Ithaca, N. Y., July, 1919

THE total registration of 2,798 persons for summer work at Cornell, announced on July 10 at the President's office, is probably the largest figure yet recorded for summer registration; even after allowance is made for duplication, there are probably in excess of 2,500 individual students taking work either in the University Summer Session, the Summer School in Agriculture, the fourth terms of the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Agriculture, Architecture, Civil Engineering, and the second term of the Law School. There are 1,580 students registered in the Summer Session, including the Summer School in Agriculture. The registration in the latter is 453. The number of regular students registered for the fourth terms and for the second term of the College of Law, is 1,218. The registration for the Summer Session, 1,580, is probably greater than that of any previous summer. Previously to this summer there has been no regular instruction except during the last few years in the College of Agriculture. The fourth terms are given this summer to enable those who have returned from service to complete a full academic year between January 1 last and the next regular term in the fall.

UNIVERSITY LECTURES during the present week include "The Message of John Ruskin to the Twentieth Century," by the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis; "State Medical Inspection of Schools" (illustrated), by Dr. W. A. Howe, State Medical Inspector; "La Perte de la Nouvelle France," by M. Louis Roux; and a pianoforte lecture-recital on "Music by American Composers," by Ernest R. Kroeger, of St. Louis.

GEORGE F. FOOTE, formerly business manager of Sage College, now of Delmar, California, is spending the summer in and about Ithaca. With Mrs. Foote and their two children, he came across the continent by automobile, taking a little less than five weeks for the trip.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL WILDER D. BANCROFT, professor of physical chemistry, now on leave as acting chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, U. S. A., was the recipient of the honorary degree of doctor of science at the June commencement of Lafayette College.

A NON-PARTISAN ADMINISTRATION of the city government seems assured for two years from January 1. Ex-Senator Edwin C. Stewart has consented to run for mayor and his candidacy has the support of both Republicans and Democrats. Two former mayors, Thomas Tree and John Reamer, will be candidates for aldermen, probably unopposed; so, too, will Fordyce A. Cobb '93, who has served as city attorney. Efforts will be made to fill the Common Council with men thus well qualified by experience and knowledge. The plan aims at efficient and business-like conduct of city affairs under the existing charter, without such revision and uncertainty as the so-called commission form would entail. Additional interest attaches to Senator Stewart's candidacy from the fact that his father, the late David B. Stewart, was first mayor, when Ithaca became a city in 1888. It was from him that Stewart Avenue, previously Factory Street, received its name.

THERE PROMISES TO BE COMPETITION, however, for the office of city judge. Daniel Crowley '08, the present incumbent, will seek reelection; and two other lawyers are in the field for nomination on the Republican ticket, Fred L. Clock '89 and Harry C. Baldwin '06.

NAYATI has sold its lodge on Cayuga Heights, with five acres of land, to the Phi Epsilon Pi Fraternity. The purchase price is reported to have been $31,000. The house, originally built for Professor John V. VanPelt, a former head of the College of Architecture, commands an unobstructed view for miles down the lake. Nayati, a local fraternity, has been unable to maintain its organization and headquarters because the members have been scattered by the war.

BARNEY SEAMON, a well known clothing merchant who was forced by ill health to give up his business on State St. some ten years ago, died at the City Hospital on July 11.

FIRE IN STOREHOUSES near the East Ithaca station on July 5 destroyed a quantity of surplus pamphlets and bulletins printed by the College of Agriculture for use in extension courses. The college reports, however, that its extension work will not be seriously affected, at least not at once, since it has readily available elsewhere a sufficient supply of these publications. The blaze is supposed to have arisen from a firecracker tossed into the building by a small boy.

THE UNIVERSITY on July 1 bought at foreclosure sale property formerly owned by the Trow Directory Printing and Bookbinding Company, 201 to 213 East Twelfth Street, at the northeast corner of Third Avenue, New York City. On this site are two five-story buildings: one 77.6x100 feet, the other 103x125 feet, being respectively leasehold and fee. The sum bid for the whole was $102,000. The sale was the result of an action brought by the University against the directory company to protect a judgment of $119,616. There was an additional lien of $13,525, which brought the total incumbrance to $133,141.

FIFTY-SEVEN OF THIS YEAR'S GRADUATES from the Ithaca High School, about half of the class, will enter Cornell. Among these are residents of Ithaca and non-residents who have been studying here in preparation for college. Twenty others in the class will continue their studies at institutions elsewhere, among these being Vassar, Goucher, Wells, Lake Forest, Williams, Michigan, Wisconsin, Northwestern, and Columbia.

THE MIDSUMMER CONFERENCE of the Commercial Organization Secretaries of New York State was held in Ithaca last week. One session was addressed by Professor Allyn A. Young. Next month the Rural Mail Carriers' Association will hold here its annual convention. And the State Postmasters' Association will meet in convention here in 1920. Ithaca continues an attractive and satisfactory place for gatherings of all sorts of organized bodies from horse-shoers to Knights Templars. Compared with the Semi-Centennial, these meetings seem small, though none the less welcome.

LIBERTY HYDE BAILEY, author and horticulturist, former dean of the College of Agriculture, was honored with the degree of doctor of letters by the University of Vermont on June 24.

THE PROPERTY AT No. 65 PARK AVENUE, New York City, the former quarters of the Cornell Club, has been leased for the Huntington estate and will be converted into small apartments.

New Dean of Architecture

F. H. Bosworth, Jr., Assumes New Duties in September.

Francis Huntington Bosworth, jr., whose selection as dean of the College of Architecture was announced by the Board of Trustees in June, is a practicing architect in New York City. He succeeds Professor C. A. Martin, who has resigned his deanship.

Mr. Bosworth was born in New York City in 1875. His father is Dr. F. H.

