ITHACA, N. Y., APRIL 10, 1924

PRICE 12 CENTS

THE SPRING recess found students leaving for home under boreal conditions, with one of the heaviest snowfalls of the season, after a touch of real spring. The first of April fooled everybody, including the weatherman, who predicted "fair and warmer" after an area of low pressure had gone to sea somewhere off the Carolina capes. It came back to the discomfort of the weatherman and the disgust of those students who had expected to drive home in their flivvers. The snow brought with it a brief period of winter sports, but by the end of the week it was entirely gone as a result of two days of April sunshine.

RADIO broadcasting started officially from the College of Agriculture on March 31 with a talk by Dean Albert R. Mann '04 on "The State's Educational Service to Farm Men and Women" from Station WGY at Schenectady. Similar talks on farm topics by members of the Faculty are to be a regular feature from 7.15 to 7.45 on the second and last Mondays of each month from the same station.

PLANS are being made by the University to replace the present bridge over Cascadilla Creek at Dwyer's Dam, on the eastern edge of the Campus, with a substantial structure of plate girders and concrete. Professor Earle N. Burrows '07 is looking for suitable construction material in the girders discarded by railroads which have replaced their bridges for the present heavy traffic, but which are entirely satisfactory for highway bridges. This bridge will be on the projected State road from Varna into the city by way of the Campus, and will considerably shorten the present haul of building materials from East Ithaca.

FRANK C. WIGHT '04, editor of The Engineering News-Record, was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Civil Engineers, held on March 24 in Prudence Risley. He said that engineers knew how to work with materials, but not yet generally with men and money.

THE JAMES T. MORRISON PRIZE for Poetry has this year been awarded to two undergraduates, James Hutton '24 of Walton, for a one-act play written in blank verse; and Helen M. Peavy '25 of Franklinville for a group of a dozen poems and sonnets. Fourteen students competed for the prize.

THE FIRST intercollege lacrosse league to be formed at Cornell opened its season recently with games between Arts and Mechanical Engineering, won by the former, 7-2, and between a second Arts team and Agriculture, which resulted in a tie, 2-2. The league consists of five teams, two from Arts, one each from Agriculture and Mechanical Engineering, and one composed of players from several other colleges. Coach Bawlf has put every candidate, with the exception of the varsity squad of thirty, on one of these teams.

ARTS won the intercollege basketball championship this year, playing seven games undefeated. Law was next, winning four and losing one game; Chemistry next, then Civil Engineering, Agriculture, Veterinary, Mechanical Engineering, and Architecture, which lost seven games.

ACTING DEAN CHARLES K. BURDICK, formerly associated with Harlan Fiske Stone, newly appointed Attorney General says Stone will command the respect and confidence of the American bar and of the whole country. He adds that "the country is to be congratulated that President Coolidge refused to be moved by political influences."

BACHELOR PROFESSORS who occupy the sleeping quarters on the upper floors of the University Club engaged in a successful hunt for a skunk which had been infesting the basement of the building. The lower part of the club house is not now being used and some of the hunters are said to be in bad odor in the community.

THE ARTS COLLEGE had adopted a new rule by which students are required to pass twelve hours, six of which must be of the grade of C or better, if the students are to remain in good standing. This action clarifies the rules as to probation.

INDIAN FARMERS were taught at the first agricultural extension school planned especially for those on New York's Indian reservations, on April 3 and 4, at Shongo on the Allegany Reservation, near Salamanca, New York.

THE ORDER OF THE COIF, a national law school honorary society established at Cornell in 1915 to advance ethical standards in the profession, has elected three seniors to membership. They are Abraham Ernest Gold of Plattsburg, Jacob Lewis Gold of Brooklyn, and Albert Hosie Treman '21 of Ithaca.

THE CORNELL DAILY SUN has announced a new board of editors and managers for 1924. The board includes: editor-in-chief, Robert W. Eiler '25 of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; business manager, John Noll, Jr. '25, Youngstown, Ohio; managing editor, Robert C. Ludlum '25, Chevy Chase, Maryland; editorial director, Gilbert M. Weeks '25, Chicago, Illinois; intercollegiate editor, Edward W. Doyle '25, Utica, circulation manager, Theodore M. Wright '26, Flushing; column editor, Walter T. Southworth '25, Ocean Side.

THE DEBATE TEAM made a Western trip during the recess to meet Iowa State College at Ames, Morningside College at Sioux City, Iowa, and Beloit College at Beloit, Wisconsin. Another team debated with Bowdoin at Portland, Maine. The subjects for the Western trip had to do with the Bok Peace Plan, and the League of Nations; the Bowdoin debate dealt with the recognition of the Soviet Government in Russia by the United States.

PROPOSED CHANGES in the street names of Ithaca have got some of the citizens "all het up." Most of the changes are meant to simplify names so that one street will not have more than one name in its several parts, and so that there shall not be the confusion, on the other hand, that arises from having, for example, a Highland Avenue, and a Highland Place in different parts of the city.

LIONEL E. MINTZ, city editor of The Ithaca Journal - News and conductor of the "Side-Lights" column in that paper, had a side light in his desk when a cigarette dropped in the littered papers started a blaze. By the time the fire department arrived, the blaze had been extinguished by R. Warren Sailor '07 and Laurence B. June '19 of the ALUMNI NEWS, which has offices in the same building.

A STRONG MAN from the football team recently won out in a banter with the conductor on one of the street cars in a spectacular and unusual way. Getting off at Barton Place he took hold of the hand-rail and held the car so it couldn't move. After he judged the car had been punished enough, he gave it a push that sent it on its way up the icy rails.

F. LEONARD H. DAVIS '24 of Cleveland, Ohio, was awarded the prize set of "McKinney's Consolidated Laws of New York" given to the member of the senior law class who has shown the greatest improvement from the second term of the first year to the second term of the fourth year.

THE AMERICAN SHIPPING BOARD has selected the College of Engineering of Cornell University, as one of several institutions at which the board has established cash prizes of $100 to be awarded to the student who attains highest rank in naval architecture and marine engineering.

FEBRUARY in Ithaca was much colder than January, reversing the usual order. Winter was mild until January 19, when a cold wave arrived and lasted the rest of the month. The coldest day of the winter was February 24 at 10 degrees below zero. January had one clear day, February five clear days, and March two clear days.

