

Michael Lovenheim

Web Bio

Information

Biography

---

Biographical Statement

Michael Lovenheim is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Policy Analysis and Management. His research is in public finance and labor economics, particularly focusing on the economics of education and issues in local taxation and regulation. His recent papers consider the role of housing wealth in the college enrollment decision, the effect of teachers' unions on K-12 educational resources, changes in the likelihood and length of time it takes students to obtain an undergraduate degree, and the effect of consumer avoidance of cross-state cigarette and alcohol taxes and regulation on health outcomes. Lovenheim received his PhD in Economics from the University of Michigan in 2007 and joined PAM in 2009 after two years as a Searle Freedom Trust Post-doctoral Fellow at the Stanford Institute for Economic Policy Research.

Professional

---

Research

---

Extension

---

Education

---

Education

Ph.D., Economics, University of Michigan (2007)
M.A., Economics, University of Michigan (2005)
B.A., Magna Cum Laude, Economics, Amherst College (2000)

Courses

---

Courses Taught

PAM 3100
PAM 3550

PAM 6471/ILR7471

PAM 6970

Websites

---

Administration

---

Publications

---

Selected Publications

http://www.human.cornell.edu/pam/people/michael\_lovenheim.cfm

