Cornell as commandant in 1915, while a first lieutenant. In the summer of 1916 he was ordered to Plattsburg as an instructor, and received a captaincy. In the spring of 1917 he was ordered to join the 38th Infantry at Syracuse, and later, after assignments to various camps, was made adjutant of Camp Gordon, Georgia, receiving his promotion to major in August, 1918. In December he went to France, unassigned, and served for nearly a year as assistant chief of staff, Second Army, and was head of the intelligence department. He was promoted to lieutenant colonel after his arrival in France. He has recently been detailed to Paris for work with the American Relief Commission.

PHYSICS AT CORNELL

There has been compiled and placed in the main corridor of Rockefeller Hall by George S. Moler '75, emeritus professor of physics, a chart ten feet long by three feet wide, on which has been mapped a history of the Department of Physics at Cornell during the first fifty years since the founding of the University. The names of one hundred and eighty-one members of the instructing staff, including Fellows and Scholars, have been listed. The chart has been divided, by means of vertical lines, into school years and the time spent in the service of the Department by any one member is represented by a horizontal red line crossing the years. The red line is subdivided to designate promotions.

BEARDSLEY RESIGNS

Donald P. Beardsley '13 has resigned his position in the University Treasurer's office. Since 1917 Beardsley has been on leave of absence, serving at first as manager of the Central States Division of the Red Cross Council, having headquarters in Washington, and later as first lieutenant in the finance division of the Ordnance Department, being stationed in Washington and Philadelphia. Upon his discharge he accepted a place with Brown Brothers and Company, bankers, of Philadelphia.

TOMPKINS COUNTY'S QUOTA in the Victory Loan is $1,402,000, of which Ithaca's share is $1,156,400. The campaign is again in charge of George F. Rogalsky '07 as county manager, and of Louis P. Smith as city chairman.

DIED IN THE SERVICE

Winthrop C. Fanning '16

Lieutenant Winthrop Coit Fanning died on March 10 at Chatillon-sur-Seine, France, of pneumonia following influenza.

Fanning was born at Whitestone, N. Y., on August 1, 1895, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Fanning. He prepared at Bryant High School, Long Island City, and entered the College of Civil Engineering in 1912, receiving his degree in 1916. He was a member of Omega Delta and the Mandolin Club. In his junior and senior years, he was a member of the Cornell Civil Engineer Board.

After leaving Cornell, he was employed as a draftsman with the Riter-Conley Manufacturing Company, Leetsdale, Pa., until May 12, 1917, when he entered the Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Fort Niagara. Being the youngest man in his company, he failed to receive an appointment as either engineer or artillery officer. Later he entered the Air Service, and received his ground school training at the School of Military Aeronautics at Cornell; his flying training he received at Mineola, Gerstner Field, Camp Dick, Fort Sill, and Selfridge Field. He was commissioned a second lieutenant at Gerstner Field in March, 1918, and sailed for France on September 28. After his arrival there, he was sent to various fields in Europe for supplementary training, and in December was attached to the 168th Aero Squadron.

Lieutenant Fanning was married on August 19, 1917, to Miss Emilye R. Lauver, of Altoona, Pa., who survives him, with an eight-months-old son, Winthrop Coit Fanning, jr. He leaves also his parents and a sister, Edith Dean Fanning '16.

OBITUARY

John E. Bray '77

John Edwards Bray died of heart failure at Carson City, Nevada, on January 1. He was sixty-six years old.

Mr. Bray entered Cornell in 1873, and left in 1875. In his freshman year he was secretary of the Philalatheian Society. For the past forty-two years he had made his home in Nevada, and is responsible for the splendid and unique school system of that state, having served for a number of years as its deputy superintendent, teacher, principal, and city superintendent of its large est schools. He was appointed State Superintendent of Public Instruction to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Orvis Ring, and in 1910 was elected for a term of four years. In 1914 he was re-elected to succeed himself, and was still in office at the time of his death. To his work in education he brought great enthusiasm and a deep love for the cause. His reports were comprehensive and lucid.

Mr. Bray is survived by his widow and two daughters.

Lynn G. Wright '03

Lynn George Wright, managing editor of Printers' Ink, died of pneumonia at St. Mary's Hospital, Orange, N. J., on April 13. He had gone there to have an operation, which in itself was successful, but which resulted in ether pneumonia, later developing into lobar pneumonia.

