THE ALUMNI TRUSTEESHIP.

Candidates Nominated for the Position.

WILLARD BEAHAN, B.C.E., '78.

Mr. Beahan has been nominated by some four hundred alumni, who believe his ability as a man of affairs would be useful to the University, and that in especial, he is the right man to represent the technological alumni, and to care, in the Board, for the interests of those technical departments which he so thoroughly understands.

His career since graduating is briefly as follows: He began under the U. S. Army Engineers, working on the Mississippi River Survey. He passed from this work to the service of the Missouri Pacific Railway, in which he spent ten years in railroad location and construction, during which time, through sparsely settled districts, and under difficulties arising from drought, sickness of his men, and hostile Indians, he located nearly two thousand miles of railroad, and constructed more than six hundred.

In 1889, Mr. Beahan engaged with the Union Bridge Company as chief of construction, on a contract with the Chilean government, remaining in charge until one of the periodical South American revolutions compelled the abandonment of the work. Returning to the United States he spent several years with a contracting firm in pneumatic foundation work, tunneling, etc. At present he is division engineer on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, with headquarters at Easton, Pennsylvania. His division, which extends from Mauch Chunk to the sea, includes the terminals of the system at Jersey City and Perth Amboy, and is the heaviest division on the Lehigh Valley road.

Mr. Beahan has always taken a keen interest in the welfare of his alma mater, and of Cornell graduates, and he has found occasion to start many young engineers in their chosen work. He has also spent one term at the University recently, the spring term of 1896, giving a valuable course of lectures on railroad location, and familiarizing himself anew with the work, aims, and needs of our engineering departments.

ATHLETIC RULES.

Faculty Rules Governing Student Organizations.

The following rules were adopted by the University Faculty at a special meeting Monday evening:

I. No person shall represent the d. If he has previously represented any other college or university in that branch and has not spent one full academic year at this University; [Note.—In construing rules c and d contests held in a summer vacation are to be regarded as belonging to the preceding academic year.]

e. If he has previously represented this University, or any other college or university, or both, in that branch for four years in the aggregate.

[Note.—In applying this rule only those years are to be counted which are regarded as the equivalent of the college years in this University.]

f. If he receives or has ever received any remuneration or consideration of any sort for his services in any branch, as performer, player, coach, or otherwise, apart from such necessary expenses in excess of ordinary expenses as are actually incurred by him as a member of a college team, or a permanent amateur organization in connection with occasional amateur contests.

g. If he is a member of the staff of instruction of the University, even if he is registered as a candidate for a degree.

III. No person shall represent the University in any intercollegiate athletic contest either at home or abroad:

a. If he does not conform to the above rules;

b. Nor shall he take part in such contests or train for any team, if he does not first secure at the beginning of each season a special certificate of satisfactory physical condition from the Professor of Physical Culture. Such certificate may be cancelled at any time in case the Professor of Physical Culture decides that the continuation of training is likely to operate to the physical injury of such person.

The Chicago Cornell Club.

An important step has just been taken by the Chicago alumni in the organization and incorporation of "The Cornell University Club of Chicago." They have rented pleasant rooms upon the fourth floor at 119 LaSalle Street, over Mangler's restaurant, with which they are connected by a dumb waiter. It is intended to be largely a luncheon club, where the men who are engaged in the business quarter may drop in for lunch with their fellow-Cornellians. It is hoped that in this way many may be reached, who could not be in any other way. The rooms will also be open evenings, and monthly meetings of varying character will be held.

The incorporators are L. C. Ehle, '90; W. G. Pietsch, '96, and L. C. Fuller, '97. The officers elected are, president, L. C. Ehle, '90; vice-president, F. L. Gardner, '91; secretary, P. M. Walter, '98; treasurer, R. L. Gifford, '91; directors, W. H. French, '73; R. H. Wiles, '74; A. C. Morgan, '90; S. L. Adams, '93; C. L. Brown, '94. The number of members is now one hundred. The initiation fee is $10, the dues $1 per month, and the fee for non-resident members $5 per annum. It is expected that the club will be in active operation soon after May 15.