Bosworth, a well known laryngologist, who is still in active practice. His mother was Miss Mary H. Putnam, of Marietta, Ohio, great-grand-daughter of General Israel Putnam. He has one sister.

Mr. Bosworth prepared for Yale at Cutler's School in New York, entering in 1893 in the academic course and graduating in 1897. At Yale he was a member of Psi Upsilon. As an academic student he "avoided trouble," he says, "and sought not to dazzle the authorities with too much learning." He studied from 1897 to 1901 at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, Paris.

Mr. Bosworth has followed his profession continuously since 1901, the first year with Carrère and Hastings of New York and since 1902 in private practice until 1917, when he closed his office to go abroad. He has written occasional articles for architectural journals, and is a member of the Society of Beaux-Arts Architects, and of the American Institute of Architects, in both of which organizations he has held offices.

Mr. Bosworth was married in 1902 to the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Foote, granddaughter of the Rev. Thomas Hastings and niece of Thomas Hastings, the architect. They have two daughters, sixteen and ten years old, respectively. Their New York home is at 53 East 86th Street, and in Ithaca they will live at 712 East Seneca Street.

Mr. Bosworth will teach design, succeeding Professor E. V. Meeks, who is now in the Orient and who has accepted a position in the School of Fine Arts at Yale University when he returns in the fall.

MISS SCHURMAN WEDS

Miss Catherine Munro Schurman, eldest daughter of President and Mrs. Jacob Gould Schurman, and Raymond Ware, of Boston, secretary of the Thomas-Morse Aircraft Corporation, were married in Sage Chapel on the afternoon of July 12, by the Rev. Dr. Henry van Dyke, of Princeton University.

The bride was given away by her father. A sister, Miss Helen Schurman, was maid of honor; another sister, Miss Barbara Schurman, two cousins, the Misses Catherine and Beatrice Schurman of New York, and Miss Rena Green, of Morristown, N. J., were bridesmaids; and Miss Dorothy Schurman, a sister of the bride, and Miss Helen Durham were ribbon girls. The ring service was used. Alvers White, of New York, was best man. The ushers were Elliot and Winslow Ware of Boston and Weld Ware of Morristown, N. J., brothers of the bridegroom, George M. Schurman and J. G. Schurman, jr., brothers of the bride, Sherman Peer '06, and Jerome M. Fried '10 of Ithaca.

The wedding march was played by Professor James T. Quarles, University organist, who also played before and after the ceremony. As the bridal party left the chapel the chimes took up the wedding march, which was followed by several other appropriate airs.

The bride was gowned in white satin trimmed with rose point lace which formed a part of her mother's wedding dress. She wore a veil of tulle fastened with orange blossoms, and carried white bride's roses with a shower of white Ramblers.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the President's house. In the large dining room the guests were received by President and Mrs. Schurman, William M. Ware, Miss Alice Ware, father and sister of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ware, the maid of honor, the bridesmaids, and the ribbon girls. Supper was served on the adjoining lawn, amid delightful surroundings, the guests mingling with an informality most happy and enjoyable. Meantime two aviators in Thomas-Morse planes flew above the trees and for nearly a quarter of an hour entertained the assemblage with daringly graceful and spectacular swoops, spins, and rolls, finally sailing off to the west as twilight closed in. Later the younger guests had an hour or so of dancing.

A large number of relatives and friends from out of town came to Ithaca to attend the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Ware intend to make their home in Ithaca.

DRAKE MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP

A scholarship has been established for the Hazleton, Pa., High School, by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Drake, of Hazleton, in memory of their son. The scholarship is to be known as the Frederick Lewis Drake Memorial Scholarship at Cornell. Frederick L. Drake entered the University with the class of 1918 in the College of Architecture. Enlisting at the outbreak of the war, he served in the Army until he met his death in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, November 10, 1918. Income from his estate will go to the payment of tuition for students from Hazleton. The first award has been made to J. Alfred Santilli, who will enter Sibley College in the autumn. The University has no jurisdiction in the administration of this scholarship.

PROFESSOR MULDOON RESIGNS

Dr. W. E. Muldoon has resigned from the Veterinary College to accept a position as associate professor of medicine and superintendent of the ambulatory clinic in the Veterinary Department of the Kansas State Agricultural College at Manhattan, Kansas. In his new position he will have charge of the entire medical department. Dr. Muldoon graduated from the Veterinary College in 1913 and became an assistant in the Department of Materia Medica and Small Animal Clinic. He was advanced to assistant professor in 1916. In February, 1918, he entered the Army as second lieutenant in the Veterinary Corps. After his preliminary training he was sent as a teacher to Camp Lee, Va., where he remained until his discharge the last of May. He was meanwhile promoted to captain.

Berry '04 Graduate Manager Well Known New York Lawyer Gives up Practice to Manage Athletics.

Romeyn Berry, A.B. '04, LL.B. '06, has signed a three-year contract with the Cornell University Athletic Association to be Graduate Manager of athletics from August 1, 1919. The position carries with it, as before, the management, not only of major and minor sports, but of the Masque and the Musical Clubs.

The appointment was made, after much discussion, on the recommendation of the Associate Alumni Athletic Committee. The recommendation was enthusiastically supported by the Varsity Crew Association, and the football, baseball, and track organizations, consisting of former varsity athletes who were present at the Semi-Centennial Celebration.

The appointment has met with favor in the newspapers, and among alumni, students, and Faculty. The Boston Evening Transcript of July 12 devotes most of two columns to the announcement and portrait, and while unable to "account for it," calls the appointment the beginning of the story "of a far-reaching experiment in physical education." Lawrence Perry, in the New York Evening Post, writes that the "appointment of Romeyn Berry as graduate manager of athletics at Cornell is a splendid move for Ithaca to have made. It will serve to fill a post, vacancy in which militated against the best interests of Cornell athletics, but, more than that, it will put into the place one who represents a high Cornell type, a man of poise and social and athletic background who will give to Cornell an invaluable service. Mr. Berry's métier in college was track sports, but he holds a broad view, as indeed, he has a wide knowledge of all forms of intercollegiate athletics. No better successor to Ervin Kent could have been selected."