Wright was born at Worcester, N. Y., on July 19, 1880, a son of George Burr Wright and Elizabeth Gage Wright (a sister of Professor S. H. Gage '77). He entered Cornell in 1898, in the course in arts, but remained only one year. He re-entered in 1900, and received the degree of A. B. in 1903. In his junior and senior year she was a member of the Cornell Era Board, and was an associate editor of the ALUMNI NEWS. He was also campus reporter for The Ithaca Daily News. He was a member of Phi Delta Sigma (formerly Bandhu).

After leaving college, he became associated with Charles H. Parshall '89 and Arthur H. Crist '90, publishers of The Otsego Farmer, at Cooperstown, N. Y. Later, he joined the editorial staff of Outing, and for the past ten years had been on the editorial staff of Printers' Ink. An estimate of the character and work in life of this successful Cornellian is thus given by John Irving Romer, editor and proprietor of Printers' Ink, in the issue of April 17, 1919, pages 19 and 20.

"From his early college days Mr. Wright's tastes and talents were in the direction of journalism. He easily won a place for himself on the college papers and earned money for his tuition by writing special articles for the city dailies. His first work for Printers' Ink was the investigation of advertising campaigns. He quickly showed a talent for grasping the salient features of commercial success and for writing about them in a lively, interesting way. Later, when the post of managing editor became vacant, he was selected for the position. This work was executive and gave him little time for original writing; but while his name appeared less frequently as a contributor, his talents manifested themselves throughout these pages in the form of sparkling headlines and of editorial notes which made clearer the work of other writers. He was at his best in working sympathetically with staff writers and outside contributors in developing ideas or in finding new angles on old subjects. His was a peculiarly alert type of mind and he could see possibilities in a situation that would baffle the most experienced man.

"As to Printers' Ink, it loses a wise counsellor and an enthusiastic and brilliant worker."

Mr. Wright was married in 1912 to Miss Gertrude Olstead, who survives him, with a daughter, Ianthé Mary, five years old. He leaves also his parents, two brothers, Harry C., and Raymond Wright, and one sister, Mrs. Mabel Robbins.

THE FORMAL WELCOME to returned soldiers will be held on Monday, May 5, not on May 1 as previously announced. President Schurman has given the Mayor's committee permission to use the New Drill Hall on that day. The date is changed in order to avoid conflict with the work of the R. O. T. C. Besides addresses, athletic games, and minor forms of entertainment, there will be a grand march of all who have served in the Government ranks.

THE VICTORY LOAN

The campaign for the last war loan is now well under way. The amount necessary is less than that of the Fourth Loan; the terms are so attractive as to make it a desirable investment; and it has been well advertised. There seems to be little doubt that it will be taken.

This probability, however, does not in any degree lessen the personal responsibility resting on every citizen for the success of the loan. It is your personal duty, as it is ours, to subscribe for as many of these bonds as you can afford. This is the only way it will be entirely successful. The money has been or will be spent by the Government to finish as righteous a war as the world ever saw—a war against barbarism, against lust of power, against the Hun. The Government, then, must raise the amount of this loan. Instead of arranging this loan it might have raised the amount by direct taxation of incomes. By means of the loan the burden is shared with our posterity, as is right.

If we as individuals do not subscribe the full amount of this loan, an undue burden will fall on the banks of the country, which have already contributed labor and effort amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars. If they are heavily burdened with this loan, their credit system will be to that degree restricted and this will affect business conditions just when many business men are getting back upon their feet again. The consequences can be safely predicted.

We are under heavy moral obligation to see this loan through. The honor of America is involved. We must finish the job.

We again offer the suggestion, made so frequently, that Cornellians can help fulfill their obligations to the Nation and to the University by giving their bonds for the Endowment Fund.

THE ENDOWMENT FUND

Without ostentation but with characteristic energy the University authorities have begun the work of increasing the endowment funds of the University to a point where they will make possible the payment of adequate salaries. There has been no public statement as to the amount needed; but the amount named in a recent editorial in the ALUMNI NEWS, five millions, is pronounced by many to be a conservative estimate, and there are some who say that we should have ten millions.

As the number of living alumni is not large, the early classes having been small, it is obvious that there must be a considerable number of large subscriptions; and the sooner these come in and the larger they are the sooner will the University be placed once more on its feet. But it must be understood that there is no amount too small to be gratefully received in this hour of crisis.