The Musical Clubs give a concert on the evening of May 25, at Wells College.

FIRST EASTERN TRIP.

Baseball Games Played Last Week—General Comment on the Work of the Team.

In spite of Saturday's victory over Pennsylvania, the showing of the team on the recent trip was as a whole very poor. The work in the box was not of a high order in any of the games, the work of Sanders on Saturday being the most satisfactory. Cornell's batting throughout the trip was very weak. In no instance did she score as many hits as her opponent. In this line the work of Coach Jennings has perhaps shown less results than in any other. Taken as a whole the fielding was fairly good, though the work of certain men in the in-field was miserable. In almost all the games the errors made by Cornell were very costly, showing in more than one instance either a lamentable lack of head-work or a bad case of "rattles."

In extenuation of the team's poor work it may be said that it is not easy to play on four consecutive days at three different places. Cornell's schedule is certainly a hard one this year, but with two trips still to come it is too early for the team to slump. The rest of the games until May 30 will be played in Ithaca, and will include another game with Princeton, thus offering an inducement for extra exertion on the part of the team in the immediate future.

PRINCETON 11, CORNELL 7.

The first game of the trip was against Princeton, resulting in an 11 to 7 victory for the Tigers. As the score indicates, the playing was not very good on either side, though Cornell made two good double plays. Scott and Kafer for Princeton and Bole and Whinery for Cornell were the batteries. Neither team scored many hits, Scott striking out seven men as against Bole's two; but five errors, two wild pitches and two passed balls cost Cornell dear. Although Princeton did not play good ball, she showed up stronger in all positions than did Cornell.

FORDHAM 3, CORNELL 1.

Cornell played the second game of the trip with Fordham at New York, and was again defeated by a score of 3 to 1. For a small college Fordham has a very strong team, and it played the best game of the season on this occasion. Fordham scored hits off Sanders, making her runs in the second and fourth innings. Cornell only obtained three hits, and did not score her solitary run until the eighth inning. The contest was close and interesting, and was anybody's game until the end. The batteries were, McKenna and Slattery for Fordham; Sanders and Whinery for Cornell.

MANHATTAN 18, CORNELL 9.

The third game of the present trip resulted in the usual defeat for Cornell. It was played at New York against Manhattan College, the score being 18 to 9. The playing was poor on both sides, the most noticeable feature being the heavy hitting of both teams. Manhattan obtained 18 hits to Cornell's 13. The batteries were Castro and Agnew for Manhattan, and Lyon and Whinery for Cornell.

CORNELL 6, PENNSYLVANIA 5.

The trip wound up with a victory for Cornell which went far toward redeeming her earlier defeats. On Saturday the team won from Pennsylvania at Philadelphia by a score of 6 to 5. The pitching of Sanders was very good, and although Pennsylvania secured 12 hits as against 9 by Cornell, they did not come at very critical junctures. Sanders also did some nice fielding, and secured the only two bagger made by Cornell. Cornell's fielding in general was better than that of the Quakers, though neither Brown nor Costello was up to the average in this respect. Pennsylvania's base-running was poor, and Layton's pitching was very erratic, especially early in the game, resulting in three bases on balls for Cornell.

Captain Bole did not play owing to a wrenched knee, and Howland took his place. Shortly after the game began Whinery injured his finger badly and was relieved by Green, who did very good work. The score in detail is as follows:

TRACK TEAM NEWS.

Cornell Defeats Syracuse 70-34. General Prospects of the Team.

The fourth annual dual track meet with Syracuse University at Syracuse on Saturday last, resulted in a victory for Cornell's athletes by a score of 70 points to 34. The weather conditions were very unfavorable owing to a light fall of snow just before the meet and a strong northwest wind blowing against the men on the back stretch, although the latter favored the sprinters and jumpers.

Cornell was strong in every event, and the showing of the new men was excellent, completely vindicating Coach Moakley's methods and faithful work.

Pole vault—R. Deming, E. A. Kinsey and F. M. Randall, all Cornell, tied at 10 feet for first.