Provide for Informal Study

New Arts College Ruling Allows Original Work by Undergraduates for Baccalaureate Degree

With a view to fostering original work on the part of juniors and seniors, the Faculty of Arts and Sciences on March 25 adopted a plan, modeled after one now in operation at Swarthmore, providing for informal study by selected students.

The plan provides that "any student in the College of Arts and Sciences who has completed his underclass requirements and has credit for at least sixty hours, with half of his work in the grade of A or B, may, in his junior or senior year, apply to such departments as adopt this plan for a program of courses which will include informal study in his upper class group." The form of study is left to the individual departments, although it is stipulated that informal work during the junior year shall consist of specified reading or reports, or of experimentation and problem work, "which are intended to furnish the student with opportunities to express initiative in his major field of study."

The individual work is to be supervised by the student's upperclass adviser, and will entitle him to not more than three hours' credit a term. A similar plan is to be followed during his senior year entitling him to the same amount of credit.

To quote from another section of the plan: "In a department or in departments constituting an upperclass group in which there is a seminary meeting at least once a week for the purpose of giving tutorial assistance to the students accepted for informal study, the amount of credit gained by such students may be extended to a maximum of six hours a term during their senior year, provided that, at the close of his senior year, and before his adviser reports credit for this informal work, the student must pass successfully a thorough comprehensive examination in the field of study of his upperclass group."

The degree of Bachelor of Arts with honors in his major field will be conferred on any candidate, upon recommendation of the department constituting that field, and with the sanction of the Faculty, provided he shall have completed the general requirements of the college and shall have passed a comprehensive examination in the field of his upperclass work.

MEDICAL COLLEGE GRADUATES

A tabulation of the alumni of the Cornell Medical College, as made by Miss Jessie P. Andresen, secretary to the Dean, shows 1083 graduates, with 67 deceased, out of a total number of 1150. The largest class was in 1905, with 74 graduates. The high record for living graduates goes to '07, with 70.

THE BARNES HALL BULLETIN is to be revived as a house organ of the C. U. C. A., after a lapse of 27 years.

SPORT STUFF

Every once in a while I hear stories about some other colleges courting prep school athletes and making the way easy for them after they matriculate. There must be similar stories current (and believed) about Cornell. Otherwise we should not receive from time to time such astonishing letters from a few Old Grads. Here are a few typical ones.

Exhibit A—"The Lincoln High School football team recently won the interscholastic championship. The Kiwanis Club is putting on a luncheon in their honor next Thursday. They want someone to come here and give a talk on clean athletics? Can't you come and bring Jack Moakley or Gil Dobie? If we put this over right I feel sure we can land most of these boys in Ithaca next fall. One of these talks on 'Athletics for all' would go fine."

Exhibit B "There is a young man in this town named Henry Whozis, who has made a remarkable reputation as an athlete. He weighs 190 without an ounce of fat and can run, etc., etc. He has, I believe, some attractive offers, etc., etc., but would like to go to Cornell. His father, however, has recently had business reverses. Would it be possible, etc., etc."

Exhibit C "This boy Smith at Humper Academy is one of the greatest pitchers that ever lived and is also a sweet basketball player. A lot of other colleges are after him strong, but as far as I can find out no one has made any effort to interest him in Cornell. Why don't you birds wake up and get busy?"

It's a hard job to sit down every day and compose replies to such effusions, calculated to reduce the blood pressure without irritating unduly. I suppose the general public is hopeless, but it ought to be possible to convince our own alumni that that sort of thing isn't done.

Irrespective of the ethics of the thing it's all so futile, so undignified and so unnecessary.

The one and only way for Old Grads to recruit for Cornell teams is to beget little athletes and send 'em up here. A lot of them have done that and are doing it with great success. It's all the University or the Athletic Association requires of them along these lines.

CITY ENGINEER of Ithaca seems to be an attractive job. More than eighty applications have been received for the job since it became vacant by the resignation of Henry L. Stewart '72.

A DANCE FESTIVAL and the presentation of a lyric story, "The Magic Scarf," by undergraduate women trained as a part of the required instruction of the Department of Physical Education, attracted a large audience to Bailey Hall on March 27.

A Long Swing Around

Flack Returns From a Successful Trip to the Coast--Cordial Welcome Everywhere

Winding up with meetings in Omaha, Denver, and Des Moines, the latter on April 7, Harold Flack '12, executive secretary of the Cornellian Council, brought to a close the tour on which he left Ithaca in the middle of February, and which included meetings in Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Tulsa, Wichita, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Spokane, Portland, and Salt Lake City.

Flack's trip was made frankly in the interests of the Cornellian Council, and in most cities he was successful in organizing local financial campaigns for the Alumni Fund. At the same time he went as a general ambassador from Ithaca, with greetings and the latest news of University activities, and with lantern slides and moving pictures which were shown at every stop. The notable feature was the number of meetings held in cities which had never before brought the Cornellians together.

Indianapolis

The annual dinner of the Cornell Alumni Association of Indiana was held at the new Indianapolis Athletic Club on Saturday, February 16. The speakers on this occasion were Harold Flack and George H. Walbridge '00, the director of the Cornell Alumni Corporation for the Great Lakes District. About forty Cornellians were present.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: president, Anton Vonnegut '05; secretary, Frederick H. Bird '11; treasurer, William E. Munk '12.

Tulsa

The Cornell Alumni Association of Oklahoma held its annual dinner on February 23, at the Tulsa Club. Thirty-five Cornellians, together with their wives and other friends of Cornell attended the dinner. Herbert D. Mason '00, president of the club, presided. While in Tulsa Flack spoke also at a luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce and also at a convocation of students at Tulsa University.

Wichita

A dinner of the Cornellians in Wichita, Kansas, and their friends was held on Tuesday, February 26, at the Wichita Club. Howard E. Case '84, president of the Cornell Club of Wichita, introduced Flack. Although there are only twelve Cornellians in Wichita the city boasts one of the most active Cornell clubs in the country.

Spokane

A dozen Cornellians of Spokane got together at the Davenport Hotel in Spokane on Saturday, March 15, on the occasion of Flack's visit to their city. The evening was spent in talking over the good old days and in learning of present day conditions at the University. As both the president and secretary of the Cornell Club of Spokane had moved away during the year the following new officers were elected: president, A. Fielding McClaine '14; secretary, William V. Kelley, Jr., '93.

