EXPLORING ASIA MINOR.

An Encouraging Report Received from the Cornell Expedition.

The Cornell Expedition to the Assyro-Babylonian Orient has sent in the first report of its explorations and investigations—a report which shows that a great deal of preliminary work has been accomplished. Funds for the equipment of this expedition were obtained by subscription through the efforts of Professor J. R. S. Sterrett, of the Greek Department, who planned the work. The purpose of the expedition was to study the ancient sites, take photographs, copy inscriptions, investigate the topographical and geographical features of the country, and fix as nearly as possible the location of the cities of antiquity. The explorations are expected to result in valuable additions to the science of archaeology. The party consists of A. T. Olmstead, '02, fellow in the American School of Classical Studies at Athens; B. B. Charles, '06, assistant in Semitics in Cornell University, and J. E. Wrench, '06, until recently fellow in European history in the University of Wisconsin. One of the conditions of the subscription was that the party should from time to time send in reports for publication directly from the field of investigation.

Following is the text of the report received:

"Messrs. Wrench and Charles left America early in March and proceeded to Athens, where they were joined by Dr. Olmstead. The party then went to Constantinople, whence, after a short stay to attend to formalities, a rapid trip was made along the west coast of Asia Minor, visiting the most important excavated sites. They then proceeded by rail to Konia, where active work was begun. Short expeditions were made in various directions to several points of pre-classic interest, after which the party returned to Constantinople. Some time was spent in that city in securing an outfit for the regular expedition and in working up some results of the preliminary trip. Work was begun again in the Phrygian monument country and the party then proceeded to Cesarea via Angora and Boghaz-Keui. During the earlier part of the first trip the party was accompanied by Dr. Harris, of Cornell, who made a special study of Lydia. Thus far during the main trip it has been accompanied by Mr. Forbes of Robert College, Constantinople, as a volunteer, who has secured specimens in entomology and botany, and has made a geological survey of the country on the basis of the expedition's maps.

"The results of the expedition to date may be summed up under the following headings:

"TOPOGRAPHY.—The principal sites have been fixed astronomically. Outside of the coast and railway surveys this is the first series of such observations in Asia Minor. The country between these fixed points has been filled in by compass and theodolite, and this is the first time the latter instrument has been used to any extent in Asia Minor. Everywhere even the best maps have been found woefully defective. The largest unexplored tract in Cappadocia has been traversed. Plans have been made of a number of sites with special reference to excavation. Place names which up to now have been taken down almost entirely by ear have been in many cases corrected by the expedition, which has undertaken, wherever possible, to secure the names in Turkish character.