Berry has made several statements of policy to the newspapers, but says that he has no definitely formulated plans with regard to administering his new charge. He is a believer in sport for the many, expects to further this object by strengthening the intercollegiate teams, rather than by weakening them, and hopes ultimately to have the entire student body exercising regularly and under medical supervision.

He expresses his hope for universal athletic training as follows:

"My ideal in college sport has always been to have all the students, between four and six in the afternoon, on the playing field, the cinder path, and the water. If I can do my regular work and at the same time help toward the realization of that ideal, I'll be glad of it."

During the Semi-Centennial Celebration Berry was chairman of the educational conference for the College of Arts and Sciences. It is believed that his insight into educational affairs as well as athletics will be of considerable help in properly relating the various student activities in his charge to the main work of the University. Confidence has been expressed by both the academic and the athletic interests that misunderstandings will be few and easily adjusted.

Berry's athletic experiences have been varied, and have extended over the entire period of twenty years since he came to Cornell. Entering with the class of 1903, he played on its freshman football team, but was absent from the University in 1900-1 on account of ill health. Reentering as a member of the class of 1904 he became assistant manager of track activities, and was treasurer and member of the executive committee of the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association of America, better known as I. C. A. A. Since 1907 he has been a member of the advisory committee of this organization, and in 1912 was a member of the American Olympic Committee and its sub-committee for selecting the members of the team for the Olympic Games in Stockholm. He is also a member of the Athletic Council, representing the Cornell University Club of New York.

In other student activities Berry took an active part, being editor-in-chief of The Widow in 1903-4 and a member of the board of that paper from 1901 to 1906. He is a member of Sphinx Head, Beta Theta Pi, the Savage Club, and many committees. He wrote the words of "The Big Red Team" and of the first original Masque show, "The President of Oolong." Much of his verse in The Widow was widely copied by daily papers all over the country. He is a member of the Cornell Club of New York, and a director of the Associate Alumni.

Berry was born in Montclair, N. J., in 1881. His grandfather was John Stanton Gould, a member of the Board of Trustees of Cornell University in 1866-67, and professor of agriculture here from the opening of the University until his death in 1874. Berry was married in 1908, to Miss Olive Lee Nutting, sister of the late Raymond Nutting '04, stroke of the varsity crew. They have two children, Ruth, aged six, and Hilda, aged three. Their present residence is Summit, N. J. After August 1 they will live at 102 Triphammer Road, Ithaca.

Since 1906 Berry has practiced law in New York City, specializing in probate law and the administration of estates. During the war he gave up his practice to enter the Army, becoming a first lieutenant in the First Gas Regiment, U. S. A. He returned to his law practice about January 1 of this year.

A NEW COLLEGE PRESIDENT

Alfred Atkinson was elected on July 7 to the presidency of the Montana State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts at Bozeman. He succeeds James M. Hamilton, who for fifteen years has been president of the institution.

Atkinson has been connected with the Montana State College for fifteen years as professor of agronomy. He received his associate degree from the Ontario Agricultural College in 1902, his Bachelor of Science degree in agronomy from the I. S. C. in 1904, and his Master of Science degree from Cornell University in 1912. When the United States entered the war, Atkinson gave his services as Food Administrator of Montana.

The banquet began at 7.30 p. m. The following menu was served at a cost of fifteen francs:

Potage St. Germain

Pièce de Boeuf Jardinière
Salade de Laitues
Fruits Rafraichis
Glacé Chocolat

Macon Blanc	Porto	Beaujolais
Cigars	Café	Cigarettes

Mr. Weil presided as toastmaster. Colonel Hutton spoke of his recent pilgrimage to the grave of Lieutenant William M. Russel '17. Colonel Atwood said that Cornell ranks third among American universities in the number of sons fallen in action and recounted the exploits of Lieut. Colonel Fitch, who holds the American Expeditionary Force record for advancement, having landed in France a private; of Lieutenant Lawrence, who disarmed a rebel force in Montenegro, and similar adventures of other Cornellians. In closing, he spoke with great force of the public duties and obligations facing the young American college man on demobilization.

Other speakers were George Bacon, Charles Rogers, and Colonel Bull.

A cablegram of greeting was sent by the banqueters to the chairman of the Associate Alumni at Ithaca (see the ALUMNI NEWS for June 26, page 465).

Just before the dinner ended the announcement was made that the overseas alumni of Cornell University would offer a scholarship at their Alma Mater for the year 1919-20 to some properly qualified French student. Details will be decided upon later. The scholarship will resemble those offered by the American Army Students in France, though it will be in addition to and entirely separate from the fourteen projected by that organization.

Concerning the affair Mr. Weil writes: "The Reunion ended with a less formal gathering which enabled friends who had not met in a long time to get together for a chat before breaking up. This lasted until nearly one o'clock a. m. The Reunion was most cheerful and enthusiastic throughout. At the same time there was a touch of seriousness in keeping with the circumstances. All those present expressed themselves as highly pleased."

The committee on arrangements consisted of Mr. Weil, Captain Austin, and Lieut. Lobdell.

COL. BLAIR '05 SPEAKS

Lieutenant Colonel Edward J. Blair '05, who has just returned from France, was the speaker at the luncheon of the Cornell club of Chicago on Thursday, July 17. Blair's subject was "The Battle of Bordeaux." This luncheon closes the series for the summer.