Seattle

Twenty-five Cornellians resident in Seattle assembled at the College Club on Thursday, March 13, for the annual dinner of the Cornell Club of that city. Flack was the only speaker. John M. Moran '05, president of the club, presided.

Portland

The annual dinner of the Cornell Club of Portland was held at the University Club of Portland, on Monday, March 17. Wells Gilbert '93, president of the club, presided and introduced Flack as the speaker of the evening. Twenty-five Cornellians were present. Gilbert was re-elected president of the club. Hugh Henry '05 was elected treasurer and Henry W. Wassinger '10 secretary. While in Portland Flack spoke also at the weekly luncheon of the Cornell Club.

San Francisco

The annual banquet of the Cornell Alumni Association of Northern California was held at the University Club, on March 21. Besides Flack the speakers were Albert W. (Uncle Pete) Smith '78 former dean of Sibley College and former Acting President of the University, and "Andy" Smith, coach of the University of California football team.

Dean Smith read some of his poems; Flack told of present day conditions at Cornell; and Andy Smith told of the old days at Pennsylvania when Cornell's team met defeat at the hands of Pennsylvania every year. Glenn S. Warner '94, the new coach at Stanford, was invited to speak but did not reach San Francisco in time. Wilson D. Clark '08, president of the club and director of the Cornell Alumni Corporation for the Pacific District, presided. Sixty-nine Cornellians were present. Officers elected for the coming year are: president, Clark, re-elected; secretary and treasurer, C. Hays Matson '14.

Southern California

Ninety alumni of Southern California held enthusiastic meetings on March 5 and 6. The Cornell Club of Southern California held its annual dinner on the 5th. Several Ithaca visitors supplemented one another in providing the complete campus atmosphere. Flack was reinforced by two well known class secretaries, Edwin Gillette '73 and Professor John H. Comstock '74. Mr. Gillette established a new high figure for fifty-year reunions last June, but Professor Comstock is hoping to beat that mark of 34 at the fifty-year celebration this year. Thirty Cornellians who could not attend the dinner came in later and brought the total attendance to an even hundred.

Twenty alumni met for lunch the next day at the University Club in San Diego.

It was the first Cornell meeting held in that city for many years. Flack was the principal speaker, and before the meeting broke up it was determined to form a club to be affiliated with the Cornell Club of Southern California.

Santa Barbara

The Cornellians of Santa Barbara met for luncheon on Tuesday, March 24th as the guests of Bernhard Hoffmann '95 on the occasion of Flack's visit to that city. It was the first Cornell gathering ever held in Santa Barbara. Plans are being made for the organization of a Cornell Club in Santa Barbara, to be affiliated with the Cornell Alumni Association of Southern California.

Ogden

Emil J. Hanke '09 played the part of host at luncheon on March 31, on the occasion of Flack's visit to Ogden, Utah. Most of the Cornellians in Ogden were present and Judge William M. McCrea '00, Charles C. Bintz '12, Waldemar G. Van Cott '11, and Taylor J. Chamberlain '14 were guests from Salt Lake City. This was the first Cornell gathering ever held in Ogden.

Salt Lake City

The Cornell Alumni of Salt Lake City held their annual dinner at the University Club on March 30. Twenty-five Cornellians, ranging from the classes of '78 to '22, were present. Flack was the speaker of the evening. Judge William M. McCrea '00, who had been president of the club for seven years, presided until the new officers were elected.

The officers elected for the coming year are: president, William Story, Jr., '96 (whose son is a freshman at Cornell this year); vice-president, Emil J. Hanke '09, of Ogden; secretary and treasurer, Taylor J. Chamberlain '14.

PHI BETA KAPPA

The Cornell Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on March 28 elected the following twenty-eight seniors and nineteen juniors to membership:

Seniors

Of the seniors Miss Anderson is a member of Apeth, Misses Breed and Eldredge of Delta Gamma, Misses Hoag and Johannsen of Alpha Xi Delta, Miss Koerner of Delta Zeta, Miss Yinger of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Cornehlson of Zodiac, Howell of Pi Kappa Phi, Jones of Alpha Tau Omega, Rauch of Delta Chi, and Thompson of Sigma Phi. Thompson has been this year editor-in-chief of the Sun. Miss Dean's mother, Mrs. Frances Flint Dean, was a member of the Chapter of the Class of 1892. Miss Johannsen is the daughter of Professor Oskar A. Johannsen '02 and Mrs. Johannsen.

The following seniors were elected to membership last year: Charles H. Baldwin, Harriet G. Barton, Sarah A. Beard, Mary H. Bosworth, Ruby G. Brown, Daniel O. Dechert, Jr., Irwina R. Dorr, Sidney A. Goldstein, Edith V. Harris, Charles W. Hetzler, James Hutton, Stella R. Kaufman, Roy C. Lytle, Selma L. Miller, Vera L. Peacock, Milton Rosenkrantz, Charles N. Strong, Elinor L. Troy, and Dorothea M. Wescott.

SUDHINDRA BOSE, a Hindu lecturer on the political problems of the Orient, will address a public forum under auspices of the Cosmopolitan Club on April 19.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Cleveland

The annual banquet of the Cornell Club of Cleveland, held at the Hotel Hollenden on March 22, was voted by the 195 men present a distinctive celebration. It had all the regulation essentials of a dinner, with President Victor B. Phillips '15 serving as toastmaster, and Professor Charles L. Durham '99 and Foster M. Coffin '12 coming on from Ithaca to bring greetings from the Campus. Professor Durham made the speech of the evening, a stirring appeal to the college man to rise to a sense of his responsibilities to his country and to all civilization.

But in all other respects the meeting had little in common with the usual run of dinner parties. Conant Van Blarcom '08, vice-president of the Club, was chairman of the committee, and it is rumored that he has been elected chairman for life. With Cornell naturally carrying the brunt of the entertainment, groups representing other colleges gave a distinctly intercollegiate flavor to the evening. Princeton, Dartmouth, Yale, Harvard and Western Reserve, to the delight of the Cornellians, vied with one another in singing, dancing, speech-making, and radio broadcasting.

