The Registrar has posted the provisional list of candidates for degrees at the next Commencement. It contains the names of 823 candidates for baccalaureate degrees, divided as follows: Mechanical Engineer, 283; Bachelor of Arts, 199; Civil Engineer, 107; Bachelor of Science in Agriculture, 82; Doctor of Medicine, 55; Bachelor of Laws, 46; Doctor of Veterinary Medicine, 30; Bachelor of Architecture, 21.

From the administrator of the estate of F. W. Proctor '73, of Boston, who died last September, the University Library has received thirteen early volumes of the Cornellian. They include the first volume, 1868-69, and volumes down to 1882-83. The Library now has several sets of this publication.

A portrait of the Rev. Samuel J. May, donor of the May collection of anti-slavery literature in the University Library, has been hung in the general reading room. It was painted by George K. Knapp and was given to the University by Mr. May's widow, through ex-President White. Mr. May was a Unitarian clergyman of Syracuse.

Bids for the construction and equipment of the proposed addition to the Infirmary were opened at the Treasurer's office Friday afternoon. These were the lowest bidders: On construction, Coughlin & Lowman, of Elmira; on heating, the Forest City Plumbing Company, of Ithaca; on plumbing, W. C. Dean, of Ithaca; on wiring, Davis-Brown Electric Company of Ithaca.

Captain E. L. Phillips '91, professor of military science and tactics, will be obliged to report to his regiment, the Thirteenth Cavalry, on August 1, the War Department having refused to grant a year's extension of his present detail. During the three years he has been in charge of the cadet corps Captain Phillips has been a very efficient and at the same time a very popular commandant. The University requested that he be allowed to stay here another year.

To Miss Stella Heilbrunn '11, of Brooklyn, has been awarded the Guilford Essay Prize of $150 for an essay entitled "Old Ideals and Selfish Ideals." The Sampson Fine Arts Prize was awarded to A. G. Hallock '11, of Setauket, and a second award was made to Arthur Pollock '11, of Richmond Hill. No entries were received this year for the German essay prize of $100 or for the Sherman Bennett prize of $40 for the best essay discussing the principles of free government.

Officers of the Southern Club for the coming year have been elected as follows: G. S. Giles '12, of Baltimore, president; E. H. Taylor '11, of Ithaca, first vice-president; H. A. Powell '12, of Cairo, Ga., second vice-president; R. A. Young '12, of Montgomery, Ala., third vice-president; J. D. Corrington '13, of Hot Springs, Ark., secretary-treasurer.

One of the most creditable productions of the year was the "Inspector-General," which the Cornell Dramatic Club presented at the Lyceum Friday night. The play was given for the benefit of athletics and was well attended. The "Inspector-General" is a classical Russian farce which offers opportunity for comedy work of a high order. J. S. Fassett, jr., was excellent in the rôle of Ivan Alexandrovitch Khlestokov, a petty officer who is mistaken by the corrupt officials of a Russian provincial town for the Inspector-General. Morton Freidenrich took the part of the governor with ability. The other members of the cast all did well and reflected credit on Smiley Blanton, the coach.

The Era has announced the following board of editors for 1911-12:

Stanley Platt Lovell '12, of Cleveland, Ohio, editor-in-chief; A. Tom Knight '12, of Waukegan, Ill., business manager; Charles Hardy Newman '13, of Ithaca, and Morris G. Bishop '13, of Yonkers, managing editors; Harold Miller '13, of Brooklyn, assistant business manager; associate editors: James Irving Clarke '12, of Saratoga Springs; Lingard Loud '12, of Buffalo; Arthur Pollock '12, of Richmond Hill; Alvah Dale Riley '12, of Wellsville, Ohio; Basil Beebe Elmer '13, of Ithaca; Rowan Dunkel Spraker '13, of Cooperstown.

Two concerts are to be given by the University Orchestra this week. The first is the annual spring concert, which will be given in Sibley Dome to-morrow night, and the second will take place at Buffalo Saturday under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club of that city and the Cornell Alumni Association of Western New York. The orchestra is to be assisted at Buffalo by Dr. F. C. Busch '95, bass soloist. About fifty players will make the trip.

President Schurman delivered an address at a peace meeting held in the new Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine in New York City last Sunday evening.

George C. Holt, United States District Judge for the Southern District of New York, is giving a course of lectures on the law of admiralty at the College of Law this week.

At the organ recital Friday, which was the three hundred and eighth given in Sage Chapel, Mr. Johnston played his latest composition, "The Resurrection Morning." On the morning of Easter Sunday, for an interlude in the chapel service, the organist extemporized for a few minutes, the theme being suggested by the service, and afterward he developed the extemporization. The piece begins with a soft, meditative melody, increases in volume and ends with "The Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah."

THE NEW CORNELL EMBLEM.

The blazon of the arms is:

Almost $1,000 has been subscribed to meet the deficit in minor sports, and the canvass for subscriptions has been closed.

The Sibley Journal announces that during the coming year, when he will be on sabbatic leave, Professor Vladimir Karapetoff will be with J. G. White & Co., of New York. He will spend part of the time in New York City and the remainder in London, in connection with the company's European and South American interests. In the summer of 1912 he will visit his former home in Russia.

From the twenty-one seniors who wrote orations to be delivered for the Woodford prize, the following six have been chosen to compete: G. H. Brown of Buffalo, College of Law; A. W. Eames, jr., of Honolulu, Hawaii, College of Arts and Sciences; C. R. Hugins of Binghamton, College of Arts and Sciences; E. M. St. John of Ithaca, College of Arts and Sciences; E. M. Tuttle of Brooklyn, College of Agriculture; G. M. Wolfson of New York City, College of Arts and Sciences.