ARMY AND NAVY

Posthumous Cross to Horton '17

The Distinguished Service Cross has been awarded posthumously to Lieutenant Harding Fred Horton '17, for exceptional bravery in action with the 131st Infantry, 33d Division, in the Argonne, just previously to the armistice.

Horton attended the Third Officers' Training Camp at Camp Upton, and was recommended for a commission. He sailed for France as a sergeant in January, 1918, and went into action almost immediately. In July he received his commission as second lieutenant, and spent the month of September in an officers' training school in Paris. Then he was assigned to the 131st Infantry, 33d Division, and with that regiment took an active part in the fighting in the Argonne region during the last of September and the first of October. He was hit by a machine gun bullet on October 10, and died almost immediately.

The medal has been received by his mother, Mrs. Jennie E. Horton, of Forest Home, N. Y.

Sturrock '16 Cited

Walter Sturrock '16, who spent nine months in France as a first lieutenant in the Air Service, has received from General Pershing the following citation dated April 19, 1919:

"Second Lieutenant Walter Sturrock. For exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services at the Third Aviation Instruction Center, France, American Expeditionary Forces. In testimony thereof, and as an expression of appreciation of these services, I award him this citation."

Sturrock is a graduate of Sibley College, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sturrock, of Ithaca. He received his discharge on May 1, and has returned to his former position with the National Lamp Works of the General Electric Company, at Nela Park, Cleveland, Ohio.

Honors for Gabriel '15

Lieutenant Harry S. Gabriel '15 has been decorated with the Croix de Guerre. The citation from Marshal Pétain, commander-in-chief of the French Armies of the East, reads as follows:

"On the 3d of November, 1918, near Verdun, Lieutenant Harry S. Gabriel, 316th Infantry, U. S., showed a remarkable courage by taking successfully at

For this act, he was also recommended by the commanding officer of his regiment for the Distinguished Service Cross.

Gabriel entered the service as a private in September, 1917, and was commissioned from the ranks the following May. In August he sailed for France, in charge of a casual company, and was transferred at once to a regiment in the line, where he saw two months of active service before the armistice. Since the armistice, he has been promoted to first lieutenant, and was among the officers selected to attend University College, Oxford.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gabriel, of Rock Stream, N. Y.; he received his degree in agriculture, and is a member of Kappa Delta Rho.

D. S. C. for Loomis '16

Corporal John Hervey Loomis '16 has received the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action, with Company F, 311th Infantry.

Loomis received the degree of B. Chem. in 1916, and for a year after his graduation was employed by the Imperial Oil Company of Canada, Ltd., stationed in Peru, South America, but returned to the States after a year's work, to enter the service. He was wounded while in action, and spent nine weeks in the hospital, but has now been discharged, and has returned to the Imperial Oil Company, in charge of the laboratory at Ioco, B. C. He is the son of Mrs. Charles E. Loomis, of Attica, N. Y.

Seaman '72 Decorated by Belgium

Major Louis Livingston Seaman, who was elected Alumni Trustee in June, has just received the following notice: "His Majesty, the King of the Belgians, has been pleased to bestow the dignity of Officer of the Order of Leopold II, as a token of his appreciation of the devotion you have shown to the cause of Belgium."

Seaman adds that Cornellians helped in this work by contributing one of the ambulances he used on the Belgium front in the early days of the war.

Major Seaman, who is president emeritus of the China Society of America, has issued a strong appeal to the U. S. Senate to repudiate what he brands as the shocking injustice done by the Peace Conference to China in countenancing the transfer of Germany's "rights" in Shantung to Japan. "In case China decides to fight for the retention of her rights, on which side will America array her armies?" he asks.

Last Weekly Overseas Dinner

Under date of June 17 Mr. A. D. Weil '86 writes as follows to the ALUMNI NEWS:

Austin. Mr. White has just returned from Russia and related his experiences in a most interesting manner.

Samuel Strumer '16, Lieut. Arthur T. Lobdell '16, Lieut. Robert S. Torrance '16, Sergt. Raymond T. Kelsey '16, Lieut. Herman C. Loeffler '16, Private Karl B. Anderson '17, Lieut. Alma W. DETROIT LUNCHEONS OFF

The weekly luncheons of the Cornell club of Detroit ended with that of June 19, and will be resumed in the fall.

AN INTERESTING CLASS BOOK

The most noteworthy feature of the combined Cornellian and 1919 Class Book, which was placed on sale last month, is the attempt to give a portrait and short write-up of each Cornellian, whether undergraduate or alumnus, who has died in service, and of each who has been cited or decorated. Despite the fact that the Annuals Board was not able to organize until January, it has been able to gather about 125 photographs of the men who died, out of a total of about 170 whose deaths were reported up to the closing date of these pages.

The book otherwise does not differ materially from the 1918 volume, the first of the war time combinations of Class Book and Cornellian. There is more space devoted to student activities because there were more activities.

Two noteworthy departures have been made from the policy that has been pursued since the incorporation of The Cornell Annuals in 1913. The more noticeable one is the production of a regular and a de-luxe edition, the former being good enough for almost anyone, in dark green imitation leather and excellent paper, the latter in brown ooze leather and extra quality of paper, with the owner's name stamped in gold on the cover.

The other change in policy gives a page each, deservedly, to Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. The learned societies have, in recent years, been omitted by unsympathetic business managers, and the inclusion of these pages is a hopeful sign.

The volume is dedicated to "the Cornell Students who sacrificed their Lives for the safety of our Republic and the maintenance of Liberty and Right in the World." A portrait of Andrew D. White and an appreciation of him by George L. Burr '81 appropriately occupy a prominent place.

The regular edition was sold for five dollars, the de-luxe for seven. A few copies of the regular edition are still to be had.