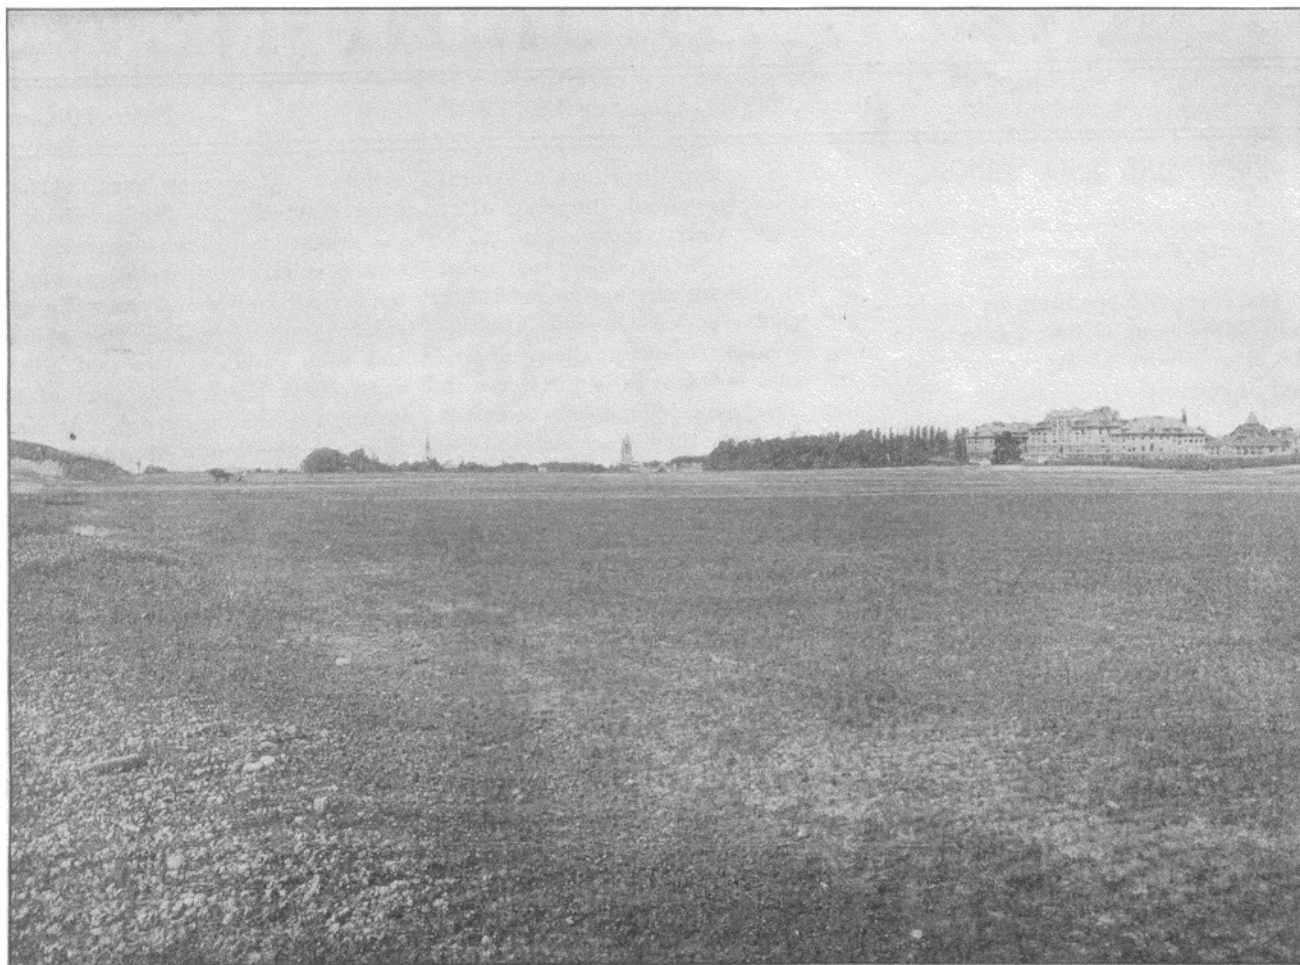

"EPIGRAPHY.—All the Hittite sites west of Kaisariye and Konia have been visited and the inscriptions collated. Many new readings have been secured. At Boghaz-Keui, at the suggestion of the German excavators, the Hittite inscription, one of the largest known and generally considered quite illegible, was studied and as a result of two and a half days' work the greater part of the inscription was recovered. At Kara Burun a small new Hittite inscription was discovered within a foot of one already known. Inscriptions hitherto visited have been squeezed, photographed and copied. Ten days were spent in making a squeeze (paper impression) of the 'Monumentum Ancyranum,' a most important inscription. A considerable number of classic and of Arabic inscriptions have been copied, many of which are new. At Angora and Boghaz-Keui cuneiform tablets were also obtained and one Hittite seal.

"ARCHITECTURE.—At Giaour Kalesi, a well known Hittite site, the palace was planned and was found to be of a distinctly Mycenaean character. Special attention has been devoted to Byzantine churches and Seljuk chans [khans].

"PRE-CLASSIC SITES.—The classic sites of cities in Asia Minor are fairly well established, but very little has hitherto been known concerning the exact location of their earlier representatives. Over fifty sites have been carefully examined and proved to be pre-classic, and of these a considerable proportion can be connected with an already known classic locality. The pre-classic site of Iconium, the most important city of southeastern Asia Minor, has been found. Much of the pottery found there is similar to the early types found at Troy, and a better site for excavation has not yet been seen by the expedition.

"POTTERY.—The most important material for dating sites is the pottery. Very little has thus far been done in attempting to assign to the proper dates the pottery of the interior of Asia Minor. An attempt has been made to do this in connection with the pottery survey, and while many of the results must be tentative in character, the general development has been ascertained and has already been very useful in fixing the dates of the various sites visited. Over three thousand potsherds have thus far been collected and studied. Most important are the various sherds of Mycenæan character showing connection with the Greek world of the time of Homer. In the light of the material collected it seems almost certain that some of the most widespread views in regard to the earlier people of Asia Minor and their connections must be modified or abandoned.