DOES CORNELL CHANGE?

TO those of us who have stayed on, who have lived in Ithaca, a part of the University year after year, the changes that others notice in the place have come gradually, almost imperceptibly. Of course we all notice that the students seem to be a younger lot than they used to be, especially seniors. But figures disprove this impression. And also the students are more numerous. This time the figures show that we are right. But for the most part, the changes in the intangible elements of college life are like those in material things, say buildings. There is a new building every once in a while, or an extension of an old building. We soon get used to the novelty, and forget that it ever was new, until ———, of the class of ———*, who has not seen the campus since his graduation ten or twenty years ago, drops in some fine day, and I show him the new acquisitions. Half the University seems to be new to him. Really, there must have been some changes.

"You wouldn't know the place," he says.

And he proceeds to tell me that according to common talk among his classmates, there are other changes just as marked in the things which are not of brick and stone, and that more recent alumni tell him the same thing. "The spirit of the place is different. The students are changing. The college papers are different. Football isn't the same game. The Faculty is two-thirds new. You can't understand the new generation of students, their very language has changed. Now, how can a man keep in touch?"

I suggest various means. The ALUMNI NEWS—he takes it, but it doesn't cover the ground he means. The President's Reports—naturally, they treat of other topics. The Cornell Sun—full of details, doubtless, but he wants the comprehensive view.

"What of the speeches that the President and Dean Smith and Catterall and our other apostles of good feeling give at your Cornell dinners?"

These, he admitted, came nearer to satisfying his soul. Indeed, when he succeeded in getting hold of the speakers after the dinner and could question them a little, he felt that he really understood the Cornell of today. But the Cornell dinners were a long time between dinners, and in the end, he proposed that I should persuade the editor of the ALUMNI NEWS, who was out of town this particular day, to print a column from time to time, explaining as it were the New Cornell to the Old Grad. . . .

The editor received me most cordially. "All right," he said, "you write it yourself, and if it's any good, I'll print it."

What could be fairer than that?

And in this way I arrived at my beginning. But as I sat down to write my first column of the series, a great doubt came over me. Human nature is so much the same, and the observer and his point of view change so much. Does the college life really change, or has the Old Grad changed his point of view? Which is truer, that the undergrad is changing in the course of years, or that he is perennially the same? Twenty years ago, in Ithaca at least, he walked up and down the hill, or rode in a bus. Now he can ride in a trolley-car. Is this a change, after all? When the trolley-cars first came in, it was reasoned out that the crews wouldn't ever be able to win again, because their leg-muscles would become weak by disuse. But this change, at least, failed to come to pass. Now there seem to be a few who ride about on motorcycles and in automobiles. (Memorandum, to find out how many, and to find out how their class standing compares with that of those who trolley and those who walk.) And I remember an outcry of some years back that decadence had set in, and that the hardy and frugal undergrad of the '70's had been succeeded by a pampered race smothered in luxuries. Why, scores of men to-day are making the same hard, uphill struggle against privation that was made by some of the pioneers. The fight is as hard, but the spirit is the same, and the success will be the same.

But in some directions there have been changes. Of these, later.

THE COMPARATIVE SCHOLASTIC STANDING OF THE FRATERNITY AND THE NON-FRATERNITY MEN THIS YEAR: With the Fraternity "Honor Roll."

President Schurman today gave out the following statement in regard to the comparative scholastic standing of fraternity and non-fraternity men at Cornell as shown by analysis of the list of men dropped from the University at the end of the first term of this year for failure to do satisfactory work:

IN an address to the fraternity men of Cornell University a year ago I announced the results of an investigation I had been making into the relative scholastic standing of fraternity and non-fraternity men in the University, using as a basis for my study the list of men dropped in February for failure to do satisfactory work. My action in making public during that address the names of the fraternities whose percentage of men lost was lower than the average percentage for the University received such universal approval from the student and faculty members of the fraternities as well as from their alumni that I am encouraged to believe that the publication each year of similar statistics, including an "honor roll" of the fraternities with good records, will have a most salutary effect in raising scholarship records of fraternity students. Earnestly hoping that such will, at any rate, be the effect I have again this year made a study of the list of men dropped in February and am now ready to announce the results.

The total number of men dropped this year was only 88 as compared with 135 last year. An analysis of this smaller number of men shows nevertheless, and with an almost surprising consistency of percentages, that every conclusion I drew last year holds good and every appeal I made then needs to be emphasized again.

The following table shows what percentage of all our fraternity men, as well as of all our non-fraternity men, were dropped (for purposes of comparison I am including figures both for February, 1910, and February, 1911):

	Fraternity.		Non-Fraternity.		Total.
	1910	1911	1910	1911	1910	1911
Number of students.....	1020	1048	2316	2539	3336 *	3587 *
Number dropped	59	40	76	48	135 	88
Per cent.....	.058	.038	.033	.011	.040	.025

In February, 1910, that is, among non-fraternity students one man in approximately every thirty students was dropped, in February, 1911, one man in approximately every 53. In February, 1910, among fraternity students one man in approximately every 17, in February, 1911, one man in approximately every 26. Or, to put the same facts in another light, which shows how little the percentages for the two years vary, in February, 1910, the fraternity men, who constituted but 31 per cent. of the total number of men in the undergraduate courses at Ithaca, furnished 44 per cent. of all who were dropped as failures, while in February, 1911, the fraternity men, who constituted but 29 per cent of the total number of male undergraduates, furnished 45 per cent. of those dropped.