The result of the meet is most encouraging and affords a bright prospect for those to come. In it is reflected the value of the training received by the men in the weekly indoor meets of the winter term and the trial meets this spring. The interest in track athletics this year has been keen from the start and well sustained. A large number of men are out for the short distances besides those who were placed in the Syracuse meet. Lawson, Sommers, Caldwell and Zimmer, all freshmen may be mentioned in this class, while Bellinger of last year's team will run later in the season. Matthewson, '03, is another sprinter with a good record. From this number it is expected some three or four men will develop to lower considerably the Cornell records.

The hurdles have been weakened by the loss of Clark and ex-captain Ripley. Wilson and Lyon of last year's team, and Longnecker, Walton and Kelly, however, are devoting themselves to this branch. Wilson equalled the indoor record for thirty yards in the indoor meet last winter and the others are also doing excellent work. Bates, '03, is the best new man of the broad jumpers and promises well.

In the weight events, L. W. Boynton is the star performer and has done much better than the distance given above, winning from Hare and McCracken at Pennsylvania a week ago Saturday, with 144 feet, 7 1-2 inches. He is well seconded by Wales, '02, and Warner, '03. The latter, together with Cleghorn, '00 and Tappan, '00, Utz, '02, and Lueder and Warner, '03, are all putting the shot and throwing the discus.

The long distance events are particularly strong and the work of B. A. Gallagher, who runs this year for the first time, is remarkable as the summary shows. The cross country men, Berry, Finch and Torrance, are old timers and can be relied on for good work. McMeekan, '03, is a steady distance man and runs strongly in the half and mile. James, another freshman, gives much promise in the high jump, although the slippery condition of the field hindered his performance Saturday. It is expected that Cornell's strength in this event will be even greater than has yet been shown. The pole-vault is undoubtedly the strongest point in the team, and Captain Deming, Kinsey and Randall are vying with each other for first place.

In general, the track team of 1900 is the best that Cornell has produced for some years. It is, moreover, very well balanced, though showing up best at present in the running events. The meet which was arranged with Columbia and Williams for next Saturday at Albany has been cancelled. Every effort, however, is directed towards the final contest with Princeton at Elmira, Decoration Day, and for that success, in the top-notch of condition is necessary. The Tiger's margin last year was a large one, and even if it can not be entirely removed there is a certainty that it will be reduced by a considerable number of points.

ALUMNI TRUSTEE NOMINATIONS.

In fulfilment of our mission of informing the alumni on all subjects of importance to them, the ALUMNI NEWS has been at some pains to collect full data concerning the distinguished alumni who have been nominated this year for alumni trustees. Owing to lack of space we are not able to publish all simultaneously. The articles will, therefore, appear in the NEWS seriatim, beginning in this issue with Willard Beahan, B.C.E., '78, to be followed next week by Leland Ossian Howard, B.S., '77, M.S. '83, and the week after by Wm. Rea Bronk, A.B., '80. Many delays have been experienced this year in gathering and verifying our data, which we trust will not recur hereafter, now that the practice has been established, by precedent at least. However, as the polls do not close this year until June 21, we trust that many may still avail themselves of the non-partisan statements which we print.

MORE BOATING AND BASEBALL.

Two matters occurring lately at the University deserve the notice of the alumni; first, the reoccupation of the Quadrangle as a students' playground, and secondly, the formation of a rowing club.

The latter is yet in an incipient stage, and deserves the encouragement no less than the notice of alumni. It is a curious fact that although Cornell University has been for twenty-five years, despite occasional disastrous seasons, the foremost American rowing college, yet for a decade or more there has been very little interest or activity in boating among the students in general. Many Cornellians come from localities where boating clubs exist and everyone is aquatic; yet they never bring their boats with them to Cornell, and the waters of Lake and Inlet are almost deserted. It would seem that in this matter it is only necessary to set the ball rolling. President Schurman has for years urged the formation of a club to encourage boating among the students. The latter have at last taken steps to put the suggestion in practice. The project once in motion should not again be allowed to lapse.