William H. (Bill) Forbes '06 led the singing, which is another way of expressing the fact that there was a good deal of it. Wilfred L. (Doc) Umstad '06 contributed the Alumni Song. With John C. (Johnny) Barker '12 and Elbert H. (Stub) Baker, Jr. '02, Forbes made up the senatorial investigation committee which conducted the Teapot Dome Investigation. On the grill were "Mr. Underlip" (Willard Beahan '78), "Miss Rocky Slipsome" (Clarence R. May '14), "Tex Ricketts" (Samuel K. Wellman '14), and "Mr. McBrain" (Edwin S. Dawson '14). Vic Phillips was acquitted. Stub Baker made a quick shift from senatorial toga to the short skirts of a little girl of ten, and with Harold D. (Bub) North '07 appeared as the "Drunken Sisters," a parody on the act of sisters of somewhat similar name which was so successful that the pair have already been signed to appear at the alumni rally in Bailey Hall on Saturday night of Reunion Week, June 14.

The climax of the lighter entertainment, just before Professor Durham's speech, was a series of "motion pictures." Under a strong spotlight, and with the stage set in a frame, Cornell athletes of various vintages "did their stuff." Wilson S. (Bill) Dodge '22 stopped Pennsylvania on the five-yard line, and then kicked a goal from the field; Charles O. (Chick) Benton '15 served with all his old-time tennis skill; Harold L. Ebersole '23 put the shot; and Joseph K. (Joe) Bole '00 essayed chip shots and 250-yard drives. The acts were well executed when done in fast time; they were unique repeated each time as "slow movies," particularly when Joe Bole's drive was "run in reverse."

That this entire program was concluded before eleven thirty speaks well for the organization of the program.

Philadelphia

At the annual meeting of the Cornell Club of Philadelphia, held at the clubhouse on April 2, the following officers and directors were elected for the ensuing year: president, Benjamin O. Frick '02; vice-president, George F. Fenno '06; secretary, Francis H. Scheetz '16; treasurer, Allen C. Fetterolf '18; athletic representative, W. Howard Fritz '14; directors, Arthur M. Harrington '05, Otto V. Kruse '09, Willson H. Patterson '09, Paul C. Rebmann '18, Frank R. Whiting '09, Howard C. Young '09, and Hobart C. Young '10.

The reports of the officers were received with enthusiasm. The close of the first fiscal year in the new clubhouse at 310 South Fifteenth Street showed an operating profit, as well as a substantial increase in numbers. The membership is at present 272. The officers wish it to be more generally known that the club has facilities for caring for transient guests, and is always glad to receive those who care to use the clubhouse, particularly if the applicant is a member of one of the active clubs of the Cornell Alumni Corporation.

A record-breaking number of alumni turned out for the dinner of Philadelphia Cornell men, held at Kugler's Restaurant on March 19. The guests numbered approximately two hundred and seventy-five, including at least twenty-five fathers of present undergraduates at the University. Some were Cornell men, some were not. Dr. Farrand delivered an inspiring address touching intimately on Cornell affairs. Sao-Ke Sze '01, Minister from China, lent both his humor and his fund of information concerning some of the more recent developments in his native country.

Other features were the singing of the quartet from the Orpheus Club, one member of which was Andrew R. McCown '13. Bruce B. Evans '24, of the Savage Club, prevented the evening from being entirely an alumni affair. The banquet came as a climax to the campaign in Philadelphia for increasing the subscriptions to the Alumni Fund.

Binghamton

The Cornell Club of Binghamton held its annual banquet on Tuesday, March 18, at the Arlington Hotel. Over a hundred guests were present. President and Mrs. Farrand were the guests of honor, and just before the dinner a reception in their honor was held at the hotel.

Dr. Farrand spoke of the plans and problems of the University. Louis A. Fuertes '97, also making the trip from Ithaca, won his usual applause in his treatment of the subject, "The Art of Snoring." During the dinner, the club quartet furnished several selections.

ATHLETICS

Baseball

Three victories marked the first three games of the baseball team's Southern trip, which opened at Lexington, Va., last Thursday with Washington and Lee. Cornell defeated the Generals twice and on Saturday came out on top against Virginia Military Institute, also at Lexington. On Monday and Tuesday of this week the team was scheduled to play the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, returning to Ithaca Wednesday.

Free hitting, loose fielding, and fairly good pitching characterized the team's play. The men plainly showed the lack of outdoor drill, and in two games pitchers weakened in the ninth inning, showing the need of more work. In general, the first three games were encouraging.

In the first game Cornell defeated Washington and Lee by a score of 5 to 2. Milligan, the sophomore left-hander, allowed the Generals five hits and struck out eight. Cornell got seven hits, Frantz leading with two. There were four Cornell errors. In the second game, a loosely played affair Cornell won by a score of 11 to 10. Henderson, who started in the box, was withdrawn after the third inning, Whitney succeeding him. He allowed four hits in six innings, weakening in the ninth when the Generals pushed over four runs. Thomas, with a home run, two-base hit and single led the Cornell batters.

Virginia Military Institute was defeated 11 to 6 in another loosely played game. Harrington pitched steady ball until the ninth, when V. M. I. rallied and scored five runs. Capron got six hits in six times up, one a home run.

Rowing

Three varsity and two freshman crews, constituting what might be called the rowing squad, remained in Ithaca during the spring recess and rowed twice daily. They managed to get out on the lake last Saturday, a date approximately the same as that which marked the beginning of rowing on the lake last season.

The training table was also organized during the recess and strict training regulations are now in effect.

This is a good year for new blood in the varsity eights. Only two of last years Poughkeepsie eight are rowing, Charles N. Strong and Harold H. Krider. Maurice W. Fillius, who stroked the varsity in 1921, and the junior eight last season and Joseph Purcell also of that crew, are the only other letter men in the three varsity combinations.

Last year's champion freshman crew has contributed seven men, six of whom are now rowing. The seventh, Russell, bow in the yearling eight, has been ill, but hoped to resume rowing this week. This group, all of whom are rowing in the second varsity eight includes Sutcliffe, Anderson,

Buckman, Drew, Lange, and Stroke Emerson.

The make-up of the five crews follows:

First varsity: bow, Rauh; 2, Dodson; 3, Strong; 4, Travis; 5, Krider; 6, Krouse; 7, Purcell; stroke, Emerson; coxswain, Nicholson.

Second varsity: bow, Lingenfelter; 2, Sutcliffe; 3, Anderson; 4, Sutton; 5, Buckman; 6, Drew; 7, Lange; stroke, Emerson; coxswain, Aronson.

Third varsity: bow, Rapp; 2, Stagg; 3, Stratton; 4, Rankin; 5, Kurdt; 6, Talbot; 7, Bovard; stroke, Proctor; coxswain, Krech.

