KENYON'S ALUMNI SYSTEM.

Method of Nominating Trustees and Obtaining Funds.

The ALUMNI NEWS has obtained through Mr. Charles H. Blair, '72, of New York city, some printed matter showing the method used by the Kenyon College Alumni Association in voting for alumni trustees. It is noticed here because it contains some features to the lack of which in our own system the Alumni General Committee has recently called attention.

One particular which a Cornell man immediately notices is that not only graduates of Kenyon College, but all matriculates—after the graduation of their respective classes—are entitled to vote for alumni trustees. Two trustees are elected each year. Three ballots are sent out in succession, to each person entitled to vote, by the secretary of the alumni association, whose office happens to be in New York. The three men receiving the highest number of votes on the first ballot for each place to be filled are put in formal nomination, their names being printed on the second ballot together with the number of votes received in each case. This second ballot is mailed to the electors of the college on May 15. The ballots are returned and counted, and then, on June 1, a third ballot is sent out bearing the names of the two men who received, as a result of the second ballot, the greatest number of votes for each place to be filled. These final ballots are counted on Commencement Day. The system thus gives each alumnus of the college three opportunities to consider his vote. When a vacancy occurs in the board of trustees it is filled at the next regular election, and the names of candidates for three places instead of two are printed on the several ballots. The alumni trustees of the college are divided between former students of Kenyon College proper and of the Bexley Theological Seminary.

With each second ballot the secretary sends a reminder that opportunity is extended to contribute to the funds of the association, a rule having been adopted that any sum in excess of what is needed for current expenses shall be turned over to the endowment funds of the college. A small, blank envelope is sent in which the contribution may be returned.

The second ballot sent out on May 15 of this year—there being three vacancies to be filled—read as follows:

DEAR SIR: The first nominating ballot for the three vacancies in the Board of Trustees resulted in the preliminary nomination of the persons whose names are given below (three for each vacancy) viz.: [Here follow the names of the nominees, with the number of nominating votes received by each.]

You are requested to fill out and return the enclosed second nominating ballot without delay. The result of this ballot (which will place in final nomination for the three vacancies the six persons receiving the greatest number of votes) will be announced on June 1st, when the final ballots, to be counted on Commencement Day (June 26th), are mailed.

Not only graduates of the College or of Bexley, but all matriculates of either institution (after the graduation of their respective classes) are entitled to vote.

With this, the second nominating ballot, opportunity is extended to contribute to defray the expenses of the balloting as well as to increase the funds of the Association. At the annual meeting held in June, 1903, the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That the officers of this Association be empowered to solicit and receive annually from its members voluntary contributions beyond those required for current expenses; all amounts received in excess of that reserved for current expenses to be added to the endowment funds of Kenyon College, as shall be ordered by this Association."

It is hoped that many will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to contribute annually in this way to the permanent welfare of the College, knowing that all such contributions will be conserved and controlled by the Alumni.

'07's Life Secretary.

George R. Sailor, of Pittsburg, was elected permanent secretary of the class of 1907 at a meeting of the class held on Monday evening. Mr. Sailor was the chairman of the 1907 Class Book Committee.

WOULD CHANGE COLLEGE YEAR.

Proposal to Have Two Terms Unbroken by Short Vacations.

In an editorial last Thursday, the Sun invited discussion of a proposal to rearrange the University calendar so as to prevent the college terms being cut up by numerous short vacations as is the case at present. The plan proposed is, briefly, to have the first term end a few days before Christmas, instead of at the end of January, with a long Christmas vacation, say of four weeks' duration, and to omit the Easter vacation. Such a rearrangement of the calendar would make it necessary to begin the first term in the first week of September, and Commencement would take place about June 1. Members of the Faculty are discussing the plan with interest. Many of them have found fault with the present arrangement of working days, because the two semesters are broken up by short vacations which periodically distract the student's attention from his work and tempt him to leave town for a few days more than the actual length of the vacation. The proposed arrangement would neither increase nor diminish the number of working days, but would provide two unbroken terms. The Sun says:

"As the theory runs, two terms of solid concentrated work are worth more than the present method of having the year cut up into small sections. Each term's work would be completely finished up before leaving Ithaca, and there would be a good long vacation in between terms so that students living at considerable distances would have the opportunity of returning home.