"OTHER SMALL OBJECTS.—Nearly a thousand coins, ranging in time from Persian to early Turkish, have been secured, but there has been no time as yet to study them. A marble idol of a type hitherto found only in the Greek islands in pre-Mycenæan settlements was secured in Angora. This link between the early inhabitants of Greece and of Asia Minor is of very great interest.

"The condition of the expedition, in all respects, is excellent. The health of the men is good. The servants are being trained to archæological work. The expedition owns its own camps and transportation equipment, thus saving the expense of hiring animals and wagons, while the entire outfit can be sold at the end of the trip to secure passage home. It was found necessary to purchase a number of expensive instruments. This has caused the initial outlay to be much greater than was expected, but the results, not only in greater efficiency, but also in decidedly decreased current expenses, have fully justified this. The results which have been obtained from the comparatively well known Asia Minor and which have caused a trip, originally intended for orientation only and which was to have lasted but a month or two at most, to last up to the present time, seem to guarantee far greater returns when the much less known country east of the Eu-

The party by this time should be at or near Melitene, having passed the Antitaurus.

Until the completion of the expedition, the coins, potsherds and other material collected will be placed in the custody of his Excellency O. Hamdi Bei, director of the Imperial Ottoman Museum at Constantinople. The scientific value of many of the finds cannot, of course, be determined until a careful examination has been made by antiquarians.

Professor Sterrett has just received a letter from Sir William Ramsay, of Aberdeen University, an archæological expert who was engaged in excavations in Cesarea and who conferred with the party on their arrival there. He commends the work of the expedition in the highest terms and is confident that it will produce valuable results.

Several contributions to the fund have been made since the first list of subscribers appeared, the total amount subscribed up to the present being $10,470. The following are the more recent contributors: G. M. Laughlin, $200; Mrs. Joseph F. Life, $25; F. M. Warburg, $500; W. W. Astor, $1,000; W. W. Goodwin, $10; J. G. Schmidlapp, $100. Mr. George Crocker, who contributed $500 previously, has doubled his subscription.

1909 WINS CLASS RACE.

Juniors to Retain the Chicago Rowing Trophy Another Year.

The seventh annual interclass race for the rowing trophy presented by the Cornell Association of Chicago was held on Cayuga lake last Thursday afternoon, and was won by the eight representing the class of 1909. The only competitor was the 1910 eight, as the senior class failed to enter enough men to make up a crew. By its victory 1909 retains the trophy for another year, this being the second consecutive victory of the class in the event. Each member of the victorious eight will receive, besides the right to wear his class numerals, a bronze medal provided by the donors of the trophy. The class crews are made up of men who have not rowed in the Poughkeepsie regatta, and the course measures one mile.

Six feet was the margin by which the juniors won the race. The start was in the southwest corner of the lake and the finish was off Treman's dock. The sophomores had the inner course. With the first few strokes '10 took the lead, and drew ahead until they had half a length advantage at the half-mile—a position which they maintained for another quarter-mile. When not more than a hundred yards from the finish the juniors spurted. They cut down the sophomores' lead and crossed the line winners by a few feet. Dean Smith of Sibley College was the judge at the finish.

Following are the names of the oarsmen:

1909.—Bow, A. L. Frost, Muskegon, Mich.; 2, F. Fernow, Ithaca; 3, F. M. Sanger, Norwalk, Conn.; 4, H. N. Simpson, Poughkeepsie; 5, E. H. Clark, Cortland; 6, F. E. Wurst, Holland, N. Y.; 7, S. S. Bullen, Ausable Forks; stroke, P. Z. Horton, Peoria, Ill.; coxswain, W. H. Treene, Newark, N. J.

1910.—Bow, M. F. T. Smith, Portland, Ore.; 2, R. L. White, Watertown; 3, A. L. Trimpi, East Orange, N. J.; 4, J. A. Stevenson, Brooklyn; 5, E. H. Hespelt, Johnstown; 6, B. P. Floyd, Manchester, Mass.; 7, W. V. Randall, jr., Newburg; stroke, G. H. Crawford, Nyack; coxswain, J. A. Clark, Sidney.

Christopher Paul Cox, '08, of Washington, D. C., was elected Commodore of the Navy at a meeting of the members of the 'varsity crew last Thursday evening. Cox stroked his freshman crew in 1905, rowed No. 6 on the 1906 'varsity and stroked the 'varsity at Poughkeepsie last June. He is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity and of Sphinx Head, Aleph Samach and Dunstan.