That is not a good showing for the fraternities. However, as I pointed out last year, there are great differences among fraternities in this matter of scholarship. Again I am glad publicly to commend those fraternities which did not lose a single man for poor scholarship. Fifteen fraternities are in this "honor roll" for 1911, and they are the following:

ALPHA ZETA	PHI GAMMA DELTA
BANDHU	PHI SIGMA KAPPA
CERBERUS	PSI UPSILON
CHI PHI	SIGMA NU
DELTA CHI	SIGMA PHI
DELTA PHI	SIGMA PHI SIGMA
KAPPA PSI	THETA LAMBDA PHI
NAYATI

Seven of this list, namely, Alpha Zeta, Bandhu, Cerberus, Delta Chi, Delta Phi, Kappa Psi, and Nayati, appeared on the corresponding list last year. These seven I congratulate upon remaining in the roll of honor; and the other eight I congratulate upon getting into it! May they all be found upon the roll next year!

Worthy of special mention are Psi Upsilon which with a chapter roll of 40 men, the largest chapter at Cornell this year, lost not a single man, and Delta Phi, the only fraternity with thirty or more men in its chapter both in 1910 and in 1911 which lost not a single man.

Thirteen fraternities this year lost one man each, six lost two men, and five three men. No fraternity this year, I am glad to say, lost more than three men—an encouraging circumstance when it is recalled that in 1910 one fraternity lost four men, one five, and one six. Justice prompts me to add concerning these three last-mentioned fraternities whose records were so poor in 1910 that this year two are on the honor roll and that the third lost only one man,—a wonderful improvement for all three.

The distribution among classes of the men dropped was as follows:

	Number		Percent.
	1910	1911	1910	1911
Freshmen	82	42	.607	.477
Sophomores	28	22	.207	.250
Juniors	19	8	.141	.091
Seniors	6	3	.045	.034
Specials		13		.148
	135	88	1.000	1.000

In this table a student is listed in the class to which he is entitled under the regulations of his college: he is, for example, even though in his third or fourth year, a freshman as long as he has any entrance condition against him or as long as he has not passed all his freshman subjects.

The distribution among classes of the fraternity men dropped, as shown on lists furnished by the fraternities, was as follows:

	Number		Percent.
	1910	1911	1910	1911
Freshmen	20	10	.339	.250
Sophomores	23	16	.390	.400
Juniors	11	10	.186	.250
Seniors	5	4	.085	.100
	59	40	1.000	1.000

In this table a man is classed as a freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior according as he is in his first, second, third, or fourth year at the University and without reference to

* This is the number of regular students excluding those in the Medical College in New York, those in the Graduate School, and women in undergraduate courses.

what class he is entitled under the regulations of his college.

Accordingly some men listed in the second table as sophomores or upperclassmen are listed in the first table as freshmen, etc, but after all due allowance has been made for these discrepancies between the two tables it still remains evident, as I pointed out last year, that fraternity men constitute a greater proportion of the sophomores and upperclassmen dropped from the University than they do of the freshmen. As far as can be judged from these tables, both in 1910 and in 1911 only about one-fourth of the freshmen dropped were members of fraternities, while upwards of three-fourths of all the sophomores, juniors, and seniors dropped were fraternity men.

And what is even more clearly shown by the second table is the fact that both in 1910 and in 1911 more sophomores were dropped from fraternities than men of any other class. Once again I urge, as I have many times urged in the past, that the upperclassmen and alumni of our fraternities exercise the most careful supervision possible over the work of their second-year members. The figures prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that the critical year for the fraternity man is his sophomore year, and that then, as much as in his freshman year, he needs the guidance of his older and more experienced brothers.

The Music Festival.

The sale of single tickets for the Music Festival began this morning and will continue for a week. Orders may be sent to J. H. Scott, 111 North Tioga street. The program of the Festival was printed in last week's issue. May 4, 5 and 6 are the dates. Because Professor Dann will be on sabbatic leave next year and plans to go to Europe, it is probable that there will be no Music Festival in 1912. By the spring of 1913 the proposed auditorium of the College of Agriculture, with seats for 2,000 persons, is likely to be finished. So the coming Festival may be the last one held in Sage Chapel.

More than a hundred men are out for the intercollege crews, which went on the water for the first time last Thursday.

AN EXEMPLAR OF CITIZENSHIP:

Franklin Smith Macomber.

A picture of the late Franklin Smith Macomber, of the class of 1900, was hung last week in Professor Fetter's lecture room, No. 264 Goldwin Smith Hall. With the picture is framed a paragraph taken from a tribute which a Toledo newspaper printed at the time of Macomber's death. When the picture was hung, President Schurman made the following remarks:

FIFTEEN years ago there was at Cornell a student named Franklin Macomber. He was a quiet boy, thoughtful and earnest and with a sane outlook upon life. Of Quaker parentage, he had the sterling qualities that were his natural heritage. He was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and so retiring was he that few outside of his fraternity knew him well. His stay at Cornell was for but two years. The course that he most enjoyed here was one in Political Science.

After leaving Cornell he returned to his home in Toledo, Ohio, and entered upon business with his father and his older brother, Irving, who was a Cornell graduate [of the class of 1894]. But it was not merely as a young business man that he returned to Toledo. He realized that he was a citizen, and he seemed to feel to the fullest extent his duties and his responsibilities as a citizen, and above all, that a citizen had a work to do for humanity. He evidently laid his own plans for usefulness and carried them out quietly, obeying the command "that the right hand shall not know what the left hand doeth."