"This rearranging of the University working days would necessitate starting the first term along in the first week in September and ending it about December 23. Then the second term would begin about January 26, and Commencement Day would come on June 1. Block week would come at the end of each term, and at Thanksgiving and Easter only a day or two vacation would be allowed. There would then be no break in the work at the end of January, different arrangements would have to be made for Junior Week, and in all probability the southern trip of the baseball team would have to be abandoned or greatly curtailed."

The following illustrative schedule is given for the year 1908-'09:

- Sept. 1—Instruction for first term begins.
- Nov. . . .—Two days for Thanksgiving.
- Dec. 23—First term closes.
- Jan. 26—Second term begins.
- Feb. 22—Washington's Birthday.
- June 1—Commencement.

Continuing, the editorial says that the colleges on the Pacific Coast have adopted a system very much like that proposed for Cornell, and gives the following examples:

California opened on August 21 this year; three days were allowed at Thanksgiving, and the first term ended on December 20. Twenty-six days were allowed for a Christmas vacation, and the second term did not start until January 15. Commencement was on May 15.

Leland Stanford began instruction on August 30, eleven days were allowed at Thanksgiving, and the first term ended December 19. Twenty-one days were allowed for a Christmas recess. The second term started on January 9, eight days were given for a holiday at Easter, and May 2 was Commencement at Palo Alto.

In the East Yale opened this last year on September 27, allowed two days for Thanksgiving, closed down and ended its first term on December 19. Three weeks were allowed for Christmas vacation, and the second term opened on January 9. Eight days were given at Easter for a recess, and Commencement will not be held until June 6. This means that the first term is shorter than the second, and that they have a system similar to California and Leland Stanford, only it is shifted along a month later.

Romeyn Berry, '04, of New York city, has been chosen a member of the graduate advisory committee of the Intercollegiate Association for the Advancement of Amateur Athletics, as the representative of Cornell.

FORDHAM BEATEN AGAIN.

Score, 7 to 6—Nine Wins an Easy Victory over Amherst.

Amherst was an easy victim for the nine on Saturday. McClure, who pitched for the New Englanders, gave eleven hits, and these, with the visitors' errors, enabled Cornell to get sixteen runs. Amherst scored three. Lovejoy pitched his last game for Cornell. He will graduate this year, and it is Coach Coogan's intention to employ Deshon in the remaining games of the season. For seven innings Amherst obtained no runs and but three scattered hits. In the eighth Michaels, the first man at bat, landed on the ball for three bases and came home on Caughey's slow grounder to Reiber. The visitors obtained two more runs in the ninth. Beach singled and scored on McClure's three-bagger, and McClure slid across the plate before Henry's fly was returned from left field.

The 'varsity nine won its second victory of the season over Fordham College at Percy Field last Wednesday, but it did not have so easy a time as in the former game. The final score was 7 to 6, and the game was not won until the latter half of the ninth inning. Deshon was in the box, and he gave Fordham six hits in seven innings. Gable took his place in the eighth and the visitors got no more hits. Cornell's work in the field was loose. A series of five errors in the third inning allowed the visitors to make four runs. Seven men went to bat in Cornell's half of the third inning, but only one run resulted, as Hastings was unable to get a hit with the bases full. In the fourth, however, as a result of Reiber being hit by a pitched ball, Deshon's single, and a wild throw over first, three runs came in, tying the score. In the fifth Brown brought in another run as a result of errors, and in the sixth Deshon scored after a hit, a steal to third and a squeeze play. With the score 6 to 4 in Cornell's favor at the beginning of the seventh inning, Fordham got two more runs as a result of Ebeling's failure to stop Mahoney's liner over first. Brown secured the winning run in the ninth. He reached first on Mahoney's error, stole second and came home on Bigelow's long hit down the third base line.

JUNIOR EIGHT BEATEN.

Finishes Second to Yale in the Schuylkill Regatta.

