CORNELL ALUMNI NEWS

Vol. XXII, No. 35

Ithaca, N. Y., June 5, 1919

Price 12 Cents

THE annual inspection of the entire R. O. T. C. was made last Wednesday and Thursday, May 28 and 29, by Lieutenant Colonel S. J. Bayard Schindel of the General Staff, U. S. A. The first day was devoted to drills, ceremonies, and formalities. The reviewing officer was accompanied in the inspection by Lieut. Col. Barton, commandant, by Lieut. Col. Christian, commanding the artillery, and by President Schurman. On the second day the troops, operating between Forest Home and Varna, worked out a field problem in advance guard and outpost duties. There was no firing. Col. Schindel expressed himself as well satisfied with the manoeuvres, with the appearance of the corps, and with the spirit prevalent through all the branches. The artillery unit at Cornell is the largest in the country; and here alone are all divisions of the corps fully organized and officered. This regular inspection brings to an end the military work of the college year. Uniforms are being turned in this week to the quartermaster, to be reissued in the autumn.

THE UNIVERSITY MARKSMANSHIP Medal for the highest score on the out-door range is awarded to Clifford V. K. Barker '22, of Staatsburg, N. Y.; and President Schurman's Medal for general excellence in drill to Henry T. Stiles '22, of Warren, Ohio.

THE SAGE CHAPEL' PREACHER for next Sunday is the Rev. Rockwell H. Potter, of the Center Congregational Church, Hartford, Conn. In the afternoon, in place of the vesper service, will be held commemorative exercises in honor of the Cornell men who lost their lives in the war.

THE CORNELL DRAMATIC CLUB has elected officers for the coming year. The president is Norman T. Newton '19, Agriculture, of Brooklyn; the vice-president, Charlotte C. Tuttle '20, Architecture, of Wilmette, Ill.; the secretary, Henry F. Roane '21, Agriculture, of New York City. Several new members, both active and associate, have recently brought the total membership up to forty. Plans are already well under way for the season of 1919-20. It is expected that a group of one-act plays will be given each month in Ithaca, and that short trips will be made from time to time to neighboring towns.

GRADUATES OF SIBLEY COLLEGE who received their degrees in December, 1918, have the privilege of taking part in the Commencement exercises of the class of 1919 on June 23. These men gave up their summer vacation last year in order to graduate six months ahead of the regular time and have the extra half-year for war service. Some of them have expressed a wish to return and take part in the 1919 Commencement, and they have been assured that they have a perfect right to do so, and to march with their classmates in the academic procession.

THE WOMEN'S DRAMATIC CLUB last Friday evening gave two one-act plays in the court of Prudence Risley Hall. The plays were "The Dryad," by Mary Macmillan, and "The Shoes that Dance," by Anna Hempstead Branch, both appropriate to out-door presentation and both well done. Between the plays there was some artistic dancing by Jane Besmer and Wilmina Barton, children of the Campus School. These performances mark the close of a period of active work in amateur dramatics which, during the second and third terms, has been gratifying successful, and in which both the men and the women of the University have shared the honors.

PATROLMAN O. HOWARD MENZIE has been removed by Mayor Davis from the Ithaca police force. Charges of neglect of duty and of violation of departmental regulations were preferred against the officer early in the year and a hearing before the mayor was held in April. Now comes the mayor's decision that the charges have been sustained. On the force for more than thirty years, Menzie was well known to a long line of students, with some of whom the acquaintance was close and official. He declares that he will take the case into the courts for settlement.

THE C. U. C. A. IS TRYING to interest undergraduates in the student conference to be held at Northfield, Mass., during the last ten days of June. A meeting last week was addressed by R. H. Edwards, of the Y. M. C. A. department of activities, and Chrystal Brown, chief song leader at Army camps in the Eastern Division. It is hoped that the Cornell delegation to Northfield may be large.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL O. M. LELAND, professor of astronomy and geodesy in the College of Civil Engineering, reached Boston last week with the 314th Engineers. After several months of service in this country, Professor Leland went to France in May, 1918, and was with the 303d Engineers at Arras, Toul, St. Mihiel, and the Argonne until November. Since the armistice he has been stationed in Germany, directing a technical school for engineers near Coblenz. After his discharge he will return to the duties of his professorship.