Of no less interest is the assurance that the great stretch of green between Sibley and Boardman is no longer to be hoarded altogether for the delectation of visitors' eyes and the innocent gambols of the professors' children. The students having actually begun to play baseball on the Campus as well as the meek-eyed and apologetic duck-on-a-rock, negotiations were entered into which have ended in the students obtaining the undisputed use of the grounds for Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday afternoons.

This is not for athletic purposes. No 'Varsity teams are here to practice for outside trips. But just across the roadway from recitation hall, lecture room, laboratory, and "shop" there has been opened an arena for impromptu amusements ranging from one-old-cat to extemporaneous match games. To those who, with President Schurman, believe that the University exists for the sake of the students, the spectacle of two hundred or so of them, in a score of groups, actively occupying the Campus from two to six on the afternoons named is a gratifying and soul refreshing sight.

CORNELL ATHLETIC CODE

The athletic code recently enacted by the University Faculty is printed in another column of this issue. It is, indeed, more than an athletic code for it covers all intercollegiate contests and its first article covers all student organizations, but it is obvious that its chief interest and importance are to be measured by its effect upon intercollegiate athletics.

Heretofore the eligibility rules for athletes have been those enacted by the Athletic Council, for while the Faculty passed certain rules some years ago they were far from comprehensive and were buried in the Faculty minutes and almost forgotten. The Athletic Council rules in their present form cover the same ground as the new Faculty rules except as to scholarship. The Council never felt justified in discriminating among regularly registered students on the ground of scholarship and wisely held that such discrimination must be made, if at all, by the Faculty. In the new rules those numbered Ia and II b, d, e, f are already in force by action of the Council, while I b, c and II c, g are new. Rule III C has usually been enforced though not as strictly as it is likely to be under the Faculty legislation. In addition, the Council rules cover matters of training, coaching, and the like, and the Council will retain, as heretofore, full control over the management of athletic teams and over intercollegiate relations.

The new code, supplemented by the Athletic Council rules, covers substantially every rule of eligibility and control recommended by the "Brown Conference," and puts Cornell fully abreast of the leading universities. Further advances are likely to be made from time to time as new evils develop, but they will come naturally as the result of the annual conference for which the parties to the "Brown Conference" have provided.

The enforcement of the Faculty rules is in the hands of a committee of seven, representing the various colleges and departments, with Dean White as chairman. The enforcement of Council rules will remain, as heretofore, in the hands of the Athletic Council. The two bodies coöperating together will be able to give all necessary encouragement and assistance to athletics while eliminating, so far as possible, all athletic evils. College games for college men in good standing, conducted on a strictly amateur basis, will be the object which both bodies will seek to attain.

ALUMNI BUREAU.

Valuable Assistance Rendered in Securing Positions for Teachers.

In January, 1900, the Cornell Alumni Bureau began its tenth year of successful work in securing positions for Cornell teachers. From 1890 to 1896 the Bureau was under the able charge of Professor W. T. Hewett, and after his resignation this extra work was assumed at the request of the Alumni by the Registrar of the University, whose office fits him particularly for the position.

The Bureau is practically a teacher's agency, although it differs greatly from outside agencies in that no registration fee or charge of any kind is made. These advantages are open to all Cornellians, who can obtain registration blanks at any time from the Registrar.

Whenever a request comes for a teacher in any particular subject, the list is inspected and available candidates found. Next, the head of the department concerned is consulted as to the best candidate for the position and the one chosen is recommended. Thus, if allowed to make its own selection, the Bureau can secure better results than if asked to recommend some one particular person.

When requests are received from teachers' agencies, the same procedure is adopted, but if the candidate accepts, the regular fee of the outside agency must necessarily be paid.

It often happens that the Bureau is able not only to secure positions for unemployed Cornell teachers, but to afford opportunities for further advancement to those already employed, thus causing vacancies which can be filled by teachers of less experience.

In connection with the constantly increasing scope of the pedagogical department, the Alumni Bureau has an ever widening sphere of influence and usefulness.

Not Whether, But Where.

The day in human history has gone by in which a reasonable man could seriously ask whether or not he should avail himself of the benefits of civilization. Had Adam and Eve, directly after leaving the Garden of Eden, strayed into a populous town, they might, not unnaturally, have questioned the advisability of choosing it for a habitation. The modern man, however, whether he prefer the town or the country as a residence, cannot, if he be quite sane, dispense entirely with the comforts and advantages which civilization puts within his grasp.