The second 'varsity eight failed to win the race for junior crews in the Schuylkill regatta at Philadelphia last Saturday, being beaten by Yale's second crew in a hotly contested race. Pennsylvania was third and Georgetown fourth. The Yale crew's victory was all the more creditable to it because it had just rowed another race in which it defeated the Harvard and Pennsylvania freshmen. Cornell's defeat is especially disappointing because the second crew has been beating the first 'varsity combination in practice. The race was a close one, Cornell losing by only a third of a length. Yale's time for the course, one mile and 550 yards, as officially given out, was 6 minutes 36 seconds, two seconds slower than the record for the course, made by a Cornell junior eight two years ago.

The Yale crew got the best start, and led the other eights over the course. Cornell fought gamely, and gradually cut down the lead. At the finish the boats were overlapped, but the Blue was a third of a length to the good.

The Cornell crew was made up as follows:

Bow, T. W. B. Welsh, '08, Montclair, N. J.; 2, E. I. Bayer, '09, Toledo, O.; 3, E. L. D. Seymour, '09, New York city; 4, R. E. Coulson, '09, Buffalo; 5, H. C. Hanson, '09, Dillon, Mont.; 6, H. A. Patten, '07, Cheyenne, Wyo.; 7, J. H. Bromley, '08; Plattsburg; stroke, J. W. Holt, '08, Cleveland, O.; coxswain, C. L. Mulligan, '07, Brooklyn; substitutes, S. S. Bullen, '09, Ausable Forks, and P. Z. Horton, '09, Peoria, Ill.

C. E. Retains Barr Cup.

The second annual intercollegiate race for the cup given by John H. Barr, '89, was rowed over the quarter mile course from the Buffalo street bridge to the boathouse last Friday afternoon and was won by the College of Civil Engineering for the second time. The final heat of the race was between the civil engineers and the architects, and the architects were put out of the contest by the breaking of No. 7's oar near the finish. In the preliminary heats the civil engineers had beaten the College of Agriculture and the architects had beaten Sibley. The architects had a good crew and were rowing on even terms with the civil engineers when the accident happened. Several canoe races and tilting contests preceded the intercollegiate race.

Arts Men Win on Track.

The first annual intercollegiate track meet was held at Percy Field on Thursday and was won by the College of Art and Sciences with a score of 36 points. The College of Agriculture was second with 26 points, and the rest of the colleges finished as follows: Civil Engineering, 23; Mechanical Engineering, 18; Law, 11; Veterinary, 3. As a reward for its victory the College of Arts and Sciences will hold for one year what is known as the Faculty trophy, a statuette presented by members of the Faculty. About a hundred men competed in the various events.

Freshmen Beaten by Penn '10.

The freshman baseball team was defeated by the University of Pennsylvania freshmen on Franklin Field last Saturday by a score of 15 to 4. Chapman, the Pennsylvania pitcher, struck out eleven men and allowed but five hits. Cornell made ten errors in the field.

On the previous day the freshmen had met the Mercersburg nine at Mercersburg. This game was called in the seventh inning on account of rain, at which time the score stood 3 to 3.

Association Football.

At a meeting of representatives of Harvard, Columbia, Yale, Pennsylvania, Haverford and Cornell, held in New York last Saturday, A. J. J. van der Does de Bye, Cornell, '07, of The Hague, was elected president of the Association Football League. The schedule for next year was arranged, and it was decided that the All America vs. All England game should be played in New York in the middle of October. A letter was read stating that an Oxford-Cambridge team would be sent from England in the fall which would play Yale, Harvard and Cornell some time in October.

The Barnes Shakespeare prize has been awarded to Miss Alice Welles Benham, '09, of McLean.

LACROSSE CHAMPIONSHIP WON.

Team Defeats Hobart in the Final Game of the Season.

The 'varsity lacrosse team on Saturday won the championship of the northern district of the intercollegiate league by defeating Hobart at Geneva by a score of 2 to 1. The Cornell team thus finishes its season with a clean record of seven victories.