The American Philosophical Association will hold its annual meeting in Ithaca during the Christmas holidays.

NIAGARA AND COLGATE.

Both Teams Beaten, One Easily and the Other with Difficulty.

After a comparatively easy victory over Niagara on Wednesday, the 'varsity eleven last Saturday met its strongest opponent of the season thus far in Colgate, which was defeated after a hard contest by a score of 18 to 0. Cornell made one touchdown in the first half and two in the second. Although the eleven had to work for every score it made there seems to be no reason for discouragement over the result. Colgate was represented by a team quite as strong if not stronger than the one which last year played a scoreless game on Percy Field. Both teams were coached by William J. Warner, '03, a former Cornell captain and a brother of Glenn S. Warner. The Niagara game on Wednesday resulted in a score of 47 to 0. The team from the western part of the State was overwhelmed at the start, and Cornell, even with an eleven made up almost entirely of substitutes, scored almost at will. This contest gave the coaches an opportunity to try out a large part of the squad.

The coaching staff has been augmented during the past week by the arrival in Ithaca of Lieutenant Joseph W. Beacham, '97, who has obtained a leave of absence for two months and expects to remain on duty at Percy Field throughout the season. Another former player who has been assisting is George H. Young, '00. Lyndon Tracy, '97, and Philip Will, '00, were at the field on Saturday.

The training program continues to be strenuous, although Monday and Tuesday were the only days last week on which scrimmages were held. On Thursday and Friday there was fast signal practice for the 'varsity and scrubs, combined with work in tackling, blocking, catching and running down punts. The members of the squad seem to take pleasure in the work. A novel feature introduced into the practice is a race from goal to goal between the 'varsity and the scrubs, each team making three signal plays and line-ups on the way.

The only uncertainty regarding the make-up of the 'varsity line appears to be at right guard. This position was filled during the first part of the Niagara game by Brinton and during the second part by Cosgrove; Cosgrove played throughout the Colgate game. Behind the line the situation is by no means so well defined. Gardner and Caldwell are making a hard fight for quarterback. Both are improving fast as a result of the competition. Earle, as left halfback, has no rival. For the other halfback position there are still four contenders—Shearer, Tydeman, Mow and Hutchinson. Shearer and Mow are playing fullback with his old aggressive-ness.

EASY VICTORY OVER NIAGARA.

About the middle of the second half of Wednesday's game the contest had become so one-sided and the visiting team so crippled by injuries that Cornell offered to stop the contest; the offer was pluckily declined by Niagara, and the game continued to the bitter end. Four touchdowns had been made by the 'varsity in the first half, and four more were made in the second half by what was virtually a scrub team. A much harder contest had been expected, because Niagara had beaten Colgate by a large score. The visitors, however, were swept off their feet at the start. They had few substitutes on the bench, and toward the end of the game some of the players were scarcely able to drag themselves into the line.

A detailed story of the game would be merely a narrative of continued charges down the field by Cornell, in which end runs were varied by forward passes or plunges through the line. The gains made by Earle were spectacular. In the first four plays in which he took the ball he made 140 yards and two touchdowns.

Tydeman made one run of thirty-five yards on a forward pass for a touchdown.

Following is the line-up:

Cornell.	Niagara.
Watson .....l. e.....	Lowney
Cook .....l. t.....	T. McCarthy
Thompson .....l. g.....	Whitton
May .....c.....	Malloy
Brinton .....r. g.....	Bolender
O'Rourke .....r. t.....	Reardon
Van Orman.....r. e.....	McNerney
Gardner .....q. b.....	McGraw
Earle .....l. h. b.....	Sweeney
Mowe .....r. h. b.....	Harrison
Walder .....f. b.....	J. McCarthy

Substitutions: Cornell—Halsey for Watson, Lynch for Cook, Oderkirk for May, Cosgrove for Brinton, McCollum for O'Rourke, Harris for Van Orman, Caldwell for Gardner, Tydeman for Mowe, Hutchinson for Tydeman, Hurlburt for Earle, Parker for Walder, Ebeling for Parker; Niagara—Sweeney for Lowney, Hennessy for Whitton, Slater for Sweeney. Referee, Mr. Southworth; umpire, Mr. Wright.

HARD GAME WITH COLGATE.

