DRAMATIC CLUB.

Prior to each mass meeting which has been called this year the following questions have arisen. "Are the mass meetings compulsory; if so, how may we be excused, or how can we evade the rules, and if we do have to go - why do we?"

It seems advisable to answer these questions thru the medium of the Bulletin for the benefit of all. Mass meetings are compulsory. Attendance is taken this year of girls in the dormitories by the head proctor of the corridor after the mass meeting. The list of girls who do not attend is given to the House President and the girls are taken before House Committee. In the Outside Houses attendance is taken by the President of the House.

Girls may be excused ordinarily for the following reasons: sickness, university work, or in extreme cases, for an important social engagement. A written permit must be obtained from the House President or the President of Student Government before the evening of the meeting.

Now, in answer to the all important question "why do we have to go?" Mass meetings are called only when there is to be some subject of vital importance to be presented to the undergraduate women students. In the editorial in previous issues of the Bulletin, the work of the Student Government president was discussed. The work is not limited to the president but is distributed among all the officers and thru out the organization. Is it asking a great deal in return to expect the girls to come to an occasional mass meeting and to give up an evening's time in good spirit with a consideration that the the meeting is held for their benefit.

MASS MEETING.

Ruth Davis has been appointed special chairman for the mass meeting. The Student Government Mass Meeting Thursday evening 7:45. All seniors are requested to wear caps and gowns. All the girls are to remove their wraps downstairs in Barnes before going to the auditorium.

Attendance will be taken at the end of the meeting by head proctors and by the presidents of outside houses.

Are you going to see "The Flower of Yeddo" next Monday night? Plan yours ahead so that that evening will be free. Think of the time the actors are giving in order to produce the play. Think of how the committees are working to make the entertainment a success. Admission is free for members of the club, twenty-five cents for all others. If you have not got your membership ticket, go to E. Reigart, Sage A-III-6. Members may invite a man. Tickets for the men can be obtained from R. Conklin in Risley and A. Smith in Sage. Others pay at the door.