During the first half Hobart played the better game, keeping the ball almost all the time in Cornell's territory, but it was not until after fifteen minutes of play that Hobart was able to get the ball into the net. The goal was protested, however, and the protest was allowed by the referee. Five minutes afterward Hobart scored and the half ended 1 to 0 in favor of the home team. The Hobart team continued its brilliant play in the second half, but soon began to weaken. After fifteen minutes Main threw a difficult goal from the side, and the second score was made by Darling with an underhand stroke from in front of the goal. It was endurance and strength that enabled Cornell to win. The game was clean throughout, but one foul being called and nobody being removed for rough play.

After the game H. A. Lucker, '08, of Brooklyn, who has been playing third attack during the season, was elected captain for next year. The outlook for a good team next year is promising, because few men will be lost by graduation and there are several likely freshmen who have been working faithfully throughout the year.

Gov. Hagerman's Resignation.

The resignation on April 18 by Herbert J. Hagerman, '94, of the office of Governor of New Mexico has been followed by protests from independent newspapers and citizens of the Territory.

The Washington dispatches intimated that he had been virtually removed from office by President Roosevelt, although it was said that the President had, in accepting his resignation, given him "a clean bill of health." George Curry, a former "Rough Rider", was at once appointed Governor in his place. The incident which was said to have led to Governor Hagerman's resignation was a transaction by which a corporation known as the Pennsylvania Development Company acquired title to several thousand acres of territorial land. Some of the New Mexican newspapers, however, say that the reason the President was persuaded to ask for his resignation was that he had offended the Republican organization in the Territory by his independence of machine control.

The Pittsburg Leader on April 20 published an interview with R. W. Hadden, who was said to be a mining engineer of Albuquerque, N. M., then in Pittsburg on business. He was quoted as saying that Hagerman was the victim of a political ring in New Mexico, and that the land-grabbing transaction was put through while Hagerman's predecessor was in office. Part of the interview was as follows:

"Hagerman, by his open and frank conduct, has acquired the enmity of the politicians, and Representatives Holt and Beach in the legislature have been spending a great amount of time in devising ways to injure the standing and good name of the governor. Albuquerque sent 100 men to Santa Fe during the session of the legislature just past to protest against the action of the legislature and to attempt to have legislation in favor of Bernalillo county. One of the bills of the reformers was to have the county officials placed on a salary basis. So open were the demonstrations for Governor Hagerman that they have never been equaled in the history of New Mexico.

"Hagerman has been in office for a year. Prior to his appointment he was an attaché to the United States embassy in St. Petersburg. When he was appointed the gang in New Mexico did not know what sort of man they were getting. He has attempted to do much good work since he has been in office and one of the results of his efforts was to have a bill passed letting the public printing on bids. That this was a good measure is shown by the difference in cost. The printing that cost $1,800 last year has been done this year for $600. So confident are the people in Hagerman's sincere intentions that I would not be surprised to see him sent to Washington as territorial delegate."

The Albuquerque Journal, Republican, was quoted in the New York Sun as follows:

"At first a majority of the people refused to believe the removal of Hagerman possible, but when further reports established the truth of the statement that Hagerman had actually been removed at the instance of the Andrews gang, the amazement gave way to execration, and the President was roundly denounced as an arch enemy of New Mexico and a political schemer no better than Andrews or Llewellyn.

"But all that does Mr. Roosevelt great wrong. It has to be admitted that the removal of Mr. Hagerman is an outrage not only upon the people of New Mexico but upon the cause of good government and public decency, and the President is technically responsible for it, but it must be remembered that he has been deceived.

"The people knew Mr. Hagerman had discharged his duty in an upright and honorable manner, and believing that Mr. Roosevelt knew this also they had confidence enough in his respect for the square deal to believe that it was not necessary for them to say a word or raise a finger in the Governor's defense, and that is where they made a mistake. They should have remembered that the devil can sometimes deceive even the elect, and should have come to the Governor's assistance.

"The principle thing that the President is to blame for is in listening to charges against a respectable public official coming from such a source."

A dispatch to a news agency from Roswell, N. M., on April 28, said that a mass meeting had been held there to protest against the acceptance of the resignation of Governor Hagerman. The meeting was addressed by the ministers and professional men of the city and resolutions were passed asking the President to suspend action on the resignation until a thorough investigation could be made and he had heard the Governor's side of the case.