VIOLATION OF TRAFFIC regulations has recently led to the arrest of several students in the University by Ithaca policemen. One of these, summoned to City Court last week for driving on the left side of the street, was released after making the defense that the young woman who was driving his car had but lately come to this country from England and was therefore unfamiliar with the American rule to keep to the right. Several students have been fined for speeding.

THE EDITORS of The Widow will continue in their present positions for another year. The editor-in-chief is William C. Murray '21, of Dunkirk, N. Y.; the business manager, Joseph E. Smith '20, of Durham, N. C.; and the art editor, Boyd T. Hill '20, of Freeport, Ill.

ITHACA WILL SPEND on paving during the spring and summer more than $100,000. Work is progressing rapidly on Aurora Street, the contractors promising completion by the time of the Semi-Centennial. Improvements will be made in several streets on East Hill, to the great convenience of the University community.

THE ITHACA BOARD OF HEALTH has selected a lot adjacent to that on which the City Hospital stands as a site for the new contagious hospital. As soon as the Common Council approves, the lot will be bought by the city, funds having already been appropriated. Plans for the building are in an advanced stage of preparation.

SENIOR SINGING was begun in Goldwin Smith Hall last Sunday evening under the direction of Neil M. Willard of Buffalo.

Salaries and Tuition Raised

Board of Trustees Votes 25-33 per cent Increase to Majority of Teaching Staff---Instruction Fee $200---Engineering Colleges Consolidated

The University Board of Trustees last Saturday voted an increase in the scale of salaries of most of the teaching staff, and increased the tuition fee from $150 to $200 a year to provide some of the increase of income needed to pay the higher salaries.

All instructors, all assistant professors, and some professors will benefit by the general raise in the scale, which will add twenty to thirty-three per cent to their salaries. The more highly paid professors are not affected by the general scaling up of salaries, but the Board instructed the Budget Committee to investigate the possibility of raising not only the minimum but the normal pay of the professor's grade.

The new tuition rate of $200 will take effect next fall. This increase was not unexpected, for the University's General Circular of Information for several years has contained the warning that the tuition fee might be raised at any time without warning.

List of Promotions

The following assistant professors were promoted to the grade of professor: F. C. Prescott, professor of English; C. S. Northup, professor of English; Ernest Blaker, professor of physics; O. G. Guerlac, professor of the Romance languages and literatures; E. W. Schoder, professor of experimental hydraulics; H. D. Reed, professor of zoology; F. J. Seery, professor of civil engineering; W. M. Sawdon, professor of experimental engineering; J. Q. Adams, jr., professor of English; F. R. Sharpe, professor of mathematics; G. B. Upton, professor of experimental engineering; E. P. Andrews, professor of archaeology; R. H. Keniston, professor of the Romance languages and literatures.

The Board approved a plan for the development and reorganization of engineering education at Cornell by establishing a College of Engineering, in which the two existing colleges, Sibley and Civil Engineering, will be combined. The consolidation will take effect in the fall of 1920 for the freshman class and in 1921 for all other classes. The details of the plan have not yet been worked out.

Professor George L. Burr was elected to the new Stambaugh professorship of history, recently founded by John Stambaugh '84, of Youngstown, Ohio, who endowed the chair with $100,000. The Trustees adopted a resolution expressing to Mr. Stambaugh "their sincere gratitude for his splendid benefaction and their deep appreciation not only of the largeness of Mr. Stambaugh's generosity, but also of the timeliness of the assistance he renders his Alma Mater, and the transcendent importance to the University of the endowment of professorial chairs, to which he—the first of all Cornell graduates or former students—has dedicated his epoch-making gift."

A communication was received from the Secretary of the Medical College Council, enclosing a letter from Payne Whitney to Dr. Conner, in which Mr. Whitney offered to give $30,000 to the Medical College to make up a deficit anticipated next year in consequence of the non-payment of interest on the International Traction bonds, a part of the Medical College endowment. The gift was accepted with the thanks of the Trustees and an expression of their appreciation of Mr. Whitney's generous helpfulness toward the Medical College in the present emergency. Mr. Whitney is a nephew of the late Col. Oliver H. Payne, who founded and endowed the college.

Fund to Aid Students

Announcement was made by the President that John Knickerbacker '87, of Troy, N. Y., had given the University $25,000 as an endowment to be known as the John Knickerbacker Fund, the income of which is to be used to provide financial aid to students. Those who receive this benefit must have good minds, healthy and strong bodies, good moral character, sound moral opinions and beliefs, be earnest and persevering workers, and come from parents known to be or have been good citizens and both born in the United States. Such a student may obtain not more than $500 a year from the income to take or complete his undergraduate college course, and he is required to repay only half the sum he obtains, within seven years after his graduation, with interest at three per cent to begin two years after graduation. The other half will be a gift to the student. The sums repaid will be added to the principal of the fund.