Among those things which are so approved by the universal judgment of mankind that it is no longer possible to question their importance and value, must certainly be reckoned life insurance. It is not necessary to demonstrate to any intelligent man that he needs it, any more than it is to prove the attraction of gravitation. That no one can go through life with any degree of intelligence, and fail to know the elementary truths, and the business principles embodied in life insurance is now recognized by all civilized men as an elementary truth.

The question to be considered by an intelligent person therefore, is not whether he shall have his life insured, but to what company shall he go for insurance. And this question resolves itself, as does any other form of financial investment, into an investigation as to where he will get the best return for his money.

In considering this it is not easy to be over-cautious. The problem is one that has been found well worthy of the most profound study by the most intellectual men in the business world. No consideration that can be urged has escaped the scrutiny of the actuaries who have given their lives to this investigation and the results of their labors are justly esteemed as evidences of the highest acumen.

In the fierce competition of modern business no company can claim a monopoly of the genius which works toward perfection in business methods. Men of probity and ability are to be found in various places. What the Mutual Life of New York has demonstrated, however, is that it has in its service the highest skill that is known. Its record for unimpeachable probity is unmarred by a single flaw, and the vast superiority of its administration is cheerfully conceded by disinterested observers and conclusively proven by its unequalled record.

The company to select as the custodian of the most sacred fund in which our means are invested, is the one whose methods are acknowledged to be the best, and whose record has never been impeached.

THE RESIGNATION OF MISS BROWNELL.

Misrepresentations--A Statement of the Matter.

The occasion of Miss Louise Sheffield Brownell's resignation from the position of Warden of Sage College and Lecturer in English Literature has given rise to astounding misrepresentations. It is stated for example in an editorial in the New York Evening Post that:

"The board of trustees of Cornell University have decided that, while women may take advantage of the courses offered by that institution, they may not hope to become members of its faculty. As a result of this action, Miss Louise Sheffield Brownell has resigned her position as Warden of Sage College."

The first sentence is an entirely false statement. The University board of trustees has not only not decided that women "may not hope to become members of its faculty," but the question has never even been raised. The second statement, that Miss Brownell resigned "as a result" of this imaginary action is false in consequence. The editorial continues:

"When she took office, it was with the stipulation that she should be allowed to teach as well, and the executive committee of the board of trustees appointed her assistant professor of English literature. The full board has now decided that women shall not be eligible to faculty positions, and it is as a protest against the principle involved that Miss Brownell has handed in her resignation."

Apart from the flat-footed reassertion of the absolutely false statement that the trustees have taken action, and adverse action at that, on the eligibility of women to faculty positions, this whole series of assertions is misleading. To begin with Miss Brownell's taking office, it was definitely understood that the University was not in search of a teacher, man or woman, of English literature; an administrative officer was sought, and Miss Brownell was offered the administrative position of Warden of Sage. But she was a student of literature, and desired to teach, and at her request she was given permission to do so,—without salary,—and the permission was recorded in the title of Lecturer in English Literature, which was added to that of Warden of Sage College. The teaching was understood to be a side issue, entirely unimportant to the University, for which the trustees would not have been justified in making any appropriation of University money, and which they permitted only upon the understanding that it should not interfere with the all-important administrative duties of the Wardenship.

The statement that "when she took office the executive committee of the board of trustees appointed her assistant professor of English literature" is misleading. She was made lecturer in English literature. This position she still holds, and no one has thought of asking her to give it up. Two years after she took office, she asked a change of title from "lecturer" to "assistant professor." It was purely a nominal change, carrying with it no change or increase of salary. Miss Brownell was to continue to receive a generous salary as Warden of Sage, and to be permitted, without extra salary, to offer courses in English as before, provided, also as before, that this work did not interfere with her serious duties as Warden. But it was felt that this change of title was liable to over-emphasize the unessential and diminish the influence and esteem attaching to the essential part of the position held by Miss Brownell. The question came up in the absence in the Philippines of the President of the University, and the full board of trustees postponed to a future meeting the confirmation of the action making the requested change of title, which had passed the executive committee. Before the date of that meeting Miss Brownell declined the appointment, and therefore the question—which it will be seen was very far from being the large question of women's holding faculty positions—was never brought up for consideration or acted upon by the board of trustees.