OBITUARY.

JAMES W. DUNWELL, '73.

James W. Dunwell, justice of the New York State Supreme Court, died at his home in Lyons, N. Y., on May 22. Mr. Dunwell was a member of the class of '73 in Cornell, but did not complete his course. The cause of his death was heart disease. He had suffered from this malady for several years, but his death was not expected.

Mr. Dunwell was born at Newark, N. Y., in 1849. His preparatory education was obtained in the Lyons Union School. He entered Cornell in the fall of 1869, taking what was then known as the course of philosophy. He remained in the University for a little over two years and then returned to Lyons and began the study of law. He was admitted to the bar in 1873, and for two years practiced in partnership with Colonel John Welling in Lyons. From the first he showed unusual ability as a trial lawyer. In 1877 he became the partner of the late John H. Camp, of Lyons, at one time Member of Congress. The firm enjoyed a large general practice, as well as the clientage of the New York Central Railroad and municipal and other corporations. The partnership continued for fifteen years, until the death of Mr. Camp in 1892, when Mr. Dunwell succeeded to the business of the firm and also to the place of Republican leader of Wayne county. In 1895 Mr. Dunwell became justice of the Supreme Court, seventh district, for a term of fourteen years. As a judge he enjoyed a high reputation for learning and ability. A widow and one daughter survive him, besides a brother, Congressman Charles T. Dunwell, of Brooklyn.

Two Instructors to Go.

Two of the instructors in physics have accepted appointments elsewhere and will leave the University at the end of the present year. George Robert Olshausen has been appointed associate professor of electrical engineering at the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, and Otis Amsden Gage will become assistant professor of physics in the University of Wisconsin.

REUNION NOTICES.

The Roomy Old Zip-a-la.

The good ship Zip-a-la is rapidly being fitted out for the June cruise. There are quarters and provisions aboard for all '97 men, and enough volunteers have already signed to make navigating the ship perfectly safe (at least for those on board).

Ten-year reunions have not been so well attended but that '97 can and will break all records. Your committee knows now of dozens who are coming back. Are you sure it is thoroughly understood that you are to be on hand?

Notices with return postal cards were sent out to each man in the class, to the best address obtainable. If you did not receive one it goes to show that we haven't your present address.

Ninety-seven has never yet failed to show it was one of the best classes ever (we will put it thus modestly). To make good in June we must show the biggest ten-year crowd that ever came back.

Many of the class have sent back their postals marked "surely coming." A lot more say "probably," and only a small proportion thus far say "not," and their postals are positively profane.

Send in your postal. If you didn't receive one write the undersigned.

Happy Smiles.

ITHACA, N. Y.

With its usual foresight, 1902 has sent an advance agent to the spot—ITHACA!

You should see the lake! And the grass (you city fellows). Never was grass so green. Every bit of rain has rained and now nothing but blue sky and green grass till June 14—and then happy smiles.

Happy Smiles—yes, that is the real costume of the elect and the moral of this tale is that every 1902 man can elect himself. Climb aboard that Chicago Special and coast down the hill on the old Lehigh Valley, or you New Yorkers drop that stock ticker or the musty law books, and see the old town again from the switchback.

That will make your blood tingle, so off you go, and what a time! Up the hill we go with our peerless "Doug" Brown to the fore, singing the class slogan, for you know we have imported a new class slogan for the occasion.

What! You're all coming? Well, there's no need of saying any more.

THE ADVANCE AGENT.

1904 Bulletin XXII.

On your marks, gentlemen! No crowding or unseemly haste, but in a quiet, dignified manner, you should be getting extremely ready.

In Chicago, the Freddy Humphrey Special, a gleam with purple and gold, stands snorting on a siding, waiting for the word. In Hoboken, the Cornell Cannon Ball is being petted and rubbed down hourly by a small army of retainers. Prairie schooners are being fitted out in Goldfield—tramping parities being organized in less remote towns. First thing you know the center of population will be lifted bodily from that place in Indiana where it resided when we went to school. It's going to wake up in Tompkins county with about a million scouts sitting on its chest.