Within the first minute of the game on Saturday it was realized that the 'varsity had its work cut out for it. Colgate started in with an aggressiveness which threatened to result in a touchdown. Starting at their 10-yard line after the kick-off, the visitors carried the ball almost without interruption to Cornell's 25-yard line. There they attempted a quarterback kick. Earle caught the ball and regained twenty-five yards before he was downed. On the next play Shearer took the ball well into Colgate territory. The visitors got the ball on their 25-yard line as the result of a forward pass which failed, and Waite punted to Caldwell at midfield. Caldwell ran back fifteen yards, and on the next play Earle went around the end for forty yards and a touchdown. Cook kicked the goal. Score, Cornell 6, Colgate 0.

The first touchdown had been made after about ten minutes of play, and for the rest of the half there was a hot struggle, with neither side having much the advantage. Colgate made two attempts to kick a goal from placement. The half ended with the ball in Cornell's possession on her 25-yard line. Cornell opened the second half with the team virtually intact, and started things with a rush. Walder ran the ball back from the kick-off twenty yards. A fumble of a punt allowed Cornell to get the ball on Colgate's 45-yard line. At this point Colgate made such a determined stand that Cornell was held for downs no less than three times within the 15-yard line. A blunder, however, defeated Colgate's efforts to prevent another score. Evidently through a mistake in signals, the ball, while in Colgate's possession near the center of the field, was snapped back so far that there was no one to receive it. It was recovered by Cornell, and clever running by Gardner, who had taken Caldwell's place, and by Earle gave Cornell another touchdown. Cook kicked the goal, making the score Cornell 12, Colgate 0. The final touchdown was made by Walder, largely as a result of his own work in line-plunging.

The line-up follows:

Cornell.	Colgate.
Watson .....l. e.....	Proctor
Cook .....l. t.....	Keegan
Thompson .....l. g.....	Houseman
May .....c.....	Hollenbeck
Cosgrove .....r. g.....	Waite
O'Rourke .....r. t.....	Boardman
Van Orman.....r. e.....	Loeber
Caldwell .....q. b.....	Whalen
Earle .....l. h. b.....	Clark
Shearer .....r. h. b.....	Moore
Walder .....f. b.....	Woodman

Substitutions: Cornell—Halsey for Watson, Gardner for Caldwell, Mowe for Shearer, Hutchinson for Mowe; Colgate—Kronenberg for Keegan, Bell for Hollenbeck. Referee, Mr. Evans; umpire, Mr. Case.

During the game many yards were lost by Cornell through penalties inflicted for off-side play. The team's failure to carry the ball over the line when near Colgate's goal was due to a weakness in the line rather than in the back field. It will be the duty of the coaches in the next week to find a remedy for this if possible.

At this time of year readers may confer a favor upon the ALUMNI NEWS by sending information about any Cornellians who may be running for office. Items about the doings of Cornell alumni not only in politics but in any field are always welcome.

The picture of Alumni Field which we publish this week shows that field practically ready for building operations whenever the committee has funds enough to warrant it in going ahead. Some idea of the size of this level expanse of ground may be obtained by noting that the eastern end, shown at the right of the picture, is almost directly south of Forest Home, while the western end is only a few hundred feet from East avenue.

HOLIDAY MUSICAL TRIP.

Clubs to Visit Eastern Cities—To be in Philadelphia on November 27.

Graduate Manager W. J. Dugan has just returned to Ithaca after making the advance trip for the musical clubs. The Christmas tour of the clubs this year will be in part in territory which they have not visited for several years. Alumni in all the towns on the route are showing great interest in the coming visit of the musicians, and the trip promises to be quite as successful as any in recent years.

Leaving Ithaca on Thursday, December 26, the clubs will go to Syracuse, where they will give a concert that evening in the Wieting Opera House. On the next two evenings the clubs will be heard in Utica and Troy, appearing respectively in the Century Club auditorium and the Troy Music Hall. From Troy the clubs will go to Brooklyn, where they will be heard in Memorial Hall on the evening of Monday, December 30. The next concert will take place at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York city on December 31. The next stop on the schedule will be Wilmington, Del., a place which the clubs have never visited, and where a concert will be given on the evening of New Year's Day in the Century Club auditorium. On January 2 the clubs will appear in Pittsburgh.

Arrangements are now being completed for a joint concert of the Pennsylvania and Cornell clubs at Philadelphia on Wednesday, November 27, the night before the annual Thanksgiving football game. This will be in reciprocation for the visit made by the Pennsylvania musicians to Ithaca on Founder's Day last year. The concert will probably be given in the Bellevue-Stratford.