In accepting Mr. Knickerbacker's gift, the Board adopted a resolution of thanks, and appointed the President of the University and Mr. Knickerbacker a committee to administer the fund.

The Board accepted the resignation of Emmons L. Williams, Comptroller of the University, who will retire on June 30 next, and elected him to membership in the Board to fill the vacancy left by the death of ex-President Andrew D. White. Resolutions were adopted recognizing the unusual importance of the services rendered to the University by Mr. Williams as treasurer and comptroller throughout a long term of years.

Professor Ernest Merritt was appointed head of the Department of Physics to succeed Professor E. L. Nichols, who retires from active teaching on September 15 next. The Trustees adopted a resolution expressing their appreciation of Professor Nichols's attainments as a scholar and of the value of his work as a teacher.

Dr. Alfred H. Sweet was reappointed acting assistant professor of English history for next year.

Promotions to professorships and assistant professorships in the College of Agriculture were made as follows: J. K. Wilson, professor of soil technology; B. D. Wilson, assistant professor of soil technology; K. J. Seulke, professor of animal husbandry; E. V. Hardenburg and R. G. Wiggins, assistant professors of farm crops; Miss A. J. Warner, Miss B. E. Hazard, Miss C. Nye, and Miss N. H. McNeal, assistant professors of home economics; Miss L. Graves, professor of home economics; B. B. Robb, professor of rural engineering; J. L. Strahan, assistant professor of rural engineering; A. C. Fraser and F. P. Bussell, assistant professors of plant breeding; P. W. Claassen, assistant professor of entomology.

Trustees Present

Members present at the Board meeting were President Schurman, Charles S. Wilson, Commissioner of Agriculture, Albany; E. T. Turner, librarian of the Cornell Library, Ithaca; Charles E. Cornell, Charles H. Blood, C. Sidney Shepard, New Haven, N. Y.; Henry W. Sackett and Ira A. Place, New York;

George J. Tansey, St. Louis; Henry R. Ickelheimer, New York; Henry J. Patten, Chicago; Horace White, Syracuse; Walter P. Cooke, Buffalo; Frank H. Hiscock, Syracuse; Herbert D. Mason, Tulsa, Oklahoma; James H. Edwards, New York; Frank H. Miller, New York; Jared T. Newman, Mynderse Van Cleef, Robert H. Treman; John C. Westervelt, New York; Mrs. Harriet T. Moody, Chicago; H. H. Westinghouse, New York; Charles E. Treman, Roger B. Williams; John L. Senior, Jackson, Mich.; Cuthbert W. Pound, Lockport; J. Du Pratt White, New York; and William F. Pratt, Batavia. The three Faculty representatives, Professors W. F. Wilcox, D. S. Kimball, and J. H. Comstock, were also present.

Leaves of Absence

A meeting of the Committee on General Administration was held just before the Board meeting. Sabbatic leaves of absence for all of next year were granted to Professors George L. Burr, F. O. Ellenwood, and F. K. Richtmyer. Leave for the second half of the year was granted to Professor Herman Diederichs. The President reported the detail at the University by the War Department of Major Donald J. MacLachlan, Infantry, and Captain Thomas H. Ramsey, Infantry.

LAW QUARTERLY RESUMES

When the last number of volume iii of The Cornell Law Quarterly appeared in May of last year it was decided to discontinue publication temporarily because of war conditions. When a normal law school year was started on December 30 and a number of student editors had returned, it was decided that publication should be resumed. The current volume will be composed of two double issues, the first of which has recently appeared. The second will be an unusually interesting number, partaking somewhat of the spirit of the Semi-Centennial Celebration, and affording an historical review of the Law School, with articles by some of its distinguished former members. The board has recently announced the election of the following editors: Charles F. Reavis, jr., '19, of Washington, D. C.; Arthur L. Sherry '19, of Hartford, Connecticut; Dorothea Koch '20, of New Dorp, New York; Jacob Meadow '20, of Paterson, New Jersey; William B. Daley '20, of Chatham, New York; and Lansing S. Hoskins '20, of Seneca Falls, New York.