The University expects every alumnus and alumna to do their duty. He gives twice who gives quickly. It will be most gratifying if the campaign can be substantially complete by the middle of June.

H. MORSE STEPHENS

To a large number of Cornell men who lived at the University in the period 1894—1902, Professor Stephens's friendship and hospitality is one of the happiest of memories. He did not keep open house, and he did not condescend. He attracted about him a circle of friends. Undergraduates who were admitted to that circle found themselves, in his rooms at the southeast corner of Cascadilla Place, just as welcome as professors, and quite as much at their ease. In those lodgings, for several years, the Kipling Club held periodical meetings and a score of men accumulated a vast amount of knowledge of the writings of Rudyard Kipling, then newly famous. They did not take their study of Kipling so seriously as to make the meetings hard work. In fact, they got a world of fun out of it. And incidentally they gained a great respect and liking for "The Nilghai," as the perennial president of the club was called. Most of the members of that club were instructors or graduate students. But every year Professor Stephens was the center of a group, less sharply defined, composed of undergraduates, some of whom were in his classes in history and some of whom were not. The former knew him as a great teacher; all knew him as a wise companion and friend.

A SONG TO CORNELL Air, "Smiles."

By FREDERICK R. SLATER '94

Cornell, unto you
Do your sons, and daughters too,
On life's pages, through the ages
Sing their praises true.
By Cayuga's shore
Come we as in days of yore
To play our parts with loyal hearts
And grateful homage pour.
There are days when all is brightness;
There are days when life seems blue;
There are days when in our youthful lightness
All of life is decked in rosiest hue;
There are days when joy in fullest measure
Comes to us our love of life to swell;
But the days that bring us greatest pleasure
Are the days spent at old Cornell.

LITERARY REVIEW

Two Nature Books for Boys

Billy the Boy Naturalist. The True Story of a Naturalist's Boyhood in Virginia Just After the War. By William Alphonso Murrill, Ph. D. '00. With 43 halftone illustrations. Bronxwood Park, New York. The Author. 1918. 8vo, pp. xii, 252. Price, $1.50.

Three Young Crusoes. Their Life and Adventures on an Island in the West Indies. By William A. Murrill. 83 halftones and 2 colored plates. Bronxwood Park, New York. The Author. 1918. 8vo, pp. xiv, 218. Price, $1.50.

Here are two good books for young readers interested in nature.

The first is frankly autobiographical and there are combined in the narrative many interesting reminiscences of post-bellum days and many observations in the field of natural history, for example the life of bees, rattlesnakes, butterflies, spiders, and the like. As the topics are provided with titles, the book can easily be dipped into anywhere and read either backward or forward.

In the second book the characters, the story, and the setting are fictitious, but the author has been at pains to present accurately his natural history facts. The plot in itself is not very exciting, but it answers as a frame for the successive scenes and experiences. It is intended especially for children between twelve and eighteen years of age. The author has endeavored to develop the underlying idea that Nature satisfies not only the physical but also the mental needs of her children. His style is clear, direct, and well adapted to his purpose. The illustrations come out well.

In The Classical Weekly for March 31 Professor John C. Rolfe, A. M. '84, reviews Thomas F. Roys' "Virgil and Isaiah" (Blackwell).

Dr. W. A. Murrill '00 writes in the Journal of the New York Botanical Garden for March on "Trees and Children."

ATHLETICS

Track Men in Relays

A squad of twelve or more track athletes will represent Cornell in the annual Pennsylvania Relay Carnival to be held at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Friday and Saturday of this week. Among Cornell's entries are one-mile and four-mile relay teams.

The four-mile team will be selected from the following five men who have been showing up well in the mile run: Dresser, McDermott, Abrahams, O'Leary, and Seelbach. Abrahams has developed rapidly in the past ten days.

The one-mile combination will be made up of Mayer, Coltman, Smith, and Shackleton. Smith and Watt will be entered in the high hurdles, Shackleton will run in the sprints and also compete in the broad jump, Felter will compete in the broad jump, also Grigson in the pole vault. Ramsay and Finkernagel are entered in the high jump, Bangs and Jewett in the shot-put, discus, and javelin throw, and Bangs will also compete in the fifty-six-pound weight.

Baseball Season Opens

The Cornell baseball team opened its season Saturday afternoon at Percy Field, losing to Lafayette by the score of 3 to 2, a ninth inning rally preventing a shut-out. Lafayette had a team further advanced in training and keener to take advantage of opportunities. Both Olsen and Moyer pitched good ball, and although the Cornell pitcher was hit more frequently than his opponent, he kept the hits well scattered. Poor work on the bases was a factor in Cornell's downfall, while O'Leary's failure to catch runners at second also hurt.