A TEXAS CLUB PICNIC

Last month the Cornell Club of College Station, Texas, motored to the grounds of the Glenview Dairy Farm near Bryan and enjoyed a basket picnic in the true Cornell style. Those present were Dean and Mrs. J. C. Nagle, Dean and Mrs. E. J. Kyle and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Hedges and family, Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Humbert and family, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. McMillan and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. La Roche and family, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hensel, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Conway, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Taubenhaus and son, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mayor, Mr. and Mrs. H. Benton and son, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. H. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. N. McGinnis, and Mrs. G. H. Byers, Prof. Ness, Prof. and Mrs. H. E. Smith, and Dr. R. N. Blackberg.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

THE HARVARD Faculty of Arts and Sciences has lately adopted a new plan for the choice of elective studies. Every student before graduation must elect one course in literature, one course in science (ordinarily physics or chemistry), one course in history, and one in either philosophy or mathematics.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA board of regents have voted increases in salary for members of the teaching staff amounting to $173,412. Five hundred sixty-nine persons receive increases ranging from $5 a month to $1,000 a year.

THE AMHERST board of trustees has voted a general increase in the salaries of the teaching staff. The scale of instructors, which is now $1,200-$1,500, is increased to $1,200-$2,000; that of associate professors, now $1,600-$2,000, is increased to $2,000-$3,000; and that of professors, now $3,000 and upwards, is increased to $3,200 and upwards.

THE SEISMOLOGICAL LIBRARY of Count F. de Montessus de Ballore, director of the Seismological Service of Chile, has been purchased by Dr. John C. Branner and presented to Stanford University. It is one of the most complete collections in existence, and numbers nearly five thousand items.

THE GENERAL EDUCATION BOARD has appropriated $500,000 toward a fund of two million dollars to be raised to endow a graduate school of education at Harvard. It will be named in honor of President-Emeritus Eliot.

PRINCETON alumni are maturing plans for the raising of an additional endowment fund of $14,000,000. It is estimated that it will require $6,000,000 merely to stabilize the university and hold together what has been created, and $8,000,000 to provide for its normal growth.

YALE'S alumni fund in 1918-19 amounted to $673,316.94. Yale also received gifts, not including the Sterling bequest, amounting to $1,854,000.

DEAN BERNHARD E. FERNOW, of the faculty of forestry of Toronto University, formerly of Cornell, has retired from active service and has been appointed professor emeritus. He had been in service at Toronto since 1907.

LITERARY REVIEW

A Graceful Memorial to Russel '17

A Happy Warrior: Letters of William Muir Russel, an American Aviator in the Great War, 1917-18. A Family Memorial. Detroit, Mich. Privately printed. 1919. 8vo, pp. xvi, 212.

The writer of these letters, William M. Russel, A. B. '17, entered the Aviation Service in May, 1917, received preliminary training in three schools here and one in France, was attached to the 95th Aero Squadron, First Pursuit Group of the American Air Service, and went to the front on one of the most active sectors on July 16, 1918. On August 11, 1918, while acting as a rear guard of a patrol of thirteen Spad planes, he was cut off by a formation of five German Fokkers which came out of the sun upon him. His companions at once saw his plight and attacked, but never saw him again. He was buried by strangers at Courville, about three kilometers south of Fismes.

Such is the brief but glorious record of a young patriot. But William Russel was not alone a good soldier and an efficient aviator; he was a man of strong and fine personality and possessed a distinct gift as a letter writer. These letters, most of them written to his father or his sisters (one of whom, by the way, is the wife of H. F. [Pat] Wardwell '07), are invariably characterized by good sense, modesty, ease of expression, and interest of substance. He writes just what one would like to know; and the present reviewer has learned more about the actual training and experiences of the flier than he had got from all previous sources put together. The editor of the volume is entirely justified in believing that "the letters seem worthy of preservation as a contribution to the history of our country's preparation for war and participation in a new branch of the service." The title of the volume is most happily chosen. There are twenty-six good half-tone illustrations.

In The Review for June 14 Jerome Landfield '94, under the title "New Pogroms for Old," discusses the new menace to Russian Jews arising from the danger that the Russians shall ignorantly hold the Jews responsible for the Bolshevik outrages. He advises American Jews to circulate in Russia strong disclaimers of any approval of the spirit of Bolshevism.

An interesting article on "Trans-Atlantic Flight from the Meteorologist's Point of View," by Willis Ray Gregg '03, has been reprinted from The Monthly Weather Review for February.

The Stanford Illustrated Review for May includes a highly interesting article by E. O. Bennett describing "Dr. [W. F.] Durand's International Service."

AN AWAKENING POWER

If any justification were needed for its existence, or if, after years of what might be termed puttering, a sign of awakening vigor is demanded of the Associate Alumni, it might be found in the annual report of the retiring president to the Board of Directors given elsewhere in this issue. Modestly, and almost too modestly, he mentions a few accomplishments of the organization during the past year, a year when many such bodies have been marking time.

The entire credit for the Semi-Centennial cannot, of course, be claimed by the Associate Alumni. But the events of June 21 were visible proof of a force that manifests its power, not by its size or bright coloring, but, like most self-respecting forces of the universe, by what it can do. It remains to be demonstrated, naturally, that this was not a spurt of speed that might be expected only every fifty years.

Much of the work of the organization consisted in lending a hand to some more compact body designed for a specific purpose, such as the Cornellian Council, the Board of Trustees, the Athletic Association, or the Association of Class Secretaries. Some of its undertakings, however, have been accomplished independently. Whether done as an auxiliary or as an independent factor, however, the work has been done and done well.

There is nothing uncanny about the enormous latent powers of the Associate Alumni. The name, freely translated, signifies The Alumni Association of Cornell University. It does not, as many have thought, consist entirely of a Board of Directors and a nominating committee. It has approximately thirty thousand members, who have virtually the right of the initiative and the referendum. If the officers of the Board of Directors desire to appoint a committee for a specific purpose, they have a vast and talented membership from which to make their selections.

A body with the possibilities of the Associate Alumni deserves the interest and support of every person who feels that Cornell University itself is deserving of interest and support.

OBITUARY

Noriyuki Kozima '79

Noriyuki Kozima died on August 14, 1918. He had been climbing the Nippon Alps, when he was stricken with a severe pain in his abdomen, and died almost immediately; death was due to the twisting of the intestines.

Kozima received the degree of B. Arch. in 1879; he was a member of Psi Upsilon. After leaving Cornell he became associated in the practice of architecture with Mr. George Keller, of Hartford, Conn. He served as assistant for two years, and after visiting Europe, returned to his home in Tokio in 1882. During the following forty years he taught architecture at Tokio University, and English and geometrical drawing at both the High School and the Art School. He was the author of a book on geometrical drawing which is used as a text-book in many middle schools and normal schools throughout Japan.

His widow and children live in Tokio.

Andrew C. Troy '03

Andrew Charles Francis Troy died suddenly on March 7, after an illness of two days with gastro-intestinal influenza.

Troy was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., on August 16, 1882, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Troy. He graduated from the Boys' High School, Brooklyn, in 1900, and entered Cornell with a State scholarship in the fall of that year. He completed the course in arts and sciences in three years, receiving the degree of A. B. in 1903, and the following year he entered the Law School. In 1904 he entered the Columbia Law School, receiving the degree of LL. B. in 1906.

He immediately took up the practice of his profession in New York City, and in November, 1907, was elected a member of the Assembly for the year 1908, serving on the Codes Committee and several other important committees. On July 1, 1915, he was appointed assistant corporation counsel of the City of New York, and served in this capacity until January, 1918, when he resigned to return to his practice.

He leaves a brother, William F. Troy, who is also an attorney.

Herman F. Schnirel '06

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Schnirel, of Rochester, have received word announcing the death in Germany of their son, Professor Herman Ferdinand Schnirel. The cause of his death was influenza.

Schnirel was born at Geneva, N. Y., on April 19, 1883. He attended Hobart College and Columbia University, entering Cornell in 1904, and received the degree of A. B. in 1906; he was a member of the Deutscher Verein.

For several years after his graduation, he was a professor of Germanic languages at Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn. He was elected New York State Assemblyman from Onondaga County, and was one of a board of managers of nine members appointed by the Speaker to prosecute the articles of impeachment against Governor Sulzer. He served as Assemblyman until his health failed, and he went to Europe before the war to take treatment in a private sanitarium in the Southern Hartz Mountains. In December, 1914, he returned to the States, but was unable to secure transportation for his wife and child; while awaiting an opportunity to sail, he acted as interpreter for the German Red Cross. For a short time he was professor of German at Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn.; then he returned to Germany, but was unable to leave when Americans were permitted to leave in 1917. He was prepared to return to the United States when he was stricken with influenza, and died at his home in Everson bei Celle.

Professor Schnirel leaves his wife and one child, his parents, and three sisters. Two of the sisters are Cornell graduates, Ida E. Schnirel '10, and Anna E. Schnirel '18.

Treasurer Macon's Report Made to the Board of Directors of the Associate Alumni.

As treasurer of the Associate Alumni for the year 1918-19, I beg to submit the following report:

The year marks the inauguration of the new method of raising money to meet current expenses. The plan has on the whole proved satisfactory. In view of the war's dislocation of normal business and social activities, it is significant of the promise of greater solidarity that so many Cornell alumni associations were in a position to pay the assessments.

From necessarily incomplete records, your treasurer addressed a letter to thirty-nine Cornell organizations, explaining the fact, which had already been brought to their attention, that the Associate Alumni at the annual meeting in May, 1918, had voted to accept the proposal drawn up for it to make itself self-supporting. It was pointed out that for some years the general alumni body had depended on the Cornellian Council for money and it was emphasized that the Council, with its special mission of securing annual money contributions from individual Cornellians, had need of all the funds it could get together; also that the one big essentially social Cornell organization must get its finances in an independent way.

Cornell clubs had voted unanimously in favor of the system of assessment on a per capita basis. This was in accordance with a plan worked out by some of Cornell's ablest Trustees after consultation with the Board of Trustees, the Cornellian Council, and Association of Class Secretaries. The per capita tax decided on by you for the present year was twenty-five cents.

The accompanying tables indicate the results of the new collection method. The club at Schenectady held that it is really a branch of the Albany club and the assessment against it was remitted. Two clubs paid more than assessed. The total amount paid is eighty-five per cent of the net or revised assessments but seventy-nine per cent of the original assessment.

It will be seen from this table that seventy-eight per cent of the men's clubs and ninety per cent of the women's clubs had paid their assessments before the annual meeting, eighty-one per cent of the whole; while eighty-four, ninety-four, and eighty-five per cent of the amount of the assessments, respectively, had been paid. With the receipt of the check from the Worcester women, the receipts from the women's clubs became one hundred per cent, although the total was not materially affected.

Following is a classified statement of the disbursements and a statement of balance on hand. It will be noted that the receipts from clubs at twenty-five cents per capita represent the payment on behalf of 2600 Cornellians. The only large item among the expenditures, nearly three-fourths of the total, was for a pamphlet mailed to some 28,000 Cornellians. Thus ten out of every eleven Cornellians receiving it has no part in paying for it. The general expenses otherwise were only slightly more than $200, including the cost of quarterly bulletins sent to the club officers.

Shortly before the end of the fiscal year a statement was sent to the Cornellian Council of the unexpended balance of last year's appropriation. This amounted to $310.21 which when credited will apply on a bill for $426.63 for the printing of the pamphlets above mentioned, and will be included in the 1919-20 account.

Leupp '02 spoke of Professor Stephens' work at Cornell and in California, where he was a power to the university and the State. Leupp, Professor C. M. Haring '04, and others told of their experiences in the service.

Annual Report to Associate Alumni of its Board of Directors

Written for the Annual Meeting on June 21 by President Noyes

The past twelve months have been a most unusual period. Last year we were all heart and soul in the war and nothing else counted. As a result of thousands of Cornell men in service our alumni clubs were greatly broken up, and alumni work was almost at a standstill.

Commencing with the signing of the armistice in November we realized that there was much to do and our president immediately called a directors' meeting, which was held in Buffalo, December 7, resulting in the following action:

Plans were made to see that a suitable memorial is provided by alumni for those Cornellians who died in service.

The directors suggested to the Trustees' Semi-Centennial Committee that the Associate Alumni be permitted to take charge of alumni participation in the Semi-Centennial.

The Semi-Centennial Committee at its meeting December 28, 1918, formally turned over to the Associate Alumni full responsibility for alumni participation in the Semi-Centennial and for getting back a substantial number of alumni for the Celebration.

After the directors' meeting in December had authorized provision for a memorial to Cornellians who died in service, we learned that the Trustees had appointed an Endowment Fund Committee. Realizing that it would not be advisable for several organizations to solicit funds, we asked the Trustees' committee to call a meeting of its members, as well as of representatives of the Cornellian Council and of the Associate Alumni, to cooperate in plans for raising the fund. This meeting was held the latter part of February, and out of it grew the joint committee, composed of five University Trustees, five members of the Cornellian Council, and five members of the Associate Alumni, with Mr. J. DuPratt White as chairman. This committee is working with the Trustees' Endowment Fund Committee and the work is now proceeding according to the plan. The resolutions passed at this joint meeting of representatives of all three groups recommend that the Trustees be authorized to provide, from any Endowment Fund raised, a suitable memorial to Cornellians who died in service.

In March another interesting and well attended meeting of the directors was held in Cleveland, at which time the matter of publishing the University's war record was put over for discussion at the June meeting and the following additional action taken:

The Athletic Council was asked to consider the recommendations of the Associate Alumni Committee on Athletic Affairs with reference to choosing a Graduate Manager.* It was further decided to encourage a fuller attendance of alumni at the Athletic Council meetings.

The board passed a resolution requesting that the Athletic Council make no athletic alliances without the fullest discussion by the Athletic Council, the alumni, and the undergraduates.

At this meeting the board asked the University Trustees for a statement of University policy as a prerequisite to collection of an Endowment Fund. It recommended to the University Trustees that further expansion in study and increased undergraduate enrollment be discouraged until the teaching staff could receive adequate salaries and the present University facilities be developed to their fullest usefulness.

An Increase in Interest

The past year has seen a very considerable increase in interest in the Associate Alumni. Many of Cornell's ablest graduates are now active in the work. This is as it should be, for certainly Cornell is entitled to the very best service that her ablest alumni can give. There is still room for improvement, however, and there are still too many alumni who plead that they are too busy when asked to undertake alumni work. Some occasional sacrifices must be made by all of us if Cornell is to keep her place in the educational world, and these sacrifices should be made cheerfully. It is simply paying back a small part of the debt we owe. After all, the busy men of the world are, broadly speaking, the ones who can do things best, and we must resign ourselves to the fact that when we want Cornell work well done we must call on busy men to do it,—and they must not refuse.

The finances of the Associate Alumni are in good shape, considering how many men have been in the war. The first year of our new plan of financing the association by pro rata assessment of alumni clubs has, we believe, proved entirely satisfactory and successful, and puts the financing of the Association on a firm foundation.

Doubtless the president-elect will pardon us for making a few suggestions for the coming year. There is so much work ahead for Cornell alumni in the interest of the University that it might be well to briefly point out some of it.

Suggestions for 1919-20

First,—let us get behind the committees of the Trustees and alumni, and assist both by contributing and by hard work in raising the Endowment Fund. A large increase in endowment is absolutely essential to the adequate salaries for our professors and instructors, and adequate salaries for professors and instructors are as necessary to the welfare and the future of Cornell as sunlight is to life itself. It is a fact that many of our instructors and even assistant professors are not paid as well as a great many ordinary skilled workmen. During the war there were millions of merely semi-skilled workmen who received more than our instructors. It is ridiculous for us to expect men to teach our sons and daughters their life work—men who have devoted years of intensive study to obtain the knowledge required for teaching,—to live and bring up their families on the present absurd salaries. It is gratifying to note the substantial increase in salary recently granted to the teaching staff of Cornell University, but it has not gone far enough. The cost of living is at least sixty-seven per cent above pre-war cost, and our pre-war salaries to professors and instructors were none too great. We strongly urge further substantial increases by the Trustees as soon as possible. The funds for this must come largely from the alumni. Therefore it is vital that alumni everywhere support the Endowment Fund campaign.

Then we should take an active interest next fall and winter in investigating all the data gathered from the various college conferences held yesterday afternoon, with the idea of discussing ways and means in which the work of the colleges be bettered and the output of the colleges improved. We suggest that the directors authorize the president to appoint a special committee of alumni of each college to further digest and coordinate the conference data and report their suggestions and recommendations to the Faculty and Trustees not later than April 1, 1920. The work of this committee is important and should be done carefully and thoroughly.

The war has shown clearly the shortage of technically trained men—particularly chemists and engineers. Cornell has been for years turning out a large number of engineers, well trained. But we suggest that next year the Trustees and Faculty might consider encouraging undergraduates to study chemistry and chemical engineering, professions coming into their own through the recent great development of our chemical industry.

There is also the matter of improving undergraduate scholarship. The Faculty committee reported very thoroughly on this subject in 1917, and their report has been published in pamphlet form. The intervention of the war has prevented anything being done but we suggest that the president appoint a committee to investigate thoroughly what clubs and alumni generally can do to carry out those recommendations of the Faculty committee, which seem to be practicable and desirable, and report by April, 1920.