ARMY AND NAVY

Russ '05 Cited

Major George H. Russ, jr., '05, who was a special student in the Law School from 1901 to 1903, was cited on April 29 in General Orders No. 23 from Headquarters, 88th Division. The citation, signed by Major General William Weizel, was a divisional citation for certain officers and enlisted men "for acts of heroism performed in operations with the 88th Division and with other American divisions."

Russ's citation follows:

"On the morning of November 2d, 1918, in C. R. of Badricourt, Alsace, Major George H. Russ, jr., commanding the 2d Battalion, 352d Infantry, was in the act of returning from a tour of inspection of Observation Posts located near the front line, when hostile artillery (150's) opened shrapnel fire on the line of redoubts. A supply wagon and water cart were caught in this fire. The spokes were shot out of the wheels of the supply wagon, and large pieces of shrapnel struck the water cart. On seeing a third wagon about to enter the zone of fire, the officer, without regard to his personal safety, passed through the zone and ordered this wagon back to the Battalion P. C. After a few minutes' observation of the character of the fire, this officer saw that it was creeping toward an outpost consisting of a squad in position in a shallow trench, and that they would soon be directly in line of the fire. Here again, with great coolness and fortitude, he passed back through the zone under fire and ordered the squad forward out of danger, setting an example of bravery which inspired his command."

Cornell and the W. C. C. S.

Cornell men played a big part in this country's war activities in Tidewater Virginia, which has been the hub of the wheel of endeavor in many lines. Much of the work is still continuing. Horace L. Jones, Ph.D. '09, of the Department of Greek, has for the past year been the director of the great work of the War Camp Community Service in the Virginia Peninsula. Jones has charge of all of the activities of the W. C. C. S., from Williamsburg to Old Point Comfort, embracing about a score of distinct plants. He has some two hundred men and women under his direction. His line of activities runs all the way from large clubhouses to play grounds. The latest big task undertaken by the W. C. C. S. is the States Welcome Home Movement, which has for its aim to place the returning soldiers in immediate touch with their people or their home towns. A beautiful plant of nine buildings has been erected at Newport News for properly conducting this work.

Another Cornellian of prominence in the Virginia Peninsula is Captain R. C. Dunbar '04. Dunbar was a captain in the Army and after receiving his discharge entered the War Camp Community Service. He designed the street decorations for Newport News and had charge of the erection of the States Welcome Home buildings. Captain Dunbar was assisted in his work by Sidney F. Ross '02.

The court that is inclosed by the States Welcome Home building, has been beautified by the planting of many shrubs and plants. This work was performed under the direction of A. F. Brinekerhoff '02.

One of the notable features of war work in the Peninsula has been the erection of a large village in which are housed the workers at the Newport News Shipbuilding plant. Some three miles out from Newport News on a site which was a few months ago a bleak pine forest there has been erected a most attractive village. It is called Hilton and the entire work was designed and carried out by F. Y. Joannes '00, who was acting for the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Joannes also designed and built three hundred and forty apartments near the shipbuilding plant.