How very unjustifiable the misrepresentations in the newspaper articles are, of which the Post editorial is an example, is perhaps most strikingly shown by the following statement by Miss Brownell, in her letter resigning the Wardenship:

"I had hoped that as I got this work better in hand I should gradually have more time to give to literature in studying or in writing. I find, as I should have foreseen, that this hope was unreasonable, and that the practical responsibility of management grew on my hands; so that this year, even with the secretary whom I have kept and Miss Macbeth's very efficient help, I have been able to see myself no nearer to the independent work in literature, for which I had spent eight years of College and University work in preparation.

My present position precludes the possibility of the work for which my training has fitted me; to which my tastes incline me; and which, though I postponed it to undertake the work in Cornell, is still waiting for me."

That is, Miss Brownell announces that she finds an irrepressible conflict between the administrative duties which the University asked her to discharge, and still wished her to discharge, and the work in "literature, in studying, or in writing" to which she wishes to give her life. In a word, an administrative officer in Cornell resigns because she does not wish to do administrative work any longer, and because she does wish to do other work for which there is no opportunity here. And upon this occasion, the question involved being one quite apart from the sex of the officer who resigns, so careful a paper as the Evening Post announces that:

"The board of trustees of Cornell University have decided that, while women may take advantage of the courses offered by that institution, they may not hope to become members of its faculty," and that, "as a result of this action, Miss Louise Sheffield Brownell has resigned her position as Warden of Sage College."

It is hard to conceive any statement which could be more baseless or absurd.

Work of the Crews During the Week.

The work of the crews during the week has throughout been important, and the results achieved highly satisfactory.

On Monday the features of the work were two quarter-mile races on the Inlet in which the third 'Varsity again maintained its supremacy for that distance. The first of these races was against the freshmen, who were defeated by the third 'Varsity. Later, Coach Courtney ordered an up-stream race over the quarter-mile course between the second and third 'Varsity eights. He gave the former a slight lead. The second 'Varsity gained at the start, but were quickly overtaken and beaten at the derrick by three-quarters of a length.

Tuesday's practice was on the Lake. The second and third 'Varsities and the freshmen took position at Glenwood while the first 'Varsity rowed to Crowbar, accompanied by the launch.

Then the first crew began a hard four-mile row to the southern end of the Lake, being joined and paced for two miles from Glenwood by the three other eights. The work was perhaps the most exciting seen this year. For the first half mile the third 'Varsity led, being then passed by the first 'Varsity, and a quarter-mile later by the freshmen. At the last of the two mile race, all the crews spurred, the first 'Varsity finishing two lengths ahead of the freshmen, the freshmen a length ahead of the second. The second crew, however, continued to race the first boat for the remaining half mile. The latter steadily increased the distance separating them, and finished some five lengths in the lead.

On Wednesday was witnessed the biggest surprise of the year, when Coach Courtney ordered an extensive shifting in the second and third 'Varsity eights. He took Taylor, B. Smith, Edmonston and VanAlstyne from the third boat, and with English, Kugler and Beyer of the second, and Finucane, of the freshman squad, formed a new crew. Toohill, Powley, Ayers, Chase and Brinckerhoff, of the second, were then combined with Flowers, Nichols and Burrows of the third, to form the other eight.

These two crews raced once over the quarter-mile course on the Inlet. English's crew pulled away at the start and secured a lead of three-quarters of a length. The shells continued in this position until near the float, when Flowers' crew spurred and reduced their opponent's lead a quarter-length. English's boat won by half a length.

