

Cornell University
Program in Real Estate

114 West Sibley Hall
Ithaca, NY 14853-6701

visit www.crer.realestate.cornell.edu
for full-text versions of all previous editions

CORNELL
REAL ESTATE

REVIEW

REview aims to provide a conduit for scholars, professional practitioners and students to express ideas, concepts and research findings from all fields related to the real estate profession. REview focuses on the interdisciplinary nature of real estate by blending both informative practical papers with application-based academic research across the breath of design, business, economics, engineering, finance, law, planning, development, marketing and property management.

Information on submission requirements can be found at www.crer.cornell.edu or via e-mail from the CRER Executive Editor at crer@cornell.edu

PROGRAM IN REAL ESTATE
CORNELL UNIVERSITY
114 WEST SIBLEY HALL
ITHACA NY 14853
607.255.7110

CORNELL REAL ESTATE
REVIEW

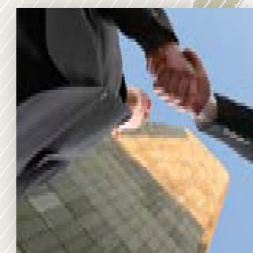

VOLUME 5
2007

CORNELL REAL ESTATE REVIEW

VOL 5, MAY 2007

What is Public Use? Eminent Domain and the Kelo Decision
John F. McDonald

The Tectonic Forces of Global Real Estate
David J. Lynn

A Critical Assessment of the Traditional Residential Real Estate Broker Commission Rate Structure
Mark S. Nadel

William Sanders

EXECUTIVE PROFILE

"REAL ESTATE IS A MUCH BETTER INDUSTRY TODAY BECAUSE OF THE QUALITY OF MANAGEMENT TEAMS AND THE QUALITY OF INFORMATION."