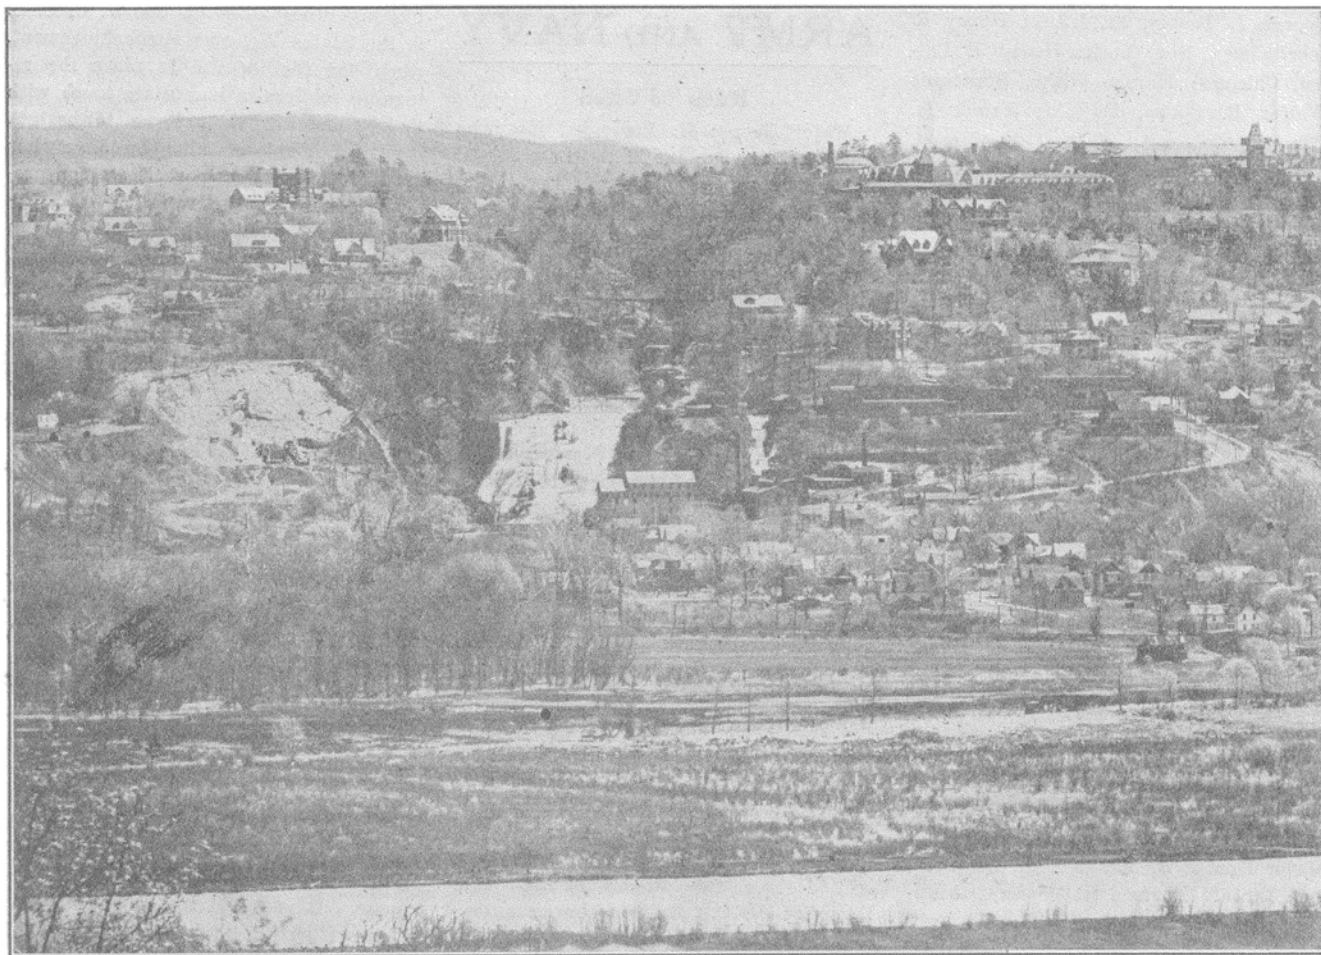

The Cornell men at Newport News had a great time not long ago when they had for guests the Cornell Ambulance Unit. The men from overseas were given a chicken dinner and Captain H. A. Menjou '11 and his men had the best dinner that they had partaken of for six months.

DIED IN THE SERVICE

J. Murray McClellan '18

Second Lieut. John Murray McClellan was killed in action at Vezey on July 19, 1918.

McClellan was born at Norfolk, Va., on August 9, 1897, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. McClellan, of Richmond, Va. Before entering Cornell he attended the Virginia Military Academy, graduating in June, 1916, with the rank of captain. In the fall of that year he entered Sibley College, but left in May, 1917, to enlist in the U. S. Marines. He was commissioned a second lieutenant ant and went overseas with the 1st Replacement Battalion, 5th Regiment, in August, 1917. For several months he served as regimental intelligence officer, entering the trenches on March 12, 1918; from then on he was in continuous active service in Les Espages, Verdun, and Belleau Wood.

Lieutenant McClellan was buried in the American Battle Area Cemetery at Ploisy, Aisne, France.

OBITUARY

John W. Babcock '78

John Wesley Babcock of Dunkirk, N. Y., formerly superintendent of the public schools of that city, and for many years one of the most prominent educators in Western New York, died suddenly at his home on May 6. He had been suffering with a cold for several weeks but his death was entirely unexpected. He and Mrs. Babcock were in the garden when he was suddenly taken with a stroke of apoplexy and died almost instantly.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elvora Monroe Babcock; two children, Maude R. Babcock '94 of Brooklyn and Frederick M. Babcock '04 of Dunkirk; and by two brothers, Charles Wicks of Lakewood and Andrew Wicks of Jamestown, and one sister, Mrs. Lovina Hadley of Missouri.