The important practice of the week, however, was on Friday, when in spite of a disagreeable rain the four crew went to the Lake. The first 'Varsity was given a four-mile race, the other three crews setting the pace. At first, the second 'Varsity figured, but were beaten at the end of their mile and a half by two lengths. Then the freshmen started in, leading off rapidly and continuing thus for two miles. They finished their two miles slightly in the lead of the 'Varsity. Throughout the remainder of the race, the 'Varsity was paced by the third 'Varsity which for a while held the lead, but gradually fell to the rear and finished two lengths behind. The 'Varsity rowed a remarkable race, finishing strongly and making the best time of the season.

The orders since the shakeup have been as follows:

First 'Varsity—Stroke, Robbins; 7, Dalzell; 6, Francis; 5, Smallwood; 4, Beardslee; 3, Petty; 2, Vanderhoef; bow, Hartley; coxswain, Magoffin. Second 'Varsity—Stroke, English; 7, Taylor; 6, B. Smith; 5, Edmonston; 4, VanAlstyne; 3, Finucane; 2, Kugler; bow, Beyer; coxswain, Long. Third 'Varsity—Stroke, Flowers; 7, Toohill; 6, Powley; 5, Ayers; 4, Chase; 3, Nichols; 2, Burrows; bow, Brinckerhoff; coxswain, Price. Freshmen—Stroke, Merrill; 7, Kuschke; 6, Benedict; 5, Hutton; 4, Frenzel; 3, Osborne; 2, Ballinger; bow, Longyear; coxswain, J. Smith.

Dr. R. H. Thurston addressed the Electrical Society Monday evening, giving a highly interesting talk on "Automobiles."

Lacrosse Victory--Cornell 6, Columbia 1.

The lacrosse team defeated Columbia Saturday at Percy Field by a score of 6 to 1.

Columbia played on the defensive throughout. Only once in the first half did the visitors succeed in scoring. For Cornell, Smith, Dodge and Scoville each threw goals.

In the second half Columbia tried for three goals but each attempt was unsuccessful. Cornell, by a series of quick passes, repeatedly advanced the ball toward Columbia's goal and out of six chances succeeded in obtaining three goals, thrown by Dodge, Wood and Boecher. Columbia's star player was Lindsay. Cornell's plays were marked by excellent team work.

THE WOODFORD CONTEST.

E. T. Lies the Winner.

Last week Eugene Theodore Lies, of Buffalo, won the Woodford Medal in Oratory at the thirtieth annual contest for that honor.

The speakers were Edgar Seiber Mosher, of Auburn, who discussed "Individualism in Politics"; William Osgood Morgan, of Pittsfield, Mass., "The National Spirit of Energy"; Frank Howard Hausner, of Farmington, "The Cause of Liberty in South Africa," and John Wesley Faust, of Poughkeepsie, "The Hope of the Southern Negro," and Eugene Theodore Lies, "The New Social Consciousness." The present era, said Mr. Lies, is one in which humanitarianism is forcing itself to the front. The submerged truth is being dealt with as never before. The laborer and the employer of labor are realizing their mutual dependence. Through politics, economics and science, all the human race is bound together. In this era lies a sublime opportunity for those who will lend a hand in the betterment of the social situation and develop to its full extent the spirit of fellowship among men.

The judges were President A. Cameron McKenzie, of Elmira College; President William E. Waters, of Wells College; and Professor Samuel W. Kinney, of Hobart College. Their decision was announced by President Waters. To Mr. Hausner, he said, honorable mention was awarded for his able presentation, while to Mr. Lies, for excellence of both manner and matter, first place was given.

Mr. Lies entered with the class of '99 from Buffalo. During his sophomore year he was a member of the Sun board. During the year '97-'98 he was absent from the University but returned last year to complete his course. This year he has been a member of the editorial staff of the ALUMNI NEWS.

Dartmouth will use its new endowment of $300,000 to found a department of private and public business.

A Letter from ex-President White
--The Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Royal Academy of Sciences.