We recommend that the Associate Alumni continue to publish an annual report of their work and send it to every Cornellian in order that all may be fully cognizant of what the association is doing and may be more fully kept in touch with the University. It is the duty of our directors to furnish annually to our alumni information and data regarding the University, and this can be most effectively handled in the annual report.

We should follow up the matter of physical and military training for undergraduates. Our Athletic Committee co-operating with others designated by the Trustees has already submitted to the University officials a few recommendations with reference to physical and military training for undergraduates.

There is also to be borne in mind the necessity for encouraging more activity regarding Cornell clubs and the organization of new alumni clubs wherever practicable. This will also call for hard work on the part of our Committee on Alumni Clubs. With clubs in better shape next year than they have been in two years past, work along these lines should be taken up with renewed vigor.

An Alumni Secretary Needed

During the past two or three years, when the Associate Alumni has merely begun to play its proper part in Cornell affairs, it has been increasingly evident that the position of Alumni Secretary and Recorder is one of such responsibility and importance that it requires the full time of a capable man.

Moreover we have learned that the work of the secretary of the Associate Alumni, if properly done, requires a large part of his time—more time than one with a business to look after can possibly afford.

We therefore suggest, in order to have this work among the thirty thousand Cornellians properly done, that the Associate Alumni recommend to the University Trustees the creation of the office of Alumni Secretary, separate from that of University Secretary, to devote his entire time to the work of keeping the alumni records, furthering the work of alumni clubs, and performing, in connection with alumni work, the many tasks that are now inadequately done by those who are able to devote only a small part of their time to the work.

We also suggest that whoever is chosen for the position should have the endorsement of the Associate Alumni so that he might be regularly elected its secretary, because the work of the two positions is much the same. Thus much duplication of effort can be avoided and efficiency attained. If one alumnus holds the two positions, possibly the budget of the Associate Alumni might be increased to an extent that will care for part of the salary of the Alumni Secretary, if the University Trustees so desire.

Cornell Needs Its Alumni

A strong alumni association is, in our judgment, more essential to Cornell than to almost any other large university. Most of the other large universities are either state institutions or have been established much longer than Cornell and consequently have in some respects more influential and more wealthy alumni. Whenever such universities wish to get anything of great importance done the matter can usually be handled through state officials or through the influential and wealthy alumni. With Cornell such is not the case. Any great movement in the interest of our University must be supported by the great body of alumni if it is to attain the proper momentum. Therefore, the binding together of alumni clubs, and of Cornellians generally, so that concerted action can be readily and effectively obtained, is in our opinion, essential to the welfare of the University, and is entitled to the active support of Cornellians everywhere.

Let us make the Associate Alumni of Cornell the strongest alumni association in America. Full cooperation of each alumnus and each Cornell club will accomplish it. Her fifty years of steady growth and splendid worth entitle Cornell to the very best her alumni can give.

FOR TRAINING CITY MANAGERS AND MUNICIPAL EXECUTIVES

A course will be offered by the TRAINING SCHOOL FOR PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE NEW YORK BUREAU OF MUNICIPAL RESEARCH during the year 1919-1920. This course will be limited to 20 men selected for exceptional qualifications.

The phenomenal spread of the manager plan of city administration has created a pressing emergency because of the shortage of men qualified to serve as city managers. To succeed in his task the city manager should be a trained executive, who has made a special study of the peculiar problems of city administration. He must to a degree combine the knowledge and training of the lawyer, the engineer, the accountant, the sanitarian, and the specialist in police and correctional problems.

Such training is difficult to obtain because the educational institutions of the country have not had time to develop staffs of specialists in municipal administration. The Training School for Public Service has been able to solve this problem by utilizing for instructional purposes the specialists of the staff of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, who have devoted years to the study of the problems of municipal administration.

The course will begin on October 1, 1919, and will continue until May 31, 1920. The work will consist of readings, conferences, lectures, visits to offices and institutions, and of a considerable amount of practical field research. A moderate tuition fee will be charged.

The Passing of Cinderella

THE quaint little childhood tale of the poor kitchen maid is not so far removed from recent reality.

For we all recall the staggering piles of dishes, the dust-strewn floor, the tubs of clothes, the treadmill task at the sewing machines! Yes, Cinderella-like was the housework of yesterday.

And now, the girl of 1920 looks to electricity—most tractable of handmaidens—as the fairy prince who makes life easier and fuller.

Just a push of the button—and tiny electric motors sweep, wash dishes or clothes; clean, scour and polish; make ice or ice cream, run the sewing machine and play the piano or phonograph.

While the motors do the work, other electric appliances are distributed about the house to make good living more convenient. Electric cooking utensils, hair driers, cigar lighters, burglar alarms, door bells, and furnace regulators, are now operated by the magic wand of electric power.

The development of the miniature motors for the kitchen and electrical devices was made possible by the rapid progress in experience gained by the General Electric Company's Engineers, whose efforts in the application of electricity for every sort of industrial endeavor during the past quarter century have brought freedom from the drudgery of other days.

CHLOROX

The Smooth Tooth Paste

Smokers, Attention!

Try this prescription for "smoker's taste" prevention. Clean the teeth, mouth and throat with CHLOROX—it cleans where no brush can reach. Rinse the mouth thoroughly. Then again clean the mouth as carefully with a second brushful of CHLOROX; rinse the second time and brush the tongue. You will have a fresh taste in the morning.

There is CHLOROX enough in a single tube to prevent smoker's taste for three months—290 inches of creamy cleanser.

The key empties the tube and the last bit of CHLOROX ribbon is soft and fresh; CHLOROX never hardens in the tube.