John W. Babcock was an adopted son of Delos and Huldah Babcock of Ellicott and was born in that town Nov. 26, 1851. He resided in Ellery until the spring of 1857 when he removed with his adopted parents to Levant in the town of Poland where he resided until 1874.

He began his work as an educator by teaching the winter terms of 1867 and 1868 in his own home district school and received his first higher education in the Jamestown Union School and Collegiate Institute, where he graduated in 1870. He had also taught one term of school at Sugargrove, Pa., during the winter of 1869 and '70. He entered Cornell on one of the State scholarships in 1874 and was graduated four years later with the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Mr. Babcock was appointed principal of the Silver Creek Academy in 1878 and remained there until 1880. In the latter year, he came to Dunkirk and became principal of the academy and teacher of languages and mathematics. In the following year he was made superintendent of schools, in which position he served with great distinction and general satisfaction until his resignation in 1899. Under his management the Dunkirk schools became known as among the best in the State.

During the past several years he had a responsible position in the accounting department of the locomotive works. He was a member of Irondequoit Lodge, F. and A. M., Dunkirk Chapter, R. A. M., Dunkirk Council, R. & S. M., and Dunkirk Commandery, Knights Templar.

THE ALUMNI GLEE CLUB

Professor Hollis E. Dann is working vigorously on the concert for Thursday, June 19, when the University Glee Club, assisted by the Alumni Glee Club, will give a good program for those who arrive early for the Semi-Centennial Celebration.

Professor Dann finds that he is handicapped by the faulty addresses he has for former Glee Club men. The Alumni Club is open to all former members of the Glee Club, and Professor Dann wants to hear from any of these who can be present.

A BOAT LOAD OF AUTOS

The Cornell Club of Cleveland is arranging to leave Cleveland for the Reunion on the night of June 18. The majority of the men expect to put their machines on the C. & B. boat and then drive through from Buffalo.

With these plans in view, they have been able to secure a very reasonable excursion rate from the C. & B. officials, provided they can guarantee one hundred men out of Cleveland. This is going to be easy, but they naturally want to have as large a delegation as possible. They therefore make this announcement in the ALUMNI NEWS for the benefit of northern Ohio Cornell men, and add that in case the latter wish to join the Cleveland group, reservations will be made for them upon written application to W. A. Bridgeman, care The Teagle Company, 1125 Oregon Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

FACULTY SALARIES

The University Trustees took a long step ahead at their meeting on Saturday. They had of course been as well aware as others that Cornell salaries were too low, and the fact had long given them grave concern. In the action taken on Saturday they have made a fine beginning in the direction of putting Cornell teachers' salaries where they ought to be. Instructors and assistant professors receive advances of from twenty to thirty-three per cent.

But the Trustees should not stop here and we do not believe they will. Cornell alumni demand that the members of Cornell's Faculty shall be paid, living conditions considered, as well as any other faculty in America; and Cornell alumni are going to back up this demand in a practical and helpful way, by responding to the Trustees' appeal for support.

Only the best is good enough for our students. To obtain and keep the best teachers in America, we must pay adequate salaries and provide adequate facilities for effective teaching.

The minimum salary of a full professor here ought to be, at the very least, $3,500. That is about equivalent to only $1,700 or $1,800 a few years ago. If the Trustees meet with the right sort of response to their request for endowment funds, there is no question about their disposition to make the wisest possible use of such funds.

In short, it is "up to" the alumni. What sort of Faculty do you want?

THE TRACK VICTORY

The ALUMNI NEWS offers its hearty congratulations to the winners of the Intercollegiate Track Championship and to Mr. Moakley on the most remarkable track victory of recent years. It speaks volumes for the grit and persistence of the men, and for the skill and judgment of the trainer. It is always pleasant to score a victory; but a victory under such unusual and unfavorable conditions is doubly gratifying.

1913 OUT

The class of 1913 will be on hand several hundred strong at the Semi-Centennial. Plans are under way in each of the larger cities to hold dinners and smokers to discuss ways and means of getting back and over a hundred have signified their intention of attending.

If you have not done so already, send your card in to George Rockwell, care of The Cambridge Rubber Co., Cambridge, Mass., at once. If you have not received a card, mail him your new address. This must be done immediately in order to complete the necessary arrangements.

PERTH AMBOY DINNER

On May 22 a dinner of Cornellians living in and near Perth Amboy, N. J., was held and an organization was formed of which Malcolm M. McHose '14 was elected chairman and secretary. The purpose of the organization is "to be of some benefit to our Alma Mater by advertising the University to the people in and around Perth Amboy, and to show the principles and morals which were so well taught us." Among those present were Henry W. Fisher '88, William H. Thorkelson '16, Albert M. Hagen '17, M. A. Mosher '16, M. H. Merriss '10, H. D. Shannon '15, Manley S. Inseho '18, Walter Finney '17, John E. Toolan '16, Leo J. Brennan '14, and M. M. McHose. The address of the secretary is in care of L. H. McHose, Inc., Perth Amboy, N. J.

A Cornell Triumph

Track Athletes Win Fifth Consecutive Intercollegiate Championship.

For the fifth successive year the Cornell track team won the Intercollegiate Championship at the annual track and field games of the I. C. A. A. A. held in the Harvard Stadium at Cambridge last Friday and Saturday. The victory gives Cornell four legs on the trophy cup, only one short of the number required for permanent possession. One such cup, brought back in 1915, is already in Cornell's possession, among the most cherished of her athletic trophies.

Cornell's victory this year was in many respects the most remarkable that one of Jack Moakley's teams has yet achieved. The team, contrary to the usual conditions, was not well balanced. It lacked high class entries in the field events; in only one of the five field events did Cornell score, the high jump, which yielded one and a half points.

Cornell won by virtue of the notable performances of her hurdlers, Smith and Watt, who between them captured first and second, for a total of eighteen points, in two events; of Mayer, who won first place in the 440- and 880-yard dashes; and of Dresser, who won first place in the two-mile run, at the same time setting a new Intercollegiate record. These four men piled up 33 points, four more than the total of 29 points scored by Pennsylvania, which finished in second place, and 7½ more points than Michigan, finishing third. Besides the points won by this group, Cornell gained five in the mile run, in which McDermott and O'Leary finished third and fourth, and got a point and a half in the high jump, Ramsey tying with Krogness of Harvard for fourth place.

Cornell won because the men on whom Jack Moakley counted most did better work than they had ever done before; they were trained to the minute, their form was superb, and each displayed a splendid spirit and courage that would not be denied. They made the best of their opportunities. Of course the result is another convincing demonstration of the superiority of Jack Moakley as a judge of men as well as of his skill as a coach. But he himself says that the men who just had to outdo their best efforts in order to bring home another victory met this severe test in a manner beyond praise.

Although Cornell qualified ten men in the trial events, Pennsylvania placed seventeen. The so-called experts ranked the Quakers as favorites, with Michigan second and Cornell third. Outside of the Boston alumni, a few enthusiastic undergraduates, and Jack himself, it was thought that Cornell did not have much of a chance to win the championship, though respect for the invariably fast distance runners sent out from Ithaca year after year led to certain qualifying reservations that the Cornell team might make an unexpected total through its mile and two-mile point winners. It turned out, however, that the distance runs gave Cornell only ten points, and without them the team would have won anyway, though by a narrow margin.

The facts are that Cornell was frankly underestimated, that outside of Ithaca nobody really knew what a superb runner Mayer really is, nor just how fast Smith and Watt were going in the hurdles.

Something has been said too about Cornell's getting the benefit of the "breaks," meaning that luck favored the team. This is based on the failure of Erdman, Princeton's star hurdler, to enter either hurdle event, illness keeping him out of competition, and the fact that Shea, of Pittsburgh, until Saturday Interscholastic champion in the 440, was unable, because of lameness, to start in that event. But even assuming that Erdman could have defeated Smith Saturday, which is very doubtful, because the Princetonian has never made such time as the Cornell hurdler made Saturday, and that Shea might have nosed Mayer out for first place in the 440, the net result would have not added one point to Pennsylvania's total, in fact would have reduced it by one; while Cornell would have lost but five, and still had six and a half points over her nearest rival.

In the semi-finals Friday the team placed Smith and Watt in the high hurdles, Smith, Watt, and Bickford in the low hurdles, Mayer in the 440 and 880, and Shackleton in the 220-yard dash. The latter failed to place in the finals Saturday because the return of an old injury forced him out. This shows that Cornell did not get all the "breaks," a point that is further emphasized by the fact that Dickinson, the best of the two-milers outside of Dresser, suffered an infection of the leg on the way to Boston and could not compete.