The freshman eleven was beaten on Saturday by the George Junior Republic, the final score being 4 to 0. The first half was a punting contest, as a result of which the Republic scored a drop kick

The Princeton Game.

Alumni are showing so much interest in the football game between Princeton and Cornell to be played on Percy Field next week Saturday that this opportunity is taken of explaining the seating arrangements for the game. The gridiron having been moved several yards southward, an equally good view of the field may be obtained from either side. The seating plan may be made clear by a few words regarding the sectional division of the stands. In the easternmost stand on the south side there are three sections, designated by the letters A, B and C; the next is lettered from D to H; the covered stand, facing the middle of the field, from I to L, and the westernmost stand on the south side from M to O. All other seats are in the new steel stand on the north side of the field. There are only a few seats from which an unobstructed view of every part of the field may not be obtained; these are in the upper part of section M, from which the roof of the covered stands cuts off the view of the extreme southeastern corner of the gridiron. Tickets will be placed on sale at the office of the Athletic Association next Tuesday morning, October 22. Holders of season tickets will, as is customary, have first choice of location. The price of seats in sections A to C will be $1.50; in sections D to H and M to O, $1.75; in all other sections two dollars. Persons ordering seats by mail should include in their remittance twelve cents to cover postage and registry. Checks should be made payable to the Cornell Athletic Association.

The Civil Engineer.

A statement of the financial standing of the Cornell Civil Engineer on June 12 last has been published by Victor F. Hammel, '07, the first business manager of the magazine, which began operations on February 14. The first board, which was in charge for only four months, turned the publication over to the present board with assets of $1,900.22. In taking over the old Transactions the organizers of the Civil Engineer assumed an indebtedness of $116.30, this being for publication bills dating back to 1905. This amount has been paid to Professor Crandall, who had advanced the money. For the fiscal year ending on February 14, 1908, the management transacted business to the amount of $2,034.51, made up as follows: advertising, $1,142.21; alumni subscriptions, $979; student subscriptions, $767; miscellaneous, $46.30. The total amount expended in inaugurating and maintaining the magazine from February 14 to June 12, running the Association of Civil Engineers and paying off old debts was $970.40. There remained cash on hand of $30.53 and accounts payable of $33.36. The bulk of the assets at the time of accounting consisted of accounts receivable for advertising and subscriptions. It may be seen from the foregoing figures that the organizers of the magazine have succeeded in placing it on a firm financial foundation.

Honors to an Old Friend.

The best known of all the university preachers of Cornell is the Rev. Robert Collyer, whose yearly coming has for more than twenty-five years gladdened the hearts of students and filled the chapel with eager listeners. Few undergraduates, perhaps, are reminded by his name of the great place filled by the Yorkshire blacksmith as preacher and as lecturer in the days of the slavery agitation and the Civil War, and even to the alumni that is only a tradition; but all will remember his benignant face and snowy locks, his humor and his sound sense, his horseshoe, which has brought us our good luck, and his bell, which rings out from the roof of Sibley's shops.

This summer, at the age of eighty-four, he has been making his final visit to his old Yorkshire home beyond the sea; and on September 26 the University of Leeds did him the unusual honor to convene its Council in extraordinary session for the purpose of conferring upon him the degree of Doctor of Letters. Dr. Collyer, of course, was present, and an English paper thus describes him: "Massive featured, with a head crowned with flowing white hair, and set off by a wide-brimmed scholastic hat, he had the appearance of a figure cut out from the patriarchs, and, in truth, his style and bearing had quite an old-world dignity about it." Replying to the eulogistic address of the university's dean, he told something of the story of his life, narrating among other things how the Fewston bell which was the torment of his boyhood came to find a better mission at Cornell; and, confessing himself "a very happy old man," he thanked the university for conferring its degree on "an old ex-blacksmith, who did, as well as he knew how, what God gave him to do."

1905 Dinner in New York.

The first dinner of the season of members of the Class of 1905 in New York will be held at the Cornell University Club, 58 West Forty-fifth street, on Thursday, October 17, at 7 P. M. At this meeting plans for the winter will be decided upon. Any member of the class in New York or vicinity who has not received official notice will kindly notify the steward of the club if he expects to be present. Owing to numerous changes of address, it would be considered a favor if every man who does not receive the regular announcements will send his present address to Mr. George C. Boldt, jr., The Waldorf-Astoria, New York.

Senior Society Elections.

The senior societies have elected the following members from the present senior class, in addition to those announced last spring:
