Geneva, N.Y.

THE STATION exhibits are on their way to the State Fair grounds, the Station truck, under the able direction of "Jimmy" Hefferon, having made two trips already, with additional journeys scheduled for each succeeding day of the week. The first delegation from the Staff left this morning, and others are planning to depart tomorrow and Friday to prepare their several exhibits for the official opening on Saturday. The Fair Commission has officially announced that the grounds will not be open on Sunday. Among those who will attend all or part of the Fair are the following: Messrs. Hedrick, Breed, Sweeney, Moore, Clark, Munn, Gloyer, Dahlberg, Marquardt, Hucker, Robertson, Gambrell, Harman, Daniel, Slate, Einset, Hawthorn, Sayre, Luckett, Mohr, and Hopkins.

DR. HEDRICK has been asked to serve again as head judge of the fruit exhibit, while Dr. Breed will be in charge of the milk judging.

DR. M. J. DORSEY, formerly a member of the Horticultural Department here and now at the University of Illinois, spent a few hours at the Station Saturday with his brother of Cornell College of Agriculture and Prof. Myers of that institution in a study of the fruit breeding work.

MISS LIDA THATCHER joins the ranks of the toilers today when she enters upon her duties as a technical assistant to Dr. Conn in his work with biological stains.

DR. BREED and Mr. Pederson journeyed into the western part of the State the latter part of last week to visit several canning factories.

MR. LOVETT, a junior at Michigan University, stopped off long enough for a brief visit with Miss Thatcher while motoring thru this territory.

THE EXPERIMENT STATION team and an aggregation representing the Smith nursery crowded a lot of baseball into four innings yesterday afternoon to end up with a 10 to 10 tie. Owing to the delay in starting and to the length of time required to play even four innings, the game had to be called on account of darkness. Sullivan, Pederson, and Backus divided the pitching honors for the Station outfit, while Howell pitched a creditable game for the nurserymen, altho he was touched up for 13 hits to 5 safe blows for his team mates.

THE EDITOR is toiling at his annual bit of labor which involves the staging of the Station State Fair exhibit. Accompanied by his family, Mr. Luckett departed for Syracuse this morning to take general charge of the final arrangements which are many and tedious. The next issue of the NEWS will outline the general plan of the exhibit which has been planned largely by the Editor and his committee with the help of Mr. Schumann.