First freshman: bow, Taylor; 2, Davenport; 3, Davies; 4, Ivanoff; 5, Haynes; 6, Drew; 7, Healy; stroke, Francis; coxswain, Krech.

Second freshman: bow, McConnell; 2, Wright; 3, Curtis; 4, Bullard; 5, Robinhold; 6, Allen; 7, Jarvis; stroke, Butler; coxswain, Bemis.

Two Basketball Men Left

Eight members of the basketball team have been awarded the varsity letter by the Athletic Council, as follows: Charles H. Capron '24, Carl F. Wedell '24, Milton L. Byron '24, Merrills L. Dake '26, Frank D. Rossomondo '26, Richard T. Raymond '24, Evert W. Meyers '24, and Donald J. Post '24.

Only two regulars of this year's champion team will be available next year, Dake and Rossomondo.

The final standing of the Intercollegiate League follows:

	Won.	Lost	Pct.
Cornell.....	8	2	.800
Columbia.....	6	4	.600
Princeton.....	6	4	.600
Dartmouth.....	4	5	.444
Penn.....	3	7	.300
Yale.....	3	7	.300

In closing the chronicle of the 1923-4 basketball season it is proper to give credit to Howard B. Ortner '18, whose capable coaching had much to do with the team's success. Ortner is the first Cornell graduate to turn out a championship basketball team at Ithaca. The material he had was not at all extraordinary. On the contrary, there have been many years when Cornell has had better individual players. Team work, fine spirit, capable substitutes, and knowing how and when to use them, counted. Though a championship team, Cornell had no man in the first three of the league's high scorers. But it is significant that in the first ten Cornell had three, Wedell, Capron, and Dake. Wedells total was 55, 23 field goals and 9 foul goals; Capron had 54, 23 field goals and eight fouls; and Dake 53, 17 field goals and 19 fouls.

Football

Registration for spring football candidates took place on March 29 and on March 31 the squad met Coach Gilmour Dobie and heard him outline the program. After the spring vacation regular football practice will start, and continue probably up to Spring Day. Football men engaged in other branches of sport will be excused from attending the drill which will be largely for last year's substitutes, second and third team men, and members of last year's freshman team and squad.

Award Varsity Letters

The varsity letter has been awarded to the following wrestling and hockey players:

Wrestling: Raphael Ayau '24, Charles M. MacWilliam, Jr., '24, Edgar S. May '24, William A. Carran, Jr., '25, Francis O. Affeld, 3d, '26, Abraham Chakin '26, and Goolloe M. Partee, Jr., '26.

Hockey: Edward D. Betts '23, Newton C. Burnett '25, Frank J. Tone, Jr., '24, and Charles M. Stainton '25.

HONORS FOR HAYFORD

The Victoria Medal of the Royal Geographical Society of Great Britain has been awarded to Director John F. Hayford, C.E. '89, head of the College of Engineering of Northwestern University, and will be presented on May 26, for notable achievement in establishing the theory of isostasy. Only two other Americans in recent years have received this honor, Commander Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, in 1910, and Alexander Hamilton Rice in 1914.

"The establishment of isostasy," says Dr. Hayford in an interview in The New York Times for March 27, "adds much to the strength of the evidence that the earth is solid throughout from surface to centre and that it is not a floating crust on a liquid interior. It also throws light on the nature of the movements which have folded and crumpled much of the rock formations of the earth. For instance, we have demonstrated that the distance between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, Pa., is nearly ten miles shorter than it was before the folding and crumpling of rocks took place. Isostasy also explains, in a measure, the nature of earthquakes. On the Japanese coast and the Western coast of America, for example, we find mountainous country adjacent to great ocean depths. Isostasy demonstrates that earthquakes under such conditions are not due to the suppositions of subterranean gases and lava upon the earth's crust, but to the deeper movement of the earth's bulk, due to tremendous pressure. It demonstrates that while gases and fire exist, they occupy pockets of the outer crust of the earth, and that the earth is not a flaming mass at its centre."

The idea of isostasy was first suggested by an Englishman and for nearly half a century has been discussed by leading geologists and other scientists.

Dr. Hayford began active work to demonstrate isostasy as early as 1900, when he was put in charge of the geodetic work of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey.

COMPLIMENTS FROM ANN ARBOR

Enclosing some clippings from The Michigan Daily for April 1, Professor Everett A. Piester '15, of the Department of Landscape Design at the University of Michigan, writes as follows to the editor of the ALUMNI NEWS:

"In these days of criticism and of comment on intercollegiate sports it is indeed refreshing to the spirits of an alumnus to hear such a reply as a robust Michigan athlete made to my inquiry if he found the Cornell bunch good sports at the recent dual track meet and if they put up a good lay-out for entertainment: 'Hully gee, you said it! Gosh, you ought t'ave been there!'

"There used to be a popular story, credited to Dr. Eliot, I believe, about Harvard holding that next to defeating Cornell was the satisfaction of meeting defeat only at the hands of such a team as Cornell.

"Next to that should rank the tribute of Michigan students which appears in this morning's Michigan Daily enclosed herewith."

The second paragraph of the news description of the meet was as follows:

"One of the brightest spots of the entire trip to Ithaca was the reception which the team received at the hands of Cornell. From the time the team arrived until the train pulled out on the return trip to Ann Arbor the squad was given every consideration. Cars were waiting at the station when the team arrived to take it to the Ithaca Hotel, where it made its quarters and after the meet a banquet was given in the hotel for the victorious team. During the meet program a band played Michigan and Cornell songs and the meet started to the accompaniment of 'The Yellow and the Blue.'"

The editorial comment of the Daily follows. The friendly tone is appreciated by Cornelliens.

"The splendid spirit of Cornell was crystallized in the reception last week-end to the Michigan track team at Ithaca, to which the entire student body of that institution contributed. Here indeed was the true spirit of sportsmanship displayed, the joy of the game, of the friends made, and the closer union of two great universities. The spirit of true knighthood was pictured in the gracefully proud bow the men of Ithaca made to the wearers of the Maize and Blue and while Michigan is glad to have won the meet she is much happier in the opportunity she has had to compete with so splendid an opponent and to associate, even for this short time, with a school which commands so much of her respect—Cornell.

"Every year at this time Michigan regrets, more and more keenly, the few opportunities that arise for association with Cornell; but this annual track meet comes each spring as a very wholesome and delectable desert after a substantial but coarser meal."

PROBATION NOW AUTOMATIC

ACCORDING to a new ruling in the College of Arts and Sciences the administering of probation will hereafter be guided by definite rules. Those students who fulfil the requirements will be in good standing, while those who do not will have the usual recourse of petitioning as in the past.

The requirement for good standing, as adopted, is the same as the former requirement for progress toward a degree: a student must pass at least twelve hours a term, six of which must be in grade C (70) or better. The rule now virtually says Cornell shall be represented on its teams and publications only by those who seriously contemplate graduation.

The new ruling takes the caprice out of probation. It eliminates the twilight-zone cases where the student had actually passed his work but was put on probation "for his own good." For this feature alone the movement is praiseworthy. Few Faculty members know students well enough to determine the exact cause of a slump and are likely to jump at conclusions that will take away the one relaxation the student needs, leaving untouched those relaxations that have done the harm.

We wish it were academically possible to include in the list of student affairs prohibited to the probationed the real student activities responsible for much sloth: cards, mah jongg, fussing, self-propelled vehicles, and the many personal, unorganized affairs that fill the out many an eight-hour day into a perfect rest. Unfortunately the committee to administer it would require for its personnel, in addition to the Proctor, many who are no longer with us, including Janus and Solomon.

HE COLLECTS MATCH BOXES

An unusual collecting penchant comes to light in a collection of varieties of safety-match boxes assembled in Morrill Hall by Professor Louis B. Hoisington, Ph.D. '20, of the Department of Psychology. Hoisington has one hundred seventy-seven distinct varieties, exclusive of shades of color, mounted in frames after the manner of butterfly collections.

His present principal source is from friends who travel. Once they catch the idea, the devotee's friends will always buy single boxes at strange stores in distant towns, in the hope that a new variety will emerge from the machine. They swoop down on a new kind of box with avidity, particularly if it belongs to a visitor from a small town in a distant State. Hoisington now marks his acquisitions with the location of the source.

Collecting match boxes is not unique. Several small boys in Ithaca have as high as seventy-five varieties, and one more serious Metropolitan collector claims three hundred. Possibly the famous Rothschild collection of fleas, numbering between four and five hundred varieties, is more unusual and noteworthy, but Hoisington feels that match boxes are particularly well adapted to the salary of an assistant professor with a family to raise. He derives as much pleasure from the receipt of a new specimen as does the philatelist from a newly inverted center or other rare postage stamp.

FORTY '12 MEN MEET

Forty of the New York members of the Class of '12 held one of their regular serial dinners at the Cornell Club on March 13. The Class of '12 is one of the few which hold frequent meetings, in off years as well as on the occasion of reunions. Aside from the habitués, the company included Harold T. Edwards '10, who spoke for the Class, which is aiming to set up a new reunion record, when '09, '10, '11, and '12 reunite under the Dix plan in 1925, and Foster M. Coffin '12, who came down from Ithaca.

"TRICKY BUT SMART" is the characterization of spring clothes being worn by Cornell men in The National Retail Clothier, haberdashers' trade journal, which appears to use Cornell styles as criteria.

COLDS receive from one-tenth to more than a fourth of the attention given by the University medical staff to students, according to a statement attributed to Dr. Dean F. Smiley '16, in charge.

LITERARY REVIEW

A Book of Types

The J. J. Little Book of Types, Specimen Pages and Book Papers, with Suggestions on Book-Making and a Glossary of Printing and Binding Terms. By The Plant Complete. New York. The J. J. Little & Ives Co. 1923. 26.3 cm., pp. xvi, 444.

The author of this book is Luther H. Porter '79, chief of the statistical and estimating department of the J. J. Little & Ives Company. The book is most creditable to him and his associates. It is a veritable encyclopedia of the printer's art, dealing with every phase of the making of a book. About five-ninths of the volume is taken up with specimens of linotype and monotype faces. There are many samples of title-pages, descriptions of the process of making the book, tables of weights of papers (twenty-four different kinds of paper being used in the book itself), copyright rules and regulations, and a twenty-seven-page glossary of printing and publishing terms. The volume will have distinct value as a reference book in any printing office.

Books and Magazine Articles

In the Publications of the Modern Language Association for March is printed the presidential address delivered by Professor Oliver F. Emerson, Ph.D. '91, of Western Reserve, at the Ann Arbor meeting of the Association in December, on "The Battle of the Books."

In School and Society for March 22 Professor Louis C. Karpinski '01, of the University of Michigan, writes on "The First Arithmetic in the United States." This was a treatise in William Bradford's "Young Man's Companion," 1705.

In Radio Broadcast for February Willis K. Wing '23 has an illustrated article entitled "I Had to Tell It: How Poetry and Vocal Salesmanship Combined to Make a Radio Newspaper Pay on the Great Lakes." Wing is now an assistant editor of the magazine.

The Cornell Civil Engineer for March is a Highway Number. Colonel Frederick S. Greene's address at the Highway Conference on December 18 forms the leading article. William A. Van Duzer, of the Pennsylvania Highway Department writes on "Resurfacing and Surfacing Treatments and When They are Justified." The concluding instalment appears of Dr. Polivka's "Design of the Labalme Concrete Arch Bridge."

The Minnesota Alumni Weekly for March 6 includes a sketch, with portrait, of Professor William S. Foster '08, now professor of psychology at Minnesota.

In The Sibley Journal of Engineering for March Professor George B. Upton '04 discusses "Design and Performance of Bearings from Mathematical Theory of Lubrication." Donald E. Richmond '20, now of the Department of Mathematics, discusses "Electric Wave Filters." Gilmore D. Clarke '13, landscape architect for the Westchester County Parkway Association, writes on "The Employment of Surplus War Material Equipment in the Construction of the Bronx River Parkway."

The Harvard Alumni Bulletin for March 13 prints an address on "The Value of Measurement and Competition" by Robert S. Hale '93, Harvard '91, delivered at the Springfield, Mass., Central High School at the time of presenting the Phi Beta Kappa Scholarship Trophy won by the school at the Harvard entrance examinations last fall.

In The Journal of English and Germanic Philology for January, which has just appeared, Professor Oliver F. Emerson '91 writes on "The Early Literary Life of Sir Walter Scott." Professor Clark S. Northup '93 reviews G. Wendt's "Grammatik des heutigen Englisch" and Professor Oliver Elton's "Survey of English Literature, 1780-1880."

"The Hymn as Literature" by Professor Jeremiah B. Reeves, Ph.D. '22, is reviewed favorably in The New York Times Book Review for April 6.

In The New York Times for April 6 Morris Bishop '13 has a note on "Unamuno in Exile," protesting against the exile of the Spanish savant from his native land.

In The Saturday Evening Post for March 29 Dana Burnet '11 has a story entitled "Pirate Gold."

In The Stanford Illustrated Review for February Dr. Orrin L. Elliott '95 discusses "New Entrance Requirements." He includes some discussions of the intelligence test.

In The American Journal of Sociology for March Professor Charles A. Ellwood '96, this year president of the American Sociological Society, prints "A Communication" to the membership. Professor Warren S. Thompson, late of Cornell, now of the Scripps Foundation at Miami, reviews Harold Cox's "The Problem of Population." "Absentee Ownership and Business Enterprise in Recent Times" by Thorstein Veblen, '91-2 Grad., is reviewed by Arthur J. Todd.

The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science for March is devoted to the subject of "Raw Material and Foodstuffs in the Commercial Policies of the Nations." Colonel Lawrence Martin '04 writes a paper on "The Chester Concession."

The Danville Morning Press for February 23 included the text of a address on "Ancestry" delivered by William F. E. Gurley '77, blind president of the Illinois Sons of the Revolution, before the Danville D. A. R. on the 22nd.

In School Science and Mathematics for March Professor Richard Morris, Ph.D. '07, of Rutgers, writes on "The Cyclic Quad Quadrilateral, a Recreation."

OBITUARY

Philip Kuppenheimer '80

It has just been learned at the Alumni Office that Philip Kuppenheimer, a student in the science course in 1876-7, died in New York in September, 1892.

Irvine J. Kerr '91

Dr. Irvine J. Kerr died at his home in Cleveland in the early morning of March 17, following a brief attack of pneumonia.

Dr. Kerr was born at Hobart, New York, in 1878. His early life was spent on a farm. He graduated from Cornell with the degree of B.S. in Natural History in 1891. He was a member of the Medical Society. He completed his medical training in 1893 at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Chicago. After two years in Chicago hospitals and two years more as head of a hospital in Mexico he took up his permanent residence in Cleveland. He was an ear, nose, and throat specialist.

Few Cornell men were more widely known than Dr. Kerr. Among several hundred of the more active alumni he was notable for the quiet enthusiasm and the outstanding effectiveness of his work. The rise of the Cornell Club of Cleveland from a relatively weak club in 1904 to its position with the leaders eight years later was largely the result of his genius as president and secretary. He was also the representative of his class on the Cornellian Council.

Dr. Kerr is survived by his widow and two brothers.

Harry J. Walter '92

Harry Joseph Walter died suddenly by his own hand in the First National Bank at Whitney Point, N. Y., on April 1.

He came to Cornell from Whitney Point in 1888 and remained in all five years. In 1892 he received the degree of Ph.B. and in 1894 that of Ph.M. He was a member of Delta Phi, Quill and Dagger, the Christian Association, and the Presbyterian Union, and in his junior year was a member of the Era staff.

After graduation he was married to Miss Maud Miller of Ithaca. After teaching for some years, he returned to Whitney Point and helped start the First National Bank. For the past nineteen years he had been its cashier.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by two sons, Harry J. Walter, Jr., a student in the University of Pennsylvania, and Paul Walter of Enid, Okla., besides a daughter, Charlotte F. Walter; his mother, Mrs. Sophia Walter; a sister, Miss Elizabeth Walter; and two brothers, John Walter of Lake Placid, N. Y., and Richard O. Walter '01 of Boston, Mass.

Enrique K. Muller '97

Enrique Keutsch Muller died at his home about four miles northwest of Ithaca on March 30 after being in ill health for several years.

He was born on April 26, 1875, the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Muller, and after attending the Virginia Military Academy at Lexington, Va., entered Cornell in 1893 from Ponce, Porto Rico. He was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Theta Nu Epsilon and in 1897 was graduated with the degree of M.E.

For some time after graduation he followed his profession and at one time was with the Tripp Shipbuilding Corporation in Richmond, Va. Later he became crippled and came back to the vicinity of Ithaca where he engaged in the poultry business. At the time of his death he was one of the leading poultrymen in Tompkins County. He was a member of the First Unitarian Church of Ithaca.

He is survived by his wife and two children, Franklin F. Muller '23, and Ysabel A. Muller '25, besides three sisters, Mrs. T. O. Muller and the Misses Camilla and Estella Muller, all of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Alexander D. MacGillivray '00

Alexander Dyer MacGillivray died suddenly at his residence, 603 Michigan Avenue, Urbana, Illinois, soon after midnight of Sunday, March 23. The cause of death was pulmonary oedema following chronic heart disease of some years' standing. The fatal attack was mercifully brief. Through the winter and even the preceding day he had been seemingly well and in good spirits, and the end came without severe suffering.

He was born in Inverness, Ohio, in 1868, and became an assistant to Professor Comstock in the Entomological Laboratory in 1890 and instructor in 1900. Having taken the Ph.B. degree in 1900 and Ph.D. in 1904, he became assistant professor of entomology and invertebrate zoology in 1906. In 1911, he was called to an assistant professorship at the University of Illinois, becoming associate professor in 1913 and professor of entomology in 1917.

He was a Fellow of the Entomological Society of America, being secretary-treasurer, 1911-1916; and was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (fellow), the American Association of Economic Entomologists, the American Society of Zoologists, the American Microscopical Society, the Ecological Society of America, the Illinois Academy of Sciences, the Boston Society of Natural History, Gamma Alpha, and Sigma Xi. In spite of the limitations imposed by a frail physique, he was an industrious, methodical student and producer. His output includes "The Cecidae," and "External Insect Anatomy," recently published books, "A Century of Tenthredinoidea," describing a hundred new species of sawflies, work on insect morphology and on aquatic insects, and many other contributions to the scientific journals. Future students will be in his debt also for the excellence of the research library in systematic entomology at the University of Illinois which, already well founded by Professor Forbes, was built up and added to through his judgment and rare wisdom.

In 1891, he married Fanny Edwards of Forest Home, New York, who survives him with two sons, Malcolm Edwards, a high school principal at Lower Lake near San Francisco and John Henry, a graduate student at the University of Wisconsin. He was a working member of the Unitarian Church of Urbana.