We are permitted to publish an extract from a most interesting private letter from Ambassador White dated March 21, 1900, describing the ceremonies attending the celebration of the founding of the Royal Academy of Prussia:

We have been having for two or three days past a most wonderful scientific celebration. It is the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the founding of the Royal Academy of Sciences, and the Prussian Government as well as the society itself determined to do it full honor. Delegates are here from all parts of the world, including John W. White and Dr. Wolf from Harvard to represent the American Academy, and myself to represent the Smithsonian. The solemn opening session at the White Hall of the Schloss was I think the most impressive function I have ever seen, the high functionaries of the Empire being out in their most gorgeous array, the delegates from all countries in the most wonderful academic and official costumes, with no end of gold chains, medallions and insignia of office, and in front of the Throne a table showing the beginnings of the Academy in the shape of sundry pieces of apparatus very much out of date and specimens of broken statuary, archeological remains of various sorts, and the like.

The great feature was the entrance of His Majesty with the blare of silver trumpets and the Marshals of the Empire walking in front of him, bearing on cushions the crown, scepter, orb and great seal of the Kingdom. His speech from the Throne was excellent; the other speeches were also of great interest, the music being beyond all praise. Yesterday was the great session of the Academy in the Prussian House of Representatives and it lasted four hours, but was interesting from beginning to end. There was more splendid music, then an ideally perfect discourse from Harnack, with excellent speeches from others; then each of us, as delegates, presented the tributes entrusted to us, with speeches longer or shorter as the case might be. Last night was the banquet at the Kaiserhof at which about five hundred persons sat down, and very interesting it was. I had the pleasure of meeting Professor Lievers of Leipzig who spoke very kindly of Professor Hewett and in excellent terms of the Zarncke library. Today a number of us breakfast with His Majesty, and tomorrow I entertain the Minister of State in charge of the whole, and sundry leading delegates, so you see I am not entirely outside my old affiliations. The Chancellor has also invited various delegates, including our own, to dinner.

I am glad to find as I meet in my intercourse with the professors of this and other universities, that they appreciate the steady and rapid improvement in our American institutions of learning.

The colony of American students this year is not quite so large as last, still it includes some excellent men, among them being Professor Stevens of Yale, whom I find to my surprise to be an old Cornell student.

A crew of thirty men are now engaged at the College of Forestry's Adirondack tract in setting out a quarter-million seedlings on burned-over areas.

A "University Club" has recently been organized at Newark, N. J., where about twenty Cornell graduates are at present residing. On April 28 the club held an informal smoker at the house of Prosecutor Riker, a large delegation including Gov. Voorhees, being present. Cornell, Yale, Princeton and Rutgers were well represented. The club proposes to secure a home of its own very shortly.

The several class presidents, in accordance with President Schurman's recent suggestion, have appointed an undergraduate committee to determine plans for the development of a greater fraternal spirit throughout the University. The committee has as yet made no specific recommendations.

The Jones Summer School of Mathematics and the Languages.

This school is for two classes of pupils: 1. Candidates for admission to Cornell University who wish a better preparation on the entrance requirements.

Plans of the Christian Association.

The Christian Association, at a recent meeting, adopted the trustees' recommendation providing for the engagement as general secretary of Mr. Rose, a graduate of Beloit College who has shown marked ability in similar work at the University of Michigan. Contrary to what has hitherto been the case, the new secretary will devote his whole time to the work and will not pursue studies in the University. This will necessitate an increase of salary, but it is hoped that with earnest efforts on the part of the members, the association membership may be increased sufficiently to bear the increased burden. The only other business transacted by the meeting was the adoption of an amendment to the constitution which provides that any one may, with the approval of the Board of Trustees, be elected a patron of the association, who shall contribute toward its support $500 or more. By this means it is intended to seek larger contributions from outside sources, among alumni and others, for the support and endowment of Barnes Hall.

F. D. Colson, advisory member of the Athletic Council for the Navy, has appointed the following committee, which is to report within two weeks a plan of organization for the proposed University Boat Club.:

F. S. Porter, '00, chairman; L. G. Robbins, '00; R. F. Chatillon, '01; H. B. Plumb, '01; H. E. Beyer, '01.

Much enthusiasm has been shown in the project, and it is probable that a successful club can be established in the near future.

The Fencers' Club, at a recent competition, awarded a monogram, "C. F. C.," to C. F. Blount. The annual competition for the Amsler medals will take place during the latter part of the month.