There was no scoring until the fifth inning, when Lafayette sent two men across the plate. Bieber reached first on a hot infield hit to second base. Wells was hit, Bieber going to second. Moyer's single scored Bieber and a long fly by Wolbach permitted Wells to come in. In the sixth Keating was given a base on balls and scored on Bieber's two-base hit.

Cornell made a gallant effort to pull the game out of the fire in the ninth. Corwin singled over second and Ensforth was given a base on balls. Spiers got to first on a fielder's choice, an attempt to put Ensforth out at second failing when Wells was drawn off the bag. G. Cross singled, scoring Corwin and Ensworth, while Spiers raced to third. He was called out on a close decision, however, and Fritz and Dunlap ended the rally by going out on flies. The score:

Hits—Off Olson, 7; off Moyer, 5. Base on balls—Off Olson, 2; off Moyer, 1. Struck out—By Olson, 6; by Moyer, 6. Hit by pitched ball—Bieber, Welles. Time of game—1 hour, 55 minutes. Umpire—E. H. Donohue, Elmira.

Minor shifts may be made in the lineup of the team, as practice continues, but in the main the men who played against Lafayette will make up the Cornell nine this season. Marsh and Fritz are in a lively competition for third, the former having preference now because of superiority at bat. Murphy at first and Corwin at second were on last year's team. Ensworth may replace O'Leary as catcher, the place going to the man who proves the more skillful in throwing to bases. G. and L. Cross, Dunlap, and possibly Ensworth will play in the outfield.

Olsen and Needle are the most experienced pitchers and Dodson, a big left-hander, is showing some promise.

When a man is thirty and married

This, in brief, is the business history of a good many thousand college men:

THEY make rather successful starts in business; for the first few years their progress seems entirely satisfactory to them. They are unmarried, independent, and their incomes are ample for their individual needs.

Then they marry, and in their early thirties the conviction comes to them that they are not making as rapid progress as they ought.

The expenditure crowds ever closer to the income; they see men passing them, sometimes unaccountably; the job that had seemed hardly more than a game before, becomes suddenly a serious problem—often never fully solved.

The solution of 75,000 successful men

It is at that period, and at that age, that college men turn in large numbers to the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

The average age of the 75,000 men enrolled in the Institute's Modern Business Course and Service in the past ten years is over thirty; eighty-five per cent of them are married.

In other words they are no longer boys, but men, realizing keenly that the highest positions in business are open only to men who have an all-round knowledge of the fundamentals that underly all business; and that such knowledge is gained only by training.

That the Alexander Hamilton Institute can and does give this training is proved by the record of the 75,000 successful men who have enrolled themselves in it.

Advisory Council

READ over these names of the men who make up the Advisory Council of the Institute:

Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank of New York; John Hays Hammond, the eminent engineer; Jeremiah W. Jenks, the statistician and economist, General Coleman duPont, the well-known business executive and Joseph French Johnson, Dean of the New York University School of Commerce.

13,000 of the 75,000 men who have enrolled with the Institute are corporation presidents—a testimony to the scope and authority of the Institute's Course and Service.

Investigation is easy

THIS advertisement is addressed to two classes of men. To young men first—in their twenties and thirties and early forties—who are asking themselves "Where am I going to be in business ten years from now?"

There is an answer to that question in "Forging Ahead in Business" the Institute's 112-page book. It is free; entirely without obligation; and well worth an evening of any man's time. Send for it.

The second man to whom this is addressed is the older alumnus to whom young men are constantly coming for advice about their future. If you are such a man, you should know enough about the Institute to be able to speak helpfully concerning it; you should know what it has done for 75,000 other men.

Your name on the coupon will bring you "Forging Ahead in Business." Let us send you your copy now.

In your work use Cross Section Paper

Every day sees someone who needs his statistics constantly before him. A mass of figures are hard to remember and in the remembering mistakes creep in. The statistics are valuable in comparison with the past. Write for the sample book of Co-op. cross section paper.

Our mistake

In error we mentioned in this space that the Shield chocolates sold for one dollar and seventy-five cents per pound plus postage. Some think they are worth it but the price is really one dollar and twenty-five cents a pound plus postage.