In a few days the confidential letters will reach you and then you'll know the worst. You'll never know the best unless you come—unless you get into a soft shirt and a nice dirty pair of flannel jeans and turn yourself out to pasture with the other colts. That's a precious thought—colts! Pasture! I'm going back and shake myself and roll and kick and run around loose like a darn fool and get sunburned and tired and then loaf where the loafing's good. How about it? Certainly.

P. S.—The W. W. has gone to Richfield Springs to put finishing touches to its training with light road work and shadow boxing. Trainer Patterson says it's down to weight and hard as nails.

Bigger Playgrounds Wanted.

It is becoming more and more evident every year that one of the greatest needs of our big universities is more space for playgrounds. Cornell University, thoroughly alive to the situation, is setting the college world an example in this respect which could be followed with great profit elsewhere. The plans for Cornell's great athletic field now in course of construction call for not only a magnificent stadium where all the athletic contests with other universities can be held, but for many acres of ground to be utilized by the minor teams and by the students who are not candidates for any team. In this respect a university in the country or in a small town has a tremendous advantage over one located in a large city where the value of real estate is so high that the students are compelled to accept limited quarters. The University of Pennsylvania, Columbia and Harvard are all in a sorry plight in this respect. Their athletic fields must be utilized also for the college playground, thus entailing hardships on both sides. Cornell's good fortune, if not already evident, soon will be. Any university which can supply its student body with enough ground that every undergraduate can train to his heart's content without being ordered off the field to make room for the regular teams is taking the right course to develop athletes who will enjoy their work and be a credit to the university they represent. One good athlete developed in the open air is worth two graduated from a stuffy gymnasium.

An example of the benefits of open-air training may be seen in the work of the various squads at Yale University. Almost any day in winter one sees the candidates, thirty or forty, in a bunch, running out into the country or around the city clad only in running pants and perhaps a sweater. Free from experiencing ill effects they are strengthened and toughened.—Recreation.

OUR JUNE MEETING.

An effort will probably be made to hold a business meeting of alumni in Ithaca on Friday, June 14 next, one of the reunion days. There are several matters that might well be talked over at that time, even though they have to be brought up again at the regular yearly assembly of the Associate Alumni on Wednesday, June 19. The attendance at the Wednesday meeting this year is likely to be small, because the class reunions occur four days earlier; and it would be a pity for a large number of graduates to pass two days together in Ithaca without giving a serious hour or two to considering the state of the University.

In its report printed in this paper two weeks ago the Alumni General Committee suggested a few things which need to be considered if the Associate Alumni organization is to be made worth what it should be to Cornell. It is proposed that an effort be made to provide an income for the association by giving the treasurer a salary and making it worth his while to try to collect the dues of one dollar a year from members. It is doubtful if the effort would ever be profitable. The money and energy required to collect five thousand dollars in dues from five thousand persons would be more sensibly used if devoted to getting as much as possible in gifts from five times as many persons. The dues of the Associate Alumni are not properly dues at all, since there is no penalty for non-payment. The dollar, when paid, is a gift. And the association, in asking for this gift, must restrict itself to actual graduates, ignoring the twenty thousand Cornellians who do not hold degrees but who are no less loyal. The "dollar dues" might well be abandoned in favor of a system of voluntary contribution. Other universities whose graduates have been organized fewer years than have ours are now enjoying a steady and considerable income from this source. It is not to be supposed that the men and women who have left Cornell are any less eager to give their alma mater active support than are the former students of other institutions. The one thing which has stood in the way of making their loyalty effective is our lack of system. In the past our money has gone mostly for things which might be tagged with the word "alumni." Now the University needs a more direct coöperation. It is far more important that graduates should take thought how Cornell's endowment is to be increased than that they should debate over the plans for an alumni hall. There is less need of such a hall than of a new gymnasium, for instance.

The loyalty of our alumni is a mine which has never been properly worked. Our first duty, of course, is to finish the new athletic field. It ought not to be a hard matter to persuade graduates that money contributed by them for University purposes should be devoted first of all to that object, and that not until that is accomplished shall we be in a position to give the University the general support which it needs from us.