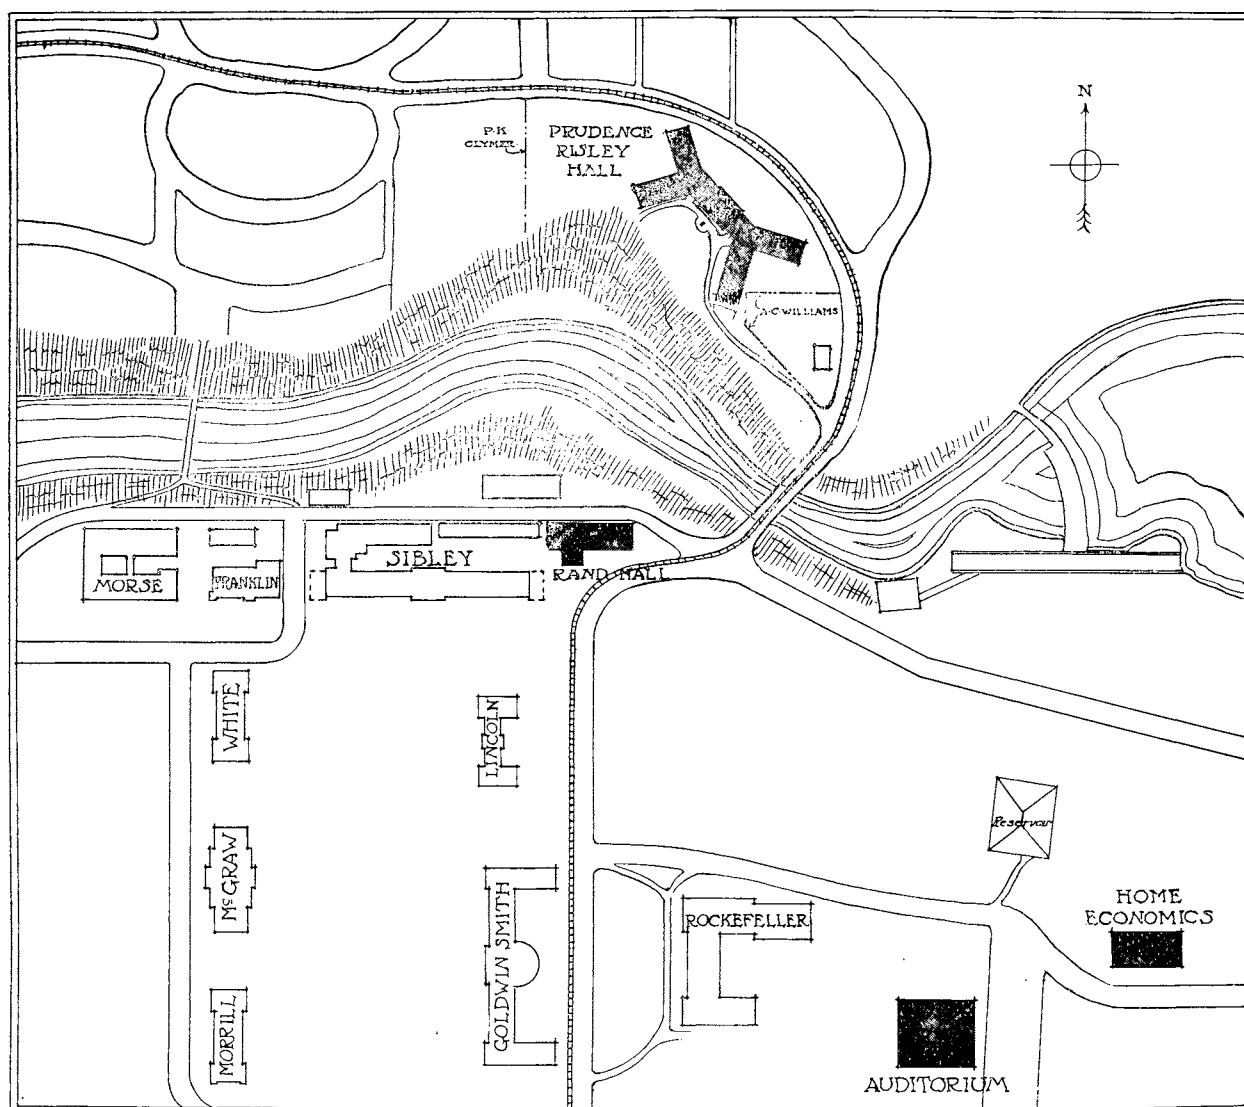

The public soon discerned in him a man interested in the welfare of the city. He took an interest in the police force and in their better equipment. His interest in the fire department was practical and vital, and he was made a member of the Board of Public Safety. At the same time he had placed many of the vacant lots over which he as a real estate dealer had control in the service of the Playground Association and for use as school gardens. He was also known to be interested in caring for the newsboys of the city.

In December, 1908, he died suddenly as the result of a minor surgical operation. He was only thirty-one years of age. It was never dreamed by even his most intimate friends what his death meant, or of the extent that it was felt in the city in which he lived. At his funeral every fireman and every policeman in the city mourned as a personal friend. The newsboys wept and could not be comforted. The city poor came to look for the last time on the face of him who had stood between them and want and suffering. It seemed that wherever a helping hand had been needed, his hand had been the one extended; nor was it withheld from those whom the jails and prisons disgorged, for many such he met at the prison gates and helped on to an honest life.

Seldom has it come to Cornell to honor a son who has stood for such true citizenship. An editorial in one of Toledo's papers said of him: "Franklin Macomber loved the crowd, —humanity in the whole. He knew somehow or other how the other half lived, and struggled, and suffered. His mind felt it, though his body knew not the pangs of unsatisfied hunger or the cold that comes to the insufficiently clothed." And Mayor Whitlock declared in his proclamation: "He was thoughtful, kind, and sympathetic. He lived a clean, unselfish, beautiful life, and he had that quality of imagination which enabled him to put himself in the other fellow's place. This helped him to try to bring about better conditions in the world."

It has seemed to us that no more inspiring tablet can be placed on the walls of this room in Cornell University, this room where training is given in citizenship, than this picture of Franklin Macomber with the tribute paid him in the leading newspaper of Toledo, voicing the sentiment of the city. Here is the place for this touching and worthy memorial, and here the story shall stand for an ideal of civic usefulness and quiet, efficient, useful service. And to the coming hosts of Cornell it will reveal what a young man can do who has in his heart a love for mankind and a willingness to help where help is needed.

Some Figures and What They Show.

From the statistics which the Registrar has completed for the coming issue of the University Register, it appears that during the twelve weeks of winter courses in agriculture this year the University was instructing 4,850 students. This is an increase of 266 over a year ago. For the first time the number of regular undergraduate students is more than 4,000. The number of graduate students is 314 and of undergraduates 4,097—a total, deducting 8 for names counted twice, of 4,403 regular students.

In Sibley College and the College of Arts and Sciences there are fewer students than there were last year.

This is due, in Sibley, to more rigid enforcement of entrance requirements. The freshman class of Sibley College has this year 337 members, a decrease of 133. The sophomore class is the only one in the college to show an increase, it having 356 members as against 302 in last year's sophomore class. The senior and junior classes have losses of 14 and 16 respectively. There is a similar condition in the Colleges of Civil Engineering and Arts and Sciences, the sophomore class showing an increase and the other three decreases.

An increase of 222 in the registration of the College of Agriculture is enough to account for all the gain in the total number of students and to help make up some of the loss in mechanical and civil engineering. The 761 students in agriculture are divided as follows: seniors, 64; juniors, 101; sophomores, 177; freshmen, 247; special students, 172. Of the students in this college 90 are women. The number of women in agriculture has increased because of the courses now offered in home economics. Probably for the same reason, the number of women in the College of Arts and Sciences has diminished.

CORNELL 9, TRINITY 1.

Every Cornell player except Thompson got a hit in the Trinity game on Thursday, and O'Connell got three. There were some two-baggers among these. It looked as if Cornell might have some batters this year, but at the same time it may be well to remember that there was a lot of hitting in the early home games last season, and not so much of it later on. So it is a little soon yet to say that we have a hitting team. On the other hand, the men who are making the most of their times at bat are among the team's new recruits, and that fact is encouraging.

Hightower, one of Danny Coogan's five pitchers, made his first appearance on Percy Field. He is a speedy right-hander. Three hits was all he gave Trinity. He had some fielding to do, accepting seven chances without an error. Butler was behind the bat. Howard was out of the game on account of a sprain received in the Lehigh contest. Dauenhauer, and later Isett, took his place on third. Mahoney, Thomas and O'Connell were in the outfield. If this trio keeps up its present record for "stick work" there are several outfield substitutes who are going to be disappointed men.

In the first inning and again in the second Cornell had two men left on bases. In the third Clute hit to left for two bases and scored on Mahoney's grounder through short. In the fifth, with one out, Clute walked and stole second, O'Connell singled and stole second, Mahoney singled and stole second, and then Dauenhauer got a two-bagger. Three more runs were scored in the sixth, with Hightower's base on balls, singles by Magner and O'Connell and Mahoney's grounder through the first baseman; and in the seventh another error at first base let in two runs.

In Trinity's fourth inning, the score then being 1 to 0 in Cornell's favor, the visitors filled the bases with only one man out, but a double force-out at home and third base, Mahoney covering third, retired the side. Trinity's single run was obtained in the sixth by Horan, who was passed to first, stole second and went to third on Carroll's single to left field. A clever stop by Mahoney prevented him from scoring on this play, but he came home on Brainerd's grounder to short. The score:

Rowing.

Better weather conditions during the past week have made more work possible on the part of the crew men. The crews were able to row on the lake nearly every day and three times they went to Crowbar Point. There has been no change in the combinations as they were announced last week, and this fact may indicate that the final selection has been made.

John Hoyle, assistant coach, has been ill with a cold and Mr. Courtney has been obliged to look after the freshman crew. Hoyle's illness is causing delay in the repairing of three damaged shells and the building of the 1911 varsity shell.

Lacrosse.

Although Cornell easily defeated the Rochester Lacrosse Club Saturday afternoon on a slippery field by a score of 12 to 2, Coach Hunter was not quite satisfied with the showing made by the team and practice games are being held every afternoon this week in preparation for the contests with Columbia and the Crescent Athletic Club in New York on May 5 and 6. Rain at frequent intervals Saturday had put the field in bad condition and the game was not marked by any brilliant playing. Cornell played rather loosely at first and allowed the Rochester men to score twice. Then the team improved and the play was in Rochester's territory for the remainder of the game.

The schedule for the rest of the season is as follows: May 5, Columbia at New York; May 6, Crescent A. C. at New York; May 15, Harvard at Ithaca; May 19, West Point at West Point; May 20, Stevens at Hoboken; May 30, Hobart at Geneva.

Tennis.

A call for candidates for the tennis team was issued last week and many of the best players in the University responded. The various courts about the University have been put in condition and players are getting into form. The team will take two trips this season. The schedule: May 6, Columbia at Ithaca; May 12, Princeton at Princeton; May 13, Lafayette at Easton; May 20, Michigan at Ithaca; May 26, Dartmouth at Hanover; May 27, Wililams at Wililamstown.

Track.

Track practice is now held each morning and afternoon at Percy Field. During the past week the track has been in poor condition because of rain. Fourteen men have been picked for the training table. They are: Seniors, H. H. d'Autremont, H. W. Ford, E. A. Hunger, E. G. MacArthur, S. F. Nixon, V. A. Stibolt, W. K. Wells; juniors, T. S. Berna, A. S. Elsenbast, H. N. Putnam; sophomores, A. E. Bannister, W. H. Bennett, J. P. Jones, H. G. Kanzler.

Cornell is to have several men entered in the Pennsylvania Relay Carnival at Philadelphia next Saturday. The Pennsylvania-Cornell dual track meet is to be held at Philadelphia on May 6.

Alumni Days are Tuesday, June 20, and Wednesday, June 21.

TRAINING HOUSE WANTED.

Talk of Remodeling a Building Now Standing on Alumni Field—The Expense Probably Prohibitive.

One of the needs of the football team of next season which has been pointed out by the coaches is a training house in which the men can dress and, if possible, live during the season. Work on the permanent building is to be started soon, but this will not be ready for the next football season and will only provide lockers, dressing rooms and shower baths. The plans of the Alumni Field contemplate a clubhouse in the future; but, as this may not be erected for years it is hoped to provide temporary living quarters for football men for next season.

An apparently feasible plan has presented itself. The land recently given by the University for Alumni Field in exchange for land farther to the east has upon it the South Barn. This barn was built less than ten years ago and is in excellent condition. The plan is to remodel this and provide for dressing rooms, living quarters for about twenty-four men, and possibly a large practice room on the top floor. Inasmuch as the barn stands on land belonging to Alumni Field and the cost of moving it would be considerable, it could probably be obtained from the University for a nominal rental.

Professor George Young, jr., of the College of Architecture, a member of the Football Field Committee, has made some sketches showing what could be done in the way of remodeling the barn. Professor W. W. Rowlee, football adviser on the Athletic Council and also superintendent of grounds, has been working on the project with Professor Young. Professor Rowlee thinks the plan a good one. He said that the barn was built under his supervision for the use of the department of grounds and that it would admit of all the alterations needed.

Six thousand dollars, it is estimated, would put the barn in first-class shape for a clubhouse, but much less than this amount would make it serviceable as dressing and living quarters for the men. Probably $3,000 or a little less than this amount would make all the needed changes on the inside of the building. The Athletic Council does not feel able to expend this amount of money at the present time and it would have to come from some other source.

Last year the football team practiced at Alumni Field for the first time. The men dressed at the gymnasium, where the only room available for their use was the intercollegiate crew room. The crowded condition of the gymnasium would be considerably relieved next fall by dressing quarters and shower baths for football men nearer the field.

The housing of the football team during the season is greatly desired by both the coaches and members of the team. It is manifestly impossible for all members of the team to observe strict training and live in their fraternity or rooming houses. Particularly in the hours of sleep is this true. Before the big games of the year, when the football man needs the most quiet, the excitement about the house in which lives makes this impossible. There are many other benefits which the football coaches believe would result from housing the men together. One of the most important of these is the good effect it would have on team work and team spirit. It is thought to be no more than fair to the men not in training to be relieved of the necessity of keeping clubhouses and fraternity houses quiet at hours when men in training should not be disturbed.

Training House Plans Accepted.

The Athletic Council has approved of plans submitted by John V. Van Pelt of New York for the permanent training house to be erected on Alumni Field. The building will be about the size of Boardman Hall, will be built of brick and will have a red tile roof. Quarters will be provided for the minor sports teams as well as for the baseball, football and track teams. There will be rooms for visiting teams, showers, rubbing rooms, store rooms and in fact everything that is needed to make the house fill its purpose.

In order that the building may be most accessible it will be situated about the middle of Alumni Field. This will bring it south of the playground and north of the proposed football field. Work on the house will be started soon.

Spring Football Practice.

Spring football practice has not as yet been very well attended by the men eligible for the team next season. The work is of a light nature, consisting mostly of passing and kicking. To stimulate interest in the spring work, a silver loving cup is offered to the man showing the best ability as a goal kicker. Captain Munk has been drilling the men, Coach Reed finding it impossible to be in Ithaca for the spring work.

Alumni Days are Tuesday, June 20, and Wednesday, June 21.

From the map which we publish in this number it may be seen that the new women's dormitory will be situated so close to the campus as to be practically on it. The building is but a short distance from the proposed home economics building of the college of agriculture. It appears from the figures prepared for this year's Register that the number of women in the course in home economics is increasing, while the number of women taking the arts course is growing smaller.

Although the plans for Prudence Risley Hall are not completed yet, we are able to indicate what its general ground plan will be. The peculiar shape of the building is the result of an effort to have every room in it get the sunlight.

If the money could be found to remodel it for use as a training house and athletic club house, there would be no reason why the South Barn could not stand on Alumni Field for several years. A new training house is to be built soon, but it will not provide living quarters for members of varsity teams. Such quarters could be provided in the barn, which stands on the very edge of the land which the Trustees set aside last winter for a varsity field. The barn is a substantial building and it has been kept clean and in good repair. By partitions inside and verandas outside it could be made quite habitable.