From the Cornell point of view the victories in the hurdles and the 440, 880, and two-mile were the brilliant features. Smith captured both hurdle events in very fast time and Watt was close behind him in each. Much credit goes to Watt, who after two years' absence from track athletics, returned to the University in April. He did not start training until mid-April. His eight points helped a good deal to seal the victory.

Mayer ran a fine race in the 440-yard dash, crossing the tape five yards ahead of Terrill, of Princeton, his nearest opponent, in 49 4-5 seconds. An hour later this great runner ran away from a fast field in the 880-yard dash and proved that he is a worthy successor to "Ted" Meredith in the middle distance runs. Gustafson, of Penn, favorite in this event, set the pace and held the lead for about 600 yards. Then Mayer came up out of the ruck and with a splendid burst of speed flew past the Quaker. The latter responded, but Mayer was running at top form. Fast and true he held his hot pace to the end, winning by eight yards from Gustafson. Shaw of Columbia, who defeated Mayer at Philadelphia last year, and won the half-mile championship, finished in third place Saturday.

Dresser won the two-mile run in hollow style, leading his nearest rival, Goodwin of Bowdoin, by 250 yards. The Cornell captain took the lead at the end of the first lap and then began to gradually pull ahead until he opened up a very wide gap between himself and the field. A remarkable feature of Dresser's victory was that without any real competition he broke the Interscholastic record of 9:23 4-5 made by J. S. Hoffmire of Cornell in 1914. Dresser's time was 9 minutes 22 2-5. It is interesting to conjecture what he might have done to the track record had he been pushed. He had not come within twenty seconds of this time this year.

Cornell's milers came up to Moakley's expectations, though they did not do as well as Cornell men usually do in this event. O'Connell of Harvard won this meet by a fine spurt with Crawford, of Lafayette, for the greater part of the distance the pace-maker, second, and McDermott and O'Leary of Cornell third and fourth.

New England alumni, grouped in one section of the stadium, gave the track team splendid support which did much to hearten them in their efforts. The New England alumni also did everything in their power to make the visit of the team a pleasant one and according to the members of the team they certainly succeeded.

Penn Wins at Baseball

The baseball team lost the first of a three-game series with Pennsylvania on Percy Field last Saturday by a score of 5 to 0 in a listless game in which the Quakers thoroughly outplayed the home team. Titzell pitched effectively, holding Cornell to two hits. Olsen allowed Penn but four hits, but he gave seven bases on balls, and received poor support.

Penn scored two runs in the first inning, when Warwick reached first on a bad throw by Spiers. McNichol's hit put him on second. The runners were advanced on a passed ball, and Peters hit to Spiers, who slipped trying to throw to Murphy, scoring Warwick. Then Bohan singled, scoring Peters. Another tally for Penn came in the seventh, when Carmack got to third on sacrifices by Titzell and Bohan after he had been hit by a pitcher ball, and scored on Strauss' single to center.

In the eighth McNichol and Mouradian scored, the first on a hit by Peters and the latter when Estes let a ball go through his legs. Peters was caught at the home sack on the same play. Cornell was never dangerous.

 Pennsylvania ---- 0 2 0 0 0 1 2 0—5

On Tuesday the team defeated Rochester by the score of 3 to 2, largely through clever execution of the squeeze play. Olsen allowed but four hits.

MORE Highbrow Stuff

The Punker Still Boozette, of Boston, has issued its "second brew," dated May 27, under the name of The Still Punker Bozette. In solemn yet dulcet tones Louis E. Chester '90 summons his confrères to accompany him to the S. C. We extract the latter part of this organ peal: "The thought must come to us all of the great joy and comfort we can gain by cutting loose for three whole days from our selfish or unselfish pursuits to be just a care-free youth once more; to meet and be with hundreds of our own family imbued with the same spirit; to see those who may have passed almost from memory, but who were chums and classmates of other days; and when it is over to be able to carry about with us the beloved scenes and renewed memories that can never be taken from us so long as we shall live and to pass these scenes and experiences on to our children and our children's children as a never-to-be-forgotten epoch. If all this is not worth while, what is there in life worth while? Cornell and Cornell spirit call to a great reunion. To stop our ears to that call is to render ourselves unfit to hear the sweet harmonies of the universe or the entrancing music of the celestial choir."