One matter, by no means unimportant, which needs thought is what is to become of the Wednesday meeting of the Associate Alumni. The law of the State of New York provides that the annual meeting of the association shall be held on that day. Now that we are asking the members of the association to come back for their class reunions nearly a week earlier, that meeting is in danger of being left high and dry—drier, indeed, than ever before. If the new arrangement divorcing the alumni days from Commencement week proves to be a success, and if it seems desirable to change the date of the yearly business meeting, the statute will have to be amended.

One fault in our organization which has been pointed out by the general committee is its lack of continuity. A different set of graduates returns to Ithaca for the class reunions every year, and most of them know nothing of the subjects which have been discussed at the meeting of the year before. We have just now a unique opportunity to avoid this difficulty. Next year there will be a general reunion of all classes, probably with a very large and enthusiastic attendance. Many of those who will be in Ithaca next month will probably return next year. An effort should be made now to interest them in the matters which need attention. This year and next is the time to do things.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel D. McConnell, rector of All Souls' Church, of New York city, was the University preacher last Sunday.

The freshmen will burn their caps on Thursday evening of this week.

Summer Session opens.

Aleph Samach has elected the following sophomores:

James Vandever Colpitts, Mount Pleasant, Del.; Charles Martin French, Housatonic, Mass.; Robert Hargreaves, Detroit, Mich.; Lewis Henry, Elmira, N. Y.; George Hendrick Higgins, Cortland, N. Y.; James Herbert Jamieson, Evanston, Ill.; John Chamberlain Talcott, Buffalo, N. Y.; Elmer Ives Thompson, Waterbury, Conn.; George Henry Walder, North Tonawanda, N. Y.; Carl Hawley Watson, East Orange, N. J.; Randolph Woodruff Weed, jr., Brooklyn, N. Y.

A team representing the Cornell Congress met the Bowdoin College team in debate at Brunswick, Me., last week. Bowdoin won.

Dr. Louis L. Seaman, '72, lectured before the University on Monday evening on "Some of the Curses of Colonization."

Professor W. T. Hewett sailed for Europe a few days ago. He intends to spend the summer abroad.

Ithaca devoted three days last week to a general cleaning up of the city.

Dawson, '07, Wins '86 Prize.

The contest for the '86 Memorial Prize in declamation was held in the Armory last Friday evening, and the prize was won by Horace Lathrop Dawson, '07, of Evanston, Ill. Harry William Droge, '07, of Brooklyn, received honorable mention. The subject of Dawson's address was "The Mission of Thomas Hood." The judges were Jervis Langdon, '97, of Elmira; Clinton T. Horton, '98, of Buffalo, and Professor W. H. Ottman, '97, of the Penn Charter School, Philadelphia. There were twelve contestants. The prize is the income of a sum of money left as a memorial by the class of 1886, amounting to $86 annually.

President to See Regatta.

The New York Sun says that President Roosevelt will see the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson on June 26. It will be the first occasion on which he has seen this regatta since he became President. The presence of the Annapolis crew in the race is what interests him. It is reported that he will follow the race in a yacht which is now building at Poughkeepsie and which will be used as a boat for the referee.

1907's Memorial.

At a meeting of the senior class on Monday evening it was voted to place in Sage Chapel a memorial window to the students who lost their lives in the burning of the Chi Psi chapter house last December. It is expected that this will cost less than half the sum to be raised by the class, and it was voted to devote the remainder to fitting up a grill room in Barnes hall. The class tax was fixed at five dollars.

Governor Hughes has appointed Edward Sandford, of New York, to succeed the late Dean Huffcut as his legal adviser.

Hobart College has received a gift of $20,000 for a new gymnasium. The name of the giver is not announced.

The Cosmopolitan Club will hold its boat ride to Sheldrake on June 1.

“There's a lot of things you never learn at at School.
 There's an awful lot of knowledge you never learn at College.
 There's a lot of things that never go by Rule.”
 However, they do learn at Cornell that TODD'S is the Pharmacy at Ithaca.