The name "Student's Common" has been chosen by the Alumni Field Committee for all that part of the field lying east of the Playground. The "Common" comprises more than twenty acres. It will be used for the overflow from both the Playground and the varsity practice field. The varsity practice field will be situated at the western end of the athletic area, near East Avenue. The Playground and the Common together will provide more than thirty acres which will be open to all students for recreation.

President Schurman has received a letter from a Cornell alumnus of which the following is an extract:

"I have felt badly at several late banquets of the Eastern New York Association hearing the reference to Hell in the chorus of one of the songs. It was sung at the last banquet in Albany. Is there any way to put this up to the student body? The average father and mother with a son expecting to enter college would not be prepossessed to Cornell, I think, if they happened, as they easily might, to hear this flippant chorus. Cornell is on too high a plane to want such choruses sung by undergraduates or alumni. I am sure there were many present last time who regretted this chorus."

The President was quite in sympathy with what the writer of the communication said, and believed that it would be advisable to call the matter to the attention of the alumni through the columns of the NEWS.

Alumni Days are Tuesday, June 20, and Wednesday, June 21.

CLASS REUNIONS. 1881.

To the Members of the Class of 1881: The Thirty Year reunion of the class of 1881 will be held at the coming Commencement. It is hoped that this reunion will be even more successful than the Quarter Century one held five years ago. We are looking for a strong representation of the class. Please write to the Permanent Secretary at once, that you are going to come and bring your wives and families. The roll of the Permanent Secretary contains the names of 200 persons who were connected with the class at one time or another and are now counted as members of the class. Of these, 82 graduated with the class; 149 of the total membership and 69 of the graduates are still living.

The Quarter Century Book that was authorized by the class at the 25-year reunion has been very much delayed in preparation for various reasons. It is now expected that it will be published and ready for delivery at the coming Commencement.

H. H. WING,
Permanent Secretary.

1886—Twenty-Five Year.

Charles H. Baker writes from Moshogan Farm: "Those who do not expect to go to the Fifty-Year reunion ought to be sure to attend this one."

Already these have promised to attend: Baker, Towl, Thurber, Norton, McCann, Hoffeld, Raichle, Stoner, Day, Schaaf, Sackett, de Lima, Chapman, Hull, Merritt, Harris, Coville, probably Carolan, Cadwallader, Dushinberre and Chatfield-Taylor.

Many are bringing wives and daughters. Ample accommodations will be provided at the EIGHTY-SIX HOUSE, 526 Stewart avenue, where breakfasts will be served to all.

The Class Dinner will probably be served on Tuesday evening, June 20. It is hoped that many may come on Friday, June 16, and remain through Commencement Day, June 22.

Out of fifty replies to the first notice sent out, thirty stated they expected to attend the reunion. This is a good start, but we must do better than that. "Arch" Downey is coming from Seattle. L. N. French, from Nevada, says he will come if he has to walk. Such enthusiasm should certainly be contagious. The reunion committee are at work. The Ithaca contingent is doing its share. "Everybody possible back this year" is our motto.

GEORGE S. TOMPKINS,
Class Secretary.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Representation on the Board of Trustees.

Editor of the Cornell Alumni News:
For a number of years there has been a committee in the Cornell Women's Club of New York whose business it is to gather information concerning the candidates for Alumni Trustee, and to present such information to the hundreds of women graduates of this vicinity. Our committee has a resident in the Middle West and one in Boston. Every year we have received urgent letters from organizations of men graduates asking our support of candidates for the trusteeship on the ground that each one represented some group of the alumni not hitherto represented on the Board. For example, one year we were asked to support a Western man, because he was a good man for the place and because the West ought to be represented. Another year our support was asked for a doctor, and we helped elect him, because we wanted the interests of the medical students looked after by an expert. The next year a men's club asked us to give our votes to a business man, the next year to an engineer, and to a scientist. They were all fitted to work for the best interests of the whole University, and especially to represent the groups with whose problems they were most familiar.

There is no woman on the board now. Ought not this group to be represented? Mrs. William Vaughn Moody (Harriet Tilden Moody), the candidate of the Federation of Cornell Women's Clubs, has qualifications which must be apparent to every man. We ask the men voters to support her because of her fitness to represent the whole body of alumni, and also because she can well represent a large group of Cornellians who have no direct representation at present on the Board of Trustees.

OBITUARY.

Dr. CHARLES S. BULL.

Dr. Charles Stedman Bull, professor of clinical surgery, department of ophthalmology, in the Cornell University Medical College, died on April 17 of heart disease, two hours after he had been admitted as a patient to the Presbyterian Hospital. Dr. Bull was born in New York, and graduated from Columbia College in 1864 and from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1868. He then spent two years in European universities. He had been engaged in practice as an ophthalmic surgeon in New York City since 1871, and he became a member of the faculty of the Cornell University Medical College at its organization in 1898. He was consulting surgeon to several New York hospitals. From 1903 to 1907 he was president of the American Ophthalmological Association. His wife survives him, with two sons and a daughter.

W. B. EWING '83.

William Bion Ewing died at his home, 4136 Ellis avenue, Chicago, on April 8. He was born in Williamsburg, Pa., in 1858 and graduated from Cornell with the degree of B. C. E. in 1883. From 1886 to 1888 he was assistant engineer of the Chicago & North Western Railway, and since 1888 he had been engaged in practice as a consulting civil and municipal engineer in Chicago. He was city engineer of several towns near Chicago, including Lagrange, Dolton, Burnham and Riverdale. He was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Western Society of Civil Engineers. He was married in 1892 and his wife and one daughter survive him.