Dr. MacGillivray was that rare combination, an investigator of note, and a true teacher. Both phases of his work were very dear to him and neither was willingly sacrificed to the other. The quality of his research is known to the scientific world; that of his teaching to the dazed beginner in the laboratories who never met anything but gentle patience and wise insight; and to the advanced student, who often traversed many States to work under him and never failed to own his debt to a leader beloved. During the thirteen years spent at the University of Illinois, eight doctorates and fifteen masters' degrees were awarded to students majoring under his guidance.

His students, his colleagues, his associates in every connection have in his passing a keen sense of loss. A quiet man, his influence reached through unsuspected distances, and many in other fields talked over their problems with him and profited by his advice.

A devoted husband and father, a steadfast friend, a wise counselor and helpful teacher, and a competent seeker after truth has gone from us. We shall not soon see his like again.

COLLEGE THIRD CABIN on the steamship Saxonia has proved so successful that arrangements have been made for the use of the Cunarder Lancastria for an Economy Third Cabin which is to be open to women. These trips have been arranged, and are under the direction of Burke Dowling Adams '24, formerly art editor of The Cornell Widow.

THE ARTS COLLEGE is in the lead of the Intercollege Lacrosse League which is developing a lot of good sport and is training material for varsity candidates.

ALUMNI NOTES

'77 PhB—Having reached the age of seventy years, Samuel McKee Smith, who has been principal of Public School No. 17 at New Brighton, Staten Island, for the last twenty-two years, was retired on February 1 from duty under the terms of the State education law. His departure from active school work was noted by parents, teachers, and pupils and he was the recipient of numerous remembrances as well as the guest of honor at a banquet in the Biltmore Hotel in New York which was attended by over five hundred friends and co-workers. He began his career as a teacher at West Winfield, N. Y., the fall after graduation. In 1880 he began the study of law in Rochester, N. Y., and in 1883 was admitted to the bar, where he practiced for one year. He then went back to teaching and was successively at Ausable Forks, East Syracuse, Canajoharie, and Chatham, N. Y., before going to New York, where he was a teacher in the Dewitt Clinton High School for two years before going to his last position.

'77 AB—Speaking at the meeting of the North Atlantic Section of the American Association of University Women at New Haven on February 17, President Emeritus M. Carey Thomas, of Bryn Mawr, urged support of the League of Nations. "That the League has been made a partisan issue is the cruelest thing that has ever happened in the history of the country; the Civil War is nothing in comparison."

'90 LLB; '02 LLB—On April 1, Governor Alfred E. Smith appointed Judge James A. Parsons '90 to the New York State Board of Claims at a salary of eight thousand a year, and George R. Van Namee to a position on the State Public Service Commission at a salary of $15,000 per year.

'92 AB—Professor Elijah C. Hills, of the University of California, was elected president of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish, at the annual meeting held at Columbia on January 2.

'92 BL—During the interval between semesters at the University of Wisconsin Professor Michael V. O'Shea took a trip through the South, delivering addresses in Atlanta, Athens, and Macon, Georgia, and Knoxville, Tennessee.

'95, '96 ME—Alfred M. Roedelheim has formed the A. M. Roedelheim Company, handling advertising and displays, at 110 West Fortieth Street. Roedelheim lives at the Cornell Club.

'98 ME—John H. Wynne has left New York and is now located in Lima, Ohio, where he is manager of the Lima Locomotive Works, Inc.

'98 AB; '14 PhD—Daniel C. Knowlton, of the Lincoln School, New York, and George F. Zook, of the U. S. Bureau of Education, have been appointed members of the Committee on History Teaching in the Schools by the American Historical Association.

'99—Albert H. Canfield, president of the H. O. Canfield Company of Bridgeport, Conn., represents the third generation of the family to be actively identified with the manufacture and sale of rubber goods. His grandfather was a pioneer in the rubber manufacturing business of this country and later his father entered the same line of business. Canfield is a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of B. P. O. Elks, the Bridgeport Chamber of Commerce, the Rubber Association of America, and the Cornell Club of New York.

'99 AB—Mrs. Bertha Whitney LaCoste is now teaching in the Calumet High School in Chicago, Ill. She lives at 5048 Washington Park Court. She was married on March 1, 1911 in Chicago to John Goodwin LaCoste, who died on February 27, 1915.

'00 ME—Robert W. Beardslee has left Scarsdale, N. Y., and can now be reached at 11 Claremont Avenue, White Plains, New York.

'00 LLB—Edward Harris is a practicing attorney in Rochester, N. Y., where he is vice-president of the Rochester Savings Bank, vice-president of the Security Trust Company, and president of the Rochester General Hospital. His office is 15 Rochester Savings Bank Building.

'00 AM, '03 PhD—Dean Jacob G. Lipman on February 13 spoke before the New Jersey Mosquito Extermination Association on "Anti-Mosquito Legislation." On February 28 he spoke before the Agricultural Extension Conference at the College Farm on "Present Developments in the Manufacture and Use of Fertilizers."

'00 PhD—Professor William C. Bagley, of Teachers College, will be absent on leave for the spring session of 1924-5.

'01 CE—After being with the Maryland Casualty Company for eleven years, Ralph F. Proctor was recently made fourth vice-president of the firm. When he first went with the company he was in the bonding department. In 1917 he went into the service and was commissioned a major in the United States Reserve Corps in charge of construction work at Camp Meade, Md., and the Curtis Bay, Md., Ordnance Depot. After the war he returned to the company and became assistant secretary and later superintendent of its contract section.

'01 AB—Joseph P. Harris is now one of the busiest men in Cleveland, Ohio. He was recently appointed a member of the board of directors of the Cleveland Southwestern Railway and Light Company, and also named as vice-president. He is a vice-president of the Union Trust Company in Cleveland as well as a director and member of the executive committee of the Glidden Company, one of the largest manufacturers of paints and varnishes in the

Books for the Next Six Months

Agricultural Books

All books in this list are not for the farmer. Corbett's Garden Farming is a good book for the man with a small garden. The Dyke Automobile Encyclopedia is good for the general reader. Holt's Care and Feeding of Children is a good book to have in the home. These are only a few of the good books listed. Write for copy of the list.

Engineering Books

The Engineering list does not contain as many books for the general reader as the other list. Engineers usually want facts. Radio is both technical and popular. We can help you with suggestions in other lines. We are willing to get special information for you regarding books.