MARGARET JARVIE '02.

Margaret Scott Jarvie died on March 1, 1911, at her home, 1134 Pacific street, Brooklyn, after an illness of several months. Miss Jarvie was a graduate of the Brooklyn Girls' High School. She entered Cornell in 1898 with a state scholarship, was a member of the Alpha Phi fraternity, and graduated in 1902 with the degree of A. B. She took the degree of M. A. at Columbia in 1904. She was teacher of English at the Richmond Hill High School for several years and at the time of her last illness. In February Miss Jarvie's engagement to Mr. Richard Ward Childs, of Boise, Idaho, was announced. All her plans had been practically completed for her approaching marriage and her anticipated life in the West, and the suddenness of her death (sudden at the last) made her loss even more keen to the many friends who mourn her. Her mother, Mrs. Robert Fairlie, of Brooklyn, is the only near relative who survives her.

A. H. Perkins '93, of Fulton, N. Y., lectured before the College of Civil Engineering at noon Saturday on "The Policy of the New York State Water Commission with Reference to Water Power." Mr. Perkins is a division engineer for the commission.

Rifle Shooting.

The rifle team of the State University of Iowa won the intercollegiate rifle shooting championship of the United States by the narrow margin of one point from Massachusetts Agricultural College. Until last week's shoot, which ended the competition, the two teams had been tied for first place with fourteen victories and no defeats. When they came together in the last match Iowa scored 1,891 points to Massachusetts's 1,890. Cornell and Washington State tied for third place. Columbia won the special trophy for non-military colleges, defeating Dartmouth by one match.

Mr. Courtney's Contract Renewed.

Mr. Courtney last week signed a contract with the Athletic Council to coach the Cornell crews for five years more. The crews have been under his instruction since 1883.

Fire in the Sigma Nu House.

Fire in the house occupied by the Sigma Nu fraternity, at 111 Osmun Place, early Saturday morning, caused damage estimated at $1,000. The blaze was discovered by two members of the chapter, Witmer Russell and B. J. Reynolds, about 2 o'clock. They aroused the other men in the house and all got out in safety. The flames were confined to the basement and first floor. The loss is covered by insurance. The building is owned by the Ithaca Realty Company. In the early '90's it was the home of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. Next September the Sigma Nu chapter will occupy a house which it is now building on the south bank of the Fall Creek gorge, near Stewart avenue.

Because of bad weather the inter-college baseball series did not get fairly started last week. The Lawyers defeated the Graduates 11 to 1 in the only game played.

Interfraternity Baseball League.

Forty-five fraternities and clubs have organized an interfraternity baseball league. Owing to the large number of teams entered seven sub-leagues have been formed. The teams that finish first in the sub-leagues will form another league in which the championship will be decided.

Six diamonds have been laid out on the upper part of Alumni Field, the cost of the work being borne by the members of the league. Three are on the north and three on the south side of the field, with the outfields in the middle.

The results of games played last week follow: Nayati 8, Sigma Phi 7; Gamma Eta Gamma 4, Chi Psi 0; Alpha Tau Omega 7, Cerberus 4; Chi Phi 16, Cosmopolitan Club 2; Zodiac 7, Skull 3; Kappa Sigma 10, Zeta Beta Tau 6.

Cricket practice is held daily at Alumni Field. Although the team has but one game scheduled, that with Haverford at Ithaca on May 20, there is considerable interest shown in the sport.

LIGHTNING FAST LOCK
READY FOR ACTION

'Don't Count Lock Parts Until You See Them in the Gun Ready for Action'

- 1 All gun makers claim a simple lock but no amount of paper-talk will make a lock simple.
- 2 The gun itself must consist of the fewest possible parts—advertising cannot accomplish this.
- 3 We do a little advertising but this is no reason why you should buy an ITHACA—the reason is in the gun itself.
- 4 Compare our lock, set up, ready for action, with any other make—if we haven't the simplest lock we'll give you the gun—let the gun talk for itself.
- 5 If you see more than one hole in a hammer, look out for toggles or stirrups not shown.
- 6 Our hammer is all in one piece, only one hole, no toggles or stirrups attached.
- 7 We use coil springs—the type adopted by Uncle Sam for Army guns—guaranteed forever.
- 8 Send for beautiful catalog in colors—FREE.
- 9 We make 18 different grade guns. $17.75 net to $400, list.
- 10 Our little 5 1/4 lb. 20 bore is a howling success.

Unlike Any Other

One secret of Monarch superiority lies in the wonderful responsiveness of its key action. In no other typewriter in the world do the keys so readily yield to the slightest touch of the finger.

That is why the Monarch is easier to operate than any other writing machine.

Monarch Light Touch

That is why it wards off fatigue and saves nerve-strain on the part of the stenographer. In consequence, her work is cleaner-cut, more accurate, more rapid and greater in quantity than it is possible to obtain with any other writing machine.

For these reasons you need a Monarch in your office. And every day without it means actual money-loss to you besides.

Send for Monarch Literature

Learn the many reasons for Monarch superiority. Then try the Monarch, and be convinced that Monarch merit rests in the machine itself, not merely in what we tell you about it.

Representatives Wanted

Local representatives wanted everywhere, also a few more dealers for large territories. Write for details and attractive terms.
